Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

[Donald] Trump ... doesn't believe in preparing for the debate. ... For his part, Trump has resisted any attempts to get him ready for the debate. Notably, refusing to practice with podiums. Well, of course not. He prefers [as Trump] the late, great Hannibal Lectern.

How about that debate last night [Sept. 10]? I mean, what a smackdown! [Kamala] Harris ran Trump over with a truck. It ... was so bad ... RFK Jr. scooped him up and put him in his roadkill freezer.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Tomorrow [Sept. 10] is the first presidential debate between [Kamala] Harris and [Donald] Trump. Today [Sept. 9], President [Joe] Biden called Harris to offer his support, and he was very reassuring. Biden told her, "Listen, the worst that can happen is all the Democrats unite and kick you off the ticket."

Some business news. I saw that Red Lobster is exiting bankruptcy and will operate their restaurants. I don't want to say how they're saving money, but it's not good that the "Lobster" is now in quotations.

Everyone's talking about last night's [Sept. 10] debate between Vice President Harris and former President Trump. And it seems like most people agree it was a tough night for Trump. We haven't seen a debate performance that bad since, well, the last debate.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

All eyes from sea to shining sea were on the City of Brotherly Love tonight [Sept. 10] for the debate of the decade, Vice President Kamala Harris versus former President Donald Trump. It was like watching the Lorax debate the Grinch tonight. Usually, when Donald Trump gets a spanking like this from a woman, it's with a Forbes magazine. ... Kamala was pushing his buttons like a 12-year-old playing Fortnite.

Who are we kidding? This election isn't about the issues. I mean, Dick Cheney isn't voting for Kamala Harris because he agrees with her on the issues. He's voting for her because there's a rhinoceros charging and she has the tranquilizer gun.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

Ahead of tonight's [Sept. 10] debate, Vice President Kamala Harris reportedly prepared by debating an adviser playing former President Trump wearing a boxy suit. So, thanks to David Byrne for his service to our country.

New Jersey residents are complaining that they can smell a foul odor that is reminiscent of cat urine, which sanitation officials assured them was just Staten Island marking its territory.

According to a CNN poll, 63% of people who watched last night's [Sept. 10] debate thought Vice President Kamala Harris won. The other 37% spent today guarding their pets with their life.

Start making sense: Jesse L. Martin delves back into 'The Irrational'

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

It isn't irrational for Jesse L. Martin ("Law & Order") to be pleased about getting a second season for his latest series.

However, he continues to deal with cases that defy conventional logic as an internationally prominent behavioral psychology authority who assists law officers as "The Irrational" begins its sophomore round Tuesday, Oct. 8, on NBC. Each new episode will also stream on Peacock, starting the day after its NBC debut.

Washington, D.C.,-based Prof. Alec Mercer (Martin) knows criminal behavior from a close proximity, having suffered injuries in a church bombing many years ago. Martin says he relates very personally to his "Irrational" alter ego, reasoning that as an actor, "If you're worth your salt in any way, shape or form, your whole job is to look at human behavior and reflect it, whether it be on stage or on film or small screen.

On television, I've been doing that all my life. Kids do it with their imaginations every single day; they figure out how to behave like a monster or a police officer, and I do that as a career. I just didn't have scientific terms for it coming up. Now I do.

"I can see it sort of from a scientific angle, but growing up as an actor training, it was always from sort of an emotional place: 'It gets people to feel this way or feel that way, and what does that look like in the body?' Now it's sort of like I've got terms to describe it, so I feel a little bit smarter."

Mercer's work with the FBI has another element, since one of the agents is his ex-wife Marisa (played by Maahra Hill, "Delilah"), but his sister Kylie (Travina Springer, "Strange Angel") and his university research assistants, played by "Partner Track's" Arash DeMaxi and Molly Kunz ("Widows," 2018), help to keep him on track. The show is making room for Mercer to take a somewhat fresh approach in Season 2, since the lingering bombing mystery reached something of a resolution at the end of the first season.

"I find that it's really satisfying for an audience to wonder, but to also get those answers," maintains "The Irrational" creator and executive producer Arika Lisanne Mittman, who cut her producer's teeth on the Showtime fan-favorite "Dexter." "I never wanted that storyline to be something that spanned five years of a series. I wanted it to have a satisfying ending to Season [1], and to open up the second season for new questions, new mysteries and new stories."

However, Martin notes, "What it led to was more questions for my character. Often when people go through a traumatic experience, it — for lack of a better way to put it — becomes part of their identity. If the story is solved, or the mystery of it is solved, there's something that happens to their identity in it. That bleeds probably for the eternity of the series, which I think is really fascinating."

Having done such series as "Law & Order" (in which he played Det. Ed Green in just under 200 episodes over nine seasons) and "The Flash" earlier, "Rent" Broadway veteran Martin believes "The Irrational" is "an evolution of the things I've gotten to do in a procedural. 'Law & Order' was a great time and a great career space for me, but it was mostly just the facts [of the week's given case]. You didn't go home with the characters, and you barely got to know anything about them.

