Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

[President] Trump slapped his name on another building in D.C. because the State Department announced the newly renamed Donald J. Trump Institute of Peace. Now he's certainly a piece of something. The State Department's tweet says they renamed the building to reflect the greatest dealmaker in our nation's history. What are you talking about? The greatest dealmaker? Are these people forgetting our founding father, Gen. Wayne Brady?

We're getting close to the last days of 2025, which means Spotify is doing their year-end list. Turns out Bad Bunny is their most streamed global artist of the year. That's not a surprise. No surprises there. I'm a tastemaker and Bad Bunny came on my show. Same reason all the kids are shaking their booties to the latest banger from Ken Burns.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Netflix just shocked the entertainment industry by announcing an $83 billion deal to buy Warner Bros. and HBO. Yeah, Netflix is buying almost everything Warner Bros. owns except CNN. Basically, if Warner Bros. was an edible arrangement, CNN is the cantaloupe.

McDonald's just pulled an AI-generated commercial after getting an extremely negative response from viewers. Yeah, McDonald's said that going forward, the only artificial thing they'll make is the food.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

I'm glad you're here. I'm even glad I'm here tonight [Dec. 9] because my favorite guy from all of television, David Letterman, is here with us. He'll be joining us to chat about his show on Netflix and to share his recipe for Christmas corn pudding, which is absolutely perfect. This is a big deal for me to be in the presence of one of my heroes. It's like when Trump gets to hang out with Kim Jong-un.

Uncle Scam was in Pennsylvania tonight [Dec. 9] to outline his fiscal agenda in front of a crowd at the Mount Airy Casino Resort. What better place to unveil your plan for the economy than a casino. Would have done it at one of his own casinos, but he bankrupted them all.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

In-N-Out burger recently confirmed that it has removed the number 69 from its ticket order system because the last thing they want is sexual innuendo over there at In-N-Out Burger.

Netflix CEO Ted Sarandos met recently at the White House with President Trump for more than an hour. It was supposed to be a half-hour, but Trump was buffering.

Personal care brand Dove has its Holiday Treats collection, which includes a sugar cookie antiperspirant. It's the perfect gift for your spouse or loved one who is not yet covered in ants.

Tall tales of the 'Seven Kingdoms': GOT prequel renewed before premiere

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Nearly 15 years after "Game of Thrones" premiered on HBO, fans of the literary source material are (not so) patiently awaiting the sixth book in the would-be seven-book series. And although many seem to have given up hope that George R.R. Martin, the 77-year-old author of the A Song of Ice and Fire series, will complete the series at all, there is still plenty of interest in the expansive world he has created to date.

The newest property in Martin's television universe is "A Knight of the Seven Kingdoms," which premieres Sunday, Jan. 18, on HBO and HBO Max. A prequel to "Game of Thrones," "A Knight of the Seven Kingdoms" follows Ser Duncan the Tall, a.k.a. Dunk, a statuesque knight in Westeros during the reign of the Targaryen dynasty.

"A century before the events of 'Game of Thrones,' two unlikely heroes wandered Westeros: a young, naive but courageous knight, Ser Duncan the Tall, and his diminutive squire, Egg," reads the logline per Warner Bros. Discovery, HBO's parent company. "Set in an age when the Targaryen line still holds the Iron Throne, and the memory of the last dragon has not yet passed from living memory, great destinies, powerful foes, and dangerous exploits all await these improbable and incomparable friends."

The leading role is filled by Irish actor Peter Claffey, who stands six feet five inches tall and who has previously starred in the Hulu horror series "Wreck," Apple TV's "Bad Sisters" and "Vikings: Valhalla" on

Tanzyn Crawford in "A Knight of the Seven Kingdoms"

Netflix, to name a few. Claffey, meanwhile, shares the bulk of his screen time with 11-year-old Dexter Sol Ansell ("The Midwich Cuckoos") in the role of Egg, a bald-headed young boy whom Ser Duncan takes on as a squire throughout his travels.

The series is an adaptation of Martin's 1998 novella "The Hedge Knight," in which Dunk makes his transition from squire to knight following the death of his mentor Ser Arlan of Pennytree (Danny Webb, "Valkyrie," 2008). Determined to do his chivalric teacher proud and prove himself worthy of the title of "Ser," Dunk adopts Ser Arlan's equipment as his own and travels to Ashford to complete the quest they had begun together — a tournament which would prove to be one of the most discussed upsets in the history of the Seven Kingdoms.

