Late Laughs

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Well, guys, “Spider-Man: Brand New Day” just had the biggest opening weekend in history. That’s right. This morning [Aug. 3], Times Square Spider-Man was drinking the good vodka. Not a plastic bottle this time. This one’s glass.

“Spider-Man: Brand New Day” made almost as much in three days as “The Odyssey” made in three weeks. It just goes to show Tom Holland is no match for Tom Holland.

A Qantas Airlines plane just broke a record for flying for over 24 straight hours. Although, it was just trying to land at Newark for 18 of them.

I read that runners are spending hundreds of dollars on MothTech T-shirts. They look like they have moth holes all over them. Can we see one? Yeah, Bill Belichick is like, “I started a trend!”

According to a new study, the most sexually adventurous state is New Mexico, while the least sexually adventurous place is Dry Hump, Wisconsin.

Earlier this morning [Aug. 5], one of Elon Musk’s SpaceX rockets crashed into the moon. Yeah, it’s nice knowing the richest person on Earth gets his ideas from the Minions.

I heard about an 18-year-old in Florida who became the world’s youngest college professor. Yeah, and he gave his students their first homework assignment: “Buy me beer.”

Jimmy Kimmel Live! ... With Anthony Anderson!

Welcome to “Jimmy Kimmel Live!” I’m your guest host, Anthony Anderson. We are coming to you from Los Angeles, where it’s “Back to School” week. Yes, these are the last few days of summer break. Unless you’re Jimmy Kimmel, because he [is not] ever coming back.

Tonight [Aug. 10] is my 25th time guest hosting this show, and they still won’t give me a raise.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

The American Museum of Natural History this week [July 26 - Aug. 1] began displaying a replica of the New York Knicks’ championship trophy, and you can also see a Mets trophy at Ripley’s Believe It or Not.

Starbucks announced a new partnership with Delta Airlines yesterday [July 27] to offer reward members one SkyMile for every dollar spent at the coffee chain. One SkyMile? Do you know how much coffee you’d have to drink to get a free trip? You wouldn’t need a plane.

A Mega Millions ticket holder in Florida yesterday [July 28] won the $800 million jackpot, and if I know Florida, they’re going to use the money to buy 800 million more tickets.

The beverage brand PepsiCo has partnered with a cosmetics company to offer a body scrub inspired by Pepsi Vanilla. Perfect for the woman who wants to spend the summer covered in bees.

Magpie, Moonflower and Marble: PBS releases final installment of Horowitz series

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

When it comes to solving mysteries, a police or private detective is usually the best bet. But when investigators are stumped and the crime appears to have more to do with a work of fiction than with the real world, it becomes time to involve another party entirely; one with inside information, an attention to fine detail and an endlessly clever mind.

Susan Ryeland (Lesley Manville, "The Crown"), the fictional writer and editor created by real-world bestselling author Anthony Horowitz, returns for a third and final series when "Marble Hall Murders" premieres Sunday, Sept. 6, via Masterpiece on PBS.

Following the success of its predecessors "Magpie Murders" (released in 2022) and "Moonflower Murders" (released in 2024), "Marble Hall Murders" continues Ryeland's story, this time bringing her back home to England following some time living in Greece with her partner, classics professor Andreas Patakis (Alexandros Logothetis, "The Island").

"In 'Marble Hall Murders,' editor Susan Ryeland is hired to work on a continuation novel of the Atticus Pünd [Tim McMullan, "The Queen," 2006] series, written by a troubled young author," reads the official synopsis, per PBS.org. "When the job leads Susan into another murder case, she unexpectedly finds herself a suspect."

Meanwhile, "[i]n the world of the novel, Atticus Pünd is visiting the Isle of Corfu when he becomes embroiled in the murder of Lady Margaret Chalfont [Patricia Hodge, "All Creatures Great & Small"], whose family he investigates with the assistance of a Greek detective."

As implied by the dual plot descriptions, "Marble Hall Murders" continues the same narrative structure as its two previous seasons, weaving the plot of Ryeland's literary projects into the tapestry of the main real-life mystery. Whereas the previous two Atticus Pünd novels were written by Alan Conway (Conleth Hill, "Game of Thrones"), who died by mysterious means in "Magpie," "Marble Hall" features a new novel in the series, "Pünd's Last Case," penned by budding author Eliot Crace (Jamie Blackley, "The Last Kingdom"), who has taken up the mantle despite some drama in his own life.

Tim McMullan in "Marble Hall Murders"

According to a Special Features press release on PBS.org, the novel is set in Corfu circa 1955 as Atticus Pünd hopes "to reconnect with his familial roots during the [final] months of his life, but inevitably getting sucked into an intriguing case — this time involving Nazi art theft, yet another hotel and a family of the absolute worst people ever, blood relations or otherwise."

