The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

With [Kamala] Harris's momentum dominating the news, [Donald] Trump is desperate to get attention, which he did last week by flagrantly violating the law at Arlington National Cemetery. ... Last Monday [Aug. 26], Trump visited Arlington, ostensibly to pay his respects. But he went to an area called Section 60, where recently honored war dead are buried and where specifically federal law prohibits political campaign- or election-related activities, including photography. Despite it being illegal, Trump brought his campaign photographer and Trump surrogates shared those illegal photographs on social media. Now, in Trump's defense, he was respectful in the Arlington Cemetery pictures, offering his most solemn big old thumbs up.

Donald Trump ... has not yet issued an apology to any of the artists whose music he's been playing at his rallies without permission. A number of musicians, including Rihanna and The Rolling Stones, sent Trump a cease and desist. ... A judge yesterday [Sept. 3] ordered him to stop playing the song "Hold On I'm Coming" at his rallies. He can still play it [privately] with his porn stars, but [at] the rallies, no!

Weirdly, the big winner of this election campaign so far is Joe Biden. Joe Biden's approval ratings are skyrocketing. According to a poll from USA Today, the president's approval rating is up seven points to 48%. The last time Joe had an approval rating this high was when he signed the Declaration of Independence.

Back with big changes: A new direction is 'Found' for NBC series

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

To say that "Found" is changing its game in its second season is to risk understatement, and even that is putting it mildly.

The drama series returns Thursday, Oct, 3, to NBC, with an enormous shift in its premise. Sir (played by Mark-Paul Gosselaar, "NYPD Blue"), the kidnapping victim of recovery specialist Gabi Mosely (Shanola Hampton, "Shameless) — who was abducted and held captive by him years earlier — has escaped from the basement prison she held him in, prompting her to reveal her formerly secret actions to her crisis-management team. They're still processing the information as the new episodes begin, with Sir still missing, though circumstances suggest he's not done invading Gabi's life. Her colleague Lacey (Gabrielle Walsh, "9-1-1"), also a former victim of Sir, is a particular target as well.

Also starring Kelli Williams ("The Practice"), Brett Dalton ("Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D."), Arlen Escarpeta ("The Oath") and Karan Oberoi ("Roswell," New Mexico"), "Found" is adding Michael Cassidy ("Resident Alien"), Danielle Savre ("Station 19") and Dionne Gipson ("NCIS") to its cast for Season 2. The prolific Greg Berlanti (mentor of The CW's former "Arrowverse" collection of DC Comics-inspired adventure series) is among the executive producers of "Found," as is its creator, Nkechi Okoro Carroll ("All American").

"It is what I like to call a 'character-cedural,'" Carroll says of the show, "so we're still going to have a case of the week. We're still going to have that engine of reaching a point of completion with our cases every week, but it's got a significant serialized portion. Sir's out on the loose wreaking havoc. Mark-Paul [Gosselaar] is having way too much fun doing that, so that will definitely maintain as part of the show, but we will still have that satisfying puzzle that we want the audience to join us in solving every week."

Kelli Williams in "Found"

A veteran of many series, from "Saved by the Bell" to "NYPD Blue," Gosselaar reasons that especially with the second-year changes, "Found" is "this dance that you have to trust [Carroll] and her team to provide us the floor to be creative on but also to feel that it's not forced. With every script that we got, I remember I kept calling [her and] saying, 'How can we continue this trajectory?' I'm very, very, very pleased and very excited for our fans and our audience to watch the second season because, for everything that we built up in the first season, there is going to be a payoff if you've put the time into our show."

"Found" star Hampton earned a Gracie Award for Season 1, and she notes, "We don't wrap things up with a little bow in one or two episodes. The healing process, as in life, takes time … so Gabi Mosely is in this dark place, having to deal with the dynamics shifting with the entire team. That's the beautiful journey of this season, which I'm really excited for the audience to see and to experience going through the process with these characters.

"It's been a different journey for me as an actor to play because Gabi is always in control and people are looking up to her. In this season, for the majority of the first chapter, everyone's really [mad] at her and disappointed and sad. It weighs on you."