"In this space, first of all, I'm not [playing] a detective ... which I was very, very glad of. Second, [Mercer is] a professor, and if I wasn't an actor, I can guarantee you that I probably would have been a teacher in some way, shape or form. I think it's the most noble job you could possibly ever have, and they should probably get paid a lot more money than they do and get a lot more attention than they do. So, there's that aspect of being this person who gets involved in solving crimes and mysteries, the same way that procedurals do, but coming at it from such an emotional angle is completely different."

Mittman insists that the crime-solving aspect of "The Irrational" isn't meant to override the psychological one. "We do always look at every episode [in terms of], 'How is this about psychology? What is the psychology in this episode?' We don't ever want to tell just a traditional by-the-book kind of case. Dan Ariely, who wrote the book that this is based on ['Predictably Irrational'], consults for us. He helps us with some of these psychological terms, and we have to do a lot of reading.

"We and the writers have to do a lot of research and a lot of writing for characters who are smarter than me," Mittman allows. "It's a challenge. It's always hard, but I love it, because it helps make me smarter. And makes the audience smarter, I hope."

Season 2 of "The Irrational" premieres Tuesday, Oct. 8, on NBC.

Cinema as television: Cuarón, Blanchett team up for Apple TV+ series 'Disclaimer'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Whether consciously or not, fans of film and television are already familiar with the use of disclaimers. Often presented as a small blurb of text on screen at the beginning of a movie or the start of a show's episode, disclaimers signal the validity of the story about to be told.

While the phrase "based on a true story" is a disclaimer in its own right, a denial of culpability such as "any resemblance to persons living or dead is purely coincidental" is much truer to the spirit of the statement of legal protection.

In the case of the new Apple TV+ series, titled "Disclaimer," the official news release flips the script and doubles down on its claims with the following statement: "Any resemblance to persons living or dead is not a coincidence."

"Disclaimer" premieres Thursday, Oct. 11, on Apple TV+.

Based on the 2015 novel of the same name by English author Renée Knight, "Disclaimer" stars Cate Blanchett ("Tar," 2022) as Catherine Ravenscroft, a journalist whose life is turned upside down one day by the appearance of a mysterious novel on her bedside table. Upon opening the book, Catherine comes to realize that she — a woman who has spent her entire career calling out the transgressions of others — is the main subject of the story and that the contents are far from flattering.

With this damning creation now in her possession, Catherine "races to uncover the writer's true identity" while being "forced to confront her past before it destroys both her own life and her relationships with her husband, Robert [Sacha Baron Cohen, "Borat," 2006], and their son, Nicholas [Kodi Smit-McPhee, "The Power of the Dog," 2021]" (per Apple TV+).

Described as a psychological thriller and limited series, "Disclaimer" is divided into seven episodes — to be viewed as chapters within the book — all of which are woven together to form an "overtly narrative" tapestry, according to series writer/director Alfonso Cuarón ("Y tu mamá también," 2001).

"In television, you go A, B, C, D," Cuarón told Vanity Fair while promoting the series. "In film, you find a way to go from A to D directly. Here it was about experimenting with something different. I have never done something so overtly narrative."

Cuarón, whose directorial credits include "Roma" (2018), "Gravity" (2013), "Children of Men" (2006) and "Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban" (2004), to name a few, is a five-time Oscar-winning Mexican filmmaker. Somewhat surprisingly, given his slowly expanding TV resume — or perhaps not to anyone familiar with his style in the industry — Cuarón has explicitly stated that he has no desire to learn the "proper" way to make television. Instead, he prefers to shoot series as if they were lengthy films.

"I don't know how to do TV," the "Disclaimer" creator expressed in the same Vanity Fair interview, "and I don't think that at this stage, I want to really learn."

This is more an admission of intent rather than an admonition against the series, however, as Cuarón's style has proven to be more than sufficient time and time again with regard to his productions. As far as "Disclaimer" is concerned, the auteur says, "the shoot was very, very long," which allowed him the attention to tone and detail for which he is well known.

The cast of "Disclaimer" also includes big names Lesley Manville ("The Crown") as Nancy and Kevin Kline ("A Fish Called Wanda," 1988)

as Stephen, as well as budding actors Louis Partridge ("Pistol"), Adam Szabo ("Slow Horses"), Leila George ("Animal Kingdom"), Adam El Hagar ("Tyrant") and South Korean supermodel-turned-actress Hyeon ("Squid Game") in recurring roles. CNN chief international anchor and renowned journalist Christiane Amanpour ("60 Minutes") also appears in the series as herself.

Present in voice only is another familiar actress: "Rome's" Indira Varma. Providing much of the narration for the series, Varma provides a grounding presence, tying the seven chapters of the series together into a cohesive story. Her narration offsets other voiceovers and perspectives within the series, allowing for added suspense and distrust among characters.

