Good taste: A cookbook author bounces back from loss in 'The Five Star Weekend'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

The perfect recipe for a memorable beach weekend includes good friends, good food and a pajama dance party. After weathering the aftermath of a difficult loss, bestselling cookbook author Hollis Shaw (Jennifer Garner, "The Last Thing He Told Me") decides to shake off her grief with a very special girls' weekend in the new eight-part drama miniseries "The Five Star Weekend," premiering Thursday, July 9, on Peacock. Stream the first three episodes on premiere day, with the remaining episodes dropping every Thursday.

Hollis lives a picture-perfect life with her loyal "Hungry With Hollis" community, easy warmth and hospitality and loving family. That life gets flipped on its head when the news of her husband's sudden death in a car accident arrives on her doorstep in the form of two police officers, just as Hollis is preparing one of her most favorite holiday recipes in the official trailer for the upcoming series.

Seasons change, and as time goes on, Hollis decides to plan a weekend of hosting at her Nantucket beach house. Invited to join her on the picturesque island are four friends, each from different parts of her life, together making up the five stars of her five-star weekend: Hollis's childhood best friend, Tatum McKenzie (Chloe Sevigny, "Monster"); her college roommate, Dru-Ann Jones (Regina Hall, "One Battle After Another," 2025); her close parenting friend, Brooke Kirtley (D'Arcy Carden, "Sunny Nights"); and a new friend whom Hollis met through social media, Gigi Ling (Gemma Chan, "The Creator," 2023).

Though Hollis's life looked like a dream from the outside, losing her husband emphasized the cracks in the veneer. Now that it is just the two of them, Hollis struggles to connect with her daughter Caroline (Harlow Jane, "She Came to Me," 2023) as they both live in the lonely beach house. An aspiring filmmaker, Caroline has been pushing herself away from Hollis as she processes her father's death. Hollis's marriage to her husband, Matthew (Josh Hamilton, "Something Very Bad Is Going to Happen"), when he was alive, was waning, making her grief for him and their partnership complicated.

The girls' weekend is Hollis's attempt to breathe some life into her home and foster new connections as she rekindles sacred friendships and maybe inches closer into her daughter's good graces. Something more than friendship might be brewing, though, as someone else from Hollis's past crashes her plans. A childhood sweetheart, Jack (Timothy Olyphant, "Alien: Earth"), returns to Hollis's life, making a big splash at the girls' weekend.

The recurring cast includes David Denman ("Peacemaker") as Kyle McKenzie; Rob Huebel ("Running Point") as Charlie Kirtley; Judy Greer ("Reboot") as Electra; West Duchovny ("Painkiller") as Aubrey; Tory Devon Smith ("Cherish the Day") as John Mark; Henry Eikenberry ("Lisa Frankenstein," 2024) as Dylan Leclair; and Roberta Colindrez ("A League of Their Own") as Sunny.

The series was adapted from the 2023 novel of the same name from author Elin Hilderbrand. Creator and showrunner Bekah Brunstetter ("This Is Us") immediately saw the book's potential for series adaptation after reading the novel. She told Entertainment Weekly, "I found it to be this incredible combination of lightness and depth, which is really hard to find in a series. I just really believe in TV shows that uplift but also challenge at the same time."

Garner was a natural fit for the lead, of course, as the actress has her own social media following for sharing recipes and cooking adventures. She differs from Hollis in approach, though, she told EW, saying, "She's such a beautiful baker; the opposite of me. I'm a very kind of messy baker."

About her character's strained relationship with her daughter, Garner said, "She's not wanting to show her daughter how she's grieving. She doesn't want to burden her. At the same time, she's almost scared of her daughter's grief. They're circling each other in this incredibly painful way."

Hollis brings all of her friends together to help her out of the rut she is in, but each of the weekend invitees has their own problems that they're dealing with. Gigi, who meets Hollis for the first time in Nantucket, is a commercial airline pilot. She is buttoned up and put together from the outside, but under the surface, Gigi is "kind of a hot mess," Chan told EW.

Tatum, who grew up with Hollis and never left town, faces health issues, while sports agent Dru-Ann waits out a social media hate-storm after making unsavory public comments about one of her clients. Finally Brooke, who appears to be waffling over exploring her sexuality in the trailer, seems to share a connection with Sunny at a bar.

The TV landscape isn't exactly overrun with series about middle-age women all living very different lives. One beloved sitcom may come to mind, uncharitably name-dropped in the trailer, "enjoy your 'Golden Girls' weekend," Caroline snaps at her mother.

