The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Apparently, according to a new poll, Americans are over Christmas traditions. What? Christmas is tradition. You can't be over them and still have Christmas. ... Evidently, many people are saying that this year they want burgers instead of turkey. That's true, according to noted sociographic analyst Clarence T. Gobbleton.

Today [Dec. 18] the Dow plunged more than 1,100 points and that is a lot of ... Dow Units? Dow-lings? Moist Dowlettes? ... This plunge caps off a 10-day losing streak, the longest such stretch since 1974. Fifty years. Keep this in mind: that '74 collapse shocked the world because Bachman Turner Overdrive assured everyone that they were taking care of business. Every day.

How many of you have seen the new "Wicked" movie? All around the world people are seeing it, including in the U.K. where the British Board of Film Classification has issued a warning to viewers because one of the characters, Elphaba, faces discrimination due to her green skin. ... According to the BBFC website, "Seeing beloved characters being mistreated, especially when Elphaba's [skin colour] is used to [demonize] her as the "Wicked Witch," may be upsetting and poignant for some audiences." So please be warned, you may experience poignance.

The doctor will see you now: Chestnut series 'Watson' premieres on cable, streaming

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Rochelle Aytes stars in "Watson"

Throughout history, there have been many notable Watsons in the public interest, including Harry Potter franchise star Emma Watson; "Dune: Prophecy" star and Royal Shakespeare Theatre actress Emily Watson; and American molecular biologist and geneticist James Dewey Watson, who co-identified the double-helix structure of the DNA molecule alongside fellow scientist Francis Crick.

One of the most famous (and most referenced) Watsons, however, is a Watson of fiction; one who dedicated his on-page life to helping mastermind detective Sherlock Holmes solve mysteries in the novels of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. While much of Doyle's work focused on the detective leading the charge in his deerstalker cap, plenty of thought has since gone into Dr. John Watson's own ambitions, and CBS is the latest to take on the task of modernizing the good doctor's story for contemporary times.

The network's new hour-long medical drama series "Watson" premieres Sunday, Jan. 26, on CBS and the Paramount+ streaming service. Scheduled to begin immediately following the NFL's AFC championship game, the exact start time may vary slightly from its anticipated debut.

Hailing from Craig Sweeny, executive producer of "Limitless" and "Medium," "Watson" marks the second Sherlock-inspired drama for the producer and showrunner after "Elementary," the procedural dramedy — in which Lucy Liu ("Charlie's Angels," 2000) portrayed Dr. Watson — that ran from 2012 to 2019, also on CBS. Despite the evident tie-in opportunities, it appears Sweeny's new series is completely devoid of any references to "Elementary" and remains staunchly unrelated to its predecessor, with the exception of drawing inspiration from the same source material.

Starring Morris Chestnut ("The Resident") as the titular character, the series follows Watson and his team of sleuth-adjacent doctors at Holmes Clinic as they work overtime to find answers to some of the most curious ailments known (and unknown) within the medical world. This may sound like a familiar premise to fans of the 2004-2012 series "House," but there is an additional, literary tie-in to the Sherlock Holmes stories outside the clinic.

"'Watson' takes place six months after the death of the titular character's friend and partner Sherlock Holmes at the hands of Moriarty," reads the Paramount news release, which later adds that Watson "resumes his medical career as the head of a clinic dedicated to treating rare disorders.

"Watson's old life isn't done with him, though," the release continues, confirming "Moriarty and Watson are set to write their own chapter of a story that has fascinated audiences for more than a century. 'Watson' is a medical show with a strong investigative spine, featuring a modern version of one of history's greatest detectives as he turns his attention from solving crimes to solving medical mysteries."

As of writing, however, there is no news as to whether the series will allude to Watson's past as a military surgeon or his time spent (and injured) in Afghanistan.

In a statement on Paramount Press Express, the official CBS press site, Amy Reisenbach, president of CBS Entertainment, said, "We are thrilled to feature such a beloved character from the world of Sherlock Holmes at the center of this series and have it brought to life by Morris Chestnut in a fresh and unexpected take on the immortal doctor.

"Craig Sweeny's bold new vision for the complex Dr. Watson deftly interweaves rich character storytelling with edge-of-your-seat medical mysteries," Reisenbach added.

Appearing alongside Chestnut is "The Night Agent" actress Eve Harlow as fellow Holmes Clinic doctor Ingrid Derian; "The Dark Knight's" (2008) Ritchie Coster as Shinwell Johnson; "So Help Me Todd" actress Inga Schlingmann as Dr. Sasha Lubbock; Rochelle Aytes ("S.W.A.T.") as Dr. Mary Morstan; and Peter Mark Kendall ("The Americans") doing double duty as doctors Stephens and Adam Croft.