"By working with those voices, you dig further inside the characters," Cuarón explained. "You can dig further inside fears, inside anxieties, inside their past, their guilt, their misgivings."

Cuarón was also excited to point out that he had the chance to use the second-person perspective in "Disclaimer," which is something tricky to achieve due to its unique, accusatory nature.

"In Spanish and in French, the second tense is called 'accusativo,'" he remarked. "It is accusing. That was part of the reason for creating that voice in the second person."

"Disclaimer" is co-produced by Esperanto Filmoj and Anonymous Content for Apple Studios, and releases its first two episodes Thursday, Oct. 11, on Apple TV+.

Tammy Slaton seeks out surgery in Season 6 of '1000-lb Sisters'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Operation Slaton: The only constant is change when Season 6 of "1000-lb Sisters" premieres Tuesday, Oct. 8, on TLC.

Once boasting a combined weight of over 1,000 pounds, two of TLC's favorite sisters, Tammy and Amy Slaton, have lost a total of 700 pounds since their show's premiere in 2020. Their journey has been followed by thousands of viewers, who have seen the duo improve their lifestyles, mindsets and diets as they progress through the highs and lows of extreme weight loss. Now, nearing their fifth year on air, the Slaton sisters are preparing to reinvent themselves "both inside and out" (according to TLC), navigating ever-changing family dynamics in this upcoming season.

"In the highly anticipated new season of '1000-lb Sisters,'" TLC shares "Amy and Tammy embark on transformative journeys, overcoming recent challenges to create fresh starts."

The network's description continues: "They change their living situations, continue to achieve their weight-loss goals and undergo stunning makeovers. Alongside their brother Chris, they eagerly await Dr. Smith's approval for their next steps in skin removal surgery. The Slaton family also decide to take a once-in-a-lifetime trip to England, inspired by a genealogist's revelations about their U.K. heritage. There, they seek to uncover the truth behind their mother's intriguing claims of royal ancestry."

In a recently released trailer for the upcoming season, TLC offered viewers a more in-depth glimpse of what's to come for the Slaton sisters. In the clip, Tammy can be seen consulting a doctor regarding her interest in removing her loose skin following a significant weight loss (nearing 500 pounds) and is told that the process may take multiple operations. Considering the stress, financial responsibility and health risks, Tammy then expresses her concern that she may not be approved for the procedure, leaving her future up in the air. Meanwhile, Tammy's sister, Amy, attempts to readjust to singledom following her split from Michael Halterman in September 2023. The two first eloped in 2017, then married in 2019. The former couple share two young sons, Gage and Glenn.

From executive producers Tom Capello ("Cutlery Court"), Alana Goldstein ("Hidden City with Marcus Sakey"), Keely Walker Muse ("Bad Hair Day") and Lissette Decos ("Randy to the Rescue"), "1000-lb Sisters" returns Tuesday, Oct. 8, on TLC.

Music history makers: Featuring dazzling performances, heartfelt interviews and legendary special guests — all performing in tribute to one beloved awards show and its visionary founder — the once-in-a-lifetime "American Music Awards 50th Anniversary Special" airs live Sunday, Oct. 6, on CBS and Paramount+.

Having first premiered in 1974 as a new musical event for ABC, the American Music Awards (AMAs) shines a spotlight on the endless talent that runs through the American music scene. Created by TV personality Dick Clark (of "Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve"), "the AMAs celebrate the year's top achievements in music determined by the fans, for the fans" (according to theamas.com), each year awarding recognition to artists new and old, for performances across decades and across genres.

Now, 50 years later, the AMAs and Dick Clark Productions plan to celebrate the event's milestone anniversary alongside fans, offering exclusive, never-before-seen footage from their extensive archives, interviews, performances and more as they highlight iconic moments from the award show's past — moments that went on to shape pop culture as a whole.

According to CBS, "The program will feature themed highlights from AMAs' expansive show archives, each culminating with an original performance or artist interview. Segments will look back on the evolution of specific artists and genres at the AMAs, as well as award and performance milestones."

"The performances," CBS explains, "created just for the 'American Music Awards 50th Anniversary Special,' will include collaborations, debuts from today's hottest stars and appearances from AMAs legends."

Boasting a storied history, the AMAs once owned the airwaves as the most popular music awards show, in terms of viewers. Wild on-stage performances often led to groundbreaking moments in music history, such as Lionel Richie's ("All Night Long") infamous 1985 telecast, which ended only hours before the musician brought a room full of superstars together to record "We Are the World" later that night.

The event itself hasn't been held since 2022, as the AMAs took their first year off air in 2023. While awards won't be handed out in 2024, fans of the musical celebration can rest assured knowing that the next iteration of "the world's largest fan-voted awards show" will take place in May 2025, following this epic celebration.

