Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert (R)

The FBI's dress code for the [Mar-a-Lago raid] event was indictment casual. A handful of agents went in suits, "but most wore T-shirts" and "cargo pants." Yeah, so good luck getting your dad to change his outfit now!

We have learned that the DC Comics film "Batgirl" will be completely shelved by Warner Bros., which means they will not be releasing the movie on any platform. ... You almost never see a movie studio bail on a project like this completely — especially since they've already spent an estimated $90 million, which they are now taking as a tax write-up. [This] explains Warner Bros.' next movie: "The Deductible Hulk."

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon (R)

Just a thought, but if the government doesn't want people reading [top secret] files, maybe they shouldn't label them 'top secret.' It's like a guy labeling a porn folder on his computer 'best porn.' It's like, just call it 'banana bread recipe.'

Snoop Dogg launched his very first breakfast cereal, called 'Snoop Loopz.' ... But he's not the only rapper launching his own breakfast cereal. ... There's also 'Sa-Wheaties,' next there's '2 Charmz' and finally, of course, 'Drake-Nuts.'

Scientists are working to bring back the Tasmanian Tiger, which went extinct almost 100 years ago [in 1936]. Scientists were like, "We brought back Taco Bell's Mexican Pizza, we can bring this back, too!"

Jimmy Kimmel Live! with Nicole Byer (R)

I'm your guest host, Nicole Byer. I'm an actress and standup comedian. I host four podcasts, as well as "Wipeout" on TBS and "Nailed It" on Netflix ... [I'm in] "Grand Crew" on NBC and yet, somehow, Jimmy [Kimmel] is the one who needs a vacation.

At least one case of polio has been reported in New York City, and health experts believe it could end up here in L.A. very soon. So, that's fun, right? How is polio making a comeback? Polio feels like a disease that you should only be able to catch in a black-and-white movie. Didn't we get rid of polio in, like, the '50s? Why can't we bring back the fun stuff from the '50s, like potato sack races [and] smoking on airplanes?

Papa Johns is stripping the toppings off their pizza for a weird new dish. They're called "Papa Bowls," which are just loose pizza toppings and cheese — with no crust. ... These are perfect for people who love pizza but wish eating it made them feel like a feral raccoon.

According to a new study, there has never been a worse time to be a single man: "Younger and middle-aged men are the loneliest they've been in generations." ... Now that I think about it, we can't have all these depressed straight guys on the loose; that's how insurrections happen. And murders. And podcasts!

Late Night With Seth Meyers (R)

The discount department store corporation that operates T.J. Maxx, Marshalls and HomeGoods agreed to a $13-million fine for selling recalled infant sleeper products. OK, I knew this [electrified crib] felt unsafe.

A couple in the U.K. had a "Back to the Future" (1985) movie-themed wedding, including a replica of the DeLorean and the creepiest mother/son dance you've ever seen.

After singer Adele canceled her Las Vegas residency dates at Caesar's Palace earlier this year [2022], she told her fans she was "heartbroken to have to cancel them." On the bright side, that probably means you'll hear a couple of new songs.

Newark, N.J., set a record after reaching its fifth day straight of reaching temperatures over 100 degrees [F]. It was so hot in New Jersey, you could bake a ziti on the sidewalk!

Rocking reflections: Paramount+ revisits Elvis Presley's 1968 special

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

Elvis Presley's legendary 1968 television special was a turning point not only for him but for many of the other people involved in it.

One was producer-director Steve Binder, who then was building a reputation for staging performance shows such as the TV series "Hullabaloo" ... and who candidly told the "King of Rock 'n' Roll" that the latter's career was "in the toilet," so he needed to do the NBC-televised hour. The result quickly became a legendary piece of television, and Paramount+ looks back at it in the new offering "Reinventing Elvis: The '68 Comeback," which starts streaming Tuesday, Aug. 15 – the night before the 46th anniversary of Presley's death, and following the project's limited showings in movie theaters globally.

