Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

The Nielsen ratings for [President Trump's] speech are in and Trump's talkathon saw an 11% decrease from last year. Donald Trump is really dragging down broadcast television. I mean, if I were CBS, I'd cancel him now. But you know, linear television is doomed and everyone's ratings are down, right? I'm sorry. What's that? Our ratings were up 7%? Both the same last year. So last year's ratings and this year's I'm up 7%. Wow. Holy cow. You know what? You know what I think was going on? People may not like watching Trump, but they do like watching me not like watching Trump.

Earlier today [March 3], Trump insisted everything's fine, saying, "We have unlimited of the middle and upper-middle ammunition and things." Oh yeah, I buy all my weaponry from Ammunition and Things. It's way more affordable than Bombs, Bath and Beyond.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Today [March 4], the White House said that President Trump attacked Iran based on a good feeling that they were planning to attack the U.S. It's historic. This could be the first war ever launched based on vibes.

Disney Cruise Line just launched their largest ship ever. It's perfect for anyone who's ever looked around Disney and thought, "If only I could be trapped at sea with these people."

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

Just for fun, I went back. I looked at one of our monologues from 2011. You remember 2011? It was a simpler time. These were the topics on our show 15 years ago tonight. NBC announced that Christina Aguilera would be a judge on "The Voice." Lindsay Lohan's dad was rumored to be joining the gang at "Celebrity Rehab." A sophomore at BYU was kicked off the basketball team for having sex with his girlfriend. And there was a new episode of "Jersey Shore" in which The Situation hooks up with a girl who seems to have a strange odor. Now we got war, pedophiles and measles. Oh my!

The Pentagon launched what they are calling, "Operation Epic Fury" which is different from its original title which was "Operation Epsteino Distracto." They did it in concert with Israeli forces. It required intense secrecy, which is why Donald Trump watched it unfold from his membership-only beach resort in Florida. From the very spot on which two months ago, Vanilla Ice performed on stage with a Ninja Turtle.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

A California man was recently sentenced to four years in prison for allegedly stealing $1,000 worth of Pokemon cards. But if his cellmate asks, he killed a guy.

The Italian team in the World Baseball Classic has gained attention online because they have an espresso machine in their dugout, which explains why one of their players bunted a triple.

Bye-bye, 'Boys': Prime Video superheroes bid farewell in Season 5

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Just as there comes a time when we all need a hero, there also comes a time when our heroes must bid us adieu. After seven years and what will be 40 episodes throughout its run, Prime Video's "The Boys" is going out with a bang.

Join the action when the fifth and final season of "The Boys" premieres with a two-episode drop Wednesday, April 8, on Prime Video. Subsequent episodes will air weekly until the series finale Wednesday, May 30.

According to the official description offered by Prime, "The Boys" is an irreverent take on what happens when superheroes, who are as popular as celebrities, as influential as politicians and as revered as gods, abuse their superpowers rather than use them for good. It's the powerless against the super powerful as The Boys embark on a heroic quest to expose the truth about 'The Seven' and their formidable Vought backing."

At its core, "The Boys" is a vigilante story that tackles themes of corporate greed, misplaced power and the weaponization of human beings, while posing the question of where one's civic responsibility begins and ends in the face of large-scale corruption. Headed toward its culmination point, the action series — which is also not without its share of comedic moments — gets darker as Homelander (Antony Starr, "Outrageous Fortune") controls America through fascist terror, imprisoning dissenters in Freedom Camps.

"It's Homelander's world, completely subject to his erratic, egomaniacal whims," reads the Season 5 description on Prime's press site. "Hughie [Jack Quaid, "Companion," 2025], Mother's Milk [Laz Alonso, "My Dad the Bounty Hunter"] and Frenchie [Tomer Capone, "Fauda"] are imprisoned in a Freedom Camp. Annie [Erin Moriarty, "Jessica Jones"] struggles to mount a resistance against the overwhelming Supe force. Kimiko [Karen Fukuhara,

"The Boy and the Heron," 2023] is nowhere to be found.

"But when Butcher [Karl Urban, "The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King," 2003] reappears, ready and willing to use a virus that will wipe all Supes off the map," the description continues, "he sets in motion a chain of events that will forever change the world and everyone in it."

Homelander has been the villain throughout the entire series thus far, but online discussion per Comic-Book.com suggests that perhaps things aren't all they appear to be as the series comes to a close, especially when considering how closely the television adaptation has kept to the comic book storyline.