This time, however, instead of "Pünd team[ing] up with Detective Inspector Chubb and Inspector Locke [both played by Daniel Mays of "The Thursday Murder Club"], 'Marble Hall Murders' pairs Pünd with an entirely new sidekick, the eye-patch-wearing Albanian police lieutenant Achilles Vassilikos [Zubin Varla, "Holby City"]. Susan, too, meets a new detective — the only problem is that he's convinced she's a murderer!"

Additional characters this season are portrayed by Mark Bonnar ("Line of Duty"), Claire Rushbrook ("Home Fires"), Harry Lloyd ("Game of Thrones"), Rupert Penry-Jones ("Whitechapel"), Yasmine Al Massri ("Quantico"), Anneika Rose ("Crossfire"), Katie Clarkson-Hill ("Hanna"), Manolis Emmanouel ("Greed," 2019), Nia Brown ("Bad Apples," 2025), Danny Sapani ("Killing Eve") and Daniel Cerqueira ("The Woman in Black," 2012), among others.

"I'm so happy to bring the team back ... for a third instalment of what has been a fantastically successful TV series," said author Horowitz, who also penned the teleplay for the small screen. "I have a feeling this could be the best yet."

Of course, the filming locations this season only contribute to that "best yet" feeling. Unlike "Magpie," which was filmed in both Dublin, Ireland, and Suffolk, England, and "Moonflower," which added Crete to its list of filming locations, a large portion of "Marble Hall" is spent in Corfu, "either conniving or sleuthing against the pure azure backdrop of the Ionian sea." PBS made sure to comfort audiences who enjoy the English settings, too, however, writing that Susan is back in the U.K., "jetting around London in her vintage red MG and her chic leather jacket."

As always, "[t]here's another location sure to captivate viewers, and that is Pünd's world itself," reads a PBS release. "The world of the book is slightly heightened, ever so faintly off-kilter, or in Tim McMullan's words, 'slightly unhinged.' This makes the humor even more fun, the emotional moments even more powerful, and all of it pure pleasure."

Of the final six-episode installment of the Susan Ryeland series, executive producer Jill Green ("Foyle's War") said, "Anthony [Horowitz] has once again brought his unique and original perspective to the world of murder mystery. 'Marble Hall Murders' completes the trilogy and the scripts and lead actors are once again at the top of their game."

Don't miss your chance to jump into a world (or two!) of intrigue, murder and mystery novels when the third and final piece of the puzzle comes together in "Marble Hall Murders." The series premieres Sunday, Sept. 6, on Masterpiece on PBS. Check local listings for viewing details.

30 YEARS EXPERIENCE

Lost and found: A man searches for his long-missing daughter in 'Last Seen'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

The call of a lifetime is about to send an Australian police dispatcher back to his days as a detective in the new Apple TV thriller series, "Last Seen." Premiering Wednesday, Sept. 9, "Last Seen" stars Patrick Brammall ("The Devil Wears Prada 2," 2026) as emergency service dispatcher and former police detective Ian Ridley, whose young daughter Maggie's disappearance has haunted him every day of the 11 years she's been missing from his life.

Catch the first two episodes of this brand-new thriller on premiere day, with weekly episode drops following every Wednesday until the Oct. 7 finale.

Per Apple TV, "the only thing that has kept [Ian] going is his implacable refusal to accept that she might be gone forever." His inability to let go of Maggie's case has led him to hand in his badge and pick up the dispatch headset, listening for her voice or a stray clue in every distress call.

While taking calls one day, a young woman in distress reaches Ian's line. She is lost and doesn't know how to get home again, she says in the trailer. Calmly, Ian tells her he is able to see the location of the payphone she is calling from, but what she says next has him losing some of the usual composure he maintains responding to emergencies. Her name is Sarah, or maybe Mags? Stunned at the possibility that his missing daughter may be on the other end of the line, still able to remember her young life, Ian shoots into action.

Sadly, he cannot make it to the payphone fast enough to see the caller, and by the time police arrive to process the scene, every trace of her having made that call has been wiped clean. Still, Ian just knows that it was his Maggie and he must find her now that he's got a lead. Ian's single-minded obsession over her disappearance has distanced him from loved ones and his career as a detective, sending him out on a limb with what he believes is a new development in Maggie's case.

Far from the boy who cried wolf in his own eyes, Ian is a lone wolf, determined to reunite his family. Now a teenager, Ian's daughter needs his help, and he will stop at nothing to find her. "Last Seen" follows Ian as he attempts to continue the investigation into Maggie's disappearance, armed with the recording of the dispatch call.

Ian sets out to do the door-knocking work himself, at risk of kicking the hornet's nest of potentially dangerous people who've kidnapped and brainwashed his daughter. Ian finds trouble one way or another, as the trailer reveals in a scene that he is involved in a car accident that flips his truck upside down. Deep into what could be a deadly mission, Ian is certain that Maggie is within reach this time, making the lengths he is willing to go more than worth it.

