Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

This is no surprise as commander in beef [Donald] Trump ordered the largest of all the meal deals with a Big Mac, fries, a Fanta and a Filet-O-Fish. Look, I know Trump has been accused and found guilty of many crimes, but certainly none worse than "Brings Filet-O-Fish on a plane."

Regular viewers know that two weeks ago, 43 lab monkeys escaped down in South Carolina, but now 39 have been recovered. They're down to four. Which means, they're headed to the "fantasy suites" and then we meet the monkey parents.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

I saw that today [Nov. 20] is President Biden's 82nd birthday. ...You can tell Biden is getting up there because they didn't cut him a slice of cake. They pureed it, and he drank it with a straw.

Well, it's [going to be] a massive weekend at the movie theaters because "Gladiator II" is also out. It's directed by Ridley Scott, who is about to turn 87. During the filming, Ridley would yell, "Action," and that was just after standing for three minutes at the urinal.

Following multiple reports of sexual misconduct, Matt Gaetz withdrew his name from consideration to be Trump's attorney general. So far, Trump hasn't named a replacement, but right now Rudy Giuliani is outside throwing pebbles at his bedroom window.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

Now that the election is over, this is that melancholy part of the postscript when you realize that once a candidate has your email address, they will never stop contacting you. Over the weekend, I received not one, but six fundraising emails from the Harris campaign, including, "There has never been a more important time to donate to the Harris Fight Fund than right now." Now, I'm not an expert when it comes to campaigns, but I'm pretty sure there has been a better time.

Spirit Airlines today [Nov. 18] filed for bankruptcy. Turns out their strategy of being the worst airline in American history didn't pay off as well as they hoped. How could they have just filed for bankruptcy? I've flown Spirit Airlines. I assumed they were always bankrupt.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

Rudy Giuliani turned over his assets last week to the Georgia election workers he defamed, including multiple luxury watches. Oh, no, not the watches. How will he know when it's 5 o'clock somewhere?

The restaurant chain IHOP announced this week that it is the official breakfast partner of Xbox, while Waffle House remains the official breakfast partner of meth.

Authorities in Michigan recently raided a home and seized firearms, drugs and an alligator. The owner is being charged with one count of attempted Florida.

Haunted by the past: A detective's former fiancé reappears in 'Missing You'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

James Nesbitt in "Missing You"

Welcome in the new year with something familiar and reliable, like a good British mystery miniseries, before diving into the deep end of resolutions. Get cozy and settle in for a binge-watch of the latest Harlan Coben adaptation, "Missing You," premiering Wednesday, Jan. 1, on Netflix.

"Slow Horses" star Rosalind Eleazar is Det. Kat Donovan, a dedicated missing persons investigator who is thrust into a conspiracy that hits very close to home. Kat has spent the past 11 years rebuilding her life after the sudden disappearance of her fiancé, Josh (Ashley Walters, "Top Boy"), and the murder of her father, DS Clint Donovan (Sir Lenny Henry, "The Lord of the Rings: The Rings of Power").

Having left without a trace, Kat assumed for more than a decade that Josh's disappearance from her life had something to do with her father's death, but could never pick up the thread between them. When her friend Stacey (Jessica Plummer, "The Decameron") pushes Kat to try out the dating app she signed her up for, Kat receives the shock of a lifetime when she swipes to see Josh's profile.

Now able to start following the thread, it's up to Kat to find out just who Josh really is and what he is a part of. Any evidence of Josh's existence online has been wiped clean, so why has he popped up on a dating app? Is he connected to other missing persons cases? Is it really him or is it a phantom profile? Over the five-episode limited series, Kat charges forward with her investigation, shedding light on long-buried secrets in dangerous corners of her precinct.

Starring alongside Eleazar's Kat is Richard Armitage ("The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey," 2012) as DCI Ellis Stagger. Fans of Coben's previous Netflix adaptations will not be surprised to hear Armitage's name among the main cast of the new limited series — the British actor has starred in three series: "The Stranger" in 2020, "Stay Close" in 2021 and 2024's earlier hit "Fool Me Once."

Armitage spoke to Yahoo about starring in the Coben Netflix adaptations, joking, "I feel like I'm their lucky underpants now, so they won't do one without me." He went on to share a peek into his character in "Missing You," saying, "It's a slightly more inverted character than the former ones because we're very, very unsure of his motives at the beginning.

"The essence of him is nefarious but, actually, he's holding on to a secret which has a noble cause," Armitage added.

