Late Laughs

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

[President] Trump just arrived in New York City for the General Assembly, and earlier tonight [Sept. 21], he met with Mayor Zohran Mamdani. One is a far-right Republican, the other is a Democratic socialist, so their meeting was a fun little preview of what your Thanksgiving will be like.

A nearly 430-foot Slim Jim just broke the world record for longest meat snack. Oh, please, just buy a Ferrari.

KFC just released a new cereal that tastes like fried chicken, and they recommended topping it with gravy instead of milk. They even have a good slogan for it: “Make your arteries snap, crackle and pop!”

Today [Sept. 22] was the first official day of fall. I love fall in New York City. It’s that special time of year when the mystery puddles on the subway are pumpkin spice.

I read that Sen. Bernie Sanders introduced a bill to ban people from developing artificial intelligence. Now, keep in mind, Bernie introduced the same bill when they invented the light bulb.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

Trump’s approval rating just hit a new all-time low. The president is pulling somewhere between Ebola and Ed Sheeran right now. Trump’s approval rating is 29%, according to the American Research Group. Twenty-nine. If that number goes any lower, he’s going to have to leave Melania for it.

Here in California, our governor, Gavin Newsom, has declared a state of emergency ahead of what scientists are warning could be the worst El Nino in a thousand years. El Nino is a climate pattern that brings storms to a number of states, including ours. ... You know, strong winds are especially threatening to men with perfect hair. So, he wants to act fast. Under [Kristi] Noem’s directive, the agencies in the state can now begin preparing roads and critical infrastructure for the storms and stockpiling supplies of marijuana and chihuahua food. All the things that we need.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

Fast-food chain Wendy’s has announced it will offer a new meal inspired by “Real Housewives of Salt Lake City” star Lisa Barlow. But if you really want a “Real Housewives” experience, go to Waffle House.

Starbucks announced today [Sept. 23] that it plans to close 500 North American cafes as part of its turnaround, which means that thousands of Americans could be forced to go to the next intersection.

The New York Post reported yesterday [Sept. 23] that three men were spotted climbing out of a manhole on the Upper East Side. Man, you can’t afford to live anywhere in this city without roommates.

The fast-food chain Wendy’s yesterday [Sept. 23] released a six-song album called “Songs to Listen to in the Wendy’s Parking Lot.” It’s way better than the original title: “Now That’s What I Call Depression.”

Spooky specials: 'Ghosts' returns for pre-season Halloween bash

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

There are certain cycles in modern life that allow us (or force us, depending on one's outlook) to step away from the grind. School is, of course, one of the earliest such cycles in a person's life — stopping each June for the summer break and resuming again around Labor Day each September — but sports, fashion and corporate financial cycles also follow a similar seasonal structure.

Perhaps most recognizable, however, at least for readers of this article, is the typical television cycle, which typically begins in the spring or autumn and takes a midseason hiatus from mid-December to January or early February before resuming and wrapping up the season as summer begins.

"Ghosts," for example, has been following this trajectory until recently, when it announced Season 6 would release in spring 2027, approximately a full year since its Season 5 finale in May 2026. But much like its title implies, "Ghosts" makes sure its presence is felt — even between seasons.

The "Ghosts" Halloween special premieres Thursday, Oct. 29, on CBS, and marks the first of two hour-long festive specials before the series' Season 6 premiere.

"Ghosts" is a 30-minute (with commercials) sitcom from "New Girl" and "Zoey's Extraordinary Playlist" creator/producers The Joes: Joe Port and Joe Wiseman. It stars Utkarsh Ambudkar ("Free Guy," 2021) and Rose McIver ("iZombie") as inheriting couple Alison and Mike, the CBS/Paramount+ series keeps nearly all details (except names) the same as its source. From the relationships, to broad events, to character backstories, much stays the same between series iterations. The American version of "Ghosts" has, however, eclipsed the original in one massive respect: number of episodes. BBC's "Ghosts," which ran from 2019 to 2023 and is available to watch on Paramount+, consists of 35 episodes over five seasons, while the CBS series already contains 94 episodes in five years and ahead of its Season 6 premiere this spring.

Although many of the show's returning fans are disappointed to have to wait an extra few months for their beloved series, they can take comfort in knowing that Season 6 — when it comes — will be a full 22 episodes of spectral silliness. Additionally, "Ghosts" viewers get a little more bang for their idiomatic buck as the series is also releasing two holiday specials between seasons.

As well as a coming one-hour Christmas special on Dec. 10, "Ghosts" airs a two-part, hour-long Halloween special in honor of the seasonal thinning of the veil. Premiering Thursday, Oct. 29, on CBS and streaming next-day on Paramount+, the two-parter is directed by "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" editor and director Cortney Carrillo and is titled "The Mirror."

