Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

[President] Trump has a big PR problem on his decomposing hands. So yesterday [Jan. 27], he tried to change the narrative by flying out to Iowa for a rally about the economy. There's just one problem. We just found out that in January consumer confidence collapsed to its lowest level since 2014. Well, yeah. That year, everyone's confidence collapsed after John Travolta tried to introduce Idina Menzel.

Every month, something called the Conference Board releases a consumer confidence index, and this January, the numbers are truly stunning. I'm talking about 84.5, 65.1 and 113.7. Do you know what that means? Because I don't. And that's scary. Where are we headed from here? 293.5, 47.6 or the unthinkable 420.69?

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Valentine's Day is around the corner, and I heard that Chick-fil-A is bringing back their heart-shaped trays of nuggets. Yeah, by the way, a heart full of nuggets was also the result of Trump's last MRI.

I read that Lowe's is launching an initiative to reach younger shoppers. Meanwhile, Home Depot will keep being a place where you slap an AirTag on Dad and let him wander around for hours.

A new poll found that Trump's approval rating on immigration has dropped to a record low. Yeah, I'm not saying it's bad, but "Heated Rivalry" has a higher approval at the Vatican.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

You know, today [Jan. 22] is a day of great importance here in Hollywood. Today is Oscar nomination day — what Good Friday is to Vatican City, Oscar Thursday is to us today. Very solemn day, very holy day and the nominees for the 98th annual Academy Awards were unrolled bright and early this morning. Very early. I was up at 5:30 just to make sure Matt Damon wasn't nominated. He was not and I want to thank the academy for that.

The movie "Sinners" had the most nominations not just of the year, of any movie ever. Sixteen nominations for "Sinners." That beats the previous record of 14, which is a tie between "Titanic," "All About Eve" and "La La Land," all three of which went to win Best Picture. Although in the case of "La La Land" only for about four minutes before they gave it to "Moonlight."

Late Night With Seth Meyers

While speaking to business leaders yesterday [Jan. 21] in Davos, President Trump said that foreign nations were taking advantage of the U.S. before he imposed tariffs and added, "Our country was being plucked like you pluck a chicken." Thanks for the analogy, Farmer Brown. The only chicken you've plucked is a McNugget from a box of 20.

According to the latest numbers, the Eagles' album "Their Greatest Hits (1971-1975)" is the best-selling album of all time, largely because the people who love that album keep forgetting they already bought it.

Before Baker St.: New series follows a 'Young Sherlock'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

From Mel Brooks' 1974 cult classic "Young Frankenstein" to CBS's "The Big Bang Theory" spinoff "Young Sheldon," audiences have time and time again proven their love for character origin stories. When a captivating character is created, fans often scramble to learn anything they can about their new media companion, be it in book, movie or television format.

One particular character, famed detective Sherlock Holmes, has stood the test of time better than most. Although the clever Englishman was brought to life 139 years ago by Scottish author and physician Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, fans of the fictional investigator are still clawing at page and screen for more. Luckily for them, the adaptations just keep coming.

"Young Sherlock," a new Sherlock Holmes prequel series from grungy British filmmaker Guy Ritchie ("Snatch," 2000), premieres Wednesday, March 4, on Prime Video.

Split into eight episodes, all of which are to be released at once, "Young Sherlock" stars Hero Fiennes Tiffin ("The Ministry of Ungentlemanly Warfare," 2024) as the titular budding brainiac. Nephew to actors Ralph Fiennes ("28 Years Later," 2025) and Joseph Fiennes ("The Handmaid's Tale"), Fiennes Tiffin's breakout role came in 2009 when he was cast as the 11-year-old version of Tom Riddle in "Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince," the sixth film in the eight-film series. Now, he stars as another young icon — albeit one much more benevolent despite his earmark troublemaking and audacity.

"Sherlock Holmes is a disgraced young man — raw and unfiltered — when he finds himself wrapped up in a murder case that threatens his liberty," reads the official series description, as reported by The Hollywood Reporter. "His first ever case unravels a globe-trotting conspiracy that changes his life forever. Unfolding in 1870s Oxford and adventuring abroad, the series will expose the early antics of the anarchic adolescent who is yet to evolve into Baker Street's most renowned resident."

