Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

On Saturday [March 7], [President Trump] held this big summit at his Doral Golf Club, which is somehow normal now. While there, he launched his new organization to fight drug trafficking, the Shield of the Americas. ... When asked what exactly the Shield of the Americas mission statement is, Trump said it "has to do with drugs, largely." Powerful. Reminds me of the Marines motto, "It has to do with boats, sometimes."

It was a fantastic day in New York. It was sunny. It would be a great day to hold a parade, and I guess we should because according to [President Trump], the war in Iran is over. Yesterday [March 9] he told a CBS reporter, "I think the war is very complete ... pretty much." Oh, so it's not totally over. Oh, now it seems weird that I ran out into Times Square and French kissed an Elmo.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Today [March 11], in a phone interview, Trump said that the war with Iran will end "soon" because there is "practically nothing left" to target. Trump said, "Look, it's all gone." And the staff was like, "Sir, that's the East Wing."

Today [March 11] Iran said they will not participate in this summer's World Cup here in the U.S. That's right. The winner of the FIFA Peace Prize bombed another country into leaving the World Cup.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

The Senate this week approved the use of AI chatbots for lawmakers and staff doing official business. Once again, illustrating that no one in our government has seen any of The Terminator movies.

[President] Trump introduced the former head of Homeland Security, Kristi Noem, as the new special envoy to what Trump calls his "Shield of the Americas" coalition. See, Kristi Noem wasn't fired. She just moved from her high-profile cabinet position to run a coalition Trump made up. Kind of like when he made Mike Pence a spaceman, right?

Late Night With Seth Meyers

Amid complaints that passengers could not see through the windows, New Jersey Transit announced this week that it has replaced them in more than half of its multi-level rail cars. Yeah, God forbid you miss that famous Jersey scenery.

A male enhancement supplement called Rhino Choco VIP 10X has been recalled because it contains the active ingredient found in the erectile dysfunction drug Cialis. Customers became suspicious when they took something called Rhino Choco VIP 10X and it actually worked.

The 2026 Camel Beauty Show Festival was held last month in Oman, and at least 20 camels were disqualified because they had received cosmetic enhancements. I knew those humps weren't real!

Feeling audacious: Silicon Valley goes to therapy in new AMC series

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Since the rise of digital technology tycoons Bill Gates, Michael Bloomberg and Joe Liemandt in the 1980s, the United States — and more specifically, Silicon Valley, California — has positioned itself as the center of excellence for Big Tech. In 2026, the Bay Area hub is home to AI monoliths Nvidia, Apple, Google and Meta, as well as a sea of start-up companies.

As a locale, “Silicon Valley” has earned a reputation synonymous with sleek, modern devices and a plethora of internet applications designed to enrich our lives by connecting us to the larger world and simplifying the tasks that we have collectively deemed too tedious, boring or time-consuming.

Along with this industry boom came the term “tech bro,” which, for many, instantly conjures the image of a 20-something-year-old man in a fleece vest or hoodie carrying a coffee to his stark white desk before taking a nap in the office sleep pod. (Anyone who has seen “Succession” Season 4 already knows that GoJo founder Lukas Matsson, played by “True Blood’s” Alexander Skarsgard, is exactly this type of character.)

And although tech bros come in many different iterations (not unlike the iPhones they hawk), there is no denying that the most successful of their kind often wear their lanyards with a strong sense of entitlement and a low threshold for mundanity. This, dear TV viewer, is exactly what AMC addresses in its new series “The Audacity,” from creator Jonathan Glatzer (“Bad Sisters”).

Premiering Sunday, April 12, on AMC and the AMC+ streaming service, “The Audacity” tells the story of budding tech mogul Duncan Park (Billy Magnussen, “Game Night,” 2018), who is slowly coming to terms with Silicon Valley’s toxicity — and his own — through a series of discussions with his therapist (played by “Barry” star Sarah Goldberg).

“Set inside the bubble of Silicon Valley, ‘The Audacity’ takes on the warped dreams, outsized egos and ethical lapses of the self-styled inventors of the future,” the AMC description for the series reads. “In a world of jaded billionaires, psychiatrist-gurus, biohacked tech bros, AI labs and disillusioned teens being optimized in elite private schools, an audacious data-mining CEO [Magnussen] strives to turn insight and influence into profit and power.”

The series, also referred to as “a darkly comedic drama that confronts reality, privacy and the delusions fueling our ever-changing world,” pulls no punches with respect to its critique of the high-tech industry. Having been credited with (or perhaps accused of, depending on your perspective) “tearing Silicon Valley a new one” by Mashable.com writer Belen Edwards, “The Audacity” really could not come at a better time.