Joining Claffey and Sol Ansell are Daniel Ings ("Lovesick") as Ser Lyonel Baratheon; Bertie Carvel ("Dagliesh") as Prince Baelor Targaryen; Sam Spruell (" Fargo") as Prince Maekar Targaryen; Shaun Thomas ("Ladhood") as Ser Raymun Fosso-way; Finn Bennett ("True Detective") as Prince Aerion Targaryen; Edward Ashley ("The Terror") as Ser Steffon Fosso-way; Tanzyn Crawford ("Tiny Beautiful Things") as Tanselle; Henry Ashton ("Outlander") as Prince Daeron Targaryen; Youssef Kerkour ("Home") as Steely Pate; Tom Vaughan-Lawlor ("Say Nothing") as Plummer; and Daniel Monks ("Kaos") as Ser Manfred Dondarrion.

Martin himself wrote of his happiness with the series, taking to his personal blog to write, "I've seen all six episodes now (the last two in rough cuts, admittedly), and I loved them. Dunk and Egg have always been favorites of mine, and the actors we found to portray them are just incredible."

He did warn his more action-oriented fans, however, that "this one may not satisfy you."

"There's a huge fight scene here, as exciting as anyone could ask for," shared Martin, "but there are no dragons this time around, no huge battles, no white walkers. ... This is a character piece, and its focus is on duty and honor, on chivalry and all it means."

As an additional bit of good news, "A Knight of the Seven Kingdoms" has already been renewed for a second season, which, according to The Hollywood Reporter, began filming Dec. 9.

"On Tuesday we start filming Season 2," Claffey announced to the crowd at CCXP25 (formerly known as Comic Con Experience) in Sao Paulo in December 2025, adding, "Now we just need to learn our lines."

Although specific details regarding the second season have yet to be released — at least in part to avoid giving spoilers for Season 1 — Claffey did make a comment during the CCXP25 panel discussion that allowed GOT franchise fans some hope for a sunny follow up to the current season. Acknowledging in jest that he and Ansell are likely to be "getting spray tans" ahead of filming Season 2, Claffey has set expectations for a trip to hot, arid Dorne in the coming year or so.

With so much excitement on the horizon, it's hard to imagine any peril befalling Ser Dunk and Egg. But, alas, the pair are part of the GOT universe and trouble abounds in the Seven Kingdoms. Hopefully Dunk and Claffey alike have taken the CCXP25 advice of Fabien Frankel, who plays Kingsguard knight Ser Criston Cole in "House of the Dragon."

"If I could offer one piece of advice, it would be this," Frankel counseled during Claffey and Ansell's panel introduction, "Choose your alliances wisely, stay alert ... [and] remember, there's no honor without a bit of 'Fire and Blood'."

"A Knight of the Seven Kingdoms" premieres Sunday, Jan. 18, on HBO and HBO Max. Martin's other HBO series, "House of the Dragon," returns for a third season this summer.

Pension pilfering on Prime: Sophie Turner leads Amazon, Drama Republic thriller

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Theft is always scary for someone involved. While the orchestrators are likely scared to fail and wind up in a prison cell, the terror driving theft generally sits with the targeted party and, of course, those caught in the middle.

Fortunately for the average North American victim of theft, their stolen items are often status symbols or "expendable" objects, such as a car, jewelry or petty cash. But what happens when someone targets the pension you have spent your life's work accruing?

"Steal," a co-production between

Amazon MGM Studios and Drama Republic premiering Wednesday, Jan. 21, on Prime Video, faces large-scale pension theft head-on, as two pension fund investment workers are caught in the middle of a terrifying and unthinkable heist.

Described as a "uniquely thrilling ride" by Amazon MGM Studios head of television Vernon Sanders, "Steal" is a six-episode series starring "Game of Thrones" alum Sophie Turner as Zara, "an average office worker who just so happens to be caught up in the heist of the century during an otherwise normal day on the job" (per Collider). When a band of thieves storm the London office of Lochmill Capital and begin making demands for money, Zara and her best friend, Luke, played by "See" and "Saltburn" (2023) star Archie Madekwe, are unceremoniously pulled into the heist and tasked with helping the armed intruders from the inside.

"Made to do the bidding of the criminals," Collider reporter Ryan O'Rourke writes in a Nov. 18 article, "they're left to question 'who would drain billions of pounds from the pensions of ordinary people and why.'"

