Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Chocolate maker Lindt is currently facing a lawsuit over lead levels in its dark chocolate. No! I trusted you, mysterious beautiful chocolate chef man. What other scrumptious lies have you fed us? Do you really not make each ball one sexy whisk of dribble at a time and then stare longingly like you're waiting for it to dance for you?

Lunchables have been removed from the national school lunch program. The effects of this, of course, will be immediate and massive. First off, they'll have to change their name to "'Ables."

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Today [Nov. 14] is Red Cup Day at Starbucks, where customers who buy a coffee can get a limited-edition red holiday cup. ... Meanwhile, over at Dunkin' [Donuts], if you get a red cup, it's because the cashier is bleeding.

It was just announced that here in New York City, we are experiencing our first drought in over 20 years. Yeah, it's kind of upsetting because it means that all the puddles in the city right now are man-made.

President-elect Trump picked Dr. Oz to run the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services. Keep in mind, Trump thinks Dr. Oz is one of the characters in "Wicked."

It was so weird seeing Trump back in the White House. It's like if there was a sequel to "Snakes on a Plane" but this time the plane was all snakes.

Melania [Trump] did not take part in the customary first lady meeting with Dr. Jill Biden today. Apparently, she had crying in the dark scheduled for this morning instead.

Some Americans appear to have second-guessed their choice for president. According to Google on Election Day, in the states Trump won, searches skyrocketed for the phrase "how to change my vote." ... There aren't many things that explain this election better than the idea that there are people who believe voting is more flexible than Uber Eats.

Christmas on cable: 'Elf,' 'Home Alone' and 'Wonderful Life' make TV's Nice List

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

James Stewart and Donna Reed star in "It's a Wonderful Life"

It's the most wonderful time of the year for many — a time to shirk all that has been keeping you busy during the day-to-day and instead wake up to a home drenched in twinkly lights and take a deep, Proustian whiff of baking cookies while curling up in a cozy armchair with a hot cup of cocoa.

And whether you are wholeheartedly prepared to submit to the comfort of the season — or if you lead a more active, stressful lifestyle — cable television has all the classics lined up to make you feel like a kid again this Christmas Eve.

Beginning with the modern holiday fairytale "Elf" (2003) on AMC, be sure to pop over to ABC later in the day for the 1990 Christmas classic "Home Alone." Later, learn how angels get their wings with "It's a Wonderful Life" (1946) on NBC, or try your hand at some trivia and games when "Celebrity Jeopardy!" and "The Price is Right at Night: Holiday Heroes" air on ABC and CBS, respectively.

Kick-start your holiday viewing on Tuesday, Dec. 24, by "pass[ing] through the seven levels of the candy cane forest, through the sea of swirly-twirly gum drops" and over to AMC for director Jon Favreau's ("Chef," 2014) family-favorite film "Elf."

Heavily influenced by Christmas favorites that came before, such as Rankin and Bass's 1964 stop-motion animation classic "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" and the 1989 screwball comedy "National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation," "Elf" stars "Saturday Night Live" alum Will Ferrell as the titular elf, Buddy. When Buddy, who grew up at the North Pole as one of Santa's (Edward Asner, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show") elves, learns he is actually a human adopted into an elf family, he sets out to learn about his past.

Soon after bidding farewell to all manner of claymation animals and embarking on his journey of personal discovery, Buddy arrives in New York City to meet his father, children's book publishing executive Walter Hobbs (James Caan, "Misery," 1990). What Buddy wasn't prepared for, however, was for his father to be on Santa's Naughty List.

Co-starring Bob Newhart ("The Bob Newhart Show"), Zooey Deschanel ("New Girl"), Mary Steenburgen ("Step Brothers," 2008) and Daniel Tay ("Beer League," 2006), "Elf" also features special appearances from Peter Dinklage ("Game of Thrones") as kid-lit hot shot Miles Finch and Peter Billingsley — famous for playing the role of Ralphie in "A Christmas Story" (1983) — as Ming Ming the elf.

After "spread[ing] Christmas cheer by singing loud for all to hear," switch over to ABC for some home safety dos and don'ts with crafty kid Kevin McCallister (Macaulay Culkin, "My Girl," 1991) in the original "Home Alone."