While incorporating many segments from the original show, "Reinventing Elvis" examines Presley's relationship not only with Binder (who narrates the bulk of the film) but also with Col. Tom Parker, the famously strict manager who kept tight control over Presley. A number of the interviewees claim that Parker felt threatened by his star's collaboration with Binder, who encouraged Presley to pursue innovation and creativity. Singers Darius Rucker and Drake Milligan are among those who offer comments, along with journalist Alanna Nash and Anita Mann, who was a dancer in the 1968 special.

Also an executive producer of "Reinventing Elvis," Binder maintains that he's "real pleased with what they did" creatively with the documentary, though he admits he was skeptical at first. "When I was approached to get involved, I said, 'There are so many third-party stories about Elvis, why do we need another one?' Then they pitched me their idea, and it really covered 1968 as a whole. I was rooting for them from the sidelines, and I certainly was responsive to any of their requests for more material."

Music documentary veteran John Scheinfeld – who also has done projects on John Lennon, John Coltrane, Herb Alpert and Harry Nilsson – directed "Reinventing Elvis," which also has music industry legend Spencer Proffer, a longtime Binder associate, as the executive producer who conceived it.

"There are so few of us alive today who were there when it all happened," Binder reflects on the 1968 Elvis show. "There have been specials and books about it, but I never felt that anybody who was there told the real story.

"I was there from the beginning to the end, and it's so gratifying today to realize what the public response to it was. A number of years ago, somebody approached me and said, 'Steve, you realize that no matter what you did in the past or do from here on in, you'll be remembered mostly for the Elvis comeback special' ... and I think they told the truth. It's probably a lot more popular today than it was when it was first broadcast."

The irony is that the special – which also involved studio musicians who became known, quite famously, as The Wrecking Crew – almost didn't happen, since Binder points out that just before the taping, Presley got a serious case of cold feet. The director always has liked to make a show that can't happen unless the specific star participates, as he had done earlier with singers Petula Clark and Leslie Uggams, and with the celebrated 1964 concert movie "The T.A.M.I. Show" (in which The Rolling Stones and The Beach Boys were among the featured acts).

Elvis Presley in his 1968 comeback special

Once Binder convinced Presley to step onto the set, the superstar became increasingly comfortable. However, for as close as they got over the course of making the special, they never had direct communication again afterward. "Billy Goldenberg, our musical director on the show, used to call me," Binder recalls, "and he would say things like, 'Elvis wants to know how you are and how you're feeling.' It was never first-person, though. We all met at our costume designer's apartment in Hollywood to have sort of a farewell party, and that was the last time I ever saw or talked to Elvis."

The entirety of "Reinventing Elvis" serves as a reminder of how major a star Presley was in his time. "We're so lucky that we partnered with Paramount+," Binder notes, "because many of Elvis' movies were done at Paramount, so we were given access to their library and were able to include clips from his films. That was just a stroke of luck, and it sure adds to this. None of the other projects that have been done about the 1968 special were able to clear those rights, I guess."

For Binder, "Reinventing Elvis" has a personal significance that goes beyond his literally having called the shots on the classic special that it's about. "I have nine grandkids and a great-grandchild," he reports, "and the fact that they're able to relive this with me now while I'm here is such a bonus and such a pleasure. And it just looks so fresh, even to me, which is very rare when you look back at an old show."

"Reinventing Elvis: The '68 Comeback" arrives Tuesday, Aug. 15, on Paramount+.

Presidential pains: Peanuts introvert shines in 'Snoopy Presents' special

By Staff Writers
TV Media

Sequels, prequels, reboots, gritty reimaginings — we've grown accustomed to seeing content from the past reshaped and rereleased, and too often we are left with only the ghosts of our childhood favorites with hints of nostalgia in otherwise completely updated worlds. That's part of what makes the partnership between Peanuts and Apple TV+ so special — they achieve that perfect combination of old and new, delivering intriguing new stories while retaining the characters and settings we already know and love.

And it's not just about Charlie Brown and Snoopy these days, either. Prepare to see more of the characters you love in situations that you may not expect, when the all-new Peanuts special, "Snoopy Presents: One-of-a-Kind Marcie," premieres Friday, Aug. 18, on Apple TV+.

