In 2021, after the whole “Trump sent a mob to storm the capitol” thing, they added a label that included content about Trump’s two impeachments. But then, according to an insider last month, they removed the label as part of a content review following pressure from the White House. That kind of pressure explains why the Smithsonian exhibit on the 1960s now says that the Vietnam War was started by Jimmy Kimmel.

Come on. If you’re going to completely make up presidential history, make it fun. Like this. Zachary Taylor’s favorite meat was squirrel. It used to be a delicacy, but we don’t eat it now because of woke.

We have a special theme for the show tonight, or at least for the monologue. It’s a through line that seems to be running through everything lately and that through line is stupid. This is going to be a stupid show and why not? Look around you. We’re living in the golden age of stupid. Right now, we are unable to distinguish between fiction and fact. We seem to have learned nothing from the past; science is now a matter of opinion. According to researchers at Johns Hopkins University, since the pandemic, vaccination rates for measles, mumps and rubella are waning. Fewer people are getting them for themselves and for their kids. Turns out the only thing we learned from COVID is how to make sourdough bread.

The real story: Citizen reporter sheds light on the darkness in 'The Lowdown'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Southwestern dust covers a lot of truths behind mysterious tales in Oklahoma. One perhaps foolishly fearless citizen journalist, however, is dead set on sweeping his way to the bottom of things in the new FX series "The Lowdown," premiering Tuesday, Sept. 23 on the network, and streaming the next day on Hulu. Ethan Hawke ("Moon Knight") stars as Lee Raybon, a self-taught reporter with an obsessive interest in skeletons hiding in a powerful Tulsa, Oklahoma, family's closet.

Devoted to his truth-finding mission, Lee gets beat up, knocked out, taken hostage and threatened in the official trailer for the upcoming series. Hawke is perfectly sleazy as Lee, who lives in the rare bookstore he operates when he isn't following the trail of one of his conspiracies. As described by FX, "while Lee's no idealist, he's fiercely committed to exposing corruption and unearthing the city's hidden rot, even when it puts him at risk."

However, Lee's commitment to the greater good leaves him lacking in other areas of his life. His 14-year-old daughter Francis, portrayed by "Skeleton Crew" actress Ryan Kiera Armstrong, is often the one left behind when truth comes calling. Despite her father's proclivity for absenteeism, Francis longs to follow in his footsteps and go where her curiosity leads her.

The case that starts this particular one of Lee's spirals centers around the Washberg family. Following the publication of Lee's exposé on the local bigwigs, one unsavory member of the family meets an unfortunate, suspicious end. Dale Washberg's (Tim Blake Nelson, "Poker Face") alleged suicide doesn't sit right with Lee, who starts following a trail of breadcrumbs left by the dead man that points in a different direction than the official story.

Dale's widow, Betty Jo (Jeanne Tripplehorn, "The Gilded Age"), piques Lee's interest when her grief over her late husband quickly sends her closer to her brother-in-law, whose local political profile is heating up. Gubernatorial candidate Donald Washberg (Kyle MacLachlan, "Overcompensating") is paid a visit by Lee in a public urinal of all places in the series trailer. In another scene, the two exchange pointed words, both onto each other.

Up against a family with all the resources in the world to take him down and keep Lee from reaching the ultimate truth that they want to stay hidden, one mysterious man has got the unorthodox journalist's back. Marty, portrayed by seasoned scene stealer Keith David ("Duster"), pops up at random to encourage Lee in his Washberg investigation.

Also starring in "The Lowdown" are Kaniehtiio Horn ("Letterkenny"), Siena East ("The Sex Lives of College Girls"), Scott Shepherd ("True Detective"), Tracy Letts ("Winning Time: The Rise of the Lakers Dynasty"), Macon Blair ("Oppenheimer," 2023), Killer Mike ("Billions"), Cody Lightning ("Echo"), Michael Hitchcock ("Black Monday") and Peter Dinklage ("Dexter: Resurrection").

The new series even had a festival premiere at TIFF. The festival's Prime-time program celebrated 10 years of featuring series from around the world, with "The Lowdown" opening this year's installment alongside five other world premieres.