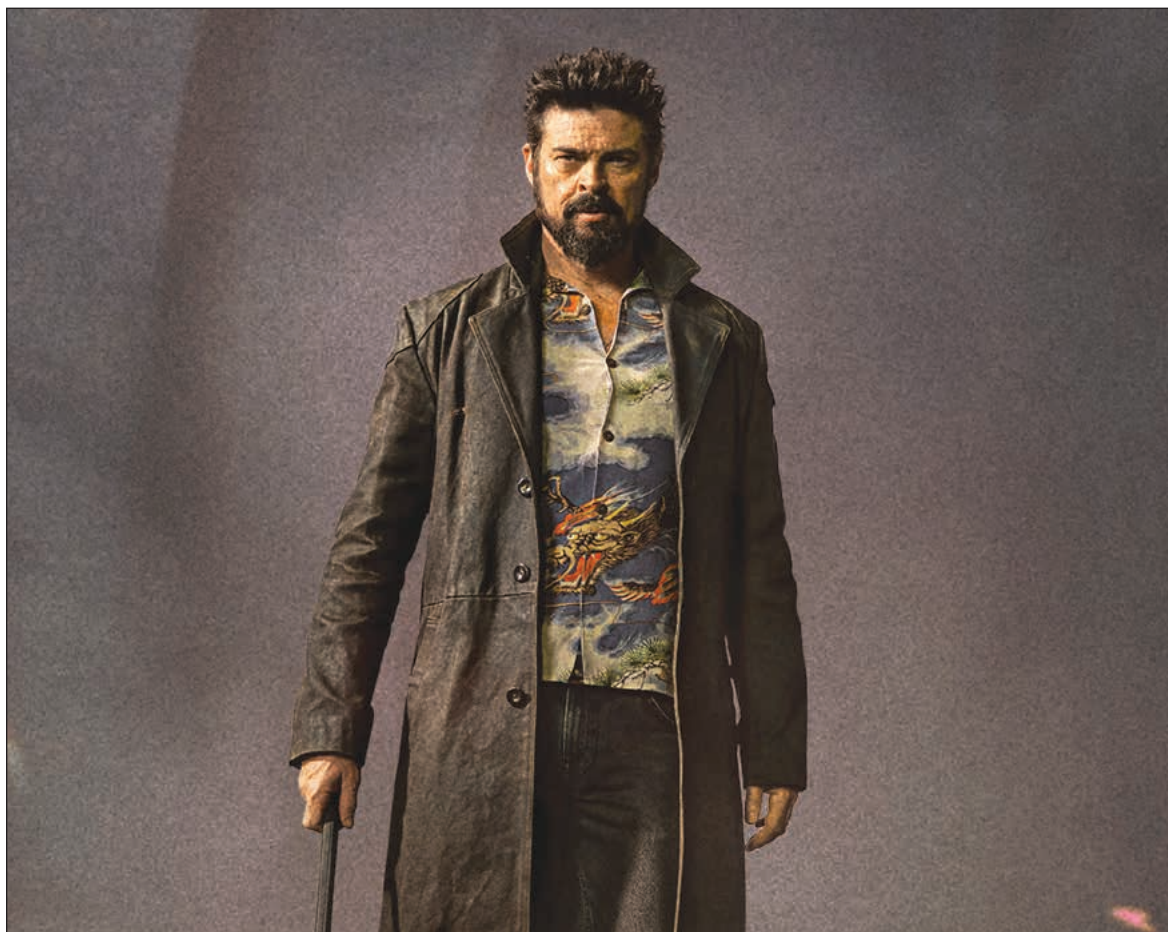

Without sharing the potential spoilers discussed in the Comic-Book.com article (curious individuals can seek out Clay Pitman's March 15 piece online), it remains entirely likely that a more diabolical villain than even Homelander could materialize during these last eight episodes.

"One popular 'The Boys' Season 5 theory is that the show will do a fairly accurate adaptation of the comic book series' ending," reads Pitman's piece. "In the comics, [one of their own] becomes the main villain of the show.

"Although 'The Boys' has been building up to a final confrontation with Homelander this entire time, this theory states that it will pull the rug out from under fans by switching things up [from the expected] and [conclude] with a final confrontation with [redacted]."

Regardless of the direction writers go with the series' ending, there is always the possibility that the story will continue by way of a prequel series, sequel series, spinoff or film franchise; indeed, the Supes-in-training series "Gen V" is awaiting Season 3 confirmation at Prime Video and a brand-new production is "confirmed to be in development," per Collider.com.

Collider has also reported that a new project has been announced and is expected to release before Season 5 hits the streamer. (If all goes according to plan, that timeline means that the project is already out.)

"Arvore Immersive has teamed up with 'The Boys' for a new VR game, titled The Boys: Trigger Warning, which will be released on March 26," reads the March 11 Collider piece. "The series follows Lucas, a new hero in The Boys universe, who is pulled into a violent fight with Vought while working alongside Butcher and Mother's Milk."

In addition to the returning main cast, the final season of "The Boys" includes "Supernatural" stars Jensen Ackles (returning as Soldier Boy), Jeffrey Dean Morgan (returning as Joe Kessler), Jared Padalecki and Mishka Collins, alongside "Breaking Bad's" Giancarlo Esposito (returning as Stan Edgar) and series newcomer Daveed Diggs ("Hamilton," 2020).

"It's been an incredible [expletive] journey, best job of my life," wrote showrunner and producer Eric Kripke ("Supernatural") in a post on Instagram, adding that "the best part of filmmaking isn't the film, it's the making. ... Solving problems together and laughing a lot. I'll miss the show, but far more, I'll miss the people I made the show with.