For Carden, this time in her life is obviously rich with the kind of drama that fills a miniseries. She told EW that midlife "is such an interesting age, because there's so much happening." Carden continued: "In the same friend group, you could have somebody whose kid is going to college and somebody who's pregnant, and somebody who is in their second marriage and somebody who's divorced. The stories are endless."

Don't miss the premiere of "The Five Star Weekend" Thursday, July 9, on Peacock. Stream the first three episodes on premiere day, with the remaining episodes dropping every Thursday.

'Ellis' is on it: British sleuth investigates nearly cold cases in second season

Andrew Gower and Sharon D. Clarke in "Inspector Ellis"

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

A country's crime rates — like its employment rates, birth rates and other social metrics — fluctuate depending on anything from leadership and funding to citizenship happiness and comfort. In Finland, for example, a country that Gallup's 272-page 2026 World Happiness Report just named the happiest country on the planet for the ninth consecutive year, homicide clearance rates are maintaining at around 98% (meaning that approximately 98% of all reported homicides in Finland result in a conviction). Gallup's data, collected across 147 countries and based on metrics such as "social support," "life expectancy" and "perceptions of corruption" among other considerations, ranks the United States at No. 23 on the happiness scale (the U.S. has a roughly 50% solve rate), with the United Kingdom trailing slightly behind in 29th position after recovering from what BBC reported as "woefully low" clearance rates in 2019, often leading to cold cases. But who does one call when a criminal case hits a wall? Who ensures that there are fewer cold cases on the books? In England — on TV, anyway — that call goes to DCI Ellis, a brilliant homicide detective played by three-time Olivier Award winner Sharon D. Clarke ("Holby City"). Season 2 of "Inspector Ellis," also known simply as "Ellis," premieres Monday, July 6, on Acorn TV.

"Inspector Ellis" first premiered on Halloween 2024 in the U.K. With its uniquely short first season (even by British standards), the three-episode procedural about a pair of detectives who help police solve failing investigations garnered considerable attention before ultimately earning a second-season renewal in May 2025. And although the four-episode sophomore season released at home on Channel 5 this past March, it comes to North America this summer thanks to AMC's Acorn TV. "Season 2 sees DCI Ellis (Clarke), who together with her colleague DS Harper [Andrew Gower, "Outlander"], face a new wave of fractured communities and suspicious deaths that test not only her forensic brilliance but her resilience," reads the description, per AMC Global Media. "This season takes them from a rural village, where the suspicious death of a beloved community leader exposes long-nursed resentments, to the industrial shadow of a stoneworks, where the death of a young woman reveals a hidden network of coercion and exploitation. Every case peels back layers of silence, ambition and betrayal."

The trailer, released June 3 by Acorn TV on YouTube, shows the officers of a small English precinct being introduced to Ellis and Harper as the duo prepares to take the reins on a murder investigation wherein the crime appears to have been staged as a workplace accident. Punctuated by a powerful orchestral score and words of praise for both the show and Clarke (hailed by The Hollywood Reporter as "a titan"), the trailer showcases the rolling hills, stone-laden villages and winding roadways of Ashenham and Elmsly, both fictional towns set in Northern England and filmed in Northern Ireland.

"It's location-based, so you're not in the same police station every week with the same colleagues," Clarke says per Mirror.co.uk. "You get out and about and you see different people, and such beautiful, lovely creative talent have joined the Ellis family this year."

Joining Clarke and Gower in Ashenham this season are John Hollingworth ("Poldark"), Joel Morris ("Gentleman Jack"), Sasha Desouza-Willock ("Deep Heat"), Ciarad Lloyd ("Peep Show"), Sonny Walker ("The Gathering"), Niamh Blackshaw ("Waterloo Road") and Keir Charles ("Green Wing"), while Matilda Freeman ("Coronation Street"), Mark Addy ("A Knight's Tale," 2001), Stephen Tompkinson ("Ballykissangel"), Jack Bandeira ("Happy Valley"), Sophie Stanton ("Beautiful Thing," 1996), Caroline O'Neill ("Queer as Folk") and Judy Flynn ("The House of Eliott") co-star in Elmsly.

Allison Harding ("Beauty and the Beast," 2017) and Charlotte McCurry ("Titanic Sinks Tonight") also return this season as ACC Alison Leighton and DC Kate Trent, respectively.

