Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

If you went home for Thanksgiving, you may have noticed that you weren't alone. In fact, the TSA says that yesterday [Dec. 1] was their busiest day ever with a record of 3.87 million air travelers. Yeah, and even though their group wasn't called, every single one of them tried to board the plane ahead of you.

Yesterday [Dec. 2] we got our first peek at the Bidens' holiday decorations. ... The official theme is the "Season of Peace and Light," which is much more hopeful than all the other Democrats' Christmas theme: "Drink three Old Fashioned and openly weep in front of Charlie Brown."

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

I hope you all had a very good Thanksgiving. This year I served my guests a 24-pound turkey, and since everyone is on Ozempic, I now have 24 pounds of leftover turkey.

Speaking of Thanksgiving, this year a record of 31 million people tuned in to watch the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. And in related news, NBC is proud to announce the Macy's Every Thursday Parade.

I saw that a shopping mall in Los Angeles is charging $165 for kids to meet Santa. Yeah, these kids are so rich, Santa asks them for presents. Normally, if sitting on someone's lap costs $165, you're not at the mall.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

Today [Dec. 2], as you probably know, is one of the holiest shopping days of the year: Cyber Monday. Cyber Monday is followed by Giving Tuesday and Stolen Amazon Package Wednesday.

Now I am not a presidential historian, but I believe this is the first time a U.S. president has pardoned both his son and a turkey in the same week.

Today [Dec. 3] is Giving Tuesday. This is the day on which Americans are encouraged to give back, which is nice, but really, it's so us that we do Giving Tuesday after Black Friday, which actually starts on Wednesday and goes all the way to Cyber Monday. Once we've had six full days of shopping. Once we bought all the Game Boys and instant pots and Roombas, then and only then is it time for Giving Tuesday, the day to rummage around in our pockets to see if there's anything left.

Late Night With Seth Meyers (R)

According to the latest numbers, the average price of a 15-pound turkey is under $32. And if you're wondering why it's so cheap, I'm going to let you in on a little secret: turkey isn't very good.

The rapper Drake filed a petition this week alleging that Universal Music Group and Spotify conspired to "artificially inflate Kendrick Lamar's music using bots and bribery." And nothing restores your street cred better than getting roasted so hard in a rap beef that you call the police.

Ditching the 'Duke': 'Miss Scarlet' returns solo for Season 5

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Tom Durant Pritchard and Kate Phillips in "Miss Scarlet"

Since April 2020, fans of British period pieces and crime fiction have been delighting in the wit and whims of Victorian-era private investigator Eliza Scarlet (Kate Phillips, "Peaky Blinders") and her policing partner DI William Wellington (Stuart Martin, "Army of Thieves," 2021). With four complete six-episode seasons under its belt, PBS's "Miss Scarlet & the Duke" has continued to captivate audiences over the past four and a half years — particularly as a series of pandemic-related lockdowns kept audiences at home, and often glued to their televisions, in the early days of the show. Now back for a fifth season, Eliza — the strong, independent woman she is — continues to handle matters on her own, with the Duke nowhere to be seen.

Season 5 of "Miss Scarlet," formerly "Miss Scarlet & the Duke," premieres Sunday, Jan. 12, on PBS. Check your local listings for details.

Created by "Trollied" and "The Mallorca Files" writer Rachael New, "Miss Scarlet & the Duke" began by following Eliza in the wake of her father's death. A well-respected detective who ran his own agency, Eliza's father's sudden death left her essentially penniless and on the cusp of making a self-defining choice in the first episode of the series: either find herself a husband to depend on financially (it is Victorian-era England, after all) or take up her father's mantel and assume the responsibilities of the detective agency against all odds and gossip (again: Victorian England).

Opting for the latter, as she was already in the business and in no rush to secure herself a husband, Eliza soon calls upon a longtime friend and Scotland Yard detective for help: William Wellington, also known simply as "The Duke."

Throughout the remaining 23 episodes to date (the most recent of which, the Season 4 finale, aired Feb. 11, 2024, on PBS), Eliza and Duke solved cases of all sizes and subject matter, from theft and blackmail to gang violence and murder. Having a police detective on her side meant that Eliza had many resources at her beck and call — not to mention someone she trusted to back her up in times of danger. But now, in Season 5, things have changed once again for Eliza, and she has to start back at ground zero with Scotland Yard.

While audiences don't know what is coming down the pike for the diligent detective, existing fans of the show will remember (spoilers!) that in Episode 4 of Season 4, titled "The Diamond Feather," Duke professed his love to Eliza and then promptly left for New York City, where a job with the local police force awaited him. Claiming that his London-based job around Eliza made it too difficult for him to separate his romantic feelings from his work, that heartbreaking moment was the last audiences saw of Duke.

