Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert (R)

During the COVID pandemic, a new billionaire was created every 30 hours. Specifically between March 2020 and March 2022, 573 people became new billionaires, including 40 new pharmaceutical billionaires, which is so sad: you know they're just going to blow it all on drugs.

Right now, the United States has approximately 400 million firearms, which is more than 40 per cent of the total guns in the entire world. That stat's even more harrowing considering we have 100 per cent of the world's Floridas.

[The Wall Street Journal reported that] "many NFT owners are finding their investments are worth significantly less than when they bought them." ... An NFT of the first tweet from Twitter co-founder Jack Dorsey sold in March 2021 for $2.9 million, but when it went up for auction recently [2022], the highest bid came in at $277. Wow! I have not seen anything lose value that quickly since Kevin Spacey's Oscars.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon (R)

I heard about a couple with a "busy life" who got married after a 60-year engagement. Sixty years! That explains why one of the gifts on the registry was a new hip.

I read that the CEO of Nokia said that 6G will be here by 2030. Yup, that was the news of the future brought to you by a company of the past!

Nike has accused the retail website StockX of selling counterfeit versions of their shoes. Apparently, people were angry to hear that they dropped $300 on a pair of Air Gordons.

In Washington, state troopers pulled over a U-Haul truck because it had an SUV hanging out the back of it. ... I think that's known as a highway turducken.

Jimmy Kimmel Live! (R)

All of this [Jan. 6/Trump] stuff is on us, you know? Because trusting Donald Trump with our secrets is like asking R. Kelly to babysit.

Here's the thing: I am not allowed to fish without a license. It shouldn't be easier to get an AR-15 than a rainbow trout. It just shouldn't.

The Spanish government is expected to pass a new law that would give women three days of "menstrual leave" every four weeks if they're in pain and need to stay home from work. Which, on the one hand, is very considerate, but on the other, it's gonna be a little bit odd for everyone in the office to know when it's Gabriela's time of the month, isn't it?

Late Night With Seth Meyers (R)

A man in Wisconsin ... celebrated his 50th anniversary of eating a McDonald's Big Mac almost daily and has only missed eight days. That's not bad. Fifty years of Big Macs and only eight heart attacks.

Archeologists in Laos discovered an ancient tooth, thought to have belonged to an extinct human species, that was lodged in a cave wall. Experts believe their last words were, "Not ... cake."

President Biden has reportedly been telling aides in private that he no longer recognizes the Republican Party and views them as an existential threat to democracy. Oh, good — you're all caught up! This is like when you watch three episodes of a show and you have to wait for your partner to watch them before you can move to Episode 4.

According to a new study, the top three baby names said to make a comeback this year [2022] are Joan, Mary and Margaret; which is also a full curse in a Catholic household. "Ah, Joan, Mary and Margaret! I stubbed my toe!"

The doctor is in again: Kelsey Grammer returns as 'Frasier'

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

There's been room for "Frasier" ever since the original series ended, so there's certainly space for a revival.

After winning four of his five Primetime Emmys for playing the title part, Kelsey Grammer returns as the high-minded psychiatrist in a new Paramount+ version of "Frasier" that starts streaming Thursday, Oct. 12, with CBS giving the revival's first two episodes a broadcast run Oct. 17. Originated by the actor as a supporting character on "Cheers," Dr. Frasier Crane returns to that show's Boston setting, with an outline of that city replacing that of his hometown of Seattle (where the first "Frasier" took place) in the opening credits.

Also mostly new is the supporting cast, which was the case when Grammer initially transferred "Frasier" into his own show. Such figures as Frasier's brother Niles, played by David Hyde Pierce ("Julia"), who chose not to return, and his father Martin, played by John Mahoney ("Moonstruck," 1987), who died in 2018, are now absent, as are Martin's caretaker and Niles' eventual wife, Daphne (Jane Leeves, "The Resident"), and Martin's frequent-Frasier-nemesis dog, Eddie. However, Peri Gilpin ("Scorpion") and Bebe Neuwirth ("Julia") — alias, respectively, Frasier's radio show producer Roz and his ex-wife Lilith — will be back on a recurring basis.