As for whether "Ellis" is expected for a third season, no renewal has yet been announced. But in the event that the procedural should not be renewed again, it would not be due to a lack of interest on the part of the cast.

"If we can keep entertaining audiences and they keep wanting more, then that's what we'll do," Gower told Radio Times in May. "I think the more series we have or the more episodes we have ... then that means that we're doing something right and that means that this relationship can grow."

But for now, "Inspector Ellis" fans must continue their relationship by way of Season 2, an installment for which Clarke was delighted to return.

"I am thrilled to return as DCI Ellis," Clarke said per Deadline at the time of renewal in 2025. "I am excited to continue this journey with such a talented team, especially with the wonderful Andrew Gower by my side. Ellis is a character who resonates deeply, and I can't wait for audiences to see what we have in store for her and Harper in Season 2."

"Inspector Ellis" premieres its sophomore season Monday, July 6, on Acorn TV.

National Geographic airs summertime SharkFest for a 14th year

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Swimming with sharks: Cue the "Jaws" theme music, find your spot on the couch and take a bite out of National Geographic's apex summer event, as SharkFest kicks off this Sunday, July 5, with "Hammerhead Sharks Up Close with Bertie Gregory" premiering on National Geographic.

"In Mexico's Pacific waters, Bertie Gregory ['Dolphins Up Close with Bertie Gregory'] goes in search of one of the ocean's most iconic predators: the hammerhead shark," reads the network's description. "Once abundant in these seas, hammerhead populations have plummeted, making sightings increasingly rare."

"Joining forces with leading shark scientists and local experts," the description continues, "Bertie investigates what's driving the hammerhead decline, and how protected waters offer hope for the future. His journey culminates in a rare and unforgettable encounter that shines a light on the future of one of the world's most famous sharks."

As with previous years, National Geographic has prepared nonstop underwater entertainment to air alongside Bertie's adventure, combining jaw-dropping encounters with the latest scientific information, revealing new insights into the predator's behaviors, habits and ongoing conservation efforts.

In "World's Biggest Mako," for example, a team of scientists searches the waters above New Zealand to find the elusive giant mako shark. Aided by local fishermen, these experts encounter increasingly large makos — a species once considered endangered but which now seems to be making a comeback.

Meanwhile, in "Attack of the Samurai Sharks," experts examine a 3,000 year old cold case, trying to determine if an ancient skeleton could've been the earliest known victim of a shark attack. Found in Japan, the victim's skeleton was discovered with unusually deep cut marks — marks once thought to be from a Samurai sword attack. However, shark experts Alyssa White, Gavin Naylor, Kirin Sekito and Masato Na-katsukasa offer their own killer theory.

Other series, such as "Shark vs. Giant Crocs," examine the species' relationship to other toothy predators down below. Experts Nico Lubitz and Adam Barnett travel into the wilds of northeastern Australia, where they investigate reports of bullsharks clashing with saltwater crocodiles along the Daintree River. While "[attempting] to fit a camera to the back of a big territorial boss croc, they risk [it] all," a press release explains.

Dive into shark-infested waters, when SharkFest begins Sunday, July 5, on National Geographic.

Expect the unexpected: Clear your schedule and prepare for a summer filled with vetoes, evictions and HOH nominations, as Season 28 of "Big Brother" kicks off with a super-sized, 90-minute episode airing this Thursday, July 9, on CBS.

But that's not all. The drama continues just three days later, with another 90-minute episode making its debut the following Sunday, July 12, giving viewers a good taste of what's to come before starting "Big Brother's" usual Wednesday, Thursday, Sunday release schedule the following week.

The upcoming season will see the return of long-standing host Julie Chen Moonves ("Entertainment Tonight"), who follows along as a group of total strangers learn to co-habitate under one roof. While under constant, 24/7 surveillance, these houseguests face unique challenges, unexpected relationships, feuds and more — all with the threat of eviction looming constantly over their heads. Each week, one player is asked to leave the house, making numbers dwindle until only one player remains, earning themselves a $750,000 prize.

While this season's contestants have yet to be announced, The U.S. Sun has previously reported that Season 28 will likely see the return of veteran "Big Brother" houseguests.

"Sources close to production have spilled that CBS executives are actively planning to bring back a mix of veteran players alongside brand-new contestants for the first time in over six years," The U.S. Sun claim.