"A couple of months after Pete's [Richie Moriarty, "Hamster & Gretel"] disappearance, while Sam is in Australia on the set of her new film, 'Polar Opposites,' Kyle [new series regular Ben Feldman, "Superstore"] steps up to help babysit the ghosts," begins the Paramount Press description. "Also, Hetty [Rebecca Wisocky, "Devious Maids"] is unexpectedly reunited with her estranged sister, Margaret [guest star Maria Thayer, "Those Who Can't"], and Bela [Punam Patel, "Special"] throws an unconventional Halloween bash at Woodstone."

Addressing the Season 5 cliffhanger, Wiseman told TVInsider.com that fans "will not have to wait" to find out what happened to Pete.

"I know it was couched as midseason, but with these specials that are going to be an hour long, we're basically just premiering two weeks later than we normally would," Wiseman shared, touting the praises of the hour-long special model to break up the hiatus.

"We're gonna pick up a couple of months after the finale took place," added Port, "and we're gonna go from there."

As for the Christmas episode to follow, Paramount+ writes that it's "inspired by that oh-so-traditional Christmas classic (according to some) ... 'Die Hard' (1988)."

By the time Season 6 comes along in 2027, Pete may well be back home in Woodstone. Either way, ParamountPlus.com alludes to the fact that Season 6 will largely focus on The Others, the mysterious group introduced in Season 5.

"Ghosts" Season 6 sees the return of the living — Sam, Jay and Kyle (who can also see spirits) — and ghosts Hetty Woodstone (Wisocky), Capt. Isaac Higgintoot (Brandon Scott Jones, "The Other Two"), Alberta Haynes (Danielle Pinnochio, "Solar"), Thorfinn (Devan Chandler Long, "Bosch"), Trevor Lefkowitz (Asher Grodman, "Bookie"), Flower (Sheila Carrasco, "Leo," 2023) and Sasappis (Roman Zaragoza, "Spirit Rangers").

Don't miss your chance to catch up with old friends when "Ghosts" launches its two-part Halloween special Thursday, Oct. 29, on CBS. Both episodes stream next-day on Paramount+.

Follow through: Bill Murray and friends tee off in 'A Course Called Ireland'

Tom Coyne and Bill Murray in "A Course Called Ireland"

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Blue skies, crisp air and vibrant green fairways. Ireland is a destination for golfers — highlighted by the Irish Open, the PGA European Tour's annual stop at some of the island's most prestigious clubs. One of golf's finest and most memorable celebrity participants has set off on his own tour of Ireland's famed fairways in "A Course Called Ireland," premiering Sunday, Oct. 25, on Paramount+. All six episodes will be available to stream on premiere day. The genre-bending documentary series sees Bill Murray ("The Phoenixian Scheme," 2025) and Tom Coyne, American author and editor of "The Golfer's Journal," explore Ireland through the lens of the gentleman's game alongside some other golf buddies. Hitting the links and braving the rough courses and strong winds of Ireland's coastal courses, the long-time golf companions learn more than they expected about Ireland. Per Paramount+, "'A Course Called Ireland' is a hilarious and unpredictable love letter to the game of golf. The series captures candid, unscripted moments woven with the wit, warmth and wonder of Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland." The series neatly ties together all its subjects, as "somewhere between the first tee and the final pint, the journey veers into an unexpected portrait of Ireland, the people who give it its soul, and of Bill Murray himself."

Also joining for tee times along the way are "The Big Door Prize" actor Chris O'Dowd, Irish comedian and actress Joanne McNally ("Taskmaster") and former NFL center and "New Heights" podcast host Jason Kelce.

Murray is one of the most notable celebrity golfers, known for his portrayal of eccentric greenskeeper Carl Spackler in the 1980 comedy "Caddyshack" and for his performances during tournaments. The actor has won the Pebble Beach Pro-Am with his longtime pro partner Scott Simpson, but he is a draw for his antics as much as his skill, like when he successfully sank a putt with his back turned in 2022.

The upcoming series is inspired by one of Coyne's books, "A Course Called Ireland: A Long Walk in Search of a Country, a Pint and the Next Tee." Published in 2009, the travelogue became a bestseller. It told the tale of Coyne, facing down a life-changing moment at home, planning the ultimate golf trip: a walking tour of Ireland hitting all of the island's greatest links along the way.

