Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

If you're wondering why you're feeling a little bit better about America today [July 28], it's because Donald Trump is in Scotland. ... Technically, he's there for trade talks with the European Union, but as always, he focused a wee bit on stuffing his kilt with cash like ground-up organ meat and a sheep's bladder. A delicacy, you see, because he's also there for the opening of a new golf course bearing his name. Truly, truly presidential. Like Nixon's historic visit to China for the opening of his all-you-can-eat buffet: Nixon Chicken Fixin's.

While [President] Trump was in Scotland, he announced a brand-new trade agreement with the European Union. It replaces the old trade deal where Europe sent us cheese and wine. In exchange, we sent them our most annoying college students.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

That massive heat wave is across the country. [It] continued [with] more than 200 million Americans getting slammed by scorching hot temperatures. Yes, Amazon already has a new TV series — "The Summer I Turned Sweaty."

And it's not just here. Over in Finland, they broke a record with their 16th consecutive day above 30 degrees Celsius. Americans heard and were like, "Yeah, we have no idea how much that is. What is it? Times it by 50? What is it?"

Jimmy Kimmel Live! With Jelly Roll

Welcome to Jimmy Kimmel Live! That's right, do not adjust your TV. Jimmy did not join MS-13. I am your guest host Jelly Roll. Now you all know every guest gets on here and they say it's great to be here. I want to talk to you all, speaking as a guy who has been to prison before, it really is great to be here.

I need you all to be patient with me tonight. This is my first time doing something like this and I'm going to try my best. I am. But if I really suck bad, you all just remember my name is Post Malone.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

The Justice Department has reportedly granted limited immunity to Jeffrey Epstein associate Ghislaine Maxwell in exchange for information on 100 people linked to Epstein, as well as full immunity if she gives them zero information on one person.

During a meeting today [July 28] with British Prime Minister Keir Starmer, President Trump said that Starmer has a "perfect wife and family, and that's never easy to achieve." Take it from the man who's gone 0-2.

According to a new report, Defense Secretary Pete Hegseth's allies hosted an intervention to convince him to rethink whom he's employing as advisers, like his friends Jim, Jack and the Captain.

Eccentric extracurriculars: Osman's 'Thursday Murder Club' meets on Netflix

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Beginning in the 1970s, "Quincy" ruled investigative television for the older adult demographic. By 1984, Agatha Christie's titular British amateur detective Miss Marple took up the mantle on BBC. These days, there is a new detective collective coming to the small screen. This time, however, it comes in film form.

Starring Helen Mirren ("The Queen," 2006), Pierce Brosnan ("The Thomas Crown Affair," 1999), Celia Imrie ("The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel," 2011) and Ben Kingsley ("Gandhi," 1982) in co-leading roles, "The Thursday Murder Club" premieres Thursday, Aug. 28, on Netflix.

Based on the 2020 novel of the same name by English novelist and television presenter Richard Osman, "The Thursday Murder Club" is described by Netflix Tudum as "a whodunit with teeth — false ones, of course." Set in a retirement community in a fictional town in Kent, England, four friends — ex-intelligence agent Elizabeth (Mirren), former union activist Ron (Brosnan), former psychiatrist Ibrahim (Kingsley) and retired nurse Joyce (Imrie) — would prefer to keep their minds active by solving murders rather than playing bridge like the other residents. But when the group finds themselves face-to-face with a real murder, the stakes are raised and solving the crime becomes much more for the friends than a clever and entertaining way to pass the time.

The novel initially found success among avid readers during the COVID-19 pandemic and its various worldwide lockdowns. As people became tethered to their homes out of safety and necessity, many found themselves

Ben Kingsley, Helen Mirren and Pierce Brosnan in "The Thursday Murder Club"

— like the Thursday Murder Club itself — looking for clever ways to pass the time in relative solitude. With its whodunit spirit and geriatric twist on the traditional crime thriller, Osman's "Thursday Murder Club" grew in popularity until several influential parties became interested in adapting the project from page to screen.

Directed by filmmaker Chris Columbus of "Home Alone" (1990), "Mrs. Doubtfire" (1993) and Harry Potter franchise fame, the new film straddles the line between the comedic and the macabre, placing death squarely at the center of the conversation.

"There's a wonderful mystery at its core, so mystery fans will be very happy," Columbus told Tudum regarding the film, adding that "thematically, it's interesting that we've got four elderly people who are living in a retirement community and who are fascinated by death and murder. They are facing their own demise, yet at the same time they are obsessed with studying cold cases. I fell in love thematically with that. It's comedic, but it's also very emotional."