With performers and special guests soon to be announced, the "American Music Awards 50th Anniversary Special" airs live Sunday, Oct. 6, on CBS and Paramount+.

"Lonely Planet" (2024)

Fall into an intoxicating new love story when the romantic drama film "Lonely Planet" premieres Friday, Oct. 11, on Netflix. At a turning point in her life, Katherine (Laura Dern, "Palm Royale") heads overseas to a prestigious writing retreat in Morocco in the hopes that being surrounded by a new environment and some inspiring, like-minded individuals might help rid her of her writer's block. However, when she meets a younger man named Owen (Liam Hemsworth, "The Hunger Games," 2012), Katherine soon finds herself tumbling headfirst into an unlikely life-altering love affair. From writer-director Susannah Grant ("Erin Brockovich," 2000), the cast of "Lonely Planet" also includes Diana Silvers ("Space Force"), Gustav Dyekjaer Giese ("Killjoy"), Bellina Logan ("Sons of Anarchy"), Ben Youcef ("Munich," 2005), Dillon Lane ("Here and Now") and Rachida Brakni ("Chaos," 2001).

greatest players in the new 10-part sports series "Starting 5" when it premieres Wednesday, Oct. 9, on Netflix. Following the players through an intense 2023-24 season, the series focuses on basketball superstars Jimmy Butler (Miami Heat), Anthony Edwards (Minnesota Timberwolves), LeBron James (Los Angeles Lakers), Domantas Sabonis (Sacramento Kings) and Jayson Tatum (Boston Celtics). "Starting 5," says Netflix, "captures their battles on and off the court as they chase greatness, push through injuries and balance the demands of family and legacy." Along the way, fans watch along as "James pushes himself harder than ever to stay healthy — and dominant — in his 21st season, while Edwards electrifies with his rapid rise. Butler's relentless drive propels the Heat, Sabonis anchors the Kings with his versatile play, and Tatum leads the Celtics in their quest for a record 18th championship" (per Netflix). From UNINTERRUPTED, "Starting 5" is produced in association with Higher Ground Productions and Omaha Productions.

"Outer Banks"

- Season 4, Part 1

The adventure continues when "Outer Banks" returns to Netflix for the first installment of its fourth season Thursday, Oct. 10. Season 4, Part 2 is set to stream in November. Set in a coastal town along the Outer Banks of North Carolina, this teen mystery drama focuses on the stark social divide between the wealthy seasonal residents and the working-class locals who live there year-round. When a group of teenagers, part of the working class "Pogues," set out to solve the mysterious death of one of their friends' fathers (Charles Halford, "Constantine"), they find a legendary treasure map that comes with an unbelievable prize and a dark secret. This season finds the Pogues in the lead-up to Wes Genrette's (David Jensen, "Queen Sugar") flash-forward proposal for them to find Blackbeard's treasure. In the meantime, the group attempt to live a normal life in their new safe haven, which they've dubbed Poguelandia 2.0. But it isn't long before the Pogues — including John B. (Chase Stokes, "Dr. Bird's Advice for Sad Poets," 2021), Sarah (Madelyn Cline, "Glass Onion," 2022), Kiara (Madison Bailey, "Black Lightning"), Pope (J.D., "Do Revenge," 2022), JJ (Rudy Pankow, "Uncharted," 2022) and Cleo (Carla Grant, "Greenleaf") — are back out on another adventure. Created by Shannon Burke ("Abandon," 2002), Jonas Pate and Josh Pate (both of "Surface" and "Good vs Evil"), the new season is directed by Jonas Pate. Austin North ("I Didn't Do It"), Carolina Arapoglou ("Stranger Things"), Julia Antonelli ("WITS Academy"), Cullen Moss ("Your Honor"), Deion Smith ("Will Trent"), Charles Halford ("True Detective"), Charles Esten ("Nashville"), Drew Starkey ("Love, Simon," 2018) also star.

"Citadel: Diana" - Season 1

Based on the Prime Video streaming series "Citadel," the new Italian spinoff series, "Citadel: Diana," makes its debut on the Amazon streamer Thursday, Oct. 10. An action-packed spy drama set in Milan in the year 2030, the series follows Diana Cavalieri (Matilda De Angelis, "The Law According to Lidia Poet"), an undercover agent for the independent global spy agency Citadel. Alone since Citadel fell to a powerful enemy syndicate called Manticore eight years earlier, the new series finds Diana "trapped behind enemy lines as a mole in Manticore" (per Prime Video). When Diana finally sees a potential way out, she is left with no choice but to put her trust in the most unexpected ally of all: Edo Zani (Lorenzo Cervasio, "Il paradiso delle signore"), the heir of Manticore Italy and son of the head of the Italian organization, Ettore Zani (Maurizio Lombardi, "The New Pope"). Developed for television by head writer Alessandro Fabbri ("The Trial"), the series is directed by Amaldo Catinari ("Suburra: Blood on Rome"). "Citadel: Diana" also stars Julia Piaton ("The Things We Say, the Things We Do," 2020), Thekla Reuten ("In Bruges," 2008), Giordana Faggiano ("Monterossi — La serie"), Daniele Paoloni ("Marilyn's Eyes," 2021), Bernhard Schutz ("Sense8") and Filippo Nigro ("Suburra: Blood on Rome").