Despite some followers of the show craving the romantic coupling of the two characters, Duke's departure — much like Eliza's father's death — gave the character some agency, albeit this time, agency of a more political kind.

Duke's decision to leave for America was his own, just as Stuart Martin, the actor portraying Duke, chose to leave "Miss Scarlet & the Duke." Interestingly enough, they reportedly both left their respective positions because of Eliza Scarlet.

"It has been such an incredible joy to bring Duke to life through Rachael [New]'s beautiful, brilliant writing and to get to play him for the past four years," Martin said via a PBS news release ahead of Season 5. "But it felt like the time was right for Scarlet to explore new stories and challenges for now, as the show continues to grow and evolve."

Although many fans had hoped to see Eliza in a healthy, happy and romantic relationship with her longtime friend and co-worker, many — including Martin — prefer to see the heroine thrive on her own and find her own success as a woman in a male-dominated world.

"I will miss working with my amazing partner in crime Kate and the rest of our brilliant family and team," he continued, adding, "but I'm excited to continue following Eliza and her escapades as a huge fan and newly enrolled Scarleteer!"

Several other actors will will be returning to their roles, however, including Felix Scott ("Missing") as Patrick Nash, Cathy Belton ("Red Rock") as Ivy, Paul Bazely ("Dungeons & Dragons: Honor Among Thieves," 2023) as Clarence, Simon Ludders ("Bridgerton") as Mr. Potts and Evan McCabe ("Berlin Station") and Tim Chipping ("Liar") as detectives Fitzroy and Phelps, respectively. Additionally, Tom Durant Pritchard ("This Is Going to Hurt") and Ruby Siddle ("Invasion") are confirmed to be joining the cast as former soldier and new Scotland Yard DI Alexander Blake and his daughter Sophia.

Of the DI shakeup in Season 5, leading lady Phillips said, "I will miss working with my pal Stu [Martin] every day, and know Eliza will miss her Duke, but I think the best is yet to come for her. I can't wait for fans to see what we have in store for Season 5" (per PBS Masterpiece).

Don't miss your opportunity to see Eliza Scarlet as she gets down to business in her first season flying solo. "Miss Scarlet" (sans the Duke) premieres Sunday, Jan. 16, on PBS Masterpiece.

On the outs: Employees back at work in Season 2 of 'Severance'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

The COVID-19 pandemic hit businesses hard, but now that the world is beginning to recover from the virus, various return-to-office models are rolling out at the corporate level. For those who prefer to work from home, these returning measures can be hard to adjust to. For those who relish co-worker interaction, however, the return to the office mandate is another reason to rejoice. But what if you could separate your at-work self from your at-home self? Would that help to balance out stress levels and diminish distraction, or would it simply cause more complication and confusion than it is worth?

These are some of the questions at the center of "Severance," the series, directed by Ben Stiller ("The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," 2013), that first premiered on Apple TV+ in February 2022. Back for a second season more than two and a half years after the renewal announcement, it is time for Mark Scout (Adam Scott, "Parks and Recreation") to don the suit once again and clock in at his desk.

Season 2 of "Severance" premieres Friday, Jan. 17, on Apple TV+ with new episodes streaming weekly, on Fridays, until March 21.

For those who have yet to tune in to the two-time Primetime Emmy-winning series from creator Dan Erickson ("Chambers") — or for those who have since experienced a severance procedure of their own — the psychological sci-fi drama follows Mark, who leads a team at Lumon Industries.

According to the 2022 renewal announcement, Lumon "employees have undergone a severance procedure, which surgically divides their memories between their work and personal lives. This daring experiment in 'work-life balance' is called into question as Mark finds himself at the center of an unraveling mystery that will force him to confront the true nature of his work … and of himself."

The plot continues to thicken in Season 2, as "Mark and his friends learn the dire consequences of trifling with the severance barrier, leading them further down a path of woe" (per Apple TV+).

"Knowing how Season 1 ended, there were so many obviously big questions," director Stiller told Collider editor-in-chief Steven Weintraub during an exclusive interview. "We now have sort of opened up the world for the Innies who have been on the outside world, so we felt like there was a responsibility to open up the story in that way and ratchet up the stakes and really dig into these relationships in terms of what Mark is dealing with in this very unique situation of the Innie and the Outie."