Among actors joining "Frasier" for the first time are Jack Cutmore-Scott ("Oppenheimer," 2023) as Frasier's son, Freddy, and new actor Anders Keith as David, the son of Niles and Daphne (born in the finale of the original "Frasier"). Nicholas Lyndhurst ("Only Fools and Horses") is also a regular cast member as a college pal of Frasier's who is a professor now. Among the aspects retaining familiarity, though, will be a new rendering of the theme song ("Tossed Salads and Scrambled Eggs") recorded by Grammer, who also remains an executive producer.

The first "Frasier" continues to be seen regularly in repeats, and having yielded more than 250 episodes over 11 seasons, its successor has a long and celebrated legacy to live up to – encompassing its Primetime Emmy wins for outstanding comedy series for five consecutive years (1994-98). Much as the first show was, the new one is an exploration of Dr. Crane starting over. When last seen, he was headed for Chicago, presumably for him to be together with the girlfriend he had at the time (played by guest star Laura Linney, "Ozark"). That became his destination after he let go of a San Francisco television job he had gotten.

Putting Frasier back in Boston is bound to give interesting twists to the premise in which viewers first got to know him. At least on a steady basis, he'll be without Sam Malone (Ted Danson, "The Good Place"), Diane Chambers (Shelley Long, "Modern Family") and the others he commiserated with regularly at the bar "where everybody knows your name." Much as he did upon his move to Seattle, he'll be surrounded by a fresh group that the new "Frasier" makers clearly hope will catch on with viewers in the same way Niles and others did.

For all else that it may have, "Frasier's" main strength is likely to continue to be Grammer, by necessity. His portrayal of the title character is one of those matches of actor to role that results in true television magic, and though other revivals have been cast with different actors — CBS's forthcoming "Matlock," with Kathy Bates succeeding Andy Griffith, is one of the latest examples — some situations are so singular that it's almost inconceivable that another performer would be given the part.

Kelsey Grammer, Jess Salgueiro and Jack Cutmore-Scott in "Frasier"

Grammer has actually stayed quite active since "Frasier" ended its NBC run in 2004. Seen recently in the Comedy Central movie "Office Race," the classically trained actor-producer has done several other series over the past two decades, including Fox's "Back to You," a TV-news comedy that teamed him with Patricia Heaton ("Everybody Loves Raymond"); ABC's "Hank," which lasted only five episodes; Starz's "Boss," a drama casting him as the mayor of Chicago; and FX's "Partners," a comedy with Martin Lawrence ("Martin"). On a recurring basis, Grammer has also supplied the voice of Sideshow Bob on Fox's "The Simpsons," earning him his fifth Primetime Emmy.

Returning to his stage roots, Grammer has starred on Broadway in "Macbeth," "Sweeney Todd: The Demon Barber of Fleet Street," "La Cage aux Folles" and "Finding Neverland." He also played Professor Henry Higgins in a Lincoln Center staging of "My Fair Lady," and he was a producer of the musical version of "The Color Purple." Additionally, he was in "Beauty and the Beast" at the Hollywood Bowl, "Man of La Mancha" in London and "The Boy Friend" in Toronto.

Even when he hasn't acted in series, Grammer (who acted with daughter Spencer for the first time last year in Lifetime's "The 12 Days of Christmas Eve") also has done much work as a producer for the home screen, with "Medium," "Girlfriends" and "The Game" among the successes he's had via his Grammnet NH production firm. Now, the second coming of "Frasier" is likely to join that list, offering new personal and professional misadventures for one of the most celebrated characters in the history of TV humor.

Under the big top: Crimes and clowns exposed in new episodes of 'The Circus'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

American showman P.T. Barnum once said that "clowns are the pegs on which the circus is hung." While this may be true, one can surmise that perhaps Barnum wasn't speaking exclusively of the tent-and-pole business to which his name has become most associated. Barnum, who was busy wrangling votes when he wasn't overseeing lion wrangling on the stage, was also heavily involved in politics during the last quarter of the 19th century. As mayor of Bridgeport, Connecticut, Barnum is also cited as having said that "politics and government are certainly among the most important of practical human interests."

Alas, it seems Showtime shares an interest in not just one, but two of Barnum's life's works, as the network pairs whimsical, absurd entertainment with politics in "The Circus: Inside the Greatest Political Show on Earth." Back Sunday, Oct. 8, with six all-new Season 8 episodes, "The Circus" peeks under the Big Top that is the White House and dives deep into the American political circus of the present day.

