Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

You know, there are so many big stories dominating the national conversation right now, but we're going to start off tonight [Feb. 3] with what I know is the No. 1 reason you all watch the show and that is to hear me talk about sports. This Sunday [Feb. 8] is the biggest day in men's football, Super Bowl 60. Yes, the Super Bowl is 60. Which explains why the game is sponsored by Days-of-the-Week Pill Box. You know their slogan, "One of these better be for depression."

The halftime show for this year's Super Bowl will be a friend of the show or amigo de la casa, Bad Bunny, who sings almost exclusively in Spanish and not only that is expected to perform in Spanish. Now, I've been practicing Spanish on my Duolingo, so I'll understand all his lyrics as long as the lyrics are "the bear and the mouse need an apartment."

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Well, guys, just as the country digs out from last weekend's storm, it looks like another one is coming this weekend, and it's being called the bomb cyclone. Yeah, it's expected to be the biggest bomb this weekend, not counting the Melania documentary.

The weekend's almost here, and it's [going to] be a big one for movies. Yeah, you got the Melania documentary, and you have the new Rachel McAdams film "Send Help," which, fun fact, was actually the original title of the new Melania movie.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

It's Groundhog Day today [Feb. 2] and I had to explain Groundhog Day to my kids this morning. They didn't know what it was and I told them and they looked at me like I was nuts. I don't think they even believe me. They're like, "Yeah, right, Dad." I mean, it doesn't make sense when you really go through it. But thousands of true believers were up bright and early in Gobbler's Knob, Pennsylvania, where I am sad to report Punxsutawney Phil came out of his hole, saw the Epstein files, went right back in and hung himself.

The main event in Washington, the premiere of Melania [Trump's] documentary. Not since "The Terminator" has there been this much excitement for a movie about a European cyborg.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

A Florida man was arrested this week after he allegedly robbed a woman who he met on a dating app. In fairness, he did list it under his hobbies.

In a new interview, Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent said that he has a Dr Pepper for breakfast and added, "Don't tell Bobby Kennedy." Oh, yeah, if RFK heard that, he'd spit out his possum.

Dunkin' began offering its Valentine's Day specialty doughnuts today [Jan. 28], including the Brownie Batter doughnut and Cupid's Choice doughnut. The perfect way to say I love you but not enough to make two stops.

Big dad on campus: Carell ruffles feathers in 'Rooster'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

The nuances of father-daughter relationships are hardly uncharted territory, especially in film and television. Films such as "Commando" (1985), "Taken" (2008) and "One Battle After Another" (2025) are all powered by a father's primal urge to protect his daughter from harm.

Meanwhile, television series such as "Full House" and "Veronica Mars" have captured the barrier felt by a father while raising a daughter without a feminine influence.

"Rooster" is the newest of these series, hailing from "Scrubs" and "Shrinking" creator Bill Lawrence and his producing partner Matt Tarses ("Bad Monkey"), both of whom have daughters of their own.

Premiering on HBO and HBO Max Sunday, March 8, "Rooster" centers around an esteemed author who has been offered a speaking engagement at the college where his daughter works, all while she is experiencing the worst (and most public) breakup of her life to date.

Steve Carell, star of the American comedy series "The Office" and, more recently, the Netflix miniseries "The Four Seasons," stars as Greg Russo. Greg is the well-known author of a novel series led by a rough-and-tumble protagonist named Rooster, and he has been offered a speaking engagement at Ludlow College, a local liberal arts school. Although flattered to be asked on his own merits, Greg looks upon this opportunity more as a way of reconnecting with his adult daughter, Katie (Charly Clive, "The Lazarus Project"), a professor who recently became the talk of the campus when her marriage quite literally went up in flames.

After discovering that her husband Archie (Phil Dunster, "Ted Lasso"), a fellow professor at the college, was openly cheating on her with a grad student named Sunny (Lauren Tsai, "Legion"), Katie shows her pain and disapproval by burning down his faculty house. Additionally, as the college dean (played by John C. McGinley, "Scrubs") reminds Greg in the official trailer, "she also assaulted a professor" (you guessed it: Archie). Needless to say, Katie is in quite a bit of trouble and at risk of losing her job. Enter Rooster.

Greg offers to stay on as a guest lecturer for the college on the condition that Katie also be allowed to stay as she works through her anger, but what begins as a simple deal to save his daughter's job becomes a tale of boundary-setting, personal reflection and light, comical role play. Frequently referred to as Rooster by his students, due to his physical likeness to his main character on the book jacket, Greg decides to adopt some of his leading man's more spontaneous traits to help smooth things over; it turns out he'll get somewhat of a new lease on life in the process.