During a hectic night before a big family trip to Paris, Kevin is sent to the attic bedroom by his parents to reflect on his poor behavior at the dinner table. Begrudgingly wishing he didn't have a family to push him around, Kevin awakens the following morning to find his family has left for France without him. At first confused and upset, Kevin soon realizes that his Christmas wish has been granted.

But when a pair of burglars show up to rob the McCallister house while they're on vacation, Kevin finds himself at the helm of a series of contraptions meant to protect himself and the family home. Likewise, the burglars find they are in for their toughest job yet.

Co-starring Catherine O'Hara ("Schitt's Creek"), Joe Pesci ("Goodfellas," 1990), Daniel Stern ("The Wonder Years"), John Heard ("The Guardian," 2006) and Roberts Blossom ("The Quick and the Dead," 1995), "Home Alone" is a Christmas classic that teaches the importance of having a support system and of never giving up on the power of family.

Next up on television's Nice List this Christmas Eve is 1946's "It's a Wonderful Life," starring James Stewart ("Vertigo," 1958) as crisis-bound Bedford Falls banker George Bailey.

Follow along from an omniscient perspective as Bailey grows from a young, hopeful graduate into a dutiful husband and father of four during World War II. As a Good Samaritan and the new owner/operator of Bailey Bros. Building and Loan, George feels the hectic world around him would be better if he had simply never existed. As his despair grows, an angel (Henry Travers, "The Invisible Man," 1933) arrives on Earth to show him just how different the lives of his loved ones would be without him.

Directed by Frank Capra ("You Can't Take It with You," 1938), this Christmas classic co-stars Donna Reed ("From Here to Eternity," 1953), Lionel Barrymore ("Key Largo," 1948), Thomas Mitchell ("Gone With the Wind," 1939) and Gloria Grahame ("The Big Heat," 1953).

For additional — or short-form — holiday viewing that is a bit lighter on sentiment, gather friends and family and turn the TV over to ABC to play along with a rebroadcast of "Celebrity Jeopardy!," starring Home Alone franchise lead Macaulay Culkin. Afterward, tackle an episode of "The Price Is Right at Night: Holiday Heroes," airing on CBS.

Plenty of holiday viewing awaits this week, so grab the blankets, huddle up with those closest to you and enjoy the multi-network entertainment. Happy Holidays, one and all!

Back in the game: A returning player tries to bring down the 'Squid Game'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Lee Jung-jae stars in "Squid Game"

Times are tough. A deadly game with a life-changing purse awaiting the winner entices people surviving on the edge to risk it all for a chance at prosperity. The Emmy-winning global sensation "Squid Game" returns Thursday, Dec. 26, for a second season on Netflix. If you're ready to hang on to the edge of your seat during the intense, emotional action after the holiday cheer, then get settled in for a binge.

The first season of "Squid Game" depicted the 33rd annual secretive event in which 456 carefully chosen players, secluded on a private island estate, competed in a series of children's games — with lethal consequences for failure. The last player standing collected a grand prize of 45.6 billion South Korean won — 100 million won for each player who died in the game — more than enough to start over with if they can get over the brutality of the games.

In a trailer for the upcoming season, last season's winner, Seong Gi-hun (Lee Jung-jae, "The Acolyte"), requests to return to the island for entry into another round of killer schoolyard games. This time, however, he intends to put an end to the exploitative games forever. A nearly impossible task on its own, Gi-hun's quest is made even more difficult as he tries to convince a new batch of desperate players to fight back when the glowing, golden piggy bank hangs over their bunks.

Returning alongside Lee Jung-jae is Lee Byung-hun ("The Magnificent Seven," 2016) as the Front Man, the director of the games. Gi-hun and police officer Hwang Jun-ho (Wi Ha-joon, "Little Women"), another returning character from the first season, have the Front Man in an uncomfortable position with their knowledge of the games and desire to destroy them.

While other officers initially brushed off Gi-hun's wild tale of being abducted to the games in the first season, it was Jun-ho who set off to investigate. He sneaked onto the island and found that his long-lost brother, In-ho, was not in fact missing all of these years but had become the Front Man. The two faced off and Jun-ho was shot in a literal cliffhanger but managed to mysteriously survive.