While Coyne has made a career of writing about golf, Murray has also examined his life through the sport, publishing "Cinderella Story: My Life in Golf" in 2000. The actor has pursued other ventures in the golf world, including launching a line of irreverent golf apparel with William Murray Golf. While his antics at tournaments have been divisive over the years — not a huge surprise that a historically stuffy sport might bristle at a comedian bringing flair to the fairway — Murray has been an ambassador of sorts for the sport for decades.

The travel series is showrun and executive produced by Casey Scharf ("Octopus!") and Morgan Roberts ("Knife Edge: Chasing Michelin Stars"), while Chris Cottam ("Nikki Fre$h") serves as the series director. The series was co-commissioned by Catherine Catton ("Nadiya's Everyday Baking"), the head of factual entertainment and events commissioning at BBC, and Eddie Doyle ("Once Upon a Time in Northern Ireland"), the head of content commissioning at BBC Northern Ireland.

"A Course Called Ireland" is produced by Stellify and Skydance Sports, with Jesse Siskgold ("Aka Charlie Sheen"), Jon Weinbach ("The Dynasty: UConn Huskies"), Greg Groggel ("Court of Gold"), Jason T. Reed ("Rise of the 49ers"), Kieran Doherty ("Who Wants to Be a Millionaire") and Matthew Worthy ("Do You Know Your Place?") serving as executive producers.

When the show was announced last September, Murray made a statement about his expectations of the series before production started. "I started out caddying, and golf was the best education I ever received. Ireland feels like the right place to put all that to work. They've got this wonderful word there, 'craic,' which means fun, but it means a lot of other things. A lot of good things. And this show will be about us finding it."

Skydance Sports boasts a roster of varied sports entertainment projects, from the 2023 film "Air," about the origin of the Air Jordan brand, to the 2025 Netflix documentary series "America's Team: The Gambler and His Cowboys," to the NFL Films and Hallmark Media co-produced 2024 romance TV movie "Holiday Touchdown: A Chiefs Love Story," the first in a series of franchise-centered romance movies.

Dust off your clubs and tune in to the series premiere of "A Course Called Ireland," Sunday, Oct. 25, on Paramount+. Binge all six episodes of the docuseries on premiere day.

Three-part docuseries celebrates the life of late 'Friends' actor Matthew Perry

Mia Perry Bowick in "The One About Matthew Perry"

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

A friend to all: Could he be any more iconic? Honoring an icon of '90s television, "The One About Matthew Perry" premieres Tuesday, Oct. 27, on Netflix.

For 10 years, from 1994 to 2004, actor Matthew Perry ("Studio 60 on the Sunset Strip") delighted audiences as the sardonic, sarcastic and hilarious Chandler Bing in "Friends." Whether you watched the episodes live, through reruns or through streaming, generations of viewers related to Chandler's self-effacing comedy, making the character — and Perry by extension — a friend to fans across the globe.

Behind the onscreen jokes, laughs and gags, however, Perry was facing internal struggles of his own, including a long and difficult battle with addiction. In October 2023, at only 54 years of age, Perry died of an accidental overdose.

In this three-part documentary series, director Mary Robertson ("Quiet on Set: The Dark Side of Kids TV") delves into Perry's time on television, sharing stories about Perry's early auditions, sitcom work and film career. Beneath the laughs, Robertson explores the darker aspects of Perry's life, detailing the actor's aforementioned struggles with addiction and his journey through recovery.

Perry's sister, Mia Perry Bowick, speaks candidly throughout the series, anchoring Robertson's documentary with a never-before-heard testimony.

"It's taken time for me to feel ready to share these memories and what it was like to love Matthew through all the complexity of his life — to see him as a whole person, not just as Chandler and not just as someone who struggled with addiction," Perry Bowick explained. "As his sister, he shaped who I am today, the person I strive to be and the work to which I've devoted my life. Matthew had a beautiful heart and a generous spirit, and even in his darkest moments, he could still make you laugh and feel loved. I hope this series gives everyone who loved him, whether personally or from afar, a deeper appreciation for who he truly was and the legacy he leaves behind."

Robertson added: "Matthew Perry was one of the comedic geniuses of our time. Through his many films, TV and stage performances and his unforgettable portrayal of Chandler Bing, he made millions of us laugh, connect and feel a little less alone. He also gave us so much more by bravely speaking about addiction. Yet the public only knew part of his story. That's why we set out to make this series: to let the people who knew and loved Matthew reveal the person behind the public figure."

"The One About Matthew Perry" makes its debut Tuesday, Oct. 27, on Netflix.

Western wanderer: From Indigenous lands and desert borderlands to settled ranching communities and historic neighborhoods, six-time James Beard Award-winning chef Pati Jinich ("Pati's Mexican Table") continues her exploration of food, culture and connection in Season 2 of "Pati Jinich Explores PanAmericana," making its debut Monday, Oct. 26, on PBS.