Although this will be Fiennes Tiffin's first time portraying Holmes, series director Ritchie is hardly new to the detective's world. Having previously helmed the 2009 movie "Sherlock Holmes" and its 2011 sequel, "Sherlock Holmes: A Game of Shadows," both of which starred recovering bad boys Robert Downey Jr. ("Iron Man," 2008) and Jude Law ("The Talented Mr. Ripley," 1999), the series' trailer illustrates that Ritchie plans to bring the same signature grit to "Young Sherlock" as the leading man works to solve an on-campus murder whilst trying to pass classes despite his penchant for questioning authority.

"He's so decisive and so good at what he does," Fiennes Tiffin said of Ritchie, with whom he also previously worked on "The Ministry of Ungentlemanly Warfare," in an interview with Collider. "It's easy to trust him. From Day 1, he'd be saying, 'Do it like this,' or 'do it like that.' He could be quite direct with his direction, which I really like."

The series is created by Matthew Parkhill ("Rogue") and follows several key points from author Andrew Lane's "Young Sherlock Holmes" young adult books, although Fiennes Tiffin told Collider that some liberties were taken with respect to that source material as well.

"What we're doing is recreating this character, but before we initially meet him, so it's about getting the measurements right on how much of Sherlock to put in there and how many glimpses to put in of who Sherlock is going to become, because you want to see him," said Fiennes Tiffin. "In any origin story, you want to see how they got to where they are."

In the official trailer, for instance, would-be viewers are introduced to the series' leading man within the first four seconds, with Holmes cheekily commenting that he's "always been more of a thinker than a fighter" as several clips of sucker punches and headbutts follow as punctuation. While the elder iteration of Holmes isn't necessarily known to be a brute, his arrogance and emotional detachment could signal a latent dangerous edge, one which may have been curbed during his youth or young adult years.

By the looks of it, Holmes' university friend — and future nemesis — James Moriarty (Donal Finn, "The Wheel of Time") also plays a big part in his personal development. From uncovering secret passageways and detecting bombs together to commandeering carriages and attending lavish parties at each other's side, Holmes and Moriarty appear inseparable at Oxford. Whether their relationship-defining rift happens at school or significantly later in life, audiences do not yet know, but either way, their friendship is ripe for drama and action.

"Young Sherlock" co-stars Colin Firth ("The King's Speech," 2010) as Sir Bucephalus Hodge; Max Irons ("Condor") as Mycroft Holmes; Natascha McElhone ("Californication") as Cordelia Holmes; Ravi Aujla ("Slow Horses") as Kishore Malik; and new talent Zine Tseng as Princess Gulun Shou'an. Joseph Fiennes and Holly Cattle ("Cobra") also star.

Don't miss your chance to travel back in time to witness the birth of a brilliant mind when "Young Sherlock" drops all eight episodes Wednesday, March 4, on Prime Video.

Law of the land: Montana's 'Marshals' gain a new recruit

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Yeehaw! The Duttonverse has expanded its boundaries yet again with another spinoff of Paramount+'s wildly successful cable western "Yellowstone," but this time with a broadcast debut. "Marshals" premieres Sunday, March 1, on CBS. The new neo-western follows Kayce Dutton (Luke Grimes, "Eddington," 2025) as he accepts an offer to join a group of U.S. Marshals keeping watch over growing violent crime in Montana.

If you haven't caught up on the fifth and final season of "Yellowstone," fair warning that there are spoilers ahead. Now living — but not thriving — on the piece of land that was once Yellowstone Ranch and mourning the loss of a life that was once promised to him, Kayce is waiting for purpose to find him.

That purpose arrives in the form of a job offer from U.S. Marshal Pete Calvin (Logan Marshall-Green, "And Just Like That..."), who tells Kayce in the official trailer that his stop by the ranch isn't just a wellness check, but "a no man left behind kind of thing."

The two have a shared history in the military, so the former Navy SEAL members join up again, dust off their tactical skills and put them to use.

The Marshals and their new recruit "must balance the high psychological cost of serving as the last line of defense in the region's war on violence with their duty to their families," explains CBS.

Reprising their roles from "Yellowstone" to help complete Kayce's family are Brecken Merrill ("This Is Us") as his son, Tate, Gil Birmingham ("Under the Banner of Heaven") as Chief Thomas Rainwater and Mo Brings Plenty ("The Good Lord Bird") as Mo.

The other members of the Marshals team, Kayce's new family, include Belle Skinner (Arielle Kebbel, "Rescue: HI-Surf"), Andrea Cruz (Ash Santos, "Pulse") and Miles Kittle (Tatanka Means, "Killers of the Flower Moon," 2023). Brett Cullen ("Ransom Canyon") stars in a recurring role as Harry Gifford, head of the U.S. Marshals in Montana.

