Late Laughs

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

I read that July was the hottest month in the U.S. since they began keeping records in 1895. Yes, July was so hot, Trump spent the entire month hiding in an ice cream truck.

Tesla just had to recall 20,000 cars because the headlights are too bright. Usually, when a Tesla is too bright, it's because it's on fire.

I saw that McDonald's just unveiled a new type of Red Bull energy drink, and if you dip your fries in it, you can get a new type of heart attack.

Trump is now blaming vandals for large areas of damaged grass on the National Mall right where he held a rally on the Fourth of July. These are tough times for Trump: the grass is brown, the reflecting pool is green and the bruise on his hand is blue.

I saw that Lowe's challenged Home Depot's giant skeleton decoration by unveiling their own massive headless skeleton. Yeah, Lowe's and Home Depot are competing. Meanwhile, Ace Hardware is like, "We got real skeletons working the register. He's been dead since 1972, this guy."

A woman broke a world record by running 100 miles on a treadmill in 12 hours. She also broke the record for most noise complaints filed by a downstairs neighbor.

I read that some Waffle House locations are now selling tacos. I like it. Now when people are drunk at 2 a.m., instead of throwing punches, they'll be slapping each other with tortillas. Yeah, Waffle House tacos, I think we know where the next parasite outbreak will come from.

Jimmy Kimmel Live! ... With Jelly Roll!

Welcome to "Jimmy Kimmel Live!" baby. I am your last guest host of the summer: Jelly Roll. Now, you may know me from my hit songs "Need a Favor," "Save Me" and "I'm Not Okay," which are all the things Jimmy said to get me to do this in the first place.

This is my second year filling in here. This hosting show is sort of how I felt about my last time in prison. I never really thought I'd be back, but boy here I am.

You all might not believe this and it's going to sound like a joke, but this is the first time I've wore a suit and tie ever. I mean, I didn't wear one for the Grammys. I didn't wear one to court. I didn't wear one to my father's funeral. But I look all right, don't I? I didn't know that you could buy formal wear at a Bass Pro Shop.

According to The Washington Post, a lot of doctors are worried about the president's weight. After his last physical, we found out Trump gained 14 pounds, which means he's now tipping the scales at almost 240. It's crazy. Think about this. In the last few years, I've lost 300 pounds. That means I've lost an entire Donald Trump, and let's be honest, based on his approval ratings, it seems like most of the country wants to do the same thing.

Family force: A lethal threat circles a law enforcement family in 'Line of Fire'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Taylor Bloom, Peter Krause and Tommy O'Brien in "Line of Fire"

Working every step up the ladder of the family business is a reality for many people who grew up in family units entrenched in a specific line of work. Some people work their way up from dishwasher at the family restaurant, some apprentice to become the next generation in a lineage of tailors, but one passed-down profession in particular is like catnip for prime-time TV: law enforcement. The cop family drama "Line of Fire" premieres Monday, Sept. 21, on NBC, and streams the next day on Peacock.

Law enforcement families are subject matter that TV viewers can't seem to get enough of, from the long-running CBS drama "Blue Bloods" to Showtime's "Dexter" and its spinoffs "Dexter: Original Sin" and "Dexter: Resurrection." "Line of Fire" adds a little something new to the cop dramas we're used to. Starring Peter Krause ("Parenthood") as the patriarch of the Hollingsworths, the new series follows the family as they navigate what appears to be a targeted threat.

From NBC, "A family of law enforcement agents bridges personal differences and crosses professional boundaries as they tackle cases for the FBI, U.S. Marshals, Secret Service and Department of Justice. After a seemingly cut-and-dry case turns into a deadly conspiracy, they must use the expertise from a lifetime of protecting civilians and politicians to protect one another and bring the killer to justice … even if it means betraying their sworn code."

"Line of Fire" was created and written by Joshua Safran, a titan of the prime-time drama world responsible for such TV hits as the original CW teen drama "Gossip Girl" and its 2021 HBO Max revival, NBC's Broadway dramedy "Smash" and the ABC FBI thriller "Quantico." Safran executive produces the series alongside "Today" show host and former first daughter Jenna Bush Hager and Ben Spector ("The House of the Spirits").

Mike Hollingsworth (Krause) is the first of two secret service agents in the family — his son Mike "Micah" Hollingsworth Jr. (Tommy O'Brien, "Grown-ish") took his name and followed his father into the department. Though he may appear to be the apple of his father's eye, Micah has gotten himself into some hot water in his very important, public-facing role as protection for the president's daughter.

Pursuing a clandestine romantic relationship with the member of the first family that he is sworn to protect has created some tension between the father and son. "This isn't a party you crash; you're protecting the president's daughter," Mike tells Micah in the official trailer for the upcoming series. "If we lose focus, people get hurt," he says simply of their duty to serve.

Mike's wife, Jane (Hope Davis, "Succession"), is a member of the U.S. Marshal Service, while daughter Clare (Kat Cunning, "The Deuce") is an FBI agent. Finally, the youngest Hollingsworth, Russ (Taylor Bloom, "American Horror Story"), is a freshly minted Department of Justice analyst. The Hollingsworths weave a tangled web. Each member of the family holds tight to precious details of their personal lives, and Mike and Jane are no exception.

Something is up with Mike, evidenced by Russ thinking out loud in the trailer, "Why did Dad manipulate me into getting information for him at the DOJ?" Mike's personal and professional lives are up for interrogation once the man who had been trusted to protect a president suddenly becomes a target himself. Keeping classified information secret is one thing, but his marital status is another.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth have evidently hit a rough patch — one of the guest stars this season is a love interest of Jane's — but a frantic search for a suspect out for their lives will surely reignite Mike and Jane's spark, right? Davis hopes so, as she shared with NBC at the NBCUniversal Backlot Pass event: "We have some secrets from one another, and some things that we never could agree on. But are we done with each other yet? I don't think so."