While Columbus serves as the film's sole director, another well-known director is closely attached to the project. Steven Spielberg, the mind behind such films as "Jaws" (1975), "E.T. The Extra-Terrestrial" (1984) and "Jurassic Park" (1993) among many others, founded Amblin Entertainment, the film company co-producing "The Thursday Murder Club" in conjunction with Netflix. And much like Spielberg with his seven-time-Oscar-nominated "The Fabelmans" (2022), author Osman found the basis for his tale lurking in the beauty and absurdity of real life. "You just sit and chat with these people and they've lived these extraordinary lives," Osman said of the retirees living in his mother's community — one not dissimilar to the village in

"The Thursday Murder Club." "You hear these amazing stories and gossip and wisdom, [and] you think, 'These people are so overlooked.'"

"The idea that these people with their wisdom and their invisibility would be the perfect people to solve [a crime] is exactly where 'The Thursday Murder Club' comes from," Osman elaborated, adding, "put them together, and they can achieve anything."

Given that the trailer for the film reads as a sort of "Knives Out" (2019) meets "Coronation Street" hybrid and that Osman has already penned three more books in his Murder Club book series, it is likely that Netflix subscribers will see a sequel or two should the film's August premiere be well received. And with such well-versed actors at the helm as Mirren, Brosnan, Kingsley and Imrie, the chances of a positive reception are high.

"This is the finest cast I've worked with since 'Potter,'" Columbus told Netflix at press time, making reference to his work directing the first three Harry Potter films between 2001 and 2004. "They're just so incredibly well-prepared, and it's because they do everything. They do theater, they do television, they do film, and they've developed those sorts of muscles."

In addition to his directing duties, Columbus produces "The Thursday Murder Club" alongside Spielberg (who owns the rights to Osman's book series) and "Across the Universe" (2007) producer Jennifer Todd. On the executive production side, Osman is joined by Jo Burn ("Annihilation," 2019), Jeb Brody ("The Last Voyage of the Demeter," 2023), Holly Bario ("The Girl on the Train," 2016) and Eleanor Columbus ("Nosferatu," 2024), daughter of the director and actress/producer in her own right.

Supporting the film's four leads are Jonathan Pryce ("The Two Popes," 2019), David Tennant ("Doctor Who"), Richard E. Grant ("Gosford Park," 2001), Tom Ellis ("Lucifer"), Paul Freeman ("Raiders of the Lost Ark," 1981), Naomi Ackie ("Blink Twice," 2024), Daniel Mays ("The Bank Job," 2008), Henry Lloyd-Hughes ("We Were the Luck Ones") and Geoff Bell ("Kingsman: The Secret Service," 2017).

Don't miss the chance to join the "The Thursday Murder Club" when it premieres Thursday, Aug. 28, on Netflix.

Afterlife loading: 'Upload' finale event sails toward the Horizen

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Death comes for us all, but in the near future world of one sitcom, there are more choices of afterlife than you would expect. The fourth and final season of "Upload" premieres Monday, Aug. 25, on Prime Video. The four-part finale event will be available in its entirety exclusively on the streamer.

Robbie Amell ("EXmas," 2023) returns as Nathan Brown, who has been through the virtual wringer for three seasons, starting with a life-threatening car accident and a choice between surgery or being uploaded to the digital afterlife where he will be able to continue to participate in relationships with his loved ones via virtual reality headsets. Choosing the latter, Nathan begins life after death in the digital world of Lakeview, which quickly reveals the inequities of uploaded life.

Rife with hidden expenses and cheaper, lower tiers of digital afterlife akin to purgatory, the actual experience of living forever in a virtual realm is not as advertised. Disillusioned, Nathan leaned on his afterlife handler Nora Antony (Andy Allo, "Chicago Fire"), a living woman who works for Horizen, the tech company that runs Lakeview, and away from his wealthy girlfriend Ingrid Kannerman (Allegra Edwards, "Briarpatch").

In the upcoming season, per Prime Video, an evil AI threatens to eliminate the digital afterlife, and, "on top of greedy executives, lingering mysteries, plus heartbreak in VR and IRL, our characters are tested like never before." The only thing that can save humanity from being wiped out at the hands of this AI is teamwork.