“There are timely topics on the show,” leading man Magnussen said during the SXSW Studio panel on March 14. “I’m definitely not claiming to be a tech expert or anything, but I think it’s the humanity that Jonathan Glatzer has put into these characters.

“The show is about people that went into this world with good intentions, wanting to build the perfect product. And they’re flawed themselves, and then they had money added onto that power wealth. But the story that’s fun is the corruption of that power, the weight of all that stuff, and these people trying to be these larger-than-life titans in this world, but they’re still just humans that have faults.”

Magnussen’s co-star Simon Helberg (“The Big Bang Theory”), who plays Martin Phister in “The Audacity,” agreed with Magnussen’s statement,

“The way that I see it, when we were going to work, it feels like, ‘We better tell this story now, because this is also going to be a headline in six hours.’”

Joining Magnussen, Goldberg and Helberg on-screen are Zach Galifianakis (“The Hangover,” 2009) as Carl Bardolph; Lucy Punch (“Amandaland”) as Duncan’s wife, Lili Park-Hoffstader; Paul Adelstein (“The Menu,” 2022) as Goldberg’s on-screen husband, Dr. Gary Felder; Rob Corddry (“Childrens Hospital”) as Tom Ruffage; Ava Marie Telek (“Happy Face”) as Duncan and Lili’s daughter, Jamison; and Meaghan Rath (“Hawaii Five-0”) and Thailay Roberge (“Reginald the Vampire”) as Helberg’s on-screen wife and daughter, Anushka and Tess, respectively.

Everett Blunck (“The Plague,” 2025), Jess McLeod (“One Of Us Is Lying”), Rukiya Bernard (“Yellowjackets”), Andrew Bushell (“Designated Survivor”) and Arlina Rodriguez (“Death Note,” 2017) also star in the series’ premiere season.

“‘The Audacity’ is one of the most exciting, timely and relevant projects I’ve ever been associated with,” said Dan McDermott, president of entertainment and AMC Studios for AMC Networks, during the show’s announcement in April of last year.

“We focus on three primary things,” McDermott later added while calling back to AMC’s rich history of on-screen storytelling. “One is lightning-in-a-bottle characters that can break out and become part of the cultural conversation. The second is that they take the audience into a unique world or subculture that we either haven’t seen portrayed or haven’t seen portrayed in this particular way. And the third is we want to be entertaining and fun, of course, but we also want our shows to have a real cultural meaning and ballast and be about something important.”

“The Audacity,” which as already been greenlit for a second season, premieres Sunday, April 12, on AMC and AMC+.

Pressure cooker: 'Beef' returns with conflict in an elite members' club

Oscar Isaac stars in "Beef"

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Beef at a country club might conjure images of filet mignon, a slice of prime rib roast or even steak tartare served on a crisp white tablecloth next to polished silverware. But Netflix has something even more delicious than perfectly prepared protein. The much-anticipated sophomore season of the Emmy-winning personal conflict anthology comedy drama "Beef" premieres on the streamer Thursday, April 16, this time set at a swanky private golf club. All eight episodes of the new season will be available to stream on premiere day.

The first season of "Beef," which premiered in 2023, followed the outrageous fallout of a road rage incident between two drivers, portrayed by Ali Wong ("American Housewife") and Steven Yeun ("Nope," 2022). This time, two couples are involved, one witnessing a violent fight between the other.

Ashley Miller (Cailee Spaeny, "Wake Up Dead Man," 2025) is newly engaged to her aspiring personal trainer fiancé Austin Davis (Charles Melton, "May December," 2023). They both work service jobs at Monte Vista Point Country Club, where general manager Joshua Martin (Oscar Isaac, "Frankenstein," 2025) is their boss.

Josh and his wife, Lindsay Crane-Martin (Carey Mulligan, "The Ballad of Wallis Island," 2025), are under pressure from the billionaire owner of the club, Chairwoman Park (Youn Yuhjung, "Minari," 2020), who is managing her own personal crisis.

In a teaser trailer for the upcoming season, we see what appears to be the inciting incident between the two main couples. On a dark evening, Josh and Lindsay are in a screaming match in their home. As Lindsay smashes her wine glass on the floor between them, Josh stands over Lindsay, shouting, holding an iron pulled from his golf bag in one hand and her sweater in the other. Everything stops when they notice Ashley and Austin watching them from outside their picture window.

The younger couple splits, and a complex cold war begins. As both of the couples try to curry favor with Chairwoman Park, who is in town from Korea, they look for professional leverage as backup for their personal beef. Empathy, compassion and understanding appear to be a reach for both couples, as it is pretty clear in the teaser trailer that the relationship is already strained.