In case you need a refresher: Marcie is perhaps the most quiet and shy of all the Peanuts characters, a bookworm and dedicated student with an affinity for the arts. She also speaks French! A true Renaissance girl, she is usually accompanied by her best friend, the outgoing, enthusiastic and somewhat obtuse Peppermint Patty. Marcie is as introverted as Patty is extroverted, and she tends to keep her gregarious friend grounded.

But it may be Marcie who needs to seek Patty's help for a change in this new special. When she's unexpectedly elected as her school's class president — a role she did not seek or want — Marcie finds herself with new responsibilities that require her to step way outside of her comfort zone. As her peers look to her for leadership, Marcie must grapple with her own idiosyncrasies and find a way to fulfill her duties while staying true to herself. Can Marcie manage life in the public eye? Can she help her friends and be a good class president while doing things her own way? This sweet special will take Marcie fans on an unexpected and heartwarming journey.

Marcie from "Snoopy Presents: One-of-a-Kind Marcie"

This isn't the first Peanuts-related offering from Apple TV+ this year. We were already treated to a new season of "The Snoopy Show" on the streamer back in June, and starting on Sep. 22, fans will be able to indulge in tons of original Peanuts episodes (including "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" and "It's Magic, Charlie Brown") for the first time in decades when the Peanuts Anthology Vol. III and Vol. IV begin streaming on the platform. A couple of brand-new specials are on the way as well, including "Snoopy Presents: Welcome Home, Franklin" and a new TV series called "Camp Snoopy."

The partnership between Apple TV+ and Peanuts began in 2020, when the platform acquired the streaming rights to all Peanuts holiday specials and signed a deal with affiliated studio WildBrain, which ensured the production of a plethora of new series and specials. WildBrain is a Canadian company that boasts the largest independent collection of children's TV programs, and in partnering with it, Apple TV+ has signaled a dedication to making family-friendly and children's programming a meaningful part of its enterprise. The Peanuts specials and new additions to the Peanuts universe may be at the crux of their deal, but the pairing represents endless possibilities, since WildBrain's library includes classics such as "Strawberry Shortcake," "Carmen Sandiego," "Teletubbies," "Inspector Gadget," "Fireman Sam" and much, much more. Here's hoping some of those beloved classics will receive the same treatment as the Peanuts properties.

Apple TV+ is proving to be a true contender when it comes to animation. Its slate of animated series and films includes other nostalgic stories, such as "Frog and Toad," as well as innovative new series, such as the stop-motion series "Shape Island" and the part live-action, part animated series "Lovely Little Farm." It's no surprise that Apple as a company is investing in new and exciting ways to tell stories, but it sure is refreshing to see them applying that creativity and funding to children and family programming as well as its flashier, edgier fare. The Peanuts characters and other beloved series are given pride of place right alongside critical darlings like "Severance," "The Morning Show" or "Ted Lasso."

In October 1950, when the first Peanuts comic strip was published in seven newspapers, creator Charles M. Schulz could never have imagined how loved the ragtag group of kids he created would become, how big a following they would amass, or how they would transcend their initial newspaper comic format and be treasured by generations of children and adults alike. From newspapers to TV to movies to streaming services, Charlie Brown and his friends have come a long way, and the hold they have on our hearts is just as strong as ever.

Check in with some of your oldest friends and stream the newest installment of the Peanuts saga when "Snoopy Presents: One-of-a-Kind Marcie" premieres Friday, Aug. 18, on Apple TV+.

'90 Day' couples head to therapy in paradise

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Relationship boot camp: Our favorite fast-moving couples from the "90 Day" franchise return, hopeful to save their relationships in "90 Day: The Last Resort," premiering Monday, Aug. 14, on TLC.

This latest spinoff follows five couples from the "90 Day" series, each of which has reached the make-it-or-break-it point in their relationship. Before tossing in the towel and filing for divorce, they have decided to go all-in on one last attempt to save their struggling relationships: participating in a couples retreat designed to help them reconnect, restructure and reconsider, overall determining whether they will be able to heal long-festered wounds.

