Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

I am your host Stephen Colbert. Although for a little while there, I almost wasn't. I will regale you with the heartwarming tale of my exploding appendix, but I'll do that a little later in the show. I know no one wants to hear too much about a hunk of dead intestine filled with poison and bile. But unfortunately, Donald Trump is in the news.

Last week [Dec. 3-9], Sean Hannity asked [Donald Trump], point-blank, if he planned to abuse the Office of President to punish his enemies, and Trump reassured America [that] his fascism will be available for a limited time only.

There's news about former Fox News anchor and Orville Reden-bigot Tucker Carlson. Yesterday [Dec. 11], he announced he's launching his own streaming service called Tucker Carlson Network for $9 a month. Now that seems steep, but there is a free version. For zero dollars a month, you can never watch Tucker Carlson again.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

During a livestream event on X with Elon Musk and 100,000 listeners, Vivek Ramaswamy forgot to mute himself while going to the restroom. Well, that gives a whole new meaning to the word "livestream."

I read that the department store Macy's is considering a buyout for $5.8 billion. Wow. $5.8 billion for the store people walk through to get into the real mall. ... Meanwhile, JCPenney just received a very competitive offer from a pack of wild dogs.

I read that in former president Trump's election interference trial, the special counsel, Jack Smith, plans to use Trump's cellphone data as evidence. They were able to open Trump's phone by doing Face ID on a pumpkin.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

In Washington tonight [Dec. 11], President Biden hosted the annual White House Hanukkah party. They had to end the ceremony prematurely because apparently Biden mistook the menorah for a birthday cake and blew out all the candles.

In Washington D.C., ... [President] Biden got a visit from President Zelenskyy of Ukraine today [Dec. 12]. ... It got a little awkward. Apparently, for a minute, Biden forgot who he was meeting with and offered to zero out Zelenskyy's student loan balance.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

President Biden hosted a reception at the White House today [Dec. 11] to celebrate Hanukkah. And although his speech was just supposed to be one night, it magically lasted for eight.

President Biden traveled to Philadelphia today [Dec. 11] and spoke at an event with firefighters. Biden can relate to firefighters because he's also sliding down the polls.

The doughnut chain Krispy Kreme last week [Dec. 3-9] opened its first store in France. At long last, a place to get a decent pastry in Paris.

Television's best work is awarded at the 75th Primetime Emmy Awards

Roll out the red carpet, because it is finally time to honor the year's best television. The 75th annual Primetime Emmy Awards air live coast-to-coast on Fox, Monday, Jan. 15. Broadcast from the Peacock Theater in Los Angeles, this year's long-awaited awards ceremony welcomes TV's on-screen and behind-the-scenes stars to recognize the achievements of nominees and winners alike.

Originally set to take place in September 2023, the ceremony was postponed due to both writers' and screen actors' guild strikes last year. With the new submission guidelines in place for Emmy eligibility, all nominated work had to have aired in its entirety by May 31, meaning that, at the very least, it has been over seven months since these stellar TV shows, specials and movies have graced our screens.

It comes as no surprise that the most-nominated series at this year's Emmy Awards is HBO's "Succession," with a staggering 27 nominations for its final season. One of the most critically lauded shows in recent memory, "Succession" started strong in 2018 and only gained momentum over its four-season run. The final season of "Succession" was appointment television with its incredible writing, directing and performances recognized with nominations this year.

In the Outstanding Drama Series category, "Succession" is nominated among fellow HBO series "House of the Dragon," "The Last of Us" and "The White Lotus," as well as "Andor" on Disney+, AMC's "Better Call Saul," Netflix's "The Crown" and Showtime's "Yellowjackets." Outstanding Comedy Series nominees are ABC's "Abbott Elementary," HBO's "Barry," Hulu's "The Bear," Amazon Freevee's series "Jury Duty," Prime Video's "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel," the Hulu sitcom "Only Murders in the Building," "Ted Lasso" from Apple TV+ and Netflix's "Wednesday."