"The Circus," which premiered on Showtime Jan. 17, 2016, amid controversy over Donald Trump's (soon-to-be-successful) presidential campaign, has proven itself to be a worthy voice during a difficult time in televised media. Always on top of the most current, relevant and often divisive issues in the United States, "The Circus" began its run by covering the 2016 election in Season 1.

By the time the second season aired — 26 episodes later — in late March 2017, the series had adopted the subtitle "Inside the Biggest Story on Earth," of course referring to Trump's first 100 days in his then newly secured presidency. This season ran for a meagre eight episodes before Season 3 premiered in April 2018 and focused on mid-term elections.

Seasons 3 and 4 shared the moniker "Inside the Wildest Show on Earth" before Season 5 premiered in January 2020 and was soon met with some of the biggest news to hit the world in decades: the COVID-19 pandemic.

Now, four and a bit seasons later, "The Circus" picks up right where it left off in April.

The current season, Season 8, began in February as President Biden flew to Poland and prepared for his trip into war-ravaged Ukraine in the episode "The Year of Living Dangerously." As the season progressed, the team touched back down stateside and "mark[ed] the unofficial kick-off of the Republican Party's presidential nominating contest," "navigate[d] a week dominated by Tucker Carlson's coverage of January 6th, hearings on the Biden administration, and a fight that threaten[ed] to tip America over a fiscal cliff" and "examine[d] the $1.6 billion defamation lawsuit brought by Dominion Voting Systems against Fox News" (per Showtime).

Leading up to the mid-season break, "The Circus" doubled down on Trump's "historic indictment," sending correspondents Jennifer Palmieri ("The Clinton Affair"), Mark McKinnon ("The Bush Years: Family, Duty, Power") and John Heilemann ("2020: The Dumpster Fire," 2021) on assignments to uncover the truth behind everything from cover-ups to election interference and the political fallout brought forth by the Trump administration and its critics.

In the six new episodes, the News & Doc Emmy-nominated series continues its probing investigation into Trump, Biden and the line that divides both their presidencies and their supporters. While the precise episode synopses are being kept secret until Episode 7's release, fans of "The Circus" can expect much of the same style of investigative reporting, sensitive discussion and balanced views for which they have become loved.

Heilemann, Palmieri and McKinnon return to host "The Circus," which is produced by Left/Right Productions, an institution that prides itself on creating "television and film projects that illuminate the drama and comedy of real life" (per the official Left/Right website).

With Left/Right Production's goal (and name) in mind, the company calls "The Circus" a "non-partisan, never-before-attempted take on one of the most fascinating and consequential political periods in modern American history" and notes that the "documentary series pulls back the curtain on the Trump era of presidential politics, revealing the intense, inspiring and infuriating stories behind the headlines."

And no matter the political side with which viewers identify — Republican, Democrat or another — it's clear that audiences are happy for the series to continue. "The Circus" holds a 75% approval rating on the popular aggregate site Rotten Tomatoes, while IMDb lists the cast, episode and production information alongside a rating of 7.3 out of 10.

In addition to their duties as correspondents and hosts, Heilemann and McKinnon return to offer their executive production expertise alongside Banks Tarver ("Frontline"), Stuart Fero ("The Zoo"), Ken Druckerman ("The Weekly") and Kevin Vargas ("The American Life"). Palmieri has also acted as a producer on two episodes between 2022 and 2023.

Don't miss the newest batch of Season 8 episodes when "The Circus: Inside the Greatest Political Show on Earth" returns to Showtime Sunday, Oct. 8. New episodes air weekly on the network, its streaming service and Paramount+.

Co-hosts' comedic chemistry shines in new series

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Teamwork time: The countdown begins when "Raid the Cage" premieres Friday, Oct. 13, on CBS.

Based on the format of the Israeli game show (of the same name), "Raid the Cage" originally ran on Israel's Channel 2 (Reshet) for four seasons after making its debut in late 2013. The initial series was co-created by Shy Brameli ("India on a Rickshaw," 2020), Tal Berman ("Mischak Machur'') and United Studios of Israel, while this reboot of the game show will be distributed globally by Sony Pictures Television, with Jack Martin ("@midnight") acting as both showrunner and executive producer.