"Along the way, Jinich discovers people embracing cultural traditions once nearly lost, reviving ancestral languages and ingredients, breathing new life into time-honored crafts and finding fresh ways to celebrate where they come from," the network describes. "Reflecting our country's growing cultural fascination with heritage foods, handmade traditions and stories rooted in place, 'Pati Jinich Explores PanAmericana' brings together music, poetry, sports and community to reveal an American West that is vibrant, creative and full of unexpected connections."

In the first episode of this second season, Jinich travels through Montana and Wyoming, where she wanders the Blackfeet reservation and learns about a nearly-lost language — and a nearly-lost species — returning to the area. Afterwards, Jinich heads farther south, where a community wool mill is spinning innovation into a stronger economy. Throughout the season, Jinich will also visit Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona.

"The farther south I travel, the deeper this journey goes," Jinich says in a press release from PBS. "I keep asking what the promise of the Americas has been, and who it has been kept for. Everywhere I stop, I meet people who were here long before these borders existed, still fighting to be at home on their own land. And people who crossed an ocean carrying a recipe and hope."

"I am in awe of how the people I encounter refuse to let go of what matters," Jinich continues. "Buffalo returning to Blackfeet land. An almost lost language taught back to children. A wool mill keeping a rural economy alive. Adobe walls still built by hand. Farmers holding on to land four generations built. They open their homes and their lives to me, and my responsibility to do right by their stories grows every season. The more I carry their stories, the more I understand my own."

From Early Light Media — in partnership with PBS — Season 2 of "Pati Jinich Explores PanAmericana" premieres Monday, Oct. 26, on PBS.

Luke Littler appears in "Beat Luke Littler"

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

"Beat Luke Littler"

Twenty amateur darts players get one shot at a payday that could change everything as "Beat Luke Littler" premieres Friday, Oct. 30, on Netflix. Hosted by Gary Lineker ("The Rest Is Football"), the live special brings 20 challengers to Manchester, where each must face world No. 1 Luke Littler, 19, in a single leg of 501. With £501,000 waiting for anyone who can defeat the two-time defending Professional Darts Corporation world champion, every dart carries pressure. Richard Osman ("The Thursday Murder Club," 2025) provides expert analysis, breaking down the numbers and stats as the action unfolds. After regional heats narrowed thousands of hopefuls to 20 finalists, the amateurs step to the roche knowing they get one night, one chance and perfect leg to beat "The Nuke." Produced by Workerbee and overseen by Rick Murray ("Celebrity Bear Hunt"), the event puts amateur nerve against world-class precision.

"Dead-End Job"

A desperate man chasing easy money soon discovers that the job may cost him far more than he can afford when the mystery-fantasy series "Dead-End Job" premieres Friday, Oct. 30, on Netflix. Drowning in debt, Hyeok-jun (Lee Jae-wook, "Alchemy of Souls") is running out of ways to stay afloat when an online job advertisement offers him an escape: an hourly wage 50 times the minimum. He follows the promise to the Spyder Human Resource Center, where Mr. S (Lee Hee-jun, "Mouse") delivers one unsettling condition — whatever happens on the job stays there. Sent to staff a seemingly ordinary convenience store, Hyeok-jun soon realizes the easy money comes with a terrifying cost as each shift exposes him to bizarre phenomena and dangers that could leave him dead. While Hyeok-jun struggles to survive, Yeon-joo (Go Min-si, "The Witch: Part 1 — The Subversion," 2018), an accident investigator, begins looking into the strange incidents connected to the agency and Hyeok-jun's younger sister Ji-yoon (Kim Min-ha, "Pachinko") worries about the brother who is suddenly acting unlike himself. The series is directed by Kim Da-min ("A Killer Paradox") and produced by Han Jun-hee ("D.P.").

"Sacrifice" (2025)

A glamorous charity gala becomes a nightmare when a movie star is pulled into a radical group's dangerous mission in "Sacrifice," now available on Netflix. Chris Evans ("Captain America: The Winter Soldier," 2014) stars as Mike Tyler, an actor whose career and sense of purpose have begun slipping away. His night among wealthy donors takes a turn when Joan (Anya Taylor-Joy, "The Queen's Gambit") and her followers seize control, turning the event into a hostage situation. Joan believes their actions are tied to a volcanic prophecy, forcing Mike to confront a world far removed from the scripts and staged heroics he knows. Vincent Cassel ("Black Swan," 2010) plays billionaire Ben Bracken, another captive with his own reasons for resisting Joan's plan. Directed and produced by Roman Gavras ("Athena," 2022), with producers Gregory Jankilevitch ("Better Man," 2024) and Giorgos Karnavas ("Triangle of Sadness," 2022), the film follows the captives as survival becomes tangled with faith, fame and sacrifice.