Also returning is Gong Yoo ("Train to Busan," 2016) as the Salesman. New cast additions this season include Yim Si-wan ("Road to Boston"), Kang Ha-neul ("Insider"), Park Gyu-young ("A Good Day to Be a Dog"), Lee Jin-wook ("Sweet Home"), Park Sung-hoon ("Queen of Tears"), Yang Dong-geun ("Moving"), Kang Ae-shim ("A Virtuous Business"), Lee David ("The Fortress," 2017), Choi Seung-hyun ("Secret Message"), Roh Jae-won ("Daily Dose of Sunshine"), Jo Yu-ri ("Mimicus") and Won Ji-an ("Heartbeat").

If you missed all of the hype around the show's debut season the first time around, here is a quick primer on the events that took place. A critical commentary on class structure and capitalism in South Korea, the first season of "Squid Game" was about a group of people who were all living under the weight of massive debts. Significant gambling debts had made Gi-hun an unreliable father and son, leaving him little to lose when the Salesman offered him a chance to win his way out from under through the mysterious games.

Accepting the offer, Gi-hun was drugged and abducted to the games' grounds, waking just early enough to get a few glimpses of his surroundings and the uniformed game enforcers transporting them. Clad in numbered tracksuits, the 456 players soon began participating in the gruesome games. One wrong step, a shaky hand or a bad toss of a marble led to instant death for those unfortunate players, their portion of the prize dropping into the piggy bank after the game. Skeptical from the beginning, Gi-hun uncovered a conspiracy within the games that, even after his win, urged him to seek revenge.

Series director and executive producer Hwang Dong-hyuk ("Silenced," 2011) confirmed that "Squid Game" will end with its third season, planned release in 2025. However, that's not the end of the games on Netflix. Reality competition series "Squid Game: The Challenge" was one of the most talked-about series of 2023, replicating the games themselves and ethos of the scripted series without assassinations.

Squid Game: Unleashed, a new mobile game from Netflix, lets players compete in digital versions of the games from the show. Finally, there are rumors around Hollywood, reported by Deadline, that director David Fincher ("The Killer," 2023) is in talks to adapt an English-language version of the Korean series for the streamer.

Get ready for more dystopian thrills when a new season of "Squid Game" premieres Thursday, Dec. 26, on Netflix.

Revisit Grammy history during a star-studded special event

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Grammy's greatest: From Domenico Modugno's "Nel Blu Dipinto Di Blu" to Beyoncé's "Texas Hold 'Em," "Grammy Greats: The Story Behind the Songs" shines a spotlight on the music industry's best as it airs Friday, Dec. 27, on CBS.

Hosted by Gayle King ("CBS Mornings") and singer Mickey Guyton ("Make It Me"), the event looks at some of the most iconic and unforgettable songs to be awarded wins across the Grammy's rich 65-year history, with interviews from iconic singers, songwriters and producers further expanding upon the top artists, songs and collaborations that have made the music industry what it is today.

Throughout the special, music fans can expect interviews with past Grammy winners, including: Billie Eilish ("What Was I Made For?"), who holds nine wins and 32 nominations; Richard Marx ("Right Here Waiting"), who won Song of the Year for "Dance with My Father" in 2003; Alicia Keys ("Girl on Fire"), with 16 Grammy wins; John Mayer ("Waiting on the World to Change"), who won his first Grammy in 2002 for "Your Body is a Wonderland" and has won six more since; Kenny Loggins ("Footloose"), who has earned himself two wins and 12 nominations since 1973; Doobie Brothers member Michael McDonald ("Listen to the Music"), who has five Grammys, including one for his R&B single "Yah Mo B There"; Brandi Carlile ("The Story"), a staple of the event since 2016, with 11 wins to her name; Bonnie Raitt ("I Can't Make You Love Me"), with 13 wins; Police group member Sting ("Every Breath You Take"), who in 1980 earned his first of 17 Grammys; Lady A ("Need You Now"), toting six previous Grammy wins; and producer Mark Ronson ("Uptown Funk"), who rounds out the night's speakers with eight wins of his own.