"You guys have my love and gratitude forever," Kripke concluded. "[I] can't wait for everyone to see what we cooked up."

Kripke returns to helm the series, which is based on the comics of the same name by Garth Ennis ("Constantine," 2005) and Darick Robertson ("Gen V"), who also serve as executive producers alongside Seth Rogen ("The Studio"), Evan Goldberg ("Superbad," 2007) and James Weaver ("This Is the End," 2013), to name a few of many.

Don't miss the final season of "The Boys," premiering with a double episode Wednesday, April 8, because, to quote Prime Video, "It's the climax, people. Big stuff's gonna happen."

New world war: A British perspective on American independence

Lucy Worsley hosts "Lucy Worsley Investigates: The American Revolution"

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

What is now the United States of America was once the Thirteen Colonies, a group of settlements along the coast of the Atlantic that fought and won independence from British rule in 1776. The story of the battle for liberty fought on American soil has been told many times, but in "Lucy Worsley Investigates: The American Revolution," the treasured British historian ("Agatha Christie: Lucy Worsley on the Mystery Queen") looks at the time with a wider scope from across the pond and asks whether things could have been different. The two-part investigative special premieres Tuesday, April 7, on PBS, part of the PBS America @ 250, a schedule of programming highlighting the history and art that define the nation to celebrate the country's semiquincentennial year. An examination of the violent founding of America is essential during a time when political tensions are high, both internationally and at home.

Worsley, whose previous subjects in the "Lucy Worsley Investigates" series include the Black Death, Jack the Ripper and Bloody Mary, has flipped the conventional perspective for the latest installment.

"Digging into the past is a true joy for me, so often history gets written by the winners. Lots of people know the U.S. side of the American Revolution, but much fewer the British one," Worsley said, per PBS.

The author and curator continued: "Interrogating amazing sources and meeting people who can shine a light on this hidden history, I can't wait to share the forgotten and surprising story of how losing America affected Britain and beyond."

To kick off the inquiry, Worsley travels to New York's City Hall Park, where George Washington's troops heard the Declaration of Independence read aloud in July 1776, just days after it was approved by Congress and then quickly published and distributed among the colonies on broadsheet and by orators. Inspired by the call for freedom, rebels took aim at representations of British authority — a statue of King George III in New York City was repatriated into musket balls.

Worsley visits Boston to examine how events such as the Boston Massacre, where British troops killed five colonists, and the Boston Tea Party, a demonstration against Britain's punitive taxes, contributed to the eventual American Revolution.

Building friction between Britain and America was exacerbated by the Stamp Act of 1765, which ordered all kinds of paper documents be produced only on official stamped paper from London, paid for in British currency — remittance for British troops stationed in the colonies. Worsley looks at the tension caused by British taxes and their impact on rebels in the colony and those close to home.

The special's first episode explores the words of two British-born revolutionaries who raised their voices in service of liberty, Founding Father Thomas Paine and politician John Wilkes. Back in Britain, Worsley examines King George's maps and visits the London home of Founding Father, scientist and revolutionary publisher Benjamin Franklin.

In the second episode, airing Tuesday, April 14, Worsley examines the web of connected conflicts stemming from the Revolutionary War. France, Spain and Ireland all rallied behind America's fight for independence, weakening the reach of the British empire.

To wrap up the special, Worsley takes the show to the site of the very first American embassy in London at Grosvenor Square. John Adams was on site to open the embassy there in 1785 when Britain had finally formally acknowledged the independence of the Thirteen Colonies, two years after the conclusion of the Revolutionary War.

"Lucy Worsley Investigates: The American Revolution" was made by BBC Studios Specialist Factual Production for BBC Two, iPlayer and PBS, and is executive produced by Amanda Lyon ("Tucci in Italy"). Lyon said in a statement from BBC: "I'm delighted to be working with Lucy again, to look at a moment in history which is seen in very different ways on different sides of the Atlantic. It feels like the ideal subject for 'Lucy Worsley Investigates.'"

Also on the slate of PBS's celebratory programming marking the 250th year of American independence is six-part documentary series "The American Revolution," another in-depth, well-researched collection from Ken Burns ("Country Music") that aired on the broadcaster late last year. That series is available to stream with PBS Passport now.

PBS America @ 250 is a multi-year project that extends beyond this year's Fourth of July celebration of independence. From the two-part "Handwork: A Craft in America 250 Special" to the civics-themed special episodes of PBS Kids series "Rosie's Rules" and "Alma's Way," the network soldiers on, highlighting the milestone year in the country's history while simultaneously losing support from the current administration.

Tune in to the first episode of new two-part special "Lucy Worsley Investigates: The American Revolution" when it airs Tuesday, April 7, on PBS.

New twist gives players more power in Season 5 of 'The Floor'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Floormasters: From the creators of "Big Brother," "Deal or No Deal" and "The Voice," Fox's No. 1 game show — "The Floor" — returns for a fifth season, with a supersized two-episode premiere airing Wednesday, April 8, on Fox.