For those who may not recall (spoilers ahead), since it has been nearly three years since the finale, after all, Season 1 ended after nine episodes of rising tension, all of which culminated in various "Innie" (memory-severed worker) awakenings during an escape attempt. Additionally, Helly, played by "Man Seeking Woman's" Britt Lower, learned she is actually Helena Eagan, daughter of Lumon CEO Jame Eagan (Michael Siberry, "Jessica Jones").

Mark, too, had a life-changing revelation of his own in the premiere season's final episode, titled "The We We Are," when he discovered that his late wife, Gemma (Dichen Lachman, "Kingdom of the Planet of the Apes," 2024), has actually been alive and working as Lumon's company therapist.

Fellow Lumon employee Irving Bailiff (John Turturro, "O Brother, Where Art Thou?," 2000), whose Innie also awoke in the finale, likewise experienced a heartbreaking encounter when he tracked down his workplace love, Burt Goodman (Christopher Walken, "Catch Me If You Can," 2002), on the outside, only to find that his Outie already has a partner.

All three of the formerly severed coworkers' stories are expected to pick up where they left off in 2022, with the second season also seeing the return of Dylan (Zach Cherry, "Duncanville"), Harmony Cobel (Patricia Arquette, "Medium"), Seth Milchick (Tramell Tillman, "Godfather of Harlem"), Devon (Jen Tullock, "Perry Mason") and Ricken (Michael Chernus, "Dead Ringers"), among others.

That said, the keen observer may have noticed that the trailer shows Mark returning to an all-new team in the office. This could signal that perhaps Lumon is not only severing their employees' connections to their Outies but also their bond to one another.

The sophomore season of "Severance" welcomes new series regular Sarah Bock ("Bruiser," 2022) and features Alia Shawkat ("Arrested Development"), Gwendoline Christie ("Game of Thrones"), Olafur Darri Olaffson ("Somebody Somewhere"), Merritt Wever ("Signs," 2022), John Noble ("Fringe"), Robby Benson ("Beauty and the Beast," 1991), Bob Balaban ("Capote," 2005) and rising star Stefano Carannante ("Hey Joe," 2024) in recurring roles.

Season 2 direction comes from Stiller, Uta Briesewitz ("Stranger Things"), Samuel Donovan ("The Widow") and Jessica Lee Gagné ("Escape at Dannemora").

Cast, crew and consumers alike have high hopes for the long-awaited new season, which is good news for the Apple streaming service and the series' production team, including co-writer/executive producer Mohamad El Masri ("October Faction"), who openly teased a third season during an interview with IndieWire.

"People are interested, people are watching," El Masri said. "Now with Season 2, you really have to sort of think about not just what is Season 2 going to deliver in a satisfying way, but how does this set up Season 3 and beyond."

Don't miss the return to office date: "Severance" Season 2 premieres Friday, Jan. 17, on Apple TV+.

New TLC series sees young woman managing life with Tourette's

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Living out loud: Finding independence as a young adult can be hard. When you have Tourette syndrome, it can be even more complicated. Meet Baylen Dupree, a young woman managing fame, friendships, the future and more, during the series premiere of "Baylen Out Loud," airing Monday, Jan. 13, on TLC.

At 18 years old, Baylen was officially diagnosed with Tourette syndrome after she began experiencing an influx of involuntary motor and vocal tics that grew increasingly difficult to control. Despite the challenges her diagnosis brings, including public mishaps with those unaware of Baylen's tics — which can cause her to randomly state phrases such as "wind it up," "your mom's built like a falafel" and "my mom has crabs" (per People), which can potentially lead Baylen into dangerous situations, such as claiming to have a gun in the middle of TSA screening, as seen in a trailer for the series — the young woman remains steadfast in her plans to move out, find independence and learn to manage the ups and downs of living with Tourette's.

As described by Warner Bros. Discovery, the series "will inspire audiences as they watch Baylen push herself outside her comfort zone in pursuit of the independent life she's always dreamed of, particularly as she strives to build a future with her boyfriend, Colin Dooley. After years of feeling self-conscious about her condition, Baylen is finally ready to live freely, embracing her authentic self and showing the world that Tourette's doesn't define her. With the support of her family and friends, Baylen is ready to stretch her wings."

Colin Dooley and Baylen Dupree star in "Baylen Out Loud"

With the support of her family, including her five siblings, her protective father Allen and her strong-willed mother Julie, Baylen is now attending West Virginia University and has found ways to not only manage her diagnosis but to laugh at herself through it all — even gaining an impressive 9.5 million followers on her TikTok account, @baylen.dupree, as she "leverages the power of positivity and her strong relationships to navigate life's challenges" (per Warner Bros.).