Rounding out the main cast is Charlie Barnett ("Russian Doll"), who also stars in "Line of Fire" in an as-yet-unannounced role. Some exciting guest stars were recently announced to be joining the upcoming series. Sam Waterston ("Law & Order") will appear as former president Thomas Barnes, who shares a deep bond with Mike from his heroic time in the president's service. Campbell Scott ("Furious") is Terry, a senator and Jane's very hopeful boyfriend. Chris Chalk ("It: Welcome to Derry") portrays current President Kayana, who is focused on course-correcting for more appealing numbers.

In an August panel discussion about the upcoming series, Safran shared his perspective of the drama, saying, "I think of the show a little bit of a throwback in terms of we talk about 'The West Wing' a lot, 'The Diplomat,' which is not a throwback. But it's this idea of talking around the world of politics but not being a show about politics. These people who do this job do it regardless of what state the country is in at any given time, or who is in charge. This is a job."

Safran continued, "you have to love every person you are working with, regardless of the regime or if you ideologically see eye to eye. It's the job. It's about the love of the job. It's about the love of the work."

Catch the series premiere of "Line of Fire" Monday, Sept. 21, on NBC, and streaming the next day on Peacock.

From buzz to 'Brothers': McConaughey, Harrelson explore real-life rumors in comedy series

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

In a post-"Heated Rivalry" world, the word "bromance" may have come to lean more heavily on the romance rather than the brotherhood side of the popular portmanteau. But in Hollywood, several traditional bromances — two men with a deep friendship — have graced our screens in recent years. From Ben Affleck and Matt Damon, who co-wrote and co-starred in "Good Will Hunting" (1997) before sharing 16 more films together as of writing, to Brad Pitt and George Clooney — six shared films, including three films in the Ocean's franchise — to Seth Rogen and James Franco, who until recently appeared glued at the hip and co-starred in eight projects over 20 years, beginning with the 1999 series "Freaks and Geeks" and culminating in "Zeroville" (2019), it seems Hollywood bromances are a dime a dozen.

One particular Hollywood bromance has gotten some interesting coverage over the past decade, however, and it all started when "True Detective" Season 1 stars Matthew McConaughey and Woody Harrelson went on a joint family trip to Greece in 2017.

"Brothers," a new series starring Harrelson and McConaughey as fictionalized, would-be versions of themselves, premieres Wednesday, Sept. 23, on Apple TV.

Per the official Apple TV description for the series, "'Brothers' follows McConaughey and Harrelson ... whose lifelong friendship is thrown into chaos when they uncover a decades-old secret: they might actually be brothers. After Woody's daughter's wedding falls apart, he loads up the family and heads to Austin, Texas, for an extended stay at Matthew's ranch. But what begins as a healing getaway quickly spirals when Matthew's mother, Ma Mac [played by Holland Taylor, "Two and a Half Men"], accidentally lets slip a long-buried secret that the two friends might actually be brothers.

"As Woody turns the ranch upside down in pursuit of the truth," the description continues, "Matthew finds himself juggling an entirely different identity crisis: a potential run for governor of Texas. The result is a heartfelt, chaotic and wildly funny story about friendship, family, fame and the messy line between myth and reality."

The series plays on a real-life consideration for McConaughey and Harrelson: their potential for shared DNA. The rumor was first set into motion when the actors' kids were sharing old pictures of their fathers and commenting on the similarities between the two. What no one was prepared for, however, was for McConaughey's mother, Kay (aka Ma Mac), to make an off-hand comment about how she intimately "knew" Harrelson's dad (known in his own right as a convicted contract killer — but that's a story for another piece).

"Everyone's going, 'Man, you two: those mannerisms are the same, you look alike. It's like you're brothers,'" McConaughey recalled to Vanity Fair in an exclusive interview in promotion of the new show. That's when Ma Mac dropped her bombshell.

"Woody believed it from the get-go," McConaughey told Vanity Fair, "and I don't believe it from the get-go."

But the pair did the math and realized there is a very real possibility they could be half-brothers, and thus the idea for "Brothers" was born.

In addition to the show's cheeky rumor-driven primary plot, "Brothers" maintains comedic silliness by playing up several mannerisms and personality traits recognizable to the actors from their reputations in general pop culture. For example, the series trailer opens with McConaughey beating his chest while staring at his own reflection in the bathroom mirror, recalling his iconic restaurant scene from "The Wolf of Wall Street" (2013), while Harrelson massages his temples to summon his trademark salt-of-the-earth "hippie" energy.

The trailer goes on to indicate several subplots, including an uncomfortable run-in with drunk university students, several rodeo-related hijinks, family drama and a race for governor of Texas that mirror's McConaughey's own early-2020s political aspirations. But at the end of the day, neither the series nor the duo is particularly concerned with blood tests or DNA results. McConaughey and Harrelson's relationship is so strong because of their active decision to choose each other.

Woody Harrelson and Matthew McConaughey in "Brothers"

"They just love each other," "Brothers" showrunner Lee Eisenberg ("The Office") told Vanity Fair in early August. He later added, "Working in production is very exhausting, and you'd always just find them in a corner, giggling, telling stories."

At the end of his interview, Vanity Fair asked Eisenberg whether, after filming all eight episodes of "Brothers," the showrunner thought the pair of actors are actually related.

"It wouldn't surprise me either way," answered Eisenberg. "If they are not, then these two people have found each other in the luckiest and best way possible."

