Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

It is Dec. 2. The year is almost over and 2025 has been a rough one. And I mean, obviously, there's no one to blame for that other than Donald Trump and a lot of people are. In the new Gallup poll, his approval rating is down to 36% with 60% disapproval. Which is why Trump has started to wear a new hat: More Popular Than Syphilis.

Now, the thing hurting Trump the most is cost of living for the average American. He has been trying everything he can think of, which is not much. And to appease voters, he started reminding them that his big, beautiful bill takes effect on Jan. 1. But that's actually going to cause a problem because IRS agents will be required to watch OnlyFans videos to determine if they fit the bill's no tax on tips criteria. They're going to have to watch every OnlyFans video. They're going to need to bring in some part-time help. "Billy, Billy, what are you doing in there?" "Don't come in, Mom. I'm running an audit."

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

DoorDash said that their customers' personal information was stolen in a data breach. The hackers will face criminal charges along with vague DoorDash charges. Some customers vow to never use DoorDash ever again, and then they got hungry and ordered a burger from the McDonald's 600 feet away.

Thank you for joining us on a very American holiday: the Monday after Thanksgiving, Cyber Monday. The one day a year we set aside time to shop online. Did you buy a lot of crap today? I like to walk around the office on Cyber Monday to watch people who work here shut their computers quicker than a teenager looking at porn.

Between Black Friday and Cyber Monday, this is that wondrous time of the year when you learn that every company in America somehow has your email address.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

A prisoner in Australia recently filed a lawsuit that claims the state's ban on Vegemite for inmates violates his human rights. Well, have you tried talking to the inventor of Vegemite? I assume he's in prison with you.

NBC has announced a new deal yesterday [Nov. 19] with Major League Baseball. Because if you've got Chicago in your name, you're getting a show.

A New Jersey family was recently reunited with their cat more than 10 years after it went missing. The reunion occurred when the family decided to move the couch.

The New York Giants yesterday [Nov. 23] became the first NFL team to be eliminated from playoff contention. Which, let's face it, is the only way fans were going to hear "Giants" and "first" in the same sentence.

Massachusetts man of 'Medicine': American network launches new take on British favorite

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Change is hard to navigate on the best of days, but big, sudden life adjustments have a way of bringing one's worst fears bubbling to the surface. Unfortunately for Dr. Martin Best (Josh Charles, "The Good Wife"), the main character in Fox's newest one-hour comedy series "Best Medicine," the Massachusetts-based medical practitioner has a lot of fears to face.

"Best Medicine" premieres Tuesday, Jan. 6, on Fox.

Based on hit British series "Doc Martin," starring Martin Clunes ("Men Behaving Badly") as titular doctor Martin Ellingham, "Best Medicine" follows an Americanized version of the same plotline. Whereas Ellingham moved from the bustling hub of London to the fictional coastal Cornish village of Portwenn in "Doc Martin," "Best Medicine" sees Best, a successful Boston doctor in his own right, make an unexpected move to the small seaside town where he vacationed as a child. Although the move itself is hard enough for Best to adapt to, the good doctor has faults that makes it hard for others to accept him in return, regardless of the fact that he is their village's only doctor.

"Martin's blunt and borderline rude bedside manner rubs the quirky, needy locals the wrong way, and he quickly alienates the town, even though he's all they've got," reads the logline per CTV, which will air the series in Canada. "Although Martin can expertly address any medical ailment or mystery in this idiosyncratic town, he's really just desperate to be left the hell alone. Instead, he keeps getting dragged right smack into the middle of their personal chaos, feuds and fantasies."

Best is played by Josh Charles, who is known to many for his twice Emmy-nominated portrayal of Will Gardner in the CBS legal/political drama "The Good Wife" as well as for roles such as Cmdr. Gabriel Wharton in Hulu's "The Handmaid's Tale" and teenage student Knox Overstreet in the 1989 Robin Williams ("Mrs. Doubtfire," 1993) classic "Dead Poets Society."