In the series trailer, Harry confronts Kayce about his motivations for joining the Marshal unit, getting back as an answer: "Yellowstone's gone. Same for most of my family. And as for vengeance, the day's still young."

There might not be time to psychoanalyze everyone's reasons for joining the unit, as they get down to business quickly in the trailer. A violent criminal network has arrived in Montana and the situation couldn't sound more daunting. Where is the unit headed to confront the danger? "Just over the Wyoming border, place called the Zone of Death," Belle explains. "This job always takes us to the best places," she adds with a bit of gallows humor.

Still a cowboy at heart, Kayce helps the unit patrol the plains on horseback and uses his roping skills to impress his new team members. Unmistakable in a Stetson and tactical vest, the new role seems to suit Kayce well.

"Marshals" is a first for the "Yellowstone" universe, not only for premiering on network TV ("Yellowstone" brought in big ratings for Paramount Network and its two prequel series — "1883" and "1923" — are both Paramount+ shows), but also being the first foray in the franchise to not have Taylor Sheridan ("Sicario," 2015) at the helm as series creator.

Spencer Hudnut, who was showrunner and executive producer for the long-running CBS/Paramount+ military drama "SEAL Team," created "Marshals," his first credit as creator after "SEAL Team" wrapped up in 2024. He also serves as the writer of the series premiere, titled "Piya Wiconi," which was directed by Greg Yaitanes ("Presumed Innocent").

Perhaps as a reward to loyal viewers for being such dedicated fans of the originating series, CBS has been generous with a look into the inciting action of the premiere episode.

According to the network's episode description, Kayce joins a Marshal unit that is "hunting down a bomber targeting Broken Rock Reservation." The team steps into action when "the trail leads to a dangerous encounter with an armed anti-government militia."

Whether Kayce wanted to join the fight, the fight for peace and order in Montana was coming to him either way. After having sold the land that made up Yellowstone Ranch back to Thomas and the Broken Rock Reservation for a symbolic amount of cash at the conclusion of "Yellowstone," Kayce was given a portion of the land to live on and operate as a ranch.

The new series was first announced with the originating series tie-in name of "Y: Marshals," referring to the brand bore by all who were willing to make the lifelong commitment to Yellowstone Ranch before simplifying the show title.

Don't miss the premiere of the brand-new drama "Marshals," Sunday, March 1, on CBS

'Ladies of London' return sees socialites navigating new challenges

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Aristocrats adapt: After spending nearly a decade on hiatus, "Ladies of London" returns with a fresh new cast of blue bloods. "Ladies of London: The New Reign" — the series' long-awaited spiritual fourth season — premieres with a special two-hour event Thursday, March 5, on Bravo, and is available to stream the next day on Peacock.

The series continuation will feature "a new wave of British blue bloods, ambitious American expats and glamorous international socialites," according to Bravo. "As tradition collides with the fast-paced globalized world, these power players redefine what it means to belong to high society in one of the most iconic cities in the world. Here, connections are currency, and the crown isn't the only thing up for grabs."

Ahead of the Season 4 premiere, Bravo has announced the series' socialites, including the likes of Lady Emma Thynn, Martha Sitwell, Mark-Francis Vandelli, Lottie Kane, Misse Begiri, Kimi Murdoch, Myka Meier and Margo Stillely.

While cast members can be seen donning fabulous outfits, taking part in outrageous arguments and strutting down the streets of London in a trailer for Season 4, fans can also expect intense moments of personal strife as the socialites tackle the unique challenges that come with living in high society.

Lady Thynn, for example, once made history as the first woman of color to marry into the British aristocracy as the Marchioness of Bath. While working as a model and a luxury brand ambassador, Lady Thynn balances her aristocratic duties, public scrutiny and an acute health concern.

Lady Emma Thynn stars in "Ladies of London: The New Reign"

Sitwell, meanwhile, comes face-to-face with financial ruin following her divorce from a well-off baronet. Having once experienced homelessness, Sitwell is no stranger to rebuilding from ruins, but still must contemplate if her current circumstances could've been avoided.

Haitian American heiress Murdoch can easily navigate her career as an antiques dealer, but navigating single motherhood is a job unlike any other. Much like Murdoch, Begiri has recently begun her journey as a single mother, leaving viewers to wonder if the ladies will bond or clash over their similar circumstances.

Where duty, drama and disaster collide, "Ladies of London: The New Reign" makes its debut on Bravo Thursday, March 5, before streaming on Peacock the next day.