Rounding out the "Missing You" cast are Steve Pemberton ("Happy Valley") as Titus, Marc Warren ("Sexy Beast") as Monte Leburne, Samantha Spiro ("Sex Education") as nurse Sally Steiner, Lisa Faulkner ("Unforgotten") as Dana Fells, Mary Malone ("Doctor Who") as Aqua, James Nesbitt ("Bloodlands") as Calligan and Matt Jay-Willis ("Wolves of War," 2022) as Darryl.

In a trailer for the upcoming series, Kat is clearly consumed with the case. Folders, photos and documents decorate the floor of her home, always visible in case inspiration strikes. Two more missing people ramp up Kat's need to urgently get to the bottom of it all, sending her on a wild ride complete with abductions, car chases and arson. "I don't know what kind of truth you're gonna find out there, but I don't think you're gonna like it," a voice tells Kat over a tense scene of the detective investigating, armed with a knife.

"Missing You" marks Coben's ninth collaboration with the streamer, with the 10th, an adaptation of his 2019 novel "Run Away," planned next. British mystery thrillers are a perennially popular television genre, but in January 2024, "Fool Me Once" blew viewer expectations out of the water when 61 million Netflix users tuned in during the series' first two weeks of streaming, starting the new year off with a binge-watch of its eight edge-of-your-seat engrossing episodes.

Eleazar spoke with the Daily Mail's You Magazine in September about being ready to handle the pressure of following up a series with such massive viewership. "From the outside, certain levels of fame can look daunting," she explained, "but I know how lucky I am to have the chance to fulfill certain dreams."

A star on the rise, Eleazar may be most recognizable for her portrayal of agent Louisa Guy in the Apple TV+ series "Slow Horses," or for her two seasons spent on the saucy period drama "Harlots." She made her film debut in 2019's "The Personal History of David Copperfield," more than keeping up with writer and director Armando Iannucci's ("Veep") fast-paced, witty dialogue. Eleazar has a knack for portraying characters who are sharp as a tack, something necessary for bringing Kat to life.

Episode writer Victoria Asare-Archer ("Stay Close") adapted Coben's 2014 novel "Missing You" into its limited series form, hinting that the job was a labor of love in a statement, saying, "Kat Donovan was a thrill to write — she's such a brilliantly messy, complicated woman. I'm really excited that we have a hugely talented ensemble cast on board."

Don't miss the first thrill ride of the year with the new limited series "Missing You," premiering Wednesday, Jan. 1, on Netflix.

Laughs Down Under: 'Darby and Joan' returns for second season

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

As the weather continues to get colder in the Northern Hemisphere this winter, Acorn TV flips the script and begins heating things up from Down Under. That's right: "Darby and Joan" is back for a second season of comedic romps around Australia while trying to solve a murder mystery. It all begins Monday, Dec. 30, when the first of eight episodes premieres on Acorn TV.

In the very first episode of the show, which is set and filmed in Queensland, Australia, two unlikely characters meet while sharing a bad day. Joan Kirkhope (Greta Scacchi, "Emma," 1996), a retired English nurse, has been traveling the outback alone in an RV, looking for clues that could help her make sense of her late husband's (John Waters, "Offspring") mysterious death when Jack Darby (Bryan Brown, "Cocktail," 1988), a strange but charming local, crosses her path in a way that would suggest the intervention of fate. As the two quite literally collide, flipping Darby's truck over, Joan offers the man and his travel companion, a dog named Diesel, a lift. The pair soon come to realize they may be able to help one another.

As they get to know each other more during their ride back to safety, Darby, an ex-detective in the area, decides to put his investigative skills to good use to help Joan grapple with her feelings in the wake of her husband's death. But, when a clue leads them to a beautiful waterside party and a suspicious death puts a stop to the festivities, the new friends have a new objective: investigate the event to find the truth. Was the death an accident or a murder?

"I'm an Australian cop who's running from a series of things that have happened to him and is trying to get away from everything," Brown told Boston Herald reporter Stephen Schaefer during a Zoom interview before the release of the premiere season. "They crash and have to share a ride together.

"I thought that was a very good combination of concept and characters," Brown continued. "Here we are able to deal with a mystery and a couple of people who are mysterious in their own way."

Throughout Season 1, Darby and Joan learn more about each other while investigating additional cases, including a theft at a banana farm, a scuba dive sabotage, a potential arson, a missing person and an "ominous threat from [Darby]'s policing days" (per IMDb).