Offering fearless honesty, raw humor and a path to a deeper understanding of Tourette syndrome, "Baylen Out Loud" debuts Monday, Jan. 13, on TLC.

Movies, musicals and more: Hosted by Chelsea Handler and broadcast live from the Barker Hangar in Santa Monica, California, the 30th Annual Critics Choice Awards airs Sunday, Jan. 12, on E!, and streaming the next day on Peacock.

Defying Gravity — and for some, expectations — "Wicked" leads this year's film contenders with 11 total nominations, including those for Best Actress, Best Supporting Actress, Best Director and Best Picture. "A Complete Unknown," "Anora," "The Brutalist," "Conclave," "Dune: Part Two," "Emilia Pérez," "Nickel Boys," "Sing Sing" and "The Substance" have also earned themselves nominations for Best Picture.

For Best Director, this year's contenders include Jacques Audiard ("Emilia Pérez"), Sean Baker ("Anora"), Edward Berger ("Conclave"), Brady Corbet ("The Brutalist"), Jon M. Chu ("Wicked"), Coralie Fargeat ("The Substance"), RaMell Ross ("Nickel Boys") and Denis Villeneuve ("Dune: Part Two"), covering a wide spectrum of genres and tastes in their respective films.

Timothée Chalamet ("A Complete Unknown"), Daniel Craig ("Queer"), Colman Domingo ("Sing Sing"), Adrien Brody ("The Brutalist"), Ralph Fiennes ("Conclave") and Hugh Grant ("Heretic") earned nominations for Best Actor, while Cynthia Erivo ("Wicked"), Karla Sofia Gascon ("Emilia Pérez"), Marianne Jean-Baptiste ("Hard Truths"), Angelina Jolie ("Maria"), Mikey Madison ("Anora") and Demi Moore ("The Substance") round out the Best Actress category.

On the small screen side of the awards, Adam Brody ("Nobody Wants This"), Steve Martin ("Only Murders in the Building"), Martin Short ("Only Murders in the Building"), Brian Jordan Alvarez ("English Teacher"), David Alan Grier ("St. Denis Medical") and Kayvan Novak ("What We Do in the Shadows") have all earned themselves nominations for television's Best Actor in a Comedy Series, alongside Kristen Bell ("Nobody Wants This"), Quinta Brunson ("Abbott Elementary"), Natasia Demetriou ("What We Do in the Shadows"), Bridget Everett ("Somebody Somewhere"), Jean Smart ("Hacks") and Kristen Wiig ("Palm Royale"), who earned nominations for Best Actress in a Comedy Series.

Overall, "Shogun" stands as the most-nominated television series of the night, with six nominations to its name. This stunning period piece has earned a nod for Best Drama Series, while also having its cast nominated in multiple categories across the board, including Best Actor in a Drama Series (Hiroyuki Sanada) and Best Actress in a Drama Series (Anna Sawai).

"Abbott Elementary," "Disclaimer," "Hacks," "The Diplomat" and "What We Do in the Shadows" follow closely behind their aforementioned counterpart with four nominations apiece, showing just how stacked with talent this year's TV lineup has been across all categories. Even those nominated as Best Limited Series pack a punch, with the likes of "Baby Reindeer," "The Penguin," "Ripley" and "True Detective: Night Country" all set to be celebrated throughout the night.

Celebrating talent from all avenues of on-screen entertainment, the 30th Annual Critics Choice Awards airs Sunday, Jan. 12, on E!, and streams the next day on Peacock.

"Back In Action" (2025)

It's time to get back in shape and get back in the field. On Friday, Jan. 17, the action comedy film "Back in Action" makes its Netflix debut. Both former CIA spies, Matt (Jamie Foxx, "The Burial," 2023) and Emily (Cameron Diaz, "The Holiday," 2006) have left their dangerous careers behind and settled into civilian life to raise their family together. But when their cover is blown, the out-of-practice agents are pulled right back into the thick of the espionage world. From director Seth Gordon ("The Lost City," 2022), who co-wrote the film's script with Brendan O'Brien ("Neighbors," 2014), "Back in Action" also stars Kyle Chandler ("Argo," 2012), Glenn Close ("Damages"), Andrew Scott ("Ripley"), Jamie Demetriou ("The Afterparty"), McKenna Roberts ("Skyscraper," 2018) and Rylan Jackson ("Dungeons & Dragons: Honor Among Thieves," 2023). Produced by Gordon, Beau Bauman ("The Umbrella Academy"), Peter Chernin ("Hidden Figures," 2016), Sharla Sumpter Bridgett ("Blue Mountain State") and Jenno Topping ("Ford v Ferrari," 2019), the film's executive producers include O'Brien, Foxx, Tim Lewis ("Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them," 2016), Bergen Swanson ("Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri," 2017) and Datari Turner ("They Cloned Tyrone," 2023).