Also starring in this season are Kevin Bigley ("Animal Control") as Luke, Zainab Johnson ("First Time Female Director," 2023) as Aleesha and Owen Daniels ("Space Force") as A.I. Guy. "Upload" was created by television legend Greg Daniels, known for "King of the Hill" — which was recently rebooted on Disney+ — the American version of "The Office" and upcoming spinoff mockumentary "The Paper." Daniels executive produces "Upload" alongside Howard Klein ("Running Point") and Maxwell Vivian ("American Auto").

Before entering the digital afterlife, Nathan was a computer programmer on the cusp of making a deal to bring his free Lakeview alternative to life. Those with a financial interest in keeping premium virtual experiences expensive may have had a hand in Nathan's death, but that is only a small part of the conspiracy that's unraveled throughout "Upload."

Nathan and Nora, together with help from Aleesha in the real world and Luke and A.I. Guy in Lakeview, exposed a diabolical political scheme to entice Americans in swing states to upload and lose their right to vote. Later, the two took Horizen to court with the hope of establishing human rights for uploads.

While they managed to win compensation for families of uploads, the settlement details were sealed, no rights were obtained and Horizen started operating under new branding, calling itself Betta. As Betta, under the guise of accountability, Horizen had Nathan detained for threatening to leak their dirty laundry — and that is where last season's finale episode left off.

Though Nathan made the choice to upload in part to be with Ingrid, her lies and ulterior motives drove a wedge between them, ending their relationship. While things were complicated with Ingrid, Nathan grew closer to Nora, who was reluctant to share her own feelings for Nathan and jeopardize her career with Horizen and, subsequently, her access to Lakeview, where they were able to spend time together.

The will-they-won't-they finally came to a head when Ingrid's secret Nathan clone was discovered, which he downloaded into to better help Nora take down Horizen in the real world and be with her. Nathan stepped out of the virtual world and back into real life but was mistakenly duplicated in error in Lakeview. Two Nathans lived simultaneously: virtual Nathan in love with a changed Ingrid and clone Nathan with Nora.

The Nathan duplicate went under the radar with Horizen until the trial, where he was caught physically by authorities and virtually in Lakeview. In a video call with his loved ones, all he is able to tell them is that there is only one Nathan now. Which one it is still remains a mystery.

In a teaser clip of the upcoming season released at San Diego Comic Con, Aleesha is in training. To prepare for a spy mission to transfer shady files in the virtual world, she reluctantly faces off against a martial arts master, who asks, "If Horizen security sees you and tries to kill you, how will you escape?" Thrown into action, Aleesha slips on her headset, raises her bastons and gets ready for a real battle this season.

Don't miss the finale of "Upload," premiering Monday, Aug. 25, on Prime Video. All four parts of the finale event drop on premiere day.

A&E's home.made.nation highlights money-conscious, approachable renovations

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Flipping good renos: As best friends, Kristy Etheredge and Rebecca Franchione have shared more than a few big dreams — the prospect of motherhood, their love for home renovation and their adoration for Texas' Hill County. Now, with plenty of experience gained, the ever-savvy house flippers are ready to take us along as they accomplish their next big project. "The Mother Flip" is now airing on A&E, with the third episode making its debut Saturday, Aug. 30.

Joined by accomplished contractor Roy Salinas, the group continues its mission to transform the worst homes in Hill County, utilizing all-cash deals, strategic renovations and a few bold risks to earn themselves big returns. After cashing in on real estate gold, the trio splits its massive paydays three ways, making the experience profitable for all.

Those looking for more home renovation content — whether it be to fill an easy Saturday or to inspire a project of your own — can also tune in to a brand-new episode of "Zombie House Flipping: Back to the Flip," airing on A&E immediately before the latest episode of "The Mother Flip." While every "zombie" house proves to have its own challenges, this special episode follows flipper Justin Stamper as he tackles one of his most complicated renovations yet — one that turns a long-abandoned, extremely neglected home into a jaw-dropping showstopper, proving every home can reach its full potential.

If a morning of house flipping content has you eyeing old cabinets

Kristy Etheredge and Rebecca Franchione star in "The Mother Flip"

and new paint colors, Kristen Coutts just might have some tips for you. In her series, "Beer Budget Reno" (now streaming on aetv.com, as part of A&E's home.made.nation), Coutts — a designer who first found her footing in Toronto, Canada — visits homes mid-renovation to share clever, cost-saving hacks that help home owners transform outdated, uncomfortable or unusual interiors into fresh, modern and functional spaces. Each and every episode, Coutts proves, as A&E says, "no budget is too small for a stunning upgrade."