Tommy O'Brien ("Stumptown"), Shalyn Ferdinand ("The Good Doctor"), Bethany Brown ("The 100"), Danny Mac ("Grease: Rise of the Pink Ladies"), Djouliet Amara ("Devil in Ohio"), Shannon Berry ("The Wilds"), Camila Cano-Flavia ("Baby Ruby," 2022), Cesare Scarpone ("Ouroboros iii," 2021), Darlene Tait ("Virgin River"), Kiera Allen ("Run," 2020), and Beatrice Schneider ("The Best Christmas Pageant Ever," 2024) also star.

Issued a straight-to-series order by CBS in January of last year, "Watson" is executive produced by Sweeny, Chestnut, Aaron Kaplan ("The Chi"), Brian Morewitz ("A Million Little Things") and Canadian-born "award-winning neurogeneticist, evolutionary biologist and New York Times bestselling author" Dr. Sharon Moalem ("The Daily Show"), whose expertise in the fields of rare disease and biotechnology made him the perfect candidate to provide consultation services for the series (per SharonMoalem.com).

Experienced director Larry Teng, who has directed episodes of "Medium," "NCIS: Hawai'i," "Person of Interest" and "Supergirl" to name a few, directs and executive produces the pilot. A total of 13 episodes are expected from the series' debut season.

Don't miss the premiere of "Watson" when it airs immediately following the NFL's AFC championship game, Sunday, Jan. 26, on CBS and Paramount+.

Uncivil union: Two wedding parties fight for one venue in 'You're Cordially Invited'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

What can go wrong will go wrong, especially during a meticulously planned, once-in-a-lifetime event. The new Prime Video comedy film "You're Cordially Invited," premiering Thursday, Jan. 30, tests the limits of Murphy's law when two wedding parties are double-booked at the same venue. Reese Witherspoon ("The Morning Show") and Will Ferrell ("Will & Harper," 2024) star as dueling wedding coordinators willing to fight dirty for their favorite family member's perfect day.

Father-daughter duo and best friends Jim (Ferrell) and Jenni (Geraldine Viswanathan, "Miracle Workers") are ready to welcome Oliver (Stony Blyden, "American Born Chinese"), her new fiancé, to the family in a beautiful ceremony at the picturesque Palmetto House island resort on the Carolina coast.

Guests have saved the date — June 1 — and arrangements have all been made with the help of their wedding planner Heather (Keyla Monterroso Mejia, "Curb Your Enthusiasm"). While Jim may be apprehensive about his relationship with his daughter changing once she's married, no amount of pre-big day jitters could prepare them for what's to come.

A serious sisterly bond ties Margot (Witherspoon) and her younger sister, Neve (Meredith Hagner, "Search Party"). So when Neve surprises her big sister at work with the news of her engagement to Dixon (Jimmy Tatro, "Home Economics"), her joy eclipses even her need to attend to her client, Pro Football Hall of Fame inductee Peyton Manning ("History's Greatest of All-Time with Peyton Manning").

Margot quickly dons her event planner hat and books Neve and Dixon's ceremony at the Palmetto House on, you guessed it, June 1. The bridal parties each spend months getting their affairs in order, the whole time not knowing the chaos that awaits them.

Wedding week has arrived and there's about to be a showdown at the front desk of the Palmetto House. In the official trailer for the movie, Jim and Margot, already seemingly at each other's throats as they exchange dirty looks on their way to check in, receive the bad news from concierge Leslie (Jack McBrayer, "30 Rock"). The small venue has double-booked the weddings and with no time to reschedule, both parties will have to share the island and the resort's amenities.

Also starring in "You're Cordially Invited" are Leanne Morgan ("Sun Moon," 2023) as Gwyneth; Rory Scovel ("No Good Deed") as Colton; Ramona Young ("Never Have I Ever") as Kelly; and Celia Weston ("Echoes") as Flora. The film was written and directed by Nicholas Stoller, whose Apple TV+ sitcom "Platonic" is a hit with both critics and streaming audiences, with a second season in the works.

Comedy legend Ferrell, who has spent three decades making us laugh since his television debut in the 21st season of "Saturday Night Live," is in fine physical comedy form in "You're Cordially Invited." He goes head to head with Witherspoon, who gives her own classic Type-A comedic performance in the film, as their characters spitefully battle on behalf of the brides in a fresh take on the bridezilla trope.

Jim and Margot share a tense slow dance full of whispered threats, wrestle for control of a microphone and plot against each other's ceremonies in the movie's trailer. An alligator also makes an appearance at the festivities, as if the wedding party feud wasn't enough action for one wedding night — but don't worry, Jim's got that uninvited guest under control.

"You're Cordially Invited" is executive produced by Alex Brown ("Quiz Lady," 2023), Ted Gidlow ("Judas and the Black Messiah," 2021) and Brendan O'Brien ("Neighbors," 2014) with Ferrell and Witherspoon also producing. Ferrell has another upcoming project with Amazon MGM Studios and Stoller in the works — the comedy "Judgement Day," about a recently released convict with a revenge plot against a TV judge.

