Republicans have sponsored a bill that would allow 14- and 15-year-olds to work certain jobs in meat packing plants. ... These bills loosen protections in some of the most dangerous workplaces. Case in point, Iowa's bill would "allow students to work in places like mines ... if those jobs are part of a work-based learning program." You can learn a lot by working in the mines, like why we used to have laws to keep kids from working in mines.

According to a new study, Americans over 50 who play video games feel overlooked by the gaming industry. For example, there is no option to play "Grand Theft Auto" with your left blinker on the whole time. That's right, 70% of older Americans who play video games do not feel like products are designed with them in mind, because when they tried it, they failed miserably.

Dixon days: Daryl dominates new 'Walking Dead' series

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Louis Puech Scigliuzzi and Norman Reedus in "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon"

Premiering Sunday, Sept. 10, on AMC and AMC+, "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon" sees the return of Norman Reedus ("The Boondock Saints," 1999) as on-screen anti-hero Daryl Dixon.

Created by David Zabel ("ER"), "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon" is the fifth spinoff from the flagship series, hereafter referred to as TWD, and takes place after TWD's 11 seasons of horror.

While viewers have already gathered their fair share of Daryl details since his first appearance in TWD's Season 1 episode "Tell It to the Frogs," audiences have never seen the troubled "walker"-fighting hero quite like this.

"Daryl Dixon" follows the titular character as he "washes ashore in France and struggles to piece together how he got there and why" (per AMC). According to the official synopsis, "[T]he series tracks his journey across a broken but resilient France as he hopes to find a way back home," noting that as "he makes the journey ... the connections he forms along the way complicate his ultimate plan."

The title of this latest TWD spinoff was announced in October 2022, which is also when filming began in Paris. Despite AMC's initial desire to produce a series that followed another TWD character, Carol Peletier (Melissa McBride, "The Mist," 2007), the network eventually landed on "Daryl Dixon" as a result of scheduling conflicts with McBride. That said, McBride is expected to reprise her role as Carol in at least one of the premiere season's six episodes.

In fact, as mentioned by Vanity Fair writer Derek Lawrence in his November 2022 article titled "Norman Reedus Unpacks the Walking Dead Finale and His 'F—-ing Great' Spin-Off," Daryl himself made a nod toward his own future series in the final episodes of the flagship series' finale.

"It's not like we're never gonna see each other again," Daryl tells Carol in an intimate scene toward the end of 'Rest in Peace,'" Lawrence writes, noting Carol's response: "I'm allowed to be a little sad. You're my best friend."

And while we have no idea what may be in store for Carol, fans can certainly expect more "Daryl Dixon" beyond the first six episodes. Just last month, AMC announced that the series had already been renewed for a second season.

Also joining the cast for Season 1 is French actress Clémence Poésy, known for her roles in films such as the Harry Potter franchise (beginning in 2005), "In Bruges" (2008) and "Tenet" (2020), among others. Poésy plays Isabelle, a French woman with a dark Parisian past and a connection to a "progressive religious group." She joins forces with Daryl on his journey.

But perhaps one of the biggest characters this season is the city of Paris herself. As seen in the official trailer, released by AMC on July 21, Daryl's journey takes him from a desolate, sandy shoreline through the ruin-scattered French countryside and into the City of Lights. Landmarks, such as the Eiffel Tower, appear derelict and abandoned, mere shells of their illustrious former selves, not unlike the hero who wanders the city looking for answers.

Scored by an ethereal rendition of Claude Debussy's "Clair de Lune," the trailer juxtaposes the violence TWD fans have come to expect with the peace and serenity that accompanies a French monastery garden. It just so happens that in this very monastery is where Daryl learns of his next adventure. And without giving anything away, suffice it to say that "The Last of Us" fans may wish to tune in.

When discussing the dawn of "Daryl Dixon" with Lawrence during an interview that occurred pre-WGA/SAG-AFTRA strike, Reedus shared some of his excitement for the spinoff.

"It's so beautiful, it's so moving," Reedus began, "but it's like [Daryl] got swept away in a tornado and woke up in this foreign land and doesn't understand anything. There's French people speaking French, obviously, and part of the story is being confused with what's around him, trying to figure out what they're saying, is this going to be a fight, are we going to get along?"

Despite the "epic" nature of the new series (and, of course, the Walkers), Reedus insists that the entire experience will feel very different from "The Walking Dead."

