Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Attendance was so huge on Saturday [June 14], the experts are saying "No Kings" was the biggest protest in U.S. history. ... Here in New York, despite a rainy day, an estimated 50,000 people marched down Fifth Avenue. Wow, 50,000. That's not too shabby. Usually to get that many people in New York lined up in the rain, you've got to invent a cross between a brownie and a bagel.

The Trump company marked the occasion [10th anniversary of Trump's presidential campaign] with a special anniversary grift. Yesterday [June 16], they announced a new cellphone service, Trump Mobile, featuring this $499 gaudy gold tele-bomination called the "T1 Phone." Which for some reason is in quotes on the website. Possibly so they can have plausible deniability when your "T1 Phone" turns out to be a foil wrapped hash brown.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Earlier tonight [June 12], President Trump hosted the annual Congressional Picnic on the South Lawn of the White House. And this was nice. Trump personally grilled all the burgers on his tanning bed.

Tomorrow [June 20] is the first official day of summer. Yeah, everyone at White Claw headquarters is celebrating like it's New Year's Eve. Like, "Three, two, one! Here we go!"

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

Thank you for joining us here in Hollywood after Game 5 of the NBA Finals on ABC between the Pacers and Thunder. What a series this has turned out to be. Neither team has ever won an NBA title, which makes me root for both of them because I've never won an NBA title either.

We're now one step closer to finding out which winning town, either Indianapolis or Oklahoma City will host a much bigger parade than our President's G.I. Joe-themed birthday party. On Saturday [June 14], Trump had his much-anticipated stupid Sweet Sixteen, disguised as a tribute to the U.S. Army he bone-spurred his way out of. After all the hype and money, somewhere around $50 million, it was boring. It was basically a $50-million version of when a 5-year-old shows you every car in his Hot Wheels collection.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

A mass celebrating Pope Leo was held over the weekend at the Chicago White Sox stadium, which explains the reports of cheering being held there.

A Brooklyn dad won a Pedro Pascal look-alike contest over the weekend and received a prize of $50 and a year's supply of burritos from a local restaurant. I guess the burritos are to make sure he doesn't win next year.

A Galapagos tortoise at a zoo in Miami over the weekend celebrated its 135th birthday and first Father's Day, so yeah, he bought a Porsche!

From the ashes: A vigilante killer rises again in 'Dexter: Resurrection'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Uma Thurman in "Dexter: Resurrection"

A new, old life begins for one once-dead forensic analyst-turned-small town sporting goods store clerk with a dark secret. After his life in New York state as Jim Lindsay unraveled, the past has come back to haunt Dexter Morgan (Michael C. Hall, "Six Feet Under") in "Dexter: Resurrection." The first two episodes of the series are available to stream now on Paramount+ with the Showtime plan, with their broadcast network debut taking place Sunday, July 13, on Paramount+ with Showtime.

In the series, Dexter makes a narrow escape from the events of "Dexter: New Blood" and sets off towards New York City, in part to try to reach his son, Harrison (Jack Alcott, "The Good Lord Bird"). Having been tipped off that Dexter is still alive and that he is likely to have been responsible for the Bay Harbour Butcher murders in Miami years ago, Angel Batista (David Zayas, "The Bear"), now captain of homicide of the Miami Metro Police, heads north to confront his former colleague.

In an official trailer for the series, Batista surprises Dexter as he is recovering in hospital from a nearly lethal gunshot wound, revealing that he is on to the former blood splatter analyst for what he did in Florida a lifetime ago. The jig is up, and Dexter's only way forward is to evade investigation. He makes himself a smaller fish in a bigger pond, slipping out of his meeting with Batista, grabbing a car and starting the short journey to the most populous city in the United States: New York City.

The thrill of completely shedding the facade of normalcy he had been keeping up as Jim makes New York a playground for Dexter. Inhabiting himself again and letting the dark passenger loose has Dexter grappling with his psyche. Appearing to him again is the spirit of his father, Harry Morgan (James Remar, "Magnum P.I."), who taught him the code he kills by and now tries to talk sense into Dexter about being careful.

It isn't long before his presence in the city is felt by an eccentric with a gruesome hobby. Peter Dinklage ("Game of Thrones") stars as mysterious billionaire venture capitalist Leon Prater, whose macabre interest in serial killers moves him to have his head of security, Charley (Uma Thurman, "Super Pumped"), extend an invitation to Dexter to visit his manor.

He is not alone on his visit to Leon's residence. A literal murderers row has been assembled for a grim salon. Lowell (Neil Patrick Harris, "Uncoupled"), Gareth (David Dastmalchian, "Oppenheimer," 2023), Al (Eric Stonestreet, "American Auto") and Mia (Krysten Ritter, "Orphan Black: Echoes") have assembled at the manor, all seemingly unrepentant serial murderers living far enough below the radar to be there to meet the killer of killers.