Co-star Williams will also be a director for "Found" during Season 2, an extra duty she also performed as a regular cast member in the law drama "The Practice." "I was primarily directing just full time and not acting," she says of her career activity in recent years, "so I'm back to that challenge of sort of splitting my brain.

"It'll be interesting to see how my castmates respond to me [while directing] because it's a strange feeling to be in a scene but also not watching in that sort of more-like-giving-notes way. It's going to be fun because our group gets along so well, and I think everyone is excited and supportive. And, of course, I'm going to mess with them a little bit."

As for specific subjects "Found" will address in its new stories, Carroll (an alumna of The CW's "All American" as well as "All American: Homecoming") reveals, "We deal with the mortality rate of Black mothers. We deal with neurodiverse kids, something that's very personal to me. We deal with how grief, especially in the Black community, can be misconstrued. And all of it is pulled from personal experience, whether it's from our writers or our crew. We put it all in the jambalaya, and out come these episodes.

"Quite frankly, every time I think, 'OK, this is the craziest version of this story we could do, but it'll help us bring light to it, so it's great,'" Carroll adds. "Literally the moment after we shoot it, some news reports come out and I'm like, 'We didn't do the craziest version. I was wrong.' And it's shocking. So we continue to be inspired by all of our experiences and everything that happens in the world, and then we put our 'Found' spin on it."

Catch Season 2 of "Found" when it premieres Thursday, Oct. 3, on NBC.

Daryl and Carol in Europe: A new Walking Dead franchise season premieres on AMC

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Norman Reedus in "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon – The Book of Carol"

The past four and a half years have familiarized humans from all walks of life with the concept (and reality) of a viral outbreak. And while The Walking Dead franchise began airing on television a full decade before the COVID-19 pandemic gripped the world, the show's themes have only become more frighteningly relatable as time goes on.

Since the pilot of "The Walking Dead" premiered on Halloween in 2010, it has spawned a whopping six spinoff series, as well as a seventh, titled "More Tales From the Walking Dead Universe," which is currently in development. Releasing next, however, is the newest installment of "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon," subtitled "The Book of Carol." Focusing on toughened survivalist Carol Peletier (Melissa McBride, "The Mist," 2007), the six-episode second season premieres Sunday, Sept. 29, on AMC and AMC+.

Kicking off the newest France-set season with an episode titled "La gentillesse des étrangers," (or, "The Kindness of Strangers," in English), "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon — The Book of Carol" takes the focus off its Season 1 hero, Daryl Dixon (Norman Reedus, "The Boondock Saints," 1999), and instead placing it on Carol Peletier, Daryl's hardened best friend and confidant who appeared in all 11 seasons of the flagship series.

Carol's story has been promised to viewers for quite some time but has — until now — taken a back seat to those of Negan (Jeffrey Dean Morgan, "Supernatural"), Maggie (Lauren Cohan, "The Boy," 2016) and Daryl. For a while, it seemed as though Carol may never get the chance to have her story told, as McBride previously backed out of the "Daryl Dixon" spinoff (formerly titled "The Walking Dead: Daryl & Carol") due to a conflict regarding a change in shooting location (from the U.S. to France). Too excited about the opportunity to let it pass her by, however, the actress made her first appearance in the Season 1 finale, and fans are eager to see more: Season 1 reportedly (per the Hollywood Reporter) "ranks as a top 15 cable drama" for 2023.

As the actress was eventually able to make the change work, she, too, grew more excited than ever to share Carol's backstory.

"I've known there was much more to be told of Carol's story as I felt her so unsettled when we last saw her, as she watched her best friend, Daryl, ride away," McBride said to the Hollywood Reporter in October 2023.

"Apart or (hopefully!) together, their stories run deep," McBride added, "and I'm so excited to continue Carol's journey here. This team of storytellers have done amazing work to land these two established characters in an entirely new world to them, and I'm loving the discoveries!"