"The Lowdown" comes from the creator of the Peabody Award-winning FX dramedy "Reservation Dogs," Sterlin Harjo, who wrote, directed and executive produced the new series. Bringing another story of Oklahoma to FX, Harjo was inspired by a real person, very close to home, when writing Lee.

Harjo told the Los Angeles Times in an interview in August, "the story is fictional, but the character was inspired by someone I worked with named Lee Roy Chapman at This Land Press magazine. He was very much a soldier for truth and I would ride shotgun and make these videos about the underground, unknown histories of Tulsa."

Chapman founded the Center for Public Secrets to house neglected stories of Oklahoma's history, including the video series he and Harjo worked on, appropriately named "Public Secrets." About the series, Harjo said, "it was about a pent-up need for truth in this city. That push to tell the truth and find truth and tell our story and create a narrative around us. It gave us and the city an identity, something to hold on to."

"The Lowdown" joins a few mighty recent projects that have brought aspects of Oklahoma's hidden history to light across genres and formats. The crime drama, of course, joins Harjo's last series with FX, "Reservation Dogs," which offered a grounded portrayal of life on a rural Oklahoma reservation through the eyes of a group of teens. The incredible cast of newcomers and veteran actors and writing that leaned into humor and away from melodrama made for a moving watch.

The 2023 Martin Scorsese-directed Apple TV+ film "Killers of the Flower Moon" received 10 Academy Award nominations and helped make Lily Gladstone ("The Wedding Banquet," 2025) a household name. Inspired by the 2017 non-fiction book of the same name, the drama told the story of the systemic killing of Osage people in 1920s Oklahoma after oil was discovered on their land.

"Watchmen," the 2019 HBO limited series that served as a sequel to the 1986 comic book of the same name, was set in an alternate universe's present-day Tulsa. The series, which won several Emmy awards at the 2020 ceremony, highlighted the 1921 Tulsa race massacre.

Don't miss the premiere of "The Lowdown," Tuesday, Sept. 23, on FX, and streaming the next day on Hulu.

Brewing up drama: 'House of Guinness' unveils history of 'Black Gold'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Nestled snugly in the heart of Dublin's Liberties neighborhood lies St. James's Gate, an area of town that served as the city's western entrance during the Middle Ages. Now a relatively unassuming access to the country's most popular brewery-cum-tourist attraction, St. James's Gate could, in some ways, be considered Ireland's gateway to the rest of the world. For what represents Ireland better than a Guinness?

"House of Guinness," premiering Thursday, Sept. 25, on Netflix, takes viewers beyond the storied gate and into the family drama, socioeconomic and religious politics and entrepreneurial schemes of Ireland's most esteemed brewing dynasty.

Best characterized as a family-succession period drama, "House of Guinness" comes from film and television triple threat Steven Knight, who also created the award-winning English gangster drama "Peaky Blinders," starring Cillian Murphy ("Oppenheimer," 2023) and Paul Anderson ("Sherlock Holmes: A Game of Shadows," 2011).

"House of Guinness" explores an epic story inspired by one of Europe's most famous and enduring dynasties — the Guinness family," reads the official description, as reported by Netflix's press site, Tudum. "Set in 19th-century Dublin and New York, the story begins immediately after the death of Sir Benjamin Guinness, the man responsible for the extraordinary success of the Guinness brewery, and the far-reaching impact of his will on the fate of his four adult children, Arthur, Edward, Anne and Ben, as well as on a group of Dublin characters who work and interact with the phenomenon that is Guinness."

As divulged by the trailer, upon Sir Benjamin's death, the patriarch split his "brewery concerns" between his eldest son, Arthur, played in the Netflix series by "Masters of the Air" star Anthony Boyle, and his third child and youngest son, Edward, who is portrayed on screen by "Enola Holmes" (2020) and "Disclaimer's" Louis Partridge. This decision ultimately excluded the remaining two Guinness children, second-born son Benjamin

Fionn O'Shea, Louis Partridge, Anthony Boyle and Emily Fairn star in "House of Guinness"

(Fionn O'Shea, "Normal People") and sole daughter Anne (Emily Fairn, "The Responder"), which caused its own unique brand of chaos within the family.

"Here's a deceased father deciding the fate of his children," Knight told Tudum during a promotional interview for the show. "The will determines the trajectory of each of those siblings. What's a better place to start a drama than that? They all receive whatever they receive. None of them are happy."