"The show itself is at least loosely based on the fact that Matt [Tarses], Steve [Carell] and I all have very tight relationships with our daughters who are young adults," Lawrence said in an interview with The Hollywood Reporter. "That relationship's complicated because you want to protect them, when the truth is that you're just kind of protecting yourself. We wanted to imagine what it would be like to drop a man-of-the-people author into his daughter's claustrophobic life at a small liberal arts college in the East."

One of the least expected outcomes of Greg's journey at Ludlow is his friendship with poetry professor Dylan, played by "The Harder They Fall" (2021) and "Till" (2022) actress Danielle Deadwyler. Traditionally known for her more dramatic roles, Deadwyler's interest in comedy shines through in the most honest way in "Rooster."

"That is an actor who can do anything," Carell said of Deadwyler to THR. "She brings such a different energy to the show, a gravitas almost, while at the same time crushing every comedic moment she has. It's pretty amazing."

Other players in the 10-episode series include Connie Britton ("Nashville"), Annie Mumolo ("Barb and Star Go to Vista Del Mar," 2021), Scott MacArthur ("The Mick"), Alan Ruck ("Succession"), Brenda Strong ("Desperate Housewives") and Robby Hoffman ("Hacks"). Maximo Salas ("Grease: Rise of the Pink Ladies"), Evan Jachelski ("Dave"), Xavier Beloved ("Boneyard," 2024), Sophia Macy ("The Chair"), Jonah Beckett ("The Sex Lives of College Girls") and Cece Abbey ("Worm," 2017) star as Ludlow College students.

As for the show's writing, fans of "Scrubs," "Shrinking" and "Ted Lasso" will likely already be convinced of its quality. For those who need a little more of a push, however, know that Carell told THR, "I read the script and it was one of the best comedy pilots I've read — period."

For Lawrence and Tarses' sake, we are hoping Carell is right, as, per Lawrence: "We're all doing this about our relationship with our daughters — and so if it sucked, on some level it might mean I'm a bad dad."

Head back to school (with your dad, maybe?) and learn the power of family ties when "Rooster" premieres Sunday, March 8, on HBO and HBO Max.

A second look: Virginia medical examiner returns to her post in 'Scarpetta'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

From the explosive boom of true crime podcasts and documentaries to the prevalence of cold case internet sleuths, it is safe to say that we all know that the suspect often returns to the scene of the crime. But what does it mean if the one returning is part of the investigation? Academy Award winner Nicole Kidman ("Nine Perfect Strangers") stars in the new crime drama "Scarpetta," premiering on Prime Video Wednesday, March 11.

Kidman portrays the titular Dr. Kay Scarpetta, a former Virginia medical examiner who returns to her post decades after her first appointment. From the official description of the series from Prime Video, "with skilled hands and an unnerving eye, this unrelenting medical examiner is determined to serve as the voice of the victims, unmask a serial killer and prove that her career-making case from 28 years prior isn't also her undoing."

In the official trailer for the upcoming series, Kay recites the oath, becoming the medical examiner for Virginia once again, stating, "second time's the charm." During her first crime scene evidence and autopsies to tie several disturbing murders in the state to one serial killer. In present-day Virginia, what comes across Kay's desk but another set of murders that not only seem to be the work of the same perpetrator, but also appear to hint at that first case.

"There are too many commonalities for them not to be connected," Kay muses in the trailer. A web of connections tie the medical examiner looking to make something more of her second chance at the position with the perpetrators of the crimes she is tasked with investigating. The pursuit of justice puts the tireless examiner eye-to-eye with a serial murderer again to explore "the psychological complexities of both perpetrators and investigators," per Prime Video.

"Scarpetta" also stars two recent best supporting actress Academy Award winners. Jamie Lee Curtis ("The Bear") portrays Dorothy Scar-petta, Kay's older sister, and Ariana DeBose ("Love Hurts," 2025) is Dorothy's tech-savvy daughter, Lucy Farinelli-Watson. Bobby Cannavale ("Blue Moon," 2025) and Simon Baker ("The Narrow Road to the Deep North") round out the main cast as former detective Pete Marino and FBI profiler Benton Wesley, respectively.

The series utilizes frequent flashbacks to Kay's 1998 case, with young actors portraying the characters involved with the historic investigation. Rosy McEwen ("Apartment 7A," 2024) is young Kay, Amanda Righetti ("Colony") is young Dorothy, Jake Cannavale ("American Sports Story") is young Pete and Hunter Parrish ("The Other Black Girl") is young Benton.