Joining McBride in "Daryl Dixon: The Book of Carol" is, of course, Reedus, who returns as the series' titular character. Additionally, the on-screen besties are joined by Clémence Poésy ("In Bruges," 2008), Louis Puech Scigliuzzi ("Show Me More"), Laika Blanc-Francard ("Reign Supreme"), Anne Charrier ("Chefs"), Romain Levi ("Franklin") and Eriq Ebouaney ("Kingdom of Heaven," 2005), all of whom also appeared in Season 1.

Among the new cast members are, according to IMDb, Manish Dayal ("The Resident"), Oscar Jaenada ("The Shallows," 2016), Hugo Arbues ("Through My Window," 2022), Alexandra Masangkay ("Valeria"), Candela Saitta ("Ultimo Primer Dia") and Eduardo Noriega ("Vantage Point," 2008).

Given the vast majority of Spanish-speaking and Spanish-born actors, there is cause to suspect that Carol and Daryl's journey may well take them beyond the French border and into Spain. As for AMC's official logline for Season 2 of "Daryl Dixon," quite a bit of focus has been placed on battling past trauma and decisions involving geographical location.

"The new season picks up where 'The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon' left off, following fan-favorite characters Daryl Dixon and Carol Peletier," the AMC news release reads. "They both confront old demons while she fights to find her friend and he struggles with his decision to stay in France, causing tension at the Nest. Additionally, Genet (Charrier)'s movement builds momentum, setting Pouvoir on a violent collision course with the Union of Hope in the fight for France's future."

Based on the extensive graphic novel series by writer Robert Kirkman ("Invincible") and illustrators Tony Moore and Charlie Adlard, both seasons of "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon" are created by showrunner and "ER" producer David Zabel. Daniel Percival ("The Man in the High Castle"), who directed four of the six episodes in Season 1, returns to direct the entirety of "The Book of Carol."

Don't miss the finer details of Carol Peletier's story when "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon — The Book of Carol" premieres Sunday, Sept. 29, on AMC and AMC+.

'RHONY' Season 15 proves change can happen in a New York minute

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Jenna Lyons in "The Real Housewives of New York City"

New York's notables: In the city that never sleeps, the drama never stops. Stunning with gorgeous outfits, glossy hair and gossip galore, Season 15 of "The Real Housewives of New York City" premieres Tuesday, Oct. 1, on Bravo, with episodes available to stream the next day on Peacock.

It's been a season of big changes for the ladies of "RHONY." From business ventures to family matters, this group of affluent, tight-knit friends have faced a challenging year. Balancing work, relationships, friendships and motherhood — all while still looking fabulous — has led to ups and downs for everyone, bringing the group closer together than ever before … until now, at least. According to Bravo, it seems drama may be brewing as the friend group expands and the rumor mill churns.

"Back for another bite out of the Big Apple, this flourishing group of friends — Sai De Silva, Ubah Hassan, Erin Lichy, Jenna Lyons, Jessel Taank and Brynn Whitfield — are joined by elite new faces Racquel Chevremont and Rebecca Minkoff," Bravo's description reads. "But things can change in a New York minute when rumors start spreading among the ladies and only time will tell if longstanding loyalties are strong enough to weather the storm as secrets shake things up.

"Born in Brooklyn and raised in the Bronx, Racquel Chevremont is an esteemed art curator with more than 20 years of experience," the network states, introducing the series' newest player. "She's also a seasoned model, gracing ad campaigns for Benetton, Bobbi Brown Cosmetics, Fila, L'Oréal, Nivea and International Elle magazine covers. As a proud Black queer woman, Racquel is dedicated to amplifying the voices of queer folks of diaspora, namely co-founding The Josie Club, a Black Queer Femme and Woman supported and operated social impact group. Living out a fairytale with her two kids and partner, Racquel won't let past rumors from the New York art scene get in the way of her happily ever after."

With a new personality in the mix, Sai, Ubah, Erin, Jenna, Jessel and Brynn must find a way to keep the peace, as raising kids, running global brands and ongoing medical concerns leave everyone heading down their own separate paths.

Change comes quickly when Season 15 of "The Real Housewives of New York City" comes to Bravo this Tuesday, Oct. 1, with episodes available to stream the next day on Peacock.