In this iteration, actor/comedian Damon Wayans Jr. ("New Girl") acts as host alongside Emmy winner Jeannie Mai Jenkins ("The Real"), who together tackle what Paramount Pictures (CBS's parent company) calls a "fresh take on a thrilling international format" that has "thrilled viewers in over 15 countries internationally." In a news release for the upcoming series, Paramount also shared its excitement over the pairing of Wayans and Jenkins, saying: "Together, the duo brings an infectious chemistry to the series, where the goal is to get in, get out and get rich."

And that is exactly what "Raid the Cage" promises, as a description of the series given by Deadline states: "'Raid The Cage' features two teams of two facing off to grab-and-go with prizes from the Cage before their time runs out and the doors close. Correctly answering questions adds seconds to the clock, giving teammates more time to grab prizes from the Cage. After three rounds, the team who banks the highest total dollar value in prizes wins the game, keeps what they have grabbed so far and plays the final round for even bigger prizes including a car.";

"Strategy, teamwork and nerve are key to winning big," Paramount adds.

The series will be Wayans' latest collaboration with CBS (he also acts as an executive producer on the series), following his success with the scripted comedy series "Poppa's House," in which he stars alongside his father, Damon Wayans Sr. ("The Last Boy Scout," 1991).

Grab a partner and try your best — "Raid the Cage" premieres Friday, Oct. 13, on CBS.

Backstabbers beware: It's the worst of the worst versus the devious and dastardly in this all-new series. "House of Villains" premieres Thursday, Oct. 12, on E!, USA Network and Syfy.

"If the phrases "Bye Pumpkin!" or "Pop off!" live rent-free in your head, this show is for you," promises Entertainment Weekly. Hosted by Joel McHale ("Community"), this competition series aims to find "America's Ultimate Supervillain" — reality television supervillain, that is.

According to the network, "'House of Villains [...] will pit contestants against one another each week in a challenge that tests their physical, mental and emotional strength." The contestants in question? Ten of the most memorable, quotable and meme-able reality TV "villains," hailing from kingdoms (series) far and wide.

The series description continues: "The winner of the challenge is safe from elimination, but at the end of each week, one villain will be voted out of the house and sent home."

Damon Wayans Jr. and Jeannie Mai Jenkins from "Raid the Cage"

What makes a reality show villain, you may ask? "Is it an indelible catchphrase? Is it the moral turpitude to backstab relative strangers for the promise of cash and/or fame? Is it just the far-too-uncomfortable association with a former president? Well, E! will give fans of unscripted television's best baddies an excuse to ponder these and other questions with 'House of Villains'," Entertainment Weekly promises.

For this inaugural season, contestants include: "HBIC" Tiffany "New York" Pollard, who first appeared on "Flavor of Love" in 2006; Jax Taylor, from "Vanderpump Rules"; "Survivor's" so-called "granny-killer," Season 7's Jonny Fairplay; the "Bad Girls Club's" Tanisha Thomas; Corinne Olympios, from the 21st season of "The Bachelor"; "The Challenge's" Johnny "Bananas" Devenanzio; former "90 Day Fiancé" star Anfisa Arkhipchenko; Shake Chatterjee, the "villain" from "Love is Blind" Season 2; and "Love and Hip Hop Miami's" Bobby Lytes, among others.

More, including "Big Brother's" Omarosa Manigault Newman, who, according to EW, "puts the 'no' in notorious." Quote: "She is definitely the only 'House of Villains' star to work in a presidential administration, or to secretly record a president in said administration, or to be fired by said president, or to 'willfully' violate the Ethics in Government Act."

Whether it be Omarosa, the "granny-killer" or the "HBIC" — only one villain can steal the crown and rule them all in "House of Villains," premiering Thursday, Oct. 12, on E!, USA Network and Syfy.

"The Fall of the House of Usher"