Joining Charles on screen in "Best Medicine" are Josh Segarra ("Abbott Elementary") as the town's sheriff, Mark Mylow; Abigail Spencer ("Mad Men") as Louisa Glasson, a sweet, well-mannered schoolteacher and possible future love interest for Best; Annie Potts ("Young Sheldon") as Best's estranged Aunt Joan, "who is a strong, sturdy, lobster woman who still goes out every day on her boat, and no one better tell her to stop if they know what's good for them" (per TVInsider); and the mononymous Cree ("Big Sky") as Elaine, an aspiring influencer who wants nothing more than to leave her small town in the rearview mirror.

There is also another, very special character in "Best Medicine," who will certainly look familiar to viewers of the original British series. Clunes, also known as Doc Martin himself, appears in the Fox series as Best's father and fellow doctor Robert Best.

"Robert is an accomplished but headstrong gastroenterologist whose demeanor makes Martin's prickly bedside manner seem warm

by comparison," writes The Hollywood Reporter writer Rick Porter in an Oct. 13 article. "He arrives in the New England town where Martin has moved after giving up his surgical career in Boston and puts everyone on edge, including his estranged sister and Martin's aunt."

"But underneath his snobby, stone-cold exterior," the character description reads, "Robert is hiding a few secrets of his own that could turn Martin's new life upside down and force him to confront his past."

Clunes' character in "Best Medicine" is not a far cry from that of Doc Martin, who was also portrayed as curt, brash and emotionally stunted — albeit an excellent doctor — throughout all 10 seasons of the show. Although the original ITV series ended on Christmas Day 2022 after 18 years on the air, Fox is delighted to be taking up the mantle in some way by paying homage to a beloved series abroad.

"The story of 'Doc Martin' has resonated worldwide with its humanity, originality and humor, and with 'Best Medicine' coming to Fox, that eccentricity gets a small-town America spin, complete with idyllic charm and absurdity," Michael Thorn, Fox Television Network president, said in a statement. "[Executive producers] Liz [Tuccillo ("Sex and the City")], Mark [Crowdy ("Saving Grace," 2000)], Philippa [Braithwaite ("Sliding Doors," 1998)], Ben [Silverman ("The Office")], and Rodney [Ferrell ("Stick")], have done a terrific job adapting this signature character for the Fox audience, especially in casting the terrifically talented Josh Charles as our lead."

Both Crowdy and Braithwaite join "Best Medicine" having worked on "Doc Martin" in the past. Meanwhile, Tuccillo, who co-wrote and adapted the book "He's Just Not That Into You" for its 2009 film version, helms the series adaptation of the original British series for American audiences.

"Best Medicine" also stars Cindy De La Cruz ("What Doesn't Float," 2023), Didi Conn ("Grease," 1978), Clea Lewis ("American Rust"), Jason Veasey ("Only Murders in the Building"), John DiMaggio ("Perry Mason"), Carter Shimp ("The Holdovers," 2023), Patch Darragh ("Succession"), Michael Potts ("True Detective"), Ava Bodnar ("I Need Your Love," 2024), Marita de Lara ("General Hospital"), Charlotte Hacke ("The American Revolution") and Alana Raquel Bowers ("Dr. Death"), as well as new talent Leah Janae Thomas and Wattson the dog.

Don't miss a doctor's chance to make a big change when "Best Medicine" premieres Tuesday, Jan. 6, on Fox.

From pages to screen: Bader and Blyth star in Netflix's 'People We Meet on Vacation'

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

Best friends Poppy Wright and Alex Nilsen have perfected the art of the annual escape — one plane ticket, one rental car and zero common sense required. But in Netflix's "People We Meet on Vacation," arriving on the streamer Friday, Jan. 9, their tradition of a breezy summer vacation runs into one obstacle they can't quite outrun: their feelings for each other.

Based on Emily Henry's 2021 best-selling novel, "People We Meet on Vacation" brings to life a story of love, friendship and the blurry line between the two. Emily Bader ("My Lady Jane") stars as Poppy, a free-spirited traveler who embraces life on a whim, while Tom Blyth ("The Gilded Age") plays Alex, a mild-mannered introvert who clings to a routine that's in neat, color-coded order.