Right in the ring: On the air since 2012 and showcasing the brightest young talent in the sports entertainment world — including the likes of wrestlers Roman Reigns, Seth "Freakin" Rollins and Charlotte Flair — "WWE NXT" now goes to a brand-new network, making its live debut on The CW this Tuesday, Oct. 1.

This premiere follows a five-year agreement made in November 2023 between The CW Network and WWE Inc., which names the network as the exclusive home of "WWE NXT." Per the agreement, The CW will air weekly events throughout the wrestling season (52 a year, without a Tuesday skipped), bringing "NXT," which first launched its weekly format over a decade ago, "to broadcast television for the first time ever" (per The CW).

Led by WWE Hall of Famer Shawn Michaels, the series celebrates this monumental occasion with a special, two-stop tour. First, for "NXT's" CW premiere episode on Oct. 1, the series travels to the Allstate Arena in Chicago for a live event featuring a special appearance by WWE Superstar CM Punk and hometown boy. Returning to WWE last year after a long hiatus, Punk is currently recognized as having a 434-day WWE championship reign, making history as the seventh-longest record in WWE history. Having shown his love for the brand on multiple occasions, Punk is the perfect spokesperson to launch "WWE NXT" into a new era on The CW.

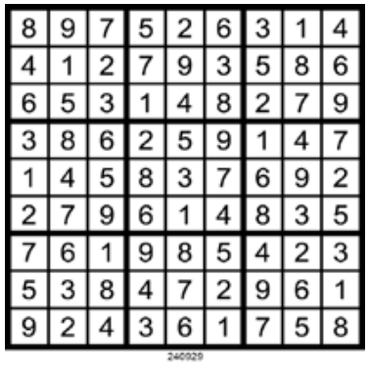

Next, "NXT" heads to St. Louis on Tuesday, Oct. 8. There, fellow WWE Superstar Randy Orton makes an appearance at the Enterprise Center, riling up audiences as he reflects on his 20-year career as a third-generation professional wrestler (as the son of Bob Orton Jr. and the grandson of Bob Orton).

"We are thrilled to welcome the WWE brand into the CW Sports portfolio as they play an integral role in our mission to bring live sporting events to the network year-round," said Dennis Miller, president of The CW Network, to World Wrestling Entertainment Inc. "'WWE NXT' is a perfect fit for The CW, thanks to its dynamic young talent featuring the hottest rising stars in the sport and exhilarating, unpredictable weekly events. The passion and engagement of WWE's fanbase is unmatched, and we are eager to grow that audience as 'WWE NXT's' new home on broadcast television."

Starting with an exhilarating pair of episodes — and with plenty more to come — "WWE NXT" makes its debut on The CW this Tuesday, Oct. 1.

"Heartstopper" - Season 3

The hit British coming-of-age series "Heartstopper" returns Thursday, Oct. 3, to Netflix for a third season. Based on the graphic novel of the same name by Alice Oseman, the series began as Nick (Kit Connor, "Rocketman," 2019) and Charlie (Joe Locke, "Agatha All Along") met at an all-boys grammar school and developed an unlikely friendship. When their friendship soon developed into a romantic relationship, Nick, Charlie and their friends learned to navigate these uncharted waters. Now, Season 3 finds Nick and Charlie facing some of their biggest emotional challenges yet as their relationship deepens and they head back to school after a whirlwind summer. Welcoming Hayley Atwell ("Agent Carter"), Eddie Marsan ("Franklin") and Jonathan Bailey ("Bridgerton") to the cast, "Heartstopper" Season 3 also features returning cast members Corinna Brown ("My Murder," 2012), William Gao ("Crescendo," 2021), Yasmin Finney ("Mars," 2022), Rhea Norwood ("Consent," 2023), Leila Khan ("Death in Paradise"), Sebastian Croft ("Penny Dreadful"), Olivia Colman ("Great Expectations") Cormac Hyde-Corrin ("Napoleon," 2023) and new talents Tobie Donovan and Kizzy Edgell.

