Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

According to polls, Iowa evangelicals love [Donald] Trump. According to one voter of faith, "Trump is our David and our Goliath." Yes, he's David and Goliath, which is why he talks like he just hit himself in the head with a rock.

Last Friday [Jan. 5], an Alaska Airlines plane had to make an emergency landing after a door panel popped off at 16,000 feet. ... Good news is that the bolts that should have held the door in place may not have come loose as was previously feared. The bad news is it was possible the bolts were never even installed. Now I know that sounds like a major screw-up, but they were just following the instructions: put door on plane, wonder why you have leftover bolts, enjoy unlimited legroom.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

On Friday night [Jan. 5], an Alaska Airlines flight from Oregon to California had to make an emergency landing after the door blew out while the plane was 16,000 feet in the air. ... The door blew off. Wow. You know you're on a bad plane when it knocks Jeffrey Epstein's plane out of the news.

Earlier today [Jan. 9] in D.C., former president [Donald] Trump attended a court hearing over whether he has presidential immunity. ... During the hearing, one of the judges called Trump's legal argument "paradoxical." Then, both Trump and his lawyer looked at each other, hoping the other knew what that word meant.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

Trump is getting more extreme and more erratic every day. Over the break, ... he mocked the late Senator John McCain's physical disability, the one he suffered when he was a prisoner of war, he told families who were grieving about a school shooting in Iowa to get over it the day after it happened and, less importantly but more amusingly, former Republican congressman Adam Kinzinger says Donald Trump smells. ... Now we know why Milani is always making that face.

We're currently in the middle of what they're calling a triple-demic, which sounds like the new burger at Jack in the Box. The health officials say we need to act now to get vaccinated before it becomes a triple-demic with cheese. ... The triple-demic is the flu, Covid and RSV all teaming up like the Three Amigos of phlegm. Doctors are urging Americans to ask your medical professional or whichever NFL quarterback you trust for preventative advice.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

Former UN ambassador Nikki Haley is facing criticism after she recently failed to cite slavery as the leading cause of the Civil War. And not only that, she's facing a D in social studies.

Going out with 'Enthusiasm': Larry David, HBO say goodbye to 'Curb' after 12 seasons

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Twelve is a recurring number in our daily lives. There are 12 months in the year, 12 eggs in a standard carton, 12 items to a dozen, 12 inches in a foot, and for those who just celebrated the holiday, 12 days of Christmas — that one even comes with its own song.

For comedian Larry David ("Seinfeld") and HBO, the number 12 now has an additional meaning: the number of seasons in a popular comedy series. "Curb Your Enthusiasm" returns for its 12th and final season Sunday, Feb. 4, on HBO and Max.

After a total of 24 years on television, the two-time Emmy-winning comedy is headed for the door. The semi-improvisational series, which began in 2000 and took a six-year hiatus between Season 8 (released July 2011) and Season 9 (released October 2017), ends its run with a final 10-episode season. With new episodes dropping on HBO and the Max streaming service each Sunday night until the April 7 finale, the show's creator and star, David, is looking forward to ending the show on his own terms.

"As 'Curb' comes to an end, I will now have the opportunity to finally shed this Larry David persona and become the person God intended me to be — the thoughtful, kind, caring, considerate human being I was until I got derailed by portraying this malignant character," David quipped in an HBO news release this past December.

He continued: "And so 'Larry David,' I bid you farewell. Your misanthropy will not be missed. And for those of you who would like to get in touch with me, you can reach me at Doctors Without Borders."

David, who gained popularity for his particular brand of sardonic humor, is perhaps best known for his work on the cult classic '90s sitcom "Seinfeld." A co-creator of the show alongside Jerry Seinfeld himself, David has embraced the quick-witted, ironic wordplay and anti-authoritarian themes that have become synonymous with Jewish humor in Hollywood. While he and Seinfeld are certainly not the only Jewish comedians to make it big in television, "Curb" and "Seinfeld's" combined 293 episodes certainly carry a lot of weight in the business.