Recurring cast includes Sosie Bacon ("Smile," 2022) as reporter Abby Turnball; Charlie B. Foster ("The Garcias") as Kay's morgue assistant Wingo; Janet Montgomery ("New Amsterdam") as Lucy's wife, Janet; Stephanie Faracy ("Nobody Wants This") as Kay's assistant Maggie Cutbush; Georgia King ("Vice Principals") as young Maggie; Mike Vogel ("Sex/Life") as city attorney Bill Boltz; Tiya Sircar ("The Afterparty") as police officer Blaise Fruge; Anna Diop ("Bosch") as FBI cyber investigator Sierra "Tron" Patron; Anson Mount ("Star Trek: Strange New Worlds") as Matt Petersen; and Graham Phillips ("Riverdale") as young Matt.

The new series is inspired by the popular "Scarpetta" crime novel series by author Patricia Cornwell, which in turn was inspired by a real-life investigator, former Virginia chief medical examiner Marcella Farinelli Fierro. The much-anticipated adaptation is safe on Prime Video for any fans worried about flighty series cancellations — two seasons of "Scarpetta" were promised when the series was announced by the streamer. Cornwell's work has been adapted before for TV movies, but Sarnoff, who last executive produced the very dark HBO comedy "Barry," and serves as writer, executive producer and showrunner for "Scarpetta." Kidman and Per Saari ("The Perfect Couple") also executive produce, alongside Curtis and Jason Blum ("Black Phone 2," 2025), Jeremy Gold ("The Sticky"), Chris Dickie ("The Bondsman") and Chris McCumber ("Worst Roommate Ever") for Blumhouse Television. David Gordon Green ("The Righteous Gemstones") directed five episodes and also serves as an executive producer.

It is no wonder that such a successful best-selling book series (the Scarpetta novels have sold over 120 million copies worldwide) would attract adaptation attention — it's only a surprise that it has taken decades to get Dr. Scarpetta on screens. "Scarpetta" has clearly been a long-time passion project for all of its producers. When the series was announced, Kidman shared that she had "been pursuing Scarpetta for nearly 20 years going back to when it was intended to be a feature," and Cornwell stated, "this has been worth waiting for, and I'm so looking forward to the show."

Curtis, who worked previously with Blumhouse and Green on the recent "Halloween" revival trilogy, shared in a "20 Questions on Deadline" podcast appearance — in 2024, during pre-production for the series — that the book version of Scarpetta's love of cooking will likely make it into the series but promised with more certainty that "there will be blood, and copious amounts of it."

Don't miss the thrills of "Scarpetta" when it premieres Wednesday, March 11, on Prime Video.

"Scarpetta" marks the first time her most famous protagonist has appeared on screen. Cornwell herself makes an appearance in the trailer at Scarpetta's swearing in, wishing Kay good luck in her role.

Generations of singles mingle in new dating series

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Age before beauty?: Age is just a number — or is it? Hosted by former “Bachelor” contestant Nick Viall and his wife, Natalie Joy, an all-new dating experiment begins Wednesday, March 11, when “Age of Attraction” makes its debut on Netflix.

“It simply does not matter how many candles were on your last birthday cake or how few wrinkles have formed on your forehead. Age is thrown out the window as singles search for their soulmates with help from hosts Nick Viall and Natalie Joy,” Netflix says, as Nick and Natalie lead a group of singles who mingle, form connections and (hopefully) enter relationships, all without knowing the age of the person across from them.

According to the streamer, this new dating reality series aims to focus on the emotional instincts of falling in love, rather than focusing on demographic detail. Much like “Love Is Blind,” the contestants involved in “Age of Attraction” build bonds completely based on chemistry and communication, while everyone’s age remains deliberately hidden. As their relationships grow deeper, the formed couples must then confront the realities of their age disparity, deciding whether or not their connection outweighs any generational differences.

Hosts Nick and Natalie understand their contestants’ struggles well as a couple with an established age gap between them. The couple, who first met in 2020, have an 18-year difference in age. Nick, 45, and Natalie, 27, found common ground regardless and married in 2024. On their podcast, “The Viall Files,” the couple enjoys sharing dating and relationship advice based on their own experiences — like they hope to do with contestants in “Age of Attraction.”

“Age Of Attraction” comes as other shows realize the value of older contestants appearing on dating shows,” Deadline explains. “ABC revealed earlier this week that Season 10 of ‘Bachelor in Paradise’ will feature contestants from ‘The Golden Bachelor’ and ‘The Golden Bachelorette’ for the first time, while Netflix also recently launched the docuseries ‘The Later Daters,’ which features singletons in their ‘50s, ‘60s and ‘70s.”

In a first-look clip, one participant shared: “When you tell people your age, they put a stigma to that.”

Another added: “I don’t know if these guys are my age, my dad’s age or my grandpa’s age.”