"FACEOFF: Inside the NHL"

After the success of "All or Nothing: Toronto Maple Leafs," "Chosen One: Alexandre Daigle" and "Saving Sakic," Amazon's partnership with the National Hockey League continues with the brand-new six-part docuseries "FACEOFF: Inside the NHL," available now on Prime Video. From Box To Box Films and NHL Productions, this series gives hockey fans unprecedented behind-the-scenes access to the NHL's biggest stars, including "Boston Bruins teammates David Pastrnak and Jeremy Swayman; Colorado Avalanche captain Gabriel Landeskog; Edmonton Oilers captain Connor McDavid and forwards Leon Draisaitl and Zach Hyman; Florida Panthers forward Matthew Tkachuk; Nashville Predators forward Filip Forsberg; New York Rangers captain Jacob Trouba; Toronto Maple Leafs forward William Nylander; Vancouver Canucks captain Quinn Hughes; and Vegas Golden Knights forward Jack Eichel, among others" (per Amazon Canada). The series opens by highlighting the heated rivalry between the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Boston Bruins. It concludes with a two-part episode that dives into the 2024 Stanley Cup Finals between the Florida Panthers and Edmonton Oilers. "FACEOFF: Inside the NHL" is executive produced by James

Gay-Rees ("Amy," 2015), Paul Martin ("Break Point"), Steve Mayer ("A Season with Notre Dame Football"), Ross Bernard ("Dwight Howard: In the Moment," 2014) and Daniel Amigone ("The Circus: Inside the Greatest Political Show on Earth").

"Paddington 2" (2017)

Put together some marmalade sandwiches, sit back and enjoy the latest film featuring Britain's favourite bear, "Paddington 2," available now on Prime Video. After settling in to his new life in London, England, Paddington (Ben Whishaw, "Skyfall," 2012) comes across the perfect present for his Aunt Lucy's (Imelda Staunton, "Vera Drake," 2004) 100th birthday: a one-of-a-kind pop-up book about London. Due to how expensive the book is, Paddington decides to pick up odd jobs around town. However, before Paddington can purchase the book, it is stolen by Phoenix Buchanan (Hugh Grant, "Love Actually," 2003), Paddington's egotistical neighbor. Paddington's luck goes from bad to worse when he is framed for stealing the book. Now stuck in jail, Paddington must rely on friends and family to clear his name. Written by director Paul King ("Wonka," 2023) and Simon Farnaby ("The Phantom of the Open," 2021), "Paddington 2" also stars Hugh Bonneville ("Downton Abbey," 2019), Sally Hawkins ("The Shape of Water," 2017), Brendan Glee-

New baking competition pulls from the horrors of Halloween

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

It'll get your heart pumping and your mouth watering. Overflowing with Halloween-themed tricks and treats, the "gorified" competitive baking show, "Killer Cakes," makes its debut Tuesday, Oct. 8, on Prime Video.

Hosted by horror veteran Matthew Lillard — a man who has dominated the genre with memorable roles across decades, from "Scream" (1996) to "Five Nights at Freddy's" (2023), even dazzling in 2002's live-action adaptation of "Scooby-Doo" as Shaggy — this brand-new series aims to inject a dose of "creepy" into your usual slate of Halloween-themed food programming, amping up the gore, the macabre and the grotesque in every aspect of its production.

A description given by Prime Video explains: "'Killer Cakes' is a one-of-a-kind competition show where bakers with terrifying skills attempt to win some of the most frightening challenges ever produced for television. Contestants will work with the best horror special effects artists in Hollywood to unleash their twisted imaginations and create cakes so disgusting, so disturbing and so realistic, it's the stuff of nightmares."

In the two-part special, Lillard watches on as talented bakers from across the United States participate in creating baked goods that reference some of the greatest moments in horror film, or that otherwise utilize the genre's unnerving influence.

Overseen by a pair of "horrific" judges — Scream Queen Danielle Harris (of the Halloween franchise) and food artist/cookbook author Nikk Alcaraz ("Peculiar Baking") — along with special guests including SFX artist and actor Tom Woodruff Jr. ("Smile," 2022), "Killer Cakes" welcomes eight contestants to the dark and dreary set of its inaugural season, each fighting to stay in the game without being "axed."