"Dexter: Resurrection" also stars Ntare Guma Mbaho Mwine ("The Lincoln Lawyer") as rideshare driver Blessing Kamara; Kadia Saraf ("The Better Sister") as Det. Claudette Wallace; Dominic Fumusa ("Nurse Jackie") as Det. Melvin Oliva; and Emilia Suarez ("Up Here") as Harrison's friend Elsa Rivera. Also back from the dead in guest roles to revive characters from the original series are John Lithgow ("The Old Man") as Arthur Mitchell, the Trinity Killer; Jimmy Smits ("Obi-Wan Kenobi") as Miguel Prado, the assistant district attorney with a dark secret; and Erik King ("The Good Fight") as Det. James Doakes, long thought to be the Bay Harbour Butcher.

While his father lets loose among questionable company, Harrison must come to terms with everything he learned about himself when he reconnected with Dexter. Maintaining as normal a life as he can manage, Harrison gets a job at a hotel where he meets Elsa. However, an ordinary existence may not be possible for him after all. The trailer features glimpses of Harrison dragging what looks like a plastic-wrapped body through a restaurant kitchen, swinging a cleaver, dressed in an apron.

Dexter Morgan's resurrection comes after he faked his death in the finale of the original "Dexter," then was revealed to have been living low as Jim in "Dexter: New Blood." In Iron Lake, New York, Dexter had been living like a man in recovery as Jim, honoring the routine of daily life that kept his deepest desires at bay. A tense moment forced him to live, once again, by the code he thought he could suppress, sending his new life into a spiral.

The unexpected arrival of Harrison, the expectations of fatherhood that came with him and Dexter's own crimes scratching the surface of long-buried secrets in Iron Lake combined in an explosive finale. Father and son, both plagued by murderous tendencies, dramatically part ways — Harrison in hopes of living a different, better life than Dexter.

Resuscitating their relationship is central to "Dexter: Resurrection," Hall told Vanity Fair in April. "Harrison revealed himself to be, and remains, an all-the-more potent connection to Dexter's tiny sense of humanity. He craves it, in spite of himself, so it's a major bolt of thread running through his interior life and the life of the season."

Don't miss the new series "Dexter: Resurrection," with the first two episodes of the series available to stream now on Paramount+ with the Showtime plan. The series' broadcast network debut takes place Sunday, July 13, on Paramount+ with Showtime.

Wild and 'Untamed': Limited series sheds light on outdoor dangers

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Eric Bana stars in "Untamed"

National parks are a hot topic right now in the United States. With the news that more than 1,000 National Parks Service (NPS) employees were laid off in early 2025 during Trump-presidency cutbacks (per AP News), discussions circling public safety, maintenance and park operating hours have been more plentiful and more public than ever before. And while national parks are still a great way to return to nature and feel a part of a larger whole — or even just a wonderful outing for a family picnic — the truth is that American national parks are now less equipped to handle the injuries, missing persons cases and occasional deaths that do inevitably occur on wild, uninhabited land.

According to RandsInjuryLaw.com, a website for Roberts & Spiegel Injury Lawyers in San Luis Obispo, California, Yosemite National Park "has hosted an average of over four million visitors per year since 2013." Noting that there is "no complete data set that tracks fatalities within the park," it is estimated that "on average, there are 12 to 15 deaths per year in Yosemite."

Netflix's new limited series "Untamed," however, focuses on just one.

Premiering Thursday, July 17, on the popular streamer, "Untamed" tells the story of a (fictional) young woman's death in Yosemite National Park. Although deaths in the park are not entirely unheard of, the bulk of them are accidental (slips, falls, drownings) or natural (health-related causes), leading detectives to note the peculiarity of the show's inciting incident. What follows is a trek deep into the woods of Yosemite in search of a killer who has a better grasp of the untamed land than nearly anyone else. Law enforcement's only hope at solving the case lies with Kyle Turner (Eric Bana, "Munich," 2005), an Investigative Services Branch (ISB) agent of the NPS.

Turner "is on the hunt for a killer," says Netflix Tudum about the six-episode drama, "one who knows Yosemite National Park as well as he does; however, the dark secrets lurking in both [Turner] and the park's past may be just as dangerous as the murderer."

The leading ISB agent is not alone in his quest through the rough terrain, however. Turner is joined by budding Los Angeles-born park ranger Naya Vasquez (Lily Santiago, "La Brea"), who is "more accustomed to city life than to the wilds of Yosemite" (per Tudum). New to the wilderness herself and lacking experience in the field due to her youth, Vasquez is somewhat of an audience surrogate, charged with introducing viewers to the dangers and beauty of the California park.