In fact, the "Seinfeld" finale some 26 years ago was so masterful that fans of both shows are wondering if perhaps David will opt to end "Curb" on a similar note.

In a ScreenRant.com article, reporter Robert Pitman writes that "'Curb Your Enthusiasm's' connections to 'Seinfeld' have been an integral part of the HBO series, with the DNA of the iconic sitcom being seen in various ways throughout 'Curb Your Enthusiasm.' Because of this, 'Curb Your Enthusiasm' can pull off the perfect joke by lifting the ending of 'Seinfeld' for its own series finale."

Now, for those who may not be familiar with "Seinfeld's" ending (26-year-old spoiler coming), the series' nine seasons culminate with all four main characters — Jerry (Seinfeld), Elaine (Julia Louis-Dreyfus, "Veep"), George (Jason Alexander, "Pretty Woman," 1990) and Kramer (Michael Richards, "Airheads," 1994)

— sitting in a jail cell together for neglecting to stop a robbery. While on trial, they are confronted by the enemies they made over the years, who have come to testify against their characters.

In "Curb Your Enthusiasm," David certainly made a fair number of his own enemies, so this could be a fun callback. That said, no details have actually surfaced regarding the way the writers plan to end the series.

According to HBO, however, the final season of "Curb" "continues to prove how seemingly trivial details of one's day-to-day life can precipitate a catastrophic chain of events."

Additionally, viewers can expect to see the return of many ongoing jokes, bits and recurring characters, including Jeff Garlin ("The Goldbergs") and Susie Essman ("Cop Out," 2010) as Jeff and Susie Greene; Cheryl Hines ("Suburgatory") as Larry's wife, Cheryl David; J.B. Smoove ("Spider-Man: No Way Home," 2021) as Leon Black; Vince Vaughn ("Wedding Crashers," 2005) as Freddie Funkhouser; Tracey Ullman ("The Tracy Ullman Show") as Irma Kostoski; and Richard Lewis ("Robin Hood: Men in Tights," 1993) and Ted Danson ("The Good Place") as fictionalized versions of themselves.

At the end of the day (or series, as the case would have it), David may not be curbing his own enthusiasm about leaving the other, fictional "Larry David" behind, but HBO and Max content chairman and CEO Casey Bloys notes that not everyone is eager to wrap the production.

"It's hard to say farewell to such a groundbreaking, brilliantly funny and iconic series like 'Curb Your Enthusiasm,' which has left its mark across television and the comedy genre," Bloys said in a statement. "Working alongside Larry David and Jeff Schaffer as well as all of the comedic masterminds that comprise our producers, cast and crew has been a joy that I will always treasure."

Don't miss the first episode of the final season of "Curb Your Enthusiasm," premiering Sunday, Feb. 4, on HBO and Max.

Comedy comebacks: 'Abbott Elementary,' 'Not Dead Yet' and more return for 2024

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

We may still be several months from the start of a new school year, but classes are back in session on ABC. Featuring Philadelphia's finest (fictional) teachers across a broad smattering of subjects, the network's foremost public school continues to specialize in comedy. Premiering its third season Wednesday, Feb. 7, on ABC, "Abbott Elementary" joins other fan favorites "The Conners," "Not Dead Yet" and "Judge Steve Harvey" in the network's Wednesday night comedy block.

Kicking off the midweek laughs on Feb. 7 is "The Conners," the well-established spinoff of the popular 1988-96 sitcom "Roseanne" (and its short-lived 2018 revival), led by controversial comedienne Roseanne Barr ("She-Devil," 1989). Despite no longer centering on Roseanne herself (Barr was dismissed from the series revival in 2018), "The Conners" has thrived for 90 episodes to date, under the leadership of Emmy-winning actor John Goodman ("Barton Fink," 1991).