Gayle King co-hosts "Grammy Greats: The Stories Behind the Songs"

Currently, one artist in particular holds two groundbreaking Grammy records. As a singer, songwriter and producer, Beyoncé ("Single Ladies") has earned herself 32 Grammy wins, across categories such as Best R&B Song, Album of the Year and Song of the Year. Previously, this honor was held by conductor Georg Solti, who earned a total of 31 Grammys for works featuring Sebastian Bach, Béla Bartok and Richard Wagner. Beyoncé, however, earned her spot in the history books with a win for "Break My Soul" in 2023, and with enough nominations — 99 in total — to earn herself a second spot at the top.

No matter your music taste, celebrate the best of the best with "Grammy Greats: The Story Behind the Songs," airing Friday, Dec. 27, on CBS.

Comic relief: Known for his deadpan, self-deprecating and down-to-earth sense of humor, the "Nicest Man in Stand-Up" (per The Atlantic) debuts his most recent comedy special, "Your Friend, Nate Bargatze," Tuesday, Dec. 24, on Netflix.

"In his third Netflix special," the streamer promises, "Nate Bargatze tackles pizza-ordering strategies for guys night, wanting a second dog and relying on his responsible wife."

As the world's top-earning comic (according to Pollstar), Bargatze has certainly been in high demand. In the past year alone, the comedian has taken to the stage to host "Saturday Night Live" for a second time, has produced an hourlong, holiday-themed variety show for CBS — "Nate Bargatze's Nashville Christmas," which features a mix of stand-up, comedy shorts, sketches and musical performances — and he has broken countless arena records during his ongoing tour, "Nate Bargatze: The Be Funny Tour." All the while, Bargatze has found the time to finish writing his first book, "Big Dumb Eyes: Stories from a Simpler Mind," which is scheduled to come out in May 2025.

Impressive in and of itself, these accomplishments don't include Bargatze's past stand-up specials, which have set records of their own. An article written by The Hollywood Reporter spoke highly of the comedian, sharing: "Bargatze's first solo hour for Netflix, 'The Tennessee Kid,' premiered to raves in 2019. Some two years later, he released 'The Greatest Average American,' which earned a Grammy nomination for best comedy album. In 2023, he jumped to Amazon, where 'Nate Bargatze: Hello World' continues to hold the record as Amazon's most-streamed original comedy special in its first month. ... As THR previously reported, he's now said to be getting recognition as a top-tier comic at Netflix, both in terms of compensation and boss Ted Sarandos' [co-CEO of Netflix] attention."

Directed by Ryan Polito ("Tom Segura: Sledgehammer," 2023), and executive produced by Bargatze, Alex Murray ("Lights Out with David Spade"), Tim Sarkes ("Mr. Show with Bob and David") and go-to comedy producer John Irwin — who was previously credited on specials such as "Seth Myers: Dad Man Walking" (2024), "Ali Wong: Single Lady" (2024), "Nick Kroll: Little Big Boy" (2022), "Pete Davidson Presents: The Best Friends" (2022) and "Hannah Gadsby: Douglas" (2020) — "Your Friend, Nate Bargatze," the latest special in a string of top-notch performances, premieres Tuesday, Dec. 24, on Netflix.

"NFL on Christmas"

Fill your Christmas Day with the kickoff of an all-new football experience when Netflix's "NFL on Christmas" games stream Wednesday, Dec. 25. Streaming two games live back-to-back, the holiday kicks off with the Super Bowl LVII-winning Kansas City Chiefs taking on the Pittsburgh Steelers at 1 p.m. ET at Acrisure Stadium in Pittsburgh. Then, the Baltimore Ravens go helmet-to-helmet against the Houston Texans at NRG Stadium, streaming live at 4:30 p.m. ET. But the Christmas cheer doesn't stop there. Global superstar Beyoncé headlines the halftime show for the Ravens-Texans game, kicking off Netflix's first annual streaming event — expected to be a new holiday tradition — with a bang. While details of Beyoncé's performance are being kept tightly under wraps, fans can look forward to the likelihood of some special guest performers, along with performances of both her classic hits and new songs from her "Cowboy Carter" album.