Dripping with condescension and irony, Josh tells Ashley in the trailer, "Our members, do you know why they pay so much to come here? The golf, the courts, the exclusivity, the discretion. People need a place where they can feel safe, where they can pretend everything is OK. It's the land of make-believe."

Song Kang-ho, star of the 2019 Best Picture Academy Award-winning film "Parasite," is Dr. Kim, the second husband of the chairwoman and the center of a scandal that his wife must endure. The latest season of the dark comedy also stars Seoyeon Jang ("Good Partner") as Eunice, William Fichtner ("Talamasca: The Secret Order") as Troy, Mikaela Hoover ("Superman," 2025) as Ava and musician Bolia Matundu — professionally known as BM — making his acting debut as Woosh.

This latest season of "Beef" is again helmed by series creator, writer, showrunner and executive producer Lee Sung Jin ("Silicon Valley"). Lee told Tudum that with the second season of the anthology series, he wanted to explore dynamics between two generations — millennials Josh and Lindsay vs. Gen Zers Ashley and Austin — and how relationships transform over time.

"Austin and Ashley think all they need is each other and the beach," Lee shared. "So, when we meet them they are thrust into intersecting with our millennial couple." He added that Austin and Ashley "have never been tested," and it will be "interesting to see with these two how they react to life's first real struggles."

About the central theme of the series, Lee cited a line from the show's first season to Tudum in an interview after his Golden Globes wins, saying, "'Anger is just a transitory state of consciousness.' It's such a fleeting emotion." Digging deep into anger and shame with "Beef," the series puts what should be a fleeting emotion into a pressure cooker to explore the value of simmering in negative feelings.

Season 1 stars Wong and Yeun executive produce the new season alongside Lee, Mulligan, Isaac, Melton, Spaeny and Jake Schreier ("Kidding"), with production company A24. The first season brought in the composer behind the unsettling 2019 A24 horror film "Midsommar," Bobby Krlic, known as The Haxan Cloak, for its soundtrack, and this season has another well-known producer building the tension with music.

Finneas O'Connell, who recently picked up a Grammy for song of the year for producing the Billie Eilish track "Wildflower," scores the second season of "Beef." It sounds like there is some really good friction in the upcoming season, as O'Connell told Tudum, "I probably watched every scene 100 times while I scored the show, and I felt it every time."

Take a seat for another helping of "Beef" when the new season drops Thursday, April 16, on Netflix.

Sir David Attenborough reflects on past wildlife encounters in 'A Gorilla Story'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Rwanda revisited: In 1978, Sir David Attenborough debuted "Life on Earth," a series that saw him encountering and befriending a playful baby mountain gorilla named Pablo. Nearly 50 years after their encounter, Attenborough, whose 100th birthday is May 8, reflects on his time in the mountains of Rwanda and introduces us to Pablo's closest descendants in "A Gorilla Story: Told by David Attenborough," a feature film making its debut Friday, April 17, on Netflix.

From Oscar-winning director James Reed ("My Octopus Teacher," 2020) and Silverback Films, this one-of-a-kind documentary features archival footage of Attenborough's fateful meeting with Pablo, while also returning viewers to the very same mountains Attenborough once visited in Rwanda, where the Pablo group — the direct descendants of the gorilla he met decades ago — still live today.

"Weaving together contemporary and archival footage of the gorilla group and narrated by Attenborough — including excerpts from his 1978 journals — 'A Gorilla Story' is packed with extraordinary gorilla behavior never filmed before," says Netflix.

According to the Dian Fossey Gorilla Fund, which aided in the film's creation, "filming the Pablo group was no small feat."

"Known for their far-ranging movements and preference for difficult, steep and high-altitude terrain, the group pushed the crew from Silverback Films to their limits," said the Fossey Fund.

The Pablo group — including Gicurasi (27), Ubwuzu (19), Teta (13), Inyange (6) and Ubi (2) — was followed by Reed's crew for an unprecedented 250 days throughout Volcanoes National Park, aided by the Fossey Fund staff, Rwandan officials and the Rwandan Development Board as they captured rare and unprecedented footage of the gorilla family.

"With this support, they were able to capture rare moments, from sunrise scenes high on the slopes of Mount Karisimbi with the gorillas waking up in their night nests, to dramatic behaviors within the group," the Fossey Fund concludes. Many of these dramatic moments — including an encounter between the Pablo group and a violent teenage silverback — are shared throughout the course of the film.

With Silverback Films producing in association with Leonardo DiCaprio's ("The Revenant," 2015) Appian Way, "A Gorilla Story: Told by David Attenborough" premieres Friday, April 17, on Netflix.