While keeping dollar-conscious, approachable and impactful home renovations in the spotlight, A&E's home.made.nation makes pipe dreams possible, with "The Mother Flip," "Zombie House Reno: Back to the Flip" and "Beer Budget Reno" — all airing Saturday, Aug. 30, on A&E and aetv.com.

Reality rendezvous: The so-called "messiest mix-and-match dating show" (per Netflix) has returned once again, tackling the ups and downs of extreme dating in Season 3 of "Perfect Match," now available to stream on Netflix.

Packed to the brim with blindfolded kissing sessions, bewildering boardroom deliberations and dramatic beachfront reunions, this third return to the reality series led by Nick Lachey ("Love is Blind") sees singles new and old — some hailing from other Netflix dating shows, others from dating shows across all of streaming and television — pairing up to go through physical challenges made to test their blossoming situationships. A win earns couples the right to bring new singles into the game, sending them on a date with another player of their choosing (themselves included). While sparks fly for some, other couples find themselves drenched from a downpour of chaos.

As Netflix explains, "[contestants] will pair up and take part in scandalous challenges designed to test compatibility and stir up drama — think epic rounds of suck and blow that take place on an obstacle course. After each challenge, host Nick Lachey will bring the winning couple into the boardroom, where they'll have the power to break up opposing pairs and bring in new singles. Make the wrong choice and they could end up all alone, risking elimination and the chance to meet their perfect match."

This season, fans can expect to see some beloved familiar faces from across reality television, including Alex Zamora ("Temptation Island"), Amber Desiree ("Love Is Blind"), Carrington Rodriguez ("Love Island USA"), Clayton Echard ("The Bachelor"), Cody Wright ("Temptation Island"), Daniel Peretto ("Dated & Related"), Freddie Powell ("Love Is Blind UK"), Hannah Burns ("The Mole"), Jalen Olomu-Brown ("Too Hot to Handle"), J.R. Warren ("The Ultimatum: Marry or Move On"), Louis Russell ("Too Hot to Handle") and Juliette Porter ("Siesta Key"), who rounds out the list of 12 singles vying for love.

From creator Chris Coelen ("Claim to Fame") — who also acts as an executive producer alongside Heather Crowe ("Tidying Up with Marie Kondo"), Eric Detwiler ("Married at First Sight: Unmatchables") and Brent Gauches ("My Big Fat Fabulous Life") — Season 3 of "Perfect Match" is now available to stream on Netflix.

"Fantasy Football Ruined Our Lives"

A "perfect watch to welcome the return of football season" (per Netflix), sports-comedy film "Fantasy Football Ruined Our Lives" makes its debut Wednesday, Aug. 27, on Netflix. Written by Giulio Carrieri ("The Man Without Gravity," 2019) and Michele Bertini Malgarini ("Romolo + Giuly: la guerra mondiale italiana") and with Alessio Maria Federici ("Bambini," 2006) acting as director, this feature-length flick sees a group of friends thrown into uncertainty when one of their members, Gianni (Enrico Borello, "Forbidden City," 2025), doesn't show up to his own wedding. As the reigning champion of their football fantasy league, "Mai una gioia," Gianni confuses his friends even further when he never submits a final lineup for their upcoming season. As they search for answers, the friends find themselves overwhelmed by secrets, accusations, death threats and explosive group chats brought to light, leading them to wonder if something bad really did happen to Gianni — because, as the film's synopsis reads, "sometimes, fantasy football isn't just a game. It's a matter of life, bonus points ... and revenge." Giacomo Ferrara ("Suburra," 2015), Francesco Russo ("A Classic Horror Story," 2021), Antonio Banno ("Tigers," 2020), Caterina Guzzanti ("Tutta la vita davanti," 2008), Diletta Leotta ("Chi ha incastrato Babbo Natale?," 2021) and Pierluigi Pardo ("Mariot-tide") also star.

