Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Hey, you know who's pretty sure the United States is going to invade a NATO country? NATO, because yesterday [Jan. 14] Germany announced they are sending troops to Greenland. Making it the first time in human history anyone ever said, "Good news. The German troops are on the way. Here they come." That sounds intense, but bear in mind Germany is only sending 13 soldiers. Well, that's because of German efficiency.

Freezing weather is even hitting down south this weekend. The forecast calls for ice and snow as far south as Texas. Yeah, so they're officially updating the state slogan to: I swear everything usually looks bigger in Texas.

Reportedly, Canada is prepping a response to a hypothetical U.S. military invasion. No. Canada was supposed to be our escape from all this. What's he going to invade next? "Heated Rivalry" and a weed gummy before bed.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

I saw that Lego just unveiled the 2,000-piece golden retriever set. Yeah, it's perfect for anyone who's always tripping over their dog and thinking, "Oh, if only this were made out of Legos."

Over the weekend, Trump texted Norway's prime minister that one of the reasons he's trying to take over Greenland is that he didn't win the Nobel Peace Prize. Then, a little bit later, Trump said he's taking over Venezuela because he didn't win a Latin Grammy.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

I will tell you, at the end of last year, I had such big hopes for a better new year. I really felt like, well, how could it get worse in 2025? It can't. Now we're only two weeks into it. All hell has broken loose. If this was Jenga, there would be blocks of wood all over the house.

We've got some happy news to report from our nation's capital, where for the first time since 1870, the second couple, the vice president and his wife, are having a baby. They have a baby on the way. JD Vance and his wife, Usha, announced they are expecting a baby in July. The baby is a boy and will stay a boy forever. The president congratulated the couple. Oh, he didn't. No, he didn't. Not publicly anyway. They have to name the baby Donald, right? I mean, it has to be Donald Junior Jr. or whatever. This will be the Vance's fourth child. I'm surprised. I mean, where does he find the energy to make another kid with all that sexy White House furniture around?

Late Night With Seth Meyers

A video game developer announced last week that it will release a new simulator game that follows a National Park ranger as they maintain hiking trails and interact with guests. It's the game grandmas are calling just as fun as "Call of Duty."

The NFL announced that the band Green Day will perform in the opening ceremony of Super Bowl 60. That's right, just another 60-year-old using Green Day to try to look cool.

Back to work: J.D., Turk and the gang don 'Scrubs' once more

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Paging all "Scrubs" fans! Nearly 16 full years after exiting the automatic doors of Sacred Heart Hospital, J.D. (Zach Braff, "Garden State," 2004), Turk (Donald Faison, "Clueless," 1995) and Elliot (Sarah Chalke, "Firefly Lane") are scrubbing back in for a 10th season of mischief and medicine at the California hospital.

Don't miss the all-new iteration of Bill Lawrence's ("Clone High") early-aughts medical sitcom "Scrubs," premiering Wednesday, Feb. 25, on ABC. New episodes air weekly and release each following day on Hulu.

The winner of two Primetime Emmys during its original run from 2001 to 2010, "Scrubs" is a half-hour comedy following the personal and professional lives of three front-line workers — and their co-workers — at a fictional California hospital. Replete with witty sarcasm, absurdist humor and close-knit friendships in the workplace, "Scrubs" was praised for its ability to confront serious issues through surrealism and goofy comedy, all without belittling the characters' problems or losing sight of the plot.

"Scrubs" was also touted for its relatability. Unlike many television series that up the stakes for increased drama, in its early days, "Scrubs" always managed to feel grounded despite its wacky sense of humor. On their way to becoming doctors, medical interns J.D., Elliot and Turk found comfort in their romances and bromances, even during their most difficult days and when faced with the very real physical and emotional hazards of a job in medicine.

While the Sacred Heart trio is no longer comprised of interns, J.D., Turk and Elliot are all confirmed as returning for the series reboot — this time as full-fledged doctors (per the later seasons of "Scrubs'" original run). Turk's love interest and Elliot's best friend, nurse Carla, played by Judy Reyes ("High Potential"), is also returning, albeit in a recurring guest capacity.

"J.D. and Turk scrub in together for the first time in a long time: medicine has changed; interns have changed; but their bromance has stood the test of time," reads the official logline for the new episodes, as provided by series producers. "Characters new and old navigate the waters of Sacred Heart with laughter, heart and some surprises along the way."