Three performances from "Succession" were nominated for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Drama Series, with Brian Cox as patriarch Logan Roy, Kieran Culkin as the neurotic Roman Roy, and Jeremy Strong as eldest boy Kendall Roy, all competing in the category. Jeff Bridges in "The Old Man" on FX, Pedro Pascal in "The Last of Us" and Bob Odenkirk in "Better Call Saul" are also nominated.

The nominees for Outstanding Lead Actress in a Drama Series spread the wealth across more series than Lead Actor, with nominations for Sharon Horgan in "Bad Sisters" on Apple TV+, Melanie Lynskey in "Yellowjackets," Elisabeth Moss in Hulu's "The Handmaid's Tale," Bella Ramsey in "The Last of Us," Keri Russell in Netflix's "The Diplomat" and Sarah Snook in "Succession."

Outstanding Lead Actor in a Comedy Series nominees are Bill Hader in the final season of "Barry," Jason Segel in the Apple TV+ series "Shrinking," Martin Short in "Only Murders in the Building," Jason Sudeikis in the Apple TV+ sitcom "Ted Lasso" and Jeremy Allen White in "The Bear."

In the Outstanding Lead Actress in a Comedy Series category, nominations go to Christina Applegate in Netflix's "Dead to Me," Rachel Brosnahan in "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel," Quinta Brunson in "Abbott Elementary," Natasha Lyonne in Peacock's "Poker Face" and Jenna Ortega in "Wednesday."

Outstanding Limited or Anthology Series nominees are "Beef," "Dahmer — Monster: The Jeffrey Dahmer Story" on Netflix, Prime Video's "Daisy Jones & the Six," FX's "Fleishman Is in Trouble" and the Disney+ Star Wars spinoff series, "Obi-Wan Kenobi."

Taron Egerton in the Apple TV+ miniseries "Black Bird," Kumail Nanjiani in Hulu's "Welcome to Chippendales," Evan Peters in "Dahmer — Monster: The Jeffrey Dahmer Story," Michael Shannon in Showtime's "George & Tammy" and Steven Yeun in "Beef" are nominated for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Limited or Anthology Series or Movie, while Lizzy Caplan in "Fleishman Is in Trouble," Jessica Chastain in "George & Tammy," Dominique Fishback in Prime Video's "Swarm," Kathryn Hahn in Hulu's "Tiny Beautiful Things," Riley Keough in "Daisy Jones & the Six" and Ali Wong in "Beef" make up the Lead Actress nominees.

Directors with nominations this year for comedy series are Hader for "Barry," Christopher Storer for "The Bear," Amy Sherman-Palladino for "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel," Mary Lou Belli for BET+'s "The Ms. Pat Show," Declan Lowney for "Ted Lasso" and Tim Burton for "Wednesday." Drama directing nominations go to Benjamin Caron for "Andor," Dearbhla Walsh for "Bad Sisters," Peter Hoar for "The Last of Us," Mike White for "The White Lotus" and "Succession" episode directors Andrij Parekh, Mark Mylod and Lorene Scafaria.

Hader and Storer are nominated again for "Barry" and "The Bear," respectively, in the Outstanding Writing for a Comedy Series category, joining Mekki Leeper for "Jury Duty"; John Hoffman, Matteo Borghese and Rob Turbovsky for "Only Murders in the Building"; Chris Kelly and Sarah Schneider for "The Other Two"; and Brendan Hunt, Joe Kelly and Sudeikis for "Ted Lasso."

Outstanding Writing for a Drama Series nominees are Beau Willimon for "Andor"; Horgan, Dave Finkel and Brett Baer for "Bad Sisters"; Craig Mazin for "The Last of Us"; Jesse Armstrong for "Succession"; White for "The White Lotus"; and two individual episode nominations to Gordon Smith and Peter Gould for "Better Call Saul."

Tune in live to the 75th Primetime Emmy Awards Monday, Jan. 15, on Fox.

Windy City change up: 'Chicago' is back in action with NBC season premieres

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

This season, "Chicago" means change.