"My Life With the Walter Boys" — Season 2

Join Jackie Howard (Nikki Rodriguez, "On My Block") as she heads back to Silver Falls, Colorado, for Season 2 of "My Life With the Walter Boys," making its debut Thursday, Aug. 28, on Netflix. After a shocking conclusion in Season 1 — which culminated with a love confession from Alex (Ashby Gentry, "Are You Afraid of the Dark?") and a kiss from Cole (Noah LaLonde, "Dear Camp '86," 2022) — Jackie left to spend her summer in New York City, hoping she could avoid more complications. But when Katherine (Sarah Rafferty, "Suits") convinces her to come back, Jackie realizes she must find her place in the Walter family once again, starting anew with both Alex and Cole. Meanwhile, the brothers face challenges of their own as Alex trains for a risky rodeo and Cole takes on a new role at school following his leave from the football team, leaving both to contemplate what they want their future to look like. Season 2 of "My Life With the Walter Boys" also stars Marc Blucas ("Knight and Day," 2010), Connor Stanhope ("When Calls the Heart"), Johnny Link ("Dear Edward"), Corey Fogelmanis ("I Wish You All the Best," 2024), Jaylan Evans ("Spirit Rangers") and Zoë Soul ("Read Between the Lines").

"Unknown Number: The High School Catfish"

In the movies, a little high school drama only adds to the fun. In real life, however, actions have consequences. Unraveling a true story from small-town Michigan, the all-new documentary, "Unknown Number: The High School Catfish" makes its debut on Netflix this Friday, Aug. 29. When vulgar, taunting, anonymous texts begin to blow up the phones of a teen girl and her boyfriend at all hours of the day, the two are unable to figure out who is threatening them — or why. As the cyberbullying persists, authorities find themselves involved, digging into a months-long ordeal that produces overwhelming evidence and no suspects. Eventually, however, secrets are uncovered that challenge everything the police initially believed about the case, sending the small, seemingly-quiet town into total chaos. "Unknown Number: The High School Catfish" comes from director Skye Borgman ("Abducted in Plain Sight"), who also acts as executive producer.

"The Terminal List: Dark Wolf" – Season 1

Based on characters from "The Terminal List," a novel by Jack Carr, this brand-new spy thriller acts as a prequel to the similarly named 2022 television series. Coming to Prime Video, "The Terminal List: Dark Wolf" premieres Wednesday, Aug. 27. While the 2022 iteration of "The Terminal List" saw Navy SEAL James Reece (Chris Pratt, "Parks and Recreation") unraveling a conspiracy affecting his entire platoon, this latest endeavor joins yet another Navy man in action as Ben Edwards (Taylor Kitsch, "X-Men Origins: Wolverine," 2009) trades in his uniform for the opportunity to work as a CIA agent. Set seven years before the events of "The Terminal List," this followup series proves itself to be darker, grittier and more heartfelt than its predecessor, with Edwards getting a first-hand look at the "darker side of warfare and its human cost" (per Amazon). Making its debut with a three-episode drop, Season 1 of "The Terminal List: Dark Wolf" also sees appearances from Tom Hopper ("Black Sails"), Rona

Lee Shimon ("Fauda"), Luke Hemsworth ("Gunner," 2024), Riley Keough ("Daisy Jones & The Six"), Patrick Schwarzenegger ("The White Lotus") and Constance Wu ("Hustlers," 2019).

"Last Breath" (2025)

Finn Cole ("Peaky Blinders") goes beneath the waves in "Last Breath" (2025), premiering Friday, Aug. 29, on Prime Video. Based on a true story, this heart-pounding film follows Chris Lemons (Cole), a deep sea diver who is trapped hundreds of feet below the ocean's surface ... with only five minutes of oxygen remaining and little hope of being rescued in time. Above the surface, veteran diver Duncan Allcock (Woody Harrelson, "True Detective") and crewmate Dave Yuasa (Simu Liu, "Barbie," 2023) launch a desperate, high-risk rescue mission, but with the crushing weight of time against them, every choice they make could mean the difference between life and death. Starring Cliff Curtis ("The Dark Horse," 2014), Mark Bonnar ("Line of Duty"), MyAnna Buring ("The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 2," 2012), Josef Altin ("Game of Thrones") and Bobby Rainsbury ("Dept. Q"). Directed by Alex Parkinson ("River Monsters"), "Last Breath" is adapted from his 2019 documentary of the same name, with Alastair Burlingham ("Moonfall," 2022), Dan Clifton ("Brightburn," 2019) and Richard da Costa ("Last Breath," 2019) serving as executive producers. Written by Mitchell LaFortune ("Mission Kandahar," 2023).