But, of course, it isn't just the surviving Guinnesses' fates that are about to change with the 1868 death of their father, but Ireland's fate as a whole, given that political unrest continues to grow in the face of ongoing British control over Irish affairs. And while the Home Rule campaign to build a Dublin-based Irish Parliament is gaining traction across the country at this time, there is still plenty left to get done leading up to the big rebellion on Easter 1916.

"The decisions these characters make about personal issues will have consequences for the future of Ireland, which is quite a burden," Knight explained to Tudum. "The pressure adds fuel and energy to all of those relationships."

As the Guinness brewing company finds a path without its long-term guide at the helm — Sir Benjamin led the company to success following his grandfather, Arthur Guinness', decision to sign a 9,000-year lease on St. James's Gate Brewery in 1759 — brothers Arthur and Edward face struggles of their own while trying to expand the family brand into the United States with the help of allies from all walks of life. As always, however, not all who offer help are friendly, so the Guinness family must remain discerning amid rife tensions and never-ending periods of rapid social change.

Told across eight hour-long episodes, "House of Guinness" also stars James Norton ("Grantchester") as Sean Rafferty, a character whose posh Protestantism echoes that of the Guinnesses, threatening to further expose the class disparity between religious sects; Niamh McCormack ("Everything Now") and Seamus O'Hara ("The Northman," 2022) as Ellen and Patrick Cochrane, working-class Dubliners whose livelihood, like that of many around them, depends upon Guinness' success; Danielle Galligan ("Shadow and Bone") as the seductive and possibly manipulative Lady Olivia Hedges; and Jack Gleeson ("Game of Thrones") as unpredictable cog in the wheel Byron Hedges, whose privilege pairs with ignorance in such a way that could prove detrimental to him and anyone caught in the cross-fire.

Dervla Kirwan ("Ondine," 2009), Michael McElhatton ("Game of Thrones"), David Wilmot ("Calvary," 2014), Jean-Pascal Heynemand ("All Creatures Great & Small") and Hilda Fay ("The Woman in the Wall") also star, while Tom Shankland ("The Serpent") and Mounia Akl ("Costa Brava, Lebanon," 2021) split directorial duties.

Don't miss your chance to tap the Netflix keg when "House of Guinness" premieres Thursday, Sept. 25.

100 contestants, $1 million at stake in '99 to Beat'

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

Wild game night: Imagine your wildest game night. Now throw in 99 other players, a pile of hilarious challenges and zero rules. That's the wild ride contestants are in for on Fox's new game show "99 to Beat," premiering Wednesday, Sept. 24, and streaming on Hulu the following day. The concept is deceptively simple: don't be the one who comes in last. Inspired by the British game show of the same name, "99 to Beat" throws 100 contestants into a gauntlet of quirky, laugh-out-loud games that look easy until you actually try them. With each challenge more unpredictable than the last, contestants must think fast and hope their luck holds out. Led by hosts Ken Jeong ("The Hangover," 2009) and Erin Andrews ("Dancing With the Stars"), players are whittled down one round at a time in what Fox calls "an arced competition game show like we've never seen before."

For Andrews, the series marks her first hosting role since her departure from "Dancing With the Stars" in 2020, and now she couldn't be more excited about her comeback.

"I'm excited to have this opportunity," she said in an episode of her "Calm Down" podcast. "It was a British game show. I've watched it on YouTube. It's hilarious and fun. And here's to the show and more seasons to come after that. I hope I crush [it]. So it'll be a fun challenge."

The stakes are higher than ever, thanks to a surprising twist. Producers originally promised a $100,000 prize; however, in a move that shocked the players on set, they revealed the prize pot had been boosted to a life-changing $1 million. According to Variety, the announcement triggered "incredible excitement and lots of tears."

The cast features a mix of reality TV favorites and fresh faces, including "Big Brother" alum and Broadway star Tommy Bracco, who appears alongside "Survivor" champions Danni Boatwright and Sandra Diaz-Twine, "Bachelorette" alum Malissa Miles, Miranda Harrison of "Deal or No Deal Island" and actors Geraldine Moreno ("Dutch," 2021) and Cara Maria Sorbello ("Welcome to Hope"), among others.

