Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

As of this afternoon [Feb. 23], there were almost 20 inches of snow in Central Park, making this a top-10 snowstorm for the city, dating back to 1869. These people know 1869 was a rough one for New York. Snow removal back then was just gangs of Irish street urchins with wooden spoons.

We're still recovering from the president's bramble ramble brain jumble, but the reviews are in and they are bad. The New York Times said it was "a tedious, tiresome performance." The Atlantic said "the State of the Union revealed a sad reality. And Jeffrey Epstein said, "I almost died from boredom. Oops. I mean, I'm already dead. Don't look into it."

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Earlier today [Feb. 26], New York City Mayor Zohran Mamdani made a surprise visit to Washington to meet with President Trump. Yes, this is Mamdani's second time in the Oval Office, and weirdly enough, it was also Trump's.

Tesla announced that they will soon activate the noise-canceling feature for their Cybertruck. This way, you'll no longer hear people making fun of you for owning a Cybertruck.

Well, get this. A new investigation found that over 100 chemicals of unknown safety were secretly added to the U.S. food supply. That story again? The McRib is back.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

I'm going to tell you something. I can't even enjoy being off anymore. I can't stop watching the news. And [President] Trump does so much stuff. I feel like when we're off, it's like I'm on vacation somewhere watching my house on a ring cam and an alligator walks in and there's nothing you can do but watch it and then just try to assess the damage when you get back.

Spirit Airlines yesterday [Feb. 24] announced they are no longer bankrupt. Apparently, at the last minute, somebody stepped in with 800 bucks. Bought the whole company.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

The website NorthJersey.com has launched a March Madness-style competition to determine the best chicken parmesan in the state. Though it's going to be confusing when 30 of the choices are "my cousin Angela's."

Burger King has announced it will install a new AI chatbot into employee headsets to monitor customer interactions and make sure they use specific phrases like "please," "thank you" and "welcome back, Mr. President."

During a visit on Friday [Feb. 27] to a Texas Whataburger location, President Trump spoke to a crowd of customers and said he hopes they do not drink alcohol. They're dining in at Whataburger on a Friday night. They do.

A Thoreau history: PBS, Burns release star-studded documentary

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

In 1981, documentarian Ken Burns collaborated with PBS for the first time, creating what would become the Oscar-nominated film "Brooklyn Bridge" about the planning, development and construction of the titular landmark spanning the East River in New York City. Now, more than 45 years later, and with almost as many large-scale PBS projects to his name, Burns and his team of writers, cinematographers and editors (to name a few roles of many) are set to release a retrospective of one of America's most engaging thinkers and activists.

"Henry David Thoreau," a three-hour, three-part documentary chronicling the life, works and legacy of the eponymous naturalist and essayist, premieres Monday, March 30, on PBS. Completing its first on-air run the following day (March 31), the series promises to draw "on a rich collection of archival materials, newly filmed cinematography ... and interviews with scholars, writers and environmentalists" (per PBS) to detail the lasting legacy of the "Walden" and "Civil Disobedience" author.

Narrated by two-time Academy Award winner George Clooney ("Good Night, and Good Luck," 2005) and featuring the voice-acting talents of Oscar nominee Jeff Goldblum ("Wicked: For Good," 2025) as Thoreau and three-time Oscar-winning actress Meryl Streep ("Only Murders in the Building") in four separate roles, "Henry David Thoreau" also calls upon authors Pico Iyer, Kristen Case, J. Drew Lanham, Douglas Brinkley, Clay Jenkinson, Robin Wall Kimmerer, Bill McKibben and Rebecca Solnit, as well as Thoreau Society board member Lois Brown, Prof. Laura Dassow Walls and journalist Michael Pollan to round out the history and impact of the author on modern American society.

"Henry David Thoreau" examines the life and work of the 19th-century writer in the context of antebellum New England and the larger United States, as well as through the universal themes he focused on in his writings: an individual's relationship to the state, how to live an authentic life, our connection to nature and the impact of race on American life," reads the film's description, as provided by PBS.

"Set against the political and social tensions of the mid-19th century," the description continues, "the film traces Thoreau's journey from his early days in Concord, Massachusetts, to his deep engagement with the moral crises of his time, including industrialization, slavery, war and environmental degradation. Through his essays, journals and landmark works such as 'Walden' and 'Civil Disobedience,' he became an inspiration for generations of writers, thinkers and activists."