Relationship rodeo: Big things are about to go down in Charleston, South Carolina. Join "Southern Charm" alum Leva Bonaparte as she manages the chaotic staff of her King Street restaurant kingdom in Season 4 of "Southern Hospitality," premiering Wednesday, March 4, on Bravo.

Alongside her husband, Lamar, Leva owns four restaurants along Charleston's famous King Street, with her upscale nightclub, the Republic Garden & Lounge, shining as her crown jewel. This "Southern Charm" spinoff follows Leva as she manages the ins and outs of business and navigates the personal lives of her talented servers, chefs, bartenders, managers and staff members who make the Republic endlessly successful.

As Bravo describes: "At Republic, there's never a dull shift — where a splash of shade, a pinch of drama and rumors bubbling just beneath the surface keep the party going in the electrifying VIP world."

Now entering its fourth season, "Southern Hospitality" sees the return of cast members Joe Bradley, Bradley Carter, TJ Dinch, Michols Pena, Maddi Reese, Lake Rucker, Emmy Sharrett, Mia Alario, Grace Lilly and Molly Moore, while introducing viewers to new hires Justin Assad and Bella Starcher, who "quickly shake up the dynamic," according to the network.

A trailer released for the upcoming season teases difficult times to come, as the Republic staff struggle to balance their busy work schedules and their drama-filled personal lives.

Last we saw, fans were left to contemplate the fate of fledgling couple Joe and Maddi, who first went public with their relationship during "Southern Hospitality's" third season. While their relationship seemed rocky during the Season 3 reunion, fans can expect more turmoil for the duo as Maddi expresses concern over major issues in their relationship during the Season 4 trailer.

The relationship woes continue as newly engaged Emmy is seen having a breakdown in the same trailer, tearfully talking to Bradley after he accuses her of having "stabbed the knife" in his back.

It's not only the staff experiencing strife, however, as Leva is shown having a serious conversation with former VIP host Joe regarding his role at Republic. While Joe claims to be "the face" of the company, Leva reminds Joe that he has been replaced, leaving Joe to wrestle with the realities of his new role.

Serving up nonstop drama in the Holy City, Season 4 of "Southern Hospitality" begins Wednesday, March 4, on Bravo.

Rachel Weisz and Leo Woodall star in "Vladimir"

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

"Vladimir"

Based on the novel by Julia May Jonas, passion ignites where reason falters in "Vladimir," premiering Thursday, March 5, on Netflix. When a passionate but reckless professor's (Rachel Weisz, "The Mummy," 1999) world begins to unravel, she becomes intensely fixated on her magnetic, young new colleague (Leo Woodall, "The White Lotus"). As tension builds and secrets simmer, her growing obsession pulls her further from the life she knows. Caught between desire, ambition and impulse, she starts to risk everything to bring her most scandalous fantasies to life. With episodes directed by "Killing Eve's" Francesca Gregorini, "Vladimir" also stars Kayli Carter ("The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel"), Elisa Moolecherry ("Molly's Game," 2017), John Slattery ("Ant-Man," 2015), Jessica Henwick ("Love and Monsters," 2020) and Matt Walsh ("Ted," 2012). Additionally "The Firm's" Chris Pavoni produces the series.

"The Dinosaurs"

"The Dinosaurs" docuseries roars back to life when all four episodes of director Nick Shoolingin-Jordan's ("Life on Our Planet") offering land Friday, March 6, on Netflix. Narrated by Academy Award winner Morgan Freeman ("The Dark Knight," 2008), "The Dinosaurs" traces the epic rise and fall of Earth's oldest creatures. Beginning with the tiny, fleet-footed Marasuchus on the sun-scorched supercontinent of Pangaea, the docuseries shows how this unassuming animal carried the blueprint for dinosaurs that would dominate the planet for 150 million years. Across land, sea and sky, viewers meet towering giants like Mamenchisaurus, armored fighters such as Ankylosaurus and fierce predators like Tyrannosaurus rex. From early feathered fliers that hint at modern birds to massive ocean leviathans, "The Dinosaurs" uses the latest fossil research to reveal how these creatures adapted, thrived and eventually disappeared, leaving a legacy that still shapes life on Earth today. Executive produced by Steven Spielberg ("Saving Private Ryan," 1998) and Amblin Entertainment in collaboration with the creators of "Our Planet," it's a breathtaking journey through prehistoric life.