"Last Seen" is adapted from the 2011 novel "The Dispatcher" by author Ryan David Jahn. The six-episode season is set and was filmed on location in Victoria, Australia, a swap from the novel's East Texas setting. The series also stars Brendan Cowell ("Dune: Prophecy"), Maxine Peake ("Say Nothing"), Jessica Wren ("Wolf Like Me"), Daniel Henshall ("Dear Life"), Zahra Newman ("Pieces of Her"), Tobias Muhafidin ("Bali 2002") and newcomer Chloe Jean Lourdes in her first on screen role.

The show was adapted and executive produced by "Requiem" writer and creator Kris Mrksa. Christian Schwochow ("The Crown") is series director and executive produces alongside Mrksa, Joanna Werner ("The Newsreader"), Jamie Laurenson ("Hijack") and Hakan Koussetta ("Slow Horses").

The upcoming series' lead actor Brammall is perhaps best known for co-creating and starring in the Paramount+ sitcom "Colin From Accounts" with his real-life spouse, "DMV" actress Harriet Dyer. Strangers Gordon (Brammall) and Ashley (Dyer) are brought together by an injured dog they name Colin From Accounts (Zak). The streaming series returns for its third and final season just one day after "Last Seen," on Thursday, Sept. 10. Per Paramount, the new season "picks up after the Season 2 cliffhanger of Gordon's unexpected proposal to Ashley."

If you can't get enough of Brammall between episodes of "Last Seen," his big-screen turn in this summer's high-fashion blockbuster, "The Devil Wears Prada 2," is now streaming on Disney+. He also starred in all four seasons of the Paramount+ paranormal drama "Evil," as the mountaineering husband of the lead demonic possession investigator (Katja Herbers, "Manhattan").

Settle in for a nail-biting two-part premiere when the first two episodes of "Last Seen" drop Wednesday, Sept. 9, on Apple TV. New episodes of the six-episode series will be available to stream weekly every Wednesday.

Big Apple housewives return with high-society drama

The cast of "The Real Housewives of New York City"

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Take a bite: Drama never snoozes in the city that never sleeps. A brand-new season of "The Real Housewives of New York City" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 8, on Bravo. Catch new episodes of the 16th season of "RHONY" streaming the next day on Peacock. New York's busiest housewives are back for more glitzy events and lavish vacations, spending sprees and tense rooftop toasts.

Since the show's 2022 overhaul and complete recast ahead of Season 14, "RHONY" has continued to tinker with the women highlighted each season. Returning cast members this season are lifestyle blogger Sai De Silva, interior designer Erin Lichy and publicist Jessel Taank. However, they are not the only familiar faces this season.

Journalist and author Carole Radzwill, a fixture of New York's social scene for decades, returns to "RHONY" after a five-season-long hiatus from the show. New members joining the crew are publicist Hailey Glassman, former WWE diva and fitness instructor Erika Hammond and celebrity makeup artist Daisy Toye.

A juicy sneak peek at the upcoming season was released by Bravo in July that included just enough to hook viewers into another round of NYC glamour and gossip. First, Sai kicks things off with a pointed speech about authenticity that produces sarcastic encouragement from Daisy. Then, we get a glimpse into each of their lives, including a drop-in from the entrepreneurial homemaker blueprint herself, Martha Stewart ("Martha Stewart Living"), who looks over Daisy's place with a warm, judgmental eye.

This season, the ladies live it up on Erika's fully staffed private island, have heated poolside chats, comfort and confront each other in equal measure over their marriages and commiserate over life's troubles. After all, money can't buy happiness, but it can afford you Gucci.

Each of the "RHONY" women grapple with something big this season. Carole — shouted at in the street over her name appearing in the Epstein files in the trailer — confronts a chapter of her life she thought was closed. Jessel leans on Sai as she grieves the sudden loss of her father. Erin, also grieving her father's passing, welcomes her youngest son and deals with repairs to her storm-ravaged Hamptons home.

Sai tries to move forward after her husband's shocking divorce filing, while Daisy considers whether her lifestyle has outgrown her marriage. Hailey — who hit the tabloids in the early 2000s when she dated a freshly separated Jon Gosselin of "Jon & Kate Plus 8" — struggles with her identity. Finally, Erika, who wed billionaire Bilt CEO Ankur Jain in 2024, is on a challenging fertility journey.

Catch the season premiere of "The Real Housewives of New York City" Tuesday, Sept. 8, on Bravo and streaming the next day on Peacock.

Nobody's fool: Another icon of 1980s pop culture gets the Netflix documentary treatment with "Untold Mr. T: I Pity the Fool," the latest in the "Untold" series of sports documentaries, premiering Tuesday, Sept. 8, on the streamer.

Laurence Tureaud ("The A-Team"), known professionally as Mr. T, was first introduced to Hollywood when he became a bouncer to the stars, with clients such as "The Great Escape" star Steve McQueen, Motown shows of the 1980s, NBC's action-adventure series "The A-Team," as Sgt. Bosco "B.A." Baracus, the mechanical genius of the squad of wrongfully convicted military prison escapees.