"A lot of the story still holds up," Faison told People during an interview for the magazine's Sexiest Man Alive 2025 issue. "You're still following your favorite doctors — your heroes, to some people. Regardless of what's happened from Season 1 through 9, the core story is still there and people really want to see that."

In the same interview, Braff noted that although the show's heart — and some of the original writing team — remain the same, the decision to bring in a "young, very diverse group of writers" for the reboot means the "Scrubs" reboot has the opportunity to launch itself full throttle into a whole new generation of fandom.

According to entertainment site TomsGuide.com, the "Scrubs" "reboot is being described as a 'continuation' rather than a total reset, picking up years after the original's finale and revisiting Sacred Heart with some familiar faces as well as plenty of new interns."

Other familiar faces returning for the show's long-overdue 10th season include Christa Miller, who has recently been seeing success in the acclaimed Apple TV series "Shrinking," as Jordan Sullivan and John C. McGinley ("Stan Against Evil") as the somewhat mean-spirited Dr. Perry Cox, who served as J.D.'s mentor in the initial seasons. Neil Flynn ("The Middle") is also returning as the Janitor.

Joining the cast for Season 10, however, are a slew of new Sacred Heart interns, including Serena (Ava Bunn, "A Man on the Inside"), Asher (Jacob Dudman, "Fate: The Winx Saga"), Blake (David Gridley, "All American"), Amara (Layla Mohammadi, "The Persian Version," 2023) and Dashana (Amanda Morrow, "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit"). Additionally, a couple familiar faces from outside the original "Scrubs" seasons have joined the cast.

American actress and comedian Vanessa Bayer joins the series as Sacred Heart Wellness Program co-ordinator Sibby Wilson. Best known for her work on "Saturday Night Live" between 2010 and 2021, some of Bayer's other credits include "Trainwreck" (2015), "I Love That for You," "Ibiza" (2018) and another recent early-aughts reboot: "Freakier Friday" (2025).

Joel Kim Booster of "KPop Demon Hunters" (2025) fame also joins the cast of the new "Scrubs." Reportedly portraying a fellow medical professional named Dr. Park, viewers may recognize Kim Booster as Noah from Andrew Ahn's 2022 film "Fire Island," which is a modern-day retelling of Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice" featuring five gay men on an island in place of the five Bennet sisters in Hertfordshire, England. Audiences more familiar with television rather than film may instead recognize the actor from 30 episodes of the Apple TV series "Loot," in which he played Nicholas, Molly Novak's (Maya Rudolph, "Bridesmaids," 2011) sarcastic personal assistant who leaves in Season 3 to follow his acting dream.

"Scrubs" creator Lawrence returns as the revival's producer, while Aseem Batra ("The Cleveland Show") and Tim Hobert ("The Middle"), both of whom wrote for the show's original run, will serve as co-showrunners.