As of now, TLC has only announced three of the five participating couples, but fans of the series will certainly remember these "90 Day" hopefuls: Jovi and Yara, Ed and Liz and Angela and Michael – all of whom hope that "The Last Resort" will lead to a fresh new start in their marriages after experiencing disappointments, distance and distrust.

Alongside a team of professionals, the couples will attempt to navigate struggles within their relationships, discussing a variety of important and influential issues, including trust, jealousy, anger and intimacy – all topics that could potentially make or break a rocky relationship.

During the retreat, the couples will be invited to explore a wide range of activities, including group therapy, couples counseling sessions, past life regressions and other unique activities, located both on and off the resort site. By the end of their time in paradise, each pair must decide once and for all whether they wish to remain together or to move on separately.

Releasing in tandem with the show, TLC is introducing a weekly companion podcast titled "90 Day: The Last Resort Sessions." The podcast will be hosted by news anchor Sukanya Krishnan (previously from the "Sister Wives" tell-all) and is set to feature therapists Petey Silveira, Janie Lacy and Jason Prendergast (the last of whom will also appear on the series).

Together, they will break down specific relationship issues and discuss big moments from each episode. The podcast will also include listener questions regarding specific relationship/couples therapy topics, such as cheating, secrets and intimacy issues.

Will it be enough? Can paradise conquer pride? These "90 Day" couples will find out once and for all in "90 Day: The Last Resort," premiering Monday, Aug. 14, on TLC.

Sports scandal: The summer of sports continues, this time taking a trip to the courtroom when Vol. 3 of the provocative, investigative documentary series "Untold: Hall of Shame," premieres, Tuesday, Aug. 15, on Netflix.

Premiering weekly, these character-driven, sports-focused documentaries offer intimate, first-person accounts from the players involved (both on and off the field) in some of sport's most influential moments. "From boxing to football to doping scandals, these new stories go well beyond the headlines and upend what we thought we knew," Netflix explains, "reveal[ing] the grit, resilience, heartbreak, triumph, and even humor beneath the sweat."

In this latest installment, however, heartbreak takes the lead over humor.

From director Bryan Storkel ("The Pez Outlaw," 2022), "Untold: Hall of Shame" examines one of the biggest uproars in the sports industry: the BALCO (Bay Area Laboratory Co-Operative) steroid scandal of the early 2000s, in which the lab was investigated, tried and later convicted for selling illegal performance-enhancing drugs to athletes.

According to Sports Illustrated, the BALCO scandal was "the foundation event of what historians and journalists have come to call the 'Steroid Era,'" changing the lives of many involved, including BALCO founder Victor Conte.

A news release from Netflix states: "Victor Conte's name is synonymous with the biggest doping scandal ever to rock the sports community, ensnaring top athletes such as baseball great Barry Bonds and track and field legends Marion Jones and Tim Montgomery. For 16 years, Conte swears BALCO Laboratories, his supplement and nutrition company based in the Bay Area, never dabbled in illegal, performance-enhancing drugs. But by 2000, he went to the dark side and became the go-to guy for athletes in search of steroids, fame and world records. The film features interviews with several of Conte's notable former associates – including Montgomery and the anti-doping and IRS authorities who helped send him to prison after a 42-count indictment – giving harrowing testimony as the legend of one of sport's most notorious names continues to unfold."

Featuring candid interviews with Conte himself, along with conversations spotlighting the athletes previously suspected of using BALCO's performance-enhancing drugs, "Untold: Hall of Shame" will be available to stream as of Tuesday, Aug. 15, on Netflix.

"Harlan Coben's Shelter" - Season 1

Based on the novel of the same name by Harlan Coben, the new mystery drama series "Harlan Coben's Shelter" premieres on Prime Video, Friday, Aug. 18. After the sudden death of his father, Mickey Bolitar (Jaden Michael, "Colin in Black & White") starts a new life in Kasselton, New Jersey, and quickly finds himself tangled in the mysterious disappearance of a new student at his school, Ashley Kent (Samantha Bugliaro, "5th Borough," 2020), which leads to uncovering unimaginable secrets within their quiet suburban community. With the help of his friends — the inventive Arthur "Spoon" Spindell (Adrian Greensmith, "Metal Lords," 2022), and secretive Ema Winslow (Abby Corrigan, "Castle Rock") — Mickey pulls back the sleepy facade of Kasselton to reveal a dark underground that may hold the answers to decades of disappearances, deaths, and legends. Co-written for the screen by Harlan Coben, Charlotte Coben ("Stay Close") and Alfredo Barrios Jr. ("Burn Notice"), the series also stars Constance Zimmer ("Good Trouble"), Sage Linder ("The Next Step") and Didi Conn ("Benson").