"Wolf Man" (2025)

One man's grisly transformation threatens to destroy what he holds most dear in "Wolf Man" (2025), available now on Prime Video. Blake (Christopher Abbott, "It Comes at Night," 2017) lives in San Francisco with his wife, Charlotte (Julia Garner, "Ozark"), and their daughter, Ginger (Matilda Firth, "Disenchanted," 2022). Haunted by his past, he wrestles with the same volatile temper as his father, Grady (Sam Jaeger, "The Handmaid's Tale"), while Charlotte's demanding job keeps her away from home, leaving their marriage under strain. But when Blake unexpectedly receives a death certificate for his father — who had been missing for many years — and the keys to his childhood farmhouse in rural Oregon, he proposes a family trip to pack up his father's belongings and repair his relationship with his family. Soon after arriving, Blake and his family are attacked by an unseen animal and, in a desperate escape, barricade themselves inside the house as the creature prowls the perimeter. As the night stretches on, Blake — injured in the struggle — begins to change. His senses sharpen, his behavior grows erratic, and his humanity slips away, revealing a monstrous side of him that puts Charlotte and Ginger in grave danger during one terrifying night. Directed and written by Leigh Whannell ("Insidious," 2010), with Macdara Kelleher ("65," 2023) as executive producer.

Sweet Treat

Wilson and Cherry host 'The Great American Baking Show: Celebrity Summer'

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

Welcome to sweet treat galore! "The Great American Baking Show: Celebrity Summer" returns with sugar, spice and plenty of frosting in a one-episode special, available now on The Roku Channel.

Led by hosts Casey Wilson ("Gone Girl," 2014) and Zach Cherry ("You"), celebrity guests Jesse Tyler Ferguson ("Modern Family"), Yara Shahidi ("Black-ish"), June Diane Raphael ("Grace and Frankie") and Andrew Rannells ("Trolls Band Together," 2023) step into the sun-filled baking tent, ready to whip up some sweet summer treats — with plenty of laughs and mishaps along the way.

Guiding them are none other than judges Paul Hollywood and Prue Leith, the beloved duo best known for their roles in "The Great British Bake Off." Throughout the special — which premiered Aug. 16 — the stars face off in three baking challenges designed to test their skills, creativity and ability to keep cool under pressure. But as these stars are put to the test, only one will rise to the occasion and claim the coveted Star Baker title.

The special also marks another step in Roku's ongoing efforts to expand "The Great American Baking Show" and deepen fan engagement through year-round content.

"We can have the main series where amateur American bakers are competing for an opportunity of a lifetime to become star baker in the tent, and then in other moments — summer, Super Bowl, holidays — we have the opportunity to use star power to have a bit more fun," Roku Media head of originals Brian Tannenbaum told Variety.

He continued: "What you see with something like 'Baking Show' is it's one of our top performers on the originals side, particularly in the food space, and there's also this unique opportunity to tie the franchise to moments that matter."

The summer special is executive produced by Jeremy Finn ("Who Do You Think You Are?"), Todd Frangella ("Untold Stories of the ER"), Richard McKerrow ("The Great British Baking Show"), Letty Kavanagh ("The Great British Baking Show") and Patricia Clark ("Knife Fight").

"The Great American Baking Show: Celebrity Summer" is available now on The Roku Channel, offering a fresh and fun spin on the classic format. Just don't watch it on an empty stomach.

Pacha and Kuzco in "The Emperor's New Groove"

Jonah Wren Phillips in "Bring Her Back"

Bring Her Back

After the sudden death of their father, Andy (Barratt) and his visually impaired stepsister, Piper (Wong), are placed into the care of Laura (Hawkins), their foster mother. A former counselor, Laura resides in a secluded home in the woods and also cares for Oliver (Wren Phillips), a mute boy with an unsettling presence. As Andy and Piper adjust to their new life, Andy becomes increasingly suspicious of Laura's behavior and is disturbed by strange occurrences surrounding Oliver. He discovers that Laura's daughter, Cathy (Heywood), who was visually impaired like Piper, tragically drowned in the backyard pool years earlier. As strange occurrences surrounding Oliver become more frequent and violent in nature, Andy realizes something sinister is at work and that he and Piper are in grave danger.

Directors: Danny and Michael Philippou. Stars: Billy Barratt, Sora Wong, Jonah Wren Phillips, Sally Hawkins, Sally-Anne Upton, Stephen Phillips, Mischa Heywood. 2025. 104 min. Horror.

This fine Riesling wine offers an extraordinary premium wine quality. With forward fruit and floral aromas of apples and peaches with just a hint of citrus, the wine's natural acidity gives it a perfect balance that is refreshingly crisp and leaves your mouth watering.