"Chef's Table: Noodles"

Returning for its sixth installment Wednesday, Oct. 2, "Chef's Table" takes another focused look at cuisine around the world — and this time it's looking to the wide and wonderful world of noodles. Traveling from America to London, Italy and beyond, this season of the docuseries "take[s] viewers on a delectable journey across the globe, exploring the rich and diverse world of noodles through the eyes of four masterful chefs … [celebrating] the cultural significance and culinary artistry of noodles, offering a deep dive into both traditional and innovative techniques" (per Netflix). The featured chefs in "Chef's Table: Noodles" are: Evan Funk, a two-time James Beard-nominated chef of Italian cuisine (Los Angeles); Guirong Wei, a pioneer of Shaanxi cuisine in the United Kingdom (London/China); Peppe Guida, a Michelin-starred chef who brings a modern twist to Italian coastal classics (Italy); and Nita Yun, a rising star in the culinary world and James Beard semifinalist who is introducing people to the noodle dishes of Cambodia (Oakland, California).

"It's What's Inside" (2024)

Party like there's no tomorrow with the new horror film "It's What's Inside," premiering Friday, Oct. 4, on Netflix. When a group of friends gathers for a pre-wedding party, they're expecting to have the time of their lives. But, when one of their estranged friends shows up, the festivities turn into an existential nightmare of secrets, grudges and more. "The bash's attendees include anxious Shelby [Brittany O'Grady, 'The White Lotus'], her insensitive boyfriend, Cyrus [James Morosini, 'The Sex Lives of College Girls'], globally envied influencer Nikki [Alycia Debnam-Carey, 'Fear the Walking Dead'], charming groom Reuben [Devon Terrell, 'Barry,' 2016], trust fund kid Dennis [Gavin Leatherwood, 'Chilling Adventures of Sabrina'], artist Brooke [Reina Hardesty, 'The Secret Art of Human Flight,' 2023] and spiritual Maya [Nina Bloomgarden, 'The Resort']. Then there's the enigmatic Forbes [David W. Thompson, 'Gotham']" (per Netflix). The film is directed and written by Greg Jardin ("Floating," 2014).

"The Bad Guys: Haunted Heist"

It's good to be bad: the new Halloween special, "The Bad Guys: Haunted Heist," premieres Thursday, Oct. 3, on Netflix. Set in the world of the 2022 computer-animated family film, "The Bad Guys," "Haunted Heist" follows a group of mischievous thieves — appropriately known as "The Bad Guys" — as they look toward their next big heist. Ready to shake down a mansion once owned by the loot-obsessed, legendary crook Reginald E. Scary, the group is on the hunt for one treasure in particular: the Crescent Amulet. But the group — made up of notorious criminals Mr. Wolf (Michael Godere, "The Affair"), Mr. Snake (Chris Diamantopoulos, "Silicon Valley"), Mr. Piranha ("The Boss Baby: Back in the Crib"), Mr. Shark ("Do Not Watch," 2023) and Ms. Tarantula (Mallory Low, "DC Super Hero Girls") — will have to watch out: legend has it that Scary will haunt anyone who steals his treasures. Directed by Kevin Peaty ("The Epic Tales of Captain Underpants"), the 25-minute special is executive produced by Bret Haaland ("The Penguins of Madagascar") and Katherine Nolfi ("She-Ra and the Princesses of Power").

"House of Spoils" (2024)

From Blumhouse Television, the stomach-turning new horror film "House of Spoils" makes its debut Thursday, Oct. 3, on Prime Video. Setting up in a remote, picturesque estate, an ambitious chef (Ariana DeBose) is working hard to open her first restaurant, featuring farm-to-table fine dining. As she grapples with sorting out a perfect menu, dealing with suppliers, handling her staff and placating her investors, the young chef soon finds herself contending with the spirit of the estate's former owner — along with her seemingly innocent garden. Directed and written by Bridget Savage Cole and Danielle Krudy (both of "Blow the Man Down," 2019), "House of Spoils" also stars Barbie Ferreira ("Euphoria"), Arian Moayed ("Succession"), Amara Karan ("Lucky Man"), Mikkel Bratt Silset ("Norsemen"), Marton Csokas ("The Equalizer," 2014) and Gabriel Drake ("Dead Boy Detectives"). The film is produced by Jason Blum ("Get Out," 2017), Greg Gilreath ("Vengeance," 2022), Adam Hendricks ("The Voyeurs," 2021), Drew Houpt ("Birdman or (The Unexpected Virtue of Ignorance)," 2014), Lucas Joaquin ("Beasts of the Southern Wild," 2012) and Alex Scharfman ("Blow the Man Down," 2019).