Whether actors and characters are coming or going, or both, each of executive producer Dick Wolf's Wednesday One Chicago dramas is expected to have cast alterations during their new years, which begin Jan. 17, on NBC — new episodes also will be available for streaming on Peacock starting the day after their NBC premieres. "Chicago Med" — which bade farewell to founding co-stars Brian Tee ("The Fast and the Furious: Tokyo Drift," 2006) and Nick Gelhfuss ("The Newsroom") last year — leads the night with the start of its ninth season, which will welcome Luke Mitchell ("Blindspot") as a doctor with a link to Gaffney Chicago Medical Center's psychiatric chief, Daniel Charles (Oliver Platt, "The Bear").

Then, "Chicago Fire" is slated to say goodbye to Blake Gallo (played by Alberto Rosende, "Shadowhunters") in its Season 12 opener, but, in a piece of good news, Lt. Kelly Severide (Taylor Kinney, "Zero Dark Thirty," 2012) is scheduled to return after taking a leave of absence. And then there's the matter of the marriage proposal Matt Casey (Jesse Spencer, "House") made to paramedic Sylvie Brett, played by Kara Killmer ("Scary Tales"), who has announced her intention to leave the show either during or just after the new season.

Finally, "Chicago P.D." is expected to lose Det. Hailey Upton in the course of its upcoming Season 11 — amid her marital woes with the now-absent Jay Halstead (former cast regular Jesse Lee Soffer, "The Mob Doctor") — since actress Tracy Spiridakos ("Revolution") is planning to leave that show. However, Jason Beghe ("Californication"), alias the series' intelligence-squad leader, Hank Voight, says he'll believe her exit when he sees it — an approach he always likes to maintain for himself, no matter what has been reported by others.

"I know some stuff has leaked out, but I don't believe everything I read," Beghe says with his distinctive rasp. "There may be discussions about one thing or the other, but as both Jason and as Voight, I don't take for granted that something is a fact. Things change. Right now, I love working with Tracy, and Voight appreciates working with Upton. I'm in that moment, and if something happens, we'll have to deal with that then."

Beghe notes that the first new "Chicago P.D." story focuses "a lot" on Upton: "Voight is keeping an eye on her, given what's been going on with her and Halstead. He feels he needs to be there for her, even though she's like, 'I'm fine.' I hope it comes off as sweet and even heart-wrenching in a way. In the story, she has to follow this new kind of crisis-response team, and some bad things happen."

The self-styled, no-nonsense Voight is known for some bad things himself, given how he has conducted himself on the job in certain instances — making him the subject of internal investigations on more than one occasion — but Beghe is proud that there's never a doubt that the character has the backs of his team members. "I think those are the closest relationships he has," the actor assesses. "It's similar to what parents experience with their children. He'd jump in front of a train for them."

David Eigenberg, the "Sex and the City" alum who plays "Chicago Fire's" Christopher Herrmann, is ready for a time of rebuilding after a highly emotional Season 11 in which Herrmann's wife Cindy (Robyn Coffin, "The Life and Death of an Unhappily Married Man," 2015) had a cancer battle that taxed the couple and their five children. Eigenberg has seen his share of cast changes since "Chicago Fire" began. Besides Spencer, Lauren German ("Lucifer"), Monica Raymund ("Hightown"), Charlie Barnett ("Russian Doll") and Steven R. McQueen ("The Vampire Diaries") have been among performers who had significant stays at Firehouse 51.

"I've been doing this a long time, and when changes occur, it's hard," Eigenberg reflects. "We're all carnies, though, and you want to just grab a bag and hop on a train going northeast. We all move on, but you never say goodbye in this industry, because you just never know. I've bumped into people 30 or 40 years after I worked with them, and there's a kindred spirit among us. Paul McCrane ["ER"] is coming back to direct on the show, and 35 years ago, we did a play on Broadway together.

"You have to be ready to roll with whatever changes come," reasons Eigenberg. "It bangs you around, but it's the nature of the beast, and it ties into the nature of the show. There are changes in firehouses and in lives."