our pets? Two dog parents put it all on the line for their furry children in the new rom-com "Puppy Love," premiering on Amazon's Freevee streaming service Friday, Aug. 18. After what turns out to be a truly disastrous first date, wild child Nicole (Lucy Hale, "Pretty Little Liars") and socially anxious Max (Grant Gustin, "The Flash") never plan to see each other again — until they learn that their dogs found a love match in each other, and there are puppies on the way! While the seemingly comically mismatched couple are forced to become responsible co-parents for their new grand-puppies, they may just end up finding love themselves. From directors Nick Fabiano ("Other Dads") and Richard Alan Reid ("Book of Love," 2022), "Puppy Love" features a screenplay written by Reid, Greg Glienna ("Meet The Parents," 1992), Peter Stass ("Maybe It's Me," 2002) and first time screenwriters Kirsten Guenther and Dan Scheinkman. The cast is rounded out by Nore Davis ("Dickinson"), Christine Lee ("Black Summer"), Al Miro ("Dangerous," 2021), Rachel Risen ("Leap Year"), Jane Seymour ("Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman") and Corey Woods ("Secrets of the Morning," 2023).

"Cangaco Novo (New Bandits)" - Season 1

The first season of the Brazilian Amazon Original Series, "Cangaco Novo (New Bandits)," will be available to stream as of Friday, Aug. 18, on Prime Video. Created by Eduardo Melo and Mariana Bardan (both of "The Curious Tales of Italo Ferreira," 2021), and from directors Aly Muritiba ("Private Desert," 2021) and Fabio Mendonca ("A Second Chance"), "Cangaco Novo" tells the story of an unhappy, down-on-his-luck bank clerk named Ubaldo (Allan Souza Lima, "Pantanal"), who, with no memory of his childhood, moves to the fictitious city of Cratará, Ceará after learning he has two sisters residing there, and a great inheritance waiting for him. Upon arrival, Ubaldo uncovers more than he ever expected, as his sisters — Dilvânia (Thaina Duarte, "In Dog's Words," 2016) and Dinorah (Alice Carvalho, "Legítima Defesa," 2020) — are running the gang of adoring, bank-robbing bandits his late father left behind. Bearing an eerie resemblance to his father, Ubaldo is soon worshiped by the gang, and is pulled into a world full of crooks, murders and corrupt police officers. Asked to take his rightful place as the gang's leader — the new, mythical "Cangaceiro" — Ubaldo must decide where his morals truly lie. With eight episodes in its inaugural season, "Cangaco Novo" also stars Hermila Guedes ("Love for Sale," 2006), Marcelia Cartaxo ("Hour of the Star," 1985), Ricardo Blat ("Two Faces"), Adélio Lima ("One Against All"), Arthur Canavarro ("Neighboring Sounds," 2012), Bruno Goya ("Aquarius," 2016) and more.

The Machine

The past comes back to haunt Bert (Kreisler), a now middle-aged former party animal, after he and his father, Albert (Hamill), are kidnapped by the Russian crime boss Irina (Babic) and sent overseas. Twenty years earlier, Bert, a disinterested student on an exchange trip to Russia, befriends street-wise Igor (Duricko) after cluelessly dub-bing himself "The Machine." A spree of relentless partying with his new mobster friends makes "The Machine" a Russian folklore hero to the criminal underworld. Kidnapped alongside his estranged father, Bert must now revisit the hard-partying past of "The Machine" to atone for his past actions. Director: Peter Atencio. Stars: Bert Kreisler, Mark Hamill, Jimmy Tatro, Stephanie Kurtzuba, Nikola Duricko, Iva

Babic, Jessica Gabor, Rita Bernard-Shaw. 2023. 112 mins. Comedy.