Behind the scenes, "99 to Beat" comes from production company Initial, with Nataalka Znak ("Paris Hilton's British Best Friend"), Claire O'Donohoe ("Hardcore Pawn"), Katy Manley ("Celebrity Big Brother: Late & Live") and Lee Smithurst ("Destination X") serving as executive producers.

Catch the series premiere of "99 to Beat" Wednesday, Sept. 24, on Fox, or stream the series on Hulu the following day.

'Big Brother' crossover: "The Amazing Race" is back, and the race is on! Season 38 of the fan-favorite reality series premieres Thursday, Sept. 25, on CBS, with episodes available to stream on Hulu the following day — and this year, fans will see some familiar faces hitting the road.

The series follows teams of two as they race across the globe, tackling challenges for a shot at the $1-million grand prize. Along the way, teams must put their brains together to solve clues and strategize their way to the next destination.

Host Phil Keoghan ("Human Edge") is cranking up the adrenaline with a twist fans of reality TV won't want to miss. For the first time, every team includes at least one former "Big Brother" contestant, who is paired with a friend, partner or family member. The show's fiercest alumni are stepping out of the "Big Brother" house and into the real world, racing across Europe in pursuit of victory. Before filming began, contestants didn't know they'd be competing against their fellow alumni.

Erin Andrews and Ken Jeong host "99 to Beat"

Series co-creators and executive producers Bertram van Munster ("Focus Rally America") and Elise Doganieri ("The Quest") said this season captures what's made the series a global favorite for decades.

"'The Amazing Race' takes the racers and viewers on an unforgettable journey," said van Munster and Doganieri. "For this season, it was fun to bring the former 'Big Brother' players out of the house and on an adventure in the real world, as the race is a global triumph that continues to inspire and connect people all over the world."

Filmed throughout Europe, the season kicked off in Amsterdam, where the action starts even before the official race begins as contestants face an opening challenge: the fastest team to complete the task earns an Express Pass, while the slowest team must confront a Hazard that could hinder their entire journey. This marks the first time in the show's history that the first challenge occurs before the race officially begins.

From Amsterdam, racers tackle thrilling adventures on their journey, including soaring over Prague's skyline, soaking in Budapest, Hungary's famous thermal baths and skydiving from nearly 13,000 feet in Romania.

The cast boasts a mix of fan-favorites spanning multiple seasons of "Big Brother," including Enzo Angulo (Seasons 12 and 22), Natalie Negrotti (Season 18), Kat Dunn (Season 21), Hannah Chaddha and Kyland Young (Season 23), Joseph Ab-din and Matt Turner (Season 24), along with Izzy Gleicher and winner Jag Bains (Season 25). Four contestants from Season 26 round out the lineup: Angela Murray, Rubina Bernabe, Tucker Des Lauriers and winner Chelsie Baham.

Don't miss the Season 38 premiere of "The Amazing Race" Thursday, Sept. 25, on CBS, streaming on Hulu the following day.

Toni Collette, Mae Martin and Sarah Gadon in "Wayward"

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

"Wayward"

From creator Mae Martin ("Feel Good"), who also stars in the series, "Wayward" premieres Thursday, Sept. 25, on Netflix, transporting its viewers into the mysterious world of Tall Pines Academy. This thrilling mini-series sees Martin starring as police officer Alex Dempsey, who moves into a new home alongside his pregnant wife, Laura (Sarah Gadon, "Cosmopolis," 2012), only to connect with two young students — Abbie (Sydney Topcliffe, "Davey & Jonesie's Locker") and Leila (Alyvia Alyn Lind, "The Young and the Restless") — attending a local academy for "troubled teens." Both girls express their desire to escape the overly stringent school, leading Alex to begin an investigation into the institution and the unusual incidents surrounding its students. Before long, Alex is led to the school's mysterious leader, Evelyn (Toni Collette, "Hereditary," 2018), who might just be the answer to all his pressing questions. Called a "genre-bending limited series about the eternal struggle between one generation and the next" (per Netflix), Martin's series also stars Patrick J. Adams ("Suits"), Brandon Jay McLaren ("Tucker and Dale vs Evil," 2010), Joshua Close

"Cristela Alonzo: Upper Classy" (2025)