"Polo"

From Archewell Productions and Boardwalk Pictures, and executive produced by Prince Harry and Meghan, the Duke and Duchess of Sussex ("Live to Lead"), the docuseries "Polo," available now on Netflix, welcomes its viewers into a world of grit, perseverance and horseback battles . According to the streamer, the series joins some of the world's greatest polo players as they congregate in Wellington, Florida, for the US Open Polo Championship. There, viewers are given unprecedented access to those involved in the game, who "[reveal] the grit behind the glamor," according to Prince Harry. Episodes are set to feature the likes of Adolfo Cambiaso of team Valiente, regarded as one of the greatest polo players of all time; Poroto Cambiaso from team La Dolfina, the son of the legendary Adolfo Cambiaso; Louis Devaleix of team La Fe, a late bloomer who started playing at the age of 38, in 2020; Timmy Dutta from team Dutta Corp, a player working hard to earn the respect of his father, the team's owner; Keko Magrini from team Coca-Cola, who emerged on the scene at only 16 years old in 2021; and Nacho Figueras, a renowned Argentine polo player who is featured in the series as an expert on the sport, while also serving as a consulting producer.

"The Kings of Tupelo: A Southern Crime Saga"

Directed by brothers Chapman and Maclain Way ("Untold") and with music composed by Brocker Way ("Death and Other Details"), the jaw-dropping docuseries, "The Kings of Tupelo: A Southern Crime Saga," is now available to stream on Netflix. Over three episodes, we hear of a small-town feud in Tupelo, Mississippi — the birthplace of the great Elvis Presley ("Hound Dog") — that led to a complex internet conspiracy, and involved the likes of Eelvis impersonators, black market organ trafficking and the attempted assassination of an American president. As Tupelo natives, brothers Paul and Jack Curtis were both raised to love the singer in question, soon forming "Double Trouble," an Elvis revue. All goes well until Curtis uncovers a shocking discovery in a local morgue, that soon births a world-changing conspiracy and changes the brothers' lives, while shining light on the dark side of Mississippi. Produced by C2 Pictures and Stardust Frames Productions, "The Kings of Tupelo: A Southern Crime Saga" comes from executive producers Juliana Lembi ("Wild Wild Country"), Dave Caplan ("The Ministry of Ungentlemanly Warfare," 2024), Greg Berlanti ("Brilliant Minds"), Sarah Schechter ("Red, White & Royal Blue," 2023), David Madden ("The Hand That Rocks the Cradle," 1992) and Mike Darnell ("American Idol").

"Your Fault (Culpa Tuya)" (2024)

Directed by Domingo Gonzalez and released as a sequel to his 2023 film "My Fault," the new romantic drama "Your Fault (Culpa Tuya)" makes its debut on Prime Video this Friday, Dec. 27. Based on the "Culpables" series, written by author Mercedes Ron, this second installment in the franchise follows the ongoing romance between Nick (Gabriel Guevara, "Red Flags") and Noah (Nicole Wallace, "Raising Voices"), who have kept their relationship strong despite their parents' efforts to separate them. Now, as one starts university and the other enters the professional world, the couple faces a seemingly endless road of new hurdles, including the reappearance of Nick's vindictive ex-girlfriend. Steamy and dramatic, "Your Fault (Culpa Tuya)" is written for the screen by Gonzalez, Ron and Sofia Cuenca ("Paradise Hills," 2019), and also stars Gabriela Andrada ("Lost & Found," 2022), Alex Béjar ("Elite"), Marta Hazas ("Hotel Bitcoin," 2024), Felipe Londono ("Wrong Side of the Tracks"), Fran Morcillo ("My Heart Goes Boom!," 2020), Javier Morgade ("Before the Eruption," 2021), Jose Palacios ("The Champion," 2024), Eva Ruiz ("My Fault," 2023), Ivan Sanchez ("Backseat Fighter," 2016) and Goya Toledo ("The Cliff," 2016). Carolina Bang ("30 Coins) and Alex de la Iglesia ("The Bar," 2017) are producers.