Budget considerations have each of the "Chicago"-show regulars appearing in only a certain number of episodes for the new season. In Eigenberg's view, that's not such a huge on-camera change, since regular characters typically have been featured more in some episodes than in others — but he acknowledges a related difference behind the scenes because "you're not around physically to be amongst the 'family'" when not working.

He says, "Sometimes, you go, 'I haven't been at work a lot.' And I miss that. It's not about screen time; I just want to be with people I care about."

Critics Choice Awards celebrates talent, from 'The Bear' to 'Barry'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Celebrity smorgasbord: Live, from the Fairmont Century Plaza in Los Angeles, the 29th Critics Choice Awards air Sunday, Jan. 14, on the CW.

The Critics Choice Awards, presented annually, honor the best in both film and television throughout the year. The event, which celebrates innovation, talent and storytelling, shares accolades and praise throughout multiple categories, including: Best Comedy/Drama Series, Best Actor/Actress in a Drama Series, Best Supporting Actor/Actress in a Drama Series, Best Foreign Language Series, Best Talk Show and Best Comedy Special, just to name a few. Additionally, each year the SeeHer Award honors a woman who portrays characters with authenticity and advocates for gender equality. This year, the eighth annual SeeHer Award is presented to long-time activist, actor, director and producer America Ferrera ("Barbie," 2023).

Currently, "The Morning Show" (Apple TV+) leads with six nominations, including Best Drama Series and Best Actress in a Drama Series, for both Jennifer Aniston ("Friends") and Reese Witherspoon ("Big Little Lies"). HBO's "Succession" comes in a close second with five nominations, including that for Best Drama Series and Best Actor in a Drama Series, given to former Roys Kieran Culkin ("Igby Goes Down," 2002) and Jeremy Strong ("The Big Short," 2015).

"A Small Light" (Netflix), "Abbott Elementary" (ABC), "Beef" (Netflix), "Lessons in Chemistry" (Apple TV+), "Loki" (Disney+), "Reservation Dogs" (FX) and "The Bear" (FX) all follow with four nominations a piece.

Reese Witherspoon in "The Morning Show"

Keeping to trend for this year's award season, HBO/Max has earned the most nominations for a singular network, with 23 nods across all categories. Netflix tails in a close second with 21 nominations, while Apple TV+ and FX tied with 16.

When asked what fans can expect throughout the night, Critics Choice Awards CEO Joey Berlin stated: "Viewers of the 29th annual Critics Choice Awards will see more film and television stars — as well as producers, directors, craftspeople and studio executives — than any other show, period."

In fact, this year's event will be hosted by comedian Chelsea Handler ("Chelsea Lately"), who returns to the stage for a second year, replacing Taye Diggs ("All American") in the role.

"I am very happy and excited to be hosting the Critics Choice Awards again this year, as last year was one of the most fun nights I've had," Handler told Deadline. "There is no greater reward than making fun of actors and then getting drunk with them afterward. It's an honor."

With names like Bill Hader ("Barry"), Ke Huy Quan ("Loki"), Pedro Pascal ("The Last of Us") and Sarah Snook ("Succession") all nominated for their work throughout 2023, it's sure to be a who's who of Hollywood's best and brightest.

Prepare to do some star-spotting, as the 29th annual Critics Choice Awards air Sunday, Jan. 14, on the CW.

Queen of country: Delve into the world of "Dixie Darling" June Carter Cash, as "June" premieres Tuesday, Jan. 16, on Paramount+.

From Emmy-winning director Kristen Vaurio ("Going Clear: Scientology & the Prison of Belief," 2018), this documentary promises to feature never-before-seen archival material from Carter Cash herself — including iconic moments from her outstanding career, and interviews with the artist herself, alongside conversations with family, friends and celebrity admirers, such as Dolly Parton ("9 to 5 and Odd Jobs," 1980), Reese Witherspoon ("Big Little Lies") and Willie Nelson ("Always On My Mind," 1982).