On the case is DCI Rhys, portrayed by Jacob Fortune-Lloyd of "Medici" and "The Queen's Gambit" fame. Although Rhys remains a dedicated police officer who is determined to solve the mystery behind the dangerous and heartless crime, his own personal darkness adds a level of complication to the story. Having recently relapsed back into addiction, Rhys' own money troubles slowly creep to the forefront, causing him to consider a few morally questionable acts along the way.

"As [Rhys] struggles with a recent relapse into gambling addiction," the official plot synopsis reads, "he must keep his own money problems hidden while navigating the secret agendas and competing interests at the heart of this far-reaching crime."

Joining Turner, Madekwe and Fortune-Lloyd across all six episodes are Ellie James ("The Winter King") as DI Ellie Lloyd, Rhys' partner on the case; Harry Michell ("Yesterday," 2019) as Milo; Jonathan Slinger ("A Knight's Tale," 2001) as London; Thomas Larkin ("Sexy Nails") as Wayne; Sarah Belcher ("Brexist," 2019) as Kate; Tara Summers ("Boston Legal") as Sophia; and Andrew Howard ("Limitless," 2011) as "Sniper."

Andrew Koji ("Warrior"), Diana Bermudez ("The Ark"), Yusra Warsama ("Castle Rock"), Tomisin Ajani ("Masters of the Air"), Eloise Thomas ("Dope Girls"), Kadisha Belgrave ("The Stolen Girl"), Spike Leighton ("1917," 2019) and Juliana Kurokawa ("Heads of State," 2025) also star in the series.

Written by novelist S.A. Nikias — who is also known by his full name, Sotiris Nikias, and his pen name, Ray Celestin — "Steal" was initially titled "Haven." Although the reason for the change is unknown (perhaps it was to differentiate it from the 2010 Syfy series of the same name), the series has settled into its identity as "Steal" and Nikias has likewise thrived in his first-ever screenwriting role.

"His roller-coasting, nail-biting and funny scripts have quite rightly attracted a tremendous cast and top-tier creative team," executive producers Rebecca De Souza ("The Confessions of Franny Langton") and Greg Brenman ("Peak Blinders") said in a press statement, as reported by Good Housekeeping. "We couldn't be more delighted."

Shyam Popat ("The Day of the Jackal") and Poppy Cogan ("A Good Girl's Guide to Murder") are co-credited as series writers alongside Nikias, while director Sam Miller ("I May Destroy You") serves as an executive producer alongside De Souza and Brenman. Hettie Macdonald ("Howard's End"), meanwhile, shares directing duties with Miller and Nuala O'Leary ("Strike Back").

"This attention-grabbing series, written by S.A. Nikias, is a uniquely thrilling ride and serves as an ideal addition to round out our Pan-English slate implemented by Rola Bauer and her team," Sanders released in a statement. He added that "Steal" has "all the ingredients for a gripping, addictive, entertaining story for our global customers to enjoy."

Don't miss your chance to steal a moment of downtime with Turner, Madekwe and Fortune-Lloyd this new year. All six episodes of "Steal" are available to binge as of Wednesday, Jan. 21, on Prime Video.

Anthony Anderson to host new iteration of classic talent show

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

'Star Search' returns: The show that introduced us to unforgettable stars such as Beyonce ("Single Ladies"), Britney Spears ("Toxic"), Alanis Morissette ("Ironie"), Aaliyah ("Try Again"), Adam Sandler ("Happy Gilmore," 1996), Kevin James ("The King of Queens"), Billy Porter ("Pose") and more, "Star Search" returns once again, with a brand-new season arriving on Netflix Tuesday, Jan. 20, and new episodes airing twice weekly, every Tuesday and Wednesday.

First hosted by Ed McMahon ("The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson"), the first iteration of "Star Search" originally aired in syndication from 1983-1995, showcasing singers, comedians and more. The talent-based series returned once more in 2003 following the success of "American Idol," seeing Arsenio Hall ("Coming to America," 1988) hosting its four-season run.

This latest return to "Star Search" will see comedian Anthony Anderson ("Black-ish") leading the series, welcoming a broad pool of talent, including musicians, dancers, comedians and kids' acts. And, for the first time in the series' history, "Star Search" will also be broadcast live, offering viewers the opportunity to vote for their favorite acts in real time, ahead of the show's weekly eliminations.