Mr. T became a massive pop culture figure in the first half of the decade with a wide span of projects, including the animated 1983 series "Mister T" and a big screen debut that same year in the comedy "D.C. Cab." He released the children's motivational video "Be Somebody ... Or Be Somebody's Fool!" in 1984, made several appearances in the late-night sketch comedy show "Saturday Night Live," starred in countless commercials and had a brief professional wrestling career after joining World Wrestling Federation (now WWE) star Hulk Hogan as his tag team partner for the main event of the very first WrestleMania in 1985.

Recognizable from his stature, his signature look, catchphrases and tendency to speak in the third person, Mr. T built one of the most iconic personalities of the last half-century. The new documentary goes behind the curtain of the Mr. T character to take a look at Mr. Tureaud. Per Netflix: "Before the gold chains, mohawk and Hollywood fame of 'The A-Team' and 'Rocky III,' there was Laurence Tureaud. This is the extraordinary origin story behind one of the most unlikely and beloved icons in entertainment — Mr. T."

Directed by Scott Weintrob ("Home"), "Untold Mr. T: I Pity the Fool" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 8, on Netflix.

"Why Did I Get Married Again?" (2026)

Premiering on Netflix Wednesday, Sept. 9, Tyler Perry's ("Beauty in Black") "Why Did I Get Married Again?" brings the couples back together again for another wedding in this sequel, picking up 16 years after "Why Did I Get Married Too?" (2010). Marcus (Michael Jai White, "Spawn," 1997) and Angela (Tasha Smith, "Empire") haven't seen their old crew in years, but when their daughter Jasmine (Armani Greer, "The Waterboyz," 2024) gets engaged to her football-star fiancé, Wesley (Everett Osborne, "Sweetwater," 2023), everyone gathers in Lake Como, Italy, where the couple plans to tie the knot. Nearby, trouble stirs as Jasmine's stern father disapproves of Wesley, while the groom's mother, Roselyn (Taraji P. Henson, "The Curious Case of Benjamin Button," 2008), an old friend of the group, arrives with unfinished business of her own. As the couples reconnect, they soon realize their children have grown up to be remarkably like them, and they begin reflecting on the examples they've set. Written, directed by and starring Perry, the film has the couples asking themselves one age-old question: why did they get married ... again?

"Crew Girl" – Season 1

Think she can keep her head above water? Season 1 of "Crew Girl" premieres Thursday, Sept. 10, on Netflix. Sixteen-year-old Teagan Tao (Miku Martineau, "Star Trek: Section 31," 2025) thought her future was headed straight for the starting line, until a family scandal sends her across the country with her mother, Ella (Jessica Pare, "Lost and Delirious," 2001), and into a new life at prestigious Easton Prep. But there's one major problem: the school has no girls rowing team. Determined to return to the water, Teagan takes a seat in the coxswain's chair for the school's unruly boys varsity crew, where winning over her teammates proves harder than calling the strokes. Surrounded by old money, fierce competition and a team that doesn't want her there, Teagan must find a way to lead the crew while keeping her own ambitions afloat. Her new world becomes even more complicated when she is drawn into the orbit of arrogant captain Josh Regis (Samuel Braun, "Percy Jackson: Sea of Monsters," 2013) and quiet, driven outsider Cam Dillinger (Kyle Clark, "Home Before

Miku Martineau, Sage Linder, Alaska Leigh and Olga Petsa in "Crew Girl"

Dark"). As pressure mounts on and off the water, Teagan discovers that starting over may require more than finding her footing.

"Call My Agent! The Movie" (2026)

From talent agents to movie makers, the old ASK crew is back in the spotlight when "Call My Agent! The Movie" premieres Thursday, Sept. 10, on Netflix. Five years after ASK shut its doors, Andrea Martel (Camille Cottin, "Stillwater," 2021) is ready to trade the agency desk for the director's chair, only to discover that making a film may be even harder than managing actors. When her leading man walks away just days before production and she falls out with her producer, Andrea turns to Noémie (Laure Calamy, "A World Without Women," 2011) — now a reality TV producer — convinced she can persuade her former co-worker to help. But a major recasting, mishaps on set and a custody battle involving Andrea's daughter soon piles on the pressure. Before long, the former ASK colleagues arrive on set, each "with their own role, their ego and a fair share of old grudges." Little do they know what this reunion truly has in store for them, and it's one no one could have scripted. Directed by Emilie Noblet ("Parlement"), "Call My Agent!" also stars George Clooney ("Good Night, and Good Luck.," 2005), Laetitia Casta ("Gainsbourg: A Heroic Life," 2010) and Thibault de Montalembert ("All Quiet on the Western Front," 2022).

"Lioness" – Season 3

Season 3 of "Lioness" continues with a new episode, streaming Sunday, Sept. 6, on Prime Video via the Paramount+ channel, sending Joe McNamara (Zoe Saldana, "Avatar," 2009) deeper into a mission where the danger is closer to home than ever. Joe has spent years operating in the shadows, but this mission threatens both her work and the life she has fought to protect. With Kaitlyn Meade (Nicole Kidman, "The Hours," 2002) and Byron Westfield (Michael Kelly, "Dawn of the Dead," 2004) guiding the operation from behind the scenes, Joe is forced to follow a trail of hidden networks, foreign operatives and betrayals that seem connected in ways she cannot ignore.