The film, directed by Brett Haley ("All the Bright Places," 2020), marks the first of Henry's novels to hit the big screen, with Haley describing Bader and Blyth's on-screen chemistry as "electric" in an interview with Tudum.

"They capture that opposites-attract dynamic in a way that feels effortless and true," Haley said, adding that the movie "doesn't just tell a love story" but it "makes you feel like you've gone on vacation right alongside Poppy and Alex," stumbling along with them through every taxi ride, unexpected detour and late-night confession.

The film, offering glimpses of past and present, shows a friendship cemented through weeklong summer vacations, journeying from their small town in Ohio to the cobblestone streets of Barcelona and the jazzy corners of New Orleans. For most of the year, they live apart: Poppy's in New York chasing stories for a travel magazine, while Alex lives a quiet life in their hometown working as an English teacher. Now, though, the energy between them is shifting and their latest trip has them questioning if they are more than just friends.

Netflix dropped the first teaser for the film in September 2025, set to Robyn's "Hang With Me." The clip shows Poppy drifting through a bustling airport when her suitcase finally hits the carousel, absorbed in the music humming through her headphones as she's cheerfully belting along much louder than she realizes — only for her to stop mid-song when she locks eyes with Alex, who is watching from across the terminal.

A montage of their adventures follows, including Poppy in glittery makeup and a neon blue wig as Alex carries her up a hill; and later, a traveler asking, "Who wants to go skinny-dipping?" to which Alex says with a horrified expression, "Alex does not." With beers in hand, Poppy suggests that "maybe vacation Alex does," before the two are shown sprinting into the ocean. At one point, the two nearly share a kiss, before Alex pulls back, asking, "What am I to you?" It's clear from the first few frames that these two are trouble in the most endearing way.

Joining Bader and Blyth on their adventure is an ensemble cast that includes Sarah Catherine Hook ("The White Lotus") as Sarah, Alex's on-again, off-again girlfriend; Alice Lee ("Zoey's Extraordinary Playlist") as Rachel, Poppy's social media influencer best friend; Jameela Jamil ("The Good Place") as Poppy's boss, Swapna; Molly Shannon ("Only Murders in the Building") and Alan Ruck ("Succession") as Poppy's parents, Wanda and Jimmy; and Lucien Laviscount ("Emily in Paris"), Miles Heizer ("Love, Simon," 2018) and Lukas Gage ("The White Lotus") as Trey, David and Buck, respectively.

For those who are following Poppy and Alex through the pages of Henry's work, the adaptation, according to Haley, doesn't steer far from Henry's novel.

"Their love story is the spine of the book, and it had to be the spine of the film," Haley said. "My hope is that fans of the book see the care we put into bringing Poppy and Alex to life on screen, and that new audiences fall for them just as deeply."

An executive producer of the film, Henry couldn't be happier with it, saying she's confident her readers "are going to completely fall in love" with how Bader and Blyth bring their characters to life on the screen.

"I watched their chemistry read four times in 12 hours, and I loved it more every single time," Henry said in an interview with Tudum. "The very first time I was laughing out loud, and I got so emotional by the end."

Behind the scenes, Ted Gidlow ("A Man in Full") and Laura Quicksilver ("My Oxford Year," 2025) serve alongside Henry as executive producers, with the screenplay written by Amos Vernon ("Adam Ruins Everything"), Wyck Godfrey ("The Maze Runner," 2014), Marty Bowen ("The Twilight Saga: Eclipse," 2010) and Yulin Kuang ("I Ship It"). Kuang is also reportedly attached to write and direct the adaptation of Henry's "Beach Read," though Netflix has yet to announce a release date.

When "People We Meet on Vacation" lands on Netflix Friday, Jan. 9, fans will finally be able to follow Poppy and Alex from summer to summer, city to city, and laugh, cry and swoon over them through the messiness and joy of a friendship that refuses to be simple.