Leo Simon, Heike Makatsch, Axel Stein and Lea Drinda in "Where's Wanda?"

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

"Where's Wanda?" – Season 2
Directed by Tobi Baumann ("Faking Hitler") and Christian Ditter ("How to Be Single," 2016) — with Nataly Kudabor ("Arthur's Law"), Oliver Ossege ("Helgoland 513") and series creator Oliver Lansley ("Flack") as executive producers — a new season of "Where's Wanda?" is available to stream now on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel. Season 2 finds Dedo (Axel Stein, "Hausmeister Krause") and Carlotta Klatt (Heike Makatsch, "Love Actually," 2003) in for the shock of their lives when their daughter Wanda (Lea Drinda, "The Gryphon") is caught red-handed standing over a dead body, looking every bit guilty of the crime. Desperate to keep their daughter out of prison, Dedo and Carlotta set out to prove her innocence. However, every clue they chase drags them deeper into the shady side of their peaceful suburb, with Det. Michelle Rauch (Nikeata Thompson, "How to Dad") also following closely behind them. As the stakes climb, Apple TV's description asks: "[W]ill their quest to protect their family get them all out of trouble or ultimately lead them further astray? And can they find out the truth of what happened on that fateful day before it's too late?"

"Candyman" (1992)

A disturbing tale passed down by local residents brings one woman face to face with a terrifying entity in 1992 horror fantasy "Candyman," streaming now on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel. Helen Lyle (Virginia Madsen, "Sideways," 2004) is studying superstitions in a Chicago housing project when she befriends Anne-Marie McCoy (Vanessa Williams, "Eraser," 1996), who introduces her to the terrifying legend of Candyman. According to local residents, the hook-handed figure may be responsible for a recent murder, but Helen sees the story as another urban myth. Determined to investigate, she and her friend Bernadette Walsh (Kasi Lemmons, "The Silence of the Lambs," 1991) explore the legend and its connection to the neighborhood's history. Soon, however, a mysterious man (Tony Todd, "Final Destination," 2000) matching Candyman's description begins appearing around Helen, turning her research into a nightmare she can no longer explain away. As disturbing events pile up and Helen finds herself drawn deeper into the legend, she begins to question whether Candyman is merely a story or something that can truly reach her in increasingly terrifying ways. Written and directed by Bernard Rose ("Paperhouse," 1988), the horror film was produced by Steve Golin ("The Revenant," 2015), Sigurjón Sigthvátsson ("Wild at Heart," 1990) and Alan Poul ("Six Feet Under").

"Tenzing" (2026)

Filmmaker Jennifer Peedom's ("Sherpa," 2015) wondrous biopic "Tenzing" is available to stream now on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel. From a screenplay by Luke Davies ("Lion," 2016), this biopic tells the remarkable story of Tenzing Norgay (Genden Phuntsok, "Jinpa," 2018), a gifted mountaineer who became one of the first two people to reach the top of Mount Everest in 1953. It has always been Tenzing's dream to climb Everest. So when an opportunity arises to join a British expedition, Tenzing packs his bags, hugs his wife, Dawa (Thinley Lhamo, "Shambhala," 2024), goodbye and leaves home to meet the climbing team. Joined by mountaineer Edmund Hillary (Tom Hiddleston, "Thor," 2011) and expedition leader Col. John Hunt (Willem Dafoe, "Poor Things," 2023), Tenzing pushes up the mountain, braving treacherous icefalls and freezing temperatures while clinging to hope. Meanwhile, expedition secretary Jill Henderson (Caitriona Balfe, "Outlander") lends support. Producers Liz Watts ("Animal Kingdom," 2010), Emile Sherman ("The King's Speech," 2010) and Iain Canning ("The Power of the Dog," 2021) help bring the triumph to the screen.

Autumn in the Hamptons

'Be My Guest' Season 9 now streaming

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

This autumn, why not travel to the Hamptons to meet an old friend for dinner? Whether you know her best as the Barefoot Contessa or by her given name, Ina Garten ("Beat Bobby Flay"), the renowned queen of the kitchen is back for a four-episode ninth season of "Be My Guest with Ina Garten," available now to stream in its entirety on discovery+.