Now headed into its second season (or "series," as is said in Australia and the U.K.), Darby and Joan have formed a bond that can be seen by everyone around them, including Darby's ex-wife, who has arrived in town to conduct an investigation of her own. Unfortunately, Darby is her chief interest and she isn't backing down without a fight.

The good news is that Joan discovered the answers she had been looking for with regard to her late husband at the end of Season 1 and cleared his name, so now she has all the time in the world to help her new best friend meet the same happy fate. It is also entirely possible that her friendship with Darby will evolve into a full-blown romance — something fans have been prepared for since the very first episode of the series aired in August 2022.

Created by Phillip Gwynne ("Australian Rules," 2002) and Glenys Rowe ("The Castanet Club," 1991), Season 2 of "Darby and Joan" co-stars Melanie Zanetti ("Bluey") as Arianna Malgeri, Alicia Gardiner ("Deadloch") as Gillian Novak, Debra Lawrance ("Please Like Me") as Anna Bairnsdale, Doris Younane ("McLeod's Daughters") as Yvette (last name unknown as of writing), Joel Pierce ("Love and Monsters," 2020) as Greg Jones, Savanna Crasto ("The Psychology of Beauty," 2023) as Pia Davies and Mackenzie Curtis ("Rock Island Mysteries") as Jess Wright. It is also likely, although not confirmed, that Nudge and Kobe will return to share the role of Diesel.

The idea for "Darby and Joan" began about a decade ago, according to CJZ CEO Matt Campbell, but if the title sounds familiar, that may be due to a much earlier source.

"The Joys of Love Never Forgot: A Song," written by Henry Woodall and originally published in London's The Gentleman's Magazine in 1735, referred to "Old Darby, with Joan by his side," and described the specific type of bliss that comes with aging peacefully alongside someone one cares for. By 1890, the poetic couple had been referenced in several works, including a double portrait titled "Darby and Joan" by British impressionist James Charles, and in an 1811 letter from Lord Byron to writer and educator Francis Hodgson.

Knowing the history of the character names certainly provides credence to the rumors that Jack Darby and Joan Kirkhope may be falling in love. But only time — and time dedicated to the show — will tell.

Don't miss the return of Acorn TV's favorite Aussie-Brit pair when "Darby and Joan" premieres its second season Monday, Dec. 30.

‘Extreme Makeover: Home Edition’ returns once again

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Joanna Teplin and Clea Shearer host “Extreme Makeover: Home Edition”

Move that bus!: Praised as one of “the most widely recognized home makeover shows to ever exist” (per ABC), the iconic renovation series “Extreme Makeover: Home Edition” returns Thursday, Jan. 2, with a brand-new season on ABC, with episodes streaming the next day on Hulu.

From Endemol Shine North America and Reese Witherspoon’s (“Legally Blonde,” 2001) Hello Sunshine, this modernized iteration of the legacy series will be led by “Extreme Makeover” newcomers Clea Shearer and Joanna Teplin (of “Get Organized with the Home Edit”), who replace former hosts Ty Pennington (“Battle on the Beach”), who hosted from 2004-2012, and Jesse Tyler Ferguson (“Modern Family”), who hosted a 10-episode run in 2020.

“The most widely recognized home makeover show to ever exist returns with Shearer and Teplin’s world-renowned organizational expertise to thoughtfully design and specifically tailor each home from the inside out,” a series description given by the network reads. “Like the original series, this reimagining will showcase heartwarming stories, inspired volunteers and mind-blowing builds for deserving families who give back to their communities.”

While new to “Extreme Makeover,” leads Shearer and Teplin bring plenty of expertise to the job as co-founders of the globally popular lifestyle brand The Home Edit, which later turned into a similarly named series on Netflix. Known for helping homeowners fall in love with organization — and for their one-of-a-kind aesthetic, offering a unique blend of form and function — the duo will meet deserving families in each and every episode of the show, helping families “evaluate and edit every single item they own, ultimately transforming not only their home but the way they live” (per ABC). To make their vision a reality, Shearer and Teplin will be joined by a talented team of contractors and designers from home-builder Taylor Morrison, who is said to focus on reconfiguring the homes in question based on a family’s lifestyle and specific needs. Also along to help are designers Wendell Holland and Arianne Bellizaire. Holland, who is the Season 36 champion of “Survivor,” is the founder and chief designer at Beve Unlimited, a custom furniture company. Bellizaire, meanwhile, is the CEO and creative director of Arianne Bellizaire Interiors.