Regardless, this upcoming season will see a historic moment for "Big Brother" as it reaches its milestone 1,000th episode. The program is set to become "the first entertainment television series in American history to reach 1,000 original episodes in prime time" (per GoldDerby), with 975 episodes currently under its belt. Season 28 is set to reach this milestone sometime in August, with "Big Brother" seasons usually featuring 30 to 40 episodes. The series' last big milestone — hitting 500 episodes — took place in September of 2013, near the end of "Big Brother's" 15th season.

Additionally, fans can expect the return of the "Big Brother" companion series, "Big Brother: Unlocked," which shares exclusive footage from inside the house, extended interviews, surprise guest appearances, behind-the-scenes drama and more.

"Packed with new segments and returning fan favorites, the series breaks down gameplay, evaluates the competition and shares insider perspectives, starting Friday, July 10," explains CBS.

The history-making Season 28 of "Big Brother" premieres Thursday, July 9, on CBS.

"Nothing to Lose" (2026)
From the creator of "Thicker Than Water" comes "Nothing to Lose," a heart-wrenching new movie arriving on Netflix this Wednesday, July 8. Nawell Madani ("The Gardener," 2025) stars as Jade, a woman who has spent years longing to become a mother. After struggling to conceive with her partner, an embryo donation finally makes it possible. She soon gives birth to a baby boy, but the joy doesn't last for long. Now a single mother on her own, Jade receives the kind of news no parent could ever be prepared for: her newborn son has been diagnosed with a rare form of leukemia, and finding a compatible bone marrow donor may be his only hope. With time working against her and everything at stake, Jade refuses to stop fighting to find a match. What follows is the story of a mother who will go to any length to save her son. Madani co-wrote and co-directed the film alongside Ludovic Colbeau-Justin ("Just One Look"); starring Nicolas Briancon ("Master Crimes"), Guillaume Gouix ("Under a Dark Sun"), Steve Tientchieu ("Cash Queens," 2026), David Salles ("Serial (Bad) Weddings," 2014), Majida Ghomari ("Nona and Her Daugh-

"Miguel Angel Blanco: The 48 Hours that Changed Spain"

A nation's grief, outrage and awakening are revisited when "Miguel Angel Blanco: The 48 Hours That Changed Spain" premieres Friday, July 10, on Netflix. Directed by journalists Jon Sistiaga ("Born in Gaza," 2014) and Juanjo Lopez ("Femenino singular," 1982), this powerful documentary returns to the summer of 1997, when the kidnapping of Miguel Angel Blanco by the terrorist group ETA plunged Spain into a tense, heartbreaking race against time. For 48 agonizing hours, millions of people watched, waited and hoped as citizens flooded streets and public squares, demanding his release and refusing to remain silent. What followed would become one of the most defining moments in modern Spanish history. Marking the 29th anniversary of Blanco's death — the same age he was when he was killed — the film reconstructs those pivotal days through archival footage and firsthand testimony from political leaders, journalists, family members, police officers and ordinary citizens who lived through the crisis. Narrated by Sistiaga, who covered the events as a young reporter, the docu-

"Husbands in Action" (2026)

A South Korean action-comedy flick from writer-director Gyu-tae Park ("6/45," 2022), 2026's "Husbands in Action" is now available to stream on Netflix. For Hwang Choong-sik (Jin Seon-kyu, "The Price of Confession"), it's not easy meeting his ex's new husband, Min-seok (Gong Myoung, "Extreme Job," 2019). The two men clash in every possible way, from their jobs, to their personalities, to their parenting tactics. But when Si-nae (Kang Ha-na, "Empire of Lust," 2015) — Choong-sik's ex-wife, Min-seok's current wife — and her daughter are both kidnapped by a drug lord, Choong-sik and Min-seok are forced to put their rivalry aside, working side-by-side to save their family from total destruction. Kim Ji Suk ("Cashero"), Yoon Kyung-ho ("My Daughter Is a Zombie," 2025), Lee Da-hee ("I Hear Your Voice"), Jeon So Min ("Love, Again," 2018), Oh Eun-Seo ("Friendly Rivalry"), Lee Hyun Kul ("Officer Black Belt," 2024), Lee Han-sol ("The Good, the Bad, the Weird," 2008) and Kim Yo-han ("A Killer Paradox") also star.