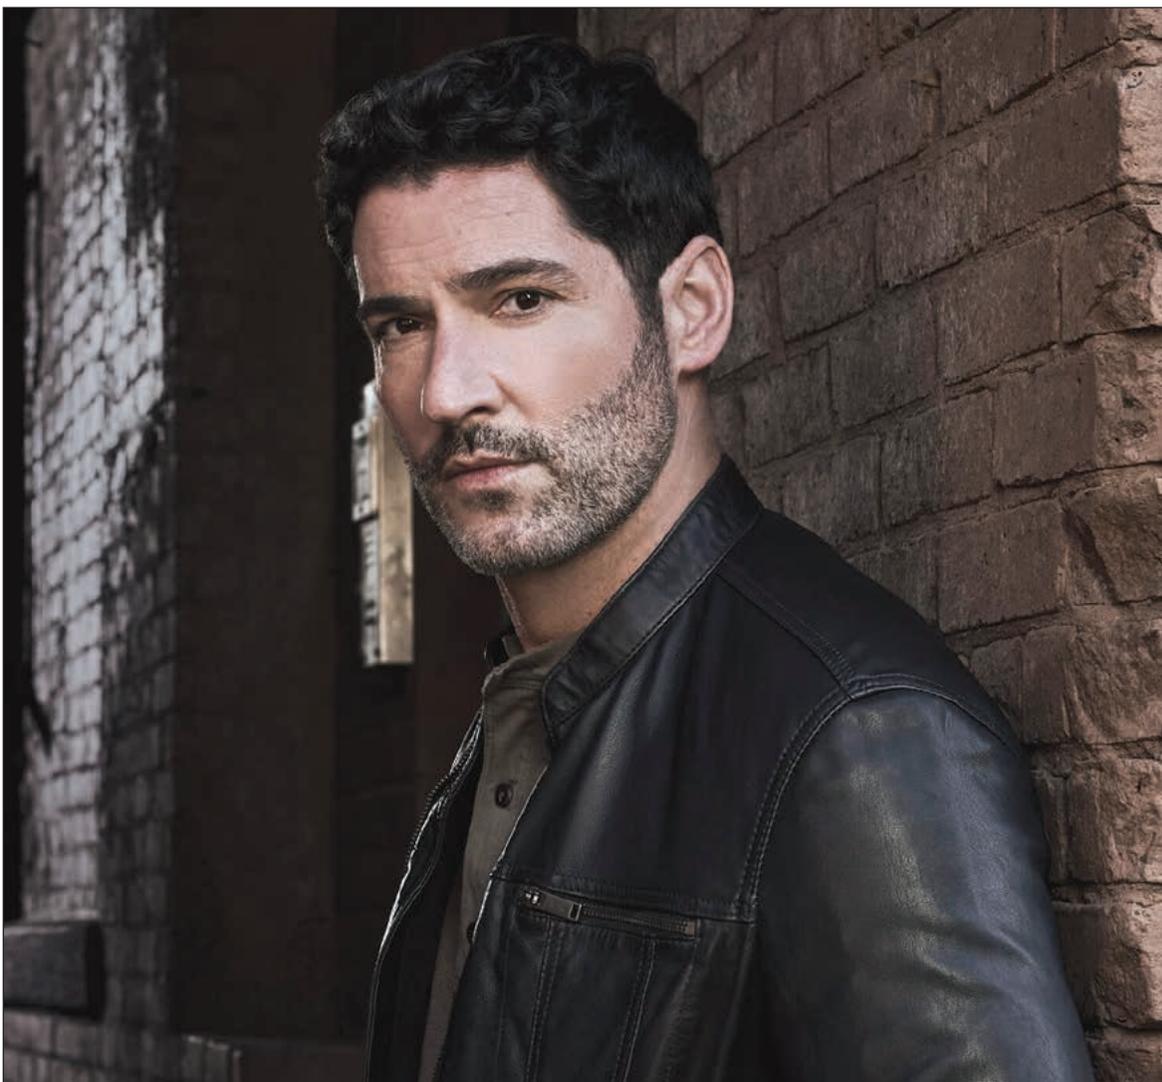

Whether you are new to the series or a longtime fan of the zany staff at Sacred Heart, tune in for "Scrubs," premiering its 10th season Wednesday, Feb. 25, on ABC. New episodes air weekly and release each following day on Hulu.

New partners: An odd couple of agents lead new drama 'CIA'

Tom Ellis stars in "CIA"

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

From the king of procedurals, Dick Wolf ("Law & Order"), comes a new installment in his world of drama. "CIA," the latest spinoff series from the hit FBI franchise, premieres Monday, Feb. 23, on CBS. The action-packed new drama follows an odd couple of agents out of the New York City CIA office as they protect against threats to the country while they learn to work as a team.

The series stars Tom Ellis ("Lucifer") as suave British CIA Case Officer Colin Glass, whose new partner assignment may or may not have been chosen to rein in his rogue tendencies. By-the-book FBI Special Agent Bill Goodman (Nick Gehlfuss, "Chicago Med") operates a bit differently than his loose-cannon CIA counterpart, really living up to his surname. The pair butt heads almost immediately when it comes to how far one can stretch the truth in order to get what they need.

"He read me the riot act for fibbing to a suspect in a safe house," Colin vents about Bill in the series' trailer. Whether it's called fibbing or lying, it is effective in reaching the end goal of keeping their country safe — something they can both agree on.

Colin tells Bill in the trailer, "You guys work in the open. We work in the shadows," trying to solidify the different approaches given their different home agencies — the CIA for Colin and FBI for Bill. The two agents operate in seemingly separate spheres, however, when missions get complicated or dangerous, their individual skills combine to become an asset to the organization that neither could be on their own.

The series has experienced some changes as the show's production has undergone a shake-up both behind the scenes and in front of the camera, but CBS recently announced that Necar Zadegan ("Mayor of Kingstown") was added to the cast as series regular. Zadegan joins as a recast of the chief of station role that was previously announced to be portrayed by Michael Michele, whom you may have last seen in the Wolf-produced action drama "The Equalizer" on CBS.