First came "Lower Classy." Then came "Middle Classy." Now, comedian Cristela Alonzo ("His Dark Materials") continues her exploration of the American class system, with the debut of her 2025 stand-up special, "Cristela Alonzo: Upper Classy," coming to Netflix this Tuesday, Sept. 23. Directed by Page Hurwitz ("Outstanding: A Comedy Revolution," 2024), this latest return to the stage sees Alonzo asking everyone to embrace life's pleasures... no matter how "pleasurable" those moments happen to be. From outdoing her old bully and going overboard on spa treatments to taking her first family vacation and setting up care-free auto-payments, she "riffs on living life to the fullest" (per Netflix), redefining the American dream for a modern-day society. Alongside Alonzo and Hurwitz, Wanda Sykes ("Wanda Sykes: I'm an Entertainer," 2023) acts as the comedy special's executive producer, bringing Alonzo's approachable and relatable jokes to audiences across the country.

"Ruth & Boaz" (2025)

Produced by DeVon Franklin ("Jesus Revolution," 2023) and Tyler Perry ("Sistas") as part of a multi-year, multi-picture deal with Netflix, this modern-day retelling of the iconic Biblical love story, "Ruth & Boaz," makes its debut Friday, Sept. 26, on the aforementioned streaming service. Directed by Alanna Brown ("Trees of Peace," 2021) and written by Michael Elliot ("Brown Sugar," 2002) and Cory Tynan ("Earth: Final Conflict"), this newfangled iteration sees its titular characters living in Tennessee, where young Ruth (Serayah, "Empire") finds herself after escaping the chaotic Atlanta music scene for a more peaceful life. There, she accepts a job caring for an elderly woman, and in the process, Ruth also discovers the love of her life in Boaz (Tyler Lepley, "The Haves and the Have Nots"). In the series' trailer, narrator Phylicia Rashad ("The Gilded Age") reminds viewers that "every love story starts with truth, with trust and sometimes with tragedy." Kenneth "Babyface" Edmonds ("Girls Trip," 2017), Gregory Alan Williams ("The Righteous Gemstones"), Walnette Carrington ("BMF"), James Lee Thomas ("One Spoon of Chocolate," 2025), Christopher Broughton ("Tournament of Dreams," 2007), Jermaine Dupri ("Hip Hop Family Christmas Wedding," 2022), Chaundre Hall-Broomfield ("Kingdom Business") and Nijah Brenea ("Kold x Windy") also star.

"Hotel Costiera" - Season 1

Starring "Grey's Anatomy" alum Jesse Williams as former marine Daniel "DD" De Luca, the mystery- and intrigue-filled series, "Hotel Costiera," premieres its first season Wednesday, Sept. 24, on Prime Video. Upon returning to his childhood home in Italy, De Luca finds himself intrigued by a luxurious hotel located on the Amalfi Coast, where he begins a curious investigation into the hotel owner's missing daughter, who went missing a month before his arrival. As De Luca digs deeper into his surroundings, he quickly discovers that the hotel's wealthy guests — and its unusual employees — have countless secrets to hide ... secrets De Luca hopes to uncover once and for all. From creators Francesco Arlanch ("DOC — Nelle tue mani") and Elena Buccaccio ("Che Dio ci aiuti"), "Hotel Costiera" also stars Jean-Hugues Anglade ("Betty Blue," 1986), Jordan Alexandra ("The Winter King"), Maria Chiara Giannetta ("Muori di lei," 2025), Alejandra Onieva ("Stories Not to Be Told," 2022), Tommaso Ragno ("The Miracle"), Sam Haygarth ("The French Dispatch," 2021) Pierpaolo Spollon ("Come fratelli," 2025), Antonio Gerardi ("Sara: Woman in the Shadows"), Amanda Campana ("The Crypt Monster," 2021) and more, with Adam Bernstein (" Fargo ") and Giacomo Martelli (" Miss Fallaci ") acting as series directors.