Other original "Roseanne" stars who joined Goodman for the spinoff are Laurie Metcalf ("Scream 2," 1997) as Jackie Harris-Goldufski, Alicia Goranson ("Boys Don't Cry," 1999) as Becky Conner-Healy and revival producer Sara Gilbert ("Atypical") reprising her role as Darlene Conner. Actors Emma Kenney ("Shameless") and Ames McNamara ("At Home with Amy Sedaris") — both of whom were hired for the 2018 "Roseanne" revival — return to their roles as Harris and Mark Conner-Healy, respectively.

"The Conners," which tackles complicated family themes at all stages of life, enters its sixth and final season this year. Series fans can look forward to several of the show's ongoing plot lines wrapping up, as well as the growth and development of returning players such as Tyler (Sean Astin, "Stranger Things"), who is now dating Becky. No matter how things end for the Conner family, however, executive producer Bruce Helford told ABC that the ending is well planned and deliberate.

"Sara Gilbert expressed to the network that we don't want to go out without knowing that we are going out with a series finale so we can build to the right ending," Helford said.

New episodes of "The Conners" begin Wednesday, Feb. 7, and air weekly on ABC until the series finale.

Premiering after "The Conners" is Season 2 of "Not Dead Yet," the quirky comedy about down-on-her-luck obituary writer Nell Serrano (Gina Rodriguez, "Jane the Virgin"), who is plagued by visitations from her newly deceased subjects prior to the publication of their death announcements in the newspaper. Despite their unsettling drop-ins, Nell always manages to harness the decedent's energy in order to give them each a sendoff worthy of their life on Earth. Of course, it doesn't hurt that Nell often learns a valuable lesson or two along the way.

The piece de resistance on Feb. 7, however, is the special one-hour premiere of "Abbott Elementary."

Headed into Season 3 with as much chaos as an elementary school classroom, the four-time Emmy-winning sitcom was created by its star, Quinta Brunson ("A Black Lady Sketch Show"), who recently became the first Black actress in over 40 years to win the Emmy for outstanding lead actress in a comedy series. Brunson based the series on her mother's own experiences as a teacher in the Philadelphia public school system. Each episode follows Abbott's teachers as they navigate workplace politics, the changing economics of their school board and the nuances of their personal lives, all while trying to foster healthy and supportive student/teacher relationships.

Brunson stars as Janine Teagues, a hopelessly optimistic second-grade teacher who began working at Abbott in Season 1. Upon her arrival, Janine met Ava Coleman (Janelle James, "Central Park"), Abbott's social media-loving, less-than-professional principal; Melissa Schemmenti (Lisa Ann Walter, "The Parent Trap," 1998), a hardened second-grade teacher with suspicious connections and a hidden soft side; sixth-grade teacher Jacob Hill (Chris Perfetti, "The Night Of"), who often awkwardly tries to bond with his students; and Janine's newfound idol, Barbara Howard (Sheryl Lee Ralph, "Sister Act 2: Back in the Habit," 1993), a veteran kindergarten teacher who always seems to have the answers.

Shortly after Janine is settled, new substitute teacher Gregory Eddie (Tyler James Williams, "Everybody Hates Chris") arrives and is later made permanent staff. A large part of the series thus far has focused on the will they/won't they dynamic between Gregory and Janine, and it is expected that Season 3 will finally give fans what they are hoping for ... eventually.

With Season 2 having ended on a cliffhanger prior to the SAG/AFTRA strike, Abbott returns with a shortened 14-episode season (rather than its usual 22 episodes) and a newly enlightened character, according to Brunson.

"I wanted her [Janine] to be able to make a decision that she felt was best for herself," Brunson told TV Line after the Season 2 finale, explaining, "It's more about maturity. [Janine]'s maturing, [Gregory]'s maturing. ... I kind of want the characters to be able to grow a little bit more as individuals, so we can see where they land."

Don't miss the three-hour debut of ABC's Wednesday night comedy block, which kicks off Feb. 7 with "The Conners" and "Not Dead Yet" before the one-hour Season 3 premiere of "Abbott Elementary." Later, comedian and "Family Feud" host Steve Harvey caps the evening off with a new season of "Judge Steve Harvey."