"CIA" kicks off its series premiere episode by bringing together our two odd couple agents who are called in to investigate when a top-secret weapon is stolen in broad daylight from a U.S. defense contractor. Bridging the spinoff and its originating series with a guest starring spot in the premiere is Jeremy Sisto, appearing as his "FBI" character, Assistant Special Agent in Charge Jubal Valentine.

The series premiere was written by Mike Weiss ("The Hunting Wives") and directed by Ken Girotti ("Vikings"). "CIA" is executive produced by Wolf, Peter Jankowski ("FBI") and Anastasia Puglisi ("Law & Order"). CBS cleared its slate of the existing "FBI" spinoffs, with "FBI: International" and "FBI: Most Wanted" airing their series finales last May, to make room for the new series set in a new bureau.

The trailer's focus on Colin and Bill's back-and-forth is perhaps a signal that this procedural is a bit more about the characters than its counterparts, something Ellis seemed to confirm in an interview with Collider last August before the show began filming.

"The central relationship between my character and the FBI character is going to be very much a driving force for the show," Ellis said. "Even though we're going to be a case of the week-type procedural, we're going to spend a bit more time with our main characters than they traditionally do on a lot of these Wolf shows."

"CIA" debuts amidst a range of midseason premieres on CBS. Plus, the network has scheduled a celebration for one tentpole show reaching a milestone this year: "Survivor" premieres its 50th season just two days after "CIA" on Wednesday, Feb. 25, following two weeks of specially curated prime-time encore airings of 10 memorable episodes from the genre-defining reality competition show's historic run.

The cast of the upcoming 50th season is made up entirely of players from seasons past — 24 contestants, including one from its very first season. The tagline of the new season is "in the hands of the fans" and as a reward for such loyal viewership, certain elements of the gameplay and production have been decided by public votes. Thank the voters when we all get to watch the finale vote read live from Los Angeles again.

If Wolf reigns over the CBS broadcast procedural drama landscape, then Taylor Sheridan ("Landman") lords over the network's streamer, Paramount+. The "Yellowstone" creator breaks new ground with his first scripted series to premiere on the network with the Kayce Dutton (Luke Grimes, "Eddington," 2025) centric spinoff "Marshals" on Sunday, March 1. The Montana-set drama follows Kayce, a former Navy SEAL, as he leaves Yellowstone Ranch behind to fight for justice with a unit of marshals.

Be sure to jump into the investigation with the series premiere of "CIA," Monday, Feb. 23, on CBS.

Past 'Survivor' players return for the series' biggest season yet

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

'Survivor' superstars: Celebrate 25 years of outwitting, outplaying and outlasting the competition with the premiere of "Survivor's" 50th season. "Survivor: In the Hands of the Fans" makes its debut Monday, Feb. 23, with a supersized, three-hour episode airing on CBS and Prime Video.

With 24 veteran "Survivor" contestants signed on as competitors, Season 50 aims to be "Survivor's" biggest season yet, seeing players from across the franchise returning to battle it out in an all-star competition packed with shocking moments, alliances, betrayals and celebrity guest appearances — including the likes of singers Zac Brown ("Chicken Fried") and Billie Eilish ("LUNCH"), "Tonight Show" host Jimmy Fallon and social media personality Jimmy "MrBeast" Donaldson (@mrbeast).

The contestants in question range from legends who have lived hundreds of days on the island to standout fan favorites returning for the first time to recent highlights from the 'new era' of the show, "according to Parade, but no matter their past experiences, these players will face a brand-new level of challenges in the game, as the season's theme — "In the Hands of the Fans" — sees audience members voting on important game choices involving immunity necklaces, idols, the Final Four fire-making challenge and more.

Returning players include: Jenna Lewis-Dougherty (Seasons 1 and 8), Cirie Fields (Seasons 12, 16, 20 and 34), Benjamin "Coach" Wade (Seasons 18, 20 and 23), Christian Hubicki (Season 37), Angelina Keeley (Season 37), Rick Devens (Season 38), Jonathan Young (Season 42), Emily Flippen (Season 45), Quintavius "Q" Burdette (Season 46), Tiffany Ervin (Season 46), Genevieve Mushaluk (Season 47), Kammilla Karthigesu (Survivor 48), Joe Hunter (Season 48) and Rizo Velovic (Season 49).

Additionally, a few "Survivor" finalists will join the game, including second place stars Colby Donaldson (Season 2), Stephenie LaGrossa Kendrick (Season 11), Ozzy Lusth (Season 13), Aubry Bracco (Season 32), Chrissy Hofbeck (Season 35) and Mike White (Season 37) — the last of whom went on to write the popular "The White Lotus" television series. They are joined by past winners Dee Valladares (Season 45), Kyle Fraser (Season 48) and Savannah Louie (Season 49), who close out Season 50's list of competitors.