"War Machine" (2026)

From writer-director Patrick Hughes ("Red Hill," 2010) and executive producer Valerie Bleth Sharp ("Westworld"), a deadly mission lands on Netflix when "War Machine" premieres Friday, March 6. During the final stage of U.S. Army Ranger selection, an elite unit faces a training exercise that quickly escalates into a fight for survival against a terrifying, otherworldly threat. As one soldier (Alan Ritchson, "The Hunger Games: Catching Fire," 2013) leads his team through grueling terrain and relentless attacks, the monstrous enemy pushes them to their limit and every decision could mean life or death. "War Machine" also stars Dennis Quaid ("The Day After Tomorrow," 2004), Stephan James ("If Beale Street Could Talk," 2018), Jai Courtney ("Divergent," 2014), Esai Morales ("NYPD Blue"), Blake Richardson ("Mystery Road"), Keynyn Lonsdale ("The Flash") and Daniel Webber ("Billy the Kid").

Alan Ritchson and Stephan James in "War Machine"

Kevin Kline and Laura Linney in "American Classic"

"American Classic" - Season 1

One actor's fall from Broadway fame sparks a complicated homecoming in Season 1 of "American Classic," premiering Sunday, March 1, on Prime Video via MGM+. Kevin Kline ("Wild Wild West," 1999) stars as Richard Bean, a self-absorbed stage performer whose very public meltdown sends him retreating to the hometown theater where his dreams first began. Hoping to restore both his reputation and his family's struggling theater, he directs a play and casts himself as the lead. But his return stirs old tensions with his brother (Jon Tenney, "Scandal") and ex-girlfriend (Laura Linney, "Love Actually," 2003) — who is now married to his brother and serving as the town's mayor. "As old loves resurface and buried secrets emerge, Richard must confront the consequences of his past actions and the family and town he left behind for fame and glamour" (per MGM+). Through rehearsals, setbacks and moments of hard-won clarity, Richard begins to rediscover what truly matters to him in life. From series creators Bob Martin ("Michael: Every Day") and Michael Hoffman ("The Last Station," 2009) — who directs episodes alongside Tricia Brock ("The Witcher") — the series also stars Len Cariou ("Blue Bloods"), Nell Verlaque ("Overcompensating") and Michael Townsend Wright ("The Rat Pack," 1998).

"DTF St. Louis"

A twisted love affair, a dating app and one shocking death set the stage for "DTF St. Louis." Premiering Sunday, March 1, and available on Prime Video via the HBO Max channel, this limited series follows the love triangle among three adults grappling with middle-age malaise — a situation that quickly escalates when Floyd (David Harbour, "Stranger Things") is found dead, raising questions about whether love escalated to murder. After his death, Clark (Jason Bateman, "Arrested Development") continues his affair with Floyd's wife, Carol (Linda Cardellini, "ER"), while investigators — "Monster's" Richard Jenkins and Joy Sunday, from Netflix's hit series "Wednesday" — begin piecing together the events leading up to the tragedy. Also starring Wynn Everett ("The Newsroom"), Asher Miles Fallica ("Ozark") and Chastity Dotson ("Veronica Mars"), "DTF St. Louis" is written and directed by showrunner Steve Conrad ("Patriot"), with Todd Black ("Seven Pounds," 2008) executive producing the series.

"Ted" - Season 2

High school gets a little wilder when "Ted" returns for Season 2, premiering Thursday, March 5, available

Ted and Scott Grimes in "Ted" on Prime Video via the Peacock channel. Set in 1994, Ted (Seth MacFarlane, "Family Guy"), the foul-mouthed but loyal teddy bear, navigates his senior year alongside best friend John Bennett (Max Burkholder, "Daddy Day Care," 2003). With John's parents, Matty (Scott Grimes, "American Dad!") and Susan (Alanna Ubach, "Euphoria"), and cousin Blaire (Giorgia Whigham, "Sierra Burgess Is a Loser," 2018) around, mischief and family clashes are never far away. Season 2 follows John as he worries he might graduate from high school without having his first girlfriend, while Ted's attempts at playing matchmaker only make things worse. MacFarlane serves as writer, director and co-showrunner alongside Paul Corrigan ("Modern Family") and Brad Walsh ("King of the Hill").

Million dollar meals

Former 'Top Chef' host leads culinary competition with $1 million prize

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

“The biggest prize in culinary television history” (per Paramount+) will be awarded during Season 1 of the all-new “America’s Culinary Cup,” premiering Wednesday, March 4, on CBS with a supersized 90-minute episode and streaming the next day on Paramount+.