"The talent is bigger, the stakes are higher and the format is more interactive than ever," reads the series' logline. "Each episode will spotlight the best up-and-coming performers across numerous categories — music, dance, variety, comedy, magic and juniors — as they compete head-to-head for their shot at stardom. With an arced competition structure and weekly eliminations with real-time global voting, the series builds dramatic momentum, making every live episode an unmissable event."

Speaking with Netflix's blog, Tudum, Anderson added: "The live voting feature is a total game-changer. Knowing that fans from all over the world can cast their votes in real time adds a whole new layer of excitement and participation to the mix. It's like we're all part of the show and get to be one of the judges."

With Jesse Collins ("Rhythm + Flow"), Dionne Harmon ("Heart &

Hustle: Houston"), Madison Merritt ("Hollywood Squares"), Elaine Metaxas ("We Got Time Today") and Taraji P. Henson ("Empire") acting as executive producers, "Star Search" makes an epic return Tuesday, Jan. 20, on Netflix.

Sub-Saharan supremacy: Called "One of the most ambitious wildlife series ever made" by BBC, "Kingdom," a six-part natural history series, makes its debut Saturday, Jan. 24, on BBC America and AMC+.

Narrated by three-time Emmy-winning naturalist Sir David Attenborough ("Planet Earth III"), this latest endeavor follows rivaling animal families across five years, sharing a story of survival and dominance that takes place in one of the most vibrant places on Earth.

"In the heart of Zambia, leopards, hyenas, wild dogs and lions all lay claim to a corner of South Luangwa National Park known as Nsefu — a lush landscape situated on the banks of the mighty Luangwa River. Teeming with life, Nsefu is an ideal place to raise a family — and that means that things can get crowded here," BBC explains. "Kingdom" follows the stories of four animal families — a lion pride, a wild dog pack, a hyena clan and a leopard family — who are all competing to make Nsefu their home. It's a story about endurance, control, ever-shifting power dynamics and perhaps the greatest challenge of all: raising a family in a competitive world."

As explained above, the series itself took five years to be filmed, seeing the BBC Studios Natural History unit embedded in Zambia for around 1,400 days of field work. The documentary team worked tirelessly alongside local crews and animal experts, hoping to create a series that highlighted local wildlife while also shining a spotlight on the efforts made by conservationists, who work day and night to protect Zambia's animals from poaching.

Felicity Lanchester ("Wild West: America's Great Frontier"), a series producer for "Kingdom," said: "With Sir David's commentary, the Kingdom series really sprung to life — a wry inflection here, warmth in his voice there and masterful dramatic timing around the action. He gave the performance his all, telling the story in the clearest, most compelling and emotional way. We are so grateful for his involvement."

From executive producer Mike Gunton ("Prehistoric Planet"), "Kingdom" premieres Saturday, Jan. 24, on BBC America and AMC+.

"Skyscraper Live"

Alex Honnold ("Arctic Ascent With Alex Honnold") takes climbing to thrilling new heights in "Skyscraper Live," which Netflix livestreams Friday, Jan. 23. For the first time, the world's most daring free solo climber tackles a man-made giant: Taipei 101. Rising 1,667 feet above the streets of Taiwan, the glass-and-steel skyscraper offers no ropes, no safety net and no room for error. In a shift from the granite walls that made him famous in the 2018 Oscar-winning documentary "Free Solo," this is Honnold's most unpredictable challenge yet, with the event directed by Joe DeMaio ("Total Request Live") and executive produced by Al Berman ("The Marriage Ref"), alongside Honnold, Grant Mansfield ("A Real Bug's Life"), Alan Eyres ("The World According to Jeff Goldblum") and Jonathan Retseck ("The Climb").

"Kidnapped: Elizabeth Smart"

From unimaginable horror to unbreakable courage, Elizabeth Smart ("I Am Elizabeth Smart," 2017) tells her story in Netflix's latest documentary, "Kidnapped: Elizabeth Smart." Premiering on the streamer Wednesday, Jan. 21, the documentary follows as

Saturday, January 17, 2026

14-year-old Smart was abducted from her Salt Lake City, Utah, home, sparking one of the most widely covered missing-person cases in U.S. history. Directed by Benedict Sanderson ("See No Evil"), "Kidnapped" combines archival footage, never-before-seen material and exclusive interviews with Smart, her family and investigators. In her own words, Smart recounts the months she spent in captivity under Brian David Mitchell and Wanda Barzee, the terrifying moments that tested her strength and the courage that ultimately guided her to freedom. And now, Smart is ready to tell her story. "After I was rescued, when I first got home, I did not want to talk about what happened with anyone," Smart told Tudum. "I also hope [the documentary] brings comfort that there are happy endings — and that even after terrible things happen, you can still have a wonderful life." "Kidnapped" is executive produced by Sophie Jones ("24 Hours in A&E") and Morgan Matthews ("A Brilliant Young Mind," 2014).