Can love conquer all? Is “dating your age” a thing of the past? See it all play out in Season 1 of “Age of Attraction,” premiering Wednesday, March 11, on Netflix.

#MomTok forever: After the conclusion of “a completely unhinged, messy, chaotic and, at times, deeply unsettling Season 3” (per Cosmopolitan), the ladies of Utah are back once again as Season 4 of “The Secret Lives of Mormon Wives” premieres Thursday, March 12, on Hulu, promising dirty sodas and plenty of drama.

Having first premiered in 2024, the reality series follows a group of young Mormon women who first met and bonded over their shared faith, alongside their love and use of the social media app TikTok, coming together to create a group of young content creators who participated in #MomTok.

Season 4 will see the return of popular cast members such as Taylor Frankie Paul, Jen Affleck and Whitney Leavitt, with series producer Jeff Jenkins (“The Simple Life”) hinting at the possibility of new additions to come while speaking to The Hollywood Reporter.

“Jenkins has also teased a new cast member — the first since [Miranda] McWhorter joined the show in Season 2,” relayed the publication.

Two of the series’ current cast members — Jen and Whitney — make their return after appearing on Season 34 of “Dancing With the Stars” and, according to Whitney, it seems the ladies are returning with plenty of baggage to unpack.

While on the “Call Her Daddy” podcast, Whitney cryptically shared: “There’s definitely more story there. “The relationship’s not great; I don’t really know if there is one right now,” Whitney continued. “There was a lot that happened when we were doing ‘Dancing With the Stars.’ We were also filming ‘Secret Lives’ at the time. So I know ... the audience is going to be able to see that story when that comes out next year.”

Meanwhile, single mom Taylor will be seen preparing to step into the spotlight as the star of the 22nd season of “The Bachelorette.” While the mother of three gathers her roses and contemplates upcoming dates, fans can expect hesitation from Taylor’s ex-boyfriend, Dakota Mortensen, who took to Instagram to share his feelings following the announcement of Taylor’s casting, posting a photo of himself cheekily captioned: “when you realize you can date 30 girls without being on a TV show.”

Will love be in the cards for Taylor? Will Dakota have more to say? Will Whitney and Jen end their feud once and for all? The truth will come out when Season 4 of “Secret Lives of Mormon Wives” premieres Thursday, March 12, on Hulu.

"Virgin River" - Season 7

Love, change and new beginnings await when "Virgin River" premieres its seventh season Thursday, March 12, on Netflix. This season, Mel (Alexandra Breckenridge, "This Is Us") and Jack's (Martin Henderson, "Grey's Anatomy") relationship faces new paths forward as they grapple with what they want for their future. "There's a lot more to go here with these characters," show-runner Patrick Sean Smith ("Greek") told Tudum following the couple's long-awaited wedding in the Season 6 finale. Season 7, according to Tudum, will "welcome a few new faces in the upcoming episodes, including characters who could shake up 'Virgin River' in a major way"; one of them being Victoria (Sara Canning, "The Vampire Diaries"), an investigator who's been tasked with looking into Doc's (Tim Matheson, "9-1-1: Nashville") practice. Cody Kearsley ("Riverdale") steps into the role of Clay, a drifter shaped by foster homes and a childhood torn in two. Separated from his younger sister many years ago, he's been looking for her ever since — and still has hope that she's out there somewhere. "One Tree Hill's" Austin Nichols also joins the "Virgin River" cast this season as a figure from Mel's past, while Annette O'Toole ("Smallville"), Colin Lawrence ("Riverdale") and Benjamin Hollingsworth ("Code Black") return to their roles. "Devil in Ohio's" Ian Hay is among the show's producers.

"Sesame Street" - Season 2

From toy swaps to cookie towers, "Sesame Street" returns in full swing as Season 2 premieres Monday, March 9, on Netflix. This season, a toy swap frustrates Elmo (Ryan Dillon, "Little Children, Big Challenges") when his old favorites are played with in ways he never imagined, reminding him that imagination has no rules — especially when Miley Cyrus ("Flowers") drops by to join the fun. Across the street, Abby (Leslie Carrara-Rudolph, "Forgetting Sarah Marshall," 2008) "beastiesits" three musical dragons, but when she makes a bedtime routine mistake that awakens the dragons, she learns that magic works best with a helping hand and a lullaby. And later, a cookie-tower challenge tests Elmo's patience when he accidentally knocks it down. Rounding out the voice cast are Eric Jacobson ("The Muppets," 2011) as Bert and Grover, Peter Linz ("The Muppets," 2011) as Ernie, David Rudman ("Donkey Hodie") as Cookie Monster and Matt Vogel ("The Masked Singer") as Big Bird. Sal Perez ("Mexico's Got Talent") and Kay Wilson Stallings ("Helpers Help You") serve as executive producers, with Halcyon Person ("Blaze and the Monster Machines") as head writer and co-executive producer.