'Finding Your Roots' returns for a star-studded 12th season

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Profiling the prolific: Stars, celebrities and public figures delve deep into their family lineage — good or bad — during a new season of "Finding Your Roots with Henry Louis Gates, Jr.," premiering on PBS Tuesday, Jan. 6.

"For more than a decade," the series' logline reads, "renowned Harvard scholar Henry Louis Gates, Jr. has helped to expand America's sense of itself, stimulating a national conversation about identity with humor, wisdom and compassion. Professor Gates has explored the ancestry of dozens of influential people from diverse backgrounds, taking millions of viewers deep into the past to reveal the connections that bind us all."

Across its past seasons, "Finding Your Roots" has seen an impressive roster of guests, such as Robert Downey Jr. ["Iron Man," 2008], Scarlett Johansson ["Black Widow," 2021], Samuel L. Jackson ["Pulp Fiction," 1994], Jeff Goldblum ["Wicked," 2024], Kerry Washington ["Scandal"] and many more, seeing Gates leading conversations regarding the stars' connections to the past.

"Sometimes shocking, sometimes heartbreaking, but always compelling, PBS invites viewers to join the journey through the lives and lineages of these influential people," the network says.

This season — Season 12 — celebrity guests meeting with Gates include Lizzy Caplan ("Mean Girls," 2004), Kristin Chenoweth ("Holidate," 2020), Liza Colon-Zayas ("The Bear"), Danielle Deadwyler ("The Woman in the Yard," 2025), Sanaa

Lathan ("Alien vs. Predator," 2004), Spike Lee ("Highest 2 Lowest," 2025), Wiz Khalifa ("See You Again"), Lizzo ("Truth Hurts) and more, including Tony Award-winning actor Darren Criss ("Glee") and Golden Globe winner America Ferrera ("Barbie," 2023), who kick off Season 12 with some truly fascinating tales.

"I am thrilled to announce another season of 'Finding Your Roots' filled with inspiring stories from our wonderful guests that further show us that at the level of the genome, we are all 99% the same despite the forces that try to divide us," Gates said, regarding the series' upcoming premiere. "It's especially important to all of us at 'Finding Your Roots' that our viewers know, despite the loss of federal funding for public television, our show and PBS are not going anywhere."

Take a deep dive through history when Season 12 of "Finding Your Roots with Henry Louis Gates, Jr." premieres on PBS Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Sisters in conflict: Seeing new family dynamics, strains between sisters and a whole lot of humor, Season 8 of "1000-LB Sisters" makes its debut on TLC Tuesday, Jan. 6.

When "1000-LB Sisters" began in 2020, the series intended to showcase sisters Tammy and Amy Slaton while they began extreme weight-loss journeys after years of struggling with obesity. In the five years since, both of the Slaton sisters have managed to lose hundreds of pounds, completing truly astonishing physical transformations. With their weight-loss goals met, "1000-LB Sisters" went on to focus on the sisters' personal relationships throughout its seventh season, seeing Amy accept a marriage proposal while Tammy planned for and underwent a skin removal surgery with her new girlfriend, Andrea, at her side.

This season, according to TLC, "Amy is deep in wedding-planning mode as she prepares to marry Brian in a Halloween celebration that promises to be anything but ordinary. From haunting details to a lively bachelorette bash in New Orleans, Amy is pulling out all the spooky stops to make her big day unforgettable." Tammy, meanwhile, is said to be embracing some big life changes of her own, as she "[takes] on a volunteer position at an animal shelter and more responsibilities than ever at nearly 40."

"She's also planning to move in with her girlfriend, Andrea," TLC says, "and their relationship takes center stage as Tammy steps into greater independence and new opportunities."

While romantic relationships and personal growth take center stage throughout Season 8, it seems that Amy and Tammy will also be reckoning with a sisterly fallout, as the two are said to be "drifting apart" after a "massive blow-up," according to a trailer for the upcoming season.

While more details behind the Slaton sisters' rift are likely to be shared throughout Season 8, the trailer also shared some poignant clips, seeing Tammy calling Amy a "deadbeat mom," and Amy confessing: "I can't handle her toxic — s no more. I'm done." Later, in a confessional clip, Tammy admits: "It feels like we're drifting apart. She used to be my best friend."