Robots

Two mismatched suburbanites, Elaine (Woodley) and Charles (Whitehall), are forced to team up and track the robotic duplicates of themselves after the artificial pair fall in love and go on the run. Used as cheap labor, humanity utilizes artificial intelligence to develop robotic humans — direct duplicates of the human subject. Fed up with the misadventures of dating, womanizer Charles and materialistic Elaine use their counterparts C2 (also Whitehall) and E2 (also Woodley) to avoid the time constraints of meeting new people. Though completely at odds personally, sparks fly between the artificial pair as they develop a connection and soon steal the identities of the real Elaine and Charles. Pursuing their impostors, the two jaded lovers develop some humanity of their own.

All-stars in Flavortown

'GGG' returns with culinary stars

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Guy Fieri wines, dines and runs the aisles with the best of the best when the five-week, five-episode tournament "Guy's Grocery Games: All-Star Invitational" begins, premiering Wednesday, Aug. 16, on Food Network.

This time, the "GGG" competition we all know and love will feature only the biggest names in the culinary industry, as renowned celebrity chefs Karen Akunowicz, Nate Appleman, Jose Garces, Ilan Hall, Stephanie Izard, Mei Lin, Shota Nakajima and Jonathon Sawyer each take to the kitchen in order to compete for the winning "GGG" trophy and the $75,000 cash grand prize.

"Each week the chefs go head-to-head to see whose shopping and cooking skills are a cut above the rest," Food Network shared in a recent news release. "They must navigate their way through the grocery aisles as they are tested in challenges from 'Express Lane,' where they must create a signature sandwich and side using only eight ingredients, to 'Budget Battle,' where they must make an impressive weeknight dinner for four with only $25, to 'Frozen Food Feud,' where they must make a dish only using frozen ingredients, and many more."

Guy Fieri from "Guy's Grocery Games"

"Ultimately," the network explains, "the food does the talking, as a rotating panel of judges determines who checks out of the competition."

The tournament begins as Fieri comes his eight competing all-stars to the ring, each equally impressive, with ranks including Iron Chefs, James Beard recipients, and "Top Chef" and "Tournament of Champion" winners. Most importantly, each cook shares one thing in common: they have never stepped foot inside the infamous Flavortown Market before. No matter their history, each competitor is totally new to the world of "GGG."

"Now, Guy will put them through a gauntlet of diabolical games," Food Network shared, "starting with the ultimate limited ingredient game, 'Express Lane,' as chefs make their signature sandwich and a side using only eight ingredients. The chef awarded best dish wins an automatic $10,000, while the others are vulnerable to a surprise twist!"

Later in the release, Fieri commented: "These culinary rock stars have more awards and accolades than you can count, but let me tell you, they've never experienced the heart-pounding intensity of Flavortown Market before. They're itching to prove they're the true masters of flavor, and I've got a few tricks up my sleeve to see if they're the real deal!"

The game begins when "Guy's Grocery Games: All-Star Invitational" premieres Wednesday, Aug. 16, on Food Network.

Hailed as one of our winemaker Pauline Lhote's favorite wines to make, our aromatic, dry Sparkling Rosé reveals a gorgeous shade of pink in the glass with aromas of fresh strawberry, watermelon and cherry that proceed through the palate and finish. 2023 Wine Enthusiast 90 POINTS!

This widely available Oregon Pinot avoids the sort of winemaking tricks that take away detail and specificity. It is broadly flavorful with brambly blackberry and black cherry fruit, along with a streak of licorice. Wine Enthusiast 90 POINTS!

What We Do in the Shadows

FX 10:00 PM
Despite being roommates for hundreds of years, the fun still hasn't stopped for these curious vampires. Season 5 continues with an all-new episode in which Nadja gives back to her community and Laszlo's experiments have some unexpected results.

Friday Best Bets

How to With John Wilson

The third and final season of this odd (and often surreal) docuseries continues, as filmmaker John Wilson embarks on one final odyssey of self-discovery and observation by covertly filming the reactions of fellow New Yorkers while he shares advice.