First having aired in early 2004 — also on ABC — this tear-jerker of a series released 10 seasons and more than 200 episodes before ending in 2012. Revamped for TV only once previously — in 2020 on HGTV — this latest iteration acts as “Extreme Makeover’s” 11th season overall, continuing its mission of changing lives and transforming homes across the country.

Now entering its third decade of making dreams come true, “Extreme Makeover: Home Edition” returns Thursday, Jan. 2, to ABC with episodes streaming the next day on Hulu.

Wake Me Up: Released alongside the artist’s last show — from Ibiza’s Ushuai — the feature-length documentary “Avicii — I’m Tim” from director Henrik Burman (“Yung Lean: In My Head,” 2020) premieres Tuesday, Dec. 31, on Netflix.

“This is the unlikely story of Tim Bergling, a shy and insecure boy who, without realizing it, suddenly created one of the world’s most loved artists — Avicii,” says Netflix, in its promotion of the film. “Through unique home movies and a huge private archive, we get to follow Tim on a winding journey through life — from the very first breath at the maternity ward in Stockholm in 1989 to the tragic end in Oman in 2018. This is a film where Tim himself is the narrator and he shares his inner self in a way we haven’t heard before. Through himself and everyone close to him — family, artist colleagues and best friends — we get to know Tim — the boy behind Avicii — for the first time.”

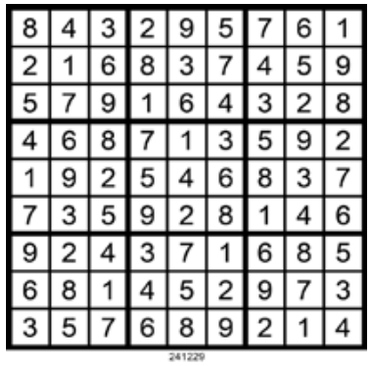

Credited as one of the DJs who ushered the still-booming electronic music genre into the mainstream and on to Top 40 radio stations in the early 2010s, Avicii began his career at only 16 years old, when he began posting his own remixes on electronic music forums and landed his first record deal. In 2011, the artist released his first single, “Levels” — nominated for a Grammy — and later, in 2013, Avicii grew in popularity with the release of his debut studio album, “True,” which made Top 10 lists in more than 15 countries, dominating international charts. From this first album comes the artist’s hit song, “Wake Me Up,” which steadily sat at No. 4 in the United States. Also in 2013, Avicii released a song alongside David Guetta, “Sunshine,” which landed the DJ his second of two Grammy nominations.

After a long stint of touring his material worldwide, Avicii made the difficult decision to retire from the international stage in 2016, stating several years of extreme stress and poor mental health as the cause. Only two years later, the artist died by suicide while on vacation in Muscat, Oman. His third and final album, “Tim,” was released posthumously in 2019, featuring songs such as “Peace Of Mind,” “Hold The Line,” “Bad Reputation” and “Heaven.”

Produced by Bjorn Tjarnberg (“The Old Man and the Sea: The Expedition,” 2012), “Avicii — I’m Tim” explores the life, career and music of the late artist when it arrives Tuesday, Dec. 31, on Netflix.

"Wallace & Gromit: Vengeance Most Fowl"

It's man (and dog) versus machine in the new animated adventure film "Wallace & Gromit: Vengeance Most Fowl," premiering Friday, Jan. 3, on Netflix. When Wallace (voiced by Ben Whitehead, "Wallace & Gromit in: The Grand Getaway," 2023) invents a new smart gnome that takes on household tasks with manic enthusiasm, he is convinced that it can only change his life for the better — even if his dog pal Gromit might not agree. But when seasoned criminal Feathers McGraw is released from prison, he seeks revenge on Wallace and Gromit for foiling his plans by reprogramming the gnome to take on an evil mind of its own. With Feathers and the gnome wreaking criminal havoc all over town, it's up to Gromit to put a stop to the evil plan and save Wallace. From Aardman Animations, "Vengeance Most Fowl" is directed by Nick Park ("Chicken Run," 2000) and Merlin Crossingham ("Morph"), with a screenplay by Mark Burton ("Shaun the Sheep Movie," 2015) and a story by Park and Burton. The film's voice cast also includes Peter Kay ("Car Share"), Lauren Patel ("Lloyd of the Flies"), Reece Shearsmith ("Inside No. 9"), Diane Morgan ("Cunk on Earth"), Adjoa Andoh ("Bridgerton") and Muzz Khan ("Galavant").