IMPORTED

This sweet sparkling wine is produced from the aromatic Moscato Bianco grape grown in the unique climate of Asti in the Piedmont region of Italy. Made with quality ingredients, this Moscato wine helps to bring friends and people together with its cool, fresh, sweet taste and pleasant aroma. You can add more sensation to the moment by pairing this Asti Spumante sparkling wine bottle with hearty meats, creamy soups and fried potatoes. This bottle of wine is best served alone or in alcohol drinks like a delicious Mimosa.

Laila Ali hosts “Chef Grudge Match”

The 1% Club

④④ 8:00 PM

Software engineers Kelsey and Lecey, eccentric marketer Craig and sommelier Katie are among 100 contestants competing for a $100,000 prize. But will their logic lead to the right answers or just a series of wildly entertaining wrong ones?

American Experience

③③ ⑤⑦ 9:00 PM

In 1940s Los Angeles, a mysterious cloud of hazy smoke descended over the city, making countless residents sick with burning eyes and lungs and inescapable nausea. This brand-new special tells the story of how 1963’s Clean Air Act came to be.

Chef Grudge Match

FOOD 9:00 PM

This week, Laila Ali welcomes two sous chefs to settle grudges with their bosses. While Brian Goodman hopes to claim Jonathan Sawyer’s James Bear Award, De’Unaka Haley hopes to prove that Niema DiGrazia needs to modernize her culinary style.

My Big Fat Fabulous Life

TLC 9:00 PM

With her birthday party quickly approaching, Whitney tries to mend fences with friends. When the party finally arrives, however, it ends in total chaos as an unexpected announcement throws everyone for a loop. Later, Whitney contemplates a big change.

Gordon Ramsay stars in "Gordon Ramsay's Secret Service"

Bargain Block

HGTV 8:00 PM

Keith and Evan give a rundown Detroit home a stunning mid-century modern makeover, adding sleek floating shelves and a stylish dining room banquette. What was once falling apart now shines with timeless charm and sophisticated design touches.

Family Law

WPIX 8:00 PM

An uncertain future is making everyone uneasy. The staff is on eggshells as the impending merger has ruffled feathers within the firm. As such, Daniel (Zach Smadu) decides a company retreat might do the trick. However, new details make things worse.

Gordon Ramsay's Secret Service

(12) (44) 9:00 PM

When all hope is lost, Chef Gordon Ramsay comes calling. This fledgling series continues with a brand-new episode, in which the eponymous chef gathers intel on a restaurant in need of assistance as their kitchen is plagued by contamination.

My Strange Arrest

A&E 10:00 PM

A woman enters a police station to file a report, but to her surprise, she leaves in handcuffs; an alleged Presidential candidate tries to arrest an officer; and a man's bizarre behavior is driven by harsh TikTok comments in this wild episode.

Steve Harvey hosts “Celebrity Family Feud”

Big Brother

③ 8:00 PM

These strangers, cut off from the outside world, live together in a secluded house. But after a live vote, one is evicted and sits down for an interview, while the remaining houseguests compete for power in the next Head of Household.

Celebrity Family Feud

"Ruby Red Handed: Stealing America's Most Famous Pair of Shoes"

A pair of ruby red slippers, mysterious thieves, and a trail of clues down the yellow brick road, "Ruby Red Handed: Stealing America's Most Famous Pair of Shoes" premieres Tuesday, Aug. 26, on Hulu. This captivating documentary unravels the real-life mystery behind the 2005 disappearance of the world's most iconic ruby slippers, worn by Judy Garland in "The Wizard of Oz." Stolen from the Judy Garland Museum in Minnesota, the shoes vanished without a trace for over a decade, sparking countless theories and speculation. With exclusive access to the Grand Rapids Police Department and interviews with those closest to the case — from museum staff to the FBI — the documentary traces the bizarre case, from unlikely suspects to unexpected breakthroughs, offering viewers an inside look at the strange and often unbelievable investigation that finally led to their recovery. Eamon McNiff ("The Informant: Fear and Faith in the Heartland," 2021), David Sloan ("Patrice: The Movie," 2024) Maria Awes ("True Monsters") and Andy Awes ("Her Last Broadcast: The Abduction of Jodi Huisenruit") serve as executive producers.

"Love Thy Nader" – Season 1

What does it truly mean to "make it" in Manhattan? Find out when Season 1 of "Love Thy Naders" premieres with all episodes Wednesday, Aug. 27, on Hulu. This coming-of-age reality series follows the lives of four sisters — Brooks, Sarah Jane, Grace Ann and Mary Holland Nader — as they leave their Louisiana bayou roots behind to pursue modeling careers and carve out lives within New York City's elite fashion and social scenes. As Brooks' breakout success puts them into the spotlight, they navigate the glittering highs of Manhattan life and stir up plenty of drama in their love lives along the way. According to Disney+, the series "explores the ultimate question of what it really means to 'make it.'"