A Food Network fixture since "Barefoot Contessa" premiered in 2002, Garten has spent the past four decades focused on preparing good food to be enjoyed in excellent company. Season 9, which premiered Oct. 3 on Food Network and streaming, begins with Garten welcoming Milk Bar's Christina Tosi ("Chef's Table") with smoked salmon tartines and gravlax sauce as "she shares personal stories from life-changing career decisions to rising through the pastry chef ranks" (per Food Network).

In Episode 2, Garten and her husband, Jeffrey, share memories over easy butternut squash and apple soup, with Jeffrey "reminisc[ing] about his 'love at first sight' encounter with Ina, their long-distance relationship challenges and highlights from their six decades together." The pair finish a cosy autumn afternoon by putting a new twist on an old diner favorite.

Ina Garten hosts "Be My Guest With Ina Garten"

Episode 3 sees cookbook author and restaurateur Yotam Ottolenghi ("Anthony Bourdain: Parts Unknown") visit Garten for coconut cupcakes. "He shares stories from his stellar career and reveals secrets to his revolutionary recipes" before co-opting Garten's kitchen "to make Tray-bake Chicken with Caesar Salad, a unique Ottolenghi take on a classic."

The fourth and final episode of Season 9 follows Dan Barber ("Sustainable," 2016), the head chef at Blue Hill at Stone Barns, a two-time Michelin star-recognized restaurant. Together, they discuss "catering coincidences, high-pressure hospitality and redefining restaurant reviews" before Blue Hill at Stone Barns visits the Garten homestead for Barber's delicious miso crusted squash.

But after nearly a quarter century of welcoming friends and famous figures into her home for "Barefoot Contessa" and "Be My Guest," Garten is considering forgoing the series as it is now. Speaking with People magazine for the September 2026 issue, Garten told reporter Ana Calderone that she might prefer to take on a series of "seasonal specials" rather than continue with any more large-scale projects such as a TV series.

"Food Network and I are talking," she told People, who noted, "Food Network had no comment on the future of her show."

All nine seasons of "Be My Guest with Ina Garten" are available to stream on discovery+.

Masters of the Universe

Adam (Galitzine) is the young prince of Eternia, but his life changes when the Power Sword reveals his connection to the ancient forces protecting the planet. When the sword is activated, Adam transforms into He-Man, gaining extraordinary strength and becoming the greatest defender of Eternia. However, the ruthless warlord Skeletor (Leto) is determined to seize the power of Eternia for himself. With his army and dark magic, Skeletor launches a campaign against the kingdom, forcing Adam to confront a threat far greater than anything he has faced before.

Director: Travis Knight. Stars: Nicholas Galitzine, Camila Mendes, Alison Brie, James Purefoy, Morena Baccarin, Johannes Haukur Johannesson, Kristen Wiig, Jared Leto, Idris Elba. 2026. 140 min. Fantasy.

Frankenstein

Victor Frankenstein (Isaac) is a deeply arrogant scientist who becomes obsessed with defeating death. Haunted by the loss of his mother (Goth) and frustrated by the limitations imposed on him by his father (Dance), he becomes convinced that science can give him the power to create life. With financial support from the wealthy Heinrich Harlander (Waltz), Victor acquires human remains and begins constructing a living being from the bodies of the dead. His experiment succeeds, but Victor is horrified by what he has created and immediately abandons the Creature (Elordi). Left alone in a world that fears and rejects him, the Creature's loneliness transforms into anger and a desire for revenge.

Hadestown: The Musical

Orpheus (Carney) is a gifted but impoverished musician who believes he can write a song powerful enough to restore spring to a world trapped in endless winter. He falls deeply in love with Eurydice (Noblezada), a young woman struggling to survive in the harsh world around them. While Orpheus is optimistic and consumed by his music, Eurydice is increasingly worried about hunger, poverty and the uncertainty of their future. When Hades (Page), the ruler of the underworld, offers Eurydice security and shelter in Hadestown, she accepts his invitation and descends into his underground realm. Devastated by her disappearance, Orpheus follows her into Hadestown to retrieve her.

Tuesday Best Bets

Aleyse Shannon and Hanad Abdi in “The Drop: A Snowfall Saga”

Dancing With the Stars

②② 8:00 PM

Halloween comes to Hollywood, seeing the remaining competitors embrace the season with a night themed around horror movies. It'll be a graveyard smash as judges Carrie Ann Inaba, Derek Hough and Bruno Tonioli sink their teeth into some new numbers.

Moonshiners

disc 8:00 PM

Josh's head spins when Jerry reveals his wild plans for their joint moonshine operation. Mark and Digger enlist a Scotsman to help craft the first Hillbilly Scotch. Tim and Tickle's backwoods rivals threaten to call the law on their tariff-dodging deal.