"Everyone thinks of Yosemite as this beautiful place with all the vistas and all the scenery," co-showrunner Mark L. Smith ("The Revenant," 2015) said to Tudum, "but we were trying to touch on the dangers that are just beyond that. I love stripping all the cheats away, stripping [away] all the more modern tools that people can use. It really gets down to the character and what they can find within themselves."

One character in the series who has been very well acquainted with the park throughout his career is Paul Souter. Played by "Jurassic Park" (1993) and "The Twelve" star Sam Neill, Tudum reports that Souter has "been the chief park ranger in Yosemite for half his life," noting that the aging professional has clearly found a rhythm in a job he enjoys. Further described as "a dedicated husband, father, grandfather, and friend to Turner," Souter cuts a sympathetic character in "Untamed."

Rosemarie DeWitt ("Smile 2," 2024) and Wilson Bethel ("Hart of Dixie") also star as Jill Bodwin and Shane Maguire, respectively. While Bodwin's presence as Turner's ex-wife helps to provide some personal background to the lead's otherwise cool and brooding character, Maguire, a former army ranger, supplies added force and protection where necessary, given his military background and penchant for seclusion.

"Untamed" is a collaboration between father-and-daughter showrunners Mark L. Smith and Elle Smith, who have previously worked together on the screenplay for director Neil Burger's 2023 thriller "The Marsh King's Daughter," based on the 2017 novel of the same name by American suspense author Karen Dionne. Series direction is provided by Neasa Hardiman ("Happy Valley"), Nick Murphy ("Save Me") and Thomas Bezucha ("The Family Stone," 2005), the latter having been an executive producer of the hit FX crime drama "Fargo."

The Netflix series is a co-production with Warner Bros. Television, with whom executive producers John Wells ("The West Wing") and Erin Jontow ("Animal Kingdom") are affiliated under the John Wells Productions banner. Meanwhile, Todd Black ("It Ends with Us," 2024) and new talent Tony Shaw produce for Escape Artists Entertainment, Steve Lee Jones ("You Don't Know Jack," 2020) produces for Bee Holder Productions and Cliff Roberts ("The Midnight Sky," 2020) produces for Syndicate Entertainment.

M.L. Smith, E. Smith and Bana also serve as series executive producers.

Don't miss the premiere of "Untamed" Thursday, July 17, on Netflix. Additionally, if you are planning a trip to a national park or other natural landmark this year, be sure to check the weather, plan ahead and take the appropriate safety precautions.

'Fursuit' wearing vigilantes save the day in new docuseries

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

One of the citizen detectives featured in "The Furry Detectives: Unmasking a Monster"

Furry forensics: A welcoming and inclusive community faces its darkness, uncovering a horrific pattern of abuse taking place within, during "The Furry Detectives: Unmasking a Monster," an all-new docuseries making its debut Thursday, July 17, on Sundance TV, Sundance Now and AMC+.

From director Theo Love ("Eat the Rich: The GameStop Saga"), this four-part docuseries exposes the dark and brutal underbelly of a seemingly harmless community known as Furries. Composed of people who are interested in anthropomorphic animals — animals that possess human-like characteristics, including the ability to talk or walk on two legs — and, for some, in wearing elaborate, full-bodied animal costumes called fursuits, the Furry community is often a safe haven for people of all ages, races, religions, sexes and genders, offering a sense of anonymity and equality to those within. As with all communities, however, not all members arrive with the same good intentions.

Enter: the Zoosadists.

Known as the 2018 "Furry Zoosadist Leaks," this spectacle saw Furry community members — described by Sundance TV as "dedicated vigilantes" — working alongside police to expose, per the network, "a horrifying conspiracy of animal abuse lurking beneath the Fandom's playful exterior," when it became apparent that certain members of the local Furry community had been sharing sadistic and graphic videos of animal abuse and torture online. This group of fursuit-wearing vigilantes, dubbed "The Furvengers," utilized the help of the Pennsylvania police to then eradicate these abusive members from their community.

"The series follows the pack of dedicated vigilantes who teamed up to bring down the monsters behind the masks," Sundance TV explains in a press release regarding the series. "Navigating the line between amateur sleuthing and official police investigation, the Furry Detectives exposed a ring of animal abusers, fought for victims and defended their community from the evil within."

From Jigsaw Productions, in association with Razan Ghalayini ("Full Frontal with Samantha Bee"), Julia Lindau ("VICE News: The Battle Over Psychedelic Therapy's Future," 2022), Richard Perello ("The Dark Money Game") and Taylor Rogers ("Operation Undercover"), "The Furry Detectives: Unmasking a Monster" premieres Thursday, July 17, on Sundance TV, Sundance Now and AMC+.