"Slow Horses" - Season 5

Based on "London Rules," one of the thrilling novels from author Mick Herron's "Slough House" book series, the globally acclaimed spy series "Slow Horses" returns with its fifth season premiering Wednesday, Sept. 24, on Prime Video via the Apple TV+ channel. Seeing the return of Oscar-winner Gary Oldman ("Tinker Tailor Soldier Spy," 2011) as MI5 department leader Jackson Lamb, this six-episode season begins with boiling suspicions surrounding tech nerd Roddy Ho (Christopher Chung, "Blitz," 2024) and his unexpectedly glamorous new girlfriend. As bizarre events begin to occur across London, Lamb sends the Slow Horses (his ragtag group of intelligence agents) to investigate further and to hopefully discover who is behind the tangled web of citywide dread. Kristin Scott Thomas ("The English Patient," 1996), Jack Lowden ("The Gold"), Saskia Reeves ("Luther"), Rosalind Eleazar ("The Personal History of David Copperfield," 2019), Aimee-Ffion Edwards ("Mr. Burton," 2025), Ruth Bradley ("Humans"), James Callis ("Bridget Jones: Mad About the Boy," 2025), Tom Brooke ("Empire of Light," 2022) and Jonathan Pryce ("The Two Popes," 2019) also star, alongside newcomer Nick Mohammed ("Ted Lasso"), who appears in Season 5 as a special guest star.

"The Good Place" - Complete Series

It may have wrapped in 2020, but "The Good Place" is finding a new streaming home on Prime Video this Friday, Sept. 26. Kristen Bell ("Veronica Mars") stars as Eleanor Shellstrop, a woman who finds herself sitting in a waiting room after her untimely death. When she's told that she has made it to the Good Place, and will spend her afterlife in an idyllic community populated by other extraordinarily good people, Eleanor knows something is amiss. Well aware that she lived her mortal life as a selfish, irresponsible, inconsiderate jerk, she realizes she's been mistaken for another, more saintly Eleanor Shellstrop, and does everything she can to keep up a facade of goodness in an effort to avoid being sent to the Bad Place. The series is peppered with some excellent twists and turns, and each season is even more delightful than the last. As Eleanor struggles to learn how to be good, she meets a lot of colorful characters: Tahani Al-Jamil (Jameela Jamil, "The Misery Index"), Chidi (William Jackson Harper, 2019's "Midsommar") and Jason (Manny Jacinto, "The Romeo Section") are other seemingly good souls sent to rest in the Good Place, while Janet (D'Arcy Carden, "Barry") is an AI-like celestial being who aides the Architect of the whole neighborhood, Michael, played to perfection by the inimitable Ted Danson ("Cheers"). The cast of this series is phenomenal, and their chemistry is a big part of what makes the show so great. Another big part of the show's success is its creator, Michael Schur, who TV fans may know best as Mose Schrute from "The Office." Schur's incredible career has seen him go from writing for "Saturday Night Live" to creating some of network television's best comedies, such as "Parks and Recreation" and "Brooklyn Nine-Nine," and "The Good Place" is one of his greatest hits. You won't want to stop watching as the residents of the Good Place get up to all sorts of post-mortem shenanigans, and unlike so much of what we see on television these days, this series will leave you feeling genuinely good.

Enrico Colantoni, Brian Jordan Alvarez, Stephanie Koenig and Sean Patton in "English Teacher"

Law & Order

⑤ 8:00 PM

Mehcad Brooks may have departed, but the rest of the cast is back for this Season 25 premiere. After last season’s cliffhanger, there’s serious tension between ADA Price (Hugh Dancy) and ADA Maroun (Odelya Halevi). Plus, a new detective is introduced.

Hell’s Kitchen

⑫ ④④ 8:00 PM

This Season 24 premiere features host Gordon Ramsay whittling down 50 semi-finalists to a more manageable 20 contestants. For the first time, each contestant will be from and represent a different place as they battle it out for a final prize of $250,000.

The Amazing Race

⑫ 9:00 PM

Pack clean underwear and expect some serious jet lag as Season 38 hits the friendly skies. Thirteen teams of two — each sporting at least one former “Big Brother” houseguest — are at the mercy of travel agent and host Phil Koghan in this season premiere.

English Teacher

FX 9:00 PM

Controversy hits Morrison-Hensley High School, and Evan (Brian Jordan Alvarez) finds himself squarely in the middle of issues ranging from COVID to student phone use in this Season 2 premiere, which kicks off with three back-to-back episodes.