"Brothers" also stars Natalie Martinez ("Ordinary Joe"), Highdee Kuan ("The Brothers Sun"), Brittany Ishibashi ("Runaways"), Oona Yaffe ("Sleepy Hollow"), Ella Grace Helton ("Sweet Magnolias") and relative newcomers Nolan Almeida ("Christmas on Repeat," 2022) and Noah Carganilla as members of the joint Harrelson/McConaughey family unit.

Pull up to the McConaughey ranch and get to know the family when "Brothers" explores the meaning of family Wednesday, Sept. 23, on Apple TV.

Season after season, Gordon Ramsay proves it's always hot in 'Hell's Kitchen'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Ramsay's rodeo: He's led series such as "MasterChef," "Kitchen Nightmares" and "Next Level Chef" — but there will always be a special place in "Hell's Kitchen" for superstar chef Gordon Ramsay. Season 25 of the Emmy-nominated culinary competition series, "Hell's Kitchen," begins Thursday, Sept. 24, on Fox, initiating a new class of chefs into Ramsay's hand-crafted "Hell."

Operating since 2005, "Hell's Kitchen" offers a fierce, one-of-a-kind competition to aspiring young chefs, allowing them to vie for a prestigious job at one of Ramsay's famous restaurants. Along the way, however, they must deal with Ramsay's spicy-hot personality, along with challenges like speed showdowns, relay races, high-pressure services, blind taste tests and more.

After being renewed for seasons 25 and 26 in May 2026, "Hell's Kitchen" announced that this historic 25th season would — appropriately — see 25 chefs under the age of 25 competing for the grand prize. For the third consecutive year, the series will be filmed at the Foxwood Resort Casino, inside one of Ramsay's many Hell's Kitchen locations.

While the season's contestants have yet to be announced, production for Season 25 continued to utilize the custom-designed blue and red kitchen studios, modeled after Hell's Kitchen itself. The red and blue motif suggests the continuation of multiple teams, which Ramsay often splits by gender.

Last season (Season 24, dubbed "Battle of the States") saw 20 aspiring chefs in the iconic kitchen, whittled down through eliminations until two chefs — Ellie Parker, 25, representing Nevada, and Jada Vidal, 22, representing Florida — were left standing for the Season 24 finale. Assisted by handpicked teams of former contestants, Ellie and Jada did all they could to convince Ramsay of their culinary prowess. When all was said and done, however, Ramsay crowned Ellie as the season's winner, offering the former sous chef a job as the head chef at Foxwoods Resort Casino and a delicious $250,000 prize.

From ITV Entertainment and A. Smith & Company Productions — with Arthur Smith ("American Ninja Warrior"), Bernie Schaeffer ("Love Island USA"), Kenny Rosen ("Gordon Ramsay's 24 Hours to Hell and Back"), Kent Weed ("Spartan: Ultimate Team Challenge") and Ramsay acting as executive producers — "Hell's Kitchen" returns Thursday, Sept. 24, to Fox.

All's fair: With an all-new cast of castaways and an epic, two-hour debut, Season 51 of "Survivor" kicks off Wednesday, Sept. 23, on CBS.

"Twenty-six years after it first premiered, 'Survivor' continues to prove both the ultimate test of physical and mental will as well as the adventure of a lifetime," promises the series' description, introducing a series that has grown and changed since its inception — but still maintains its basic premise: "Castaways stranded on the beaches of Fiji are tasked with forming a new society, adapting to their surroundings and navigating an unpredictable social game to ensure their torch stays lit."