Bravery vs. brawn: Nearly four decades after its television debut, "American Gladiators" returns once again, with new hosts, new gladiators and a new take on the series' iconic format. The all-new "American Gladiators" makes its debut Friday, April 17, with three high-octane episodes available to stream on Prime Video.

Created and executive produced by John Ferraro, creator of the original "American Gladiators" series, this return to format sees pro wrestler Mike "The Miz" Mizanin ("The Marine 6: Close Quarters," 2018) and Roci Diaz ("Entertainment Tonight") as its hosts, with an exciting lineup of gladiators ready to compete in this first season, including: AEW wrestler Michael Wardlow, "Big Brother" star Jessie Godderz (aka Mr. PEC-Tacular), former WWE wrestler Eric "Rick Boogs" Bugenhagen, fitness coach Drew Aggouras, powerlifter Sydney Hunter, professional bodybuilder Lu Faustin, AEW wrestler Kailey Latimer and more.

Much like the original "American Gladiators" series, which ran for seven seasons from 1989-96, this competition will see its latest contenders taking part in physically demanding challenges against some of the country's strongest men and women.

As Amazon Studios explains, "each episode of the fan-favorite competition features amateur male and female contenders from across the nation stepping into the arena to face 16 powerful new American Gladiators. From classic events like Joust, Powerball, Hang Tough and

David Attenborough narrates "A Gorilla Story: Told by David Attenborough"

The Wall, to high-impact new events including The Ring and Collision, every showdown demands strength, strategy and pure grit. Only one man and one woman will conquer the Arena, claim $100,000 and earn the title of American Gladiator Champion."

Lauren Anderson, head of brand and content innovation at Amazon MGM Studios, adds: "'Gladiators' is an enduring, physical challenge format that continues to engage families around the world. We look forward to delighting our global Prime Video customers with both reimagined and nostalgic elements that celebrate the best of the original series."

With Susan Janis-Mashayekhi ("Undercover Boss"), Sarah Happel Jackson ("Deal or No Deal Island") and Adam Cooper ("So You Think You Can Dance") serving as co-executive producers, the all-new "American Gladiators" makes its debut Friday, April 17, on Prime Video. The remaining episodes of the series will be released Friday, April 21, and Friday, May 1.

"Roommates" (2026)

College is where friendships are made — and tested — as director Chandler Levack's ("I Like Movies," 2022) latest comedy, "Roommates," lands on Netflix Friday, April 17. When hopeful freshman Devon (Sadie Sandler, "Jay Kelly," 2025) convinces the cool, self-assured Celeste (Chloe East, "A Big Bold Beautiful Journey," 2025) to be her roommate, it feels like the start of a blossoming friendship. But as the year unfolds, their bond turns into a tense standoff built on passive-aggressive clashes. Penned by "Saturday Night Live's" Jimmy Fowlie and Ceara O'Sullivan, "Roommates" also stars Billy Bryk ("Hell of a Summer," 2023), Sarah Sherman ("You Are So Not Invited to My Bat Mitzvah," 2023), Natasha Lyonne ("Orange Is the New Black"), Nick Kroll ("Captain Underpants: The First Epic Movie," 2017) and Carol Kane ("The Princess Bride," 1987).

"Noah Kahan: Out of Body" (2026)

Arriving on Netflix Monday, April 13, "Noah Kahan: Out of Body" captures singer-songwriter Noah Kahan ("False Confidence") at a turning point following the breakout success of "Stick Season." Filmed over the past year, this intimate documentary follows Noah as he steps away from sold-out tours and back into his Vermont roots. Surrounded by his family, "he searches for a sense of home and creative inspiration as he confronts the deeply personal struggles that have left him out of sync with himself" (per Tudum). "He was in a strange in-between moment, caught in the collision between almost surreal fame and a quieter inner world he'd tried to keep offstage," director Nick Sweeney ("Born in the Wrong Body") told Netflix in a statement. "What we captured over the course of a year surprised me — moments that were thrilling, terrifying [and] hilarious, often all at once." Monte Lipman ("Chasing Happiness," 2019) is an executive producer, alongside Jon Kamen ("Hamilton," 2020) and Jessica James Batista ("The Dark Knight Rises," 2012).