"Michelle Buteau: A Buteau-ful Mind at Radio City Music Hall"

A history-making moment comes to Netflix when the comedy special "Michelle Buteau: A Buteau-ful Mind at Radio City Music Hall" makes its debut Tuesday, Dec. 31. "The first female comic to record a special at the iconic Radio City Music Hall," says Netflix, Michelle Buteau, known for shows such as "First Wives Club" and "Survival of the Thickest," as well as the 2024 comedy film "Babes," presents her second stand-up special for Netflix. Throughout the set, Buteau reflects on subjects including motherhood, marriage and much more. Directed by Page Hurwitz ("Outstanding: A Comedy Revolution," 2024) and Sandra Restrepo ("Have I Got News for You"), "A Buteau-ful Mind" is executive produced by Buteau and Hurwitz, with producer A.J. Tesler ("Smartless: On the Road").

"Cunk on Life"

Exploring the biggest questions about life, the world and what it all means, comedy oddball Philomena Cunk (Diane Morgan, "Motherland") is back to provide audiences with answers — though not necessarily correct ones. The new follow-up to the Netflix series "Cunk on Earth," titled "Cunk of Life," premieres on the streaming platform Thursday, Jan. 2. While Philomena Cunk may be a fictional character (originated by Morgan in 2013 when she first appeared in the BBC2 series "Charlie Brooker's Weekly Wipe"), the people and stories she interacts with are very real. As Cunk travels around to discuss everything from "the big bang to AI" (per Netflix), she meets up with academics and creatives to get a deeper understanding of humanity's greatest mysteries — complete with her trademark misguided observations and opinions. From director Al Campbell ("Man Down"), "Cunk on Life" features writing by Charlie Brooker ("Black Mirror"), Ben Caudell ("The Cleaner"), Erika Ehler ("The Emily Atack Show"), Charlie George ("Have I Got News for You"), Eli Goldstone ("Death to 2020"), Jason Hazeley ("Fur TV"), Lucia Keskin ("Big Boys"), Joel Morris ("Cunk on Shakespeare," 2016) and Michael Odewale ("The National Comedy Awards 2023").

"The Rig" - Season 2

The seabound thrills continue when the heart-pounding sci-fi drama "The Rig" returns Thursday, Jan. 2, to Prime Video with its second season. Returning to the surviving crew of the Kinloch Bravo, a remote Scottish oil rig that was terrorized by supernatural forces in Season 1, the series sees the group "arrive at a new secret offshore facility called the Stac, nestled deep in the extraordinary and deadly landscapes of the Arctic Circle" (per Prime Video). As the group deals with the aftermath of their recent tragedies, they must also grapple with daunting conspiracies and new threats from the depths of the ocean. From creator David Macpherson ("Too Far North"), "The Rig's" new season "will continue exploring global themes — weaving together the past, present and future of the planet while taking the viewer to spectacular environments and drawing on the frontiers of cutting-edge ocean technology — including the controversial world of deep-sea mining" (Prime Video). Season 2 stars returning cast members Iain Glen ("Game of Thrones"), Martin Compston ("Line of Duty"), Emily Hampshire ("Schitt's Creek"), Rochenda Sandall ("Criminal: UK"), Owen Teale ("Game of Thrones"), Mark Addy ("The Full Monty," 1997), Molly Vevers ("War Games"), Abraham Popoola ("Extraordinary"), Nikhil Parmar ("Foundation") and Stuart McQuarrie ("The Tower"), alongside new faces Ross Anderson ("The Last Kingdom"), Phil McKee ("Professor T"), Jacob Fortune-Lloyd ("Bodies"), Johannes Roaldsen Furst ("White Boys") and Alice Krige ("Star Trek: First Contact," 1996).

"A Quiet Place: Day One" (2024)

Don't make a sound. From director Michael Sarnoski ("Pig," 2021), the recent horror feature "A Quiet Place: Day One" makes its streaming debut Tuesday, Dec. 31, on Prime Video. Acting as a prequel to "A Quiet Place" (2018), this installment sees the hectic start of an apocalypse, joining a pessimistic, terminally ill cancer patient, Sam (Lupita Nyong'o, "Black Panther," 2018) as she tries to process the chaos descending upon New York City and protect her beloved cat, Frodo. As she searches for safety, Sam comes across the frightened Eric (Joseph Quinn, "Gladiator II," 2024) and the two begin a perilous journey towards Harlem. Written by Sarnoski, John Krasinski ("A Quiet Place," 2018) and Bryan Woods ("Heretic," 2024), "A Quiet Place: Day One" also stars Alex Wolff ("Hereditary," 2018), Djimon Hounsou ("Blood Diamond," 2006), Elaine Umuhire ("Birds Are Singing in Kigali," 2017), Alfie Todd ("Days of the Bagnold Summer," 2019), Ronnie Le Drew ("The Last Leg") and more.