"WWE: Unreal" - Season 2

Step inside the ring and go behind the scenes when Season 2 of "WWE: Unreal" returns to Netflix Tuesday, Jan. 20. "WWE: Unreal" gives fans an all-access pass to SummerSlam 2025, revealing how matches, promos and in-

Elizabeth Smart, subject of "Kidnapped: Elizabeth Smart"

ring choreography come together to tell unforgettable stories. This season features top talent including Seth Rollins ("WrestleMania 31"), Becky Lynch ("Happy Gilmore 2," 2025), Cody Rhodes ("Arrow"), Rhea Ripley ("WWE SmackDown!"), Pat McAfee ("The Pat McAfee Show") and Iyo Sky ("Lucha Underground"), alongside rising stars such as Lyra Valkyria ("WWE Monday Night RAW") and Penta ("Lucha Underground"). Directed by Chris Weaver ("Hard Knocks: Training Camp") and overseen by showrunner Erik Powers ("30 for 30"), "WWE: Unreal" is executive produced by Harley Glantz ("HBO World Championship Boxing").

"Queer Eye" - Season 10

It's time to say goodbye to the Fabulous Five, as the tenth and final season of "Queer Eye" makes its debut on Netflix this Wednesday, Jan. 21. After changing lives in Georgia, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Texas, New Orleans and Las Vegas, the five in question — fashion expert Tan France, relationship coach Karamo Brown, food and wine connoisseur Antoni Porowski, stylist Jonathan Van Ness and interior designer Jeremiah Brent — take to the streets of Washington, D.C., for one final adventure, completing (a very fitting) five transformations for people in need of a life-changing experience. Together, the group helps individuals find their personal style, tackle relationship woes, explore healthier lifestyles and embrace their living spaces, all while offering comfort, companionship and an eye-opening dose of tough love. On air since 2018, this modern-day iteration of "Queer Eye" comes from creator David Collins ("Say I Do").

Det. Frank Salerno features in "The Hillside Strangler"

TV Media

"The Hillside Strangler"
Premiering Sunday, Jan. 18, and available on Prime Video via MGM+, "The Hillside Strangler" is a four-part true crime docuseries that revisits the grisly string of murders that made late-1970s Los Angeles the serial murder capital of the world. At the center of the terror were cousins Kenneth Bianchi and Angelo Buono, who abducted, raped and killed a dozen women and girls, leaving their bodies displayed on hillsides and igniting the largest manhunt in Los Angeles' violent history. Led by relentless homicide detective Frank Salerno ("The Greatest Crimes Of All Time"), the investigation ultimately exposed the killers and culminated in the longest criminal trial in U.S. history. Now, Salerno returns to the story that defined his career — and for the first time in over 40 years, convicted killer Kenneth Bianchi speaks on camera from prison. Through interviews and chilling archival footage, director Peter Logreco's ("Kids Behind Bars: Life or Parole") "The Hillside Strangler" unpacks a case that reshaped law enforcement and haunts Los Angeles to this day. LoGreco, Eli Holzman ("We're Here"), Aaron Saidman ("Selena + Chef") and Tim Walsh ("Chicago P.D.") serve as executive producers.

"Drops of God" - Season 2
The world's rarest wines hide secrets older than time. Adapted from the New York Times bestselling Japanese manga, "Drops of God" returns with Season 2 Wednesday, Jan. 21, on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel. Fleur Geffrier ("Rivages") and Tomohisa Yamashita ("The Head") return as siblings Camille and Issei as they face their most dangerous quest yet: uncovering the origin of the world's greatest wine — a mystery so profound that even their legendary father, Alexandre Leger (Stanley Weber, "The Head"), couldn't solve it. "What begins as a pursuit of legacy becomes a search for truth that spans continents and centuries, unearthing forgotten histories, hidden rivalries and secrets buried for generations" (per Apple TV). As their search pushes them to the farthest corners of the world, Camille and Issei must decide how much they're willing to sacrifice ... and the choices they make could either shatter their bond as siblings or destroy them both. Created by Quoc Dang Tran ("Marianne"), "Drops of God" also stars Tom Wozniczka ("Slow Horses"), Makiko Watanabe ("Love Exposure," 2008) and Satoshi Nikaido ("Babel," 2006), with Jean Luc Berlot ("Pacific Fear," 2024) serving as an executive producer.