Lose yourself in the madness of the world with Mike Flanagan's ("The Haunting of Hill House") new limited horror series, "The Fall of the House of Usher," premiering Thursday, Oct. 12, on Netflix. Based on the works of Edgar Allan Poe, the series follows ruthless siblings Madeline (Mary McDonnell, "Battlestar Galactica") and Roderick Usher (Bruce Greenwood, "Star Trek," 2009), who have built their company, Fortunato Pharmaceuticals, into a powerful empire. But when the heirs to the Usher dynasty begin dying at the hands of a mysterious woman from their past, dark secrets come to light, forcing the corrupt Ushers to face their shady pasts. Directed by Flanagan and Michael Fimognari ("To All the Boys: Always and Forever," 2021), "The Fall of the House of Usher" features a teleplay by Flanagan and new screenwriter Justina Ireland ("Star Wars Explained"). The series also stars Carla Gugino ("Watchmen," 2009), Annabeth Gish ("Mayfair Witches"), Zach Gilford ("Friday Night Lights"), Willa Fitzgerald ("Scream: The TV Series"), Carl Lumbly ("Alias"), Mark Hamill ("Star Wars: Episode IV - A New Hope," 1977), Henry Thomas ("Midnight Mass"), Crystal Balint ("Mech-X4"), Kyliegh Curran ("Secrets of Sulphur Springs"), Samantha Sloyan ("Grey's Anatomy"), Matt Biedel ("Midnight Mass"), Kate Siegel ("The Haunting of Hill House"), Rahul Kohli ("The Haunting of Bly Manor"), Daniel Jun ("The Expanse"), T'Nia Miller ("The Haunting of Bly Manor"), Paola Núñez ("The Son"), Sauriyan Sapkota ("The Midnight Club") and Ruth Codd ("The Midnight Club").

"The Conference" (2023)

Aren't team-building events meant to be pleasant? Unfortunately, not for the group of municipal employees at the center of "The Conference," a Swedish comedy slasher premiering on Netflix Friday, Oct. 13. Based on a novel by Mats Strandberg, a highly successful Scandinavian horror writer, the movie follows said group as they attend the titular conference. Proceedings quickly devolve into chaos as accusations of corruption are. To make matters worse, a masked figure is out to murder each one of the participants. Directed by Patrik Eklund ("Flicker," 2012) and written by Thomas Moldestad ("Cold Prey," 2006), the cast for "The Conference" includes Katia Winter ("The Negative," 2017), Eva Melander ("Border," 2018), Adam Lundgren ("Blue Eyes"), Lola Zackow ("Maria Wern"), Cecilia Nilsson ("A Summer Tale," 2000), Christoffer Nordenrot ("The Unthinkable," 2018), Maria Sid ("All the Sins") and Amed Bozan ("Caliphate"). In addition to writing the novel, Strandberg ("The Circle," 2015) produced the movie alongside Ina Sohlberg ("Borg vs. McEnroe," 2017), Jonathan Ridings ("The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo," 2011), Tim King ("A Man Called Otto," 2022), Malin Hüber ("She's Wild Again Tonight," 2015) and Jimm Garbis ("A Swedish Defence," 2021).

"Good Night World" - Season 1

Based on a manga written and illustrated by Uru Okabe, watch as a new setting unknowingly brings a broken family together in "Good Night World," premiering on Netflix Thursday, Oct. 12. In real life, the Arima family is broken beyond repair. The oldest is a shut-in, the father is constantly disrespected, and nobody knows the mother exist. At least the youngest is a high achiever. Fortunately, they can all escape to Planet, a popular VR online game. Unbeknownst to them, the family forms a powerful guild known as the Akabane Family as they work their way towards the final objective of the game. Daisuke Hirose ("Space Police," 2004), Nobunaga Shimazaki ("Your Name," 2016), Akio Otsuka ("Ghost in the Shell," 1995), Aya Endo ("Guilty Crown"), Aoi Yuki ("Cyberpunk: Edgerunners," 2022), Ryohei Kimura ("Weathering with You," 2019), Hiroki Nanami ("Mashle: Magic and Muscles," 2023), Kenjiro Tsuda ("Yu-Gi-Oh!"), Rie Takahashi ("Konosuba: God's Blessing on This Wonderful World!") and Inori Minase ("Re:Zero – Starting Life in Another World") all lend their voices to the proceedings. With directing by Katsuya Kikuchi ("Ghost in the Shell 2: Innocence," 2004) and character designs by Suzuna Okuyama ("Romio x Jurietto"), Studio NAZ is behind the production of "Good Night World." Their past work includes the adaptations of "My First Girlfriend Is a Gal," Infinite Dendrogram" and "Lucifer and the Biscuit Hammer," and original work "Id: Invaded." Furthermore, VTuber Kuzuha performs the opening theme song, while VTuber duo Nornis handle the ending theme.