Led by host Rob Lowe ("St. Elmo's Fire," 1985), this game show — part chess game, part trivia competition — sees 100 hopeful players battle it out for a life-changing grand prize of $250,000, relying on their general knowledge to gain a monopoly over the floor in question.

As Fox describes: "[Contestants] will stand their ground on a massive, interactive LED game floor featuring 100 squares, each representing a different trivia category. The first challenger, selected at random, must choose one of his or her neighboring opponents to go head-to-head in an epic quiz duel in the opponent's category. The winner takes over the loser's square, gaining valuable ground as they expand their territory, while the loser exits the game. The winner must then choose — do they go on the offensive to dominate more of the board? Or do they let 'The Floor' choose a new challenger?"

In this upcoming season, Lowe has also teased the addition of a "game-changing twist" called territory freeze. While details of the added twist are being kept under wraps, the season's trailer introduced the concept as "Freeze the Floor, Control the Game," hinting that players will be able to freeze their territory while they expand into categories around them.

When the series was first renewed for a fourth and fifth season back in 2025, Lowe also shared his love for the game during an interview with Entertainment Weekly.

"I mean, I see it out in the world," he said. "What I love about ['The Floor'] is it's one of the few shows where entire families are watching together. ... People of all ages, all walks of life, everybody loves playing this game. And I'm just psyched that millions and millions of new viewers are going to get addicted."

With John de Mol ("The Voice"), Mark van Achterberg ("Biba-boerderij"), Chris Culvenor ("The Mole"), Paul Franklin ("The Quiz with Balls"), Wesley Dening ("Farmer Wants a Wife"), Sean O'Riordan ("Kids Incorporated") and Shane Byrne ("Name That Tune") serving as executive producers, Season 5 of "The Floor" begins with an epic two-hour premiere airing Wednesday, April 8, on Fox.

Beads & boards: Netflix's documentary series "Untold" has chronicled some of the most fascinating stories from the past two decades of sports — from the epic "Malice at the Palace" brawl between the NBA's Detroit Pistons and Indiana Pacers, to Jake Paul's ("Bizaardvark") unexpected foray into boxing. Now, they discuss the torrid controversy between elite chess players Hans Niemann and Magnus Carlsen in the scandal-filled "Untold: Chess Mates," making its debut Tuesday, April 7, on Netflix.

At only 19 years old, American chess player Hans Moke Niemann found himself ranked as one of the global top 20 players in the game. After winning the 2021 World Open chess tournament in Philadelphia, Niemann continued on to compete in the 2022 Sinquefeld Cup, where he came face to face with Norwegian chess grandmaster Magnus Carlsen — widely regarded as one of the greatest chess players of all time.

This fateful game — which saw Niemann as its winner, ending Carlsen's 53-game winning streak — soon birthed one the oddest controversies the chess world had ever seen.

Rob Lowe hosts "The Floor"

As explained by People, "Niemann, who has admitted to cheating in the past, was suspected of wearing vibrating anal beads that a co-conspirator would buzz to indicate when to make certain moves on the chess board."

"Determined to clear his name," Netflix's synopsis describes, "Niemann fights his way back to the top of the chess world, setting the stage for a high-stakes rematch with Carlsen."

The documentary — which details the scandal, the fallout Niemann inevitably faced and the tension-filled rematch — also offered the American chess player an opportunity to share his side of the story.

"It's very disheartening to be accused of cheating after that victory. These things happen and I managed to learn a lot during that time and it really taught me a lot of very important lessons about life and chess," Niemann said in a 2023 interview with Piers Morgan ("Piers Morgan Live") on his YouTube talk show, "Piers Morgan Uncensored."

When asked if he had ever used anal beads during a game of chess, Niemann told Morgan: "I can tell you, no. Categorically, no. There's absolutely no evidence that I've ever cheated."

Directed by Thomas Tancred ("Last Stop Larrimah," 2023), "Untold: Chess Mates" premieres Tuesday, April 7, on Netflix.

"Big Mistakes" - Season 1

Chaos comes calling when one reckless decision sends two hopelessly incapable siblings tumbling into the dangerous world of organized crime. Catch the series premiere of "Big Mistakes" when it arrives Thursday, April 9, on Netflix, with creator-executive producer Dan Levy ("Schitt's Creek") and Taylor Ortega ("Kim Possible," 2019) starring as Nicky and Morgan, two siblings who are in over their heads when a misguided theft for their dying grandmother (Patsy Meek, "Silver Linings Playbook," 2012) goes spectacularly wrong, resulting in them being blackmailed into working for organized crime. With each assignment, the duo only dig themselves deeper into trouble, "clumsily [failing] upwards, [and] sinking deeper into chaos they're ill-equipped to handle" (per Deadline). The series also stars Jack Inman ("The Office Movers") as Max, Boran Kuzum ("Thank You, Next") as Yusuf and Abby Quinn ("Hell of a Summer," 2023) as Natalie, with Elizabeth Perkins ("This Is Us"), Jacob Gutierrez ("Dear Edward"), Joe Barbara ("FBI") and Mark Ivanir ("Emilia Perez," 2024) rounding out the cast. "Big Mistakes" hails from executive producers Anne-Marie McGintee ("Midnight, Texas"), Rachel Sennott ("I Love LA") and Dean Holland ("Parks and Recreation").