The lineup of bakers includes Amanda Yother from Rathdrum, Idaho; Dillon Barlow from Houston; Dziedra "Z" Brusberg from Marysville, Washington; Deadra "Dee"

Compean from Beaumont, Texas; Eszter Summerlin from Gulf Breeze, Florida; Jesse Lesser from Dallas; Mark Lie from Chicago; and Shanelle Long from Pensacola, Florida.

From the twisted minds at Blumhouse Productions — which brought audiences the Paranormal Activity, Insidious, Sinister and The Purge franchises — and "Cake Boss" creator High Noon Entertainment, "Killer Cakes" is overseen by showrunner Ruth Amsel ("Ridiculous Cases") and executive producers Jason Blum ("Get Out," 2017), Gretchen Palek ("Queer Eye"), Scott Feeley ("Fixer Upper") and Lillard himself.

Horrific and delicious, "Killer Cakes" premieres Tuesday, Oct. 8, on Prime Video.

Exhuma

Korean shaman Hwa-rim (Kim Go-eun) and her assistant Bong-gil (Lee) are sought out by the wealthy Korean American Park family when their newborn son falls ill. Hwa-rim determines that the illness is, in fact, a curse known as a "Grave's Call," in which a vengeful ancestral spirit haunts the family. The father, Ji-yong (Kim Jae-chol), agrees to let Hwa-rim and Bong-gil relocate the remains of his grandfather that appear to be causing the family's plight. With added help from Hwa-rim's colleagues Feng shui master Kim Sang-deok (Choi) and mortician Yeong-geun (Yoo), the remains are removed. However, the relocation goes awry, and the vengeful spirit inside the grave is released to wreak havoc on the Park bloodline.

A Quiet Place: Day One

Samira, aka "Sam," (Nyong'o) is a terminally ill cancer patient residing in hospice care just outside of New York City with her cat, Frodo. Her nurse, Reuben (Wolff), convinces Sam to attend a marionette show in Manhattan. While there, they notice strange objects falling from the sky, which are revealed to be extraterrestrial creatures that attack and kill anything that makes a sound. After they learn that the creatures cannot swim, the military attempt to evacuate the city, but it results in utter chaos. Sam is separated from Frodo but is reunited when English law student Eric (Quinn) encounters the cat and follows him back to her.

Director: Michael Sarnoski. Stars: Lupita Nyong'o, Joseph Quinn, Alex Wolff, Djimon Hounsou. 2024. 99 min. Apocalyptic Horror.

Felicity Huffman in “Accused” The Voice

⑤ ⑫ 8:00 PM

Judges Snoop Dogg, Michael Bublé, Gwen Stefani and Reba McEntire are getting comfortable in their spinning chairs as they try to find the next great vocal talent. But will their competitive nature have them singing a different tune once the teams are set?

Accused

④④ 8:00 PM

The Season 2 premiere of this anthology series follows people caught up in the world of crime and punishment — but from the defendant’s point of view. This season features the likes of Debra Winger, Mercedes Ruehl, William H. Macy and Michael Chiklis.

Citizen Nation

③③ ⑤⑦ 9:00 PM

PBS’s latest docuseries follows high school students from across the U.S. as they compete in the nation’s premier civics competition. Over the course of four parts, students with diverse beliefs come together to answer critical questions about democracy.

The Irrational

Behavioral science expert Alec Mercer (Jesse L. Martin) is back in this Season 2 premiere as he uses his impressive talents to understand human behavior, while helping law enforcement and anyone else in his life who needs some logic-based assistance.

Wednesday Best Bets

Rob Lowe hosts "The Floor"

Survivor

③ 8:00 PM

Jeff Probst has the castaways on edge as they compete along the coast of Fiji's beautiful Mamanuca Islands. Hoping to build upon their alliances, several contestants look to schmooze their way into the good graces of others to avoid being voted out.

Sullivan's Crossing

WPIX 8:00 PM

Maggie (Morgan Kohan) has a lot of balls in the air as she tries to make sense of Sully's (Scott Patterson) poor health, as well as dealing with what she wants to do with her own future. Part of the problem is her attachment to Cal (Chad Michael Murray).

The Floor

After a successful first season, this unique game show is back and bigger than ever. In fact, Season 2 adds 19 more contestants to make it an even 100. With more contestants vying for the $250,000 grand prize, expect things to be far more competitive.

Abbott Elementary

② 9:30 PM

As Season 4 of this Emmy-darling sitcom premieres, the teachers are all back at Abbott for a new school year. With Janine (Quinta Brunson) and Gregory's (Tyler James Williams) relationship blossoming, it's sure to be another wild year.

Mehcad Brooks in “Law & Order”

Big Brother

③ 8:00 PM

If ever there was a show that made living alone seem like a genius move, this is it. This season has felt like a bloodbath. While the veto made some interesting situations earlier on, even host Julie Chen Moonves must be looking over her shoulder.

Law & Order

⑤ 8:00 PM

Living in New York City can be amazing — unless you’re a criminal. After the murder of an AI-infused dating app founder, officers Shaw (Mehcad Brooks) and Riley (Reid Scott) investigate who might want the romance-obsessed entrepreneur dead.