'The Big Bake' returns with a Halloween-themed season

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Dig into some deadly delights as a new episode of "The Big Bake: Halloween" airs Monday, Oct. 9, on Food Network.

The series, hosted by Brad Smith ("Eddsworld"), welcomes returning "Big Bake" champions and veterans, each looking to redeem themselves in this larger-than-life, "Halloween"-themed event.

Food Network describes: "In each episode, three professional baking teams have five hours to design, bake and decorate a grand-scale cake creation based on a particular theme. These bakers need to think big and bold, blowing up their designs to gigantic proportions and thinking outside the (bakery) box."

As "Big Bake" competitions take place throughout the year, this iteration celebrates the spookiest and scariest season of them all, tasking bakers with eye-popping and downright dreary challenges that feature spooky Halloween treats, creepy clown cakes, fa-boo-lous shrieks, scares and costumes galore.

So far this season, the teams have been asked to create cakes of the best "boo-ticians" in town, decorated with their creepy clientele, and then made their way to the carnival, where funhouse screams were on the menu as Smith asked the baking teams to create some spine-chilling desserts. But fear not. The scariest snacks are still to come.

Ron Ben Israel, Danni Rose, Brad Smith and Eddie Jackson from "The Big Bake"

During this upcoming episode, Food Network promises that witches will be the "talk of the town," as a description for the challenge shares that "Brad Smith asks the baking teams to wave their magic whisks to create cakes featuring the queens of Halloween." In the following weeks, the competition continues, as bakers serve some "big bog bakes" with swamp-themed cakes and later tackle their fears by making creations that feature thrill-seeking monsters.

As tension rises and suspense builds, bakers must do their best to impress this season's judges – pastry chef Ron Ben-Israel ("Cake Wars"), cornerback-turned-chef Eddie Jackson ("Outchef'd") and internet personality/cookbook author Danni Rose ("Danni's Juke Joint Comfort Food Cookbook: Modern-Day Recipes, Ole Skool Flavas," releasing in November 2023) – and avoid elimination, making it to the end of the competition, where the most ambitious (and terrifying) baker will go home with a $10,000 prize.

Jam-packed with creepy confections, taunting treats and bizarre baked goods, new episodes of "The Big Bake: Halloween" air Mondays through October on Food Network.

"The Mill" (2023)

Escape the grind with the new sci-fi thriller "The Mill," premiering as part of Hulu's "Huluween" lineup, Monday, Oct. 9. Set in a near, dystopian, hyper-capitalistic future, the movie follows Joe (Lil Rel Howery, "Get Out," 2017), a successful businessman focused on his family and building an increasingly successful career. Awaking one day and finding himself inexplicably trapped in an open-air prison cell, with no idea how he got there, Joe is bewildered to find nothing in the cell with him other than an ancient grist mill. Faced with inexplicable horrors linked to his career, Joe must fight to escape the nightmare of his prison before the birth of his child. Directed by Sean King O'Grady ("Our American Family," 2021) and written by Jeffrey David Thomas ("All American: Homecoming"), "The Mill" is produced by Howery, O'Grady, Josh Feldman ("My Little Pony: The Movie," 2017) and Jesse Ford ("Lord Huron: Products of the Universe," 2018). Pat Healy ("Station 19") and Karen Obilom ("Games People Play") also star.

"Nada" - Season 1

Dip into something new with the comedy-drama miniseries "Nada," premiering on Hulu, Wednesday, Oct. 11. A sophisticated culinary critic, art lover and provocateur, Manuel (Luis Brandoni, "Mi cuñado") has been living in Buenos Aires, Argentina, with Celsa (María Rosa Fugazot, "El puntero") acting as his personal assistant, housekeeper and cook for more than 40 years. When Celsa dies, Manuel, barely able to afford his lavish lifestyle, is forced to hire an inexperienced young woman, Antonia (Majo Cabrera, "Boundless"), to take over his household tasks. As Manuel and Antonia learn and grow while working together, Manuel's old friend Vincent (Robert De Niro, "Raging Bull," 1980) comes for a visit, leading them to adventures and existential conversations of all kinds. Directed and written by "The One in Charge" creators Mariano Cohn and Gaston Duprat, "Nada" also features writing by Emanuel Diez, also of "The One in Charge." The series also stars Silvia Kutika ("Camino al amor"), Belén Chavanne ("Champs 12"), Enrique Pineyro ("Limbo") and Gaston Cocchiarale ("The One in Charge").