To see what comes next for the Slaton sisters, tune in for a brand-new season of "1000-LB Sisters," premiering Tuesday, Jan. 6, on TLC.

behind. As she digs for answers, her investigation draws the attention of Det. Jack Harper (Jon Bernthal, "Fury," 2014), whose suspicions sharpen the closer she gets to his case. In a city where secrets run deep, uncovering the truth comes at a dangerous price. "His & Hers" is based on the novel by Alice Feeney ("Sometimes I Lie") and is written for television by William Oldroyd ("Lady Macbeth," 2016), with Sunita Mani ("GLOW"), Pablo Schreiber ("Orange Is the New Black") and Crystal Fox ("Big Little Lies") also starring. Kristen Campo ("The Killing") serves as executive producer.

"Love is Blind: Germany" - Season 2

Can true love ever be blind? Find out when "Love is Blind: Germany" returns to Netflix with Season 2 on Thursday, Jan. 8, as a new group of German singles leave behind dating apps, casual flings and awkward first dates to test if love can ever happen before first sight. Season 2

Stephanie "Steffi" Brungs Christian Wackert host "Love is Blind: Germany"

Those who get engaged finally meet face to face and continue their relationships outside the pods. Over the next four weeks, they live together, meet each other's friends and family and plan their dream wedding. But one question remains: Who has found their soulmate and which couples say "I do" in the end? Steffi Brungs ("Regina Halmich vs. Stefan Raab - The Final Fight") and Christian Wackert ("Buchstaben Battle") return as hosts, with Christiane Heinemann ("The Biggest Loser") and Anna-Lena Zvez ("Married at First Sight") serving as executive producers.

The quest for hope ignites again when Season 3, Part 1 of "Pokémon Horizons" premieres Tuesday, Jan. 6, on Netflix. One year after the events in Laqua left the Rising Volt Tacklers without a leader, a mysterious pink mist harming Pokémon draws Liko (Minori Suzuki, "Days With My Step-sister"), Roy (Yuka Terasaki, "Skip and Loafer") and their friends back into action. Determined to rebuild their team and honor the promise they made in Laqua, the Trainers train harder than ever, growing stronger alongside their Pokémon, including Floragato (Megumi Hayashibara, "Paprika," 2006), Crocalor (Daiki Yamashita, "Sailor Moon Crystal"), Captain Pikachu (Ikue Otani, "Pokémon: Diamond and Pearl") and Roy's newest partner — a yellow Lucario capable of Mega Evolution. Joining the adventure are Dot (Yoshino Aoyama, "The Promised Neverland"), a savvy intel specialist, and Ult (Natsumi Fujiwara, "Spy x Family"), a brash young Trainer who declares himself Roy's rival and pushes the group to new limits. As the mist spreads across regions, threatening Pokémon everywhere, the Rising Volt Tacklers race to uncover its origin while confronting rival Trainers chasing the same mystery. Season 3, Part 1 sets the stage for epic battles and thrilling discoveries, with a screenplay written by Dai Sato ("Cowboy Bebop") and Tsuyoshi Kajiwara ("1446: An Eternal Minute," 2022) producing.

A sibling symposium

'Baking Champions' spinoff sees teams of kid siblings competing

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

They say "if you can't take the heat, get out of the kitchen." But when it comes to sibling rivalries, the kitchen might just be the perfect place to work things out. Seeing 12 teams of sibling duos battling to win a life-changing $25,000 prize, the all-new series "Baking Champions: Next Gen" makes its debut on Food Network Monday, Jan. 5, with episodes streaming the next day on HBO Max and Discovery+.

Hosted by Duff Goldman ("Kids Baking Championship") and Kardea Brown ("Delicious Miss Brown") — who also act as the series' judges — this "wholesome and delightful confectionary competition" (per Food Network) sees siblings aged 8-14 collaborating in the kitchen, as they take on tricky challenges such as "breakfast dessert imposters," "cream puff friendship bracelets" and "animated cakes," as they utilize their culinary and communication skills, trying to make it to the next round of competition.