"Trying" – Season 5

The beloved family comedy "Trying" returns for its fifth season, streaming on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel this Wednesday, July 8, with new episodes streaming weekly through Wednesday, Aug. 26. For Nikki (Esther Smith, "Cuckoo") and Jason (Rafe Spall, "The Big Short," 2015), the road to parenthood was anything but easy, forcing them to navigate infertility, adoption panels and all the emotions that came along with it. Their journey eventually led them to adopting Princess (Scarlett Rayner, "Silverpoint") and Tyler (Cooper Turner, "Trash Truck"), allowing them to settle into their new lives together as a family. This season, however, the past comes knocking when Kat (Charlotte Riley, "Peaky Blinders"), the children's biological mother, unexpectedly arrives at their doorstep hoping to reconnect with them. Now, Nikki and Jason must find a way to make room for Kat and the "whirlwind of chaos she brings into their settled family life" (per Apple TV). The ensemble cast also includes Darren Boyd ("Down Cemetery Road"), Sian Brooke ("Blue Lights"), Celia Imrie ("The Thursday Murder Club"), Phil

Davis ("Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince," 2009), Gbemisola Iku-melo ("Black Ops") and Colin Morgan ("Belfast," 2021).

"Criminal Minds: Evolution" – Season 19

Crack open another "UnSub" file, with a new episode of "Criminal Minds: Evolution" making its debut on Prime Video — through the Paramount+ channel — this Friday, July 10. A moodier, more psychological approach to the crime procedural model than "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation," "Evolution" follows a team of FBI profilers as they analyze the methods, means and possible motives behind spree and serial killings across the United States. Led by Behavioral Analysis Unit Chief Emily Prentiss (Paget Brewster, "How I Met Your Father"), the BAU uses evidence and victimology to create an unknown subject, or "UnSub," profile, thus essentially creating a guide to identifying the murderer. This season, the BAU enlists help from Elias Voit (Zach Gilford, "Friday Night Lights") — who is serving life in prison for his crimes — in searching for a killer who is copying his crimes. While all leading cast members have returned for Season 19, many fans of the procedural are most excited for the growing gamut

RJ Hatanaka, Aisha Tyler, Connor Storrie, Adam Rodriguez and A.J. Cook in "Criminal Minds: Evolution" of guest stars, which includes "Heat-Ed Rivalry" star Connor Storrie, "Community" comedian Yvette Nicole Brown, "Star Trek: Voyager's" Jeri Ryan, "Weeds" actor Justin Kirk and "Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D." star Clark Gregg.

"Trespassers" (2018)

Hell is where the home is. Available now on Prime Video via the AMC+ channel, "Trespassers" (2018) follows two couples who retreat to a luxurious desert home, where simmering relationship conflicts soon rise to the surface. Their vacation takes an unexpected turn when a mysterious young woman arrives at the door claiming to be a stranded neighbor whose car has broken down nearby. At first, her request for help seems innocent enough, but as the hours pass, things take a darker turn when she refuses to leave and they find themselves trapped in an increasingly dangerous situation where nothing is quite as it seems. Directed by Orson Oblowitz ("The Queen of Hollywood Blvd," 2017) with a script penned by Corey Deshon ("A Million Little Things"), "Trespassers" stars Angela Trimbur ("Search Party"), Janel Parrish ("Pretty Little Liars"), Jonathan Howard ("Thor: The Dark World," 2013), Zach Avery ("The Duel," 2011) and Fairuza Balk ("Almost famous," 2000).

Going global

Fieri hosts international competition under 'GGG' banner

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

While all eyes are on North American sporting stadiums for the FIFA World Cup, Food Network hosts its own international competition from the supermarket aisles. "Guy's Grocery Games: Global Games," a new tournament-style spinoff series hosted by American restaurateur Guy Fieri ("Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives"), premieres Thursday, July 9, on Food Network.

Designed in the image of previous "Guy's Grocery Games" tournaments — think last year's Greatest of All Time tournament or the Tournament of Champions, for example — "Global Games" sees eight returning chefs compete using their international cuisine of choice for the grand prize of $50,000 and "international glory" (per Parade.com).

"While Food Network has not yet revealed the tournament structure," reads a June 4 article from Parade.com, who initially broke Food Network's July programming schedule, "fans may see similarities to last year's G.O.A.T. competition. That tournament unfolded over multiple weeks and featured a bracket-style format in which top competitors faced a series of increasingly difficult grocery store challenges before one chef was ultimately crowned champion."