"Louis Theroux: Inside the Manosphere" (2026)

The legendary British documentarian Louis Theroux ("My Scientology Movie," 2015) is Netflix-bound with his first feature-length documentary,

"Louis Theroux: Inside the Manosphere," premiering exclusively on the streamer Wednesday, March 11. From director Adrian Choa ("Jamali Maddix: Follow the Leader") and executive producers Alope Devichand ("Blackpink: Light Up the Sky," 2020) and Arron Fellows ("Louis Theroux's Altered States"), the film follows Theroux as he immerses himself in the world a rising ultra-masculine online network and its controversial influencers. Traveling to cities like Miami, New York and Marbella, Spain, he gains rare access to figures linked to Andrew Tate ("Kings of the Internet"), including Tik-Tokers Harrison Sullivan and Ed Matthews, podcaster Amrou Fudl, videographer Sneako (whose real name is Nicolas Kenn De Balinthazy) and social media personality Justin Waller, as well as the women in their lives who share or defend their beliefs. In an exclusive interview with Deadline, Theroux revealed the project serves as a thematic successor to Netflix's hit limited series "Adolescence," and while he clarified the film is "nothing like 'Adolescence,'" he noted that it does explore what kind of online content young men are consuming and the real-world impact of that influence.

"One Piece" - Season 2

Based on the hit manga by Eiichiro Oda, "One Piece" continues the journey of Monkey D. Luffy (Inaki Godoy, "The Imperfects") and his loyal Straw Hat crew as they go on an epic voyage across the open sea in search of lost treasure. Season 2 lands on Netflix Tuesday, March 10, and follows the crew as they face "fiercer adversaries and their most perilous quests yet," according to Tudum. After defeating Arlong (McKinley Belcher III, "Trial by Fire," 2018) in Season 1, Luffy and his crew enter the Grand Line, "a legendary stretch of sea where danger and wonder await at every turn." As they journey through this unpredictable realm, they'll encounter bizarre islands and ruthless new enemies as they press forward in search of the world's greatest treasure. From series creators Steven Maeda ("Lost") and Matt Owens ("Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D."), Emily Rudd ("Hunters"), Mackenyu ("House of the Owl"), Jacob Romero ("Greenleaf") and Taz Skylar ("Boiling Point") return for this long-awaited second season directed by Emma Sullivan ("Doctor Who").

"The Madison" - Season 1

The next drama set in the world shaped by "Yellowstone" — following "1883" and "1923" — is "The Madison," available to stream on Prime Video via the Paramount+ channel when it makes its debut Saturday, March 14. Starring Michelle Pfeiffer ("Hairspray," 2007) and Kurt Russell ("Escape from New York," 1981), this intimate series follows the Clyburn family, who leave New York City for the Madison River valley in Montana after a life-altering tragedy, as shifting relationships and unresolved grief shape their new lives. From series creator Taylor Sheridan ("Yellowstone"), "The Madison" explores family bonds and human connection across generations. Also starring Patrick J. Adams ("Suits") as Russell McIntosh, Matthew Fox ("Lost") as Paul Clyburn, Beau Garrett ("Knight of Cups," 2015) as Abigail Reese, Elle Chapman ("A Man Called Otto," 2022) as Paige McIntosh and Amiah Miller ("War for the Planet of the Apes," 2017) as Bridgette Reese, Season 1 is directed by Christina Alexandra Voros ("Yellowstone") and executive produced by Sheridan, David C.

Glasser ("1883") and John Linson ("Yellowstone").

"Wild Rose" - Season 1

Secrets, lies and deadly double lives collide when Season 1 of "Wild Rose" premieres Thursday, March 12, available on Prime Video via the ALL-BLK channel. The eight-episode series follows Roosevelt (played by singer, songwriter, author and actor Omarion, "The 40 Year Old Virgin," 2005) — also known as "Rose" — a hitman raised in a family of assassins operating under the cover of a charitable non-profit, but behind the organization's facade is an elite agency known for taking down high-profile targets. Trained from childhood to follow orders without question, Rose's world is shattered when his wife and daughter mysteriously vanish. As a man who trusts no one, he suspects foul play and begins uncovering secrets that challenge everything he thought he knew about his family — and himself. Meanwhile, a high-stakes assignment places him close to a famous singer marked for death, drawing him into a dangerous web of fame, power and betrayal. Also starring Vanessa Williams ("Murder One"), Casey Gardner ("The Missing," 2022) and Keraun Harris ("Black-ish"), the series is executive produced by Omarion alongside creator Deji LaRay ("Bosch"), with Dale S. Lewis ("Johnson") and Erik White ("Tales") directing.