Witherspoon is a force in Hollywood, producing hits on the big screen such as 2014's "Gone Girl" and "Where the Crawdads Sing" in 2022, but audiences are especially anticipating the return of a certain producing and starring outlet among her credits. News of the third season of HBO's "Big Little Lies" has been buzzed about for years since the show's second season finale in 2019, but Witherspoon shared recently that some progress on new episodes has been made.

Witherspoon told E! News last October, "We're in waiting for Liane Moriarty. She's going to be turning in something very soon. We're back to the original author and we're going to go back to the original characters." Moriarty, who wrote the thriller novel of the same name on which the series is based, has had two more of her novels — "Nine Perfect Strangers" and "Apples Never Fall" — adapted into series since the last season of "Big Little Lies" wrapped up, if you're craving more ensemble drama.

Don't forget to RSVP to the premiere of "You're Cordially Invited," streaming Thursday, Jan. 30, on Prime Video.

Grant Ellis is this season's 'Bachelor'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Love in the air: Just in time for conversation hearts and ooey-gooey cards that come along with February's biggest holiday — Valentine's Day, of course — Season 29 of "The Bachelor" debuts on ABC, with its premiere episode airing Monday, Jan. 27.

Announced back in May 2024, this season of the beloved reality series has picked its star from Season 21 of "The Bachelorette," boasting the charming Grant Ellis as the titular bachelor.

During Jenn Tran's search for love, 31-year-old Grant (age 30 at the time) made quite the impression. Despite an impressive resume — including his career as a day trader in Houston and his past as a pro basketball player — it was Grant's "infectious smile and unwavering positivity" (per ABC) that really stole the show, keeping him in the game until his elimination right before Jenn's hometown dates. Due to his popularity with audiences, Grant was quickly confirmed to be next in line for the franchise, now making history as the series' second Black lead (following Matt James from Season 25).

The network has also shared more intimate details about the next bachelor — including that he's a self-proclaimed mama's boy. They continue on to say that "when he's not immersed in the fast-paced world of finance, you can find him cheering on the Lakers, hitting strikes at the bowling alley or belting out tunes at karaoke nights." And, they say, "as the Bachelor, Ellis is eager to embark on a journey filled with romance, adventure and genuine connections. He hopes to find a partner who shares his values of loyalty, humor and a deep appreciation for life's simple pleasures."

Grant Ellis stars in the new season of "The Bachelor"

Speaking with "Good Morning America," Grant also shared his excitement regarding his ongoing journey to find true love. "I'm looking for a love that's kind and understanding," he said. "Some qualities I'm looking for in a potential partner [are]: somebody who's adventurous, somebody who's affectionate and somebody who's loving."

Grant concluded by saying: "I can't wait for this incredible journey to kick off. It's going to be so fun. I hope you guys tune in."

Vying for his affections this season are: Alexe, 27 (New Brunswick, Canada); Alli Jo, 30 (Manalapan, New Jersey); Allyshia, 29 (Tampa, Florida); Bailey, 27 (Atlanta); Beverly, 30 (Howard Beach, New York); Carolina, 28 (Guaynabo, Puerto Rico); Chloie, 27 (New York City); Christina, 26 (Fargo, North Dakota); Dina, 31 (Chicago); Ella, 25 (Los Angeles); J'Nae, 28 (Colorado Springs, Colorado); Juliana, 28 (Newton, Massachusetts); Kelsey, 26 (Brooklyn, New York); Kyleigh, 26 (Wilmington, North Carolina); Litia, 31 (Salt Lake City); Natalie, 25 (Louisville, Kentucky); Neicey, 32 (Blythewood, South Carolina); Parisa, 29 (Birmingham, Michigan); Radhika, 28 (New York City); Rebekah, 31 (Dallas); Rose, 27 (Chicago); Sarafiena, 29 (New York City); Savannah, 27 (Charlottesville, Virginia); Vicky, 28 (Las Vegas); and Zoe, 27 (New York City).

Get to know Grant better — and hopefully see him find love once and for all — during Season 29 of "The Bachelor," premiering Monday, Jan. 27, on ABC.

Singin' in Studio 8H: If you know how to finish the sentence "Live from New York…" this one's for you. Delve into the top music performances from "Saturday Night Live's" extensive history during "Ladies & Gentlemen… 50 Years of SNL Music," airing Monday, Jan. 27, on NBC and streaming the next day on Peacock.

Directed by Oscar winner Ahmir "Questlove" Thompson ("Summer of Soul (…Or, When the Revolution Could Not Be Televised)," 2021) and Emmy winner Oz Rodriguez ("Creating Saturday Night Live"), this music-filled documentary celebrates "Saturday Night Live's" historic 50th season by looking back through the series' endless archives and honoring the talented artists who brought music to the famed Studio 8H stage.