Friday Best Bets

Ryan Seacrest hosts
"Celebrity Wheel of Fortune"

Celebrity Wheel of Fortune

(12) (22) 8:00 PM

There's a new face hosting this Season 6 premiere as Ryan Seacrest takes over duties from the now-retired Pat Sajak. But don't worry, Vanna White is still here as celebrities look to spin the wheel. Expect an "American Idol" judge or two to pop up.

Dateline NBC

(5) 9:00 PM

Anchor Lester Holt along with journalists Andrea Canning, Blayne Alexander, Josh Mankiewicz, Keith Morrison and Dennis Murphy take on stories that run the gamut from true crime, to documentaries, to in-depth investigations in this award-winning series.

38th Hispanic Heritage Awards

(33) (57) 9:00 PM

Celebrating individuals and organizations that have made a significant impact in the fields of innovation, STEM, the arts and more within the Latino population. Past awardees include Rita Moreno, Zoe Saldana, Carolina Herrera, Jose Andres and more.

College Football

(44) 9:00 PM

Quarterback Josh Hoover and the TCU Horned Frogs will be in the thick of things as they travel to Mountain America Stadium in Tempe, Ariz., to play the Arizona State Sun Devils and QB Sam Leavitt. This is the first meeting of the schools.

"English Teacher" - Season 2
Grab your books, your lunch bag and your backpack: class is back in session! Season 2 of "English Teacher" premieres Thursday, Sept. 25, on Hulu following yet another year in the life of high school teacher Evan Marquez (Brian Jordan Alvarez, "Will & Grace") as he navigates the "political minefield known as the American high school," per the series' logline. In this second season, Evan finds himself managing countless controversies at Morrison-Hensley High, as he and the other teachers navigate everything from student phone usage and climate change discussions to COVID-era classrooms and in-school military recruitment. All the while, Evan struggles to maintain his ongoing relationship with Malcolm (Jordan Firstman, "Rotting in the Sun," 2023), who no longer works at Morrison-Hensley but struggles with Evan's excessive righteousness in the classroom. Stephanie Koenig ("Lessons in Chemistry") and Sean Patton ("Marron") return as some of the school's steadfast teachers, alongside Enrico Colantoni ("Veronica Mars"), who stars as Principal Grant Moretti, and Carmen Christopher ("The Bear") as Morrison-Hensley's opinionated guidance counselor, Rick.

"Lilith Fair: Building a Mystery" (2025)

Go behind the scenes of the legendary all-women music festival, with director Ally Pankiw's ("I Used To Be Funny," 2023) brand-new documentary, "Lilith Fair: Building a Mystery," making its debut Sunday, Sept. 21, on Hulu. Created by Canadian superstar Sarah McLachlan ("I Will Remember You"), this revolutionary festival first opened in 1997, highlighting women or women-led acts across its triumphant three-year run. With an impressive roster of performances by the likes of Fiona Apple ("Sleep to Dream"), Tracy Chapman ("Fast Car"), Sheryl Crow ("Soak Up the Sun"), Suzanne Vega ("Left of Centre"), Indigo Girls ("Closer to Fine") and Pat Benatar ("Love Is a Battlefield"), Lilith Fair shared a message of equality, dismantling the long-held belief that, per TIFF, "popular music could only support a token quota of women's voices." Short-lived but impressively impactful, Pankiw now revisits the longstanding effect Lilith Fair had on generations of musicians — many of whom share their stories throughout the documentary, including Jewel ("Who Will Save Your Soul"), Bonnie Raitt ("Something to Talk About"), Erykah Badu ("Next Lifetime"), Olivia Rodrigo ("drivers license"), Brandi Carlile ("The Story") and Emmylou Harris

("Beneath Still Waters"). "Lilith Fair: Building a Mystery" comes from White Horse Pictures and Elevation Pictures, with Dan Levy ("Schitt's Creek") acting as the film's producer.

"Valiant One" (2025)

A routine mission spirals into a desperate fight for survival in "Valiant One" (2025), premiering Tuesday, Sept. 23, on Hulu. In this heart-pounding military thriller from producer-turned-director Steve Barnett ("The Spiderwick Chronicles," 2008), a U.S.