"XO, Kitty" - Season 2

The Coveys are back and ready to love again as the spinoff series to the To All the Boys film franchise, "XO, Kitty," returns Thursday, Jan. 16, to Netflix for a second season. Starring Kitty (played by Anna Cathcart, "Odd Squad"), the sister of Lara Jean Covey (Lana Condor, "Moonshot," 2022), "XO, Kitty" follows along as she embarks on her own quest for love. Certain that she knows everything she possibly can about romance and relationships, Kitty, a teen matchmaker, moves halfway around the world to Korea to reunite with her long-distance boyfriend in Season 1. But she quickly realizes that relationships are a lot more complicated when it's your own heart on the line. This season, Kitty is back in Seoul for another semester at KISS — and this time, she's single for the first time in a long time. As Kitty focuses her energy on a fresh start and strictly casual dating, a letter from her mother's past sets her on a wild new journey. "As secrets unravel and bonds are tested, Kitty will learn that life, family and love are more complicated than she ever imagined" (per Netflix). From creator Jenny Han, the author of the original To All the Boys I've Loved Before book series, "XO, Kitty" is helmed by showrunner and series writer Jessica O'Toole ("Charmed"). The series cast also includes Minyeong Choi ("Entertainer"), Gia Kim ("Happy Ending," 2021), Anthony Keyvan ("Love, Victor"), Peter Thurnwald ("Players"), Michael K. Lee ("George Takei's Allegiance," 2016), Jocelyn Shelfo ("The Summer I Turned Pretty"), Regan Aliyah ("BF For Hire"), Sang Heon Lee ("Secret Ingredient"), Audrey Huynh ("Wyrm," 2019), Sasha Bhasin ("Brave the Dark," 2023) and Joshua Hyunho Lee ("Gangnam Project").

"The Walking Dead: The Ones Who Live" - Season 1

Grab your weapons and keep on moving: The Walking Dead universe has expanded once more with the spinoff series "The Walking Dead: The Ones Who Live," streaming on Netflix Monday, Jan. 13. Set after the conclusion of "The Walking Dead," this series dives into the love story between original series characters Rick (Andrew Lincoln, "Love Actually," 2003) and Michonne (Danai Gurira, "Black Panther," 2018), who were kept apart by distance and an unstoppable power as the world changed rapidly around them. Now, in a world overrun by the undead, "can they find each other and who they were in a place and situation unlike any they've ever known before? Are they enemies? Lovers? Victims? Victors? Without each other, are they even alive — or will they find that they, too, are the Walking Dead?" (per AMC). Created for television by Gurira and Scott M. Gimple ("The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon"), "The Ones Who Live" also stars Terry O'Quinn ("Lost"), Lesley-Ann Brandt ("Lucifer"), Andrew Bachelor ("To All the Boys I've Loved Before," 2018), Craig Tate ("King Richard," 2021), Matthew Jeffers ("New Amsterdam"), Breeda Wool ("Mr. Mercedes"), Frankie Quinones ("This Fool") and Pollyanna McIntosh ("Vikings: Valhalla").

"Unstoppable" (2025)

Experience an emotional journey when the sports drama "Unstoppable," based on an inspiring true story, premieres Thursday, Jan. 16, on Prime Video. The film stars Jharrel Jerome ("Mr. Mercedes") as Anthony Robles, a young American born with one leg. Pushed forward by his "indomitable spirit and unbreakable resolve," alongside "the unwavering love and support of his devoted mother Judy [Jennifer Lopez, "Atlas," 2024]," Anthony overcomes a mountain of adversity to earn a spot on the Arizona State wrestling team (per Prime Video). Working tirelessly to achieve his goal of becoming an NCAA champion, Anthony gives it everything he has — both mentally and physically. Featuring the real Anthony Robles as Jerome's double, the film also stars Michael Pena ("A Million Miles Away," 2023), Bobby Cannavale ("MaXXXine," 2024), Don Cheadle ("Fight Night: The Million Dollar Heist"), None Perez ("Natty Knocks," 2023), Mykelti Williamson ("Forrest Gump," 1994), Shawn Hatosy ("Animal Kingdom"), Carlos Solorzano ("Flamin' Hot," 2023), Julianna Gamiz ("Jane the Virgin") and Elijah James ("The Hug Machine"). Based on the book "Unstoppable: From Underdog to Defeated" by Robles and Austin Murphy, the film is the directorial debut of William Goldenberg ("Zero Dark Thirty," 2012), with a screenplay written by Eric Champnella ("Mr. 3000," 2004), Alex Harris ("Memoirs," 2013) and John Hindman ("The Passing Parade," 2018).