Steve Harvey hands out common-sense rulings in new episodes

Steve Harvey from "Judge Steve Harvey"

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Savvy in session: Steve Harvey is bringing his signature style — and common sense — back to the bench when "Judge Steve Harvey" returns for its third season, with an all-new episode premiering Wednesday, Feb. 7, on ABC.

After launching in 2022, this series followed the "Family Feud" host as he traded in buzzers for gavels in order to preside as judge in his own reality TV courtroom, acting as mediator in real-life disputes brought forward by real-life people.

"In the grand tradition of 'Judge Judy' and 'The People's Court,' 'Judge Steve Harvey' is an arbitration-based reality show where a judge — in this case Steve Harvey — settles legal disputes between two parties," claims Parade in a recently published article. "Unlike Judy Sheindlin and the late Joseph Wapner, however, Harvey has no real legal background at all, which means 'Judge Steve Harvey' is far more comedic in tone than a typical courtroom show."

That is, namely, because Harvey himself possesses exactly zero legal training. As he mitigates disputes and calms tempers, handling issues ranging from unpaid loans and mismanaged funds to childcare conundrums and more, Judge Harvey sets himself apart by relying solely on his own common sense to determine right from wrong.

Parade went on to say: "If you're wondering whether Harvey secretly went to law school at some point in his career, the answer is no: He has zero qualifications for adjudicating legal disputes. He says this isn't an issue, however, because his years of life have taught him how to read people."

When asked about his particular style of judgment, Harvey first told TV Insider: "I knew I had to just be myself. Most judges are interested in the law: These are the facts, and that's it. I'm going to dig up the story behind why people came to court vs. what they're in court for. I lean on decades of experience dealing with all types of situations and people, and I rely on my street savvy, common sense and humor to get it done."

"There are little tells people have," Harvey described. "You can see their eye movement and hear their voice inflection. I know this, so I get to the truth a lot better than most."

Heavy is the head that wears the crown, and savvy is the hand that bears the gavel. Court is in session, and common sense presides, as Season 3 of "Judge Steve Harvey" premieres, Wednesday, Feb. 7, on ABC.

All aboard: Season 11 of "Below Deck" is set to take off with a super-sized, 75-minute premiere, airing Monday, Feb. 5, on Bravo.

Originally sailing in Season 10, the 60-meter-long Benetti superyacht, St. David, returns, with her next voyage planned for Grenada, Spain. This trip will be captained by "Below Deck Adventure's" Kerry Titheradge, who takes over for Capt. Lee following his Season 10 departure.

"Capt. Kerry trades the Nordic Sea for crystal blue waters and stunning waterfalls as he leads his crew in the rich, historical island of Grenada," Bravo said in a recent news release. "A disciplined and fair leader, Capt. Kerry has 30 years of experience working on boats and has spent almost two decades in yachting."

During his expedition, Capt. Kerry will be at the helm of the gorgeous St. David, a vessel that offers its guests three decks, including a sprawling sun deck with sun loungers and sun pads, spa pools, an "al fresco" movie theater and more. There is even an outdoor dining option that offers guests nonstop picturesque views.

Behind this season's menu stands "Below Deck" newcomer, chef Anthony Iracane. Hailing from Miami, Iracane is a master of French cuisine, a restaurateur and the founder of Snackylbae, a French-themed street food chain that has taken Florida by storm. Despite this being his reality TV debut, Iracane has many years of experience working as a private chef aboard luxury yachts, specializing in private parties and gourmet food tasting.

Meanwhile, fans of the series can look forward to the return of a few familiar faces working aboard the ship, such as Chief Stew Fraser Olender, entering his second yachting season in the position, and his third season on "Below Deck." Olender's team includes the returning deckhands Ben Willoughby, Marie "Sunny" Marquis and Kyle Stillie, while Jared Woodin takes on the role of bosun, and the group welcomes new stewes Cat Bough, Xandi Olivier and Barbie Pascual.

With popular spinoffs, including "Below Deck Mediterranean," "Below Deck Sailing Yacht," "Below Deck Down Under" and "Below Deck Adventure," and thousands upon thousands of nautical miles to sail, "Below Deck" returns with its Season 11 premiere, airing Monday, Feb. 5, on Bravo.