According to NBC, "Ladies & Gentlemen…" offers the "untold stories behind the culture-defining, groundbreaking and news-making musical performances, sketches and cameos of the past 50 years," with stories shared by the artists themselves, as the documentary promises interviews with a wide array of musicians from across the series' 50 seasons, including Billie Eilish ("What Was I Made For?"), Paul Simon ("The Boxer"), Darryl "DMC" McDaniels ("It's Tricky"), Mick Jagger ("Paint It, Black"), Kacey Musgraves ("The Architect"), Elvis Costello ("Everyday I Write The Book"), Dave Grohl ("Smells Like Teen Spirit"), Olivia Rodrigo ("Brutal"), DJ Breakout ("That's the Joint"), Lee Ving ("Your Wife Is Calling") and more.

Additionally, hear from the past and current cast, writers and crew that made "Saturday Night Live" what it is today, from "SNL" creator Lorne Michaels to cast members like Conan O'Brien ("Conan"), Jimmy Fallon ("The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon"), Fred Armisen ("Portlandia"), Maya Rudolph ("Bridesmaids," 2011), Eddie Murphy ("Shrek," 2001), Andy Samberg ("Popstar: Never Stop Never Stopping," 2016), Kenan Thompson ("Good Burger," 1997), Bowen Yang ("Wicked," 2024) and Bill Hader ("Barry").

"Ladies & Gentlemen… 50 Years of SNL Music" celebrates "Saturday Night Live's" 50th year on air this Monday, Jan. 27, on NBC, before streaming the next day on Peacock.

"Mo" - Season 2

The journey continues when Season 2 of the comedy-drama series "Mo" premieres Thursday, Jan. 30, on Netflix. From the mind of comedian Mo Amer ("Mo Amer: the Vagabond," 2018), the series creator and star, the series follows Mo Najjar (Amer), a Palestinian refugee constantly living one step away from asylum as he works toward U.S. citizenship. Straddling the line between two cultures and three languages while dealing with a bunch of bureaucracy, Mo takes his family to Houston, where they must navigate everything the world throws their way. This season finds Mo stranded across the border without a passport, and he's going to need to muster up all the creativity and hustle he can to get himself back to Houston — hopefully in time to make it to his family's asylum hearing. However, getting home is only half the battle, as "there's a new guy in town ready to steal both his longtime love Maria [Teresa Ruiz, 'Narcos: Mexico'] and his dream of finally returning to Palestine" (per Netflix). Executive produced and written by Amer and fellow comedian Ramy Youssef ("Ramy"), "Mo" also stars Farah Bsieso ("Daughters of Abdul-Rahman," 2021), Omar Elba ("Limetown") and rapper Tobe Nwigwe (known for the 2020 hit "EAT").

"The Recruit" - Season 2

The espionage action takes on new frontiers — and new countries — in Season 2 of "The Recruit," making its debut Thursday, Jan. 30, on Netflix. Season 1 introduced audiences to Owen Hendricks (Noah Centineo, "To All the Boys I've Loved Before," 2018), a lawyer at the CIA who becomes wrapped up in a series of international scandals and power politics after a former asset (Laura Haddock, "Guardians of the Galaxy," 2014) threatens to come forward and expose the nature of her long-running (and less-than-above-board) relationship with the agency. To keep a lid on the affair and avoid further scandal, the asset demands to be exonerated for a serious crime. This season, a slightly less green Owen is pulled back into the field, this time during a life-threatening foray into South Korea's spy trade. But, as the story unfolds, Owen begins to realize that "the bigger threat just might be coming from inside the Agency" (per Netflix) as he works alongside Korean intelligence agent Jang Kyun (Teo Yoo, "Love to Hate You"). From creator, showrunner and executive producer Alexi Hawley ("The Rookie"), "The Recruit" also stars Aarti Mann ("The Big Bang Theory"), Colton Dunn ("Superstore"), Fivel Stewart ("Atypical"), Kristian Bruun ("Orphan Black"), Kaylah Zander ("Chilling Adventures of Sabrina"), Nathan Fillion ("Castle"), Maddie Hasson ("Twisted"), Angel Parker ("Runaways") and Vondie Curtis-Hall ("Justified: City Primeval").

"Six Nations: Full Contact" - Season 2

Taking a behind-the-scenes look at the players and staff of some of the best rugby teams in Europe, the sports docuseries "Six Nations: Full Contact" debuts its second season Wednesday, Jan. 29, on Netflix. Following teams from the Six Nations — France, Ireland, England, Scotland, Wales and Italy — this season of "Full Contact" follows their journeys through the 2024 season, from tryouts and training to the 2024 Six Nations Championship. With new coaches and new players hitting the pitch to shake things up, this season is anyone's to win. From the locker room, to the field, to time at home with their families, the series captures all the hard work and emotion that these coaches, staff and athletes put into the sport as they work to be the best of the best.