Judy Garland, Jack Haley and Ray Bolger in "The Wizard of Oz"

In a city where one can burn bright or go up in flames, sometimes the only thing truly needed is a sister who has your back. "Love Thy Nader" is executive produced by Jimmy Kimmel ("Jimmy Kimmel Live!"), James Dixon ("The Daily Show") and Brandon Panaligan ("The Real Housewives of Dubai"), with Rachel Tung ("Deliciousness") as showrunner.

"Trail of Vengeance" (2025)

One murder ignites a widow's relentless quest for justice in "Trail of Vengeance" (2025), premiering Friday, Aug. 29, on Hulu. Set in 1875, Katherine's (Rumer Willis, "Doctor Odyssey") life is shattered when her beloved husband Caleb (Jeremy Sumpter, "Cyber Seduction: His Secret Life," 2005) falls victim to a murder orchestrated by Colonel Davis (Jeff Fahey, "Lost") and his ruthless henchmen Frank (Eric Nelsen, "The Affair") and Zeke (James Landry Hebert, "Stranger Things"). In the wake of this tragedy, Katherine receives a final letter from Caleb, instructing her to seek out John Scobell (Gbenga Akininagbe, "Edge of Darkness," 2010), a former Pinkerton agent with a troubled past. Though initially hesitant, John is compelled to join Katherine in her quest for justice for her husband's murder, and together, they forge an alliance — one that is driven by a relentless desire for vengeance. Also starring is Mark Landon Smith ("Killers of the Flower Moon," 2023), Katherine Forbes ("True Detective") and Daniel Backman ("Saved by Grace"). Written and directed by Johnny Remo ("Hellfire," 2025), alongside Backman, with Lesa Wolfe ("Chariot," 2022) as the film's executive producer.

Mary Holland Nader, Grace Ann Nader, Brooks Nader and Sarah Jane Nader star in "Love Thy Nader"

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: When is "House of the Dragon" coming back?

A: Not for a while, unfortunately. It seems like two-year waits between seasons are just the norm for this show.

HBO's buzzy "Game of Thrones" spinoff went nearly two years between its first and second seasons (the first debuted in August 2022, and the second in June 2024). At the time, fans hoped that the long break was due to all the disruptions hitting the film business — namely a series of talent strikes during a global pandemic.

But with Season 3 just starting production in the spring, it seems like we're still another year away from seeing it on screen. It'll likely debut next summer.

The news gets worse from there, because once that season debuts, there's only one more to come. Series producer Ryan Condal ("Colony") has officially stated that "House of the Dragon" will end after Season 4.

Of course, that's probably not a huge surprise for many fans — at least not for fans of the source material.

Like "Game of Thrones," "House of the Dragon" is based on the writings of fantasy author George R.R. Martin — specifically his book "Fire & Blood." And there's only so much more of that story to tell.

There's some good news to report, though: a third entry in the franchise will debut in the meantime. "A Knight of the Seven Kingdoms," another series based on another Martin book, will debut in "early 2026," according to HBO.

This one takes place in the same setting, the fictional land of Westeros, but time-wise it comes right in between "Thrones" and "Dragon."

Q: Is John Landis still directing? His movies always had such a distinctive feel to them.

A: He's not as prolific behind the camera as he was in his '80s heyday, but hitmaker John Landis ("The Blues Brothers," 1980) is, in fact, still working.

His most recent screen project is a surprising one: he directed all 26 episodes of "Stan Lee's Superhero Kindergarten," a children's series on Amazon Prime starring Arnold Schwarzenegger ("The Terminator," 1984). It was released in 2021 and only lasted a season.

The last film he directed was 2010's "Burke and Hare," a historical horror comedy about an actual pair of 19th-century grave robbers.

As I said, that's certainly not a full schedule, but Landis says that's not entirely his fault. In 2023, he lamented the fact that the pandemic, the Hollywood strikes and the shift from theatrical movies to streaming were all preventing him from working more. He told an audience at the Taormina Film Festival that he was working on a Broadway play while those challenges played out, though he said he was also working on "two features and a television show" at the same time.

At least one of those features seems to have been a remake of his 1981 classic "An American Werewolf in London." It was in development at the time, but nothing's been done with it since, so it might not happen after all.