Every move carries consequences, and every new threat pushes Joe closer to a conflict she cannot contain. With her team counting on her and unseen forces tightening their grip, Joe must decide how far she is willing to go before the war follows her home. This season also stars Morgan Freeman ("Million Dollar Baby," 2004) as Edwin Mullins, Laysla De Oliveira ("Locke & Key") as Cruz Manuelos, Dave Annable

Domhnall Gleeson in "The Paper"

Saturday, September 5, 2026

("Brothers & Sisters") as Neal McNamara, Jill Wagner ("Stargate: Atlantis") as Bobby, LaMonica Garrett ("The Terminal List") as Tucker and James Jordan ("Yellowstone") as Two Cups.

"The Paper" – Season 2

Domhnall Gleeson ("Black Mirror") returns to lead the Toledo Truth Teller newsroom in this mockumentary spinoff of "The Office," with all 10 new episodes landing Wednesday, Sept. 9, on Prime Video via the Peacock channel. Fresh off a clean sweep at the Ohio Journalism Awards, editor-in-chief Ned Sampson (Gleeson) should be celebrating, but he is already restless for his next big story. He sets his sights on a powerful local private club, convinced that exposing its secrets will cement his legacy and prove the Toledo Truth Teller matters. The trouble is that his crusade puts the struggling paper's future on the line all over again. At the same time, managing editor Esmeralda Grand (Sabrina Impacciatore, "The White Lotus") tries to hold the operation together amid the chaos, while the rest of the staff navigate their own oddball assignments and office entanglements. Season 2 welcomes a wave of new faces stirring up trouble around the newsroom, including Jon Lovitz ("NewsRadio"), Andy Richter ("New York Minute," 2004), Lisa Gilroy (seen recently in Netflix's rom-com "Office Romance"), Matt Braunger ("My Dead Ex"), Toks Olagundoye ("The Neighbors") and Phil Hendrie ("North Hollywood," 2001).

"Mayday" (2026)

Ryan Reynolds ("The Proposal," 2009) and Kenneth Branagh ("Death on the Nile," 2022) team up in "Mayday," available now on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel. At the height of the Cold War, hotshot U.S. Navy pilot Lt. Troy "Assassin" Kelly (Reynolds) is sent on a top-secret mission over Soviet territory. When his aircraft is shot down, Troy crashes deep behind enemy lines with no way to contact his team and little hope of making it out alive. His situation takes an unexpected turn when he is discovered by Nikolai Ustinov (Branagh), a gruff former KGB operative whose fascination with American culture makes him an unlikely ally. Instead of turning Troy over to the authorities, the two join forces as they make their way through the wilderness and find a way across enemy lines before time runs out. Also starring David Morse ("The Green Mile," 1999), Maria Bakalova ("Bodies Bodies Bodies," 2022), Wendy Crewson ("Air Force One," 1997) and Alex Ozerov-Meyer ("Orphan Black"), "Mayday" is directed by John Francis Daley and Jonathan Goldstein, who teamed up in 2017's "Spider-Man: Homecoming."

On 'The Line'

Bobby Flay launches new competition series

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Bobby Flay ("Boy Meets Grill with Bobby Flay") is unstoppable. The now highly recognizable celebrity chef made his first appearance on Food Network in 1994 and launched his first series on the network, "Grillin' & Chillin'," just two years later. Co-hosted by Jack McDavid ("At the Chef's Table"), Flay's flagship series ended after 38 episodes, but that was hardly the end of his burgeoning career.

Since 1996, Flay has hosted more than 20 different series, including "Beat Bobby Flay" and "Bobby's Triple Threat," both of which are currently still airing on Food Network. As of Tuesday, Sept. 8, Flay adds a third series to his present-day hosting duties: "Bobby Flay's The Line," which premieres immediately following Season 5, Episode 3 of "Bobby's Triple Threat."

"I consider 'The Line' the project that Food Network audiences have been waiting for," Flay said of his new competition series. "It combines 'high-end restaurant Bobby,' exhilarating competition and behind-the-scenes moments in real time. 'The Line' is a real-life kitchen roller coaster that the viewer will want to be strapped in for."

Using the high-pressure environment attributed to restaurant kitchens

as inspiration, "The Line" follows Flay as he "leads his hand-picked home team of extraordinary chefs" to compete "against acclaimed restaurateurs to execute a flawless dinner service for real diners in real time" (per @foodnetwork on Instagram). While the opposing team of restaurant chefs changes weekly, Flay is joined by Food Network chefs Antonia Lofaso ("Kitchen Undercover"), Michael Jenkins ("Cutthroat Kitchen") and Claudette Zepeda ("Top Chef").