"The five-time Grammy Award-winning singer, comedian, musician, actor and author has opened for Elvis ["Blue Hawaii"], appeared onscreen with Robert Duvall ["Tender Mercies," 1983] and Jane Seymour ["Somewhere in Time," 1980] and co-wrote one of the most recognizable country songs of all time, 'Ring of Fire.' Perhaps at times overshadowed by her iconic husband Johnny Cash ["Ride This Train"]," says Paramount, "she now takes center stage."

Beginning with the story of one transformative artist, the documentary also explores the history and evolution of country music, spotlighting, for one, the mark the Carter and Cash families made on the genre.

"June was a star of television and music from an early age — decades before she became 'Mrs. Johnny Cash,'" said Carlene Carter, June's oldest daughter, when asked about the release of the upcoming film. "Steeped in the legacy of the Carter Family and as a solo artist, she always was — and, as seen through this film — always will remain a shining star in her own right. While some may not fully be aware of her many talents, influence and just how much she mattered as an entertainer, this lovely documentary offers clear insight for everyone to see the true character and the joy shared."

John Carter Cash, the only son of the late June and Johnny Cash, added: "I am thrilled to share the full story of my mother's life with the world. Thank you to Sony Music Entertainment and Sandbox Productions for finding a place for it to live and to Paramount+ for giving it a home."

Produced by Sandbox Productions, Sony Music Entertainment and Maxine Productions, June Carter Cash's impressive legacy continues, as "June" premieres Tuesday, Jan. 16, on Paramount+.

"Sixty Minutes" (2024)

Get ready for the ring with the German sports drama "Sixty Minutes," premiering Friday, Jan. 19, on Netflix. Doing his best to provide for his family, Octavio (Emilio Sakraya, "4 Blocks") is a mixed martial arts fighter locked into a battle for custody of his young daughter. Finding himself in a bind with just 60 minutes to make it to his daughter's birthday party — or risk losing custody of her forever — Octavio ditches one of his fights to get there and finds himself on the run from dangerous criminals. With his life and his family at risk, Octavio races to get across the city on time and in one piece. Directed and written by Oliver Kienle ("Bad Banks"), the film is also written by Philip Koch ("Tribes of Europa"). The cast is rounded out by Dennis Mojen ("Into the Night"), Marie Mouroum ("Black Panther," 2018), Florian Schmidtke ("Barbarians"), Alain Blazevic ("Spides"), Paul Wollin ("Dogs of Berlin"), Aristo Luis ("Sam - A Saxon") and new talent Morik Heydo.

"Love on the Spectrum" - Season 2

Finding love is a difficult and highly stressful predicament. For those on the autism spectrum, the world of dating and relationships has its own unique set of challenges. The Emmy Award–winning docu-reality series "Love on the Spectrum" continues to give viewers an in-depth look at these romances when all seven episodes of its second season premiere Friday, Jan. 19, on Netflix. The series follows a diverse group of people with autism from across the US as they dip their toes into dating. While most of the cast for this season is made up of new singles, Dani, Abbey, Steve and James all return from the first season. "Love on the Spectrum" is directed by Cian O'Clery ("Wild Australia: After the Fires," 2020), who doubles as an executive producer, and produced by Kate Bailey ('News of the Wild"), Karina Holden ("Employable Me"), Robert Salomon ("Like A Girl") and Rosanna Sun ("Barbie Vlogger").

"Maboroshi" (2024)