"It's a different story, it sounds different, it feels different, it looks different," Reedus mused three weeks into filming in late 2022. "It's exactly what I was hoping to do. Like, I could not be more happy with what we're getting."

"Gunpowder Milkshake's" (2021) Adam Nagaitis also helps to bring Daryl's time in Paris to life, starring as Quinn, a nightclub owner who gained prominence in the city following the zombie virus outbreak.

Anne Charrier ("Marseille"), Eriq Ebouaney ("Bastille Day," 2016), Laïka Blanc-Francard ("Reign Supreme"), Romain Levi ("Savages"), French drag performer Paloma ("Drag Race France") and new talent Louis Puech Scigliuzzi also star.

"The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon" is executive produced by Zabel, Reedus, Greg Nicotero ("Creepshow"), Scott M. Gimple ("Fillmore!"), Angela Kang ("Terriers"), Brian Bockrath ("The Walking Dead") and Daniel Percival ("The Man in the High Castle") and premieres Sunday, Sept. 10, on AMC and the AMC+ streaming platform.

More news to share: 'The Morning Show' is on again

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

As if the communications business doesn't have enough complications these days, "The Morning Show" is back to add some more.

After almost two years, the award-winning Apple TV+ drama returns Wednesday, Sept. 13, to start its third season with an ownership change of the fictional UBA network potentially in the offing. A major player in the tech world, Paul Marks — played by "Mad Men" alum Jon Hamm — shows interest in acquiring it, sparking concern for many employees, including those who work on the UBA morning program. Among them are hosts Alex Levy and Bradley Jackson, played by Jennifer Aniston ("Friends") and Reese Witherspoon ("Wild," 2014) — who are also among the executive producers of the series — after the characters were last seen dealing with respective crises when the world was at the peak of the coronavirus pandemic.

Returning cast members also include Billy Crudup ("Hello Tomorrow!") as UBA chief Cory Ellison, a role that brought the actor a Primetime Emmy Award for the show's first season; Mark Duplass ("Goliath") as the morning show's executive producer, Charlie "Chip" Black; Nestor Carbonell ("Lost") as meteorologist Yanko Flores; Karen Pittman ("And Just Like That...") as producer Mia Jordan; Greta Lee ("Spider-Man: Across the Spider-Verse," 2023) as UBA news president Stella Bak; and Julianna Margulies ("The Good Wife") as news anchor Laura Peterson. Along with Hamm, joining "The Morning Show" in Season 3 is Nicole Beharie ("42," 2013) as Christina Hunter, a new UBA anchor.

If the themes of "The Morning Show" (which already has a fourth season ordered) have seemed timely before, they've only become more so with real-world developments in the industry it concerns, in an era marked by numerous consolidations and takeovers. Season 1 began as an examination of sexual harassment in the workplace, with Alex's longtime co-anchor, Mitch Kessler (Steve Carell, "The Office"), fired over allegations of inappropriate behavior. It seemed like Alex might be the next to go, until she took control of the situation by naming the promising

Mark Duplass and Jennifer Aniston in "The Morning Show"

Bradley as her new on-air partner.

As Bradley began to usurp Alex's popularity, things got tense — with the erosion of Alex's marriage not helping. As opposing factions over Mitch's dismissal continued to take shape, behind-the-scenes politics escalated, with UBA president Fred Micklen (Tom Irwin, "Devious Maids") fearing for his own job as his covering for Mitch became known. Eventually, Alex and Bradley became partners in televising what they knew about their workplace, in a warts-and-all manner.

Season 2 started with Alex quitting the morning program and relocating to write a tell-all book, as Bradley got a new co-host... but the ratings took a hit, with Bradley wanting to move to the evening news (a job that ultimately went to her new morning teammate). Alex did end up returning, but medical problems took her off the air, with Laura — who also was involved with Bradley away from the cameras — filling in. The approaching publication of a reporter's (Marcia Gay Harden, "So Help Me Todd") exposé about the show caused extra headaches, though Bradley's televised interview with the author helped to turn the tide.

For Aniston and Witherspoon, "The Morning Show" has been a reunion, following their portrayals of sisters Rachel and Jill Green on two episodes of "Friends." Witherspoon has been quite active in television elsewhere as well in recent years, also as a star and executive producer of "Big Little Lies" and "Little Fires Everywhere" (plus an executive producer of "Daisy Jones & the Six"). Meanwhile, Aniston had success with the two "Murder Mystery" movies she made with Adam Sandler for Netflix.