Spectacular sportsmanship: Hosted by comedian Shane Gillis ("Tires") and presented by Capital One in association with ESPN, the 2025 ESPY Awards broadcast live from the Dolby Theatre in Los Angeles, Wednesday, July 16, on ABC.

Celebrating excellence, dedication and unmatched performances in sports, these awards — also called the Excellence in Sports Performance Yearly Awards — return for a 33rd year, seeing fan favorites from sports and entertainment joining together to recognize athletic achievements and memorable moments from the past year.

As always, the event features a wide range of categories, including Best Female Athlete, Best Male Athlete, Best International Athlete, Best Breakthrough Athlete, Best Coach/Manager, Best Play, Best Record-Breaking Performance, Best Team and more, including the Jimmy V ESPY Award for Perseverance and the Muhammad Ali Sports Humanitarian Award, which is presented annually to "an athlete whose continuous, demonstrated leadership has created a measured positive impact on their community through sports" (per ESPN).

While this year's nominees have yet to be announced as of press time, fans and analysts alike suggest that favorites such as Jalen Hurts, Patrick Mahomes and Kyle Larson are likely to be nominated, alongside all-stars such as Nelly Korda, Simone Biles and sisters Alex and Gretchen Walsh.

Gillis, meanwhile, is the first non-athlete to host the ESPYs since 2021, when actor Anthony Mackie ("Captain America: Brave New World," 2025) anchored the night's festivities. With a notable social media presence, an impressive comedy career and an ever-growing fan-base — especially following the premiere of his Netflix series "Tires" and his viral SNL sketch "CouplaBeers" — Gillis is not only comfortable in the spotlight but is also an avid sports fan.

"I'm excited to be at The ESPYS this year," Gillis said, speaking with the Hollywood Reporter. "I like sports so this should be a good time."

ESPN Vice President Craig Lazarus later added: "Shane is not only one of the top comedians today, but also a huge sports fan, which made him an easy choice to host The ESPYS. We are thrilled to work with him to create an entertaining show celebrating this year's best moments in sports and are excited to see what he'll do on stage."

Co-produced by ESPN and Full Day Productions, the 2025 ESPY Awards will air live Wednesday, July 16, on ABC.

"Apocalypse in the Tropics" (2025)

Oscar-nominated filmmaker Petra Costa ("The Edge of Democracy," 2019) returns with "Apocalypse in the Tropics," a gripping look at Brazil's political and religious upheaval, premiering Monday, July 14, on Netflix. Filmed over four years, the documentary traces the explosive rise of evangelical influence and its profound impact on the country's fragile democracy. Featuring President Lula, former president Jair Bolsonaro and televangelist Silas Malafaia, the documentary explores the volatile collision of faith and politics in Brazil. Tense, emotional and timely, Costa's documentary captures a nation on the brink and serves as a warning that no democracy is untouchable. "Apocalypse in the Tropics" is executive produced by Jenny Raskin ("Immigration Nation"), Jim Swartz ("Icarus," 2017), Geralyn White Dreyfous ("Independent Lens"), Katrina vanden Heuvel ("Obit.," 2016) and Meadow Fund ("Viktor," 2024).

"Trainwreck: Balloon Boy"

An unbelievable story that once captivated the nation is finally being revisited in Netflix's latest "Trainwreck" anthology installment, "Trainwreck: Balloon Boy." Premiering Tuesday, July 15, this episode retraces the bizarre and chaotic events that followed a chilling 911 call from a frantic father claiming his six-year-old son, Falcon, had floated away in a homemade balloon over Fort Collins, Colorado. As news helicopters broadcast the balloon's path live, and everyone from local authorities to the National Guard scrambles to coordinate a rescue mission, the nation watches in suspense. But when the balloon lands and Falcon is nowhere to be found, the story leaves us with the question: was it all an accident or a carefully orchestrated hoax? From director Gillian Pachter ("Impact of Murder"), "Trainwreck: Balloon Boy" is executive produced by Sheun Adelasoye De Nicola ("The Man Who Played with Fire"), Alexander Marengo ("The Hatchet Wielding Hitchhiker," 2023), Tim Wardle ("Three Identical Strangers," 2018), Casey Feldman ("Trainwreck: Woodstock '99"), Erica Roberts ("#GiveASisterAHug") and William Swann ("Trainwreck: Woodstock '99").