"Maboroshi" makes its debut Monday, Jan. 15, on Netflix. Middle school student Masamune's (Junya Enoki, "Jujutsu Kaisen") life stands at an indefinite standstill when an explosion at the local steel factory seals his small town in a frozen pocket of time. In order to avoid any conflicts if the town ever returns to normal, the citizens are forbidden from changing in any way, or face mysterious life-shattering consequences. However, one day, Masamune and his enigmatic classmate, Atsumi (Reina Ueda, "SSSS.Gridman"), discover a feral child (Misaki Kuno, "Summer Time Rendering"). This meeting between the three begins a chain reaction that upends their entire world. In addition to Enoki, Ueda and Kuno, Yukiyo Fujii ("Reincarnated as a Sword"), Tasuku Hatanaka ("SK8 the Infinity"), Kento Hayashi ("Batteri," 2007), Maki Kawase ("Lycoris Recoil"), Daiki Kobayashi ("Nanbaka"), Ayaka Saito ("Ouran High School Host Club"), Setsuji Sato ("You0 DECO"), Koji Seto ("Kamen Rider Kiva") and Taku Yashiro ("Tiger Mask W") all lend their voices to the film. Furthermore, "Maboroshi" is written and directed by the prolific Mari Okada, who has provided writing and production work for "Hamtaro," "Fate/stay night," "Toradora!," "Black Butler," "Anohana: The Flower We Saw That Day," "Lupin the Third: The Woman Called Fujiko Mine," "Mobile Suit Gundam: Iron-Blooded Orphans" and "Maquia: When the Promised Flower Blooms." Plus, the executive producers on the film include Hiroyuki Fujita ("Gintama: The Final," 2021), Takaaki Kidani ("Cardfight!! Vanguard"), Makoto Kimura ("Your Lie in April"), Daij- Kud- ("The Boy and the Beast," 2015), Masami Takahashi ("Fullmetal Alchemist," 2017), Akihito Watanabe ("New Game!"), Koichi Watanabe ("Made in Abyss: Dawn of the Deep Soul," 2020) and newcomers Ryu Takahashi, Tsuyoshi Ono, Rosa Takagi and Satoshi Yamashita.

'Bake' to school

Kids complete their culinary curriculum in school-themed competition

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Careful, your dog might really eat this homework: "Kids Baking Championship" returns with an all-new episode, airing Monday, Jan. 15, on Food Network.

During this fresh batch of 10 new episodes, hosts Duff Goldman ("Duff Takes The Cake") and Valerie Bertinelli ("Valerie's Home Cooking") welcome 12 young bakers-in-training, putting them through a gauntlet of increasingly difficult pastry-making challenges. This season, the kids will also be met with an added theme, as Season 12 celebrates a return to school in the new year.

"From picture day portrait cakes to blondies that celebrate the most popular recess game, hopscotch, and to cafeteria lunch dessert imposters, they must showcase their baking knowledge by making the most delicious and visually stunning treats imaginable," Food Network describes.

This season's competitors range in age from nine (Elise Stark; Abilene, Texas) to 13 years old (Levi Dubner; Boca Raton, Florida), including: Andy Coyle (Redwood City, California; age 11), Anaiah Hodges (Manvel, Texas; age 10), Leland Jackson (Ann Arbor, Michigan; age 12), Jaime Lee (Yorktown, Virginia; age 11), Madison Lendor (Monroe, New York; age 10), Henry Muranaka (Bountiful, Utah; age 11), Tasi Savage (Kona, Hawaii; age 12), Lila Smethurst (San Antonio; age 11), Oscar Stowell (Ross, California; age 12) and Camryn Williams (Charlotte, North Carolina; age 11).

Duff Goldman and Valerie Bertinelli host "Kid's Baking Championship"

Following weeks of competition — sweet for some, salty for others — the best of the bunch will go on to compete in Season 12's massive two-episode finale, airing Monday, Feb. 26.

According to the network, the finale episodes will include a "tie-dye doughnuts and ice cream competition, and end with the ultimate challenge of a volcano cake for the school science fair, with the added stipulation the baked good must actually be able to erupt.

"The winning baker," they continue, "will become head of the class and graduate with a $25,000 grand prize, a spot in Food Network Magazine and the title of Kids Baking Champion."

Needless to say, with life-changing prizes on the line, these gold-star students are eager to put their best foot forward, hoping to impress their teachers as they explore this season's culinary curriculum.

All-new episodes from this 12th season of "Kids Baking Championship" air Mondays on Food Network.