And although much of Thoreau's focus in life — and subsequently, in Burns' PBS documentary — was placed on sociopolitical activism and the fair treatment of human beings regardless of one's race or societal status, the essayist also went to great pains to protect the natural world and raise awareness for regarding its impact on human life.

"Thoreau famously retreated into nature not to escape the world but to better understand it," director Erik Ewers said in a PBS press release. "His writing about the wild and nature remains so vibrant because he was acutely aware of how the surrounding countryside was teetering on the edge of industrialization. He believed strongly that we have a connection to the landscape and nature and must remain grounded to fully experience what it means to be human."

This connection between man and nature is also further explored in the documentary by way of Thoreau's involvement in the creation of Transcendentalism, which gained popularity in the United States during the 1820s and '30s thanks to his works and that of his good friend and fellow writer Ralph Waldo Emerson. The philosophical and social movement served as a reaction to Rationalism and was based in the pantheistic sentiment that divinity is found all around us in nature; a nature to which we, as human beings, are essential.

"I do not prefer one religion or philosophy to another," Thoreau wrote in his journal circa 1850. "I have no sympathy with the bigotry and ignorance which make transient and partial and puerile distinctions between one man's faith or form of faith and another's ... to the philosopher, all sects, all nations, are alike."

Produced and directed by the Ewers brothers, Erik and Christopher Loren, both of whom worked with Burns on "Unforgivable Blackness: The Rise and Fall of Jack Johnson" (2004) and "The Roosevelts: An Intimate History" (2014), major funding for the PBS film "was provided by The Better Angels Society and its members," as well as the Mansueto Foundation, Tyson Foods, Inc., the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations and Canadian engineer and billionaire Jeff Skoll, among others.

Additional voice acting for the series is provided by Tate Donovan ("Hercules," 1997) as Unitarian preacher William Ellery Channing and Ted Danson ("The Good Place") as the voice of Emerson.

"Thoreau's insistence that conscience must guide citizenship, and that solitude can be a source of strength, continues to speak directly to our time," Burns told the press for PBS. "He challenged Americans to ask hard questions about who we are and what kind of society we want to build, a challenge that remains as urgent today as it was in his day. But perhaps most importantly he asked us to stop and to pay attention to the world around us."

Don't miss the two-part premiere of "Henry David Thoreau," airing Monday, March 30, on PBS. The film's third and final part airs the following day.

In a pinch: Gated community robberies continue in new 'Your Friends & Neighbors'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Living a life of luxury is, for some, only maintained by a delicately balanced trail of dominoes. When the pieces start to fall, it can take creative measures to try to keep the game alive.

A new season of the streaming drama "Your Friends & Neighbors" premieres Friday, April 3, on Apple TV, starring Jon Hamm ("Fargo") as Andrew "Coop" Cooper, who, after losing his job as a hedge fund manager and finding himself in non-sollicit limbo, resorts to stealing valuables from his wealthy neighbors in suburban New York. To keep up appearances, Coop uses the money he gets pawning his friends' watches and paintings to fund his lifestyle of gated community living and country club leisure.

The first episode of the new season will be available to stream on premiere day, with the rest of the season's 10 episodes dropping weekly each Friday until the season finale on Friday, June 5.

It's not like things were going particularly well for Coop before he was fired from Bailey Russell Capital Management. He was divorced from his therapist wife, Mel (Amanda Peet, "Fatal Attraction"), who left him for his best friend, former NBA player Nick Brandes (Mark Tallman, "First Wives Club"). A consuming career in finance had left Coop with a distant, at best, relationship with his two teenage children, Tori (Isabel Gravitt, "The Watcher") and Hunter (Donovan Colan, "Theater Camp," 2023).

What made Coop ultimately lose his standing among his social circle was being arrested for and later proven innocent of a murder. Coop's legitimate criminality remains under the radar like he's got a guardian angel looking over him, and by last season's finale, he'd managed to repair some of the broken pieces of his family. "For the first time in a while, the future seemed promising," Coop narrates in the upcoming season's official trailer, before a new neighbor moves in.