"Amy Bradley Is Missing"

During a family vacation on a Caribbean cruise, a 23-year-old woman disappeared, never to be seen again. Chilling and inexplicable, her story is told in "Amy Bradley Is Missing," a documentary series premiering on Netflix this Wednesday, July 16. Amy, a recent college graduate boarded a Royal Caribbean cruise ship the Rhapsody of the Seas — in March of 1998, alongside parents Ron and Iva, and her younger brother, Brad. As they sailed towards Curacao, the family enjoyed themselves onboard, taking part in the ship's ample entertainment. Two nights into their voyage, however, Amy left a night of dancing at the ship's nightclub and simply vanished, leaving behind only a polo shirt and a pair of sandals, found in her otherwise empty and unassuming cabin. Despite exhaustive search efforts by the Bradley family, the ship's crew, and by the FBI, Amy was never found. Directed and produced by Ari Mark and Phil Lott (both of "This Is the Zodiac Speaking"), this investigative series takes an in-depth look at Amy's disappearance and the years-long seearch it sparked, speaking with family members, eyewitnesses, investigators and theorists— including those who say they've seen Amy since — as it tries to unravel the unusual circumstances surrounding Amy's fateful journey aboard the Rhapsody. With their exhaustive efforts, Mark and Lott hope to answer a question left unanswered for nearly 30 years: "Where did Amy Bradley go?" Equally confounding and captivating, the three-part series, "Amy Bradley Is Missing," comes from AMPLE Entertainment.

"The Institute" - Season 1

Welcome to the Institute. Based on Stephen King's 2019 novel, director Jack Bender ("Lost") brings "The Institute" to life with its two-episode premiere, coming to Prime Video Sunday, July 13. The series centers on Luke Ellis (Joe Freeman, "Doctors"), a brilliant teenager whose life is turned upside down when he's kidnapped from his home and awakens in a remote, high-security facility known only as the Institute. There, he meets other gifted children held captive, all taken under eerily similar circumstances. Together, they uncover the disturbing truth behind the Institute's experiments and mind-control tactics and plot a rebellion against their captors to expose the horrors hidden behind the walls. Starring Mary-Louise Parker ("Weeds") as Ms. Sigsby, Ben Barnes ("The Seventh Son," 2014) as Tim Jamieson, Simone Miller ("Detention Adventure") as Kalisha, Fionn Laird ("Under the Banner of Heaven") as Nick, Hannah Galway ("Sex/Life") as Wendy, Julian Richings ("Man of Steel," 2013) as Stackhouse, Robert Joy ("From") as Dr. Hendricks and Martin Roach ("Code 8," 2019) as Chief Ashworth. Written by Benjamin Cavell ("Justified"), who also serves as an executive producer alongside King, Bender, Sam Sheridan ("Wonder Woman 1984," 2020) and Ed Redlich ("Without a Trace").

"The Summer I Turned Pretty" - Season 3

Love, heartbreak and growing pains continue as "The Summer I Turned Pretty" returns for its third and final season, premiering Wednesday, July 16, on Prime Video. Two years after the Season 2 finale, the story picks up at the end of Belly's (Lola Tung, "I Know What You Did Last Summer," 2025) junior year of college. Still in a relationship with Jeremiah (Gavin Casalegno, "The Vampire Diaries") following her painful split from her first love, Conrad (Christopher Briney, "Daliland," 2022), Belly and Jeremiah shock everyone by announcing their engagement, and their families question whether they're truly ready for such a major step. As wedding planning begins, Belly faces a wave of uncertainty when Conrad unexpectedly returns, leaving her to question her decision. Starring Sean Kaufman ("Manifest"), Jackie Chung ("Station 19") and Rachel Blanchard ("Fargo"), who are all returning for Season 3. Based on Jenny Han's final novel in the bestselling "Summer" trilogy — "We'll Always Have Summer" — Han also serves as an executive producer, alongside Blanchard and Robin Wasserman ("What/If").

"Surf Girls: International"

The journey to the World Surf Tour continues with "Surf Girls: International," returning to Prime Video on Thursday, July 17, with five action-packed episodes following the rising female stars introduced in Season 1. Back in the lineup this season is native Hawaiian and breakout star Ewe Wong, ready to build on her momentum; Brazil's Sophia Medina, who carries her family's surfing legacy while breaking barriers for female surfers in her home country and Portugal's Kika Veselko, returning with fierce determination to level up her game. South Africa's Jessie Van Niekerk also returns with her vibrant energy and a powerful story of sacrifice, while 2024 Olympian Sol Aguirre of Peru is focused this season on mastering the mental and physical demands of the sport she loves. With the World Surf Tour in their sights, they must push past personal struggles, improve their skills and ride the unpredictable highs and lows of life in the spotlight. Season 2 of "Surf Girls: International" is executive produced by Reese Witherspoon ("Legally Blonde," 2001), Sara Rea ("Project Runway"), Sue Kinkead ("The Pasta Queen") and Tyler O'Neil ("Masterchef") for Hello Sunshine and TOGETHXR.