"Thrash" (2026)

Writer-director Tommy Wirkola ("Dead Snow," 2009) is bringing his signature brand of bloody mayhem to Netflix when the shark-infested hurricane thriller "Thrash" arrives on the streamer Friday, April 10. Executive produced by Adam McKay ("The Other Guys," 2010), the film plunges a coastal community into chaos as a devastating Category 5 hurricane slams ashore, flooding streets, knocking out power and sweeping sharks inland, leaving residents scrambling to survive both the violent storm and the predators circling in its wake. "Bridgerton's" Phoebe Dynevor stars as Lisa, a pregnant woman trapped inside her car, determined to make it to safety before she gives birth. Nearby, an ocean researcher (Djimon Hounsou, "Guardians of the Galaxy," 2014) struggles to protect his agoraphobic niece (Whitney Peak, "Home Before Dark"), while three foster siblings — played by Alyla Browne ("Nine Perfect Strangers"), Stacy Clausen ("Crazy Fun Park") and newcomer Dante Ubaldi — fight their way through debris-choked streets. As the storm rages on and sharks prey on the town's most vulnerable, the scattered survivors must band together if they hope to make it through the night alive.

"Trust Me: The False Prophet"

Justice comes to Utah in "Trust Me: The False Prophet," a four-part docuseries from Emmy Award-winning filmmaker Rachel Dretzin ("Keep Sweet: Pray and Obey"), set to premiere on Netflix this Wednesday, April 8. Cult expert Christine Marie and her videographer husband, Tolga Katas, first joined the Fundamentalist Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (FLDS) — a polygamist sect of the Mormon community — following the imprisonment of the group's founder, Warren Jeffs. To gain further intel on Jeffs' self-proclaimed successor, Samuel Bateman, the duo not only joined the church, but gained Bateman's trust, acting as part of the man's inner circle until they could share a clear and distinct picture of the evils taking place behind closed doors.

Featuring "intimate access to a normally closed world" (per Dretzin), never-before-seen footage and firsthand accounts from those involved, "Trust Me: The False Prophet" shares a story of "divinely led" abuse, told by the women brave enough to speak up against it. "What these women did matters far beyond their community," says series director Dretzin. "It is a blueprint for how to dismantle even the most entrenched systems of abuse."

"Outcome" (2026)

This isn't the "outcome" he was hoping for. From writer-director Jonah Hill ("21 Jump Street," 2012), a Hollywood star's spotless image begins to unravel when "Outcome" premieres Friday, April 10, available on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel. This dark comedy follows Reef Hawk (Keanu Reeves, "The Matrix," 1999), a beloved Hollywood star whose polished reputation is thrown into jeopardy when a mysterious video surfaces, threatening to destroy his career. Determined to uncover who's behind the blackmail, Reef sets out to confront the mistakes of his past. With the help of his lifelong friends, Kyle (Cameron Diaz, "My Best Friend's Wedding," 1997) and Xander (Matt Bomer, "In Time," 2011), and guided by his crisis lawyer, Ira (played by Hill), he sets out to make amends with anyone he may have wronged — hoping the path to redemption will also lead him to the person behind the blackmail. David Spade ("The Emperor's New Groove," 2000), Kaia Gerber ("American Horror Story") and Ivy Wolk ("Anora,"

"Nippon Sangoku: The Three Nations of the Crimson Sun" - Season 1

A divided Japan enters a new era of conflict when Season 1 of "Nippon Sangoku: The Three Nations of the Crimson Sun" premieres Sunday, April 5, on Prime Video. Set in a near-future Japan, this series led by director Kazuaki Terasawa ("The Ancient Magus' Bride") follows the collapse of society after nuclear war, natural disasters and corrupt leadership sparks a nationwide revolution. In the aftermath, the country splits into three rival nations, each fighting for power as a new age of warring states begins. At the center is Aoteru Misumi (Kensho Ono, "A Silent Voice: The Movie," 2016), a former agricultural officer who sets out to reunify Japan using only his intelligence and eloquence as he shapes the future of a broken nation. Based on the Japanese manga series written and illustrated by Ikka Matsu-kind and produced by Nippon Sangoku Partners, Season 1 stars Jun Fukuyama ("Code Geass: Lelouch of the Rebellion"), Asami Seto ("The

"Yankees on Prime"

Twenty-one New York Yankees games will stream live on Prime Video during the 2026 Major League Baseball (MLB) regular season, starting Wednesday, April 8, when the Yankees host the Oakland Athletics. The Prime Video slate features an April 22nd showdown with arch-rival Boston, a highly anticipated May 20th clash against defending AL Champion Toronto, two games each against 2025 AL playoff teams Detroit and Cleveland, three games against East Division rival Baltimore and two against Tampa Bay. Behind the mic, Michael Kay ("Grown Ups 2," 2013) returns to call the action alongside analysts David Cone ("1988 National League Championship Series"), Paul O'Neill ("1996 American League Championship Series") and Joe Girardi ("1989 National League Championship Series"), while Meredith Marakovits ("Yankeeography") brings in stories from the field.