"The Law According to Lidia Poet" - Season 3

As past and present collide, Lidia Poet's (Matilda De Angelis, "Rose Island," 2020) story reaches its end when Season 3 of "The Law According to Lidia Poet" premieres Wednesday, April 15, on Netflix. Picking up in April 1887, this six-episode final season follows the trailblazing Poet as she fights to become a lawyer. With her brother

Enrico (Pier Luigi Pasino, "Lovely Boy," 2021) now in parliament and fighting to legalize her right to practice law, Lidia edges closer to a dream she's long been denied. However, progress comes at a cost. When her closest friend (Liliana Bottone, "Parthenope," 2024) is accused of murder, Lidia mounts a daring self-defence argument before an all-male jury, putting her on a collision course with Prosecutor Fournneau (Gianmarco Saurino, "Kabul"), the man she loves. Meanwhile, the high-profile trial brings journalist Jacopo Barberis (Eduardo Scarpetta, "My Family") back to Turin, stirring up unresolved feelings between him and Lidia. Created by Guido Iuculano ("Romulus"), this final chapter will force Lidia to reckon not only with the law, but with her own heart.

"Million Dollar Secret" - Season 2

Trust no one and suspect everyone because Season 2 of "Million Dollar Secret" is on its way. The new season lands on Netflix Wednesday, April 15, as a fresh group of players arrive at the secluded lakeside estate known as The Stag for a shot at winning $1 million, which is secretly awarded to one player at the start of the game. Hosted by Peter Serafinowicz ("John Wick: Chapter 2," 2017), "this season, the stakes are higher than ever as players face trickier agendas, grueling challenges and navigate the ever-changing game of deception," (per Netflix). Do they have what it takes to keep their million-dollar secret? Charles Wachter ("Holey Moley") serves as showrunner of the series, which is executive produced by Glenn Huggill ("Deal or No Deal?"), Will Nothacker ("Wife Swap") and Russ Friedman ("Keeping Up with the Kardashians").

"Balls Up" (2026)

A wild pitch turns into an international disaster when "Balls Up" premieres Wednesday, April 15, on Prime Video. In this raunchy comedy from writers Paul Wernick ("Deadpool 2," 2018) and Rhett Reese ("Deadpool," 2016), marketing executives Brad (Mark Wahlberg, "The Fighter," 2010) and Elijah (Paul Walter Hauser, "Black Bird") think they've struck gold with a bold World Cup sponsorship idea. But after a drunken night in Brazil spirals into a global scandal, the duo finds themselves on the run. Hunted by angry fans, shady criminals and powerful officials, they scramble to clean up the mess and save their careers. Directed by Peter Farrelly ("Dumb and Dumber," 1994), "Balls Up" also stars Benjamin Bratt ("Miss Congeniality," 2000), Eva De Dominici ("The Cleaning Lady") and Daniela Melchior ("The Suicide Squad," 2021), with Molly Shannon ("Never Been Kissed," 1999), Sacha Baron Cohen ("Les Misérables," 2012) and Eric Andre ("The Eric Andre Show") rounding out the cast.

ning ("Predator: Badlands," 2025) stars as Margo, a 20-year-old whose carefree college days are cut short when she finds out she's pregnant after a brief affair with her English professor (Michael Angarano, "Laid"). Raised by a Hooters waitress (Michelle Pfeiffer, "Hairspray," 2007) and an ex-pro wrestler (Nick Offerman, "Parks and Recreation"), she suddenly finds herself with a newborn, unemployed and facing eviction. But when her estranged father (Offerman) reappears, his unexpected presence sparks a bold idea: an OnlyFans account that quickly brings financial relief. As her online success grows, so do the complications, forcing Margo to reckon with the cost of turning her life into content. From series creator David E. Kelley ("L.A. Law"), "Margo's Got Money Troubles" also stars Nicole Kidman ("Scarpetta"), Sasha Diamond ("Tommy") and Michael Workey ("Black Mirror"), with Dearbhla Walsh ("Bad Sisters") directing.

"Euphoria" - Season 3

If you make a deal with the devil, there's no turning back. The long-awaited third season of Sam Levinson's ("The Idol") drama series "Euphoria" returns Sunday, April 12, available on Prime Video via the HBO Max channel. A lot has changed since this group of misfit teens graduated from East Highland, with the story picking up five years after the events of Season 2. Rue (Zendaya, "Spider-Man: Homecoming," 2017) is now living in Mexico, working at the Smoke Shack and is focused on rebuilding her life after hitting a devastating rock bottom last season. But when a drug dealer (Martha Kelly, "Marriage Story," 2019) tracks her down demanding repayment, Rue comes up with some innovative ways to pay it off. Meanwhile, Cassie (Sydney Sweeney, "Anyone But You," 2023) is engaged to her high school sweetheart, Nate (Jacob Elordi, "Frankenstein," 2025), and works as an OnlyFans content creator — much to the displeasure of her husband-to-be. Also returning is Maddy (Alexa Demie, "Waves," 2019), who is making big waves in Hollywood working at a talent agency, while Jules (Hunter Schafer, "Kinds of Kindness," 2024) tries to find her footing as she navigates an uncertain new chapter. Season 3 of "Euphoria" also sees Eric Dane ("Grey's Anatomy"), Maude Apatow ("This Is 40," 2012), Dominic Fike ("Barbie," 2023) and more return, with Ashley Levinson ("X," 2022) serving as executive producer.