This season, there is a new hot shot in town, and it doesn't take him very long to pin Coop's deal. Owen Ashe (James Marsden, "Jury Duty") rolls into Westmont in an electric blue McLaren and throws a lavish party for himself to toast his arrival. Though they may not seem to have much in common at the moment, as the new neighbor flaunts his wealth while Coop claws tooth and nail to keep his own, their paths fortuitously cross.

For one, they both prefer to go by their nickname. "My friends just call me Ashe," Owen Ashe insists in the trailer, making the rounds at his welcome soiree. Once the party is over, the jig is up pretty quickly for Coop as Ashe tells him that he's figured out just how "complicated" Coop really is.

Over a swanky restaurant reservation in the trailer, Ashe lays it out for Coop, who is surprised to hear that this relative stranger isn't about to turn him in after learning about his looting business. "I like a guy who colors outside the lines. I deal with a lot of dangerous people. You can help me out, or you can get arrested," Ashe drives a hard bargain.

Returning alongside Hamm, Peet, Tallman, Gravitt and Colan are Olivia Munn ("The Rook") as Coop's former on-and-off romantic partner, Sam Levitt; Hoon Lee ("Warrior") as Coop's business manager, Barney Choi; Lena Hall ("Snowpiercer") as Coop's live-in musician sister, Ali; Aimee Carrero ("The Consultant") as housekeeper and Coop's thieving co-conspirator, Elena; and Eunice Bae ("Lioness") as Barney's wife, Grace.

Hamm executive produces the series with Connie Tavel ("Judging Amy"), Craig Gillespie ("Physical"), Jamie Rosengard ("The Last Thing He Told Me"), Lori Keith Douglas

("Dear Edward") and Stephanie Laing ("Palm Royale"). Laing directed six of this season's 10 episodes.

"Your Friends & Neighbors" was created by Jonathan Tropper ("Ban-thee") and has already been renewed for a third season before the release of the show's sophomore season.

Liberating valuables from rich people who rarely even notice they've gone missing seems like a relatively victimless crime — you can give Coop that — and he starts off his pilfering spree as a solo task. It's easy for him to be invited in, case out what's up for the taking and walk out with it. However, like any thief whose eyes are bigger than their ability to execute, Coop's choice of high-value items prove difficult to flip. Luck is on his side when pawnbroker Lu Varga (Randy Danson, "The Last Temptation of Christ," 1988) easily pieces together what Coop's up to but chooses to join him and help connect him with buyers.

Again, Coop is held up by Elena in the act of lifting Nick's championship ring, but she also opts to become part of Coop's organization for a cut of his earnings. Now Ashe is muscling his way into Coop's hustle.

Hamm spoke to Esquire about the dynamic between Coop and Ashe, saying, "It's like Coop getting a best friend and a frenemy and a boyfriend and all of these things at once." He continued, "It's filling several voids in his life, whether he wants them to be filled or not."

Lock up your diamonds and tune in to the new season of "Your Friends & Neighbors," premiering Friday, April 3, on Apple TV.

Anna Cathcart and Sang Heon Lee in "XO, Kitty"

"XO, Kitty" - Season 3

"Roses are red. Violets are blue. There's a third season of 'XO, Kitty' in store for you," according to Netflix's Tudum — and this time, it's Kitty's biggest year yet. Season 3 lands on the streamer Thursday, April 2, as Kitty (Anna Cathcart, "Odd Squad") returns to the Korean Independent School of Seoul (KISS) for her final year, determined to make it her best yet. With a carefully planned Senior Sunset list, Kitty hopes to create unforgettable memories with her friends, strengthen her connection to her Korean family and finally figure out her complicated feelings for Min-ho (Sang Heon Lee, "Secret Ingredient"). But as the school year unfolds, unexpected revelations threaten to derail the perfect future she imagined. As relationships shift and new faces arrive at KISS — including students played by Sule Thelwell ("Saint X"), Soy Kim ("Joryu Ingan," 2014) and Christine Hwang ("The Beast in Me") — Kitty must learn that growing up rarely follows a script. Surrounded by friends Dae (Choi Min-yeong, "Dream Palace," 2022), Yuri (Gia Kim, "Burning Questions"), Q (Anthony Keyvan, "Love, Victor") and others, she begins to realize that sometimes the most meaningful moments come from embracing the unexpected. Based on "To All The Boys I've Loved Before" by Jenny Han, Sherwin Shilati ("Manifest") directs this third season, with Han serving as showrunner and executive producer.