Get to know the next generation of Food Network's culinary superstars

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Recognizing trendsetters, innovators and daring voices of the culinary industry, the Food Network Hot List spotlights chefs changing the industry, one dish at a time. With the release of 2026's Hot List — featuring 11 impressive chefs — foodies can get to know the next generation of Gordon Ramsays and Guy Fieris, through series such as “Guy’s Grocery Games,” “MasterChef” and more.

“This year’s lineup features a bold mix of rising talent whose viral content is captivating fans across social platforms everywhere,” reads the Food Network press release.

“Each honoree brings a unique culinary point of view and a passion for inspiring food lovers. With a combined fan base of more than 90 million, these Hot Listers are making an impact far beyond the food they create — from fighting childhood hunger to uplifting audiences with inspiring messages, they are driving meaningful change for the better.”

One of those chefs, Alessandra Ciuffo, has dedicated her life to the art of cooking, with her first appearance on the Food Network occurring when she was only 12 years old. At 15, young Alessandra then went on to compete on “Guy’s Grocery Games,” where she became one of Food Network’s youngest winners. Alessandra’s episode of “Guy’s Grocery Games” — Season 10, Episode 3 — can be streamed on Discovery+, alongside the rest of the season.

Food Network star Rashad Jones, meanwhile, has landed himself a spot on the 2026 Hot List as an award-winning barbecue pitmaster and motivational speaker. Some Food Network fanatics, however, might recognize Jones from his countless appearances on network shows, including “Diners, Drive-ins and Dives” and multiple episodes of “BBQ Brawl: Flay V. Symon.” Rashad even hosted his own Food Network series — “Eat, Sleep, BBQ” — in 2017. His restaurant, Big Lee’s, is featured in Season 37 of “Diners, Drive-ins and Dives,” which can also be streamed on Discovery+.

Another Hot List chef, Nick DiGiovanni, has set multiple food-related Guinness World Records, including the world’s largest cake pop (44.240 kg) in 2019 and the world’s largest chicken nugget (20.96 kg) in 2022. DiGiovanni also appeared in Season 10 of “MasterChef” — now streaming on Hulu — as a college student, showcasing his craft in front of the great Gordon Ramsay.

Familiarize yourself with the next big names of the culinary world, with all-star episodes of “Guy’s Grocery Games,” “Diners, Drive-ins and Dives” and “MasterChef” streaming anytime on Discovery+ and Hulu, respectively.

Mercy

Set in a near-future Los Angeles, a controversial justice system sees artificial intelligence judges decide the fate of accused criminals in rapid, high-stakes trials. Defendants are given just 90 minutes to prove their innocence, and failure means immediate execution. When LAPD detective Chris Raven (Pratt) is accused of murdering his own wife (Wallis), he finds himself on trial in the very system he once supported. With overwhelming evidence stacked against him and the 90-minute countdown ticking away, Chris must investigate the case in real time, digging through surveillance footage, digital records and hidden secrets to uncover the truth.

Director: Timur Bekmambetov. Stars: Chris Pratt, Rebecca Ferguson, Kali Reis, Annabelle Wallis, Chris Sullivan, Kylie Rogers. 2026. 100 min. Sci-Fi Thriller.

V/H/S/Halloween

When a collection of mysterious VHS tapes surfaces, each recording reveals a different tale of terror, twisting familiar Halloween traditions into something far more sinister. A group of thrill seekers filming their homemade haunted attraction unleashes something they can't control. A seemingly routine night of trick-or-treating turns into a deadly game of survival when a masked figure begins targeting children. Elsewhere, a disturbing experiment spirals into chaos, and a late-night encounter with an urban legend reveals that some costumes hide more than just faces. As each segment unfolds, strange occurrences begin to bleed into reality, hinting that the footage carries a curse that draws its viewers into the horror.

Directors: Bryan M. Ferguson, Casper Kelly, R.H. Norman, Alex Ross Perry, Paco Plaza, Anna Zlokovic. Stars: David Haydn, Anna McKelvie, Adam James Johnston, Eddy Mackenzie. 2025. 115 min. Horror.

Hellfire

Set in 1988, a mysterious drifter and former Green Beret (Lang) arrives in a small Southern town that's quietly under the control of ruthless crime boss Jeremiah Whitfield (Keitel) and the corrupt Sheriff Wiley (Lundgren). The drifter, haunted by his past, keeps to himself at first, taking work at a local bar and forming a bond with the owner, Owen (Mullinax), and Lena (Thompson), his daughter. As tensions rise between the townspeople and the criminal organization exploiting them, he's drawn into a violent conflict he can't ignore. When the crime boss's gang tightens its grip, resulting in intimidation tactics, kidnapping and murder, the drifter launches a brutal one-man war against them. Using his military skills, he fights his way through waves of enemies in a mission fueled by justice, revenge and redemption.