Hosted and produced by former “Top Chef” host Padma Lakshmi, this all-star competition offers a $1 million prize to its winner, testing 16 of the nation’s most talented chefs on the series’ designated “10 culinary commandments”: meat, vegetables, sauces, dessert, innovation, flavors, sustainability, world cuisine, consistency, culinary science and technology. The chef’s creations will be judged by Michelin-starred chefs Michael Cimarusti and Wylie Dufresne, who evaluate taste, creativity, presentation and technique to determine who advances in the competition and who will be eliminated from the game.

In this first season of competition, the contestants in question include six Michelin-starred chefs — an honor held by fewer than one percent of restaurants worldwide. The season also features two Bocuse d’Or medalists, two James Beard Award winners, 14 James

Michael Cimarusti, Padma Lakshmi and Wylie Dufresne feature in “America’s Culinary Cup”

Beard Award nominees and recipients of numerous other top-tier culinary honors, according to Paramount, with each chef “bringing their unique flair and signature dishes to the table.”

Speaking to press at CBS’s presentation at the Television Critics Association Winter Tour, Lakshmi explained why she was drawn back into the world of culinary competitions after leaving “Top Chef” in 2023.

“I’ve obviously had almost two decades of experience in the genre, and I thought the genre was ready for a shake-up, for a refresh and for something new and different. And I wanted to be the one who did it,” she said.

She continued on to say, “I asked a lot of people who are the best, ‘What are the most fundamental skills that every world-renowned chef has to master?’ And that is how we did it. Those are the principles of cooking. . . . They’re designed to be something that tests the mettle of our chefs in every aspect of their career, but it is also designed to be something that’s very approachable and understandable to anyone who’s ever cooked for their family.”

With $1 million on the line, every sear, seasoning and second counts.

“America’s Culinary Cup” makes its debut on CBS Wednesday, March 4, and streams on Paramount+ the next day.

Glen Powell in "The Running Man"

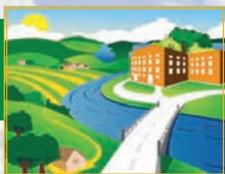

The Running Man

Ben Richards (Powell), a former law enforcement officer, is falsely accused of a massacre after refusing to carry out orders against starving civilians. Branded a criminal and desperate to clear his name, Richards is forced onto the survival competition show "The Running Man." As he navigates a series of deadly areas filled with elaborate traps and flamboyant, highly skilled "Stalkers" assigned to kill him, Richards begins to uncover the extent of the regime's manipulation, not only of him but of the truth itself. With the help of fellow contestants and members of an underground resistance movement, Richards fights not just for survival but to expose the lies behind the show and the corruption at the heart of the system. What begins as a fight to stay alive becomes a rebellion broadcast live to the entire nation, turning the hunters into the hunted and challenging the regime's control over information and fear.

Jesse Palmer hosts "Bachelor Mansion Takeover"

St. Denis Medical

8:00 PM

Answers are hard to come by as Joyce (Wendi McLendon-Covey), Keith (Dave Theune) and Ron (David Alan Grier) put their trivia knowledge to the test at the famously underfunded hospital. But will they keep helping patients as rounds continue?

Extracted

8:00 PM

Surviving the outdoors is never easy, but as the competition progresses, competitors find themselves struggling in the wild. Over at HQ, family members watch on nervously, contemplating whether or not it's time to press the extraction button.

American Idol

8:00 PM

Sing out loud, sing out strong! Auditions continue during Hollywood Week in Music City as vocalists with dreams of grandeur hope to impress judges Carrie Underwood, Luke Bryan and Lionel Richie and take another step towards becoming America's best singer.

Bachelor Mansion Takeover

8:00 PM

Twelve former "Bachelor," "Bachelorette," "Golden Bachelor" and "Golden Bachelorette" contestants, including Dean Bell, Jill Chin and Allyshia Gupta, trade roses for paintbrushes as they renovate the mansion that started it all in this series premiere.

David Niven and John Carradine in "Around the World in 80 Days"

Around the World in 80 Days

TCM 8:00 PM
Phileas Fogg (David Niven) bets his fellow London gentleman's club members 20,000 pounds that he can circle the globe in 80 days. But along the adventurous route, he is pursued by a police inspector (Robert Newton) who suspects him of being a fraud.