"Solar Opposites" - Season 4

To save the Earth or to Terraform... that is the question. The planet's most conspicuous new residents continue their study of humanity and all they have to offer when "Solar Opposites" Season 4 premieres on Hulu, Monday, Aug. 14. Created and written by "Rick and Morty's" Justin Roiland and Mike McMahan, this oddball animated comedy follows a team of aliens from the planet Shlorp as they make the most of their new lives after crash landing in middle America. Armed with a pupa (first-time voice actor Sagan McMahan) that should eventually terraform Earth into the new planet Shlorp, aliens Korvo (Dan Stevens, "Downton Abbey"), Terry (Thomas Middleditch, "B Positive"), Yumyulack (Sean Giambrone, "The Goldbergs") and Jesse (Mary Mack, "Twin Cities," 2017) are split on whether Earth is awful or amazing. While they enjoy junk food, TV and other fun activities, they are repulsed by humanity's pollution, consumerism and frailty as a race. Heading into the new season, viewers can expect some more "classic Solar chaos, mayhem in the Wall, and some all-new Silvercops adventures" (per Hulu). "Solar Opposites" is written by M. McMahan, alongside Jen McCartney ("The Big Show Show"), Vidhya Iyer ("Mira, Royal Detective"), Joe Saunders ("Comedy Bang! Bang!"), Josh Bycel ("Happy Endings"), Dominic Dierkes ("Workaholics"), Danielle Uhlarik ("Champaign ILL"), May Darmon ("Star Trek: Lower Decks") and Grace Parra ("Broke").

Korvo, Jesse, Terry and Yumyulack in "Solar Opposites"

"Miguel Wants to Fight" (2023)

Get into the thick of it with the new coming-of-age comedy "Miguel Wants to Fight," making its Hulu debut Wednesday, Aug. 16. Despite growing up in a neighborhood where fighting is a part of everyday life, Miguel (Tyler Dean Flores, "The Falcon and the Winter Soldier") has never actually found himself in one, and that's fine by him. But when a series of events and complications turn his life upside down, Miguel and his best friends — David (Christian Vunipola, "Hunters"), Cass (Imani Lewis, "First Kill") and Srini (Suraj Partha, "Ender's Game," 2013) — find themselves on a series of misadventures as Miguel tries to get into his first fight. Also starring Dascha Polanco ("Orange is the New Black") and Jordyn Owens ("Uncoupled"), "Miguel Wants to Fight" is directed by Oz Rodriguez ("A.P. Bio") and written by "Primo's" Jason Conception and Shea Serano. Michael Glassman ("Big Time Adolescence," 2019) and Jimmy Price ("Doctor Strange," 2016) are executive producers.

"To Catch a Killer" (2023)

Starring Shailene Woodley ("Big Little Lies") and Ben Mendelsohn

("Rogue One: A Star Wars Story," 2016), the 2023 crime-thriller, "To Catch a Killer," makes its streaming debut, Saturday, Aug. 19, on Hulu. Credited as the English language debut for director Damian Szifron ("Wild Tales," 2014), this film tells the harrowing tale of Eleanor Flaco (Woodley), a talented but troubled young officer in the Baltimore Police Department, and a woman struggling to wrestle with demons from her past. Much to her surprise, Flaco is recruited by the FBI's chief investigator, Lammark (Mendelsohn), and asked to track down a sniper who has been committing a series of (seemingly unrelated) mass shootings. So far, their nation-wide manhunt has proved unsuccessful, as both the FBI and police found themselves evaded by the killer at every turn. Given her tortured past, however, Lammark figures officer Flaco may just be the right person to take on the case — the only person capable of slipping into the mind of the assailant in order to bring him to justice once and for all. Written by Szifron and Jonathan Wakeham ("Sideshow," 2001), "To Catch a Killer" also stars Jovan Adepo ("Fences," 2016); Ralph Ineson ("The Witch," 2015); Richard Zeman ("The Day After Tomorrow," 2004); Jason Cavalier ("Screamers," 1995); Nick Walker ("Pieces of a Woman," 2020); Michael Cram ("The Birch") and more.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I caught the Tony Shalhoub movie "Thir13en Ghosts," and while the movie was less than stellar, I recognized a couple of the stars. Who played the daughter and the spirit liberator?

a slightly goofy one like "Thir13en Ghosts" (2001), was a bit out of character for both actresses you refer to.