"Death and Other Details" - Season 1

The lifestyles of the rich and the famous get put under the magnifying glass in the Hulu mystery drama "Death and Other Details," premiering Tuesday, Jan. 16. Finding herself in the wrong place at the wrong time, the brilliant and restless Imogene Scott (Violett Beane, "The Flash") becomes the prime suspect in a murder mystery. Bringing the stakes up even higher, the murder took place on a luxury Mediterranean ocean liner. With every pampered elite guest as equally suspect as the host of exhausted staff members, Imogene must (reluctantly) team up with Rufus Cotesworth (Mandy Patinkin, "Homeland"), the world's greatest detective — a man she despises. The series also stars Linda Emond ("Lodge 49"), Lauren Patten ("Blue Bloods"), Angela Zhou ("Hell on Wheels"), Christian Svensson ("24"), Pardis Saremi ("Hell of a Summer," 2023), Hugo Diego Garcia ("Tony," 2018), Karoline ("WeCrashed"), Annie Q. Riegel ("The Leftovers") and Sincere Wilbert ("Coldplay: Champion of the World," 2020).

"Heartland" – Season 15

From creator Murray Shostak ("Speed Zone," 1989), this multi-generational saga, based on the Heartland book series by author Lauren Brooke, debuts its 15th season on Hulu Monday, Jan. 15. Following sisters Amy and Louise "Lou" Fleming as they work alongside their father and grandfather on their family-owned ranch, the series, having first aired in 2007, stars Amber Marshall ("My Christmas Guide," 2023) as Amy and Michelle Morgan ("Stargate: Atlantis") as Lou, with the cast expanding to include many fan-favorites throughout the years. This 15 season follows the Flemings as they embrace an uncertain future — creating all-new dreams while still working to fulfill long-held plans. With a returning cast including Chris Potter ("The Pacifier," 2005), Shaun Johnston ("Mystery, Alaska," 1999), Jessica Steen ("Armageddon," 1998), Kerry James ("A Timeless Christmas," 2020), Madison Cheeatow ("Anna," 2020) and more, Season 15 also introduces Baye McPherson ("Death Rattle," 2022) as Lou and Peter's daughter, Katie, and Drew Davis ("Rookie Blue") as Logan — a 17-year-old troubled soul who possesses a strong sense of rebellion and an unlikely talent with horses. Grappling with local break-ins, difficult business decisions, past relationships, lumberjack competitions and camping trips, the Flemings must rely on each other through it all.

Amber Marshall, Chris Potter, Michelle Morgan and Shaun Johnston star in "Heartland"

"Invisible Beauty" (2023)

Explore the life and career of model, agent and activist Bethann Hardison, with the feature-length documentary, "Invisible Beauty," when it makes its streaming debut, Thursday, Jan. 18, on Hulu. Directed by Frederic Tcheng ("Dior and I," 2014) and Hardison herself, this film looks back on Hardison's revolutionary work in the fashion world, highlighting an oft ignored chapter of the industry's ongoing history: the fight for racial diversity throughout all aspects of fashion design and modeling. "As a pioneering Black model, modeling agent and entrepreneur, [Hardison] has pushed the boundaries of fashion culture and has been at the forefront of progress throughout her career," Magnolia Pictures explained, in a description for the film. "Hardison has seen the pendulum swing towards and away from the Black model. At every setback, she poke up and rallied her colleagues and clients in the industry to advance change." Featuring intimate interviews with the likes Iman ("Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country," 1991), Tyson Beckford ("Into the Blue," 2005), Tracee Ellis Ross ("Black-ish"), Zendaya ("The Greatest Showman," 2017), Naomi Campbell ("I Feel Pretty," 2018) and author Fran Lebowitz, "Invisible Beauty" tells a story like no other. Produced by Lisa Cortes ("The Space Race," 2023), the film is executive produced by Hallee Adelman ("Late Bloomers," 2023), John Boccardo ("Won't You Be My Neighbor?," 2018), Derek Esplin ("Won't You Be My Neighbor?," 2018), Ivy Herman ("Frybread Face and Me," 2023), Rick Rosenthal ("Transparent"), Nancy Stephens ("Art for Everybody," 2023), Andrea Van Beuren ("Food and Country," 2023) and Naomi Campbell ("The Super Models").