Doc (44) 9:00 PM

When a brain injury erases the last eight years of Dr. Amy Larsen's (Molly Parker) memory, she attempts to rebuild her life and career with help from her former soulmate (Omar Metwally) and her estranged daughter (Charlotte Fountain-Jardim).

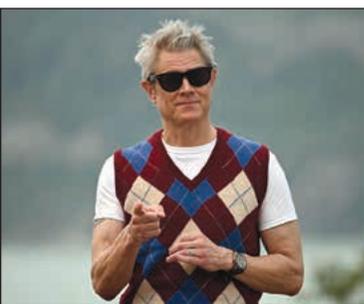

NCIS: Sydney (3) 10:00 PM

Mackey (Olivia Swann), JD (Todd Lasance) and the team are back with this midseason premiere, which sees them heading to a research base in Antarctica to investigate a murder. However, they must work fast before their plane engine freezes.

RJ Decker (12) (22) 10:00 PM

This series premiere follows disgraced newspaper photographer and ex-con RJ (Scott Speedman), who's started over as a private investigator in crime-filled South Florida. His bizarre cases require the help of others who could send him back to prison.

Angela Bassett stars in "9-1-1 9-1-1"

(22) 8:00 PM
When the situation gets dire, the 118 is always there to help. Starring Angela Bassett, Oliver Stark, Kenneth Choi, Jennifer Love Hewitt, Ryan Guzman and more, this procedural follows the daily lives of brave and dedicated first responders.

Horizon: An American Saga: Chapter 1

TNT 8:00 PM
Sienna Miller and Sam Worthington star in the first part of Kevin Costner's western epic about families heading west to settle territories from Wyoming to Kansas in 1859. Meanwhile, cowboy Hayes Ellison (Costner) goes on the run after a shootout.

Predator Hunters

A&E 9:00 PM
In the premiere of this brand-new docuseries, Det. Tony Godwin races to stop a predator targeting a 13-year-old girl before it's too late. Afterwards, a tipoff leads investigators to discover a collection of child sexual assault materials.

Ladies of London: The New Reign

BRAV 9:00 PM
Imagine "The Real Housewives" but with serious British accents. This series premiere brings viewers to posh London, where a group of elegant ladies sip Patron while sending daggers to those who step out of line. It's saucy English society that gets messy.

“RJ Decker” - Season 1

He’s back, he’s bold and his cases are anything but ordinary. Catch the series premiere of “RJ Decker” when it streams on Hulu this Wednesday, March 4. Once a celebrated newspaper photographer, RJ Decker (Scott Speedman, “Grey’s Anatomy”) fell from grace and into prison, only to re-emerge in South Florida as a private investigator with a knack for the weird and the unexpected. In the sun-splashed, crime-filled streets of Miami and beyond, his cases range from mildly bizarre to outright surreal, dragging him into tangled mysteries that blur the line between danger and absurdity. But Decker doesn’t go at it alone. His journalist ex-girlfriend (Jaina Lee Ortiz, “Shooter”) shows up with sharp questions and even sharper instincts, her detective wife (Bevin Bru, “Will Trent”) handles the heat, and a mysterious woman from his past could either be his lucky break or his ticket back to a cell. Inspired by “Double Whammy,” the best-selling novel by Carl Hiaasen, “RJ Decker” also stars Kyle Leatherberry (“NCIS:

Hawai’i”), Ellen Marguerite Cullivan (“Pulse”) and Scott Kasics (“Will Trent”), with a script penned by Rob Doherty (“Angry Birds: Summer Madness”), who also serves as an executive producer.

“Made in Korea” - Season 1

Directed by Min-ho Woo (“The Man Standing Next,” 2020) and co-written by Park Eun-kyo (“Sea of Tranquility,” 2014) and Park Joonseok (“A Normal Family,” 2023), Season 1 of “Made in Korea” is available now on Hulu. Set in 1970s Korea, Hyun Bin (“Crash Landing on You”) stars as Baek Kitae, an ambitious KCIA agent who understands that real power is built behind closed doors. By day, he is polished and precise, rising steadily within the agency. By night, he orchestrates a secret smuggling network that funnels money into government hands while quietly expanding his own reach. Each deal strengthens his standing, all while protecting his younger brother from the consequences of a ruthless system. But ambition leaves a trail . . . and as his profile grows, so does suspicion. Enter Jang (Jung Woo-sung, “The Good, the Bad, the Weird,” 2008), a prosecutor who cannot be flattered, intimidated or bought. When his investigation turns personal, the clash between him and Baek spirals into a tense game of cat and mouse, pushing both men toward a final reckoning neither can avoid. Starring Woo Do-hwan (“The Divine Fury,” 2019), Cho Yeo-jeong (“Parasite,” 2019) and Seo Eun-su (“My Golden Life”), “Made in Korea” is produced by Joshua Dixon (“Blue Family,” 2014) and Andrew Millet (“The Price of Confession”).