Director: Isaac Florentine. Stars: Stephen Lang, Dolph Lundgren, Harvey Keitel, Scottie Thompson, Chris Mullinax, Johnny Yong Bosch. 2026. 95 min. Action Thriller.

Tuesday Best Bets

Jaylen Brown of the Boston Celtics

Best Medicine

(12) 7:00 PM

Despite being a brilliant surgeon, Martin's (Josh Charles) blunt bedside manner has always rubbed people the wrong way. However, over the course of this first season, the wild and wacky locals of Port Wenn, Maine, slowly get him to ease up just a little.

NBA Basketball

(5) 8:00 PM

At ninth place in the East, the Charlotte Hornets are hungry for wins. This drive makes the Hornets all the more dangerous as they travel to Boston's TD Garden to play Jaylen Brown, Jayson Tatum and the surging Boston Celtics in Eastern Conference action.

Best Medicine

(44) 8:00 PM

Despite being a brilliant surgeon, Martin's (Josh Charles) blunt bedside manner has always rubbed people the wrong way. However, over the course of this first season, the wild and wacky locals of Port Wenn, Maine, slowly get him to ease up just a little.

NCIS: Origins

(3) 9:00 PM

This "NCIS" prequel series joins a young Leroy Jethro Gibbs (Austin Stowell) as he begins his career as a special agent at the NCIS Camp Pendleton Office, working alongside a ragtag group led by Mike Franks (Kyle Schmid). Mariel Molino also stars.

High Potential

(12) (22) 9:00 PM

Starring Kaitlin Olson, Daniel Sunjata, Javicia Leslie and more, this high-flying sitcom follows single mom Morgan (Olson) as she works alongside Det. Adam Karadec (Sunjata), using her unique abilities to solve the detective's most difficult cases.

Thursday Best Bets

Javier Bardem in "No Country for Old Men"

Law & Order

⑤ 8:00 PM
The murder of a beloved museum security guard and the theft of a priceless artifact leads district attorneys Baxter (Tony Goldwyn) and Price (Hugh Dancy) to delicately balance the pursuit of justice with public pressure to find the artifact.

R.J. Decker

⑫ 8:00 PM
This series premiere follows disgraced newspaper photographer and ex-con RJ (Scott Speedman), who's started over as a private investigator in crime-filled South Florida. His bizarre cases require the help of others who could send him back to prison.

2026 Masters Tournament

ESPN 8:00 PM
The PGA's top golfers converge on Augusta National Golf Club in Augusta, Ga., to compete for the league's grandest prize: the Green Jacket. Last year, Rory McIlroy beat Justin Rose in an intense playoff to win the illustrious tournament.

No Country for Old Men

TCM 10:30 PM
From the Coen brothers, this Oscar-winning flick follows aging lawman Sheriff Bell (Tommy Lee Jones) as he looks for a man (Josh Brolin) involved with a deadly drug deal. His search leads him down a path of reflection, digging up dark truths from within.

"The Testaments" - Season 1

The story of Gilead continues when the first season of "The Testaments" premieres Wednesday, April 8, on Hulu. Based on Margaret Atwood's sequel to "The Handmaid's Tale," the series shifts the story forward to a new generation coming of age inside Gilead. At the center are two teenage girls whose lives could not be more different. Agnes (Chase Infiniti, "Presumed Innocent") has been raised inside Gilead, dutiful, devout and prepared for the future expected of her. Meanwhile, Daisy (Lucy Halliday, "Blue Jean," 2022), a newcomer from beyond Gilead's borders, arrives carrying questions that challenge everything the regime demands they believe. Both soon find themselves within the gilded yet brutal halls of Aunt Lydia's (Ann Dowd, "The Handmaid's Tale") elite school for future wives. As their unlikely bond deepens, the girls begin to uncover the truth about the system that has shaped their lives — a discovery that threatens Gilead's carefully controlled future. Written for television by "The Handmaid's Tale" creator Bruce Miller, "The Testaments" stars Hattie Kragten ("The Snoopy Show") as Constance, Zarrin Darnell-Martin ("Ginny & Georgia") as

Lucy Halliday and Chase Infiniti in "The Testaments"

Aunt Gabbana, Blessing Adedijo ("Humane," 2024) as Zilla and Brad Alexander ("You") as Garth.

"Malcolm in the Middle: Life's Still Unfair"

Life is still anything but fair when "Malcolm in the Middle" returns with the revival special "Life's Still Unfair," premiering Friday, April 10, on Hulu. Nearly two decades after the original sitcom ended, Malcolm (Frankie Muniz, "New Amsterdam") has grown up and built a quieter life for himself, starting a family and keeping his distance from the wildly unpredictable Wilkerson clan. However, Malcolm is dragged back into their orbit when Hal (Bryan Cranston, "Breaking Bad") and Lois (Jane Kaczmarek, "The Simpsons") demand his presence at their 40th anniversary party. Malcolm reluctantly arrives with his daughter Leah (Keeley Karsten, "The Fabelmans," 2022), only to find himself pulled right back into the familiar whirlwind of family antics. Brothers Reese (Justin Berfield, "Unhappily Ever After") and Francis (Christopher Masterson, "Scary Movie 2," 2001) rejoin the fun, while Malcolm's girlfriend, Tristan (Kiana Madeira, "After Everything," 2023), and younger sibling Kelly (Vaughan Murrae, "Before I Change My Mind," 2022) add to the lively reunion. Soon, the Wilkerson household proves that life is still wonderfully unfair. The special is created and executive produced by Linwood Boomer ("The Boys Are Back").