Gordon's Global Gauntlet

'MasterChef' returns, keeping international flavors at the forefront

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

There are plenty of cooking competitions to conquer, but only a select few are Gordon Ramsay-approved. Led by the "Hell's Kitchen" host, Season 16 of "MasterChef" begins Wednesday, April 15, on Fox, with episodes available to stream the next day on Hulu.

Once again, Ramsay is joined by fellow chefs Joe Bastianich ("Food-ish") and Tiffany Derry ("Tournament of Champions") as the series' all-star judges who will preside over this season's batch of home cooks. With $250,000 on the line, these novice cooks will have to prove their mettle through skills tests, team challenges, mystery boxes, elimination rounds and more, tackling each raise in temperature without boiling over.

According to a post shared by Derry on her Instagram (@mastercheftd), the upcoming season's theme will be Global Gauntlet. Her caption, posted below a snap of Derry and her fellow judges, reads: "Cheers to a new season and a new global stage y'all. @masterchefonfox: GLOBAL GAUNTLET premieres April 15. Let the cooking begin."

"MasterChef" — which ranked as Fox's most-watched summer series of 2025, with an average of 3.5 million Total Multiplatform Viewers, according to the network — won't end with this internationally themed season, either, as Fox has already renewed the series for Season 17.

"We have cooked up two absolutely great themes for the new season that fans are going to love," says Michael Heyerman, executive producer and senior vice-president of unscripted original series at Endemol Shine North America. "We're thrilled to be back in the kitchen with Gordon, Joe and Tiffany, building on the incredible chemistry and high standards they set last season."

Yasmin Rawji, Fox Entertain-

ment's former executive vice-president of unscripted television, adds: "'MasterChef' remains a standout series for Fox, drawing its dedicated fan base back season after season to witness amateur cooks transform into culinary masters. Gordon Ramsay, Joe Bastianich and Tiffany Derry provide culinary expertise, mentorship and heart, and we can't wait to see what they, as well as our partners at Endemol Shine North America, have in store for seasons 16 and 17."

Produced by Endemol Shine North America, a Banijay Americas company, and One Potato Two Potato, Season 16 of the highly anticipated series "MasterChef" begins Wednesday, April 15, on Fox.

In Cold Light

Ava (Monroe) is a young woman recently released from prison who tries to rebuild her life after serving time for drug dealing. Determined to regain control of her former drug operation she ran alongside her twin brother (Irving), Ava quickly gets pulled back into the criminal world. Her fragile comeback unravels when a violent murder pulls her into a dangerous web of suspicion and betrayal. Ava finds herself on the run, hunted by both the police and ruthless figures from the criminal underworld, each closing in for their own reasons. As the pressure mounts, Ava is forced to navigate shifting loyalties and buried family tensions, all while piecing together what really happened the night of the killing. The deeper she digs, the clearer it becomes that escaping her past may be impossible and that trusting the wrong person could cost her everything.

I Was a Stranger

The stories of five individuals intersect over the course of a single night of life-or-death: a doctor (Massri), a soldier (Mahayni), a smuggler (Sy), a poet (Bakri) and a ship captain (Markoulakis). As war and displacement force them from their homes, each character is driven by the same goal: survival and the hope of finding safety. Their journeys collide across borders and oceans, revealing the harsh realities of conflict, the moral complexities of those involved and the human cost of seeking refuge.

Monty Python's Life of Brian - Criterion Collection

Brian Cohen (Chapman) is an ordinary man born in Judea at the same time and in the stable next door to Jesus Christ. This coincidence sets the stage for a lifetime of mix-ups that lead people to believe Brian is the long-awaited Messiah. As an adult, Brian becomes frustrated with Roman occupation and briefly joins inept rebel group the People's Front of Judea, which spends more time arguing with rival factions than actually resisting authority. After a series of accidental "miracles" and misunderstandings, Brian gains a devoted crowd who refuse to believe his repeated claims that he's just an ordinary person.

Director: Terry Jones. Stars: Graham Chapman, John Cleese, Terry Gilliam, Eric Idle, Terry Jones, Michael Palin. 1979. 94 min. Comedy.

Monday Best Bets

Joel McHale hosts "The 1% Club"

American Idol

(22) 8:00 PM

The top 11 competitors will perform iconic hits from Rock & Roll Hall of Fame inductees, mentored by music legends, before America votes for the Top 9 vocalists. In addition, inductees for the R&R Hall of Fame class of 2026 ceremony are revealed.