"One Day"

Based on the worldwide bestseller by David Nicholls, the new limited series "One Day" premieres Thursday, Feb. 8, on Netflix. On the night of their graduation on July 15, 1988, Emma Morley (Ambika Mod, "This Is Going to Hurt") and Dexter Mayhew (Leo Woodall, "The White Lotus") speak to each other for the very first time. The next day, they go their separate ways, until the fateful day they reunite one year later. And the next year, and the year after that, and every year that follows. In a love story spanning decades, each new episode finds Dexter and Emma one year older on the same date, as they grow and change together and as individuals. Created for television by Nicole Taylor ("Wild Rose," 2018), "One Day" also stars Essie Davis ("Faraway Downs"), Tim McInnerny ("Notting Hill," 1999), Amber Grappy ("Smothered"), Jonny Weldon ("House of the Dragon"), Eleanor Tomlinson ("Poldark"), Joely Richardson ("Nip/Tuck") and Toby Stephens ("Treat Yourself," 2018). Directed by Molly Manners ("In My Skin"), Kate Hewitt ("Life"), John Hardwick ("Brassic") and Luke Snelin ("Suspects"), the series is executive produced by Nicholls, Taylor, Roanna Benn ("Doctor Foster: A Woman Scorned") and Jude Liknaitzky ("My Mad Fat Diary").

"Lover, Stalker, Killer" (2024)

Digging into the perilous realm of online dating, Netflix's newest true crime documentary, "Lover, Stalker, Killer," premieres Friday, Feb. 9. Recently single and eager to kick-start his love life once more, Dave did what so many modern singles do: turn to online dating for another chance at romance. Meeting Liz and Cari, both single mothers with great personalities who seemed to have great potential, this hard-working, devoted dad thought things were looking up for him. But, what should have been a casual foray into the dating realm soon turned into a twisted love triangle that put Dave and everyone he cares about at risk in what turned into a four-year nightmare. Using vivid reenactments of events, this documentary looks at the harrowing murder case, with first-person interviews from those involved, including the law enforcement officers who cracked the case. "Lover, Stalker, Killer" comes from Curious Films and director Sam Hobkinson ("Fear City: New York vs The Mafia").

"Rael: The Alien Prophet"

Featuring interviews with his followers, critics and Raël himself, the four-part limited docuseries, "Raël: The Alien Prophet," will be available to stream, Wednesday, February 7, on Netflix. Exploring the odd and intriguing world of "Raëlism," a UFO-inspired religious movement founded by Claude Vorilhon (Raël) that has spread across France over the past 50 years, and is now known as a controversial cult. CEO of France's factual label, KM, who took part in the series' creation, claims the documentary will "explore the sources of belief and contradictions behind this movement and ways it has evolved over the last five decades," while "[giving] a sneak peek into an untapped world," promising for a fascinating watch from start to finish.

"A Killer Paradox"

Choi Woo-Shik ("Parasite," 2019) stars as vigilante serial killer Lee Tang in the thrilling new K-drama, "A Killer Paradox," premiering its first, eight-episode season Friday, February 9, on Netflix. Based on the webtoon of the same name, by creators Ggomabi and Nomabi, the series joins Tang as he unexpectedly falls into a blood-thirsty career, determined to find and kill other killers.

As Tang descends into a murderous rampage, he is trailed by Det. Jang Nan-gam (Son Suk-ku, "The Roundup," 2022) — the man tasked to find the vigilante and bring him to justice. With its original source material seeing countless accolades, including the New Artist Award at the Korea Contents Award, "A Killer Paradox" explores the complex themes of sin and morality through a fast-paced and intriguing story.