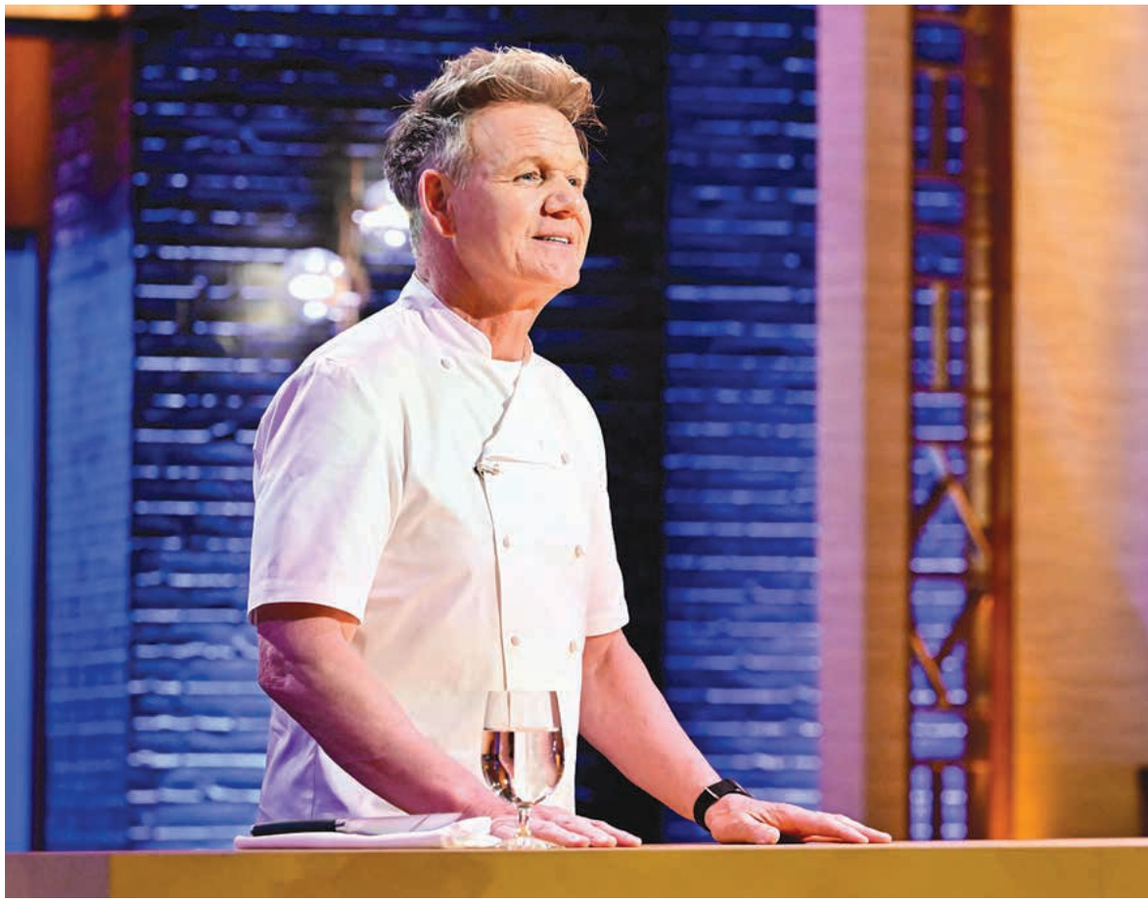

The upcoming 51st season arrives only four months after the conclusion of "Survivor 50," following the series' biannual release schedule. Jeff Probst ("Finder's Fee," 2001) has called this return the start of the series' "Open Era," marking the show's first major reset since 2021. According to Probst, the shakeup is designed to make the game "more unpredictable than ever before."

"The Open Era is taking the massive uncertainty [from 'Survivor 50'] and making it permanent," Probst explained during the "Survivor 50" finale. "The idea is that anything that has ever happened at any time on the show can happen in any season, at any time, in any order — without any warning."

Later on, in the "Survivor 51" trailer, Probst explained further, calling the new season a "shape-shifting game." He added, "For the first time ever, our entire history — every advantage, every idol, every twist we've ever done, 50 seasons of 'Survivor' — is in play … along with dangerous new elements never seen before."

Taking part in this experimental new season will be castaways Aaliyah Puglia (24, chef); Alexis Levine (34, criminal defense attorney); An "Thien An" Nguyen (24, medical student); Ana Sani (34, voice actress); Angelica "Jelly" Loblack (29, sociology professor); Brady Booker (27, pro wrestler); Carter Krull (24, livestock farmer); Cristian Chavez (26, head of HR); Danny "Kilby" Kilby (30, game designer); Devin Way (33, actor); Eric Macksoud (34, mental health counselor); Jenna Doore (30, wedding photographer); Kristin Flickinger (49, crisis management); Lewis Kelly (28, farmer); Linnea Capobianco (25, entrepreneur); Maggie Nestor (40, farmer); Mike Pinsky (32, baseball executive); Ori Jean-Charles (27, personal trainer); Patt Cannaday (33, federal prosecutor); Rob Antonson (40, airline gate agent); and Sharonda Cox (34, OB-GYN resident).

Expect the unexpected when "Survivor" returns Wednesday, Sept. 23, on CBS.

"Unabomber" (2026)

Inspired by true events, director Janus Metz's ("All the Old Knives," 2022) "Unabomber" premieres Friday, Sept. 25, on Netflix. At 16 years old, Ted Kaczynski (Jacob Tremblay, "Wonder," 2017) arrives at Harvard as one of the university's youngest and most promising minds. He soon meets psychologist Henry Murray (Russell Crowe, "Nuremberg," 2025), who enlists him in a series controversial psychological experiments, testing how much his mind can withstand before he cracks under the pressure. Decades later, after a wave of untraceable bombings, FBI Agent Joanne Miller (Shailene Woodley, "Divergent," 2014) is tasked with hunting down the killer responsible for the deaths of countless victims. As she pieces together fragments of a manifesto and a pattern only a singular mind could construct, the investigation begins circling back toward Harvard and toward the fragile, isolated genius that once sat in the corrupt professor's office. With a screenplay by Sam Chalsen ("The Flash") and Nelson Greaves ("See"), this gripping, true story asks how much of a monster is made, not born, and what it costs the people caught in the aftermath.

"Habeas Corpus" – Season 1

When the past comes back to judge you, is there still room to make amends? Netflix enters the courtroom Wednesday, Sept. 23, with "Habeas Corpus," a Brazilian legal drama starring Marjorie Estiano ("Good Manners," 2017) as Inez, a respected law professor who leads a wrongful-conviction group reviewing the conviction of a young man who swears he's innocent. One of her sharpest students, Marina (Any Gabrielly, "Moana," 2016), turns out to have a devastating connection to Inez's past: her mother was wrongfully imprisoned years earlier because of an error Inez made early in her career. As the review pulls at loose threads in the case, evidence starts to complicate everything the team thought it understood, while Marina quietly works an angle of her own. Caught between her duty to the case, her guilt over the past and the fallout still unfolding from it, Inez has to reckon with just how far the damage has gone. The series is created by Leonardo Moreira ("Oxygen Masks Will Not Drop Automatically"), alongside Donna Oliveira ("Suture") and Luiz Villaca ("Norma").