Media journalist Brian Stelter, who appeared as a performer in Season 2 of "The Morning Show," gave the program its inspiration via his book "Top of the Morning: Inside the Cutthroat World of Morning TV"; Kerry Ehrin ("Bates Motel") developed the series from that. Mimi Leder, known for her work on "ER" (and also for the movies "Deep Impact" and "The Peacemaker"), has been a driving force as an executive producer and frequent director of the show.

One of the first series that Apple TV+ debuted, "The Morning Show" has made an impact on the awards front. Crudup's aforementioned Primetime Emmy was one of five that the program was up for in its first season (the other nominees were Aniston, Carell, Duplass and director Leder), and it received another two for its second go-around (another nomination for Crudup, and one for Witherspoon).

Among its other notable honors have been a first-year win for Crudup in the Critics Choice Television Awards (he also was nominated for the second year), Golden Globe Awards bids for best drama series and several of the actors (Aniston was nominated for both seasons to date), and Screen Actors Guild nominations (with Aniston and Crudup each scoring one for each of the two seasons so far, and Aniston winning for the first year).

The new developments for "The Morning Show" might seem dramatic enough to be fiction, but as with the first two rounds, check current headlines and Season 3 might feel that much more real.

McElhenney and Reynolds return to Wales for a new A.F.C. season

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Football frenzy: The boys are back in town — and this time, they might even know what they're doing. Season 2 of "Welcome to Wrexham" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 12, on FX, and will be available to stream the following day on Hulu.

When actors Rob McElhenney ("It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia") and Ryan Reynolds ("Deadpool," 2016) announced their intentions to buy the Wrexham football club — a Welsh professional association club located in Wrexham, North East Wales, operating as the third-oldest club in the world — in 2020, the North American duo was met with many curious glances from football fans across the U.K. and soccer fans back home.

At the time, Wrexham AFC was operating in the National League (the fifth tier of English football, ranked below the Premier League and all three tiers of the English football system), previously described as a mismanaged team barreling towards the brink of collapse. McElhenney and Reynolds, however, saw nothing but opportunity. With no prior experience, the duo packed their bags and, joined by a crew of cameras, made off to help the team succeed.

A description from FX shares: "'Welcome to Wrexham' is a docuseries tracking the dreams and worries of Wrexham, a working-class town in North Wales, U.K., as two Hollywood stars take ownership of the town's historic yet struggling football club.

"From Hollywood to Wales, from the pitch to the locker room, the front office to the pub, 'Welcome to Wrexham' will track Rob and Ryan's crash course in football club ownership and the inextricably connected fates of a team and a town counting on two actors to bring some serious hope and change to a community that could use it."

Throughout the course of the first season, viewers watched as McElhenney and Reynolds took over the team (the Red Dragons), first attempting to qualify for the playoffs before playing towards promotion and eventually taking on Wembley Stadium. The team — and the duo's knowledge of the game — improved throughout the year, eventually landing them in second place. Despite a successful season, the Red Dragons failed to advance to the fourth tier of the EFL League Two after being knocked out in the semifinals of the promotion playoffs.

Details have been kept tight-lipped, but it is assumed that Season 2 will feature the club's eventual promotion to League Two, with pressure mounting as the club gains notoriety and attention – even from royalty. No matter who's watching, the Red Dragons and their Hollywood helpers continue chasing their promotion dream in Season 2 of "Welcome to Wrexham," premiering Tuesday, Sept. 12, on FX, and streaming Wednesday, Sept. 13, on Hulu.

Video stars: The 39th annual MTV Video Music Awards show is set to broadcast live from the Prudential Center in Newark, New Jersey, celebrating music from all genres and videos from some of the most talented players in the industry when it airs Tuesday, Sept. 12, on MTV.

The event began in 1984 with a show held at the Radio City Music Hall. Since then, many categories have been added, changing the industry and making history along the way. This year, for example, all nominees for Artist of the Year are women – this will be the first time any one gender has dominated the category since it was first introduced in 2017.

This year's nominees were announced on Aug. 8, 2023, seeing Taylor Swift ("Midnights," 2022) in the lead with eight total nominations, followed by SZA ("SOS," 2022) at six and Doja Cat ("Scarlet," 2023), Kim Petras ("Feed the Beast," 2023), Miley Cyrus ("Endless Summer Vacation," 2023), Nicki Minaj ("Pink Friday 2," 2023), Olivia Rodrigo ("GUTS," 2023) and Sam Smith ("Gloria," 2023) all following with five.