"Day One" - Season 1

How far can we go without losing what makes us human? Find out when Season 1 of "Day One" premieres on Prime Video this Friday, March 13. With episodes directed by Marta Pahissa ("Cites") and Victor Cuadrado ("Paradise"), "Day One" follows the story of Ulises (Alex Gonzalez, "X-Men: First Class," 2011), "a computer prodigy who left Barcelona and the world of technology after the death of his younger sister" (per Prime Video). Now, the city is buzzing with the Mobile World Congress and Ulises is back in its glare because his former partner and closest friend, Samuel (Asier Etxeandia, "Velvet"), has called him with a chilling warning: the world is in danger. Samuel points him toward a breakthrough that promises to change everything, but Ulises hears the warning underneath the pitch: once it's launched, it won't be theirs to control. To stop what's coming, Ulises must reopen the life he shut out, confront what he built and decide what part of his humanity he's willing to risk to save everyone else's. Starring Alba Planas ("Express"), Renata Notni ("Zorro"), Ivan Massague ("Pan's Labyrinth," 2006) and Jordi Molla ("Criminal," 2016), "Day One" sees Sara Fernandez-Velasco ("Memento Mori") and Jose Velasco ("Insiders") as executive producers.

All-star chefs compete for the title of 'Top Chef' in series' 23rd season

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Tom Colicchio, Kristen Kish and Gail Simmons of "Top Chef"

The Emmy, James Beard and Critics Choice award-winning culinary competition series "Top Chef" returns for the premiere of its 23rd season Monday, March 9, on Bravo — kicking off a super-sized season full of 75-minute episodes.

Seeing the return of host Kristen Kish ("Fast Foodies") and judges Tom Colicchio ("Tom Colicchio's the Pantry") and Gail Simmons ("Star Plates"), this upcoming season will introduce 15 brand-new "chefestants," including, according to Bravo, "life partners who co-own and operate a restaurant, as well as a pair of highly competitive identical twin brothers" — two firsts for the long-running series.

The chefs in question will be competing in the diverse culinary hub of Charlotte, North Carolina, with plenty of excursions to Greenville, South Carolina, also planned throughout the season.

"This season will showcase the finest in southern hospitality, embracing the rich history, agriculture and outdoors, as a new batch of accomplished and renowned chefs vie for the ultimate 'Top Chef' title," reads the announcement for Season 23.

"With the region's freshest ingredients at their fingertips and high stakes on the line, the chefs will have to cook their best as they battle through Quickfire and Elimination challenges designed to put their skills, creativity and knowledge to the test."

While cooking their way through the aforementioned challenges, the chefs will also have the opportunity to earn advantages through immunity wins and cash prizes, with more than $150,000 up for grabs throughout the competition. When all is said and done, the winner of Season 23 will earn a $250,000 grand prize, a feature in Food & Wine magazine and an appearance at the annual Food & Wine Classic in Aspen, Colorado, alongside perks like hosting a dinner at the historic James Beard House and presenting at the James Beard Restaurant and Chef Awards in Chicago.

"We're excited to return to the south for 'Top Chef: Carolinas'," says Ryan Flynn, senior vice president of current production for NBCUniversal television and streaming. "Charlotte and Greenville are perfect chefs' playgrounds fueled by exceptional local ingredients, bold flavors, a strong agricultural foundation, stunning natural landscapes, and the warm, genuine hospitality the South is known for."

Serving up delicious dishes, life-changing opportunities and non-stop competition, Season 23 of "Top Chef" makes its debut on Bravo Monday, March 9.

Josh Charles in "Best Medicine"

Best Medicine

(12) 7:00 PM
Hoping for some peace, Martin (Josh Charles) invites Louisa (Abigail Spencer) to watch the annual bird migration. However, duty calls when an elderly woman's hallucinations lead to trouble and Martin must perform an emergency procedure on Louisa.

NBA Basketball

(5) 8:00 PM
After losing by just 5 points in their last meeting, Jayson Tatum, Jaylen Brown and the Boston Celtics are ready for redemption against Victor Wembanyama and the San Antonio Spurs, as they take them on at Frost Bank Center in San Antonio.

Will Trent

(12) (22) 8:00 PM
As Season 4 continues, Georgia Bureau of Investigations Special Agent Will Trent (Ramón Rodríguez) uses his unique set of talents and the help of Det. Franklin Wilks (Kevin Daniels) to solve crime and make a difference in people's lives.

NCIS: Origins

(3) 9:00 PM
Now in its second season, this prequel series to "NCIS" follows a young Leroy Jethro Gibbs (Austin Stowell) as he begins his career as a special agent at the NCIS Camp Pendleton Office, working alongside a ragtag group led by Mike Franks (Kyle Schmid).