"A Different World" – Season 1

A sequel to the original series that aired on NBC from 1987-93, Netflix brings old fans and new to Hillman College when Season 1 of "A Different World" premieres Thursday, Sept. 24, on the streamer. Deborah Wayne (Maleah Joi Moon, "Mystic Christmas," 2023) arrives for her freshman year at Hillman College, carrying a famous family name. The youngest daughter of Dwayne Wayne (Kadeem Hardison, "Drive," 1997) and Whitley Gilbert (Jasmine Guy, "Thou Shall Not Commit Adultery," 2026), Deborah is spirited, shy and drawn to the spotlight. However, college quickly pushes her beyond the comfortable life she has always known. She finds her footing alongside Rashida Duvall (Alijah Kai, "Runt," 2019), a first-generation criminal justice major; Shaquille Johnson (Cornell Young IV, "D.O.P.E. Unit"), a star athlete; Amir Rodale (Jordan Aaron Hall, "The Idea of You," 2024), a psychology student; Hazel Henry (Kennedi Reece, "Charged"), a small-town newcomer; and Kojo Achebe (Chibuikem Uche, "One of Us Is Lying"), an ambitious fashion entrepreneur. Known for her work on "The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air" and "Grey's Anatomy," "A Different World" was created by showrunner Felicia Pride.

Jon Hamm as Fred Heckman in "American Hostage"

"American Hostage" – Season 1

A hostage-taker turns a radio reporter into the unlikely voice of a 1977 standoff as Season 1 of "American Hostage" comes to Prime Video Sunday, Sept. 20. In 1977 Indianapolis, radio reporter Fred Heckman (Jon Hamm, "Mad Men") is preparing to do what he does best: bring the city's biggest stories into listeners' homes. But when Tony Kiritsis (Giovanni Ribisi, "Sneaky Pete") storms into the life of mortgage broker Dick Hall (Kristoffer Polaha, "Mystery 101") and takes him hostage, he demands one thing: airtime on Fred's program. As the standoff stretches on, Fred is forced to become the voice between an armed hostage-taker and a growing crowd of police, reporters and onlookers outside. What begins as a professional assignment quickly invades Fred's home life, testing his marriage to Barbara (Mireille Enos, "The Killing") and forcing him to weigh journalistic duty against the danger unfolding in real time. With the entire city listening, Fred must keep Tony talking while authorities search for a way to end the siege. The eight-episode season was created and executive produced by Shawn Ryan ("Timeless") and Eileen Myers ("Last Resort"), with William Jackson Harper ("The Good Place"), Jonathan Tucker ("Kingdom") and Kat Cunning ("Trinkets") rounding out the cast.

"The Love Hypothesis" (2026)

Based on Ali Hazelwood's best-selling romance novel, "The Love Hypothesis" brings a calculated experiment in love to the screen, arriving Wednesday, Sept. 23, on Prime Video. "Riverdale's" Lili Reinhart stars as Olive, a brilliant PhD student who has her sights firmly set on a future in academia. But when she discovers that her best friend, Ahn (Rachel Marsh, "Fallout"), has fallen for her crush, Jeremy (Nicholas Duvernay, "Reminders of Him," 2026), she impulsively kisses her professor, Adam Carlsen (Tom Bateman, "Death on the Nile," 2022), to convince her friend that she has moved on. The kiss leads Olive and Adam to make a wildly unexpected arrangement that sees them pretend to date each other to get friends and family off their backs about their love lives. This leads Olive "to test her most daunting hypothesis yet: that love might actually be worth the risk" (per Prime Video). Directed by Claire Scanlon ("The People We Hate at the Wedding," 2022) and written by Sarah Rothschild ("The Sleepover," 2020), this romantic comedy also stars Jaboukie Young-White ("Strange World," 2022) and Arty Froushan ("Carnival Row").

"Neagley" – Season 1

When a suspicious death hits too close to home, Frances Neagley goes searching for answers in Season 1 of "Neagley," a spinoff of the hit series "Reacher," now streaming on Prime Video. Frances Neagley (Maria Sten, "Reacher") proved herself one of the sharpest operators to ever serve under Jack Reacher (Alan Ritchson, "Reacher") in the Army's 110th Special Investigations Unit. Years later, she left the military behind for a private investigator's badge in Chicago, running her own life on her own terms. That stability shatters when she learns a close friend from her past has died in what's officially ruled an accident, but Neagley isn't buying it for a second. Pulling from everything Reacher ever taught her, and everything the 110th trained into her, she launches her own investigation, seeking help from Det. Hudson Riley (Greyston Holt, "Bitten") and Renee Birdwhistle (Adeline Rudolph, "Do Not Enter," 2026) as she searches for the truth. The deeper she digs, the clearer it becomes that her friend's death was no accident at all, but the first move in something far more dangerous. Now, Neagley has to rely on instincts sharpened by war and grief to outmaneuver a threat that wants her dead.

Less Hall this 'ween

'HBC' bids adieu to longtime judge for Season 12

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Unbox the freaky fondants and edible blood (if you haven't already) and prepare to sink your teeth into something delicious this spooky season. Back Monday, Sept. 14, for a 12th year of scares, "Halloween Baking Championship" (aka "HBC") welcomes a new roster of brave bakers to the kitchen. As nine hopefuls fall victim to the terrifyingly tasty television show, one will emerge victorious as this year's Halloween Baking Champion. Season 12 of "HBC" continues Monday, Sept. 21, on Food Network.

"Ten bakers will navigate one spooky-sweet challenge after another, all inspired by the Museum of Unnatural History, where this season is set," reads the Food Network description for Season 12. "The reward for facing their fears and putting their best confectionery foot forward is the chance to take home $25,000 and 'Halloween Baking Championship' bragging rights."

The premise is a familiar one to "HBC" veterans, as is Season 12 host John Henson ("Wipeout"), but there will be a little less Hall this Halloween as beloved judge Carla Hall ("The Chew") steps away from the show for the first time in its history. Although Food Network has been relatively quiet about Hall's departure, reports from The-Sun.com indicate that the decision to film Season 12 without Hall may be related to the nature of the chef's open-ended contract.