Unlike some award shows, the "VMAs" allows viewers to vote for their favorite artists and videos from the comfort of their own homes, putting power in the hands of fans. While a full list of nominees (and further voting procedures) can be found on MTV's website, nominations for a few top categories have been listed below.

Video of the Year: Doja Cat for "Attention"; Miley Cyrus for "Flowers"; Nicki Minaj for "Super Freaky Girl"; Olivia Rodrigo for "Vampire"; Sam Smith and Kim Petras for "Unholy"; SZA for "Kill Bill" and Taylor Swift for "Anti-Hero."

Song of the Year: Miley Cyrus ("Flowers"); Olivia Rodrigo ("Vampire"); Rema and Selena Gomez ("Calm Down"); Sam Smith and Kim Petras ("Unholy"); Steve Lacy ("Bad Habit"); SZA ("Kill Bill") and Taylor Swift ("Anti-Hero").

"Love at First Sight" (2023)

Love goes international with the new rom-com "Love at First Sight," when it premieres Friday, Sept. 15, on Netflix. After missing her flight from New York to London, Hadley's (Haley Lu Richardson, "The White Lotus") plans are put on hold while she finds a new flight. When a chance encounter in the airport with Oliver (Ben Hardy, "Bohemian Rhapsody," 2018) leads to a long night on a plane together that passes in the blink of an eye, the pair are left wondering if love at first sight can really happen. When the pair are separated in the chaos of Heathrow Airport, they'll have to try everything they can to make their way back to each other. Based on the novel "The Statistical Probability of Love at First Sight" by Jennifer E. Smith, "Love at First Sight" is directed by Vanessa Caswill ("Thirteen") with a screenplay by Katie Lovejoy ("To All the Boys: Always and Forever," 2021). Narrated by Jameela Jamil ("The Good Place"), the film's cast is rounded out by Dexter Fletcher ("Ghosted," 2023), Rob Delaney ("Catastrophe"), Sally Phillips ("Pride and Prejudice and Zombies," 2016), Jessica Ransom ("Doc Martin"), Tom Taylor ("The Dark Tower," 2017), Tracy Wiles ("The Catch"), Ibinabo Jack ("Vera") and Anastasia Zabarchuk ("Silo").

"Wrestlers" - Season 1

Follow along with a mission to preserve a legacy in the new docuseries "Wrestlers," premiering Wednesday, Sept. 13, on Netflix. Run by acclaimed wrestler Al Snow, who clings to an old school wrestling philosophy with a heavy emphasis on storytelling, Ohio Valley Wrestling of Louisville, Kentucky, is a regional wrestling gym whose alumni include Brock Lesnar, The Miz, John Cena, Dave Bautista and Randy Orton. But despite its A-list alumni and the love of some diehard fans, the gym is struggling to stay relevant and keep its doors open. Forced to sell a majority stake to a group of local businessmen — including Matt Jones, the most popular radio personality in the state of Kentucky — the gym's new infusion of much-needed cash hasn't been enough to get the gym back up and running in the black. With the new ownership giving Al the summer to turn things back around, the series chronicles his efforts, along with the help of his band of aspiring wrestlers, as they balance their personal struggles and ambitions while coming together to save the historic gym. The series comes from director Greg Whiteley ("Last Chance U") and BBC Studios Los Angeles.

"Surviving Summer" – Season 2

Grab your wettie and your board for Season 2 of "Surviving Summer," premiering Friday, Sept. 15, on Netflix. Returning to the iconic, picturesque beaches of the Great Ocean Road on Wadawurrung Country in Victoria, Australia, "Surviving Summer" is, according to Netflix, "bursting with Aussie culture," following rambunctious teenage New Yorker Summer Torres (Sky Katz, "Raven's Home") after she moves "Down Under," leaving all she knows behind in order to live with family friends half-way across the world. There, in the tiny coastal town of Shorehaven, her life is changed forever. After receiving abundant praise for its first season — being the 9th most popular series on Netflix Australia, achieving a spot on the top 10 English speaking shows airing on Netflix globally, trending with millions of views on TikTok — Season 2 sees the return of more fans favorites, including Kai Lewins ("Wild Boys") as Ari Gibson, Savannah La Rain ("Ocean Boy") as Bodhi Mercer, and newcomers Joao Gabriel Marinho as Marlon Sousa and Lilliana 'Lil' Bowrey (reigning Open Women's Queensland Surf Champion) as Poppy Tetanui. "Surviving Summer" was created by Josh Mapleston ("Ready for This") and Joanna Werner ("Crazy Fun Park").