"The Silent Service Season One - The Battle of Tokyo Bay"

After making its debut last year, the Japanese action drama film "The Silent Service" gets the series treatment on Prime Video. The newly adapted action series, "The Silent Service Season One — The Battle of Tokyo Bay," premieres Friday, Feb. 9. Based on the legendary Japanese manga franchise, written and illustrated by artist Kaiji Kawaguchi, the series follows the story of Shiro Kaieda (Takao Osawa, "Ichi," 2008), from the declaration of the independent state of Yamato and negotiating a military alliance with Japan to the subsequent Battle of Tokyo Bay. Recut to present the story on an even grander scale, "The Silent Service Season One" includes scenes not shown in theaters, as well as the continuation of the story after the end of the film. From original film director Kohei Yoshino ("Wednesday Disappears," 2020), the series is written by first-time screenwriters Hikaru Takai and Tetsuo Kamata.

"Alfie" (2004)

First seen in the eponymous 1966 British film, and then again in its sequel, Alfie Elkins is back and cheekier than ever in the 2004 film, "Alfie," now available to stream on Prime Video. Starring Jude Law ("Closer," 2004) as the titular character — originally played by Michael Caine ("The Dark Knight," 2008) in the 1966 version and by Alan Price ("O Lucky Man!," 1973) in its sequel, "Alfie Darling" (1975) — this Charles Shyer ("Private Benjamin," 1980) directed flick sees Alfie take on Manhattan as a limo-driving lothario, a man who regularly indulges in one night stands with his clientele. Following a series of complicated affairs, a health scare and an unexpected pregnancy, Alfie learns he's run out of second chances, and must change his ways once and for all.

"Bridesmaids" (2011)

From director Paul Feig ("Freaky and Geeks") and producing powerhouse Judd Apatow ("Knocked Up," 2007), the highly-acclaimed 2011 comedy, "Bridesmaids," is now available to stream on Prime Video. With a stellar script written by Kristen Wiig ("Saturday Night Live") and Annie Mumolo ("This Is 40," 2012), this fun-loving flick follows down-on-her-luck Annie (Wiig), a single woman in her mid-thirties who is asked to be the Maid of Honor in the upcoming nuptials of her best friend, Lilian (Maya Rudolph, "Away We Go," 2009). In the process, Annie is introduced to Lilian's rag-tag group of bridesmaids — played by the likes of Melissa McCarthy ("The Heat," 2013), Wendi McLendon-Covey ("Reno 911!") and Ellie Kemper ("The Office") — and must pull herself together to out-do Lilian's new, rich, put-together friend, Helen (Rose Byrne, "Neighbors," 2014), who tries to best Annie at every turn.

Celebrities chow down in all-new series

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

What would you do if you saw Chrissy Teigen ("Chrissy's Court"), David Chang ("Ugly Delicious") and Joel Kim Booster ("Fire Island," 2022) out for dinner? Hopefully, you'd sit and watch. The brand-new series "Chrissy & Dave Dine Out" airs a new episode Wednesday, Feb. 7, on Freeform. Episodes stream on Hulu the next day.

Following Teigen, Chang and Booster as they book tables at the most popular, must-try restaurants across Los Angeles — sometimes unexpected and unusual eateries — this series allows viewers to watch as the trio joins their famous friends for dinner parties unlike any other, jam-packed with celebrity gossip, Hollywood glamor and delicious, mouth-watering food.

"While David gets his hands dirty in the back of house with the restaurant's chef, Chrissy and Joel will hold court in the front of house, hosting an always loose, unexpected and entertaining dinner party with undeniably delicious food and great conversation. ... Celebrity guests handpicked by Chrissy, Dave and Joel will bring laughs and unfiltered conversations where no topic is off limits," said Freeform in a press release.

Teigen's husband, John Legend ("La La Land," 2016), will also appear as a celebrity guest, alongside the likes of Regina Hall ("Girls Trip," 2017) and Simu Liu ("Barbie," 2023), with each celebrity treated to a taste of a different cuisine.

The series premiere, for example, finds the group dining out at the wildly popular Pizzeria Bianco, where chef Chris Bianco serves up what some call the best pizza in the country. During their meal, they are joined by late-night host and comedian Jimmy Kimmel ("Jimmy Kimmel Live!") and his wife, writer/producer Molly McNearney ("Murder Mystery," 2019), who talk marriage, meals and more.