The daughter of the protagonist (Tony Shalhoub, of "Monk" fame) was played by Shannon Elizabeth, and the so-called spirit liberator was Embeth Davidtz.

Elizabeth was just two years out from her star-making role in the landmark gross-out comedy "American Pie" (1999). She followed that up with a lead role in the even-grosser 2000 comedy film "Scary Movie" (recall that while the series sort of fell apart with its sequels, the first one was a true box office sensation).

Davidtz, meanwhile, was best known for playing the sweet Miss Honey in the family-friendly 1996 hit "Matilda." She followed that up with roles in hits such as "Mansfield Park" (1999) and "Bridget Jones's Diary" (2001).

All this is to say they weren't the sort of people you'd expect to appear in a slightly schlocky horror flick.

Of course, we shouldn't sell "Thir13en Ghosts" too short. It was actually a remake of the beloved 1960 B movie of the same name (well, not exactly the same name — it went by the less-stylized "13 Ghosts").

The original was made by directing great William Castle and is a classic example of his gimmickbased approach to filmmaking. The original film was produced so that the ghosts could only be seen if audiences wore special glasses, similar to the 3D glasses of the time — a "process" that Castle dubbed Illusion-O.

That gimmick gets a subtle nod in the remake: One of the characters has a pair of special glasses that allow him to see the supernatural plane.

Q: What has Armando Iannucci been doing since "Veep" ended?

A: Actually quite a lot. He had a whole HBO sitcom, "Avenue 5," come and go since 2019, when his beloved, award-winning political comedy "Veep" ended.

If you didn't know that, it's likely because "Avenue 5," a sci-fi comedy about a space cruise ship that gets stuck far from Earth, never really found an audience.

Its first-season ratings, in early 2020, were poor, and then the pandemic happened, which meant the second season didn't air for another two and a half years. By then, any momentum it had was lost, as reflected in the even lower Season 2 numbers.

Sadly, it seems like maybe that experience has soured Iannucci on TV for a while. He's currently focused on the stage, namely a live-theater adaptation of the classic film "Dr. Strangelove or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb" (1964). Even worse for TV fans: It's being staged across an ocean in Iannucci's native Britain.

"Dr. Strangelove" offered a cutting satire of government war-making when it was released in the midst of the Cold War, but Iannucci told the BBC that its message is just as relevant today.

As for why he chose the stage instead of the screen, the ever-topical Iannucci said it was also about timing and current affairs. "In the last three years, we've been so enclosed in our homes because of the lockdown, and have got addicted to our screens, so actually going out and seeing something live and in the flesh is all the more exciting. That's what excites me about actually doing it as a live stage show."

Q: Can you tell me what the actress who played Calamity

Jane has been doing since "Deadwood"?

A: It depends on what you mean by "since Deadwood." One could argue that the biggest thing Robin Weigert has done since "Deadwood" is more "Deadwood."

The series aired from 2004 to 2006 on HBO, back when a two-year run could still result in the sort of huge cultural impact "Deadwood" had. But it was revived in 2019 for a feature-length film aptly titled "Deadwood: The Movie."

In both, Weigert played Calamity Jane, based on the real-life Wild West sharpshooter, and it's by far the biggest role of her career so far.

In between and afterward, she's split her time between supporting roles in highly regarded prestige films ("Synecdoche, New York," 2008; "Pawn Sacrifice," 2014) and lengthy arcs on TV dramas.

Of these TV roles, she's most recognizable as lawyer Ally Lowen on "Sons of Anarchy" and doctor Wendy

But she has a potentially bigger role lined up. She will have a lead role in the new thriller series "Tracker," which is being produced by CBS. The network is already planning to air the pilot episode after the Super Bowl in February — one of the most coveted slots on TV — suggesting it has high hopes for the series.