"A Million Miles Away" (2023)

Based on the book "Reaching for the Stars: The Inspiring Story of a Migrant Farmworker Turned Astronaut" by NASA flight engineer José Hernández, the inspiring new drama film "A Million Miles Away" premieres Friday, Sept. 15, on Prime Video. Inspired by Hernández's real-life story, the film follows him (portrayed in the film by Michael Pena, "Ant-Man," 2015) and his devoted family of proud migrant farm workers on a journey from a rural village in Michoacán, Mexico, to the fields of the San Joaquin Valley, California, to more than 200 miles above the Earth in the International Space Station. "With the unwavering support of his hard-working parents, relatives and teachers, José's unrelenting drive and determination culminates in the opportunity to achieve his seemingly impossible goal" (per Prime Video). Directed by Alejandra Márquez Abella ("Northern Skies Over Empty Space," 2022), the film features a screenplay by Abella, Bettina Gilois ("McFarland, USA," 2015) and Hernán Jiménez ("Love Hard," 2021). Rosa Salazar ("Alita: Battle Angel," 2019), Garret Dillahunt ("Raising Hope"), Eric Johnson ("The Knick"), Michelle Krusiec ("Hawaii Five-0"), Veronica Falcón ("Queen of the South"), Sarayu Blue ("I Feel Bad"), Julio Cesar Cedillo ("Cowboys & Aliens," 2011), Bobby Soto ("Flamin' Hot," 2023) and Ashley Ciarra ("Chupa," 2023).