Host John Henson and judges Aarti Sequeira, Zac Young and Stephanie Boswell in "Halloween Baking Championship"

For her part, Hall addressed the rumors of her departure via social media, sharing heartfelt video montages of her time on "HBC." On Instagram, sandwiched between a promotion for her cookbook "Carla Bakes" and a recipe for Striped Malted Pound Cake, Hall posted the reel with a simple caption: "The end of an era for me. Thank you Halloween Baking."

Meanwhile, in the caption for a similar video posted to Facebook, Hall elaborates a bit more.

"It is true, I won't be appearing on 'Halloween Baking [Championship]' this season," Hall laments. "I can't wait to see all of the costumes and bakes while I'm watching at home with all of you! Thank you for letting me be a part of your spooky season for the past 11 years."

Joining returning judges Stephanie Boswell ("Alex Vs. America") and Zac Young ("Chopped") in Hall's enormous shoes is "Guy's Grocery Games" judge and "Aarti Party" host Aarti Sequeira.

Costume-up and crack into some creepy cakes when "Halloween Baking Championship" continues its 12th season Monday, Sept. 21, on Food Network.

Evil Dead Burn

Alice (Yacoub) is a French photographer married to Will Price (Pullar), a wealthy but controlling and abusive man. At a family gathering for Will's brother Joseph's (Doohan) birthday, tensions are already high. After an argument with Alice, Will gets drunk and drives away. On the road, he encounters a Deadite, which possesses him, and Will crashes his car and apparently dies. Alice attends Will's funeral, where she is uncomfortable around his family. Will's parents, Edgar (Shand) and Susan (Wright), don't want to acknowledge how abusive he was toward Alice and instead treat her as though she failed him. Alice is much closer to Joseph and girlfriend Thya (Buchanan), who are more sympathetic toward her. The family eventually gathers at their isolated property. Meanwhile, Joseph discovers research left behind by his grandfather, who had studied the supernatural forces connected to the Necronomicon. Joseph accidentally removes a protective spell surrounding an ancient Kandarian Dagger hidden on the property. As her relatives are possessed and killed one by one, Alice must not only confront the evil, supernatural forces at work, but her past trauma from her marriage to Will.

Director: Sebastien Vanicek. Stars: Souheila Yacoub, Tandi Wright, Hunter Doohan, Luciane Buchanan, Erroll Shand, Maude Davey, George Pullar. 2026. 109 min. Horror.

Faces of Death

Margot Romero (Ferreira) is a content moderator for a social media platform who discovers a series of extremely violent videos that appear to recreate deaths from the infamous 1978 film "Faces of Death." At first, she assumes they're elaborate hoaxes, but disturbing details convince her the murders may actually be real. Margot investigates the videos herself after her co-workers dismiss her concerns. She discovers that the killer (Montgomery) is deliberately recreating scenes from the original film and uploading them online — and that she is the next target.

Director: Daniel Goldhaber. Stars: Barbie Ferreira, Dacre Montgomery, Josie Totah, Aaron Holliday, Jermaine Fowler, Charli XCX. 2026. 97 min. Horror.

Helen Mirren in "MobLand"

Antiques Roadshow

(33) (57) 8:00 PM

Treasured heirlooms get their moment as everyday collectors learn what their finds are really worth. Highlights include a battered 1895 UNC football, an 1856 Canton fire oil painting and an exquisite Jacob Hurd silver cann dating to around 1745.

Across the Wide Missouri

TCM 8:00 PM

Beaver pelts lure Flint Mitchell (Clark Gable) deep into Blackfoot territory, where he marries the chief's (Jack Holt) daughter (Maria Elena Marques) for access to the land. Real feeling grows as kinsman Ironshirt (Ricardo Montalban) turns hostile.

MobLand

SHOW 9:00 PM

Old wounds reopen for London's most fearsome crime dynasty in this Season 2 premiere. Patriarch Conrad Harrigan (Pierce Brosnan) and wife Maeve (Helen Mirren) lean on fixer Harry Da Souza (Tom Hardy) as fresh threats close in, testing loyalties.

The Weakest Link

(44) 9:00 PM

Jane Lynch returns to torment a fresh batch of famous faces in this season-opening round of trivia warfare. Eight celebrities from television, sports and stand-up comedy battle to bank up to $1 million for charity, one brutal vote-out at a time.

Tuesday Best Bets

Joey Graziadei in "R.J. Decker"

Best Medicine

(12) (44) 8:00 PM

Season 2 finds blunt Boston transplant Dr. Martin Best (Josh Charles) still adjusting to life as the reluctant town doctor of a quirky Maine village. His prickly manner keeps colliding with the locals' chaos, even as the town provides what he needs.

New York: A Documentary Film

(33) (57) 9:00 PM

As the 21st century rolled in, New York grappled with the aftermath of 9/11. But as years passed, an unprecedented series of political, financial, climatic and epidemiological world crises unfolded, calling for decades of resilience and creativity.

The Drop: A Snowfall Saga

FX 9:00 PM

While Wanda (Gail Bean) struggles to untangle family ties and Lamar's (Asante Blackk) new song grows beyond the label's expectations, James (Peyton Alex Smith) and Leon (Isaiah John) are forced to rethink their futures in this latest episode.

R.J. Decker

(12) 10:00 PM

R.J. (Scott Speedman) is the prime suspect when Senator Ochoa (David Zayas) is found murdered in his pool. As such, he must rely on his inner circle to help him unmask the real killer to clear his name and untangle the remaining secrets left behind.

Wednesday Best Bets

Rob Lowe hosts "The Floor"

Survivor

③ 8:00 PM

A fresh set of castaways washes ashore for this Season 51 premiere, ready to outwit, outplay and outlast their way to a million-dollar prize. Brutal challenges, harsh terrain and shifting alliances winnow the field week by week until only one remains.