"I'm really happy with this group, but if there was anything I could change, it would be just softening the blow for the people who didn't get on," quips the series' steadfast host, Jeff Probst, while speaking with Parade.

The Mamanuca Islands of Fiji will be overflowing with talent when Season 50 of "Survivor" premieres Monday, Feb. 23, on CBS and Prime Video.

Business bombshells: Observe the lives of the most influential women across business, fashion, beauty and entertainment in the all-new series "The CEO Club," premiering Wednesday, Feb. 25, on Prime Video.

Across eight episodes, "The CEO Club" follows a trailblazing group of female CEOs — tennis star and entrepreneur Serena Williams; the "Queen of Latin Pop" Thalia; fashion designer Dee Ocleppo Hilfiger; Market America CEO Loren Ridinger; supermodel and beauty expert Winnie Harlow; wellness entrepreneur Hannah Bronfman; and jewelry designer Isabela Rangel Grutman — as they navigate the ups and downs of their professional and personal lives, "[balancing] boardrooms, creative visions, family, self-care and legacy building," per Amazon MGM Studios.

"Redefining what it means to lead in today's world, these women enter the next phase of their careers with confidence and clarity forged by life experiences," the streamer's description continues. "Viewers are granted an all-access pass to their worlds — witnessing everything from high-stakes negotiations to innovative brand launches. Shot in a compelling docu-style, the series highlights individual journeys, collective camaraderie and the power of women supporting women. As members of an elite circle of moguls, these multi-hyphenate CEOs come together to unwind, connect and uplift one another, all while continuing to generate opportunities that leave a lasting impact."

"Together with Tara, Nadine and Serena, we helped bring 'The CEO Club' to life through honesty, vulnerability and intention," said Thalia, Hilfiger, Ridinger, Harlow, Bronfman and Grutman in a joint statement. "We opened the doors to our worlds from the triumphs to the challenges and the moments that shaped us. We can't wait for audiences to be inspired to lead with purpose and confidence."

Meanwhile, executive producers Tara Long ("America Says") and Nadine Rajabi ("Below Deck Mediterranean") shared feelings of their own: "'The CEO Club' is a powerful testament to what happens when women step fully into their brilliance, leadership and influence. These multi-hyphenate CEOs aren't waiting to be invited in — they are building their own tables, shaping new legacies and redefining what power looks like."

Produced by Blink49 Studio, a Fifth Season-backed company, and Amazon MGM Studios, "The CEO Club" makes its debut Wednesday, Feb. 25, on Prime Video.

"Formula 1: Drive to Survive" - Season 8

The wait is almost over for Season 8 of "Formula 1: Drive to Survive," with Netflix set to drop the new season Friday, Feb. 27. Season 8 will take fans behind the scenes of the 2025 FIA Formula One World Championship, the intense season that saw McLaren's Lando Norris secure his first drivers' championship at the Abu Dhabi Grand Prix by just two points over Max Verstappen and 13 over Oscar Piastri. Fans will get an up-close look at the key moments on the track, behind-the-scenes decisions and personal stories that shaped the season both on and off the circuit. Executive producers James Gay-Rees ("Amy," 2015), Paul Martin ("Make Us Dream," 2018) and Tom Hutchings ("Celebrity Hunted") return for this season.

"Taylor Tomlinson: Prodigal Daughter" (2026)

Taylor Tomlinson ("After Midnight") returns with her fourth Netflix comedy special, "Taylor Tomlinson: Prodigal Daughter," which lands on Netflix Tuesday, Feb. 24, with a fresh hour of stand-up from one of today's most talked-about comedians. Filmed at Fountain Street Church in Grand Rapids, Mich., the one-hour special finds Tomlinson unpacking her faith and religious upbringing, processing religious trauma, exploring her sexuality and confronting her fear of death. "Prodigal Daughter" continues her successful run with Netflix following "Quarter-Life Crisis" (2020), "Look At You" (2022) and "Have It All" (2024), with the special written and directed by Tomlinson herself and executive produced by Judi Marmel ("Sebastian Maniscalco: Stay Hungry," 2019), Rachel Warden ("Taylor Tomlinson: Have It All," 2024) and John Bravakis ("Guy's Grocery Games").