Trivial Pursuit

WPIX 9:00 PM

LeVar Burton hosts this all-new game show based on the classic trivia broad game. During each episode, contestants step up to compete in three rounds of trivia, where they choose questions from the six iconic categories, for a chance at $20,000.

The Old Man

FX 10:00 PM

Information is at a premium when Dan Chase (Jeff Bridges) and Zoe McDonald (Amy Brenneman) head to London in order to locate Hamzad’s (Navid Negahban) lawyer. Meanwhile, Harold Harper (John Lithgow) gets help from an unexpected source.

Friday Best Bets

Jordan and Karen feature in "Social Studies"

College Football

(44) 8:00 PM

Northwestern heads to Capital One Field at Maryland Stadium in College Park, Md., to play the University of Maryland. With Northwestern leading the rivalry 3-1, can Maryland make a notch in evening things up? Or will Northwestern continue their dominance?

Inside the NFL

WPIX 9:00 PM

Ryan Clark, Chad Johnson, Chris Long and newest panelist Bill Belichick break down Week 5 of the 2024-25 NFL season before looking ahead to the big matchups of Week 6, including the Bengal vs. the Giants and the Bills vs. the Jets.

NEXT at the Kennedy Center

(33) (57) 10:00 PM

Five-time Grammy winners Snarky Puppy are joined by four of the most influential singers in the Spanish-speaking world — Silvana Estrada, Gaby Moreno, Silvia Pérez Cruz and Fuensanta — in a tribute to Susana Baca in this season premiere.

Social Studies

FX 10:00 PM

High schoolers in Los Angeles discuss how growing up in the digital era has reshaped childhood, including how social media and porn has shaped their view towards sex education and relationships and formed their behavior with devastating consequences.

"La Maquina"

A friendship reaches its breaking point as two best friends navigate the dark side of Mexican boxing in "La Maquina," which premieres Wednesday, Oct. 9, on Hulu. Gael Garcia Bernal ("Mozart in the Jungle") stars as Esteban "La Maquina" Osuna, an aging boxer coming off a devastating loss. Fortunately for Esteban, his crafty manager and best friend Andy Lujan (Diego Luna, "Andor") has a plan to get him back on top by securing him one last title shot. Unfortunately, that plan runs foul of a nefarious organization, which threatens Esteban to take a dive in his big title match or else. As fight night approaches, Esteban must deal with his personal demons while simultaneously keeping his friends and family safe from the organization's deadly intimidation tactics. In addition to Bernal and Luna, the six-episode series also stars Eiza Gonzalez ("Baby Driver," 2017), Juan Carlos Huguenin ("Fractal," 2020), Christopher Evangelou ("The Gentlemen," 2019), David Diamante ("Creed III," 2023), Sandra Quiroz ("Corazón Partido"), Dariano Coco ("Welcome to Eden"), Ricardo Lozano ("El Senor de los Cielos"), John Paul Wendt ("Mi camino es amarte"), Lucia Méndez ("Amor de nadie"), Raul Briones ("Northern Skies Over Empty Space," 2022), Luis Gnecco ("Neruda," 2016), Jorge Perugorria ("Che: Part Two," 2008), Andrés Delgado ("An Unknown Enemy") and Karina Gidi ("The Eternal Feminine," 2017). Furthermore, "La Maquina" is directed by Gabriel Ripstein ("600 Miles," 2015) and written by Marco Ramirez ("Daredevil").

"Mr. Crocket" (2024)

You'll never be able to look at children's television the same again when "Mr. Crocket" begins haunting Hulu Friday, Oct. 11, as part of the streamer's annual Huluween celebrations. Elvis Nolasco ("Godfather of Harlem") stars as the titular Mr. Crocket, a mysterious children's show host that has the power to emerge from television sets playing his show. What Mr. Crocket does upon emerging from the TV is incredibly unbecoming of child entertainers: kidnapping the kids watching to join him in the TV only after brutally murdering their parents. When a mother (Jerrika Hinton, "Grey's Anatomy") escapes Mr. Crocket's murder spree, she commits herself to rescuing her son (Ayden Gavin, "Big George Foreman," 2023) from the grip of the demonic entertainer. From up-and-coming director Brandon Espy ("Bite