The Floor

⑫ ㊹ 8:00 PM

Rob Lowe welcomes a new type of contestant for this Season 6 premiere: past champions across wildly different fields, from BBQ, to MMA, to car-jitsu. Trivia duels decide who claims each square of floor, building toward one ultimate expert left standing.

America's Got Talent

⑤ 9:00 PM

Months of jaw-dropping talent narrow to a handful of finalists as Season 21 crowns its winner. Judges Howie Mandel, Mel B, Sofia Vergara and Simon Cowell watch the season's most dazzling acts make one final push for the prize. Terry Crews hosts.

NOVA

㉝ ㊼ 9:00 PM

Centuries of hard-won know-how meet modern science in this look at ingenious cultural traditions. From navigating the stark Arctic landscape to building energy-efficient homes in desert heat, ancestral wisdom keeps proving itself far ahead of its time.

The Ark

SYFY 10:00 PM

A confounding picture becomes clearer during the next episode of this series' third season. While some of the team conducts scientific research aboard a billionaire's space station, Homebase begins to snap puzzle pieces into place.

Angela Bassett, Emma Roberts, Billie Lourd and Gabourey Sidibe of "American Horror Story: 13"

The Shining

TCM 8:00 PM

Isolation breeds madness at the remote Overlook Hotel, where writer Jack Torrance (Jack Nicholson) takes a winter caretaking job hoping to cure his block. As snow seals the family in, son Danny's (Danny Lloyd) visions endanger wife Wendy (Shelley Duvall).

American Horror Story: 13

FX 9:00 PM

Ryan Murphy calls in the Avengers of his horror universe for this reunion-packed Season 13 premiere. Coven Supreme Cordelia Goode (Sarah Paulson), ruthless Constance Langdon (Jessica Lange) and witch Madison Montgomery (Emma Roberts) take on a threat.

A Killer Story

HBO 9:00 PM

Explore the two-decades-long polarizing murder case of Dana Chandler in this brand-new docuseries. Chandler was accused of a double homicide in 2002 and took part in three separate trials without any forensic evidence to prove the charges against her.

Special Forces: World's Toughest Test

44 9:00 PM

Fifteen famous faces trade red carpets for the unforgiving Malaysian jungle in this Season 5 premiere deployment. Claustrophobic bunker searches, supply runs suspended 300 feet up and brutal chemical drills separate genuine grit from mere star power.

Cynthia Erivo and Ariana Grande star in "Wicked"

Margot Robbie and Diego Calva in "Babylon"

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

"Wicked" (2024)

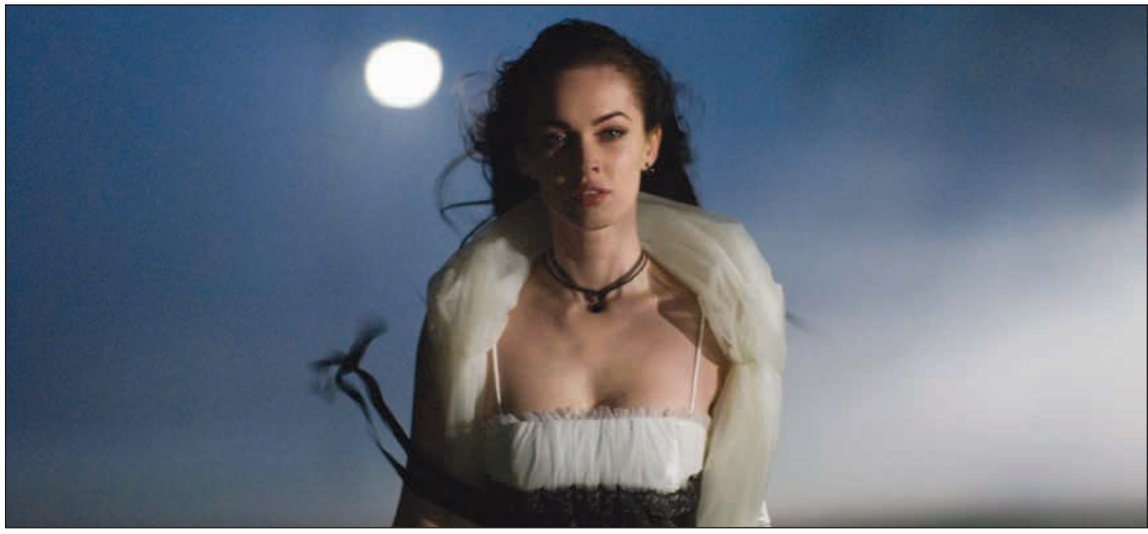

The untold story of Oz's most misunderstood witch casts its "Wicked" spell, bringing the 2024 film to Hulu Monday Sept. 21. "Wicked" tells the story of Elphaba (Cynthia Erivo, "Harriet," 2019), a fiercely intelligent young woman born with emerald-green skin who struggles with prejudice, misunderstanding and her own sense of identity. But when Elphaba arrives at Shiz University to see off her younger sister, Nessarose (Marissa Bode, "No Roles Written," 2019), her powers are accidentally unleashed. Seemingly wicked to those around her, Elphaba's powers draw the attention of Madame Morrible (Michelle Yeoh, "Everything Everywhere All at Once," 2022), who offers to enroll her and privately tutor her in sorcery. To her dismay, Elphaba's forced to room with the dazzlingly popular Glinda (Ariana Grande, "Victorious"), and the two polar opposites strike up a close friendship. As Elphaba dreams of using her powers for good, Glinda is drawn to status and public admiration. But when Elphaba receives an invitation to Emerald City to meet the Wonderful Wizard of Oz (Jeff Goldblum, "Jurassic Park," 1993), she discovers the darker truth behind the Wizard's rule and the role she's expected to play. Forced to choose between staying silent or standing up for what's right, Elphaba embraces her so-called "wickedness" as a form of resistance, while Glinda must decide where her loyalties lie. Directed by Jon M. Chu ("Crazy Rich Asians," 2018), "Wicked" is based on the screenplay by Winnie Holzman ("Once and Again"), with Dana Fox ("Cruella," 2021) serving as an executive producer.