Competitors in the five-part series

Contestants of "Guy's Grocery Games: Global Games"

include San Diego-based journalist and chef Claudette Zepeda ("Iron Chef: Quest for an Iron Legend"), who presents meals of a Mexican origin; "Iron Chef America" winner Viet Pham, who takes on Vietnamese cuisine; Italian chef and writer Gabe Bertaccini ("Ciao House"), who, of course, represents Italian cuisine; "Top Chef" Season 16 contestant and Heirloom Kitchen chef David Viana, who cooks according to Portuguese and Iberian styles; Kevin Lee ("Beat Bobby Flay"), owner of Birdies in Oklahoma, who competes in the tradition of Korean cuisine; former NFL player Tobias Dorzon ("Chopped"), who presents food influenced by his West African heritage; CookUnity chef and Taim Falafel founder Einat Admony ("Chopped"), who cooks according to her Israeli background; and Aarthi Sampath ("Alex Vs America"), owner of New York City restaurant Dravida, who presents meals rooted in Indian culture.

"Global Games" is one of many new and returning series on Food Network this summer. In addition to resurrecting the Restaurant: Impossible franchise this month, Food Network also welcomes new series "Pitmasters," a barbecue competition hosted by Andrew Zimmern ("Bizarre Foods with Andrew Zimmern"); "Kitchen Undercover," a hidden-camera rescue series; and "Kitchen Chaos," about cooking-related mishaps, the latter of which premieres after "Global Games."

The Drama

Emma (Zendaya) and Charlie (Pattinson) appear to be the perfect couple and are only days away from their wedding. Their seemingly idyllic relationship is shattered during a gathering with friends when Emma reveals a shocking secret from her past. The confession forces Charlie to re-evaluate everything he thought about the woman he loves. As the wedding approaches, the couple spirals into a tense and often absurd emotional crisis.

Director: Kristoffer Borgli. Stars: Zendaya, Robert Pattinson, Alana Haim, Mahmoudou Athie, Hailey Benton Gates. 2026. 105 min. Black Comedy.

Fuze

When an unexploded bomb from WWII is discovered at a major construction site, authorities order a large-scale evacuation. Maj. Will Tranter (Taylor-Johnson), a highly skilled bomb-disposal officer, is tasked with leading the dangerous mission to assess and neutralize the device. Calm under pressure and intensely focused, Will must navigate the growing tension surrounding the operation while balancing the safety of thousands of civilians. Working alongside him is Chief Superintendent Zuzana Greenfield (Mbatha-Raw), the senior police officer responsible for coordinating the evacuation and maintaining order as panic begins to spread through the city. With emergency services focus on preventing a catastrophe, a group of criminals led by Karalis (James) sees the chaos as the perfect opportunity to carry out a daring heist. As the crisis unfolds, secrets, shifting loyalties and unexpected connections begin to emerge, blurring the line between hero and criminal.

Director: David Mackenzie. Stars: Aaron Taylor-Johnson, Theo James, Gugu Mbatha-Raw, Sam Worthington. 2025. 96 min. Crime Thriller.

Last Hit

Vincent (Ferguson) and Maya (Barnett) are a skilled criminal couple who have spent years working for a powerful gang leader named Dante (Duplay). Tired of the constant danger, violence and uncertainty of their profession, the two decide they want out. They plan to complete one final job, take their earnings and leave their criminal lives behind for good. However, in the world they inhabit, walking away is far easier said than done. The pair's final assignment quickly unravels when they discover that the operation is not what it seems. Hidden motives, double-crosses and competing agendas transform what should have been a routine score into a dangerous trap. As Vincent and Maya begin to suspect that they may have been manipulated by the very people they trusted, they realize that their desire for freedom has put them directly in the crosshairs of their ruthless employer.

Director: David M. Parks. Stars: Twana Barnett, Mike Ferguson, LeeAnne Bauer, Levee Duplay, Cody Cowell, Trent James. 2026. 79 min. Crime Thriller.

Oscar Micheaux: The Superhero of Black Filmmaking

TCM 8:00 PM

As a pioneer of African American film-making in the early 20th century, Oscar Micheaux created films like “Within Our Gates,” “Swing!” and “God’s Step Children.” This documentary from Francesco Zippel looks back at his life and career.

Breaking the Deadlock

③③ ⑤7 9:00 PM

In each and every episode, panelists are asked to debate a hypothetical scenario based on real-life situations. This week, moderator Aaron Tang guides the group through a scenario involving election issues and questionable government integrity.

Neighborhood Wars

A&E 9:00 PM

A man springs into action when an active shooter threatens his neighbor’s home in Glenwood, Iowa. Meanwhile, in Florida, a family is shocked to find their doorbell camera has captured footage of a neighbor entering their home, entirely uninvited.