Food Network has shared that in the "super-sized" series premiere, "Duff Goldman and Kardea Brown will put the teams through two rounds of skills challenges to assess which 10 teams will move on and which two teams will be eliminated before the competition even starts. In the first skills test, the nervous teams put up a dozen of their best cupcakes. For the second skills test, the teams must create a pie from scratch good enough to prove they have what it takes to compete."

In this inaugural episode, competitors will include: Abby and Cameron Bellezza (Philadelphia); Taanvi and Kavya Bhenderu (Cypress, Texas); Genesis and Akbar Brooks (Seattle/Tacoma, Washington); Jovie and Lenore Byler (Atlanta); Harper and Holland Carroll (Boston); Amelia and Clara Friesenhahn (New Braunfels, Texas); Michael and Liam Nelson (Pleasant Grove, Utah); Leila and Melody

Nouri (Porter Ranch, California); Emmett and Maci Sheets (Omak, Washington); Leia and Kiera Sievert (Gilbert, Arizona); Norah and Olivia Tatum (Dallas, Texas); and Abigail and Kenneth Wolf (Geneseo, Illinois).

"A Thousand Blows" - Season 2

Inspired by true events, "A Thousand Blows" returns to the gritty streets of 1880s East End London when Season 2 premieres on Hulu Friday, Jan. 9. One year on, Hezekiah Moscow (Malachi Kirby, "Devils") is a shadow of the fighter he once was, while Sugar Goodson (Stephen Graham, "Pirates of the Caribbean: Dead Men Tell No Tales," 2017) drowns his troubles in alcohol and drifts from his family. Their world upends when Mary Carr (Erin Doherty, "The Crown") storms back into town with her loyal second, Alice Diamond (Darcy Shaw, "Judy," 2019), determined to rebuild the feared Forty Elephants gang and reclaim her crown. With the gang splintered under failed leadership and Indigo Jeremy (Robert Glenister, "Persuasion," 1995) seizing control of the Elephants, Mary pulls Hezekiah into a daring scheme to reclaim her crown. Written and created by Steven Knight ("Serenity," 2019), Season 2 of "A Thousand Blows" is executive produced by Jonny Richards ("Vera"), with Dionne Edwards ("Everything Now") and Katrin Gebbe ("Pelican Blood," 2019) directing.

"The Rookie" - Season 8

John Nolan (Nathan Fillion, "Castle") and the Mid-Wilshire unit face their toughest cases yet as Season 8 of "The Rookie" lands on Hulu Wednesday, Jan. 7. Last season ended with Nolan held hostage by Oscar Hutchinson (Matthew Glave, "Angie Tribeca") in the desert as Oscar revealed that he killed his accomplice by removing his arm to seize a tattoo showing the location of some diamonds he hid. Monica Stevens (Bridget Regan, "Jane the Virgin") also returned under an FBI immunity deal after leveraging stolen top-secret national intelligence from an NSA facility, leaving the precinct in a state of distrust. Season 8 picks up with Oscar still at large, the diamonds missing and danger at every turn for the Mid-Wilshire unit. Nolan, recovering from a gunshot wound, must mentor two new rookies while tracking Oscar. Meanwhile, Monica's immunity complicates their investigations, with her insider knowledge now considered a constant threat to the team. As the Mid-Wilshire unit faces relentless chases, personal vendettas and high-pressure cases, every decision means life or death. Mekia Cox ("Gotham"), Alyssa Diaz ("Red Dawn," 2012), Richard T. Jones ("Phone Booth," 2002), Melissa O'Neil ("Dark Matter"), Eric Winter ("The Ugly Truth," 2009), Jenna Dewan ("Step Up," 2006), Shawn Ashmore ("X-Men," 2000) and Lisbeth Chavez ("Chicago P.D.") return for Season 8, with Alexi Hawley ("The Recruit") also returning as director and executive producer.