“The Hate U Give” (2018)

From director George Tillman Jr. (“The Crossover”) and with a screenplay by Angie Thomas — who wrote the 2017 best-selling novel — “The Hate U Give” (2018) is available now on Hulu. Amandla Stenberg (“The Hunger Games,” 2012) steps into the role of 16-year-old Starr Carter, who moves daily between her predominantly Black neighborhood of Garden Heights and the largely White halls of Williamson Prep. Starr’s life changes forever when a routine traffic stop ends in gunfire and her childhood best friend, Khalil (Algee Smith, “Mother/Android,” 2021), is murdered by a police officer (Drew Starkey, “Outer Banks”) who leaves Starr as the sole witness. When the officer is placed on administrative leave and the shooting makes national headlines, protests over racial injustice sweep the community, forcing Starr to navigate the fallout between her two very different worlds. Pressured by activists, threatened by the local King Lords gang and determined to defend Khalil’s name, Starr discovers she has a voice to stand up for what is right. Regina Hall (“Girls Trip,” 2017), Russell Hornsby (“BMF”), Anthony Mackie (“Captain America: The Winter Soldier,” 2014) and Sabrina Carpenter (“Emergency,” 2022) round out the cast.

Benjamin Bratt voice stars in "Coco" part of what drew him to the project — along with being a longtime Pixar head.

"What it will do, with all the power they have in their storytelling, is reintroducing in a way this beautiful culture to a global community," he told ScreenRant ahead of the film's release. "And it will not only underscore that beauty but also share the connective tissue, really, that, at the end of the day, we're all human beings. We all kind of traffic in the same wishes and desires."

Bratt starred in the film along with fellow screen heavyweights Gael Garcia Bernal ("Mozart in the Jungle"), Gabriel Iglesias (beloved stand-up comedian and star of the 2017 film "Ferdinand"), Edward James Olmos ("Miami Vice") and more.

It could be that Leguizamo didn't take a role because he was too busy with one of the four projects he released in 2017 — including, most notably, the action smash "John Wick: Chapter 2."

Q: Is Hugh Dillon coming back for more "Mayor of Kingstown"?

A: Yes, but just one more time — and he may or may not be happy about that.

Paramount+ announced in January that the upcoming fifth season will be its last. Given that the fourth just ended, we don't have a release date for the fifth yet (the previous four have aired all over the calendar, so it would be hard to even guess), but it is coming.

The way this has played out, combined with things co-star Hugh Dillon ("Flashpoint") has said about the show's future, has actually launched a bit of a debate about the definition of "canceled" in the TV context.

Is a show "canceled" if the producers are given time to write a proper ending to the show? What if the writer-producers had a much longer plan in mind?

In case you haven't guessed, that's the story here. Dillon, who stars as Ian Ferguson and is also co-creator and showrunner alongside Taylor Sheridan ("Yellowstone"), has said in interviews that the show's larger story was always plotted out over seven seasons.

Ending at five was definitely not the plan, so the producers would likely consider it a cancelation. But fans at least will get some closure at the end instead of an unresolved cliffhanger, which is definitely how most shows used to end in the broadcast era.

"Mayor of Kingstown" stars Jeremy Renner ("The Hurt Locker," 2008) as the titular mayor of the fictional town and Dillon as a senior detective in the police department, working in their different ways to keep the conflict-ridden city together.

Hollywood Q&A

Q: Who does the voice of Ernesto de la Cruz in "Coco"? My husband is convinced it's John Leguizamo, but I don't think it's him.

A: You're right, but your husband can be forgiven for the mistake — the Disney-Pixar animated film "Coco" (2017) is packed with big-name Latino stars, so it's actually surprising John Leguizamo ("Romeo + Juliet," 1996) didn't appear in one of the roles.

Rather, the film's fictional musical idol Ernesto de la Cruz was voiced by top film and TV star Benjamin Bratt ("Law & Order").

"Coco," about a young aspiring musician who enters the Land of the Dead to find out why his family refuses to let him be a singer, is a film steeped in Mexican culture.

Bratt said that cultural link is a big