Password

⑤ ⑫ 10:00 PM

Keke Palmer hosts as Jimmy Fallon and Wayne Brady team with everyday contestants during this latest episode. Across three fast-paced rounds, players trade one-word clues hoping to crack each password, with the winning duo claiming $25,000.

Matt Damon in "Saving Private Ryan"

Saving Private Ryan

AMC 1:00 PM

When three brothers are killed in combat during World War II, Capt. John Miller (Tom Hanks) leads his men behind enemy lines to find Pvt. James Ryan (Matt Damon), the fourth and last-remaining brother. Steven Spielberg directs this 1998 classic.

The Valley

BRAV 8:00 PM

While Janet finally opens up to Lala about her storied past, Michelle and Lacy get emotional at the start of their own new chapter. Jesse, meanwhile, reveals a secret to Kristen about her future with Luke. Lastly, tensions soar at Danny's birthday dinner.

The American Southwest

(33) (57) 10:00 PM

The Colorado River carves the landscapes and sustains the wildlife of the American Southwest from the snow-capped Rockies to the blistering Mojave Desert. This film traces the river's path and the remarkable creatures that rely on its dwindling waters.

Kitchen Chaos

FOOD 10:00 PM

This brand-new series makes its debut, seeing chefs Adrienne Cheatham, Ayesha Nurdjaja and Zac Young sharing their expert opinions on painful kitchen wipeouts, collapsing baked goods, exploding egg disasters and overall chaos in the kitchen.

Save My Skin

TLC 10:00 PM

Now in its sixth season, this docuseries follows renowned dermatologist Dr. Emma Craythorne and her expert colleagues as they diagnose and treat patients with some of the most extreme skin conditions found in the United Kingdom.

Zac Efron, Marcia Gay Harden and Aidan Sullivan star in "Parkland"

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

"Parkland" (2013)
Directed by Peter Landesman ("Mark Felt: The Man Who Brought Down the White House," 2017) and produced by Tom Hanks ("Big," 1988), this historical drama revisits the assassination of President John F. Kennedy when "Parkland" (2013) arrives this Friday, July 10, on Hulu. On Nov. 22, 1963, President John F. Kennedy (Brett Stimely, "Transformers: Dark of the Moon," 2011) is riding through Dealey Plaza in Dallas, Texas, where crowds line the streets to catch a glimpse of the president and his wife, First Lady Jackie Kennedy (Kat Steffens, "Love & Death"). In an instant, a man opens fire, with two bullets striking the president. Zac Efron ("High School Musical," 2006) stars as Dr. Jim Carrico, a young resident at Parkland Memorial Hospital, where he and doctors and nurses await the president's arrival — a moment history knows ends tragically. As news of the president's assassination travels beyond the hospital's walls, Forrest Sorrels (Billy Bob Thornton, " Fargo"), a Secret Service agent, works alongside the FBI to try and make sense of the tragedy. Meanwhile, Robert Oswald (James Badge Dale, "The Pacific"), the shooter's brother, is left to face a grieving nation's fury. Before the day

Saturday, July 4, 2026

ends, the country has a new president and America will never be the same.

"Daniel Isn't Real" (2019)
Haunted by a childhood tragedy that blurs imagination and reality, a young man's life unravels when his imaginary friend returns. This Friday, July 10, director Adam Egypt Mortimer's ("Some Kind of Hate," 2015) psychological horror film "Daniel Isn't Real" (2019) arrives on Hulu, starring Miles Robbins ("The X-Files") as Luke, a young boy who meets Daniel (Patrick Schwarzenegger, "The White Lotus") after witnessing a mass shooting at a neighborhood coffee shop. As the two grow closer, Luke wonders why he's the only one who can see his new friend. At first, his friendship is one that Luke welcomes. But when Daniel's influence turns sinister, Luke is left with no other choice but to banish him into an old dollhouse that once belonged to his mother, Claire (Mary Stuart Masterson, "Some Kind of Wonderful," 1987). Years later, after Luke suffers a violent family trauma, he unlocks the dollhouse while staying over at his childhood home — a mistake, unbeknownst to him, that will cost him everything. His old friend returns, at first helping Luke save his mother, achieve his dreams and begin a romance with his friend, Cassie (Sasha Lane, "American Honey," 2016). But it's not long before Daniel pushes Luke into a desperate fight for his soul — and his own body.