"Abbott Elementary" - Season 4

The staff and students of Willard R. Abbott Public School return from their summer break Wednesday, Oct. 9, when Season 4 of "Abbott Elementary" premieres on ABC. Following their initial airing on ABC, each episode will be available for streaming the following day, starting Thursday, Oct. 10. The series follows Janine Teagues (Quinta Brunson, "Weird: The Al Yankovic Story," 2022) and her colleagues as they try to help their students succeed in the severely underfunded Philadelphia public school system. While not much is known about the 22-episode fourth season of the hit comedy series, viewers can expect some progression in Janine and Gregory Eddie's (Tyler James Williams, "Everybody Hates Chris") relationship after finally deciding to go on a date. One thing that's for certain is Season 4 will feature a crossover episode. What "Abbott Elementary" will crossover with is anyone's guess. However, fans have speculated everything from "The Bear" to "The Bachelorette." Another thing for certain is the returning cast of Janelle James ("Black Monday") as Ava Coleman, Lisa Ann Walter ("The Parent Trap," 1998) as Melissa Schemmenti, Chris Perfetti ("The Night Of") as Jacob Hill, William Stanford Davis ("Snowpiercer") as Mr. Johnson and Sheryl Lee Ralph ("Sister Act 2: Back in the Habit," 1993) as Barbara Howard.

Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I've been watching the awesome series "S.W.A.T." and saw Lou Ferrigno's name in the credits, but I haven't seen him actually appear on screen. Is he a producer or something?

A: It sounds like you're watching for the wrong Lou Ferrigno. You were probably looking for the weathered, craggy Lou Ferrigno best remembered for starring in the late '70s "Incredible Hulk" series. You weren't looking for the perennially fresh-faced, square-jawed Lou Ferrigno Jr., his son.

Lou Jr. is on track to surpass his famous dad's screen career — at least in numbers. He already has nearly 50 film and TV roles on his resume, including, as you mention, CBS's "S.W.A.T." He's recurred in all seven of that show's seasons as Donovan Rocker, an officer who was appointed to a S.W.A.T. team leader in Season 2.

As a fan of high-stakes procedural dramas (or maybe shows with punctuation built into their titles), you might also recognize Lou Jr. from his recurring role in "9-1-1," in which he plays Tommy Kinard, a pilot for the Los Angeles Fire Department.

Though they're definitely his bread and butter, he doesn't exclusively take first-responder roles. He also just did a full-season arc last year in the popular youth-focused Netflix drama "Outer Banks," playing a villainous treasure hunter. And, he first came to people's attention with a three-episode run in the late seasons of "How I Met Your Mother," playing a rival love interest for the Mother character.

Fans of Lou Sr., who first came to fame as a bodybuilder, will be lighting in another sitcom at the same time: "The Conners." That, of course, was a return to the role that made him famous, "The Conners" being a sequel/rebrand of "Roseanne," the sitcom in which he starred in the '90s.

As if that weren't enough, Galecki also did a voice in the tear-jerking feature "A Dog's Journey" (2019), which came out a few months after "Big Bang" wrapped.

Since then he's transitioned to being a TV producer. He tried to get a medical drama off the ground back in 2022, called "Catching Babies," which would have focused specifically on a hospital's maternity ward, but it didn't get picked up by ABC.

But, he's since returned to more familiar territory — he's developing a sitcom pilot that would follow a small startup company trying to break out in the early days of the internet. "AOK" (the title seems to be a pun on one-time tech giant AOL) would return Galecki to the world of nerds and the familiar surroundings of CBS.

It's still in the early stages, so it's not clear if he would star as well or just remain behind the scenes.

Q: What happened to Adrian Grenier? After "Entourage," he was going to be the next big thing, wasn't he?

A: HBO's "Entourage" was a true phenomenon in the late '00s — the sort of hit show that became part of the wider cultural conversation — and yes, it did seem designed to make a star out of previously unknown Adrian Grenier. But that hasn't panned out so far.

It's hard not to map Grenier's career against that of his "Entourage" character, also a young actor trying to make it in Hollywood. So, you could say that Grenier the actor is in the midst of his post-"Aquaman" phase (the fictional movie within the show, not to be confused with the real "Aquaman" movie released in 2018) — struggling to find his next hit and get back on the A-list.

Like his "Entourage" character, he turned to indie dramas to do it. He's starred in a number of them in the years since 2015, when the "Entourage" movie was released, marking the true end of the show. And also like the character, his movies cover a lot of different genres.

These include the gritty action movies "Marauders" (2016) and "Arsenal" (2017), the romantic-political thriller "Affairs of State" (2018), the musical dramedy "Stage Mother" (2020) and the rom-com "Far More" (2021).

In the midst of these, he did have a brief return to prestige series TV, in the form of the Netflix miniseries "Clickbait," playing a family man who is abducted in a crime "with a sinister online twist" (per official logline).

His next project hasn't been announced yet, but it's clear he hasn't given up on the kind of career renaissance his "Entourage" character got.

pleased to hear that Lou Jr. took a remarkably similar path, working as a fitness model before moving into acting.

Q: What is Johnny Galecki doing since "The Big Bang Theory" ended?

A: Not as much as you'd think. Maybe recovering.

Being one of the stars of one of the biggest shows on TV for 12 years probably tired him out a little. And at the end of "The Big Bang Theory's" landmark run in 2019, he was moon-