Bethann Hardison is the subject of "Invisible Beauty"

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Is "Miracle Workers" coming back for another season? I feel like it's the kind of show that could go on forever, like "Blackadder," and I'm all right with that.

A: The parallels between TBS's "Miracle Workers" and the BBC's "Blackadder" are pretty evident: Both were sitcoms that jumped around in time, allowing the writers and actors to wring laughs out of very different settings and stories.

Unfortunately, "Miracle Workers" and "Blackadder" are also similar in that they both got canceled after four seasons.

TBS said late last year that it would not be renewing "Miracle Workers," which featured major stars Steve Buscemi ("Fargo," 1996) and Daniel Radcliffe (star of "Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone" [2001] — plus all the other Harry Potter movies, since he was, y'know, Harry Potter).

That means that the fourth-season finale, which aired back in August, is now the series finale as well. At least we can say that the time-jumping premise meant each season had a contained story, so no one was left dangling from a cliff.

If you're inclined to be even more optimistic, you might find a small glimmer of hope in the comparison with "Blackadder" — that show, which featured Rowan Atkinson before he found global fame in "Mr. Bean," lived on after its cancelation in a series of one-off specials. They ran for years after the original cancelation, with the final special (so far) being released in 2020, 31 years after the supposed finale.

That kind of longevity might not be in reach for "Miracle Workers," which only ever earned middling ratings. But fans can hope.

Q: I know "His Dark Materials" has ended, so what's the actress who played Lyra doing next? I hope she can find adult roles.

A: The child-star curse is real, so even Dafne Keen herself, who played the wild and gifted Lyra in HBO's "His Dark Materials," probably shared your anxiety at one point.

It must have been particularly stressful for Keen since she knew the end was coming. "His Dark Materials" was based on a three-book series of the same name, so the show could only run for so long.

But when the end did come in 2022 — with the third and final season of the show — Keen had a pretty soft landing. By which I mean she joined another, even more popular fantasy universe: Star Wars.

She has a role of some kind in the upcoming series "The Acolyte," currently in post-production and due for release later this year on Disney+. Plot and character details have been closely guarded so far (that's why it's still just a "role of some kind"), but it's said to be set in the High Republic Era — long before the events of the first Star Wars trilogy.

Diving into all that fantasy lore might be daunting to some, but 19-year-old Keen is already an expert. Her other most famous role, aside from "His Dark Materials," was in the X-Men universe.

She starred in 2017's "Logan" as Laura, known also as X-23 — basically a mini-Wolverine. X-23 is a beloved character among X-Men nerds (don't worry, they'd probably be fine being called that), and Keen earned good reviews for playing her.

Q: Is Alan Furst going to make any more TV series? I hoped that "Spies of Warsaw" would be the start of more.

A: Fans of historical spy novel writer Alan Furst have a right to feel a little aggrieved that more of his books haven't been turned into films or shows.

After all, he's churned out 15 books so far in his popular Night Soldiers series, and all are pretty suited to the screen. They feature thrilling, intrigue-laden plots set in exotic European locations (but generally not the expensive ones — think Serbia, not London). And he's reportedly still writing, though it's been four years since his last publication, 2019's "Under Occupation."

Despite all that, he so far only has his name on one screen adaptation: "Spies of Warsaw," a two-part miniseries made by the BBC in 2013, based on his 2008 book of the same name.

The lack of a followup might have to do with the lukewarm reception "Spies of Warsaw" received. Despite featuring a big-name star — David Tennant, a few years out from his run as the Doctor in "Doctor Who" — it received mixed reviews.

Variety, for example, called it "mediocre," while the best the New York Times could say was that it was an "enjoyable, straightforward espionage tale without a lot of twists or extra layers."

Responses like that may have convinced TV and film producers that Furst wasn't the next John le Carre ("Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy," 2011) after all.