Sarah McLachlan at Lilith Fair, as seen in "Lilith Fair: Building a Mystery"

Army helicopter crashes deep within North Korean territory, leaving a team of non-combat tech specialists — led by Captain Edward Brockman (Chase Stokes, "Outer Banks") — trapped behind enemy lines with no hope of rescue. As the team navigates the hostile terrain and evade relentless North Korean patrols, they desperately race to escort a civilian tech specialist across the treacherous Demilitarized Zone without the help of U.S. military. Starring Lana Condor ("To All the Boys I've Loved Before," 2018), Desmin Borges ("Only Murders in the Building"), Callan Mulvey ("Apple Cider Vinegar," "Last King of the Cross"), Jonathan Whitesell ("Chilling Adventures of Sabrina," "Beyond") and Jun Che ("The Fall of the House of Usher"), "Valiant One" sees Aaron Au ("Godzilla," 2014), Vicky Patel ("Hit Man," 2023) and Shawn Williamson ("Fifty Dead Men Walking," 2008) as executive producers in the film written by Barnett, Eric Tipton ("Mixed Signals," 1997) and Daniel Myrick ("The Blair Witch Project," 1999).

Lana Condor and Chase Stokes star in "Valiant One"

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I see a lot of Agatha Christie re-makes happening, but what about my favorite cozy mystery, "Murder, She Wrote"? Are they ever going to remake that?

A: "Oh, it's happening," said none other than screen megastar Jamie Lee Curtis, who will apparently be this generation's Jessica Fletcher.

Deadline.com kicked off the rumors in December, when it said it "heard" Curtis ("Halloween," 1978) would play nosy novelist Fletcher in a reboot of beloved '80s mystery show "Murder, She Wrote."

Curtis seems to have confirmed the rumors in July, when Entertainment Tonight cornered her at a red-carpet event to ask about it.

"Oh, it's happening. We're a minute away, but yeah, very excited. Very excited. But I'm tamping down my enthusiasm until we start shooting."

Jamie Lee Curtis to star in "Murder, She Wrote" reboot

Allow me to tamp down your enthusiasm a little further and point out that we won't be getting hours upon hours of it the way we did for the original, which ran for 12 seasons on CBS. The reboot is planned as a feature film. And as Curtis said, they haven't even started shooting yet, so it's unknown when this will reach the screen.

As Deadline points out (and you allude to in your question), doing it as a movie squares it with the larger cozy-mystery trend happening at the moment.

"Whodunits are hot," Deadline's Matt Grobar wrote back in December, citing the new Agatha Christie films made by Kenneth Branagh (starting with "Murder on the Orient Express," 2017), as well as the "Knives Out" films (the third installment of which, titled "Wake Up Dead Man," just debuted at the Toronto International Film Festival).

Q: I just heard that "Family Matters" was a "Perfect Strangers" spinoff. Now I'm wondering, did the actress do any of those other shows? Is she still working?

A: No, Jo Marie Payton, who played Harriette Winslow on "Perfect Strangers" and then "Family Matters," didn't do any of the other ABC TGIF shows. But she is still working, so there are plenty of chances to see her in other stuff.

For anyone who didn't spend most of the 1990s in front of the TV, that all may need to be untangled a little. Payton's character, Harriette, was introduced first as an elevator operator at the Chicago office building where the two central characters on "Perfect Strangers" — Larry, played by Mark Linn-Baker ("My Favorite Year," 1982) and his cousin Bal-ki (Bronson Pinchot, "Beverly Hills Cop," 1984) — worked.

Her character proved popular enough that ABC built a whole new show, "Family Matters," around her and her family. It was added to the network's Friday night sitcom block, dubbed ABC TGIF. But of the many different sitcoms that composed the TGIF block over the decade, Payton only appeared in those two.

She has, however, done plenty of other things since.

For example, she voiced the character Suga Mama on the kids' sitcom "The Proud Family" in the early 2000s, and is now doing so again on its spinoff, "The Proud Family: Louder and Prouder." She also has a supporting role right now in the Netflix sitcom "Miss Governor."

If you're really aching to relive some "Family Matters" vibes, you can check out the 2015 Lifetime movie "The Flight Before Christmas," which she appeared in along with Reginald VelJohnson ("Die Hard," 1988), who played her husband on "Family Matters" and actually showed up in an episode of "Perfect Strangers" as well.