According to a press release on FoodNetwork.com, meals will be served to the "VIP guests who will rate each plate. After the ratings roll in, the lines can choose to pivot their strategy based on the feedback. The home team's reputation is at stake to secure the win, but if the visiting team prevails, they'll win $25,000."

In the Sept. 8 premiere, Ethiopian-Swedish chef Marcus Samuelsson ("Chopped") surprises Flay by "joining his restaurant Hav & Mar's executive chef Fariyal Abdullahi ["24 in 24: Last Chef Standing"] and her line to go up against Bobby's home team in a global seafood battle. Unexpected problems force the chefs to improvise to get all their dishes out, and only one line overcomes the obstacles to capture the win."

Leviticus

Naim (Bird) is a teenage boy who has recently moved with his mother, Arlene (Wasikowska), to a small, isolated Australian town dominated by a conservative religious community. Naim feels like an outsider almost immediately and has trouble adjusting to his new surroundings. Arlene is grieving the loss of her husband and becomes increasingly involved with the local church, hoping that religion will give their family some stability. Meanwhile, Naim finds himself drawn to Ryan (Clausen), a popular boy from school. Their relationship begins like a typical teenage friendship: teasing one another, roughhousing, exploring abandoned buildings and spending time away from everyone else. Gradually, their friendship turns romantic, but because of their extremely religious community, neither boy feels safe openly acknowledging their feelings for the other. Things become further complicated when Naim discovers Ryan has also been involved with Hunter (Blewitt), the pastor's (Leslie) son. Hurt and jealous, Naim tells the pastor about his son and Ryan. In response, the church brings in a mysterious religious healer (Hope), and Hunter and Ryan are subjected to a disturbing deliverance ritual intended to drive out their attraction to one another. Although presented as an attempt to save the boys, the ceremony brings about something dark and dangerous. It summons an entity that pursues the boys, taking the form of the person they desire most to lure the person in but appearing as nothing to other people. If the person gives into their desires, the entity violently kills them. Feeling guilty and fearing for Ryan's safety, Naim approaches the police. His confession backfires and results in him being outed to his mother, who subsequently hires the same faith healer to perform the ritual on Naim, forcing both boys to confront their feelings and the creature brought forth from the ceremony.

Director: Adrian Chiarella. Stars: Joe Bird, Stacy Clausen, Jeremy Blewitt, Mia Wasikowska, Ewen Leslie, Nicholas Hope. 2026. 88 min. Romantic Horror.

Passenger

Maddie (Llobell) and Tyler (Scipio) are a young couple who have left their ordinary lives behind to travel around the country in a camper van. Their road trip is supposed to be an escape and a chance to build a life together, but everything changes when they encounter a horrific accident on a remote highway. The couple stops to help the driver (Fowler), and what initially appears to be a straightforward act of kindness quickly becomes something much more sinister. After leaving the crash site, Maddie begins noticing strange things happening around their van, and it becomes increasingly apparent that something (Lopez) came back with them. As the haunting intensifies, Maddie becomes convinced that they are being deliberately targeted, and the couple's relationship begins to deteriorate under the pressure.

Director: Andre Ovredal. Stars: Jacob Scipio, Lou Llobell, Melissa Leo, Miles Fowler, Joseph Lopez. 2026. 94 min. Horror.

MLB Baseball

(5) 8:00 PM

Oracle Park hosts a National League showdown as the St. Louis Cardinals visit the San Francisco Giants. Both clubs look to gain ground in a tightening playoff race, with every pitch carrying extra weight down the stretch of this grinding MLB season.

Beat Shazam

(44) 8:00 PM

From '80s and '90s hits to trending tunes of the 2020s, teams of two must race against the clock to try and identify some of the greatest songs of all time. In this season finale, $1 million dollars goes to the team that correctly guesses all the hits.

POV

(33) (57) 10:00 PM

Filmmaker Ross McElwee turns the camera on himself for a deeply personal reckoning, sifting through decades of his own footage after the death of his son. What emerges is a raw meditation on fatherhood, memory and the bond that somehow outlives loss.

Gail Bean stars in “The Drop: A Snowfall Saga”

Major League II

AMC 5:30 PM

Starring Tom Berenger, Charlie Sheen, Dennis Haysbert and Corbin Bernsen, this 1994 comedy finds a pack of lazy Cleveland baseball players up on their feet when an opinionated new coach (Berenger) steps in to whip the lacklustre team back into shape.

Jeopardy! Masters

⑫ ②② 8:00 PM

Answers come in the form of a question and winning comes with a $500,000 prize in this Season 4 finale. Following the preliminary and semifinal rounds, this final match will see the season’s most elite champions fighting for the Alex Trebek Trophy.

The Real Housewives of New York City

BRAV 8:00 PM

Season 16 kicks off with old friendships fraying and new tension simmering among the ladies. Sai De Silva navigates a divorce, Jessel Taank juggles grief and family strain and Erika Hammond opens up about fertility struggles behind her glamorous life.