"Molly-Mae: Behind it All"

Get a peek behind the curtain in the new documentary miniseries "Molly-Mae: Behind it All," premiering Friday, Jan. 17, on Prime Video. English TV personality Molly-Mae Hague rose to popularity in the fifth season of the hit reality competition show "Love Island." Finishing her season as runner-up with her then-fiancé, boxer Tommy Fury ("A Tale As Old as Time: Ring of Fire," 2024), Molly-Mae brings cameras along for the ride in the wake of her highly publicized breakup. Going "beyond the headlines to uncover the real Molly-Mae," the series sees Molly-Mae "balancing the demands of motherhood, the weight of her brand's success and the high stakes of her latest business launch" (per Prime Video). As she takes on the fashion world with her clothing brand, Maebe, Prime touts the series as "Molly-Mae as we've never seen her before — raw, real and redefining what it means to thrive under intense public scrutiny." The series comes from executive producers Julian Bird ("Stable: The Boxing Game"), Demi Doyle ("At Home with the Furys") and Kenneth Shepheard ("Chronicle").

"Creature Commandos" - Season 1

From DC Studios, "Creature Commandos" is available to stream now, via the Max Prime Video Channel. Spanning seven episodes — and marking the first entry into Warner Bros. Discovery's new DC Universe — this animated superhero series for adults follows the eponymous team of military superhumans, created for DC Comics by Pat Broderick and J.M. DeMatteis. Following the events of the live-action "Peacemaker" series, "Creature Commandos" follows a black ops team of incarcerated monsters who are recruited to take on high-stakes missions deemed too dangerous for humans. "When all else fails," says the official Max description, "they're your last, worst option." Written for the screen by James Gunn ("Guardians of the Galaxy," 2014), the series voice cast includes Steve Agee ("New Girl") as Economos, Maria Bakalova ("Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 3," 2023) as Princess Ilana, Anya Chalotra ("The Witcher") as Circe, Zoe Chao ("The Afterparty") as Nina Mazursky, Frank Grillo ("Tulsa King") as Rick Flag Sr., Sean Gunn ("The Suicide Squad," 2021) as GI Robot & Weasel, David Harbour ("Stranger Things") as Frankenstein, Alan Tudyk ("Resident Alien") as Dr. Phosphorus, Indira Varma ("The Legend of Vox Machina") as The Bride and Viola Davis ("How to Get Away with Murder") as Amanda Waller.

Top chefs try their hand at poker in 'Wildcard Kitchen'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Host Eric Adjepong in "Wildcard Kitchen"

To earn yourself bragging rights, you've got to bluff, backstab and betray. The second season of "Wildcard Kitchen" airs Tuesdays on Food Network, bringing poker back to the pantry.

"In each episode, host Eric Adjepong ["Beachside Brawl"] welcomes three chefs who know each other well to the test kitchen after-hours for three hands of his underground poker game," Food Network explains. "With scores to settle and lots of smack talk, each chef brings $5,000 to the game, where the luck of the draw determines dishes and cooking time — while Eric throws his own unexpected challenges into the mix."

During last week's Season 2 premiere, big spender Jet Tila ("Family Restaurant Rivals") found himself sitting at the table alongside brothers Michael and Bryan Voltaggio ("Battle of the Brothers"), who were able to up the ante by bringing double the cash to the game as a team of two. While serving up hot and yummy dishes good enough to make you fold, the group managed to serve the trash talk just as quickly, making for a fun introduction to "Wildcard's" newest installment.

Coming up, however, the series is set to see dazzling trios in each and every episode, with players bringing their own cash — and their own rivalries — to Adjepong's game. Those competing in Season 2 include James Beard-award winners Karen Akunowicz ("Tournament of Champions"), Stephanie Izard ("Guy's Grocery Games: All-Star Invitational") and Jonathon Sawyer ("Iron Chef Eats"); "Chopped" judges Tiffani Faison, Amanda Freitag and Geoffrey Zakarian; and comfort food connoisseurs Eddie Jackson ("Food Truck Face Off"), Damaris Phillips ("Southern at Heart"), Molly Yeh ("Girl Meets Farm"), among other, according to Food Network — which also promises the return of some top-secret Wildcard winners from Season 1.