"Empire of Light" (2022)

Turn back the clock to 1980s England for romantic drama "Empire of Light" streaming on Hulu Saturday, Oct. 14. The movie follows Hilary (Olivia Colman, "The Favourite, " 2018), a duty manager at Empire Cinema struggling with difficulties of life. From a diagnosis of bipolar disorder to illicit requests from her boss (Colin Firth, "The King's Speech," 2010), Hilary's life is in a gloomy state. That's until Stephen (Micheal Ward, "The Old Guard," 2020), a young Black man, joins the cinema as a new employee. The two form an unlikely friendship that helps them through heal from past trauma. Starring Toby Jones ("Captain America: The First Avenger," 2011), Crystal Clarke ("Sanditon"), Tanya Moodie ("A Discovery of Witches") and Tom Brookes ("Preacher"), "Empire of Light" is directed and written by Sam Mendes ("Skyfall," 2012), who also serves as a producer alongside Pippa Harris ("1917," 2019). Additionally, Michael Lerman ("The Flash," 2023) and Julie Pastor ("Informer") serve as executive producers, while Celia Duval ("Belfast," 2021) and Lola Oliyide ("Britannia") are co-producers.

"Daliland" (2022)

What goes into the work of an eccentric artist? Find out in the biographical drama "Daliland" streaming Thursday, Oct. 12, on Hulu. James (Christopher Briney, "The Summer I Turned Pretty") is lowly assistant for a New York gallery when he is tasked with monitoring Salvador Dalí (Ben Kingsley, "Gandhi," 1982). James needs to keep the enigmatic Dali on-schedule for an upcoming gallery show. However, Dali's unconventional lifestyle and wife Gala (Barbara Sukowa, "Hannah Arendt," 2012) seem to always get in the way. Mix in some drugs and fraud, and James certainly has his hands full. Directed by Mary Harron ("American Psycho," 2000) and written by John C. Walsh ("Ed's Next Move" 1996), "Dailand" was produced by Edward R. Pressman ("Wall Street," 1987), David O. Sacks ("Thank You for Smoking," 2005), Chris Curling ("Falling," 2020), Daniel Brunt ("Dumbstruck," 2010) and Sam Pressman ("She Will," 2021). Suki Waterhouse ("Seance," 2021), Andreja Pejic ("The Other Me," 2022) and Rupert Graves ("V for Vendetta," 2005) also star.

Michael Ward and Olivia Colman in "Empire of Light"

Ben Kingsley stars in "Daliland"

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: For the shows that isolate people — like "Survivor" and "Big Brother" — do the contestants ever get important information from the world? I'm thinking about presidential elections, COVID developments or other world news.

A: The general rule is no — contestants on "Survivor," "Big Brother" and other isolation-based shows are totally cut off from the outside world.

And your COVID-19 example is a good illustration of how far that can go. In late winter 2020, everyone around the world was talking about the spread of the pandemic — everyone, that is, except the contestants of a couple of different "Big Brother" series that were filming at the time.

People on the German iteration, for example, were only told about the pandemic later. This was big news in Germany: the broadcaster announced specifically that it would not tell the contestants, who had been sequestered in the house since early February. Public backlash ensued, and the network relented and made a special live episode where the still-sequestered contestants were given the news.

Contestants on the Canadian version, also filming at the time, said they noticed the sudden absence of a live crowd outside the house — usually there to greet the people when they are evicted. There was a large crowd roar for the March 9 eviction, but silence for the next one on March 14. They didn't learn why — that crowds were no longer permitted outside the house — until later.

In some ways, these contestants were in a better position than most — thanks to the design of the show they were already essentially quarantined, at a time when the rest of us were trying to figure out how to do that for ourselves.

COVID's not the only example, though. Years earlier, "Big Brother's" producers were reluctant to tell the remaining Season 2 contestants that the Sept. 11 terror attacks had happened. They only gave in because one of the contestants, Monica Bailey, had a cousin who was missing.

But even then, the contestants were only told that it had happened — they still weren't allowed to watch news coverage or seek out more info.

Q: I just watched "Empire Records" again, and I'm wondering what happened to the actress who played Debra. The other girls went on to big stardom — did she?

A: It was a dice roll in 1995 to see which of the young female leads of that year's teen hit, "Empire Records," would become the bigger star.