The Drop: A Snowfall Saga

FX 9:00 PM

West Coast rap is rising, the crack epidemic’s fallout still lingers and Wanda Bell (Gail Bean) and Leon Simmons (Isaiah John) want a piece of the ‘90s LA hustle in this series premiere where everything rests on ambition, loyalty and survival instinct.

Wednesday

Best Bets

Sam Darnold, quarterback of the Seattle Seahawks

NFL Football

(5) (12) 8:15 PM

Lumen Field in Seattle sets the scene as the New England Patriots head west to face the Super Bowl Champion Seattle Seahawks. Both teams look to establish an early-season identity as a raucous home crowd looks to make life difficult for the visitors.

The Shards

FX 9:00 PM

Privilege curdles into obsession at an elite 1980s LA prep school, where Bret (Igby Rigney) can't shake the feeling something's wrong. A magnetic new student's (Homer Gere) arrival collides with a serial killer's rampage in this season finale.

Resolve to Solve With Miles O'Brien

(33) (57) 10:00 PM

In this season finale, Miles O'Brien chases bold science from sound waves that might rewire addiction to psychedelics that could reopen the brain's capacity to learn. He becomes his own test subject, enrolling in a study targeting his phantom pain.

The Ark

SYFY 10:00 PM

The Ark One stumbles onto a distressed ship adrift in the void, forcing acting captain Sharon Garnet (Christie Burke) into an impossible call. Back at Homebase, unsettling truths about Earth's fate come to light, shaking what little hope remains.

Emma Stone stars in "Poor Things"

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

"Poor Things" (2023)

A coming-of-age story, this wildly inventive tale from director Yorgos Lanthimos ("Dogtooth," 2009) charts one woman's unforgettable journey in 2023's "Poor Things," coming to Hulu on Monday, Sept. 7. After a brilliant but unconventional scientist named Godwin Baxter (Willem Dafoe, "Spider-Man," 2002) discovers the lifeless body of a pregnant woman, he brings her back to life with an ingenious twist: replacing her mind with that of her unborn child. Reborn as Bella (Emma Stone, "La La Land," 2016), she grows from an infant-minded innocent into a fiercely curious woman, hungry to understand everything the world has to offer. When a dashing, self-interested lawyer named Duncan Wedderburn (Mark Ruffalo, "13 Going on 30," 2004) sweeps her away on an adventure through Europe, Bella's newfound freedom opens the door to pleasure, philosophy and heartbreak in equal, dizzying measure. From lavish hotel rooms to the decks of a cruise ship to the crowded streets of Paris, she chases experience with an insatiable appetite that leaves everyone around her scrambling to keep up. But as Bella's world expands, so does her understanding of herself, and the life she thought she knew begins to unravel into something far stranger. Based on the 1992 novel by Alasdair Gray, the film also stars Ramy Youssef ("Saturday Night Live") as Max McCandles, Christopher Abbott ("It Comes at Night," 2017) as Alfie Blessington and Suzy Bemba ("Perfect Match," 2024) as Toinette.

Saturday, September 5, 2026

"Law & Order: Special Victims Unit" - Season 27

Before Season 28 returns to NBC this fall, catch up on Season 27 of "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit," with all 21 episodes arriving Tuesday, Sept. 8, on Hulu. Season 27 puts Mariska Hargitay's ("My Mom Jayne," 2025) Capt. Olivia Benson at odds with Kathryn Tynan (Noma Dumezweni, "Murderbot"), the NYPD's new Chief of Detectives, whose arrival puts pressure on Benson and the Special Victims Unit. As Tynan pushes her own agenda, Benson finds herself navigating a tense new relationship with Det. Jake Griffin (Corey Cott, "Filthy Rich"), a hard-charging cop she isn't convinced belongs in her unit. Meanwhile, Amanda Rollins (Kelli Giddish, "All My Children") returns, just in time as the team is stretched thin by a relentless run of cases involving increasingly violent offenders. As Benson fights to protect both her team and the people they serve, her conflict with Tynan becomes more personal, forcing her to defend her place within the NYPD. Benson has survived interrogations, courtrooms and killers alike, but what she's never had to do before is defend her own place at the head of the table — and this season, she doesn't have a choice.

"Heretic" (2024)

Faith takes a terrifying turn when two missionaries knock on the wrong door in "Heretic" (2024), arriving Tuesday, Sept. 8, on Hulu. In Boulder, Colorado, missionaries Sister Barnes (Sophie Thatcher, "Yellowjackets") and Sister Paxton (Chloe East, "Generation") spend their evening going door to door, hoping to find someone willing to hear their message. Their search leads them to the home of the welcoming Mr. Reed (Hugh Grant, "Paddington 2," 2017), who invites them inside with the promise that his wife is baking a blueberry pie. Once the sisters enter, however, his warm hospitality turns cold, and Reed traps the pair by locking the front door and forcing them to choose between two other doors: one for belief, one for disbelief. Both paths lead to the basement, where Reed's twisted experiment escalates and the girls have to fight for their lives. As the sisters uncover disturbing secrets hidden beneath his home, they must confront the true extent of his obsession before he alone decides which of them lives to see morning. Bryan Woods and Scott Beck, who co-wrote 2018's "A Quiet Place," reunite to write, produce and direct the film, with Julia Glausi ("Haunt," 2019) also attached as a producer.