"Written in the Stars" – Season 1

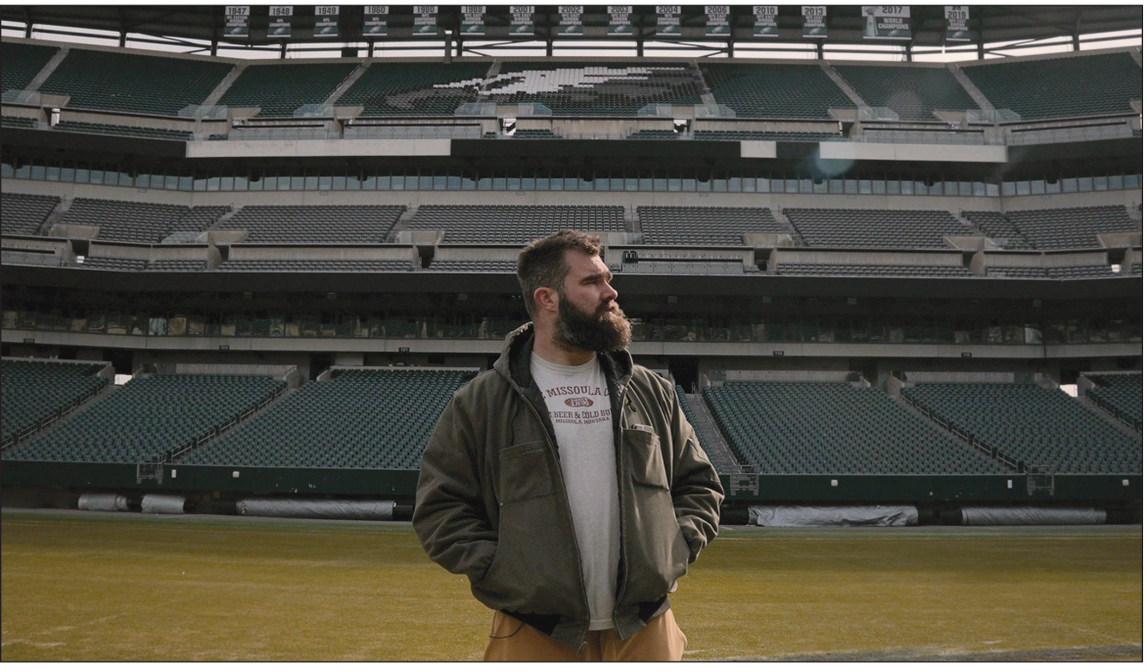

Do you know what time you were born? Your sun sign? Your moon? According to this series, it could have everything to do with your love life. Season 1 of "Written in the Stars" premieres Friday, Sept. 15, on Prime Video. In each of the series 12 episodes, viewers are introduced to a single representing one of the twelve zodiac signs (an aries, libra, capricorn, scorpio, etc.), and this person will go on dates with four people with whom they have different projected zodiac compatibility. Not only that – the dates in question will also be catered to represent that person's sign. As host Ingrid Guimarães ("Novo Mundo") watches on, she is joined by the famed astrologer Papisa, who shares her knowledge of the astral plane, explaining what characteristics may or may not stereotypically help or hinder the pair's potential romance. When the star-struck single finishes all four dates, they then eliminate their least favorite date and present the final three to Papisa, who relies on her knowledge to eliminate the least compatible of the remaining three, not explaining why. From there, the single is told every detail of her remaining partners' astrological charts, and must decide to either listen to the stars while choosing a mate, or pick the partner astrology doubts. Will it be a forever match or not? Well – no one can see the future, not even Papisa.

"Kelce" (2023)

Prime Video's newest sports documentary turns to the NFL when "Kelce" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 12, on the Amazon streamer. Heralded as "intimate and emotional" by Prime Video, "Kelce" chronicles the journey of Philadelphia Eagles team captain and all-pro center Jason Kelce through the 2022-23 season. Beginning with Jason Kelce facing down one of the toughest decisions a professional athlete has to face — when to hang it all up and retire — his choice to return to the National Football League for a 12th season sent him down what became a remarkable path. Along the way, Kelce's season is highlighted by the birth of his third daughter; the debut of his hit podcast "New Heights," co-hosted with his brother, Kansas City Chiefs all-pro tight end Travis Kelce; and a history-making Super Bowl appearance that placed the entire Kelce family at the center of the sports world. Directed by Don Argott ("Believer," 2018), "Kelce" is produced by Argott, Sheena M. Joyce ("Slugfest") and Larry Platt ("WeTown," 2018).

Henson's horrors

'Halloween Baking Championship' returns for spooky season

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Carla Hall from "Halloween Baking Championship"

Kids are in school, "PSLs" are back, and that can only mean one thing: "Spooky Season" is right around the corner. Pumpkin-flavored everything, apple pies galore, cinnamon practically hanging in the air — no one does Autumn like Food Network, delighting with more tricks and treats in a new season of "Halloween Baking Championship," premiering Monday, Sept. 11.

Season 9 of the competition sees the return of John Henson ("Wipeout") as host, alongside the all-star panel of celebrity judges who reigned supreme in Season 8: chef Carla Hall ("The Chew") and patissiers Stephanie Boswell ("Bake Or Break") and Zac Young ("Top Chef: Just Desserts").

Food Network has released descriptions for the series' first two episodes. According to the network, the season begins as "host John Henson welcomes a dozen bakers to the Henson & Sons Carnival, where they're ready for the ride of their lives. First, they must layer a 'tarot-misu' depicting the carnival's untimely demise. Then, the bakers scare up a new carnival mascot by designing creepy clown cakes."

Those lucky enough to make it to the second episode will face a frightfully gory night, with the Food Network promising a particularly "bloody" competition. "Do-nut try to steal John Henson's dream job," they say, "or things might get bloody. The remaining bakers make bloody filled doughnuts to commemorate an unfortunate accident. Then it's a joyful bake for some and doomed one for others as the competitors take judges [Hall, Boswell and Young] round and round on the creepiest carousel ever."

Each episode will see two rounds of spine-chilling competition. The bakers begin with the "Preliminary Heat," where they receive a bite-sized, Halloween-themed challenge that must be completed within a tight time frame. The patissier who presents the spookiest (and most delicious) treat will gain a mystery advantage — a trick to play against their fellow bakers, perhaps — heading into the "Main Heat."

This second round sees some intense frights and delights, as competitors are given a new theme and a longer time period to create whatever creepy-crawly confection they'd like. The bakers must present something larger than life, as the winner of the "Main Heat" immediately advances to the next round while one baker is eliminated from the game. The final three (or four) then compete in a winner-take-all finale, with one monstrous baker winning $25,000.

Sharpen your teeth and prepare to dine. Season 9 of "Halloween Baking Championship" begins Monday, Sept. 11, on Food Network.

Southern Charm

BRAV 9:00 PM

This season premiere puts our southern singles in some pretty weird water as love and romance don't always stay put in the parlor. Charleston may look buttoned up and honourable, but behind the scenes there's a whole lot of unbuttoning taking place.