"Friday Night Lights" (2004)

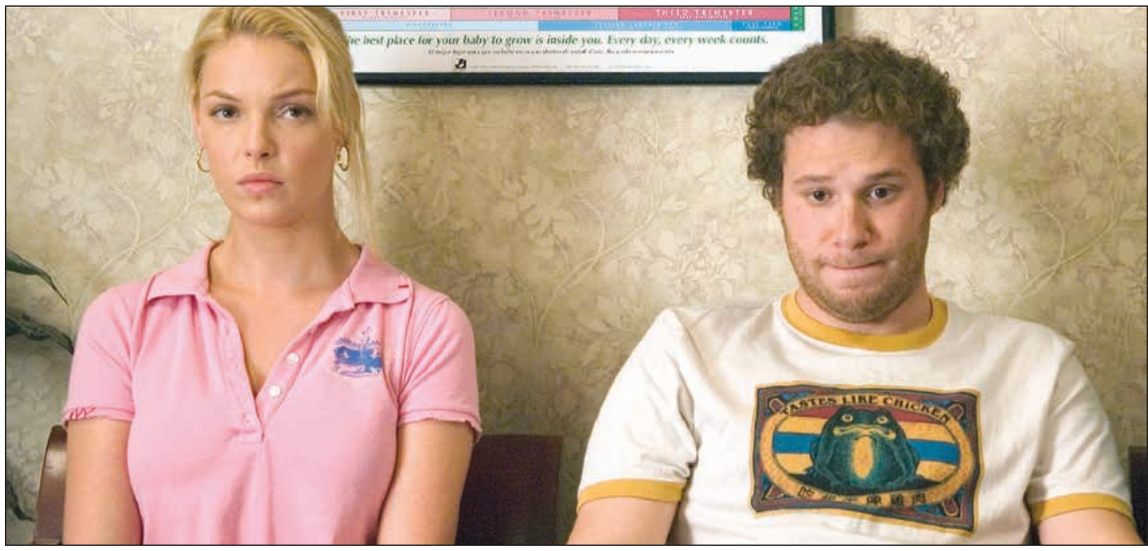

Based on the book "Friday Night Lights: A Town, a Team, and a Dream" by author H. G. Bissinger – and later, acting as the inspiration for the popular TV show – director Peter Berg's ("Chicago Hope") 2004 hit, "Friday Night Lights," will be available to stream on Prime Video as of this Friday, Jan. 31. With a screenplay written by David Aaron Cohen ("American Underdog," 2021) and Berg, the film follows a football team based in the economically-depressed town of Odessa, Texas. This team – The Permian High Panthers – is led by the legendary coach Gary Gaines (Billy Bob Thornton, "Sling Blade, 1996), who hopes to keep his team strong through the ups and downs of the school year, and to lead the Panthers through a successful season with high morale – eventually, maybe even winning the sought after state championship. Earning itself the Award for Best Sports Movie at the 2005 ESPY Awards, "Friday Night Lights" features a talented cast of players, including Lucas Black ("Unsung Hero," 2024), Garrett Hedlund ("Tron: Legacy," 2010), Derek Luke ("Antwone Fisher," 2002), Jay Hernandez ("Hostel," 2005), Lee Thompson Young ("The Famous Jett Jackson"), Tim McGraw ("The Blind Side," 2009), Grover Coulson ("A Ghost Story," 2017), Connie Britton ("Nashville") and more.

"Knocked Up" (2007)

Written, produced and directed by filmmaker Judd Apatow ("The 40-Year-Old Virgin," 2005), "Knocked Up" (2005) is due to drop on Prime Video this Friday, Jan. 31. Packed with humor, the film begins as fun-loving Ben Stone (Seth Rogen, "This Is the End," 2013) falls into a drunken one-night stand with an ambitious reporter named Alison (Katherine Heigl, "The Ugly Truth," 2009). Life is all fun and games for Ben, until Alison shows up on his doorstep eight weeks later, announcing that she's pregnant. In an instant, life is turned upside down for both parties, who must find a way to co-exist and blend their lives together before their new bundle of joy arrives. Featuring a cast overflowing with comedic talent, "Knocked Up" also stars Paul Rudd ("Ant-Man," 2015), Leslie Mann ("The Other Woman," 2014), Jason Segel ("Forgetting Sarah Marshall," 2008), Jay Baruchel ("FUBAR"), Jonah Hill ("21 Jump Street," 2012), Martin Starr ("Adventureland," 2009), Charlyne Yi ("This Is 40," 2012), Alan Tudyk ("Firefly"), Ken Jeong ("The Hangover," 2009), Craig Robinson ("Hot Tub Time Machine," 2010), Tim Bagley ("Grace and Frankie"), Kristen Wiig ("Bridesmaids," 2011) and Bill Hader ("It Chapter Two," 2019), among many others.