"Judy Justice" - Season 4
Court is back in session, as Season 4 of "Judy Justice" premieres on Prime Video this Monday, Jan. 19.

Led by the incomparable Judge Judy Sheindlin, this no-nonsense reality series follows the former "Judge Judy" host as she presides over a new slate of cases, handling real-life cases with authority, humor and wisdom. In this fourth season, Attorney Sarah Rose returns as Sheindlin's law clerk, working alongside board certified court reporter Whitney Kumar and bailiff Kevin Rasco — who's always ready to step in when tensions arise. As one of the most recognizable and trusted figures on daytime television, Judge Judy has earned herself a reputation as a problem solver for disputes big and small, with past episodes of the series discussing cases of property damage, intoxicated confrontations, disappointing trips to Disney World, cat-caused damages and more. "Judy Justice" comes from executive producers Randy Douthitt ("Judge Judy"), Amy Freisleben ("Justice on Trial") and Scott Koon-del ("Tribunal Justice").

Matheson's mayhem

Netflix acquires all three seasons of chef Matty Matheson's 'Just a Dash'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Canadian celebrity chef Matty Matheson (star of "The Bear") makes the jump from scripted series to unscripted anarchy with the streaming debut of "Just a Dash," coming to Netflix Tuesday, Jan. 20.

Including the worldwide premiere of "Just a Dash's" third season — and the arrival of seasons 1 and 2 — this latest acquisition by Netflix marks the latest example of an unscripted series that began on YouTube only to find itself a new home on the streamer. "Just a Dash" follows in the footsteps of "Ms. Rachel," "Pop the Balloon," The Sidemen's "Inside" and more, returning to viewers after a four-year hiatus.

This one-of-a-kind series sees Matheson — owner of restaurants such as Matty's Patty's Burger Club, Rizzo's House of Parm and Prime Seafood Palace — cooking up global comfort foods, offering over-the-top and unfiltered commentary throughout the process. According to Deadline, the series has been described as if "Martha Stewart and HP Lovecraft had a child and filmed it."

Said to be "equal parts lessons and laughs" by Netflix, the first two seasons of "Just a Dash," which feature 12 episodes apiece, see Matheson working in his very own kitchen, cooking everything from oxtail pho and lamb neck tacos to Matty's signature patties and Arby's Beef'n Cheddar — Matheson-style, of course. In this third season, however, Matheson waves goodbye to the comfort of his own home, hitting the road with "no kitchen and no plan" (per Netflix).

According to the season's trailer, Matheson will be testing his cooking chops in stores, moving RVs, airplanes and more. Despite the hectic environments shown, the chef calmly states: "Nothing can shake me. Stand behind a counter and cook. It's that easy."

Matheson also shared that "Just a Dash's" third season was "possibly the most insane TV show ever created in the culinary world."

"You're welcome and good luck," he said.

With Chris Wardle ("Dead Set on Life") acting as series director and executive producer for all three seasons, "Just a Dash" arrives on Netflix Tuesday, Jan. 20, serving worldwide viewers a hefty feast of culinary chaos.

Tuesday Best Bets

Daniel Sunjata and Kaitlin Olson star in “High Potential”

Best Medicine

⑫ 7:00 PM

Dr. Martin Best (Josh Charles) leaves his surgical career in Boston behind, taking on a job as the sole practitioner in the quaint fishing village where he spent summers as a child. Martin’s big city behavior rubs his new patients the wrong way.

NHL Hockey

TNT 7:30 PM

Two of the best in the NHL come together in an inter-conference game as David Pastrnak and the Boston Bruins take on Mikko Rantanen and the Dallas Stars at American Airlines Center in Dallas. Expect a tight-checking battle between playoff contenders.