"ChiefsAholic: A Wolf in Chief's Clothing"

From DreamCrew Entertainment, North of Now, and Five All in the Fifth Entertainment, "ChiefsAholic: A Wolf in Chief's Clothing" is now available on Prime Video, unraveling the true story behind the infamous Xaviar Babudar – Kansas City Chiefs superfan by day, criminal night. Directed by Dylan Sires ("Death to Metal," 2019), the feature-length documentary explores the secret life of this boisterous, wolf-costume-wearing fan, who was arrested in Bixby, Oklahoma, in December of 2022, in connection with a string of bank robberies spread across seven states. Through interviews granted by Babudar himself, the documentary offers a timeline of events leading up to the man's arrest, before highlighting Babudar's subsequent legal journey, which recently resulted in a sentencing of 17 years and six months in federal prison (without parole) after Babudar pled guilty to one count of bank robbery, one count of money laundering and one count of transporting stolen property across state lines (per ESPN).

'Hell's Kitchen: Head Chefs Only' returns with all-new episodes

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Fend off the biting winter cold with the return of the hot as ever "Hell's Kitchen," airing a new episode Thursday, Jan. 2, on Fox.

On the long-running food competition series — with decades of content and a never-ending list of winners under its belt — you either win in a blaze of glory or you burn. Hoping to prove themselves, talented chefs from restaurants across the country enter the kitchen of the world's most critical cook, Gordon Ramsay ("Kitchen Nightmares"), each hoping to prove their mettle as they compete in an intense culinary boot camp. During this 23rd season — now returning following a brief winter break — Ramsay has asked only the best of the best to complete his test, resulting in a season populated solely by competent and crafty head chefs.

Before the break, the chefs of Season 23 were asked to complete extensive dinner services, utilize secret ingredients, take part in challenging feats of collaboration and even work in harmony alongside the Yale Whiffenpoofs singing group, some crafting hits while others prepared to sing their swan song. As competitors have been eliminated one by one, only the most capable now remain to compete for a coveted position working within Ramsay's growing restaurant empire.

Gordon Ramsay hosts "Hell's Kitchen"

When first asked about this year's competition — in an interview given when Fox announced the series would be returning for both seasons 23 and 24 — Ramsay claimed: "This show just keeps getting better and better, and with Fox, ITV and A. Smith & Co. as my partners, you can expect even bigger challenges, stronger talent and more intense competition in 'Hell's Kitchen' in the years to come."

Allison Wallach, Head of Unscripted Programming at Fox Entertainment Studios, added that, "[Ever] since Gordon Ramsay and 'Hell's Kitchen' premiered on Fox nearly two decades ago, they have been mainstays of American television. 'Hell's Kitchen' was our first series with Gordon, marking the launch of one of Fox's most successful creative partnerships ever and an important cornerstone in what has become global television's most powerful cooking brand."

Produced by ITV America's ITV Entertainment in association with A. Smith & Co. Productions, "Hell's Kitchen" returns Thursday, Jan. 2, on Fox.

Out Come the Wolves

Canadian couple Sophie (Peregrym) and Nolan (Runyan) plan a hunting trip with their friend Kyle (Jarsky) and his girlfriend. Kyle, an experienced hunter, intends to teach Nolan the basics of hunting while they stay in a remote cabin. At the last minute, Kyle reveals his girlfriend will not be joining them, and the three embark on their expedition. Tension soon rises within the trio, especially when it is revealed that Sophie and Kyle had once had a brief romantic encounter, and Nolan believes Kyle still has feelings for her. Isolated, hostilities begin to grow, and after a terrifying encounter with a pack of wolves, it becomes apparent that is not the only deadly confrontation to arise. Director: Adam MacDonald. Stars: Missy Peregrym, Joris Jarsky, Damon Runyan. 2024. 86 min. Survival Thriller.