Saturday Best Bets

Brandi Carlile to be honored during the latest episode of "Austin City Limits"

Betting on Beloit

A&E 12:00 PM

Konya and her team are back at it, on a mission to bring back Beloit block by block. With two unsold homes from last year still on the market - and two massive new properties now added to the portfolio - the pressure is mounting to keep the mission going.

Premier League Soccer

5 12:30 PM

For the last time this year, the Tottenham Hotspur FC will play against Everton, with both teams meeting at Tottenham Hotspur Stadium in London. But only a month into the 2026-27 season, there's still plenty of action ahead for both clubs.

Falling into Place

HALL 8:00 PM

Kaia (Alvina August) heads home for her town's fall festival and a high school reunion she's not entirely ready for. Reuniting with childhood best friend James (Nathan Witte), the two set out to finally finish the fall bucket list they never completed.

Have I Got News For You

cnn 9:00 PM

Roy Wood Jr., Amber Ruffin and Michael Ian Black return in this Season 5 premiere episode, skewering the week's headlines, most of which still sound made up. Politics, culture and chaos collide in this entertaining version of the British classic.

Austin City Limits

33 57 11:00 PM

Brandi Carlile joins the ranks of music royalty as the series inducts her into its Hall of Fame in this 12th annual event. Fellow icon Bonnie Raitt takes the stage to pay tribute, honoring a career built on raw honesty and fearless songwriting.

Hollywood Q&A

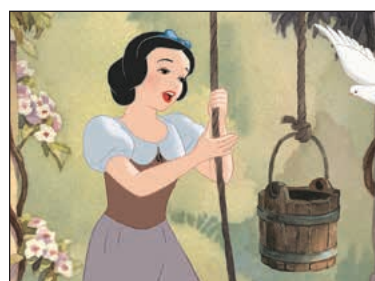

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I was watching a couple of old Disney movies and realized that the voice actors didn't get credited. Why not? I checked "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Pinocchio" and "Bambi," but I'm sure there were others.

Snow White in "Snow White and The Seven Dwarfs"

A: We're going back a long way here — "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," Disney's first animated feature, was released in 1937 — so it's hard to find an original source on this, but the story's been reported in enough places it's almost certainly true. Walt Disney ("Pinocchio," 1940) himself originally wanted his voice actors to go uncredited to preserve the movie magic.

The idea is that a list of credits saying that, for example, real living human Adriana Caselotti ("The Bride Wore Red," 1937) was playing Snow White would take audiences out of the fantasy and remind them that this was all make-believe.

That same principle has been extended to the Disney theme parks, where actors walk around in costume as iconic Disney characters. Here, too, extreme measures are taken to avoid revealing that there are actors under the suits.

"The official Disney answer is there is only one Mickey Mouse, only one Cinderella, et cetera, and all of these characters are timeless," said one actress, who went unnamed, of course, in an interview with travel site Fodors.com.

The example she offered was signatures — each actor has to practise an official signature so that the autographs they give out will look identical to previous ones, just in case anyone cares to compare them.

The case of Caselotti, the voice of Snow White, suggests a darker side to this. She was paid a pittance for the role — about $16,000 in today's dollars, for three years' work — and never really worked again. Rumors arose that Disney blacklisted her, preventing her from getting work for the same reason — that people would recognize her voice and puncture the Snow White fantasy.

She eventually sued the company for royalties, and though she didn't win, this led to further rumors that she and Disney came to a quiet arrangement afterward. She accepted an award from the company in 1994, so the hard feelings didn't last forever.

Q: I know we've lost all the other main stars of "All in the Family," but what about Sally Struthers? Is she still working?

A: With the shocking death of Rob Reiner ("The Princess Bride," 1987) last year, Sally Struthers ("Gilmore Girls") is indeed the last living star of the landmark '70s sitcom "All in the Family." And incredibly, she's as busy as ever.

She appeared in three projects last year alone.

Most notably, she was a key supporting star in the hit Netflix comedy "A Man on the Inside," opposite fellow sitcom great Ted Danson ("Cheers"). That same year she also appeared in the inspirational Christmas movie "All is Merry & Bright" and even did a short film called "Run Wild" (short films are usually the purview of actors hustling to prove themselves, rather than respected, seasoned vets like Struthers).

This year, she appeared in the indie drama "Street Smart," written and directed by hitmaker Catherine Hardwicke ("Twilight," 2008).

That's an impressive work rate — for anyone, let alone a 78-year-old — and though she hasn't announced her next project yet, it seems likely she'll have one.