Best Medicine

④④ 8:00 PM

Dr. Martin Best (Josh Charles) leaves his surgical career in Boston behind, taking on a job as the sole practitioner in the quaint fishing village where he spent summers as a child. Martin’s big city behavior rubs his new patients the wrong way.

High Potential

⑫ ②② 9:00 PM

This unconventional crime drama continues, following single mom Morgan (Kaitlin Olson), whose unique knack for solving crimes lands her in an unusual and unstoppable partnership with seasoned, by-the-book detective Karadec (Daniel Sunjata).

Wednesday

Best Bets

Robert Herjavec stars in "Shark Tank"

The Price Is Right at Night

③ 9:00 PM

During an all-new episode, contestants compete for once-in-a-lifetime getaway packages, which sends the prize winners to Argentina and the Maldives. One lucky player takes on the Clock Game for the chance to embark on an unforgettable African safari.

The Beauty

FX 9:00 PM

High fashion turns deadly as supermodels across the globe begin dying in horrifying ways in this series premiere from mega-producer Ryan Murphy. FBI agents Cooper Madsen (Evan Peters) and Jordan Bennett (Rebecca Hall) head to Paris to discover the truth.

Police 24/7

WPIX 9:00 PM

You can't trust anyone when an argumentative driver gives police misleading information and then tries to escape. A suspect gets back home only to have a neighbor tip off police. A domestic violence call leaves investigators wondering just who to charge.

Shark Tank

(12) (22) 10:00 PM

Alexis Ohanian returns in this next episode, joining the likes of Barbara Corcoran, Robert Herjavec, Lori Greiner and Daniel Lubetzky on the Sharks panel. Together, they assess a unique dating app, sharing their unfiltered opinions as potential investors.

"The Beauty"

In this world, perfection is deadly. A limited series based on the comic books by Haun and Jason A. Hurley, "The Beauty" premieres its first three episodes Wednesday, Jan. 21, on Hulu. FBI agents Cooper Madsen (Evan Peters, "Kick-Ass," 2010) and Jordan Bennett (Rebecca Hall, "The Listeners") are dispatched to Paris to investigate a series of deaths when supermodels begin dying under brutal, mysterious circumstances. As they dig deeper, they discover a sexually transmitted virus that turns ordinary people into images of physical perfection... but at a horrifying cost. Their investigation puts them in direct conflict with The Corporation (Ashton Kutcher, "Killers," 2010), a tech billionaire who secretly created a "miracle" drug known as The Beauty and will stop at nothing to protect his trillion-dollar empire, including unleashing his deadly enforcer, The Assassin (Anthony Ramos, "Hamilton," 2020). As the infection spreads, a lost outsider (Jeremy Pope, "Hollywood") is swept into the fallout, while the agents race from Paris to Venice, Rome and New York to stop a global catastrophe. From creators Ryan Murphy ("Glee") and Matthew Hodgson ("9-1-1"), "The Beauty" guest stars Amelia Gray Hamlin ("Rachel & the TreeSchoolers"), Bella Hadid ("Yellowstone"), Nicola Peltz Beckham ("Holidate," 2020) and more. Executive produced by Murphy, Hodgson and Eric Gitter ("Extraction," 2020).

"Safe House" (2025)

Keep your co-workers close, but your enemies closer. From director Jamie Marshall ("Dirty Lies," 2017), "Safe House," a one-of-a-kind thriller, arrives on Hulu this Thursday, Jan. 22. Following a brutal terrorist attack in Los Angeles, five agents from the Secret Service, CIA, Department of Defense and Department of Homeland Security are told to take shelter in a nearby safe house, cared for by a man named Anderson (Lucien Laviscount, "The Bye Bye Man," 2017). While stuck in lockdown, Agents Owens (Hannah John-Kamen, "Ready Player One," 2018), Reeves (Michael Bradley, "Chicago Fire"), Choi (Lewis Tan, "Mortal Kombat," 2021), Sorello (Ethan Embry, "Disturbing Behavior," 1998) and Halton (Holt McCallany, "Mindhunter") come to a shocking realization: the attack was orchestrated by someone in the house. With armed operatives closing in, the agents find themselves turning on each other, trying to decipher who pushed the detonator that fateful day. With a screenplay penned by Leon Langford ("Divide and Conquer," 2025), "Safe House" also stars Brian Borello ("All American"), Markina Brown ("10 Things about Sally," 2024), Brett Cullen ("The Dark Knight Rises," 2012), Zan Gomes-Headley ("Dog," 2022), Troy Mittleider ("Bound to the Rebel Wolf"), Jasmine Luv ("Tell It Like a Woman," 2022), Sky Liam ("Under Fire," 2025) and more.

"Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire" (2024)

Expanding the world of 1984's "Ghostbusters," 2024's "Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire" will be available to stream on Hulu as of Thursday, Jan. 22. Acting as a direct sequel to "Ghostbusters: Afterlife" (2021), this latest adventure acts as the fifth installment in the "Ghostbusters" franchise, set three years after the events of its predecessor. Callie Spengler (Carrie Coon, "The White Lotus"), her boyfriend Gary (Paul Rudd, "Ant-Man," 2015) and her two children — Trevor (Finn Wolfhard, "Stranger Things") and Phoebe (Mckenna Grace, "Gifted," 2017) — pack their bags and move to New York City for a fresh start, only to find themselves pulled back into the supernatural world when a deranged ghost is freed from an ancient artifact, threatening their city and the world at large. Helmed by director Gil Kenan ("Saturday Night," 2024), "Frozen Empire" also stars Celeste

Rebecca Hall and Evan Peters in "The Beauty"

O'Connor ("Madame Web," 2024), Logan Kim ("The Walking Dead: Dead City"), Kumail Nanjiani ("The Big Sick," 2017), Patton Oswalt ("Ratatouille," 2007) and original "Ghostbusters" Bill Murray ("Lost in Translation," 2003), Dan Aykroyd ("Blues Brothers 2000," 1998) and Ernie Hudson ("The Family Business").

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I saw a video the other day of Dolly Parton and Sylvester Stallone singing together. Was that real or was I tricked by AI?

A: This is an excellent question that speaks to a deep modern problem: With the development of artificial intelligence, which can make hyper-realistic fake images of just about anything, are we now unable to experience wonder? Specifically, in this case, the wonder of 1984 musical comedy "Rhinestone"?

Prepare to be amazed, because country music legend Dolly Parton ("9 to 5," 1980) really did star in this movie, in which she turned a stubborn New York cab driver, played by Sylvester Stallone ("Rocky," 1976), into a singer. And yes, the duets were real.

Sure, it got a pile of Golden Raspberry

Sylvester Stallone and Dolly Parton star in "Rhinestone"

nominations for worst movie, worst actor and so on. And sure, Stallone has said that he regrets making it. But that's beside the point: The fact is it happened, and that's incredible.

It's worth noting that Parton, for her part, is typically gracious about it. She's said she thought the soundtrack was some of her best work, and she rerecorded one of the songs, "What a Heartache," twice.

She sums up "Rhinestone" in her autobiography, "Dolly: My Life and Other Unfinished Business," as a failed experiment. "I guess the public didn't want to see Sylvester Stallone do comedy—or see me do Sylvester Stallone."

Q: I haven't seen Ed O'Neill in anything since "Modern Family" wrapped. What's he up to now?

A: Ed O'Neill has done exactly three things since his hit sitcom "Modern Family" ended in 2020, and they couldn't be much more different from each other.

First, he did a supporting role (but big enough to make the poster) in the indie feature "The Last Shift" (2020), a quiet, heartwarming dramedy that didn't get much attention.

Four years passed before his next project, the more prestigious and high-profile "Clipped," an FX miniseries about the downfall of L.A. Clippers owner Donald Sterling (O'Neill).

Then, just a couple of months ago came his oddest choice: He had a supporting role in the first season of "All's Fair," the critically detested legal drama starring celebrity heiress Kim Kardashian.

O'Neill is poised to have a busier next couple of years. He has three projects underway right now, though the most exciting one may never actually happen.

It was reported, to much excitement, back in 2022 that he would be returning to his star-making role, the sarcastic and miserable Al Bundy, in an animated reboot of the Fox sitcom "Married... With Children." A year later, his co-star, Christina Applegate ("Bad Moms," 2016), who has also committed to return, gave an update saying it was still in development. But nothing's officially been heard since.

Meanwhile, O'Neill just reportedly started filming a new big-screen film, "Bad Day," an ensemble comedy led by Cameron Diaz ("Charlie's Angels," 2000). There's no word on a release for that one.

He'll also appear as himself in "Gracie," a documentary series about the Gracie family of martial arts fame. (He actually has a black belt in jiu-jitsu, which he earned under the Gracies' instruction.)