The group's next outing calls for a couple's night, as Chrissy and Dave bring their spouses (Dave being married to Grace Chang, "A Missing Piece," 2019) out for a double date alongside Hollywood power couple Kumail Nanjiani and Emily Gordon (both of "The Big Sick," 2017). In honor of their "spicy" night out, the six head to La Casita Mexicana, where they enjoy cuisine from the Jalisco region of Mexico.

Billboard magazine reported that "Teigen previously starred in Chrissy's Court for a total of 30 episodes. ... She also doubles as an executive producer [for] 'Chrissy and Dave Dine Out.' Chang is a restaurateur and author who founded the Momofuku restaurant group. Booster is an actor and writer who wrote, produced and starred in Hulu's 2022 rom-com 'Fire Island.'"

See what this talented trio tries next, as a new episode of "Chrissy & Dave Dine Out" airs Wednesday, Feb. 7, on Freeform, and Thursday, Feb. 8, on Hulu.

"Suncoast" (2024)

Marking the feature film debut from writer and director Laura Chinn ("Florida Girls"), the new coming-of-age drama "Suncoast" premieres Friday, Feb. 9, on Hulu. Inspired by Chinn's real-life experience from the early 2000s, this semi-autobiographical film follows the story of a teenager (Nico Parker, "The Last of Us") as she and her strong-willed mother (Laura Linney, "Ozark") must take her brother (Cree Kawa, "Never Have I Ever") to live at a specialized facility. While there, the teen finds an unlikely friendship in an eccentric activist (Woody Harrelson, "White House Plumbers") amid the protests surrounding a landmark medical case. Executive produced by Amy Greene ("Somewhere in Queens," 2022) and Chris Stinson ("The Holdovers," 2023), "Suncoast" is produced by Kevin Chinoy ("What You Wish For," 2023), Oliver Obst ("The Resident"), Jeremy Plager ("Champions," 2023) and Francesca Silvestri ("The Florida Project," 2017). The film also stars Daniella Taylor ("Grown-ish"), Ella Anderson ("The Glass Castle," 2017), Amarr ("American Housewife"), Ariel Martin ("Zombies 2," 2020) and Keyla Monterroso Mejia ("Freeridge").

"10 Things I Hate About You" (1999)

Snuggle up, grab your popcorn and feel the nostalgia with the classic coming-of-age rom-com, "10 Things I Hate About You," celebrating its 25th anniversary on Hulu starting Thursday, Feb. 8. Based on Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew," the movie centers on Bianca Stratford (Larisa Oleiyik, "Pretty Little Liars"), a teen whose strict father won't allow her to start dating until her anti-social older sister, Kat (Julia Stiles, "Save the Last Dance," 2001), does first. When Cameron James (Joseph Gordon-Levitt, "Inception," 2010) transfers to their school and falls for Bianca, the two hatch a plan to have school bad boy, Patrick Verona (Heath Ledger, "The Dark Knight," 2008), take Kat out on a date. Full of the ups and downs of teenage romance — complete with betrayal, forgiveness, dramatic love declarations and even a love triangle for good measure — "10 Things I Hate About You" comes from director Gil Junger ("According to Jim") and writers Karen McCullah and Kirsten Smith, who are both known for their work on "Legally Blonde," (2001). Supporting the main cast are David

Nico Parker stars in "Suncoast"

Krumholtz ("The Deuce"), Andrew Keegan ("The Broken Hearts Club: A Romantic Comedy," 2000), Gabrielle Union ("Bring it On," 2000), Larry Miller ("Pretty Woman," 1990), Susan May Pratt ("Drive Me Crazy," 1999) and Allison Janney ("Mom").