The Drop: A Snowfall Saga

fx 9:00 PM

As the first season of this “Snowfall” spinoff comes to a close, Wanda (Gail Bean) risks everything on an unlikely alliance and a bold move that could change everything for her and her family. Isaiah John, Asante Blackk and Peyton Alex Smith also star.

In Pursuit: Lessons of American Leadership

③③ ⑤⑦ 10:00 PM

This brand-new documentary special explores what the U.S. as a nation can learn from the insights of the past—including those of Ulysses S. Grant, Martin Van Buren and Franklin D. Roosevelt—to build a better, more unified country today.

Wednesday

Best Bets

Bobby Campo and Shantel VanSanten in "The Final Destination"

All Elite Wrestling: Dynamite

TBS 8:00 PM

Chaos and costumes will be aplenty during this Halloween-themed romp as "Fright Night" returns once again to the Land of the Elite. The wrestlers of AEW will meet in the ring at Chaifetz Arena in St. Louis, where dressed up fans watch from the stands.

Chicago Fire

5 9:00 PM

After Season 14's terrifying conclusion, the brave first responders of Firehouse 51 are still working hard to find their footing. When a fire breaks out that's suspected to be arson, the team must put their personal feelings aside to uncover the truth.

Sin City Rehab

HGTV 9:00 PM

Alison clashes with her new partner, Josh, during their second flip together. Alison wants Josh to take bigger risks with the design, but that leads Josh to going rogue during the demo. Can the two learn how to compromise before it's too late?

The Final Destination

AMC 10:00 PM

When Nick O'Bannon's (Bobby Campo) day at the racetrack is interrupted by a horrifying premonition, the young adult acts fast to save him and his friends from certain doom. However, in doing so, Nick has possibly veered them into a much worse fate.

"Last Breath" (2025)

Finn Cole ("Peaky Blinders") goes beneath the waves in "Last Breath," streaming Sunday, Oct. 25, on Hulu. Based on a true story, this heart-pounding film follows Chris Lemons (Cole), a deep sea diver who is trapped hundreds of feet below the ocean's surface ... with only five minutes of oxygen remaining and little hope of being rescued in time. Above the surface, veteran diver Duncan Allcock (Woody Harrelson, "True Detective") and crewmate Dave Yuasa (Simu Liu, "Barbie," 2023) launch a desperate, high-risk rescue mission. But with the crushing weight of time against them, every choice they make could mean the difference between life and death. Starring Cliff Curtis ("The Dark Horse," 2014), Mark Bonnar ("Line of Duty"), MyAnna Buring ("The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 2," 2012), Josef Altin ("Game of Thrones") and Bobby Rainsbury ("Dept. Q"). Directed by Alex Parkinson ("River Monsters"), "Last Breath" is adapted from his 2019 documentary of the same name, with Alastair Burlingham ("Moonfall," 2022), Dan Clifton ("Brightburn," 2019) and Richard da Costa ("Last Breath," 2019) serving as executive producers. Written by Mitchell LaFortune ("Mission Kandahar," 2023).

Finn Cole, Woody Harrelson and Simu Liu star in "Last Breath"

"Edward Scissorhands" (1990)

The smash-hit 1990 film "Edward Scissorhands" is available now on Hulu. Created by a kindly old inventor (Vincent Price, "Catchfire," 1990), Edward Scissorhands (Johnny Depp, "Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl," 2003) is an entirely artificially created man. Because his inventor had a heart attack and died before Edward was finished, he's left incomplete, boasting terrifying sets of scissors for hands. Left alone in the inventor's mansion after his death, Edward has been isolated for many years until one day, a fearless and determined Avon saleswoman named Pegg (Dianne Wiest, "Bullets Over

Broadway," 1994) finds that Edward is harmless and brings him home with her. When the town discovers that Edward has a skill for topiary design, pet grooming and hair cutting, he becomes a local sensation. Created and directed by Tim Burton ("Beetlejuice," 1988) with a screenplay adapted by Caroline Thompson ("The Addams Family," 1991), "Edward Scissorhands" also stars Winona Ryder ("Stranger Things"), Anthony Michael Hall ("The Dark Knight," 2008), Kathy Baker ("Picket Fences"), Robert Oliveri ("Honey, I Shrank the Kids," 1989), Conchata Ferrell ("Two and a Half Men") and Caroline Aarons ("Sleepless in Seattle," 1993).