"Will Trent" - Season 4

Based on the best-selling novels by Karin Slaughter ("Pieces of Her"), Season 4 of "Will Trent" returns to Hulu Wednesday, Jan. 7, picking up with Special Agent Will Trent (Ramon Rodriguez, "Need for Speed," 2014) returning to the Georgia Bureau of Investigation stronger and more determined than ever. Season 3 concluded with many lives on the line, including Amanda's (Sonja Sohn, "The Chi"), after a domestic terrorism plot threatened mass poisoning in Atlanta. This season, Michael (Jake McLaughlin, "Warrior," 2011) receives news about his cancer after collapsing, while Angie (Erika Christensen, "Flightplan," 2005) and Seth (Scott Foley, "Scandal") prepare to be parents. Meanwhile, Will must juggle trauma from his past, fierce loyalty to his team and a relentless pursuit of justice — proving once again he's the GBI's most effective agent. From series creators Liz Heldens ("Friday Night Lights") and Daniel T. Thomsen ("The Passage"), Season 4 of "Will Trent" also stars Iantha Richardson ("This Is Us"), Kevin Daniels ("Modern Family") and Cora Lu Tran ("Paradise," 2024).

Erin Doherty stars in "A Thousand Blows"

Hollywood Q&A
By Adam Thomlison

Q: I was surprised to discover recently that "The Curse of Oak Island" is still going. Catch me up: what could possibly be left to do?

A: The short and obvious answer is: find the treasure. It looks like that's the only thing that could put an end to "The Curse of Oak Island" (the show and, presumably, the curse itself).

It continues to be a reliable ratings success for History. The premiere of its current, 13th season drew over a million viewers, making it once again the biggest show on the cable channel.

This can certainly seem surprising, based on the premise. A treasure-hunting reality show shouldn't be capable of such longevity — surely, if you haven't found what you're looking for in, say, five seasons, you'd give up, right?

But that fails to account for a couple of things: the incredible, apparently genetic tenacity of the Lagina family and the fact that "The Curse of Oak Island" has become much more than a treasure-hunting show.

At this point, it's just as much a Viking-culture show, an archeology show and a documentary about modern imaging technology.

But it manages to stay true to the original premise, always tying that other stuff back to the original, tantalizing treasure.

And along the way, they're continually finding something to give viewers a jolt of excitement. For example, the latest season kicked off with a "stunning revelation" about a link between the Knights Templar and the treasure. (That's from the official teaser information, so it's not really spoiling anything.)

Thus, maybe the key to "The Curse of Oak Island's" longevity is that it's letting the viewers experience the madness of treasure hunting for themselves. It starts with the promise of an incredible payoff, offers an excuse to spend time outdoors in an exotic locale and then, doles out enough tiny achievements to give a sense of progress.

Q: Is Frank Miller going to turn any of his other "Sin City" comics into movies?

A: At this point, it looks like a wrap on the cinematic life of the "Sin City" comics. The last film was 2014's "Sin City: A Dame to Kill For," which was a flop at the box office.

Creator Frank Miller ("Daredevil," 2003) is considered one of the all-time great comic book writers. In 2005, he tried his hand at the film biz, adapting his influential crime comic "Sin City" into a movie, which he also co-directed with Robert Rodriguez ("El Mariachi," 1992).

It was an enormous hit, earning $160 million worldwide, which was four times its budget. A sequel was inevitable, especially since he had several more "Sin City" comics to draw from.

Unfortunately, "A Dame to Kill For," co-directed by Miller and Rodriguez, failed to even recoup its budget.

In 2017, there was talk of making a "Sin City" TV show, but nothing came of it, despite the involvement of Glen Mazzara, a hot showrunner at the time thanks to his previous work on "The Walking Dead" and "The Shield."

And that's been the end of it. Of course, like I said, there are still plenty more comics to adapt if Hollywood comes knocking again.

But Miller has been no less of a presence on the screen in the years since. Many of his other comics, such as the "Daredevil" stories he wrote for Marvel, are still getting adapted.

He most recently got a credit for 2024's "Deadpool & Wolverine" for having created the Elektra character (played in the film and in previous films by "Alias" star Jennifer Garner).