"Untold: The Death & Life of Lamar Odom"

From NBA glory to a life-threatening crisis, Lamar Odom's story is revisited when "Untold: The Death & Life of Lamar Odom" premieres Tuesday, March 31, on Netflix. This installment of Netflix's "Untold" documentary series explores the turbulent rise, fall and survival of former NBA star Lamar Odom. Once celebrated for his versatility on the court and his two championship runs with the Los Angeles Lakers, Lamar's career and personal life unfolded under intense public scrutiny. In 2015, he was found unresponsive at the Love Ranch brothel outside Las Vegas, an incident that shocked fans and nearly cost him his life. Through candid interviews with Lamar himself, his ex-wife Khloe Kardashian ("Keeping Up with the Kardashians") and others close to the story — including the former manager of the Love Ranch — "The Death & Life of Lamar Odom" revisits the pressures, private struggles and pivotal decisions that shaped his journey. "Untold" was developed as a documentary series by Chapman Way ("The Lionheart," 2023) and Maclain Way ("Wild Wild Country"), with Ryan Duffy ("Truth Be Told: Rick Ankiel," 2019) serving as showrunner and Shondrella Avery ("Deja vu," 2006) as an executive producer.

"Love on the Spectrum" - Season 4

More "meet cutes, crushes, first dates and heartbreaks" (per Tudum) unfold when Season 4 of "Love on the Spectrum" premieres Wednesday, April 1, on Netflix. The Emmy Award-winning docuseries follows neurodivergent daters, with this season returning with familiar faces, new love stories and plenty of heartfelt moments that show just how exciting and nerve-racking dating can be for anyone. Season 4 introduces three new singles — Logan, Emma and Dylan — each searching for a lasting, meaningful connection. They join returning favorites like James, Connor ("It's a Wonderful Life," 2025) and Madison, whose relationships continue to grow, from celebrating anniversaries and holidays to taking meaningful next steps together. "With international adventures, surprising relationship turns and major personal milestones along the way, Season 4 marks a bold new chapter for the beloved series," Tudum concludes. With a season led by director Cian O'Clery ("Star Wars: Episode III - Revenge of the Sith," 2005), "Love on the Spectrum" is produced by Karina Holden ("Blue," 2017) and Rosanna Sun ("The Matrix Reloaded," 2003).

"Rory McIlroy: The Masters Wait" (2026)

From director Drea Cooper ("Flint Town") and producers Zoe Morrison ("They Call Me Magic") and T.J. Martin ("Tina," 2021), "Rory McIlroy: The Masters Wait" premieres Monday, March 30, on Prime Video, following McIlroy's long pursuit of the Masters Tournament, the one major championship standing between him and golf's career Grand Slam. At the center is Augusta National, the sport's most revered course and, for McIlroy, its most unforgiving. The film revisits 2011, when a 21-year-old McIlroy took a four-shot lead into the final round before suffering a collapse that shadowed every return to Augusta. In the years that followed, he won the U.S. Open, PGA Championship and The Open, yet the green jacket remained just out of reach. Built around the final round of the 2025 Masters, the documentary unfolds as McIlroy faces the course once again, tracing a journey marked by pressure, setbacks and perseverance.

"The Feud on Shelbury Drive" - Season 1

Polite smiles fade as a dispute between neighbors begins to simmer when the first season of "The Feud on Shelbury Drive" premieres Monday, March 30, available on the Acorn TV Prime Video channel. Emma (Jill Halfpenny, "EastEnders") and her husband, John (Rupert Penry-Jones, "Spooks"), appear to have the perfect life on the peaceful, well-kept Shelbury Drive. But when Emma proposes a kitchen extension, a seemingly ordinary renovation sets off an extraordinary chain reaction. Neighbors who once traded smiles and small talk begin to bristle, complaints sharpen into confrontations and simmering resentment gives way to something more unsettling. As tensions spread from house to house, the street's polished facade begins to crack, and the people Emma and John thought they knew reveal far darker sides of themselves. In this six-part drama created and written by Aschlin Ditta ("Doc Martin"), the series also stars Ray Fearon ("Beauty and the Beast," 2017), Amy Nuttall ("Downton Abbey"), Tessa Peake-Jones ("Grantchester"), Larry Lamb