"Bad Boys Ride or Die" (2024)

The fourth installment in the "Bad Boys" film franchise — "Bad Boys Ride or Die" — will be available to stream on Hulu as of this Tuesday, April 7. Acting as a direct sequel to 2020's "Bad Boys for Life," this latest installment is set four years after its predecessor, finding Miami-based detectives Mike Lowrey (Will Smith, "The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air") and Marcus Burnett (Martin Lawrence, "Martin") hard at work once again, as they try to clear the name of their late captain, Conrad Howard (Joe Pantoliano, "Memento," 2000), after he's falsely accused of conspiracy. Seeing the return of Vanessa Hudgens ("High School Musical," 2006), Alexander Ludwig ("Vikings"), Paola Nunez ("Resident Evil") and Jacob Scipio ("Maintenance Required," 2025), "Bad Boys Ride or Die" also features new cast members like Eric Dane ("Grey's Anatomy"), Ioan Gruffudd ("Fantastic Four," 2005), Melanie Liburd ("Power Book II: Ghost"), Tiffany Haddish ("Like a Boss," 2020) and Rhea Seehorn ("Better Call Saul"). Adil El Arbi ("Rebel," 2022) and Bilal Fallah ("Gangstas," 2025) direct.

Frankie Muniz stars in "Malcolm in the Middle: Life's Still Unfair" Saturday, April 4, 2026

Will Smith and Martin Lawrence star in "Bad Boys: Ride or Die"

DiCaprio, 2010) has been on the landmark sketch show "Saturday Night Live." But not in the way that might imply, because, at the same time, DiCaprio regularly features on lists of the (few) celebrities who've never hosted the show.

It was that longstanding absence that made his cameo appearance in 2014 such a thrilling surprise for fans. His buddy Jonah Hill ("Moneyball," 2013) was hosting in January 2014, just after getting an Oscar nomination for the movie they did together, "The Wolf of Wall Street" (2013). During his monologue, DiCaprio jumped on stage and suddenly the two of them were recreating the famous scene at the bow of the boat from DiCaprio's 1997 star-making hit "Titanic" (it made sense in context).

It was just a brief moment during the monologue, so DiCaprio didn't get a credit or anything. That means it also didn't break his streak of decades of stardom without ever hosting the show.

That streak is certainly notable, but it's actually not all that strange. While it does seem like everyone who's anyone has hosted the show at some point, in fact those lists mentioned earlier are pretty lengthy. And they include some comedians you'd imagine would be natural choices — folks like Sacha Baron Cohen ("Borat," 2006) and Whoopi

Goldberg ("Ghost," 1990).

The lists also include some more of the most celebrated actors of our time — such as Sandra Bullock ("The Proposal," 2009) and Denzel Washington ("Training Day," 2001).

Q: Where else can I see the actor who plays Cate Randa on "Monarch: Legacy of Monsters"? She's doing a great job on that show.

A: You aren't the only one impressed by Anna Sawai's ("F9: The Fast Saga," 2021) work. She also has Oscar-winning director Sam Mendes ("1917," 2019) in her fan club — he recently cast her in one of the central roles in his sprawling quadrilogy of biopics about the members of The Beatles.

Sawai will play controversial art-scene icon Yoko Ono ("Isle of Dogs," 2018), who married Beatles singer-songwriter John Lennon (played by "A Murder at the End of the World" star Harris Dickinson), turning the two into an early example of a celebrity power couple.

That's the next big role in a pretty impressive run for Sawai. It includes her current role as third-generation monster tracker Cate Randa on the Apple TV series "Monarch: Legacy of Monsters," which debuted its second season in February.

She landed that role on the heels of a couple of other hits. First, she starred in the Apple TV family drama "Pachinko" from 2022-24. But more notably, she starred in the first season of the multi-award-winning smash "Shogun" — and got a bunch of those awards herself, including the big one:

the Emmy for Outstanding Lead Actress in a Drama Series.

Prior to all that, her most notable role was much earlier — as Kiriko in the 2009 sleeper-hit action movie "Ninja Assassin."

In an interview with The Hollywood Reporter, she said that she's managed to keep her head (so far) in the midst of all this success — partly because it all came pretty quickly.

"I knew that a lot was going to happen before things would calm down, so I wasn't getting myself too excited about everything. I was just going to each event, doing all the interviews and trying to keep myself grounded. So I don't know if [life] is that different."

We'll see if that changes once she's appeared in the highly anticipated Beatles movies, due out in 2028.