Transformers One

On the distant planet of Cybertron, a race of sentient robots that can transform into vehicles with devices known as transformation cogs, mine a substance called Energon, which fuels their existence. In the underground city of Iacon, Orion Pax (Hemsworth), a mining robot, works alongside his best friend, D-16 (Henry), in an Energon mine. The substance Energon used to flow abundantly on the planet's surface but disappeared with the Matrix of Leadership, a conduit for the power of Primus, the creator-god of the transforming robots. After Orion discovers a distress signal from Alpha Trion (Fishburne), one of the original creations of Primus, he learns of a highly protected conspiracy to control the flow of Energon. Teaming up with D-16 and two other miner robots, B-127 (Key) and Elita-1 (Johansson), the robots go up against an invading alien race and a false regime geared towards destroying anything that challenges its ruling status. Director: Josh Cooley. Stars: Chris Hemsworth, Brian Tyree Henry, Scarlett Johansson, Keegan-Michael Key, Steve Buscemi, Laurence Fishburne, Jon Hamm. 2024. 104 min. Animated Science Fiction Action.

"The Jetty"

You can run, but you can't escape the past. From creator Cat Jones ("Harlots"), the four episode miniseries, "The Jetty," is now available to stream on Hulu. Starring Jenna Coleman ("Harlots") as the recently-widowed Det. Ember Manning, this mystery follows Manning as she embarks on an odd investigation involving a fire at a vacation home. Looking deeper, Manning finds the fire is connected to a podcast journalist — one known to be investigating a missing person's cold case and an illicit love triangle between an adult man and two underage girls — and as discoveries come to light, Manning finds herself more involved than she'd like to be, looking at her past in an all-new light. With episodes directed by Marialy Rivas ("Young & Wild," 2012), "The Jetty" also stars Archie Renaux ("Alien: Romulus," 2024), Laura Marcus ("The Great Escaper," 2023), Bo Bragason ("Renegade Nell"), Amelia Bullmore ("Scott & Bailey"), Ruby Stokes ("Loockwood & Co."), Tom Glynn-Carney ("Dunkirk," 2017), Weruche Opia ("I May Destroy You"), Matthew McNulty ("The Rising"), David Ajala ("Jupiter Ascending," 2015) and Shannon Watson ("Say Nothing"), among others.

"The Suspicions of Mr Whicher" – Complete Series

With four films released between 2011 and 2014, the complete series of "The Suspicions of Mr Whicher" is now on Hulu. Inspired by Kate Summerscale's book, "The Suspicions of Mr Whicher or The Murder at Road Hill House" (itself inspired by true events), this dark and mysterious series follows Detective Inspector Jack Whicher (Paddy Considine, "House of the Dragon") as he tries to solve crimes in small, sleepy English towns. First, Whicher attempts to solve the murder of a young child, before heading off to find a woman's missing niece in the second film. In the third flick, Whicher is then hired by a powerful politician and asked to investigate the violent threats made against his son, and in the final installment, a divorce case draws Whicher into the heart of the English countryside, where he uncovers something dark and disturbing. "The Suspicions of Mr Whicher" also stars Tim Pigott-Smith ("V for Vendetta," 2005), William Beck ("Casualty"), Nancy Carroll ("Murder in Provence"), John Heffernan ("Eye in the Sky," 2015), Helen Bradbury ("Sherlock"), Laura Morgan ("See How They Run," 2022), Luke Thompson ("Bridgerton"), Peter Capaldi ("Doctor Who"), Olivia Colman ("The Crown") and more.

"The Twilight Saga – Complete Film Collection"

Starring Kristen Stewart ("Love Lies Bleeding," 2024), Robert Pattinson ("The Batman," 2022), Taylor Lautner ("Cuckoo"), Ashley Green ("Inside Man," 2023), Nikki Reed ("Thirteen," 2003), Kellan Lutz ("Due Justice," 2023), Jackson Rathbone ("Black Noise," 2023), Elizabeth Reaser ("The Family Stone," 2005), Peter Facinelli ("Nurse Jackie"), Billy Burke ("Fire Country") and more, the complete film collection of "The Twilight Saga" is now available on Hulu. Including "Twilight" (2008), "New Moon" (2009), "Eclipse" (2010) and Parts 1 & 2 of "Breaking Dawn" (released in 2011 and 2012), these vampire-loving flicks are based on the book series by Stephanie Meyer, and follow the disaster-prone Bella Swan (Stewart) to Forks, Washington, where she plans to live with her estranged father, Charlie (Burke). There, Bella discovers that a local family is actually a group of vampires, who are attempting to co-exist with humans by only drinking animal blood. Drawn towards the charming but deadly Edward Cullen (Pattinson), Bella begins to wonder if her place is with the humans, or if she belongs in a world far more supernatural than her own. As the Cullens balance their tenuous peace with the local pack of werewolves, mysterious enemies come crawling from all corners of the world.