Liv Tyler (who played the goodie-goodie, Corey, in this film that traded in those sorts of easy teen movie tropes) went on to star in the critically well-regarded art film "Stealing Beauty" (1996) next. Meanwhile, Renée Zellweger (Gina) made a huge box office splash the next year in "Jerry McGuire."

Robin Tunney, who played the emotionally troubled Debra in "Empire Records," took a different path — but one that seemed just as likely to lead to greater stardom. Her next role was another teen film, the era-defining "The Craft" (1996).

However, while Zellweger and Tyler went on to even bigger roles and fame, Tunney's momentum seemed to fizzle. These days, she's mostly known as a TV supporting star.

Most notably, she had one of the lead roles on CBS's procedural drama "The Mentalist," playing a police officer (and the titular "mentalist's" romantic interest) on all seven seasons of the show.

Prior to that, she starred in the surprise-hit first season of Fox's "Prison Break" in 2005 and 2006. And most recently, earlier this year she appeared in a long arc on the Apple TV+ series "Dear Edward."

Q: Now that "Killing Eve" is over, what is the actor who played Konstantin doing?

A: Unfortunately for North American fans, Kim Bodnia hasn't done much yet that we can see easily. But to be fair, it's only been a year.

Since the end of the globe-trotting spy thriller "Killing Eve," in which he played the mysterious assassin (and assassin's manager) Konstantin, the Danish actor has gone home to do a couple of European films, which are a little hard to come by on this side of the Atlantic.

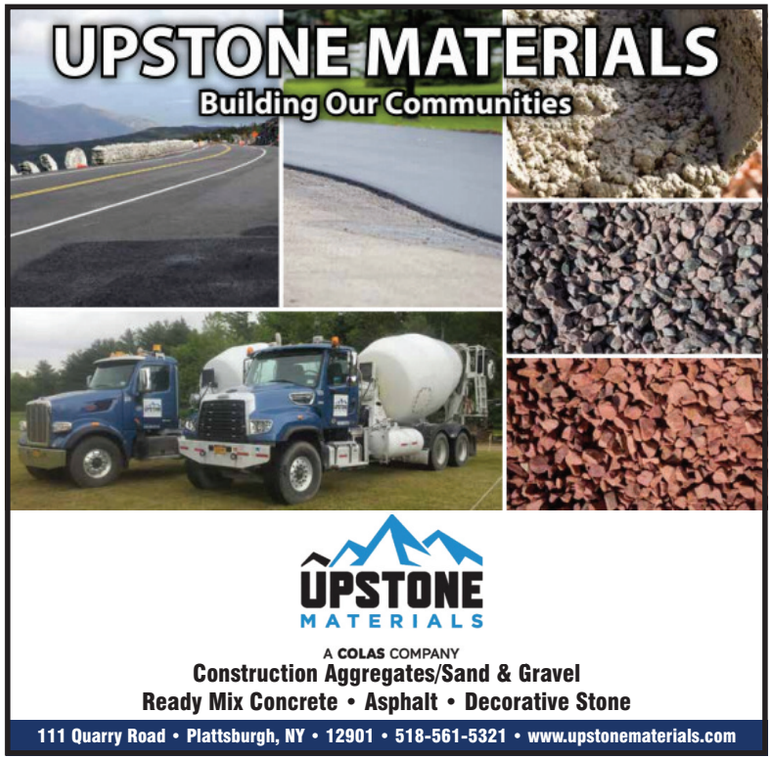

He starred in the bizarre road trip movie "Nefarious," released earlier this year, and had a supporting role in the romantic thriller "The White Widow."

Later this year, he'll appear in "Nightwatch: Demons Are Forever," starring his fellow Dane Nikolaj Coster-Waldau (of "Game of Thrones" fame).

But he has something bigger on the horizon: a role in the historical biopic "Young Woman and the Sea," starring Daisy Ridley ("Star Wars: Episode VII - The Force Awakens," 2015), and produced by Jerry Bruckheimer ("CSI: Crime Scene Investigation"). The film is currently in post-production, with no release date set yet.

A certain type of fan will always be hoping for Bodnia to return to his other well-known TV role, on the Netflix fantasy series "The Witcher." But the odds aren't great there, considering he sat out the whole third season of the show (but of course it's a fantasy show, so anything's possible).