"Five Nights at Freddy's 2" (2025)

The nightmare Mike (Josh Hutcherson, "The Hunger Games," 2012) tried leaving behind last year returns when "Five Nights at Freddy's 2" arrives Friday, April 3, available on Prime Video with the Peacock Premium Plus channel subscription. One year after the supernatural terror at Freddy Fazbear's Pizza in "Five Nights at Freddy's" (2023), this sequel finds Mike struggling to bury the past while shielding Abby (Piper Rubio, "For All Mankind") from the truth about what really happened there. Alongside police officer Vanessa (Elizabeth Lail, "You"), he has kept the secret for as long as he can. However, Abby still misses Freddy, Bonnie, Chica and Foxy. So when she runs away to find them, Mike is pulled back toward the place he fears most. As Mike and Vanessa race to find Abby, they uncover a darker force at the heart of Freddy's story — one that has been lying in wait for far longer than they realized. Based on Scott Cawthon's hit game series, the film is directed by Emma Tammi ("The Wind," 2018), with Beatriz Sequeira ("The Invisible Man," 2020) serving as executive producer.

Fieri's fired up

Sixteen chefs enter the second bracket of "TOC's" talent-filled seventh season

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

The second round of "Tournament of Champions" seventh season begins Sunday, March 29, on Food Network.

In this bracket-style cooking competition, Guy Fieri ("Guy's Grocery Games") challenges 32 talented chefs to create dishes with randomly assigned ingredients, equipment, cooking styles and time limits. Much like previous seasons, the competition will feature "blind judging by some of the biggest names in the food world" (per Food Network), asking this season's chefs to take on 31 challenges' worth of head-to-head battles over eight weeks in order to find the next "TOC" champion — a cook who will take home the coveted Tournament of Champions belt and an impressive $150,000 prize.

According to the network, this year's competitors include "four of the most powerful opponents to ever compete on the series" — but as this second bracket begins with 16 talented chefs remaining, that auspicious "top four" classification could go to just about anyone.

While the season's chefs include "proven warriors and fierce new challengers," according to an announcement shared with People,

Guy Fieri hosts "Tournament of Champions"

it's also said that the players will face the series' "biggest surprise ever."

"Year after year, chefs up their gameplay and strategy, so we need to constantly raise the stakes to keep the competition next level," Fieri said.

As the competition heats up, Fieri will be joined by sideline reporters Tiffani Faison ("Beachside Brawl") and Justin Warner ("Guy's Grocery Games"), alongside Simon Majumdar ("The Best Thing I Ever Ate"), who talks strategy and performance with guest judges.

During this week's key matchup, chef Britt Rescigno will compete against chef Kevin Lee. While Lee bested chef Adam Greenberg to advance to this second round, Rescigno is making her fourth appearance on "TOC," and she's looking to make a big impression.

In this season's second episode, during the qualifying rounds, Rescigno told cameras: "I will be in the finale, and I will take home the belt.

"I've trained all year for this," she said, cooking up a storm. "I'm here to win the whole thing this year."

Produced by Knuckle Sandwich and Lando Entertainment, Season 7 of "Tournament of Champions" continues Sunday, March 29, on Food Network.

Aaron Judge of the New York Yankees

NCIS

③ 8:00 PM

Agent Alden Parker (Gary Cole) leads his team of Naval Criminal Investigative agents through another complex case during this latest episode. Sean Murray, Wilmer Valderrama, Katrina Law and Brian Dietzen also star in this beloved procedural series.

Will Trent

⑫ ⑫ 8:00 PM

Special Agent Will Trent (Ramón Rodríguez) of the GBI has his work cut out for him during this series' fourth season as he tackles gripping new cases with his team. All the while, Trent must confront emotional scars still lingering from his past.

Doc

④④ 9:00 PM

Joan's (Felicity Huffman) last day at Westside is quite eventful as she chooses an unlikely successor, crowns a Chief Resident and imparts some wisdom to the next generation. Meanwhile, tensions rise between Amy (Molly Parker) and Jake (Jon Ecker).

MLB Baseball

TBS TRUTV YES 9:30 PM

The 2026 MLB season may be just beginning. However, the aspirations of Aaron Judge, Anthony Volpe and the rest of the New York Yankees look long-term as they visit T-Mobile Park in Seattle to take on Julio Rodriguez, Cal Raleigh and the Seattle Mariners.