"Babylon" (2022)

Brad Pitt ("Once Upon a Time... in Hollywood," 2019) and Margot Robbie ("I, Tonya," 2017) take on Hollywood's silent-film era in "Babylon," available now on Hulu. In 1926 Los Angeles, Mexican immigrant Manny Torres (Diego Calva, "The Suicide Squad," 2021) dreams of making it big in Hollywood, and his chance arrives at a decadent party where he meets aspiring actress Nellie LaRoy (Robbie). When Nellie gets her first major break and Manny becomes assistant to silent-film star Jack Conrad (Pitt), both find themselves racing toward fame as Hollywood begins changing around them. Manny climbs the studio ranks, helping jazz trumpeter Sidney Palmer (Jovan Adepo, "Fences," 2016) break into film, while cabaret singer Lady Fay Zhu (Li Jun Li, "The Exorcist," 2016) fights tooth and nail to stay in the business. But when sound films take over, Jack's career begins to crumble, while Nellie's partying, drug use and gambling push her further into trouble. As Manny tries to save her career, their Hollywood dreams begin slipping away. Written and directed by Damien Chazelle ("La La Land," 2016).

"Jennifer's Body" (2009)

Take a stroll through the haunted halls of high school with "Jennifer's Body," now available to stream on Hulu. When popular, resident "hot girl" and cheerleader Jennifer (Megan Fox, "Transformers," 2007) and her best friend, the much nerdier and aptly named Needy (Amanda Seyfried, "Mamma Mia!," 2008), attend a small-but-packed concert at a local bar, the night starts off great. Used to being the center of attention and getting all the boys at school to fall at her feet, Jennifer is confident when talking to the musicians looking for their big break in show business, led by Nikolai Wolf (Adam Brody, "The O.C."). But as the band, who will do anything to get famous, begins to see Jennifer as a target for their virginal sacrifice, the concert and Jennifer's life both take on a disastrous form. The sacrifice goes disastrously wrong, and Jennifer becomes possessed with something even more evil than damning beauty and popularity. As she comes to grips with her new self, Jennifer realizes there may be some deliciously monstrous acts she'd like to check off her list. Now, it's up to Needy to stop Jennifer before any more damage can come to the young men in their town. Written by horror fan and teen-theme superstar Diablo Cody ("Juno," 2007), "Jennifer's Body" was directed by Karyn Kusama ("The Invitation," 2015).

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Will "Ghosts" be returning this year?

A: If you mean this calendar year, then the answer is "sorta." But that's actually good news, because it means we're getting extra "Ghosts."

The hit CBS sitcom, which usually debuts in the fall, is switching to mid-season for Season 6, meaning we won't see the premiere until January or February.

However, the fall will still have plenty of new material for "Ghosts" fans, to get us all psyched for our return to the show's haunted bed and breakfast.

First there's a new series, "Eternally Yours," from "Ghosts" executive producers Joe Port and Joe Wiseman, who previously worked on "New Girl" together, among other shows. It's about a pair of 500-year-old vampires — played by Ed Weeks ("The Mindy Project") and Allegra Edwards ("Upload") — who struggle to accept the human (Jaren Lewison, "Never Have I Ever") who's dating their daughter (Helen J Shen, "The Devil Wears Prada 2," 2026). So, very much up the "Ghosts" alley.

And later in the season, we're getting two new hourlong "Ghosts" specials for Halloween and Christmas.

The show has made a point of celebrating those two holidays in past seasons, but getting dedicated specials outside of a regular season is a big step, and an expression of CBS's continued faith in the show.

Of course, if all that isn't enough to tide you over, you could try looking up the original, British version, which is available for streaming in North America on various platforms.

Rose McIver in "Ghosts"

Q: I really loved "Friends With Kids," but the main character, Julie, was the only cast member I didn't recognize. Who was she and what has she done since?

A: There were two main stars and four main supporting stars in the 2011 rom-com "Friends With Kids," and all but one of them were famous faces at the time. The stacked cast featured "Parks and Recreation" star Adam Scott, "Saturday Night Live" standouts Kristen Wiig and Maya Rudolph, "Mad Men" star Jon Hamm and "The IT Crowd" star Chris O'Dowd.

But ironically, the less-famous cast member was actually the most powerful person in the room.

Jennifer Westfeldt ("Ira & Abby," 2006) played Julie, whose controversial plan to have a baby with best friend Jason (Scott) drives the plot of the film. However, that was her smallest contribution to "Friends With Kids," since she also wrote, co-produced and directed it.

It was the second time she'd written and produced a film she starred in, after the 2001 art-house hit "Kissing Jessica Stein," which is what put Westfeldt on the Hollywood map.

Not surprisingly, it takes more time to write and produce a movie than it does to act, so most of her more recent work has just been in front of the camera. That includes guest spots in a pile of hit comedies such as "Will Trent" and "This Is Us."

But she's still cranking out well-regarded stories. For example, she helped write the award-winning Showtime historical miniseries "The First Lady" in 2022, and in 2024, she co-wrote and co-produced "The Idea of You," a high-profile rom-com starring Anne Hathaway ("Les Miserables," 2012).

She has multiple other completed scripts making the rounds looking for producers, most notably one called "The Sweet Spot," which got some interest from Amazon MGM recently.