While the identities of these top secret players have yet to be revealed, "Wildcard's" inaugural season saw the likes of Marcel Vigneron ("America's Best Cook"), Viet Pham ("Extreme Chef"), Gabriele Bertaccini ("Ciao House"), Maneet Chauhan ("Chopped") and more, with some winners (no spoilers!) even earning themselves a perfect game with a win in every round. This time around, they're sure to know the stakes are higher than ever before.

Feel free to play along — or just watch and listen to your stomach grumble — as Season 2 of "Wildcard Kitchen" continues, with episodes airing Tuesdays on Food Network.

"Roy Wood Jr.: Lonely Flowers"

Laugh along with Roy Wood Jr.'s ("Have I Got News for You") perspective on the world when the new stand-up special "Roy Wood Jr.: Lonely Flowers" premieres Friday, Jan. 17, on Hulu. As Wood "explores how lack of connection has sent society spiralling into a culture full of guns, protests, rude employees, self-checkout lanes and sex parties," he also touches on "why some of us would rather be alone rather than be connected" (per Hulu). Written by Wood, the special, from Mainstay Entertainment and Jax Media, is directed by C. Craig Patterson ("Imperfect Messenger," 2021), with editing by Michael Schultz ("Kevin Hart & Chris Rock: Headliners Only," 2023). Filmed at the Lincoln Theater in Washington, D.C., in September 2024, "Lonely Flowers" is Wood's fourth special.

"The Silent Hour" (2024)

Directed by Brad Anderson ("Session 9," 2001), the 2024 crime-thriller, "The Silent Hour," makes its streaming debut this Sunday, Jan. 12, on Hulu. Sixteen months after an on-the-job accident leaves him with profound hearing loss, Boston police detective Frank Shaw (Joel Kinnaman, "The Killing") returns to duty and is tasked with interpreting for Ava Fremont (Sandra Mae Frank, "Soul to Keep," 2018), a deaf woman who witnessed a brutal gang murder. When cornered by killers intent on keeping Ava from testifying, the duo must rely on each other to outsmart their waiting assailants — assailants they can't hear coming. Written by newcomer Dan Hall, "The Silent Hour" also stars Mekhi Phifer ("ER"), Mark Strong ("1917," 2019) Michael Eklund ("The Call," 2013), Jonathan Koensgen ("Reacher"), Matthew Camilleri ("Jurassic World Dominion," 2022), Anthony Grant ("Star Trek: Discovery"), Chris Dingli ("13 Hours: The Secret Soldiers of Benghazi," 2016), Djinda Kane ("The Madame Blanc Mysteries"), Marko Nikolic ("Napoleon," 2023), Becky Camilleri ("Day of the Pay," 2024), Katrina Lupi ("Band of Spies"), Jamaal Grant ("Darkest Miriam," 2024), Anselmo DeSousa ("Dark Web: Cicada 3301," 2021), Shane Rowe ("Deep Fear," 2023) and Sean James Sutton ("The Count of Monte Cristo").

"My Penguin Friend" (2024)

Witness a partnership that defies all odds during "My Penguin Friend," coming to Hulu this Tuesday, Jan. 14. Inspired by a true story, this David Schurmann ("Little Secret," 2016) -directed film joins Brazilian fisherman Joao Pereira de Souza (Jean Reno, "The Big Blue," 1988) on the adventure of a lifetime after he rescues a lost, injured penguin stuck in an oil spill and befriends the kind, quirky creature through the process of rehabilitation. A story of lifelong friendship that defies all odds, "My Penguin Friend" comes from writers Kristen Lazarian ("Tales of Everyday Magic," 2012) and Paulina Lagudi Ulrich ("Mail Order Monster," 2018), and stars Adriana Barraza ("Blue Beetle," 2023), Alexia Moyano ("Colonia," 2015), Nicolas Francella ("The Man of Your Dreams"), Rochi Hernandez ("Night Sky"), Pedro Urizzi ("Tales of Trancoso," 2016), Amanda Magalhaes ("3%"), Juan José Garnica ("Del Otro Lado Del Jardin," 2024), Duda Galvao ("As Aventuras de José & Durval"), Thalma de Freitas ("The Clone"), Ravel Cabral ("Passagrana," 2024), Wilson Rabelo ("Outlaw," 2024), Roberto Borenstein ("Noite da Mariposa," 2022), Mauricio Xavier ("Songs of Betrayal"), Juan Queiroz (Rota 66: A Policia que Mata"), José Trassi ("The Surgeon of the Rusty Knife," 2022), Fernando Lufer ("O Novelo," 2021) and Pedro Caetano ("Criminal Code"), alongside a talented cast of on-screen penguins, like Maui, Big Z, Teodora, Alcione, Rosita, Fafa, Homer and Madalena.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I watched a British movie years ago about a civil servant played by Bill Nighy who falls in love with a young activist, but I can't remember the name of it, and I've never seen it since. What was it?