"Bridgerton" - Season 4, Part 2

Will Benedict (Luke Thompson, "Transatlantic") discover the true identity of The Lady in Silver? Will his adoration for Sophie (Yerin Ha, "Dune: Prophecy") remain ever-golden, even when the two are separated? Questions will be answered in Part 2 of "Bridgerton's" fourth season, premiering on Netflix this Thursday, Feb. 26. While viewers are well aware that Sophie is the mysterious woman Benedict seeks, the second Bridgerton season remains completely in the dark, juggling his feelings for the nameless masked woman and for the Bridgerton house's newest ladies' maid, Sophie. After a shocking suggestion from Benedict, Sophie must decide whether or not she's prepared to live her life as a mistress, all while evading detection by the kind Lady Violet (Ruth Gemmell, "Fever Pitch," 1997) — who may have a secret or two of her own. Penelope (Nicola Coughlan, "Derry Girls"), meanwhile, struggles with the notoriety of being Lady Whistledown, while newlywed Francesca (Hannah Dodd, "Find Me in Paris") comes face to face with her husband's charming cousin, Michaela (Masali Baduza, "The Woman King," 2022). Fans can also expect the return of Anthony (Jonathan Bailey, "Wicked," 2024) and Kate (Simone Ashley, "Sex Education"), who appear in the season's trailer alongside their newest bundle of joy. Based on the novel "An Offer from a Gentleman," of Julia Quinn's beloved series, Season 4 of "Bridgerton" also stars Claudia Jessie ("Porters"), Luke Newton ("The Lodge"), Adjoa An-doh ("Invictus," 2009), Golda Rosheuvel ("Lady Macbeth," 2016), Florence Hunt ("Mix Tape"), Will Tilston ("Goodbye Christopher Robin," 2017), Lorraine Ashbourne ("After the Flood") and Katie Leung ("Arcane"), with Julie Andrews ("The Sound of Music," 1965) as the voice of Lady Whistledown.

"Man on the Run" (2026)

What happens when you wake up the morning after leaving the most important rock band of all time? Find out when "Man on the Run" premieres Friday, Feb. 27, on Prime Video. Directed by Academy Award winner Morgan Neville ("Twenty Feet from Stardom," 2013), "Man on the Run" chronicles Paul McCartney's ("Say Say Say") journey in the decade after The Beatles disbanded. Beginning with the release of his first solo album "McCartney" in April 1970 and his candid declaration that he planned "only to grow up," the documentary uses remarkable archival footage along with his wife Linda McCartney's ("Live and Let Die") striking photographs to paint an intimate portrait of a legendary artist in transition. Featuring interviews with McCartney, his daughters Mary ("Mary McCartney Serves It Up") and Stella McCartney ("Absolutely Fabulous: The Movie," 2016), John Lennon's son Sean Ono Lennon ("Poker Face") and friends and collaborators such as Mick Jagger ("Slow Horses"), Chrissie Hynde ("Happy Feet," 2006) and all living members of Wings, the documentary captures the emotional and creative evolution of a man redefining his life and music after the Beatles. The documentary is executive produced by Scott Rodger ("Andrea Bocelli: Because I Believe," 2024).

"Monarch: Legacy of Monsters" - Season 2

From the depths of the ocean to the heights of Skull Island, the MonsterVerse reawakens when Season 2 of "Monarch: Legacy of Monsters" premieres Friday, Feb. 27, available on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel. Season 1 followed siblings Cate (Anna Sawai, "Shogun") and Kentaro (Ren Watabe, "461 Days of Bento," 2020) as they uncovered their family's ties to Monarch, revealing the organization's role in monitoring Titans from the 1950s to the present day. Season 2 picks up with the fate of Monarch and the world hanging in the balance, as heroes and villains are pulled to Kong's Skull Island and a mysterious village where a legendary Titan rises from the ocean, forcing everyone to confront threats far beyond their control. "The ripple effects of the past make waves in the present day, blurring the bonds between family, friend and foe — all with the threat of a Titan event on the horizon" (per Apple TV). Wyatt Russell ("Thunderbolts*," 2025), Kurt Russell

'Wildcard Kitchen' sees full house of talented chefs relying on the luck of the draw

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Culinary card games bring chaos during a new episode of "Wildcard Kitchen," airing Tuesday, Feb. 24, on Food Network. "In each episode," Food Network says, "host Eric Adjepong ["Alex vs. America"] takes over the test kitchen after hours with an exclusive invitation for three chefs to bring $5,000 to play across three hands of his underground culinary poker game.