Octavia Spencer hosts new, star-studded cooking competition

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Academy Award winner Octavia Spencer ("The Help," 2011) embraces her Southern roots by hosting the down-home cooking competition "Family Recipe Showdown," premiering Thursday, July 17, on Food Network.

Set in New Orleans — a city that Spencer adores, celebrated by the actress in the CNN travel series "My Happy Place" — this latest endeavor joins Spencer and Southern cooking expert Edgar "Dook" Chase as they welcome families to prepare their most cherished family recipes, offering the best-of-the-best a life-changing $10,000 prize.

Each week, the duo ask their competitors to take part in two rounds of competition, with the second and most important round following the cooks as they are asked to put their own spin on a favorite family recipe shared by one of the series' visiting guest judges — all hailing from a list that includes some of Octavia's celebrity friends, such as Reese Witherspoon ("Wild," 2014), Jessica Chastain ("Zero Dark Thirty," 2012), Danielle Brooks ("Orange Is the New Black"), Tina Knowles ("Talks with Mama Tina"), Kandi Burruss ("The Chi"), Tim Gunn ("Project Runway"), Al Roker ("Today") and more. Alongside their superstar guests, Spencer and Chase then dig into their dishes, determining who gets to take home the grand prize.

Octavia Spencer and Edgar "Dook" Chase in "Family Recipe Showdown"

While every episode presents its own theme — from a Southern brunch with all the fixings to biscuit bake offs and more — "Family Recipe Showdown" begins with an episode focused on cocktails and comfort meals, and with the always-funny Eric Stonestreet ("Modern Family") acting as the series' inaugural guest.

"Southern food means family to me, and I am thrilled to introduce these outstanding home cooks to viewers," Spencer told Food Network. "The competing families bring their own traditions to every dish — from buttery biscuits to cast-iron skillet specialties, the food took me and my friends back to our childhoods with every bite … and getting to taste it all with Dook Chase made the experience even sweeter. This show is about family, friends and food — there's nothing better than that."

Sure to make your mouth water, "Family Recipe Showdown" premieres on Food Network Thursday, July 17.

Andre Holland in "The Actor"

The Actor

New York actor Paul Cole (Holland) is beaten unconscious, waking up in a 1950s Ohio town with no recollection of who he is or how he got there. Stranded and broke, he takes a job at a tannery and tries to reconstruct his identity. Meanwhile, Paul forms a poignant bond with local costume designer Edna (Chan). As his fragmented memories begin to surface, Paul becomes increasingly uncertain if he is returning to his old self and if that self is even a person he would like to be. Director: Duke Johnson. Stars: Andre Holland, Gemma Chan, May Calamawy, Asim Chaudry, Joe Cole, Fabien Frankel, Olwen Fouere, Edward Hogg, Toby Jones, Youssef Kerkour, Simon McBurney, Tanya Reynolds, Tracey Ullman. 2025. 98 min. Crime Mystery.

Shohei Ohtani to compete in the 2025 MLB All-Star Game

America's Got Talent

(5) 8:00 PM

As more amateur performers step up to the "AGT" stage, judges Simon Cowell, Mel B, Howie Mandel and Sofia Vergara have the difficult task of filtering the good from the bad. Which dreams will continue? And which will be crushed? Terry Crews hosts.

2025 MLB All-Star Game

(44) 8:00 PM

Professional baseball's best and brightest come to Atlanta's Truist Park to take part in the 2025 MLB All-Star Game. The American League All-Stars take on the National League All-Stars in one of sport's greatest nights. Last year, the AL beat the NL 5-3.

Supermarket Stakeout

FOOD 9:00 PM

Host Alex Guarnaschelli asks four chefs to source select ingredients for tart and tangy dishes. In round two, she has them spice things up a bit by having them create hot and broth bowls. To win the day, one needs to end with a light and flaky finish.

Frontline

(33) (57) 10:00 PM

As President Trump continues to battle the courts over his presidential powers, allies, opponents and experts weigh in on the struggle, discussing how Trump tests the extent of his power, the legal pushback and its inevitable impact on the rule of law.

The 2025 ESPYS

(22) 8:00 PM

If you didn't win the NBA MVP Award or the Indy 500, you're running out of time to make your mark before this year's ESPY Awards. Celebrating the best in sports, this awards show brings together the sporting world's most talented athletes.

Human Footprint

(33) (57) 9:00 PM

A sticky substance by any other name would taste as sweet. Biologist Shane Campbell-Staton travels the globe to get a handle on the current status of bees, from honey bees to various wild native species. Are things as dire as they appear or is there hope?