"The Legend of Vox Machina" - Season 3

Roll into a new season of fun when the animated adventure series "The Legend of Vox Machina" returns to Prime Video with its third season, Thursday, Oct. 3. Adapted from the popular Dungeons & Dragons web series "Critical Role," this adult animated fantasy series follows a group of ragtag misfits-turned-mercenaries-for-hire. While the group, Vox Machina, is more interested in money and ale than they are protecting anyone else, an evil threat to the Kingdom of Exandria makes them realize they are the realm's only hope. What began as a group of outsiders hopping from one job to the next turns into the origin story of Exandria's new heroes. "Everything is at stake" in this new season, says Prime Video, as "the Chroma Conclave's path of destruction spreads like wildfire while the Cinder King [Lance Reddick, 'John Wick,' 2014] hunts down Vox Machina. Our lovable band of misfits must rise above inner (and outer) demons to try and save their loved ones, Tal'Dorei, and all of Exandria." The main cast of "Critical Role" returns to voice their characters in the new series, including dungeon master Matthew Mercer ("JoJo's Bizarre Adventure") as Sylas Briarwood and additional voices; Laura Bailey ("Spider-Man") as Vex'ahlia; Taliesin Jaffe ("Mr. Mom," 1983) as Percival de Rolo; Ashley Johnson ("Blindspot") as Pike Trickfoot; Liam O'Brien ("Star Wars: The Bad Batch") as Vax'ildan; Marisha Ray ("8.13") as Keyleth of the Air Ashari; Sam Riegel ("Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles") as Scanlan Shorthalt; and Travis Willingham ("Avengers Assemble") as Grog Strongjaw.

"El Diario" (2024)

Uncover a chilling new mystery with the Mexican thriller film "El Diario" when it premieres on Prime Video Friday, Oct. 4. Recently divorced and looking for a fresh start, Olga (Irene Azuela, "El hotel de los secretos") moves to a new city with her daughter Vera (Isabella Arroyo, "The Taste of Christmas," 2023). As the mother and daughter settle into their new house and new life, Olga is shocked and disturbed to find the diary of a killer in the attic. To make matters worse, the diary isn't old, or finished — it's being constantly rewritten. Afraid for her own life and for the lives of everyone around her, Olga turns to the help of Vera's therapist, Carlos (Mauricio Ochmann, "Marina"), for help. As she grapples with her already tumultuous personal life, Olga becomes determined to uncover the identity of the diary's owner. Also starring Leonardo Ortizgris ("Laif") and Yoshira Escárrega ("Dani Who?"), "El Diario" is directed by Emma Bertran ("An Unknown Enemy") and Alba Gil ("Triptych"), with a screenplay by Bertran and Pamela Pons ("Piratas en Baleares").

New season of 'Hell's Kitchen' proves Ramsay's chefs can take the heat

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Season 23 of "Hell's Kitchen" continues with a fire-hot new episode airing Thursday, Oct. 3, on Fox.

Having first premiered on Fox in May 2005, introducing fans to the foul-mouthed, opinionated and highly talented Gordon Ramsay ("Kitchen Nightmares"). Now approaching its 20th year on air — with more than 350 episodes in its run — "Hell's Kitchen" continues to fascinate and entertain its viewers, with its 22nd season (which premiered last September) delivering the series' most streamed season debut ever, according to Fox, propelling Gordon's brainchild to rank as fall 2023's No. 1 cooking show among adults 18-49.

Now, with its most recent season, the legacy of "Hell's Kitchen" lives on, following along as, per Fox's description, "aspiring chefs from across the restaurant industry are put through an intense culinary academy to prove to chef Ramsay they have the talent and tenacity to come out on top each week.

"Only those who can take the searing heat of 'Hell's Kitchen' will continue to compete each week until one prevails as the winner," the description finishes. At stake is a life-changing grand prize, including a chef position held at one of Ramsay's many renowned restaurants across the country, and the career-making title of "Hell's Kitchen" champion.