"Scarface" (1983)

Starring Al Pacino ("The Godfather," 1972), Steven Bauer ("Traffic," 2000) and more, Brian De Palma's ("Body Double, 1984) iconic film, "Scarface" (1983), will be available to watch on Prime Video starting this Friday, Jan. 31. Acting as a remake of the similarly-titled 1932 film – which itself was based on the 1930 novel by author Armitage Trail – "Scarface" tells the story of Cuban refugee Tony Montana (Pacino), who arrives in Miami as an ex-convict without a penny to his name. Alongside his close friend, Manny Ribera (Bauer) and their companions Angel (Pepe Serna, "The Jerk," 1979) and Chi-Chi (Angel Salazar, "Carlito's Way," 1993), Tony works his way up to becoming the biggest drug smuggler in town, and soon agrees to a dangerous job – murdering the former henchman of Fidel Castro – to gain a green card from the powers that be. With a screenplay written by Oliver Stone ("Platoon," 1986), "Scarface" stars the likes of Michelle Pfeiffer ("The Fabulous Baker Boys," 1989), Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio ("The Abyss," 1989), Robert Loggia ("Big," 1988), Miriam Colon ("Sabrina," 1995), F. Murray Abraham ("Amadeus," 1984), Paul Shenar ("The Big Blue," 1988), Harris Yulin ("Clear and Present Danger," 1994) and Arnaldo Santana ("Cruising," 1980).

Critters join the kids in the 'Baking Championship' kitchen

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

It's doggone tasty. Season 13 of "Kids Baking Championship: Amazing Animals" brings the wonders of the outdoors into the kitchen, with brand-new episodes airing Mondays on Food Network.

This season, 12 pint-sized contestants will not only compete for the winning title of Kids Baking Champion, $25,000 and the opportunity to appear in the Food Network Magazine, they will also be taking part in an exciting new theme — Amazing Animals — which brings feathered, fuzzy and scaly friends into the studio to motivate the young bakers as they show their chops. "From sea creatures to jungle dwellers to farm animals and more," Warner Bros. Discovery explains, "the 12 kid bakers must craft creative and delicious animal-themed treats for a chance at winning the grand prize."

For example, in the Season 13 premiere — which aired earlier this month on Monday, Jan. 6 — the kids were joined by a friendly flock of birds (including a parrot named Chicken and a lovable cockatoo named Teva), and found themselves wandering through a jungle-themed kitchen while completing their first task: creating tarts that feature animalistic features, like fur, fins and tails.

Duff Goldman and Kardea Brown host "Kids Baking Championship: Amazing Animals"

During this premiere episode, the contestants (and viewers at home) were also introduced to the steadfast hosts of "Kids Baking Championship": Duff Goldman ("Ace of Cakes") and newcomer Kardea Brown ("Delicious Miss Brown"), who makes her debut after taking over for Valerie Bertinelli ("One Day at a Time").

Goldman shared his excitement regarding the new addition while speaking to People, sharing: "Kardea [Brown] has been so much fun as a co-host. She is absolutely killing it. She is so good with children. She has such a huge heart. ... Her culinary chops are great. She knows what she's talking about. But seeing her with kids, she has just absolutely blossomed. She is so natural and easy with them. The kids just implicitly trust her. It's lovely. It's really, really great. I am so excited about it."

While there's still plenty of competition to come, Food Network has also shared details regarding the season's epic two-part finale, in which the bakers must first build farm-fun cookies to keep out of the doghouse, before the final three competitors give it their all while creating stunning cakes inspired by a trip to the zoo.

Fun-filled, tasty and packed with guests from across the animal kingdom, "Kids Baking Championship: Amazing Animals" airs new episodes every Monday on Food Network.

Hugh Grant in "Heretic"

Heretic
Two young Mormon missionaries, Sister Barnes (Thatcher) and Sister Paxton (East), arrive at the secluded home of the middle-aged Mr. Reed (Grant) one snowy evening. Invited inside, the girls are comforted by the smell of blueberry pie, which Mr. Reed tells them Mrs. Reed is preparing in the kitchen. The three begin to discuss the Mormon faith, about which Mr. Reed makes several unnerving comments and rebukes them in a threatening manner. Before long, the girls realize that the inviting nature of Mr. Reed's home is, in fact, of a much more sinister kind. Trapped and fearing what his next move will be, Mr. Reed gives the girls a choice of two doors in order to escape: one if they still believe in God and one if they do not. Directors: Scott Beck, Bryan Woods. Stars: Hugh Grant, Sophie Thatcher, Chloe East. 2024. 111 min. Horror.

The pair set out for New York City in order to clear Brock's name, but a creature belonging to a race of extraterrestrial shapeshifters known as Xenophages that prey on symbiotes is hunting them. In a battle between man, parasite and alien, the future of Earth-688 hangs in the balance. Director: Kelly Marcel. Stars: Tom Hardy, Chiwetel Ejiofor, Juno Temple, Rhys Ifans, Stephen Graham, Peggy Lu, Alanna Ubach. 2024. 109 min. Action.