No Demo Reno

HGTV 9:00 PM

Social media celebrity Jenn Todryk renovates a couple's mid-1960s home, which worked fine when they had one kid, but now they have three and the walls are closing in. With simple changes Jenn takes the house from cramped and cluttered to open and airy.

Buddy Games

(3) 9:00 PM

Six teams of friends reunite in groups of four in order to relive their glory days. They must compete in a wild assortment of crazy physical and mental challenges while staying together in the same lake house. Winner gets a chance at $150,000.

WWE Friday Night SmackDown

(44) 8:00 PM

The smackdown is on, as a new episode hits the ring. In this series, the Superstars of World Wrestling Entertainment do battle in elaborate, long-running rivalries in a weekly two-hour showdown — all broadcast live for viewers to tune in, in real time.

Cooley High

TCM 8:00 PM

"The Other Black Girl" - Season 1

Based on the debut novel of the same name by Zakiya Dalila Harris, Hulu's new mystery drama series, "The Other Black Girl," premieres Wednesday, Sept. 13. The series stars Sinclair Daniel ("Insidious: The Red Door," 2023) as Nella, an editorial assistant who is tired of being the only Black girl at Wagner Books, an New York City publishing company. So, when Wagner hires a new girl, Hazel (Ashleigh Murray, "Riverdale"), Nella is excited to finally feel like she has a friend by her side. But as Hazel settles into the company and begins to rise to the top, Nella is sent spiraling and discovers something sinister is going on at her company. Featuring a teleplay by Kara Brown ("In the Dark"), Gus Hickey ("Will & Grace"), Jordan Reddout ("Man With a Plan") and first-time screenwriter Janelle Spence, the series is directed by Mariama Diallo ("Random Acts of Flyness"), Aurora Guerrero ("Queen Sugar") and Naima Ramos-Chapman ("Random Acts of Flyness"). "The Other Black Girl" also stars Kate Owens ("In Your Own Skin," 2013), Karina Willis ("The Game"), Alyshia Ochse ("Days of Our Lives"), Hunter Parrish ("17 Again," 2009), Eric McCormack ("Will & Grace"), Brittany Adebumola ("4400") and Bellamy Young ("Scandal").

"Dragons: The Nine Realms" - Season 7

Get ready to jump back in the saddle with Season 7 of the computer-animated family series "Dragons: The Nine Realms," streaming on Hulu, Thursday, Sept. 14. Set 1,300 years after the events of DreamWorks' hit family film "How to Train Your Dragon" (2010), this computer-animated spinoff series takes place in the modern world, where dragons are nothing more than a myth. But when a geological anomaly opens up a fissure in the earth and draws in scientists from around the world in the series' first season, a group of misfit kids brought to the site by their parents uncover the secret of dragons and learn where they've simply been in hiding all these years. With the dragons rediscovered, it's up to the newest generation of Dragon Riders to keep their secrets safe as they explore, discover new realms and bond with the massive creatures. This season, as the threat of Buzzsaw (Haley Joel Osment, "The Sixth Sense," 1999) looms over Rakke town, the riders must race to get the Book of Dragons out of his hands to keep dragonkind safe. Meanwhile, Sledkin's (Carrie Keranen, "Miraculous: Tales of Ladybug & Cat Noir") dragonsite operation uncovers a new realm along with the formidable Glass Caster dragon. From creator Henry Gilroy ("Star Wars: Rebels"), "The Nine Realms" also voice stars Jeremy Shada ("Adventure Time"), Ashley Liao ("Fuller House"), Aimee Garcia ("Dexter"), Marcus Scribner ("Black-ish"), Vincent Tong ("Ninjago"), Julia Stiles ("The Lake") and Keston John ("In the Dark").

"The Magic Flute" (2022)

Based on the 1791 opera of the same name, composed by Mozart, this German musical fantasy film – "The Magic Flute" (2022) – will be available to stream on Hulu as of Wednesday, Sept. 13. Directed by Florian Sigl ("Gone Underground," 2001), the film stars Jack Wolfe ("Shadow and Bone"), F. Murray Abraham ("Amadeus," 1984), Niamh McCormack ("The Witcher") and more as iconic characters from the opera, and itself features 17 arias from the original production, including "Have Mercy," "Two Little Birds," "Pa, Pa, Papagena," and "Long Live to Sarastro." The modernized story follows as 17-year-old Tim Walker (Wolfe) travels from London to the Austrian Alps in order to attend a highly-regarded boarding school. There, Walker discovers a centuries old passageway, one that leads him right into the fantastical, musical world of Mozart's "The Magic Flute." With a screenplay by Andrew Lowery ("Buffy the Vampire Slayer"), the film also stars Iwan Rheon ("Game of Thrones"), Stéfi Celma ("Call My Agent!"), Ellie Courtiour ("The Outlaws") and more.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: When the "Pawn Stars" guys call in people for appraisals and expert advice, do they get reimbursed?