"When You Finish Saving the World" (2023)

Being a teenager is tough, but so is being a grown-up. Written and directed by Jesse Eisenberg ("The Social Network," 2010) in his feature directorial debut, "When You Finish Saving the World" makes its Prime Video premiere Friday, Dec. 27. Stuck in a difficult dynamic, Evelyn (Julianne Moore, "Boogie Nights," 1997) and her son, Ziggy (Finn Wolfhard, "Stranger Things"), can never quite see eye-to-eye. While she works at a local shelter and eagerly tries to get her son to help out, Ziggy prefers staying at home and making music, leaving both of them lonely and not-quite fulfilled. In the midst of their ever-growing distance, Evelyn finds herself growing attached to a teenager living in the shelter, Kyle (Billy Bryk, "Hell of a Summer," 2023), while Ziggy develops an obsession with his brilliant classmate, Lila (Alisha Boe, "Do Revenge," 2022). Produced by Emma Stone ("La La Land," 2016), Dave McCary ("Saturday Night Live") and Ali Herting ("Bodies Bodies Bodies," 2022), this one-of-a-kind coming-of-age story also stars Jack Justice ("Daybreak"), Jay O. Sanders ("The Day After Tomorrow," 2004), Eleonore Hendricks ("My First Film," 2024), Catherine Haun ("Mrs. Murphy's Confession," 2018), Annacheska Brown ("Roswell, New Mexico") and Sara Anne ("The Chosen").

"The Equalizer 2" (2018)

Some may not think it's a Christmas movie, but we sure do. 2018's "The Equalizer 2" comes to Prime Video this Wednesday, Dec. 25, injecting a dose of high-octane action into the holidays. The second film in the Equalizer trilogy, this installment sees retired DIA officer Robert McCall (Denzel Washington, "Fences," 2016) returning to the game, searching for revenge following the death of a close friend. Acting as the fourth collaboration between Washington and director Antoine Fuqua ("Emancipation," 2022), "The Equalizer 2" is based on the television series "The Equalizer" created by Michael Sloan and Richard Lindheim, with a screenplay by Richard Wenk ("The Magnificent Seven," 2016). The film also stars Pedro Pascal ("The Last of Us") as Dave York alongside Ashton Sanders ("Moonlight," 2016), Orson Bean ("Being John Malkovich," 1999), Bill Pullman ("Independence Day," 1996) Melissa Leo ("The Fighter," 2010), Jonathan Scarfe ("Van Helsing"), Sakina Jaffrey ("Billions"), and Kazy Tauginas ("Dolemite Is My Name," 2019).

Big name bakers

Actors tackle the tent in the 'Bake-Off' holiday special

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Grab your seat at the table: the third annual special "The Great American Baking Show: Celebrity Holiday" is available to stream now on Roku.

Riffing off "The Great British Baking Show," this festive event turns the high-stakes competition on its head, offering a more relaxed vibe — at least for some contestants — as some of Hollywood's top celebrities take their turn in the famed "Bake-Off" tent.

Hosted by "Severance" actor Zach Cherry and comedian Casey Wilson ("Adult Best Friends," 2024) — who are, of course, joined by the incomparable Paul Hollywood and Pure Leith, two esteemed judges from "The Great British Baking Show" — the special keeps quite close to the show's normal format, with competitors asked to compete in three rounds: a signature bake, a blind technical challenge and a showstopper surprise.

"Like those who have come before them, the quintet will descend upon the show's iconic white tent in the English countryside to compete in a series of festive baking assignments to win the coveted Star Baker crown," People magazine explained in an exclusive article regarding the show.

This year, Emmy nominee Anthony Anderson ("Black-ish"), comedian Rob Riggle ("Step Brothers," 2008), "SNL" cast member Vanessa Bayer, award-winning host Loni Love ("The Real") and actor Susie Essman ("Curb Your Enthusiasm") step in as the bakers in question, each bringing their own "spice" to the competition, despite lacking the skills held by most "Bake-Off" competitors.

Paul Hollywood, Zach Cherry, Dame Prue Leith and Casey Wilson in "The Great American Baking Show"

As veteran Leith explains in a trailer for the special: "The great thing about American celebrities is they're there to enjoy themselves."

"I have no idea what I'm doing," Essman says, proving the judge's point only seconds later. "I'm not winning this one, I'm telling you right now."

Others, however, are angling for a win. "I have been practicing," Bayer insists. "At the end of the day, I'm not here to bake friends."

Previous years of this holiday special have seen the likes of D'Arcy Carden ("The Good Place"), Liza Koshy ("Work It," 2020), former NFL player Marshawn Lynch ("Bottoms," 2023), Nat Faxon ("The Way Back," 2013), Chloe Fineman ("Saturday Night Live"), Joel Kim Booster ("Fire Island," 2022), Arturo Castro ("Broad City"), NBA player DeAndre Jordan, Joel McHale ("Community"), Heather McMahan ("Love Hard," 2021), Ego Nwodim ("Saturday Night Live") and Phoebe Robinson ("Everything's Trash") compete.