Nate Burleson hosts "Hollywood Squares"

Chicago Med

8:00 PM

As Season 11 continues, Archer (Steven Weber) and Lenox (Sarah Ramos) are called in to treat two friends injured in St. Patrick's Day festivities. Later, Hannah (Jessy Schram) and Ripley (Luke Mitchell) treat a woman in the middle of a messy divorce.

The Masked Singer

8:00 PM

It's time for the Care Bear countdown as the beloved cartoon characters pay a visit, leading the celebrity competitors to sing their hearts out and share some of their feelings. Will this insight help the panelists uncover who's behind each costume?

Police 24/7

Nothing is simple for officers who must work to figure out the rightful owner of a stolen bike. Then, police are called to assist a drunk man who's gone home to the wrong house. And authorities bring justice to a pizza delivery man injured at work.

Hollywood Squares

10:30 PM

Nate Burleson hosts this latest incarnation of the classic television game show where contestants play tic-tac-toe via celebrity squares. Special guests for this episode include Ariana DeBose, Ron Funches, Tiffany Haddish, Pete Holmes and more.

"Sunny Nights" - Season 1

A chance at a new life turns into a desperate fight for survival when Season 1 of "Sunny Nights" premieres Wednesday, March 11, on Hulu. When American siblings Martin (Will Forte, "The Last Man on Earth") and Vicki (D'Arcy Carden, "The Good Place") move to Sydney, they're convinced their mobile spray-tan startup, TansForm, will make them rich. At first, the hustle feels harmless — pop-up appointments, flashy branding and big promises. But a run-in with the wrong people soon pulls them deep into the city's criminal underworld, where easy money comes with dangerous strings attached. As debts mount and threats close in, the pair must figure out how to stay alive, out of prison and in the black. Alongside Forte and Carden, the ensemble cast includes Rachel House ("Moana," 2016), Jessica De Gouw ("Underground") and Ra Chapman ("White Fever"), with Chris Davis ("The Great") executive producing the series.

"Celebrity Jeopardy!" - Season 4

The category is... stars and more stars! Trivia diehards can test their knowledge when "Jeopardy!'s"

Saturday, March 7, 2026

star-studded spinoff "Celebrity Jeopardy!" returns to Hulu with its fourth season on Saturday, March 14. Hosted by Ken Jennings ("Happy Gilmore 2," 2025), the game show has announced the line-up for the All-Star season, which sees previous winners Ike Barinholtz ("The Mindy Project"), Lisa Ann Walter ("Abbott Elementary") and W. Kamau Bell ("United Shades of America") compete alongside 18 other celebrities across 10 hour-long episodes consisting of six quarterfinals, three semifinals and one final — with the winner securing $1 million for their chosen charity. Mark Duplass ("The Morning Show"), Rachel Dratch ("Saturday Night Live"), Andy Richter ("Late Night with Conan O'Brien"), Macaulay Culkin ("Home Alone," 1990), Cynthia Nixon ("Sex and the City"), Margaret Cho ("All-American Girl") and Ray Romano ("Everybody Loves Raymond") will also be featured, along with podcaster Katie Nolan ("Casuals with Katie Nolan"), NFL analyst Mina Kimes ("The Mina Kimes Show featuring Lenny"), "Chicago Med" actor Steven Weber, comedian Roy Wood Jr. ("Have I Got News for You"), and "Nobody Wants This" stars Jackie Tohn and Tim Simons will also participate in the game show. "Celebrity Jeopardy!" hails from producers Michael Davies ("Jeopardy!") and Sarah Whitcomb

Foss ("Jeopardy! Masters") for Sony Pictures Television.

"Malpractice" - Complete Series

A fatal outcome turns routine care into an interrogation when "Malpractice" arrives as a complete series Friday, March 13, on Hulu. Across two anthology seasons, Britain's Medical Investigation Unit (MIU) doctors Norma Callahan (Helen Behan, "The Virtues") and George Adjei (Jordan Kouame, "Dope Girls") reopen fatal cases, replaying split-second decisions until the truth is finally revealed. Season 1 drops viewers into A&E with Dr. Lucinda Edwards (Niamh Algar, "Raised by Wolves") as a gun incident erupts mid-shift. But when a frantic bed shuffle and unclear instructions leave an opioid-overdose patient dead, an influential father's complaint puts Lucinda on trial while the hospital scrambles to protect its image. Season 2 pivots to psychiatric registrar Dr. James Ford (Tom Hughes, "About Time," 2013), who finds himself caught between a postnatal check and an urgent sectioning call. But when tragedy follows, his colleagues deflect blame as the MIU maps every note, phone call and delay — and finds a ward at war with itself. Starring Adei Bundy ("Outlawed," 2018), James Purefoy ("Rome") and Hannah Walters ("Adolescence"), the series is written by Ofori-Attah and Hannah Richards ("Who Do You Think You Are?"), with Philip Barantini ("Boiling Point") as an executive producer for the series.