The 1% Club

(44) 8:00 PM

Host Joel McHale is back in this Season 3 premiere of the game show that features increasingly difficult logic-based questions for a shot at $100,000. Questions test brain power over trivia knowledge, so only one per cent of the population can answer.

Rock the Block

HGTV 8:00 PM

Premiering with a two-hour episode, Season 7 of this renovation competition series pairs HGTV renovation pros with celebrities Brooke Hogan, Drew Lachey, Vernon Davis and Chelsea Meissner as they work together to makeover identical houses in Las Vegas.

The Fall and Rise of Reggie Dinkins

(5) (12) 8:30 PM

After ruining his reputation, Reggie (Tracy Morgan) has worked to reclaim his legacy with the help of documentary filmmaker Arthur Tobin (Daniel Radcliffe). Will it be enough? Precious Way and Bobby Moynihan also star in this season finale.

Kelly Clarkson of "The Voice" Finding Your Roots With Henry Louis Gates, Jr.

(33) (57) 8:00 PM
 During this final episode of the series' 12th season, Prof. Henry Louis Gates, Jr. delves into the family histories of "Grey's Anatomy" actress Kate Burton and media mogul Barry Diller, expanding their family trees with stories from generations past.

Doc
 (44) 8:00 PM
 A brain injury erased the last eight years of Dr. Amy Larsen's (Molly Parker) memory. She has no recollection of former patients, her ex-husband (Omar Metwally), her daughter (Charlotte Fountain-Jardim) or the skills she amassed over time.

The Voice
 (5) 9:00 PM
 Season 29's final four competitors belt it out in this finale episode. Hosted by Carson Daly, this long-running music competition sees coaches Adam Levine, Kelly Clarkson and John Legend mentoring exceptionally talented singers.

Jeff Dunham's The Cars That Drove Us
 disc 9:00 PM
 Though Hollywood has given the world plenty of hero cars that we could actually drive home — the DeLorean, Herbie, Knight Rider — the Batmobile was always unobtainable. Host Jeff Dunham looks at why the 1989 Batmobile redefined the movie car.

LeVar Burton hosts "Trivial Pursuit"

Next Level Chef

(12) (44) 8:00 PM

The remaining chefs need to be mindful of the advice of mentors Gordon Ramsay, Nyasha Arrington and Richard Blais as they continue to battle it out in this culinary gauntlet in hopes of winning a life-changing $250,000 prize and title of Next Level Chef.

NHL Hockey

ESPN 8:00 PM

Robert Thomas, Pavel Buchnevich and the St. Louis Blues head west to the Delta Center in Salt Lake City to take on Clayton Keller, Nick Schmaltz and the Utah Mammoth in the final regular season game for both. The Mammoth seem primed for the post-season.

9-1-1: Nashville

(22) 9:00 PM

Music City is safe from dangers thanks to Capt. Don Hart (Chris O'Donnell) of Station 113 and his team of firefighters, emergency responders, EMTs, police officers and 911 dispatchers. Jessica Capshaw, LeAnn Rimes and Kimberly Williams-Paisley also star.

Trivial Pursuit

WPXI 9:00 PM

LeVar Burton hosts this game show based on the classic trivia board game. Contestants battle it out over a range of play-along question categories, including Geography, Entertainment, History and more, to win wedges and beat each other to the center.

"#Skyking" (2026)

An ordinary shift turns into an extraordinary and haunting flight when "#Skyking" premieres Tuesday, April 14, on Hulu. Directed by Patricia E. Gillespie ("The Devil You Know"), this documentary traces the shocking true story of Richard "Beebo" Russell, a 28-year-old Horizon Air ground service agent who, in 2018, stole a $33-million aircraft and took to the skies over the Pacific Northwest. Through never-before-heard air traffic control audio and firsthand accounts, the film reconstructs the tense 70-minute flight that captivated the world. Featuring emotional interviews with Russell's friends, family and co-workers — many speaking publicly for the first time — "#Skyking" moves beyond the headlines, offering a deeply personal portrait of a man in crisis and a sobering look at the broader mental health struggles unfolding across the United States. Christopher G. Cowen ("My Big Fat Greek Wedding," 2002) and Mary Lisio ("Killing Kennedy," 2013) serve as executive producers.

"The Quiz With Balls"

- Season 3

You've got to be pretty "ballsy" to compete in a televised game show — especially this one, in which wrong answers result in massive balls being dropped from a looming slope, rolling down to knock contestants into the pool below. For a $100,000 cash prize, it might be worth the risk... but only if your teammates can stay dry long enough to make it to the final round. Season 3 of "The Quiz With Balls" comes to Hulu this Tuesday, April 14, bringing chaos to players and viewers alike. Hosted by Jay Pharoah ("Saturday Night Live"), this third season makes its network debut the night before — Monday, April 13 — on Fox, bringing even more pop culture and general knowledge questions to its brave contestants. As always, the players who end the game "dry" will end the game as winners. "The Quiz With Balls" comes from Talpa Studios and the Eureka Productions division of Fremantle.