Nick Cannon hosts "The Masked Singer"

Chicago Med

5:00 PM

Goodwin (S. Epatha Merkeron) and Dr. Charles (Oliver Platt) work to save patients' lives as part of Chicago's top medical team while trying to maintain the interpersonal relationships with the doctors, nurses and staff at Gaffney Chicago Medical Center.

The Masked Singer

12:00 4:00 PM

A little song and dance goes a long way in this season finale as panelists Jenny McCarthy-Wahlberg, Ken Jeong, Rita Ora and Robin Thicke join host Nick Cannon to judge mystery celebrity performers as they attempt to claim the Golden Mask trophy.

Abbott Elementary

8:30 PM

School is canceled. April Fools! Janine (Quinta Brunson), Gregory (Tyler James Williams), Jacob (Chris Perfetti) and their fellow teachers at Willard R. Abbott Elementary celebrate the annual tradition of April Fools' Day, whether or not they want to.

NHL Hockey

9:00 PM

It's the final meeting of the season for these two teams in what will be a critical late-season clash as the St. Louis Blues heads to Crypto.com Arena in Los Angeles to take on the Los Angeles Kings. The Kings won both earlier matchups.

Patrick Sabongui stars in "The Hunting Party"

Scrabble

WPIX 8:00 PM

How many letters are in the word W-I-N-N-E-R? Craig Ferguson hosts a real-life, gamified version of the classic board game, seeing players competing in word-based games to win points. Who will walk away with the E-P-I-C $10,000 prize?

Ghosts

③ 8:30 PM

To run an inn, there are a few things that are non-negotiables. Beds, breakfast, hot water and, of course, a couple of ghosts. At least for Jay (Utkarsh Ambudkar) and Sam (Rose McIver), they've got ghosts a plenty, but hot water? Not so much.

9-1-1: Nashville

⑫ ⑫ 9:00 PM

Music City is safe from dangers thanks to Capt. Don Hart (Chris O'Donnell) of Station 113 and his team of firefighters, emergency responders, EMTs, police officers and 911 dispatchers. Jessica Capshaw, LeAnn Rimes and Kimberly Williams-Paisley also star.

The Hunting Party

⑤ 10:00 PM

As Season 2 continues, Bex (Melissa Roxburgh) and her team turn their attention to Elliot Carr (Josh Dallas), a high-end shoemaker that moonlights as a serial killer called the Connecticut Cobbler. Will they be able to catch Carr before he kills again?

"Friends Like These:
The Murder of Skylar Neese"

From director Clair Titley ("The British Woman on Death Row," 2012) and executive producers Rebecca Burrell ("Hospital") and Melanie Archer ("Timewatch"), "Friends Like These: The Murder of Skylar Neese" is available now on Hulu. This gripping true-crime docuseries revisits the 2012 murder of Skylar Neese, a 16-year-old whose sudden disappearance sent shockwaves through her tight-knit community in West Virginia. In the early hours of a summer morning, Skylar quietly slips out of her home to meet two friends — a decision that would mark the last time she is seen alive. But when Skylar doesn't return home, the search for her takes a haunting turn, as clues buried in text messages, shifting stories and online posts begin to surface. As police dig deeper, the investigation begins to close in on her two best friends, Sheila and Rachel, who were the last to see her alive. Unflinching and deeply personal, "Friends Like These" is told through social media posts, intimate interviews and Skylar's own words, reconstructing the days leading up to her death and building toward a single, devastating truth.

"Dear Killer Nannies"
- Season 1

A childhood shaped by fear and power comes into focus when "Dear Killer Nannies" makes its series premiere this Wednesday, April 1, on Hulu. Seen through the eyes of a young Juampi (played by newcomer Miguel Tamayo), this gripping coming-of-age drama unfolds in the shadows of Pablo Escobar Gaviria's (John Leguizamo, from 1996's "Romeo + Juliet") sprawling cartel empire. Explor[ing] loyalty, fear and the loss of innocence, the series follows Juampi as he grows up surrounded by "killer nannies" — hitmen employed by his father to keep him safe. But as a teenage Juampi (Janer Villareal, "One Hundred Years of Solitude") begins to understand the truth behind his father's crimes, he must confront the weight of his surname and decide whether to carry on the family legacy or choose a different path. Inspired by the real experiences of Juan Pablo Escobar, "Dear Killer Nannies" has a stellar cast that includes Laura Rodriguez ("Memories of My Father," 2020), Juanita Molina ("Medusa"), Julian Zuluaga ("The Other Side," 2024), Rafael Zea ("One Hundred Years of Solitude") and Danharry Colorado ("My Neighbor Adolf," 2022), with Sebastian Ortega ("In the Mud") as showrunner.