Saturday Best Bets

Pascale Hutton stars in "Nelly Knows Mysteries: All Manners of Murder"

NHL Hockey

(22) 3:00 PM
It'll be an all-out East Coast brawl when the Boston Bruins face off against the Washington Capitals tonight. While the Capitals hold the home ice advantage, the Bruins have won their last two games against the Caps, including a 3-1 pre-season win.

College Basketball

(3) 6:00 PM
Tonight, the men's basketball champion from the Mountain West Conference will be determined. After four grueling days of competition at the Thomas & Mack Center in Las Vegas, history will be made thanks to the top players of the 2025-26 season.

Nelly Knows Mysteries

HALL 8:00 PM
It turns out murder is on the menu at a lavish dinner hosted by an eccentric widow, much to the chagrin of advice columnist Nelly (Pascale Hutton) and her detective date, Michael (Kavan Smith), who suspects the widow's estranged family.

House Hunters

HGTV 10:00 PM
A couple who've been living in separate states for more than a year decide to find a home together in Spokane, Wash., with the help of a real estate agent. However, one wants a retro 1980s vibe, while the other is hoping for a Craftsman with a workshop.

Shemar Moore stars in "S.W.A.T."

Hicks (Patrick St. Esprit, "The Hunger Games: Catching Fire," 2013).

Unfortunately, even though a whole first season of "S.W.A.T.: Exiles" has already been filmed, the show doesn't have a broadcaster yet. Producers are reportedly shopping it around now.

But that's not as worrying as it might sound. Pundits are comparing it to "Heated Rivalry" and "The Hunting Wives," a couple of recent mega-hits that had full seasons in the can before finding their homes on HBO Max and Netflix, respectively (though in "Heated Rivalry's" case, it already had a platform in Canada on the streaming service Crave).

Q: What's next for Diego Calva? More "Night Manager"?

A: More "Night Manager" is unlikely (though not impossible), but Diego Calva ("Babylon," 2022) can console himself with the knowledge that his next part will be one of the most enviable roles imaginable, as he will be acting along with one of our greatest living stars.

Calva will appear as Bolivian revolutionary Che Guevara, a divisive historical figure who has nonetheless become an icon (literally — a stylized version of his face graces T-shirts around the world), in the upcoming historical drama "Killing Castro."

It premiered at the Toronto International Film Festival last summer and is now awaiting distribution. But given that it also stars Hollywood legend Al Pacino ("Serpico," 1973), it shouldn't have much trouble finding its way to your screen.

Calva himself carries some star power of his own now, after his hit role in the second season of BBC/Amazon Prime Video drama "The Night Manager," which released earlier this year. He played mysterious, compelling Colombian arms dealer Teddy Dos Santos, who goes up against lead character Jonathan Pine (Tom Hiddleston, "The Avengers," 2012).

Spoiler alert for those who haven't seen the season finale: things don't end well for his character, but Calva is fine with that. "I think Teddy's journey should end the way it ends because Teddy is the soul of this season," he told The Hollywood Reporter after the season finale. "And if we kept him alive, the season and the journey of all the other characters will lose strength."

He says "I think" because there's always a chance the producers will want him back. The show has already been renewed for a third season, and (another spoiler alert) other characters who seemed done for earlier in the show have found their way back from the dead.

But Calva hasn't been sitting by his phone. He actually has two other films already wrapped and in post-production: the horror-drama "Her Private Hell" from ultra-stylish director Nicolas Winding Refn ("Drive," 2011) and a more straight-ahead indie drama, "Club Kid." No release date has been announced yet for either.

Q: What happened to "S.W.A.T."? Will it be back?

A: CBS canceled "S.W.A.T." after its eighth season, which finished airing back in May. Unfortunately, this time the network seems to mean it.

You may remember that it canceled the series twice before only to cave to fan pressure and bring it back. But not this time.

A number of the central stars — most notably lead Shemar Moore ("Criminal Minds") — have moved on. But the good news is, what they've moved on to is a spinoff called "S.W.A.T. Exiles," in which Moore's character, Hondo, is put in charge of a team of new recruits.

Hondo will be joined on the show by old "S.W.A.T." pals Victor Tan (played by David Lim, "Quantico"), Deacon Kay (Jay Harrington, "Better Off Ted") and Bob