"The Hunger Games" - All Five Films

The odds are ever in your favor, as all five films in the "Hunger Games" franchise — including "The Hunger Games" (2012), "Catching Fire" (2013), "Mockingjay - Part 1" (2014), "Mockingjay - Part 2" (2015) and "The Ballad of Songbirds & Snakes" (2023) — will be available to stream on Hulu as of Tuesday, April 14. The first film in the franchise stars Academy Award-winner Jennifer Lawrence ("Silver Linings Playbook," 2012) as the series' heroine, Katniss Everdeen, who faces the harsh realities of her dystopian world when she's forced to volunteer for the brutal Hunger Games. One boy and girl from every district of Panem are sent to compete in a televised battle royale, where each player must fight to the death until only one — the victor — remains standing. Katniss is prepared to do whatever it takes to make it back to her family — that is, until she begins developing feelings for her fellow District 12 tribute, Peeta Mellark (Josh Hutcherson, "Five Nights at Freddy's," 2023). As the games unravel, Katniss is pulled into a world of rebellion and begins searching for a way to end the Hunger Games once and for all. Inspired by author Suzanne Collins enduring saga of books, "The Hunger Games" and its sequels feature an all-star cast, including Liam Hemsworth ("The Witcher"), Elizabeth Banks ("The Better Sister"), Woody Harrelson ("True Detective"), Stanley Tucci ("The Lovely Bones," 2009), Sam Claflin ("Me Before You," 2016), Rachel Zegler ("West Side Story," 2021), Tom Blyth ("People We Meet on Vacation," 2026), Donald Sutherland ("M*A*S*H") and more.

Q: Is Zachary Quinto going to be doing more "Brilliant Minds"? Where did it go?

A: Zachary Quinto's ("Star Trek," 2009) medical drama "Brilliant Minds" disappeared from the schedule ahead of the 2026 Olympic Winter Games, causing fans (like yourself, presumably) to worry. But NBC brought good news a few weeks ago, saying this was, indeed, just a hiatus, and "Brilliant Minds" will be back at the end of May.

Zachary Quinto in "Brilliant Minds"

There are six episodes left in the show's second season, which are scheduled to air into July.

It is, as I said, good news for fans, and of course for Quinto, who stars in the show as a brilliant and larger-than-life neurologist. It's based in part on the life of real-life neurologist Oliver Sacks, which makes it a pretty significant and meaty role to get into.

All that said, it seems like the show needs Quinto more than he needs it. For starters, it's not the only series he's been starring in recently: he was also part of the ensemble cast of "The Artist," a period murder mystery on fledgling streamer The Network. The show's first season released in November, with no news yet on a renewal.

Meanwhile, Quinto's also been dabbling in voice work for shows such as "Invincible" and "The Proud Family: Louder and Prouder."

And, of course, there's still talk of another big-screen Star Trek film. Quinto has played legendary sci-fi character Spock in three big-screen films so far, all of which were smashes. However, the most recent one — 2016's "Star Trek Beyond" — was a decade ago, so the timeline of a fourth, if it happens, is anyone's guess at this point.

Q: We watch "Silent Witness" on BritBox, which we enjoy very much. However, the Clarissa character, my favorite, is no longer around. I heard the actress was doing another show — is that why she left?

A: Liz Carr ("Infinite," 2021) didn't leave long-running British procedural crime drama "Silent Witness" for any one other role, but rather for the possibility of many others.

"The job was a joy," she told Britain's Radio Times magazine. "Clarissa was very loved, and I don't take the experience or the support that I got in that role for granted at all.

"But I wanted to see who else I could play. 'Silent Witness' took nine months a year, so it did cut out an awful lot of projects that I would have loved to do. I was starting to almost resent that, because I wanted to do other things."

And things have played out exactly as she hoped, it would seem. Since leaving "Silent Witness" in 2020, she's appeared in eight different series, including a number of major hits.

She most notably appeared in a couple of episodes of the fan-favorite fantasy series "The Witcher" (playing an investigator named Fenn — so not miles away from her "Silent Witness" role, though in a very different setting), as well as Prime Video's beloved comedy series "Good Omens" and the smash-hit comic book series "Loki" on Disney+.

Her newfound free time has also led to more stage work — before her TV stardom, Carr was a celebrated actor and stage comedian.