Jenna Coleman stars in "The Jetty"

Paddy Considine and Olivia Colman in "The Suspicions of Mr Whicher"

Kristen Stewart and Robert Pattinson in "Twilight"

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Is it true "The Mask" is based on a comic? Is it part of the whole Avengers universe?

A: Yes, "The Mask" (1994) was based on a comic book series, but that comic was about as far from Marvel's "The Avengers" (2012) as it could be.

The character named The Mask, a regular guy who transforms into a smart-mouthed agent of vengeance by donning an elastic green mask, first appeared in the comics in the late '80s, but not the ones published by Marvel. He was an early creation of the smaller, scrappier publisher Dark Horse.

Dark Horse was created to publish the kind of comics the more established Marvel and its competitor, DC Comics, wouldn't — and "The Mask" certainly fit that bill.

The comics were incredibly — often stomach-twistingly — violent, and the character was not a good guy. The people he was hurting were arguably worse than he was, but he was still pretty tough to root for — far from the altruistic heroes Marvel trades in.

You could get away with that on the page, but the character would need to be sanitized quite a bit for the screen.

And so, producer New Line Cinema cast the elastic-faced Jim Carrey ("The Truman Show," 1998), a few years out from his star-making turn in the cast of the sketch show "In Living Color," and made the acts of vengeance he carried out a little kinder and a lot less bloody.

The numbers speak to their success. "The Mask" would go on to earn $352 million worldwide, making it the second-highest-grossing comic book movie at the time — until Marvel came along in the 2000s with its Avengers series and redefined success for comic movies.

Q: What's Jenny Slate doing now? It seemed like she was everywhere in the early 2010s, but not so much now.

A: It might surprise you to hear that Jenny Slate ("Marcel the Shell With Shoes On," 2021) is busier now than ever. It's just that she's not necessarily where you expect her to be.

She started as a stand-up and sketch comedian — she did a season of "Saturday Night Live" in 2009-10 and appeared in a recurring series of sketches on "Late Night With Jimmy Fallon" in 2009.

But these days, you're more likely to find her in a film festival theater than a comedy club basement.

In the 2010s, she co-created and voiced the title character in a series of short films called "Marcel the Shell With Shoes On," with the first one debuting at the Sundance Film Festival. The character got a feature film in 2021 that was nominated for an Oscar.

Then, in 2022, Slate was part of the ensemble cast of the multi-award-winning smash-hit "Everything Everywhere All at Once." And she had a role earlier this year in the Colleen Hoover film adaptation "It Ends With Us."

She still keeps a hand in comedy — or at least a vocal chord. These days most of her comedic work is voice acting. She's a regular on hit series such as "Bob's Burgers," "The Great North" and "Big Mouth," and she also voiced Gidget in the high-grossing Secret Life of Pets movies (the original in 2016, the sequel in 2019, and the 2019 direct-to-video spinoff, "Super Gidget," devoted to her character).

Q: What's Hugh Jackman's next project? It seems like he's done with the Wolverine character.

A: Hugh Jackman ("Les Misérables," 2012) has been a reluctant action star, always seeming more eager to be a song-and-dance man. So, it's not surprising that, after starring in the action hit "Deadpool & Wolverine" in 2024, he's snapping back to musical theater in a big way.

He's doing a monthly concert series throughout 2025 at Radio City Musical Hall in New York City. He'll be performing songs from some of the musicals he's done in the past, including "The Greatest Showman" (which he made into a film in 2017) and "The Music Man."

But, at the same time, he's also booked two new film roles. He'll star in the fun and fluffy comedy "Three Bags Full: A Sheep Detective Movie" and "Song Sung Blue," a biographical story of two struggling musicians who form a Neil Diamond tribute band.

"Three Bags Full" isn't scheduled for release until February 2026, while "Song Sung Blue" just started filming in October, so it likely won't see the screen for a while yet, either.

As for his relationship with his super alter-ego, it seemed like Jackman was done playing Wolverine years ago, but there he was earlier this year growling through another turn in the role (and making an absolute boatload of money in the process — the film grossed $1.3 billion on a $200-million budget). So whether he has actually hung up the claws for good is hard to say for sure.