"The Devil Wears Prada" (2006)

With "The Devil Wears Prada 2" set to arrive in theaters on May 1, now is the perfect time to revisit "The Devil Wears Prada" (2006) when it arrives on Hulu Wednesday, April 1. Directed by David Frankel ("One Chance," 2013) and based on the novel by Lauren Weisberger (who also co-wrote the upcoming "The Devil Wears Prada 2"), this sharp comedy-drama follows aspiring journalist Andy Sachs (Anne Hathaway, "The Princess Diaries," 2001), who lands a coveted job at Runway magazine in New York City. But her big break quickly turns into a trial by fire under the command of formidable editor-in-chief Miranda Priestly (Meryl Streep, "Only Murders in the Building"), whose icy demands and impossible standards push Andy to her limit. As Andy learns the ropes of working in a cutthroat industry — guided by Nigel (Stanley Tucci, "The Lovely Bones," 2009) and her clashing co-assistant Emily (Emily Blunt, "Oppenheimer," 2023) — she secures a trip to Paris Fashion Week. But behind the glitz and glamor, Andy must decide how much of herself she's willing to sacrifice to succeed in Miranda's world. Karen Rosenfelt ("Twilight," 2008) and Joseph M. Caracciolo Jr. ("Dune: Part 1," 2021) executive produce.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Every now and then, Seth Meyers talks to his cue-card guy. Does he actually still use cue cards instead of a teleprompter or is it just to give him someone to talk to?

A: Apparently, both things can be true. Seth Meyers does, in fact, still use cue cards for "Late Night With Seth Meyers," and he says it's a habit he shares with a lot of "Saturday Night Live" grads. "Everyone who comes off of 'SNL' sticks with cue cards," Meyers said during an audience Q&A session when asked about his relationship with cue cards. He said he just trusts them more than teleprompters, which are subject to all sorts of technical glitches. As for his relationship with his cue-card guy specifically, it's about the same. "Wally does cue cards at 'SNL.' He did the very first cue card I ever read off of."

Seth Meyers hosts "Late Night With Seth Meyers"

"Wally" is Wally Feresten, who still holds the cards on "Late Night" and "Saturday Night Live," and has done other shows over the years.

In an article he wrote for LateNighter.com — a news website specifically devoted to late-night TV — Feresten said that he's been doing "Late Night" since Meyers took over, and that Meyers started including him in sketches right off the bat. But their relationship shifted during the COVID-19 pandemic, when Feresten got to sit on the couch as a last-minute fill-in guest. He called it "one of the coolest things to happen to me in my entire 35 years of working at NBC."

He mostly talks about the awe of the experience, but he also mentions that it gave him a chance to promote his side hustle, CueCardsByWally.com, where he sells personalized, autographed cue cards.

Q: What ever happened to Richard Karn? Is he still working?

A: Richard Karn ("Family Feud") is indeed still working, and still hanging out with his buddy Tim Allen ("Toy Story," 1995) when he can.

Karn is best known for his role on '90s sitcom "Home Improvement," playing Al Borland, the actually competent assistant to Allen's bumbling lead on the sitcom's show-within-a-show, "Tool Time."

Shortly after "Home Improvement" ended in 1999, Karn took over as host of the long-running game show "Family Feud," but left that in 2006.

He hasn't reached those heights of fame again, but he's still a famous face and has taken a steady stream of guest roles since.

That includes popping up on pretty much all of Allen's subsequent projects — the two are friends in real life as well. Most recently, he appeared on the Season 2 premiere of Allen's new sitcom, "Shifting Gears," and did a brief arc on his previous one, "Last Man Standing," in 2013.

He and Allen also hosted a couple of reality shows together on History Channel — "Assembly Required" in 2021 and "More Power" in 2022, both based on their "Home Improvement" dynamic. But neither really caught on, and they were both canceled after a season.