But once again, only one can win the 2024 edition of "The Great American Baking Show: Celebrity Holiday," now streaming on Roku.

Freddy Lupin in "200% Wolf"

Wunmi Mosaku, Anna Kendrick and Kaniehtiio Horn in "Alice, Darling"

"200% Wolf" (2024)

Prepare for a howling good time as the animated film "200% Wolf" makes its debut on Hulu this Thursday, Dec. 26. The sequel to 2020's "100% Wolf" — both based on The Werewolf Saga, written by Jayne Lyons — this family-friendly flick follows the story of a brave poodle named Freddy Lupin, a dog who thinks he has what it takes to be the top of his werewolf-filled pack despite lacking their same "wolfishness." When a wayward wish grants him the power of transformation, however, not everything is as perfect as Freddy hoped. When granted his dream of being a werewolf, Freddy also unleashes a mischievous moon spirit, who threatens to upend all cosmic order in the universe. Hoping to fix his mistake, Freddy enlists his pack to join him on a perilous search for a sorceress who can undo his wish and stop the spirit before it causes total chaos. Directed by Alexs Stadermann ("Maya the Bee Movie," 2014), "200% Wolf" features a talented voice acting cast that includes the likes of Ilai Swindells ("Bay of Fires"), Elizabeth Nabben ("The Nightingale," 2018), Jennifer Saunders ("Absolutely Fabulous"), Peter McAllum ("The Tunnel," 2011) and Samara Weaving ("Ready or Not," 2019). With a screenplay written by Fin Edquist ("Maya the Bee Movie," 2014), "200% Wolf" is produced by Alexia Gates-Foale ("Moon Girl and Devil Dinosaur"), Tracy Lenon ("Mia and Me: The Hero of Centopia," 2022), Barbara Stephen ("100% Wolf: Legend of the Moonstone") and Carmen Perez-Marsa Roca ("Maya the Bee 3: The Golden Orb," 2021).

"Alice, Darling" (2022)

Starring Anna Kendrick ("Woman of the Hour," 2023), the psychological thriller "Alice, Darling" premieres Saturday, Dec. 28, on Hulu. Trapped in an emotionally abusive relationship with her boyfriend Simon (Charlie Carrick, "Deep Water"), a young woman named Alice (Kendrick) reluctantly agrees to take a vacation with her friends Tess (Kaniehtiio Horn, "Letterkenny") and Sophie (Wunmi Mosaku, "Deadpool & Wolverine," 2024) as an escape from her difficult day-to-day life. While her friends attempt to intervene and convince Alice that the situation she's in is not a healthy one, Simon tracks the trio down and does his best to convince Alice that she belongs with him and with no one else. The directorial debut for actress Mary Nighy ("Marie Antoinette," 2006), "Alice, Darling" is written by Alanna Francis ("The Rest of Us," 2019). The film also stars Mark Winnick ("Something You Said Last Night," 2022), Daniel Stolfi ("The Naughty Nine," 2023) and Carolyn Fe ("Mother!," 2017). Kendrick, Adrian Love ("The Mother and the Bear," 2024), Laurie May ("The Man Who Invented Christmas," 2017) and Sam Tipper-Hale ("Too Good to Be True") are executive producers.

"Amber Alert" (2024)

Sometimes, being a Good Samaritan comes with a price. The thriller film "Amber Alert" comes to Hulu this Saturday, Dec. 28, taking its viewers on the ride of a lifetime. When a little girl, Charlotte (Ducky Branson, "Perimortem," 2022), is kidnapped, the police do their best to intervene, sending out an Amber Alert to describe the girl's appearance and the car that took her. Unsuspecting ride-share passenger Jacqueline (Hayden Panettiere, "Remember the Titans," 2000) — simply on her way to work — finds herself teaming up with her driver, Shane (Tyler James Williams, "Abbott Elementary"), when they realize the suspected car is driving right in front of them, and that they might be the only ones able to save young Charlotte's life. Also starring Kevin Dunn ("Transformers," 2007), Saidah Arrika Ekulona ("The Life of Chuck," 2024), Kurt Oberhaus ("A Lion's Game," 2024), Katie McClellan ("21 Bridges," 2019), Claire Slemmer ("The Insider," 1999) and Dinora Walcott ("Churchy"), "Amber Alert" is directed by Kerry Bellessa ("Immanence," 2022) and written by Bellessa and Joshua Oram ("Immanence," 2022).