Guy's Grocery Games

FOOD 9:00 PM

This week, Guy divides six chefs into teams, asking them to work alone in a relay of 10-minute shifts to create a winning plate. Afterwards, the chefs are given a grocery list of breakfast ingredients that must be used to make a delicious dessert.

Holmes Family Rescue

HGTV 9:00 PM

It's an episode of soggy bottoms as Mike, Sherry and Michael look to redirect floodwaters that continually soak a family's basement by reimagining their entire backyard. Then, they try to help a family end their four-year renovation nightmare.

Marvin Flute in "Grimsburg"

Grimsburg

(44) 8:30 PM

Det. Martin Flute has spent countless hours navigating the secrets of schemes of Grimsburg's eccentric residents. During this Season 2 finale, he hopes that all his hard work will finally win over his ex-wife and son, once and for all.

Press Your Luck

(22) 9:00 PM

Elizabeth Banks hosts this new episode where three contestants battle against each other answering questions and earning a chance at cash and prizes. But along the way, they must work to avoid the WHAMMY, which can take all of their winnings.

Homicide Squad New Orleans

A&E 9:00 PM

Season 2 of this reality series makes its debut, chronicling the harrowing work of New Orleans committed PD homicide detectives. Together, this devoted group of men and women work tirelessly to protect both their city and their home against all odds.

Chasing the West

HGTV 9:00 PM

Jonathan and Drew Scott help a couple of city slickers give up their technology-driven lifestyle in order to find peace in an old California mining town. Then, they are asked to teach a relocating Canadian horse trainer how to live in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Friday Best Bets

Marcus Lemonis stars in "The Fixer"

The Fixer

(12) (44) 8:00 PM

We've known him from CNBC's "The Profit," but in this series premiere, investor and entrepreneur Marcus Lemonis puts his money where his mouth is and uses his signature 3 P's philosophy — people, process and product — to empower businesses to thrive.

(22) 9:00 PM

It wouldn't be Friday night without David Muir and Deborah Roberts. This award-winning series airs a brand-new episode, diving into some of today's most memorable true crime cases, investigations, celebrity profiles, major events and the like.

Zillow Gone Wild

HGTV 9:30 PM

Inspired by the exceedingly popular Instagram account @zillowgonewild, this series follows host Jack McBrayer as he tours some of the exceptionally weird and whacky properties on the market today. This time, he visits a home shaped like an actual shoe.

Resident Alien

SYFY USA 10:00 PM

It's tricky enough pretending to be human, but when Harry (Alan Tudyk) has to prove himself to someone from his past, the task proves itself harder than he expects. Season 4 also stars Sara Tomko, Corey Reynolds, Alice Wetterlund and more.

"Zarna Garg: Practical People Win" (2025)

Premiering as part of Hulu's "Hularious" comedy programming, the latest special from comedian Zarna Garg — "Zarna Garg: Practical People Win" — makes its debut on the streamer this Friday, July 18. Following the success of her last special, "Zarna Garg: One in a Billion," Garg is ready to own the stage once again, returning to discuss "husbands, kids, in-laws and anyone who dares question an Indian mom's wisdom," per the special's logline, with this latest endeavor. While "Practical People Win" dazzles audiences across the country, Garg further proves her one-of-a-kind comedic timing as the opening act for the Restless Leg Tour, led by superstar funnywomen Tina Fey ("30 Rock") and Amy Poehler ("Parks and Recreation"), and with late-night appearances on the likes of "The Tonight Show with Jimmy Fallon," never failing to impress. Filmed at Bimbo's 365 Club in San Francisco, "Practical People Win" comes from director Jeff Tomsic ("Tag," 2018).

"The Amateur" (2024)

Based on the eponymous 1981 novel by author Robert Littell, the action-thriller flick, "The Amateur" (2024), makes its debut on Hulu this Thursday, July 17. CIA decoder Charlie Heller (Rami Malek, "Mr. Robot") faces devastation when his wife, Sarah (Rachel Brosnahan, "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel") is killed in a vicious terrorist attack. While his supervisors refuse to take action, Charlie is determined to find Sarah's killers and begins his own search for those responsible, using his skills as an agent to track down a group of nefarious suspects — Belarusian criminal Mishka Blazhic (Marc Rissmann, "1883"), South African ex-special forces operative Ellish (Joseph Millson, "Casino Royale," 2006), former Armenian intelligence officer Gretchen Frank (Barbara Probst, "Silent Roar," 2023) and elusive mastermind Horst Schiller (Michael Stuhlbarg, "A Serious Man," 2009). Charlie then begins a dangerous mission to avenge his wife's tragic death, ready to serve justice by any means possible. From director James Hawes ("One Life," 2023) and writers Ken Nolan ("Black Hawk Down," 2001) and Gary Spinelli ("American Made," 2017), "The Amateur" also stars Jon Bernthal ("The Wolf of Wall Street," 2013), Evan Milton ("Jesus Crown of Thorns"), Nick Mills ("Succession"), Tiffany Gray ("Generation Z"), Adrian Martinez ("Focus," 2015), Holt McCallany ("Mindhunter"), Julianne Nicholson ("August: Osage County," 2013), Danny Sapani ("Halo") and Laurence Fishburne ("The Matrix," 1999), among others.