"The competitors, who all know each other well, have scores to settle and personal stakes to lose as they battle to create dishes based on the cards they are dealt and bet using their own instincts and cold, hard cash. The luck of the draw determines the dishes and cooking time, while wild cards deal unpredictable challenges into the mix that test the chefs like never before. From surf-and-turf with peanut butter to live crab with kimchi, anything can happen in 'Wildcard Kitchen' as mystery guest judges use blind taste tests to determine who walks away the high roller with bragging rights and cash from their fellow chefs."

This time around, Adjepong plays against some of the biggest names in the culinary world, including Alex Guarnaschelli ("Ciao House"), who appeared in the premiere episode of this third season alongside two chefs who once bested Guarnaschelli on "Alex vs. America": Kevin Lee and Arnold Myint ("Top Chef"). This premiere episode also introduced a new game element — the "Diamond Deck" — which is described as being a diabolical collection of cards that add extreme twists and turns to the game.

Throughout the season, Adjepong will also see a heated battle between titans of Asian cuisine Jet Tila ("Tournament of Champions") and Dale Talde ("Top Chef") and Nini Nguyen ("24 in 24: Last Chef Standing"); "Wildcard Kitchen's" highest roller, Maneet Chauhan ("Chopped"), who returns to defend her title against Mei Lin ("Lunar New Year Menu") and Aaron Sanchez ("MasterChef USA") for a record-breaking payout; and the return of Guarnaschelli, who takes on hosting duties as Adjepong goes head-to-head with Sara Bradley ("Top Chef") and Kelsey Barnard Clark ("House of Knives"), some of his most talented competition yet.

In this week's episode, however, Adjepong maintains his role as host, watching on as Stephanie Izard ("Guy's Grocery Games: All-Star Invitational") fights Gabriele "Gabe" Bertaccini ("Ciao House") and Mika Leon ("Cutthroat Kitchen: Knives Out") for a shot at redemption.

Will Izard prove successful? Tune in for a brand-new episode of "Wildcard Kitchen," airing on Food Network Tuesday, Feb. 24.

Now You See Me: Now You Don't

After years in hiding, the original Horsemen are drawn back into action when a powerful criminal enterprise begins exploiting magic, technology and financial systems to control global markets. To counter it, the mysterious organization known as "The Eye" recruits the veterans and pairs them with a new generation of illusionists: younger, bolder magicians whose styles clash with the old guard's carefully orchestrated tricks. As the team prepares to steal a priceless asset tied to the villains' operation, tensions rise between the seasoned Horsemen and their proteges, forcing them to confront questions of trust, legacy and who really controls the illusion.

“Paradise” - Season 2

After viewers learned the truth behind President Bradford’s (James Marsden, “Enchanted,” 2007) murder last season, the fallout is just beginning as “Paradise” returns Monday, Feb. 23, to Hulu for Season 2, debuting with a three-episode premiere. Trent (Ian Merrigan, “The Chi”), a former bunker project manager, was exposed as last season’s killer after infiltrating Paradise under a false identity, leaving the city shaken and its leadership exposed. In Season 2, Xavier (Sterling K. Brown, “This Is Us”) ventures beyond the bunker to find his wife, Teri (Erika Okuma, “Impulse”), who’s missing after the Atlanta missile strike. As Xavier learns how people survived the three years since “The Day,” life inside Paradise grows increasingly unstable. Social order weakens, trust erodes and unsettling truths emerge about how the bunker was built, who controls it and what its residents were never meant to know. Nicole Brydon Bloom (“The Gilded Age”), Sarah Shahi (“Life”), Charlie Evans (“Everything’s Gonna Be Okay”), Julianne Nicholson (“Blonde,” 2022) and Aliyah Mastin (“Honey Girls,” 2021) return for Season 2, with series creator Dan Fogelman (“Tangled,” 2010) returning as writer-executive producer.

“In the Blink of an Eye” (2026)

From director Andrew Stanton (“WALL-E,” 2008), “In the Blink of an Eye” explores what it means to be human across time. Premiering Friday, Feb. 27, on Hulu, the film starts in the past, when a displaced Neanderthal family struggles to protect their children while navigating a harsh world with limited tools. But in the present day, Claire (Rashida Jones, “Parks and Recreation”), a driven anthropology student, studies ancient proto-human remains while forming a relationship with fellow student Greg (Daveed Diggs, “Hamilton,” 2020). Two centuries into the future, aboard a spaceship bound for a distant planet, Coakley (Kate McKinnon, “Barbie,” 2023) and a sentient onboard computer confront a crisis threatening the vessel’s oxygen supply. Jorge Vargas (“Higher Ground”), Tanaya Beatty (“Yellowstone”), Karin Konoval (“Rise of the Planet of the Apes,” 2011) and Skywalker Hughes (“Joe Pickett”) are among the cast, with a script written by Colby Day (“Spaceman,” 2024), who also serves as the film’s executive producer.