"Hick" (2011)
From director Derick Martini ("Louis," 2010) and based on the novel by Andrea Portes ("The Oversharer"), 2011's "Hick" arrives this Friday, July 10, on Hulu. In 1980s Nebraska, Luli McMullen (Chloe Grace Moretz, "My Mom's Murder") has grown used to being on her own, caught between a neglectful mother and an alcoholic father who do little but fight with each other. When she's given a revolver for her 13th birthday, it becomes the only thing she trusts. After both parents abandon her, Luli sets off on a whim, chasing a Las Vegas commercial and the promise of a better life. The road delivers her into the orbit of strangers who blur the line between danger and family: Glenda (Blake Lively, "It Ends

With Us," 2024), a quick-witted thief, and Eddie (Eddie Redmayne, "The Theory of Everything," 2014), a charming but volatile drifter whose attention curdles into obsession. As the people Luli trusts reveal their true natures one by one, her cross-country escape spirals into something far more violent than she ever imagined — forcing her to fight for her life long before she's old enough to understand what she's fighting for.

Katherine Barrell stars in “O Little Christmas Market” WNBA Basketball

②② 1:00 PM The New York Liberty visit the Target Center in Minneapolis to face the Minnesota Lynx in a clash of WNBA heavyweights. Two title-contending rosters square off in what should be a fast, physical and closely fought matchup with seeding on the line.

O Little Christmas Market

HALL 8:00 PM Architect Grayson (Stephen Huszar) has a job: clear the way for his firm’s development. The trouble is the cherished Christmas market in the way and its fierce defender Olivia (Katherine Barrell), a miniature artist who is impossible not to fall for.

He Couldn’t Let Go

LIFE 8:00 PM Mariana Cruz (Christina Milian) can read body language and sense the truths people hide. After a tense work encounter sends a disgruntled colleague on the run, a quiet night at home becomes a terrifying fight for survival that tests her unusual gift.

The Treasure of the Sierra Madre

TCM 8:00 PM A pair of wanderers (Humphrey Bogart, Tim Holt) and an old prospector (Walter Huston) travel to Mexico and the Sierra Madre mountains in search of gold. When they discover a rich vein, they must face ruthless bandits and their own greed and insecurities.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison

Q: What's Naomi Watts been up to?
A: Spoken like someone who didn't see the opinion-splitting Hulu drama "All's Fair."

starred in the first season of the legal drama, which was frankly better known and got a lot of press for starring celebrity socialite Kim Kardashian ("Keeping Up With the Kardashians"). It was released in November, and was almost immediately renewed for a second season. Plus, it's been confirmed that Watts will be back as Liberty Ronson, one of the show's gang of high-flying divorce attorneys.

Production was slated for this spring, but no release date has been set yet. We can hope for a similar November release, but Hulu doesn't have to stick to that schedule.

That's just one of the things on Watts's plate at the moment.

She recently completed filming of a pair of feature-length dramas: the political thriller "The Housewife" and the ensemble family drama "Mother Courage." However, there's no word on a release date of either of these.

Q: I just saw an old '60s movie called "The Lost World" that was about dinosaurs still living in the modern day. And I know that the second "Jurassic Park" movie was called "The Lost World." Is the "Jurassic Park" sequel somehow a re-make of this old movie?

A: It got confusing once the film adaptations happened, but author Michael Crichton, who wrote the books that were the basis of the "Jurassic Park" movies, borrowed the title as an homage. But not from the 1960 movie that you saw (I did say it's confusing).

Your film was, in fact, an adaptation of the book "The Lost World" by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle (more famous for the Sherlock Holmes stories). It was, as you say, about an island in Central America where dinosaurs still walk the Earth.

When Crichton was writing a sequel to his hit novel "Jurassic Park," in which his genetically re-engineered dinosaurs were transplanted to an island in Central America, he selected "The Lost World" as a title as a nod to the Doyle book that went there first.

Though the 1997 film adaptation of Crichton's "The Lost World" made more money (more than $600 million in global box office), Doyle's book has been adapted more.

The 1960 version you saw was the second movie version. The first was made all the way back in 1925, making it a landmark in early filmmaking. And there have been many more adaptations since, including a 2001 mini-series version by BBC and A&E and a looser, three-season TV series made for syndication in 1999 (it aired on the WB Network in North America).

Whereas the 1997 version of Crichton's novel is the only adaptation that's been made so far; that might have something to do with the fact that his book is still under copyright and would be expensive to get the rights to, whereas Doyle's book is now in the public domain.