Chef Gordon Ramsay in "Hell's Kitchen"

This latest round of the competition was produced at the Foxwoods Resort Casino in Mashantucket, Connecticut — where one of Ramsay's Hell's Kitchen restaurants is located — acting as the perfect background for a take-your-chances battleground. Confirmed to arrive in 2025, the series' 25th season will also be filmed in this location.

"As my very first show on Fox, 'Hell's Kitchen' holds a very special place in my heart and it's incredibly gratifying to have it renewed for its 23rd and 24th seasons," said Ramsay. "This show just keeps getting better and better, and with Fox, ITV and A. Smith & Co. as my partners, you can expect even bigger challenges, stronger talent and more intense competition in Hell's Kitchen in the years to come."

With Ramsay, Arthur Smith ("American Ninja Warrior"), Kent Weed ("Acting Out"), Kenny Rosen ("Gordon Ramsay's 24 Hours to Hell and Back") and Bernie Schaeffer ("Edge of Alaska") serving as executive producers, Season 23 of "Hell's Kitchen" continues Thursday, Oct. 3, on Fox.

"Hold Your Breath" (2024)

Settle in for a chilling new psychological horror film with Searchlight Picture's "Hold Your Breath," premiering Thursday, Oct. 3, on Hulu. The film is set in Oklahoma in the 1930s, while the region was plagued by horrific dust storms. As mother Margaret Bellum (Sarah Paulson, "American Horror Story") attempts to protect her daughters from the deadly windstorms, she is also forced to grapple with the impact that her own harrowing past has on her present. All the while, the chilling story of a legendary spirit known as the Grey Man hangs over the family in a cloud as oppressive as the storms outside. Written by Karrie Crouse ("Westworld"), the film is directed by Crouse and William Joines ("Com Truise: Propagation," 2017). Amiah Miller ("My Best Friend's Exorcism," 2022), Annaleigh Ashford ("Masters of Sex"), Alona Jane Robbins ("New Amsterdam") and Ebon Moss-Bachrach ("The Bear") also star. The film is produced by Lucas Joaquin ("Resurrection," 2022), Alix Madigan ("Winter's Bone," 2010) and co-producer Marina Stabile ("The People We Hate at the Wedding," 2022).

"Paws of Fury: The Legend of Hank" (2022)

Find out what the future has in store with the animated family adventure comedy "Paws of Fury: The Legend of Hank," available to stream on Hulu Sunday, Sept. 29. Inspired by the hit 1974 Western film "Blazing Saddles," "Paws of Fury" follows a down-on-his-luck but lovable hound named Hank (voiced by Michael Cera, "Arrested Development") who finds himself in a town full of cats. While there, Hank discovers that what the cats really need is a hero to defend them from a ruthless villain named Ika Chu's (Ricky Gervais, "The Office") evil plot to wipe their village off the map. With the help of Jimbo (Samuel L. Jackson, "Spider-Man: Far From Home," 2019), his reluctant teacher, Hank takes on the role of town samurai and teams up with the villagers to save the day. But, there remains one problem: cats hate dogs. Directed by Chris Bailey ("Kim Possible"), Mark Koetsier ("Big Hero Six," 2014) and Rob Minkoff ("The Lion King," 1994), the film features a screenplay by Ed Stone ("Happy, Texas," 1999), Nate Hopper ("Open Season," 2006), and Mel Brooks, Norman Steinberg, Richard Pryor and Alan Uger (all of "Blazing Saddles," 1974), from a story by Andrew Bergman ("Blazing Saddles," 1974). The film's all-star voice cast is rounded out by "Blazing Saddles" star Brooks, Kylie Kuioka ("Better Nate Than Ever," 2022), George Takei ("Star Trek"), Gabriel Iglesias ("Ferdinand," 2017), Aasif Mandvi ("Evil"), Djimon Hounsou ("The King's Man," 2021), Michelle Yeoh ("Everything Everywhere All at Once," 2022) and Cathy Shim ("Reno 911!").