"Dumb Money" (2023)

In 2021, a group of everyday people turned Wall Street upside down. Chronicling the 2021 GameStop short squeeze, "Dumb Money," a film directed by Craig Gillespie ("I, Tonya," 2017), will be available to stream on Hulu as of this Sunday, July 13. When Keith Gill (Paul Dano, "Little Miss Sunshine," 2006) — a financial analyst who spends his free time sharing stock tips on YouTube, under the name Roaring Kitty — checks a stock market subreddit (r/WallStreetBets) and notices that video game retailer GameStop's stock is falling in price, he jumps at the opportunity to purchase as much stock as he can, before sharing the tip with others in his community. As more and more buy into GameStop, the company experiences a sharp incline in their overall sale price, and other investment CEOs lose hundreds of millions of dollars in the process. Keith is celebrated as a stock market hero — that is, until r/WallStreetBets is shut down, and fearful of a perceived price drop, people begin selling their GameStop stocks en masse, leaving trading group Robinhood unable to pay out. Based on a true story, "Dumb Money" also stars Pete Davidson ("The King of Staten Island," 2020), Vincent D'Onofrio ("Men in Black," 1997), America Ferrera ("Barbie," 2023), Nick Offerman ("Parks and Recreation") Seth Rogen ("Superbad," 2007), Sebastian Stan ("Captain America: Brave New World," 2025) and Shailene Woodley ("Big Little Lies").

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I remember a movie where Meg Ryan played a movie producer. I loved it and really want to watch it again, but I can't remember the name.

A: The film you're looking for is called "The Deal" (2008), and it might not be an easy one to find.

It was, quite frankly, one of a series of flops she released in 2008 and 2009 — a run of romantic comedies that were supposed to be a return to form after a brief flirtation with dramatic roles, such as the 2004 boxing drama "Against the Ropes" and the steamy 2003 thriller "In the Cut."

"The Deal" paired her with William H. Macy ("Fargo," 1996), who was also playing to his strength as an unpolished schlub who's daring you not to like him. They play dueling movie producers — she's a high-flying exec at a major studio, he's a down-on-his-luck independent who essentially tricks her into working with him. The result is a combination of Hollywood satire and love-hate romantic tension.

Meg Ryan and William H. Macy in "The Deal"

That sounds like a recipe for a hit, on par with Ryan's romcom classics like "When Harry Met Sally" (1989) and "You've Got Mail" (1998), but it didn't catch.

Firstly, it didn't catch with distributors. Despite it touring all the big film festivals, it never got a theatrical release, instead going straight to video.

And it didn't really catch with critics, either. Variety magazine reviewer Peter Debruge wrote that "the characters seem to be doing all the laughing."

Q: What ever happened to Hope Swinimer and "Hope in the Wild" on CBS? It was my favorite show.

A: "Hope in the Wild," which is the U.S. title for Canadian wildlife show "Hope for Wildlife," took a break when the pandemic hit, like a lot of other shows. It took a little longer to get back up and running (it is built around a charity, after all), but it finally came back earlier this year with new episodes. Unfortunately, not everyone can see them yet.

Currently, they're just airing in Canada, on the Cottage Life TV channel, whereas they used to air (in a repackaged format) on the CBS network in the U.S. as well.

That's a problem currently being worked on. "For those of you not in Canada, hang tight, we'll try to have more information about where you can find it once the season gets going," says a post on the show's official Instagram page (@hopeforwildlife) in March.

With this new season, the show's 11th, it also has a slightly new title: "Hope for Wildlife: The Next Generation." Star and wildlife expert Hope Swinimer told CTV Atlantic that the name better reflects what the show is really about.

"Our work here is really all about getting people involved and getting people interested — from young to old. But the next generation coming up needs to be aware and get involved in this."

For those who haven't seen it, the show highlights the work of Swinimer and her team at the Hope for Wildlife center in Nova Scotia. They rescue and release wild animals in need, from raccoons to bobcats, pelicans and more.