"Paradise" - Season 1

Don't judge a book by its cover — a dark underbelly lies just below the surface in Hulu's thrilling new drama series "Paradise," premiering Tuesday, Jan. 28. Set in an upscale community, the series centers on a security professional (Sterling K. Brown, "American Fiction," 2023) who soon finds himself wrapped up in a shocking, high-profile murder investigation. In a neighborhood inhabited by some of the world's most prominent individuals, the investigation's road to truth is a complicated one, twisted by the influences of power and politics. Written and executive produced by Dan Fogelman ("This Is Us"), the series also stars James Marsden ("Westworld"), Julianne Nicholson ("Winning Time: The Rise of the Lakers Dynasty"), Sarah Shahi ("City on a Hill"), Nicole Brydon Bloom ("The Gilded Age"), Aliyah Mastin ("Honey Girls"), Percy Daggs IV ("The Last Days of Ptolemy Grey") and Krys Marshall ("For All Mankind"). Alongside Fogelman, the series is executive produced by Brown, John Hoberg ("My Name in Earl") and "This Is Us" producers John Requa, Glenn Ficarra, Jess Rosenthal and Steve Beers.

"Scamanda"

Dive into a shocking true story when the docuseries "Scamanda," based on the hit podcast of the same name, premieres Friday, Jan. 31, on Hulu. From ABC News Studios, the series dives deep into the story of Amanda Riley, a young mother, wife and devout Christian from California. When Riley is diagnosed with Stage 3 blood cancer and her life takes a sudden, awful turn, she begins documenting her battle and journey online, drawing in thousands of captivated and dedicated viewers. But, behind it all, Riley has a monumental secret. When someone sends an anonymous tip to investigative producer Nancy Moscatiello, the creator and executive producer of the Scamanda podcast "embarks on a five-year-long investigation into Amanda. Soon, Amanda's own words may prove to be her downfall" (per Hulu). From producers Kiana Jackson ("Tiger King") and Charlie Webster ("Surviving El Chapo: The Twins Who Brought Down a Drug Lord"), the series features Webster, with Rachel Leighson ("Diabolical") starring as Riley.

"Humane" (2024)

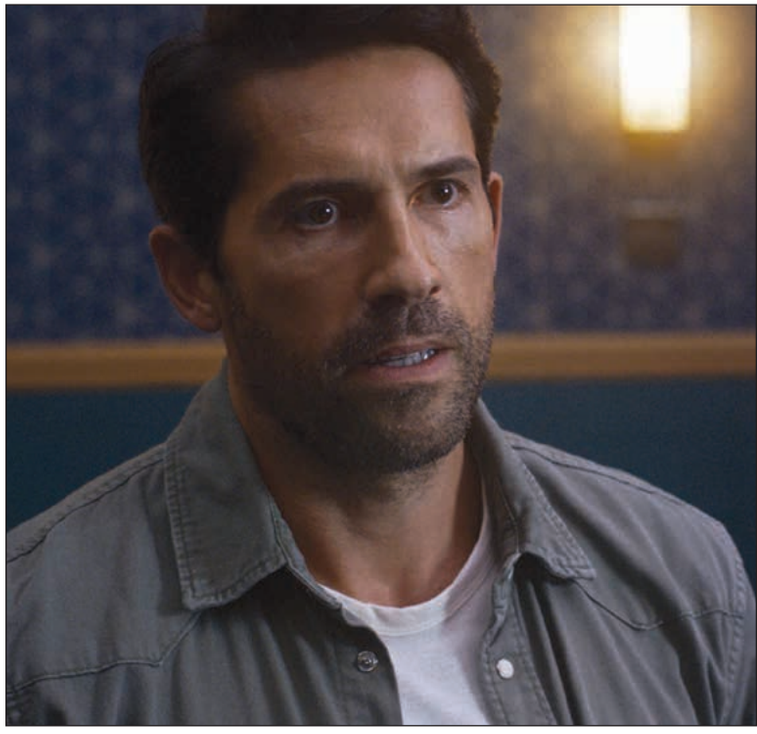

Acting as the directorial debut for filmmaker Caitlin Cronenberg ("The Death of David Cronenberg," 2021), the 2024 spine-chilling drama, "Humane," will be available to stream on Hulu this Tuesday, Jan. 28. In the wake of a devastating environmental collapse, the world's governments have implemented a plan to reduce the globe's population by 20%, doing so through voluntary and conscripted euthanasia. Former news anchor Charles York (Peter Gallagher, "American Beauty," 1999) is on board with the idea, and invites his four children to a dinner at his home in hopes of convincing them to enlist in the program alongside him. Written and produced by Michael Sparaga ("United We Fan," 2018), "Humane" also stars Jay Baruchel ("Goon," 2011), Emily Hampshire ("Schitt's Creek"), Alanna Bale ("Cardinal") and Sebastian Chacon ("Y2K," 2024).