A: The various experts who come in to Gold & Silver Pawn Shop to help with trickier items — rare books, collectibles and so on — don't get a cent for their appearances, and they're quite happy about it.

"It's been a great experience and helped my business tremendously," said Steve Grad, lead autograph authenticator on "Pawn Stars," in an interview with Deadline.com. "I hope it lasts forever because I love it so much."

What he's saying, essentially, is that he's paid in exposure. That's a familiar concept in reality TV — so many of the people who volunteer for public scrutiny on a reality show do so with dreams of bigger fame to come. But the exchange is a little more direct on "Pawn Stars" — for these experts, most of whom are business owners themselves, the exposure translates to higher sales.

The History series, about day-to-day business at a pawn shop in downtown Las Vegas, has made the once-modest Gold & Silver Pawn into a Vegas tourist attraction. And it has done the same for some of these other businesses.

Jeremy Brown, "Pawn Stars'" sports collectibles guy, said he actually moved his store — Ultimate Sports Cards and Memorabilia — to be closer to Gold & Silver.

"We have tours that come through here — 30 to 120 people a day — all because of the show," he told Deadline. "They might only spend 15 minutes in our shop, but they come back or do transactions by email. We've made some customers for life from those tours."

Q: What has Jeffrey Donovan been doing since "Burn Notice"?

A: He's been coming full circle, in a way.

The popularity of USA Network's dramedy "Burn Notice," which ran from 2007 to 2013, caught many by surprise and turned star Jeffrey Donovan into a leading man.

Rather than pursue hunky-hero stardom, though, he soon switched to supporting roles in weightier projects. That included playing morally complex characters who flirted with outright villainy in major films such as "Sicario" (2015) and "Wrath of Man" (2021).

But he recently turned back toward straightforward heroism, and leading-man status, on "Law & Order." He joined the revival of NBC's flagship cop drama in 2021, playing Det. Frank Cosgrove, the latest in a long line of detectives who anchor the "Order" aspect of the show. (For anyone who, somehow, has never seen an episode of "Law & Order," the episodes are generally divided into two halves, one following cops and one following lawyers.)

Donovan wrapped his second season in the role earlier this year, and we have every reason to believe he'll be back next season — the show's 23rd.

Joining the "Law & Order" cast was a full-circle moment for him in another way as well: One of his very first acting roles was as a corpse in a 1995 episode. The guest-hungry series brought him back again 12 years later to play a murder suspect, just a few months before he debuted in his life-changing role on "Burn Notice."

Q: Are the people who did "Homeland" going to make another series?

A: Alex Gansa and Howard Gordon, college buddies at Princeton who moved to Hollywood together to pursue writing careers, have already launched their first post-"Homeland" series. But their efforts to make more haven't been as successful.

Gansa and Gordon created the Showtime spy drama "Homeland" in 2011, based on an earlier Israeli series, and they were very hands-on through its eight-season run. But once it ended in 2020, they were free to pursue other projects.

The first was a documentary film called "The Longest War," about America's military engagement in Afghanistan.

It took nearly three years to get their next project off the ground: Fox's anthology crime drama "Accused."

That was the first actual product to come out of their deal with Sony Pictures Television. I say "actual product" because, otherwise, all the deal has gotten them has been a string of rejected ideas.

They made big news earlier this year when they announced they would team up to create a TV adaptation of the cult sci-fi film "Gattaca" (1997). It was going to air on Showtime, but just a few weeks ago the cable channel pulled out of the project.

That was a repetition of the late-2020 plan to adapt the hit novel "Dinner at the Center of the Earth," another spy thriller set partly in the Middle East. That, too, was going to put Gansa and Gordon back on Showtime, until Showtime changed its mind.

But talking about these unproduced shows risks overshadowing the one that got made. "Accused" has been a huge hit for Fox in its first season — 14 million people watched its premiere in January — and Fox wasted little time in renewing it for a second.