"The Mob" – Season 1

Make them an offer they can't refuse and press play. Season 1 of "The Mob" arrives Monday, Oct. 26, on Hulu. Loyalty comes at a price in an opulent Italian villa, where a household of famous faces play for up to $250,000. Each week brings new jobs inspired by classic gangster films, and only those who hustle enough survive to see the next one. Above it all sits the don, a player chosen by the family who holds total power over who earns, who stays and who gets whacked. But power invites rebellion, and a restless crew can quietly plot a takeover. Hosted by Parker Posey ("The White Lotus"), the cast includes William Belli ("RuPaul's Drag Race"), Demi Engemann ("The Secret Lives of Mormon Wives"), Joe Gorga ("The Real Housewives of New Jersey"), Harry Jowsey ("Let's Marry Harry"), Chelsea Lazkani ("Selling Sunset"), Debi Mazar ("Younger"), Bella Palk ("Love Overboard"), Bruno Tonioli ("Dancing With the Stars"), Aida Turitto ("The Sopranos") and more.

Donald Pleasence and Laurence Olivier in “Dracula” Ghostbusters

FX 3:00 PM
After losing their jobs at a university, scientists Peter Venkman (Bill Murray), Egon Spengler (Harold Ramis) and Ray Stantz (Dan Aykroyd) become Ghostbusters as New York faces a terrifying supernatural threat. Sigourney Weaver and Rick Moranis also star.

College Football

(22) 3:30 PM
It'll be a Southeastern showdown as the Florida Gators take on the Georgia Bulldogs at Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta. These Division I teams both bring a deadly bite to the field, but only one can rule the college football kingdom.

Adopting St. Nick

HALL 8:00 PM
Maren (Amy Groening) and her daughter Leah (Taylor Blake) decide to “adopt a grandparent” for the holiday season, and on their way to the retirement community, they cross paths with the program’s manager and the jolliest of residents.

Dracula

TCM 8:00 PM
In this 1979 classic, Van Helsing (Laurence Olivier) begins to investigate the curious Count Dracula (Frank Langella) and soon comes to discover the Count’s supernatural secret. Kate Nelligan, Jan Francis, Trevor Eve and Donald Pleasence also star.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I've been rewatching "The Mighty Ducks: The Animated Series" since we lost Tim Curry, and I have to ask: what came first between the "Mighty Ducks" movie and the Mighty Ducks NHL team?

came first, but it was closer than people might think.

The live-action Disney movie, about a youth hockey team coached reluctantly by a lawyer (played by Emilio Estevez, "Bobby," 2006) sentenced to community service, came out in October 1992.

Less than six months later, in March, Disney chairman Michael Eisner was at Anaheim Arena, standing in front of a group of National Hockey League and city officials, blowing a duck call and announcing the NHL's newest hockey team: the Mighty Ducks of Anaheim.

"We hope to lighten things up, make hockey a family sport, not just for a bunch of guys who are out looking for a fight," he said at the time.

Disney has maintained its entertainment interest in the branding, making two film sequels in 1994 and 1996, plus an animated series, also in 1996, that featured, as you say, the late legend Tim Curry ("Clue," 1985).

However, the company was ultimately less interested in the hockey side. It sold the team in 2005, at which point the team dropped the "Mighty" and officially became just the Anaheim Ducks.

Q: Is Uzo Aduba going to do more of "The Residence"? Is Cordelia Cupp a new series detective?

A: Unfortunately, things don't look good for Cordelia Cupp — though they look great for Uzo Aduba ("Orange Is the New Black").

Netflix's comedic whodunit series "The Residence" told a complete story (that is to say, the murder case was solved in the show's eighth and final episode), so it shouldn't be a complete surprise that it ended after a single season.

But as you say, it introduced its central character, Cordelia Cupp, a unique genius detective played by Uzo Aduba, in a way that suggested she could have many more adventures — think a female, northern version of Benoit Blanc (Daniel Craig, "Casino Royale," 2006) from "Knives Out" (2019) and its sequels.

But that now seems more like a storytelling device — a reference to previous beloved detectives such as Blanc and, of course, the granddaddy of them all: Sherlock Holmes. Like them, Cupp was abrupt to the point of rudeness but brilliant enough to be forgiven for it. And like them, Cupp was introduced as an already-famous genius with a mysterious backstory — suggesting more stories to come.

But there were no more Cupp stories. Netflix officially canceled "The Residence" in July 2025, just a few months after it aired.

But star Aduba didn't wait that long to see what would happen with the show. Later the same year, she appeared in the star-studded crime comedy "Roofman," and this past summer, she had a lead voice role in the children's animated series "Magicampers."

She also signed on to star in a big-screen adaptation of the play "Clybourne Park," but that's been in development since last year, so it's unclear if it's still happening. She's also attached to three other projects that are still at the script stage, though, so she won't be waiting long for her next screen project.