A: You've pinpointed the rare case of a Richard Curtis movie that hasn't gotten more beloved with age.

"The Girl in the Cafe" aired on HBO in 2005, and it cleaned up in all the made-for-TV-movie categories at the Emmy Awards the following year.

It was written by Richard Curtis, the man responsible for such perennial classics as "Love Actually" (2003) and "Four Weddings and a Funeral" (1994). It reunited him with his "Love Actually" star Bill Nighy (also of 2004's "Shaun of the Dead" and many other hits).

Yet unlike those other films, which are always airing in reruns and kicking around on streaming services, "The Girl in the Cafe" rarely gets a mention these days.

One explanation could be the fact that, while the acting and production may have aged well, the story was too mid-2000s to have any staying power. Variety magazine's review, for example, praised the performances and pacing but said the film "somewhat awkwardly affixes an overt political message onto its more marketable core."

That message, about poverty policies discussed at a G8 summit of political leaders, was the core of the film's plot: Nighy's character falls for a young activist (Kelly Macdonald, "Gosford Park," 2001) who may or may not be using him for his access to the summit.

And while the question of what world leaders are doing about poverty hasn't gone away in the two decades since, the way the film addresses it could indeed feel dated. For example, critic Noah Gittell suggested on MovieMezzanine.com that its "idealism" was part of the reason the film felt dated — and he was writing just eight years after the film debuted.

Bill Nighy stars in "The Girl in the Café"

Q: Is Angie Harmon ever going to give us more "Rizzoli & Isles"? What's she up to now?

A: Unfortunately, it looks like the odd couple of Boston policing did indeed solve their last case in 2016.

"Rizzoli & Isles" was a huge success for its cable network, TNT. So, when it was canceled in 2016, fans were surprised and upset and immediately started agitating for a continuation of some kind. But none ever came to pass.

Angie Harmon ("Law & Order") has moved on — sort of. "Rizzoli & Isles" immediately found a new home for itself in reruns on Lifetime. And Harmon found a home there, too, first as the narrator of the docuseries "Cellmate Secrets," then as the star of the feature film "Buried in Barstow" (2022). Marketing material for those shows generally mentioned that "Rizzoli & Isles" was airing in reruns on the network as well.

"Buried in Barstow" was supposed to be the first in a series and part of a multi-picture deal Harmon signed with Lifetime, but nothing else has come out of it so far.

Other than those, and a brief gig as a voice actress in a few episodes of the kids cartoon "Voltron: Legendary Defender" in 2017, we haven't heard anything from Harmon since she turned in Rizzoli's badge.

Q: Ken Jeong did some singing on "The Masked Singer" and did a great job. Has he done any more?

A: It might be easier to ask what Ken Jeong ("Community") hasn't done at a professional standard.

In case you hadn't heard, before becoming a full-time comedian and then actor, Jeong was a practicing internal physician. In fact, he still technically is — he maintains his medical license in California, presumably in case this multi-hyphenate-screen-star thing doesn't work out.

He started doing comedy while still in school, before taking comedy to the screen in film and television roles. His latest transformation is into a TV host, of the Fox musical game show "I Can See Your Voice" — a gig he got after being a full-time panelist in "The Masked Singer."

And through it all, he's also found time to show off some singing chops of his own.

At first, it was for comedic effect. Jeong sang in "The Goods: Live Hard, Sell Hard" (2009), one of his earlier screen roles. He also broke into song a few times in "Community," his breakout hit sitcom.

But, when he got into the musical reality shows, he surprised people by actually being good. See, for example, his performance of "I'm Just Ken," the hit song from the 2023 film "Barbie," in a "Barbie"-themed episode of "The Masked Singer" last fall.

If you're really a fan, I recommend checking out his surprisingly tender performance of Radiohead's power ballad "Creep" in a 2019 episode of "King of Masked Singer," the Korean version of the series (did I mention that Jeong is also fluent in Korean?). People have shared it pretty widely on social media, with one Reddit user sharing it with the title "Today I learned Ken Jeong can sing ... like REALLY sing."