“Kiss of the Spider Woman” (2025)

Based on the 1992 stage musical — which itself was based on Manuel Puig’s 1976 eponymous novel — 2025’s “Kiss of the Spider Woman” arrives on Hulu this Friday, Feb. 27. In the midst of the ongoing Dirty War in Argentina, Luis Molina (Toniuh, “Roses on the Vine,” 2025), a gay man, is convicted of public indecentury and is forced to share a cell with revolutionary Valentin Arregui (Diego Luna, “Y tu mamá también,” 2001). To pass the time, Valentin allows Molina to recount the plot of his favorite silver-screen musical, “The Kiss of the Spider Woman,” and the film begins to drift between reality and imagination, as Molina and Valentin take on roles as Kendall and Armando (respectively) in the dream-like retelling. Jennifer Lopez (“Hustlers,” 2019) stars as Aurora, the musical’s lead, who brings Kendall and Armando on a journey to her home village, where she hopes to shoot photographs for her magazine publication. There, Aurora and Armando kindle a relationship, despite interference from old flames and cruel gangsters. As time goes on, Molina continues his retelling, and as days and weeks pass, Molina and Valentin find themselves falling for each other, developing a relationship that’s threatened by Molina’s inevitable parole.

Minnie and Mickey Mouse in "Once Upon a Studio"

However, some characters were included despite their original actors having died. Most notably — and perhaps puzzlingly for sharp-eared fans — the Genie from "Aladdin" (1992) was included, and it was indeed the voice of the late Robin Williams ("Mrs. Doubtfire," 1993) playing him. The studio says they used "previously unheard audio" to bring him back to life (with the permission of his estate).

They also used archival audio of Cliff Edwards ("The Magical World of Disney"), the original voice of Jiminy Cricket. In a few other cases, though, they sought out actors who sounded as close as possible to the original stars.

Co-directors Trent Correy ("Big Hero 6," 2014) and Dan Abraham ("Zootopia 2," 2025) admitted to being particularly excited about the prospect of working with a certain group of stars. "Dan and I were such fan boys of all of the classic Disney animated characters, and we were especially geeking out to be working with some of our favorite princess voices," Correy said in an official release.

Getting them all together would have been too big of an ask, though. Instead, the actors all recorded separately, some in a sound booth and some remotely via the Zoom digital platform.

Q: What's Dan Levy's next project going to be? I'm sad it won't be more "Schitt's Creek."

A: It's not a return to his beloved, surprise-hit sitcom "Schitt's Creek," which ended back in 2020, but Dan Levy's ("Good Grief," 2023) next project is the next best thing: a new sitcom.

As much as he did on the Emmy-winning "Schitt's Creek," Levy is creating, producing and starring in "Big Mistakes," a series about "two deeply incapable siblings who are blackmailed into the world of organized crime."

It will be released on Netflix sometime later this year (the streamer has so far been scanty with details).

The promise of Levy again placing himself in a fraught sibling dynamic — this time with co-star Taylor Ortega ("Another Simple Favor," 2025) — is certainly tantalizing for fans of his previous series, in which he played one of a family of suddenly hard-up ex-aristocrats.

That's not to say he hasn't been busy in the interim. But he's mostly been sticking to feature films, plus the odd guest-acting role, including spots in a couple of other critically beloved series, "Sex Education" and "Curb Your Enthusiasm."

And while working on "Big Mistakes," he also found time to shoot roles in two more features: the light comedy "Animal Friends" and the heavy drama "At the Sea," both of which are due for release later this year.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Disney put together a short video for their 100th anniversary, and it seems like they got all the original voices back. Did they record the lines fresh or were they just taken from what was already recorded for the movies?

A: In all but a few sadly sweet cases, the voices in the 2023 Disney short "Once Upon a Studio" are all new recordings, with several very big stars coming together to honor the legendary animation studio.

More than 40 original voice actors reprised their classic Disney roles for the nine-minute short, including recent favorites such as Kristen Bell and Idina Menzel (both of "Frozen," 2013), as well as classic performers like Jodi Benson ("The Little Mermaid," 1989) and Paige O'Hara ("Beauty and the Beast," 1991).