"Romeo + Juliet" (1996)

From the highly celebrated writer-director Baz Luhrmann ("The Great Gatsby," 2013) comes the 1996 adaptation of William Shakespeare's iconic play. Available Thursday, Feb. 8, on Hulu, "Romeo + Juliet" transfers the characters, dialogue and story of Shakespeare's play to the modern — well, modern for 1996 — and fictionalized city of Verona Beach. As tensions rise between rival business empires, the Capulets and Montagues, the titular Romeo (Leonardo DiCaprio, "Titanic," 1997) and Juliet (Claire Danes, "Homeland") begin to spark a youthful romance. Since both come from opposite sides of the conflict, their love is forbidden. However, that inconvenience doesn't stop two. Unfortunately, increasing violence between both empires might lead to lethal consequences for the young couple. With a screenplay by Luhrmann and Craig Pearce ("Moulin Rouge!," 2001), "Romeo + Juliet" also stars John Leguizamo ("Super Mario Bros.," 1993), Harold Perrineau ("28 Weeks Later," 2007), Paul Sorvino ("Goodfellas," 1990), Christina Pickles ("The Wedding Singer," 1998), Brian Dennehy ("First Blood," 1982), Diane Venora ("Heat," 1995), Paul Rudd ("Ant Man," 2015), Vondie Curtis-Hall ("Falling Down," 1993) and Pete Postlethwaite ("The Usual Suspects," 1995).

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
 TV Media

Q: There were a lot of Hedy Lamarr jokes in "Blazing Saddles." Was she working in the background as a writer or something?

A: Quite the opposite. Legendary film actress Hedy Lamarr — once known as the world's most beautiful woman — actually sued over being named in "Blazing Saddles" (1974). The jokes you refer to mostly stem from the fact that the film's villain is named Hedley Lamarr (Harvey Korman, "The Carol Burnett Show"), and he's constantly having to tell people to pronounce the "l."

It's a relatively limited joke, but "Blazing Saddles" director-writer Mel Brooks ("The Producers," 1967) milked it repeatedly throughout the film.

And it led the real Lamarr — herself a film actress and star of such classics as "Samson and Delilah" (1949) and "Her Highness and the Bellboy" (1945) — to sue Brooks for $10 million.

In an interview for the documentary "Bombshell: The Hedy Lamarr Story" (2017), Brooks explained that he wasn't even thinking of her at first. He just liked the last name Lamarr.

"I was going to call him Simon Lamarr. Lamarr being a smooth bad guy. Then I said, 'Lamarr, Lamarr, I'll call him Hedy Lamarr.' I can't call him Hedy, (so) Hedley. And, it was amazing ... it just worked in every scene."

One of those scenes actually jokes about the potential for a lawsuit.

When Hedley Lamarr reminds the governor (played by Brooks himself) that his name is not, in fact, Hedy, the governor responds, "What the hell are you worried about? This is 1874 — you'll be able to sue her." (Brooks has always liked that kind of meta joke, where the characters acknowledge they're in a movie.)

Q: What happened to the guy who played Alfredo, Sherlock's sponsor, on "Elementary"? I saw him pop up in a few movies around the same time and figured he was going on to bigger things, but I haven't seen him in a while.

A: Ato Essandoh did indeed go on to bigger things than his occasional role in CBS's "Elementary" — lots of them. But he has remained a supporting star, so you could still have just missed them.

He is, however, currently in the midst of what might be his biggest thing yet: he's a key support in the Netflix drama "The Diplomat," playing the chief assistant to the title character, the U.S. ambassador to the United Kingdom (played by Keri Russell of "The Americans" fame).

It remains to be seen if it's Essandoh's biggest role yet because that depends on the fate of the show. It released one well-received season last April (which was nominated for a bunch of awards, including an Emmy and a couple of Golden Globes), and has been renewed for a second. If its success continues, this could be the one that eclipses Essandoh's previous work.

That includes "Elementary," of course, but as you say, he followed that with some high-profile big-screen work as well. Most notably, he played one of the long line of unlucky CIA agents chasing the titular superspy in 2016's "Jason Bourne," and he's also part of the Marvel universe thanks to his role as the humanoid alien Jones in 2019's "X-Men: Dark Phoenix."