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I finally found "A Smoky Mountain Christmas," with Dolly Parton, and I can't figure out where I know the judge from. It's a smaller part towards the end, but there's no credit for him. Can you help me put a name to the face?

A: His name might have leapt to your mind more easily if you were watching "A Smoky Mountain Christmas" when it first aired back in 1986: the actor doing an uncredited cameo as the judge was '80s sitcom icon John Ritter.

Best known as chef and would-be ladies' man Jack Tripper in "Three's Company" from 1976 to 1984, Ritter actually had a long and prolific career that reaches all the way back to the late '60s.

But, when he did a pop-in for Dolly Parton's now-legendary (though, as you say, often hard-to-find) Christmas special in 1986, he was both riding high on his "Three's Company" success and also struggling to repeat it.

"Three's Company" ended in 1984, and Ritter immediately launched a spinoff, "Three's a Crowd," which only lasted a season. A year after "Smoky Mountain Christmas," in 1987, he launched a new sitcom, "Hooperman," in which he played a San Francisco cop who also owns a run-down apartment building. That one only lasted two seasons.

Indeed, it took nearly 15 years before he had his next bona fide sitcom hit with "8 Simple Rules," starring as family patriarch Paul Hennessy.

Ritter was far from the only famous person to climb Smoky Mountain for an appearance. "Star Trek: Deep Space Nine" fans would recognize Rene Auberjonois (who played the security officer, Odo, on the sci-fi hit) as Parton's manager, Ned. And, of course, the very descriptively named character Mountain Dan was played by none other than "The Six Million Dollar Man" star Lee Majors.

Q: Call me crazy, but were the theme songs for "Family Matters" and "Full House" sung by the same person? Are they still working?

A: Hi, crazy. Yes, they were sung by the same person, and he's more popular than ever.

I should apologize for that very old "call me" joke, but I won't. It's the sort of gentle humor that characterized ABC's TGIF sitcom block, whose sound was largely defined by one man: Jesse Frederick.

He might push back against the "one man" idea, since he co-wrote the theme songs for "Family Matters" and "Full House," as well as fellow TGIF hit "Step By Step," with longtime writing partner Bennett Salvay.

But Frederick's voice is the one that rings in people's heads as they remember those themes. (Frederick and Salvay also wrote the theme for "Perfect Strangers," but they farmed out the performance to another singer.)

And it continues to ring. Frederick is still getting TV credits today, as those classic theme songs are referenced in such modern shows as "The Masked Singer" (in 2022) and "Only Murders in the Building" (earlier this year).

He's also getting new work — sort of, anyway. When Netflix rebooted "Full House" in 2016 as "Fuller House," they tapped Frederick and Salvay to once again compose music for the show. And, he worked with "The Tonight Show" in 2018 to write and perform a theme song for a parody they did of those old sitcoms. It was called "Play By Play" and featured the stars of that year's NBA draft.

Q: What's Penn Badgley doing next after "You"?

A: It's hard to tell from the tone of your question whether this will be news to you or not: "You" is not quite done yet, and so Badgley hasn't announced his next project.

It's been more than a year since the last season of "You" (its fourth) ended, so perhaps you thought it was done. But Badgley, previously best known for his leading role in the CW teen drama "Gossip Girl," announced this summer that filming of the fifth and final season of "You" had just wrapped. No release date has been announced yet, but we can probably expect it sometime midway through 2025.

There will almost certainly be some people surprised to hear "You" made it through five seasons. It seemed at first like the kind of high-concept show that's not designed to last long.

It follows a man named Joe Goldberg (Badgley), who we soon learn is stalking a woman he's obsessed with. And it gets weirder from there as the audience is asked to identify, to some degree at least, with an obviously bad person as he narrates his obviously bad thoughts.

Yet "You" was a surprise hit for Netflix, and it's taken Badgley from teen heartthrob to full star. So whatever his next role is, it's almost guaranteed to be a big one.