"Babes" (2024)

Witness the strain a female friendship can face in comedy "Babes" when it makes its streaming debut Friday, Sept. 30, on Hulu. The film centers around lifelong best friends Dawn (Michelle Buteau, "Survival of the Thickest") and Eden (Ilana Glazer, "Broad City"). When out for their annual Thanksgiving outing, Dawn goes into labor with her second child. After joining Dawn and her husband, Marty (Hasan Minhaj, "Patriot Act with Hasan Minhaj"), for the birth, Eden meets and forms a quick connection with the dashing Claude (Stephan James, "Race," 2016), which leads to a one-night stand between the two. A month later, Eden learns that she's pregnant with Claude's child. When trying to contact her baby daddy, Eden learns that Claude passed away the day after their one-night stand. As such, Eden decides to keep the pregnancy. To help her navigate this unknown territory, Eden leans heavily on Dawn for help, which pushes their friendship to its limits. Directed by Pamela Adlon ("Better Things") and written by Glazer and Josh Rabinowitz ("The Carmichael Show"), "Babes" also stars John Carroll Lynch ("The Founder," 2016), Oliver Platt ("Frost/Nixon," 2008), Elena Ouspenskaia ("The Best Man: The Final Chapters"), Keith Lucas ("22 Jump Street," 2014), Kenneth Lucas ("Lucas Bros Moving Co"), Julia Scotti ("Bros," 2022), Crystal Finn ("The Tick"), Rosa Gilmore ("The Expanse"), Whoopi Goldberg ("Sister Act," 1992), Nic Inglese ("Awkwafina Is Nora from Queens"), Shola Adewusi ("Bob Hearts Abishola"), Susanna Guzman ("The Outsider"), Holly Chou ("X-Men '97"), Sandra Bernhard ("Hercules"), Simone Recasner ("The Big Leap") and newcomer Caleb Mermelstein-Knox.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I'm trying to remember the name of a show that was about three individuals named Joe — one was a nurse, another a rock star and the other a police officer. What is the name of the show and where can I find it.

A: The show you're looking for was called "Ordinary Joe," and to clarify, they were all the same guy.

The premise was pretty innovative. It centered on a young man named Joe Kimbreau, beginning at the moment of his college graduation, as he made a pivotal decision on his future path. The show then followed three parallel timelines, one in which Joe became a nurse, one a police officer and one a rock star.

Unfortunately, TV doesn't always reward that kind of innovation — "Ordinary Joe" only got a single, 13-episode season on NBC from 2021 to 2022. And as is often the case, that means it's kind of hard to find now.

Folks in the U.S. can buy it as a streaming show on Apple TV and through Amazon. If you're really desperate, a few clips are still available on YouTube and NBC.com. It almost goes without saying at this point that it didn't get a DVD release.

The show didn't even lead to bigger things for its star. James Wolk, best known previously for a season-long arc on "Mad Men," hasn't gotten any bigger TV offers after "Joe" ended.

Q: Is Sam Elliott still working? Why haven't I seen him in a while?

A: If the tall, wiry, cowboy archetype Sam Elliott ("The Ranch") had an ordinary, pensioned career, he would have retired more than a decade ago. But nothing about Elliott's career has been ordinary — even for Hollywood.

He recently turned 80, and he's been working pretty steadily since the late '60s and his first credited film role, in the classic Western "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" (1969).

You're right that his pace has slowed a little in recent years, but that just means he can be a little choosier in the roles he takes. It also means stretching his wings a little from time to time. For example, his next role won't be a western at all, but a big-budget fantasy story.

He'll be voicing the dragon in "Grendel," the (mostly) live-action retelling of the ancient "Beowulf" legend.

It just recently went into production, though, so don't expect to see it in theaters any time soon.

You're right that, besides that, he's been keeping a pretty low profile lately. His last role was a lead in the 2021 miniseries "1883," a prequel to the smash hit "Yellowstone."

That might not seem that long ago, but for Elliott it's an age — he's kept up an incredibly busy schedule since his career took off in the late 1980s (another reason he's atypical in Hollywood — he didn't even really get famous until he was well into his 40s).