"Take Cover" (2024)

Starring Scott Adkins ("John Wick: Chapter 4," 2023) and Alice Eve ("Before We Go," 2014), 2024's "Take Cover" makes its streaming debut this Friday, Jan. 31, on Hulu. Directed by Nick McKinless ("Faith," 2013), the film sees Sam (Adkins), a burned-out professional sniper, stuck in a dire situation when he's trapped in an all-glass penthouse by a deadly rival determined to bring him down (Eve), and must find a way to escape with little-to-no cover between him and the killer. With a screenplay from writer Joshua Todd James ("Pound of Flesh," 2015), "Take Cover" also stars Jack Parr ("The Last Breath," 2024), Madalina Bellariu Ion ("The Young Pope"), Alba De Torrenbruna ("The Dew Point," 2023) and more.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Why are the contestants on "The Floor" referred to as whales? It makes no sense to me at all.

A: The tendency of Fox game show "The Floor" to refer to successful contestants as "whales" seems to be a callback to old gambling terminology, which used "whale" to refer to players with lots of cash on hand. (It was part of a whole set of aquatic metaphors that also referred to weaker players as "fish" and the real experts as "sharks.")

This definition gets stretched a little on Fox's popular game show "The Floor" since contestants aren't gambling with their own money. Instead, on the show it's used to refer to players who control a lot of territory (or "turf," another old-timey metaphor that calls to mind horse-racing tracks).

The commonality here seems to be that, in both cases, their status as whales makes them tempting targets for other players. In both cases, it's about size — whether the size of their bankroll in gambling or the size of the territory they hold on "The Floor."

"The Floor" never explains any of this openly — it just expects us to get the reference, or at least ignore it.

Yet nothing else about "The Floor" is particularly akin to casino-style games. The checkerboard floor and goal of controlling space is a nod to board games, while the actual competition is trivia-based.

That mashup of game styles has added up to one big hit for Fox. Both of the show's two seasons have averaged above two million viewers per episode, and it's already been renewed for a third season.

Of course, that also has a lot to do with its host, the eternally charming Rob Lowe ("9-1-1: Lone Star"). Lowe previously hosted another quiz game, "Mental Samurai," on Fox from 2019 to 2021.

Q: What did Lin-Manuel Miranda do first: "Encanto," "Moana" or "Hamilton"? And did he work on the new "Moana" movie?

A: Even though he's almost universally known as the "Hamilton" guy, it was "Moana" (2016) that came first. And his name is still (technically) on the franchise — one of the songs he wrote for "Moana" (called "We Know the Way") was used in "Moana 2" last year.

Miranda came to most people's attention after he created and starred in "Hamilton," the sung-and-rapped stage musical about American Founding Father Alexander Hamilton that redefined how big a stage hit could be.

But that play debuted in early 2015, which was months after Miranda started work on the Disney animated film "Moana."

Figuring out the timeline is tricky because Disney animations take years to make. So while Miranda started writing the "Moana" songs in the spring of 2014, no one heard them until Nov. 23, 2016, when the film premiered.

In those two intervening years, Miranda's career blew up, transforming him from locally famous Broadway guy to international household name.

He was already locally famous thanks to his previous musical, "In the Heights," which debuted off-Broadway in 2005 and ultimately won multiple Tony Awards for its Broadway run. Other, smaller stage successes followed, such as "Bring It On: The Musical" in 2011.

It was on the strength of that stage success that Hollywood came calling. He was drafted to write and perform the music for "Moana," and to contribute some music for "Star Wars: Episode VII — The Force Awakens." But Hollywood had no idea then what a star he would become.

He certainly hasn't been short of work since. As you say, he also did "Encanto" (2021), another Disney animated hit, as well as other big projects, such as 2018's "Mary Poppins Returns" and the 2020 film adaptation of "Hamilton." He even got to do a film adaptation of "In the Heights" in 2021, returning to the project that originally made him a star.

Q: I just heard that "The Franchise" was canceled. Do we know what the star, who played Daniel, is doing next?

A: Sort of, though "next" is relative here. Himesh Patel ("Yesterday," 2019), who played the long-suffering but also sneakily ambitious assistant director on HBO's "The Franchise," has a new film at the Sundance Film Festival, which is happening right now.

He has a lead role in "Bubble & Squeak," an oddball comedy about a couple, played by Patel and Sarah Goldberg ("Barry"), who are accused of smuggling cabbages into a nation where cabbages are banned (that's the oddball part). There's no word on a broader release date yet, but it went into Sundance with a lot of buzz, so it shouldn't have much trouble getting distribution.

Of course, if it's premiering at the film festival this week, that means Patel's work on it wrapped a while ago, back when he thought (or at least hoped) he was squeezing it in between seasons of "The Franchise." But we now know that's not the case.

The axe fell in early January on the series, a satire of Hollywood blockbusters and the people who make them. The cancellation didn't come as a huge surprise, since the very insider-y show never got particularly high ratings.
