Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert (R)

Even though her boy [Travis Kelce] was angry, Tay-Tay still had fun. At one point, she was caught chugging her beer on the Jumbotron. ... Then the NFL tweeted her beer chug, accompanied simply with the word "Icon." If that's what makes you an icon, then my Aunt Rita is an icon-a-holic.

If any of you actually want to go to the game, experts say this was the priciest Super Bowl ever, with some tickets on sale for $100,000. That's a lot. But, of course, the memories will last a lifetime — unless you're one of the players.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon (R)

I want to say congrats to the Kansas City Chiefs on winning Super Bowl LVIII. ... Last night's [Feb. 11] game was over four hours long. ... The game was so long that people were drunk in the first quarter and hung over by the trophy presentation.

During a rally over the weekend [Feb. 10-11], former president [Donald] Trump said that if European countries don't pay the U.S. more money, he might encourage Russia to invade them. And that was only the third-craziest thing he said during the rally.

Today [Feb. 14] is Valentine's Day, and if you forgot, don't worry. There's a good chance President Biden did, too.

Jimmy Kimmel Live! (R)

A surprising amount of religion during [the Super Bowl]. There were two ads for Jesus. There was an ad for an app that lets you pray along with Mark Wahlberg. And if you didn't go for those, Scientology was there to ask if you were curious, which I am curious, but mostly I'm curious about Mark Wahlberg. I mean if I sign up for the app, will he know if I skip church on Ash Wednesday? If I don't come back with a Marky Mark on my forehead, will he rat me out to God?

According to Republicans on the House Intelligence Committee, Russia wants to put a nuclear weapon in space. ... They say that the nuke would not be used against people but rather to take out the satellites that control our internet. In other words, they're going to hit us where it really hurts — right in the porn. ... Do the Russians really need nuclear weapons to disrupt our satellite connection? I can't even get ESPN when it rains.

Late Night With Seth Meyers (R)

At a campaign stop yesterday [Feb. 11], presidential candidate Nikki Haley claimed that President [Joe] Biden will not be the Democratic nominee in 30 days. Take it from her, the woman who will not be the Republican nominee in 30 days.

Elton John is auctioning off hundreds of items from his Atlanta home, which include artwork, a pinball machine and a grand piano. And that was all just one outfit.

On the case: A teenager searches for answers in 'A Good Girl's Guide to Murder'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Emma Myers as seen in "A Good Girl's Guide to Murder"

The classic British crime drama takes a young adult turn in the thrilling new series "A Good Girl's Guide to Murder," premiering Thursday, Aug. 1, on Netflix. Starring Emma Myers ("Wednesday") as 17-year-old sleuth Pip Fitz-Amobi, the six-episode series follows Pip as she reinvestigates the murder-suicide of a popular high school senior and her boyfriend that shocked her hometown of Little Kilton five years previous.

Always fascinated by the case, Pip uses a school project to pick at the seams of the police work that quickly determined that Andie Bell (India Lillie Davies, "Bridgerton") was killed by her boyfriend, Sal Singh (Rahul Pattni, "Casualty"), who then killed himself after being named a suspect. Something has always told Pip that there was more to the story of their deaths, and her independent research project happens to be the perfect opportunity to explore her hunch.

Pip finds herself entangled in the dark, dangerous side of her small town as she looks into what really happened to Andie and Sal. Poking around in the shadows and talking to people who would much rather be left alone makes the teenage detective a target, and while she makes headway with her project, she puts herself in danger's crosshairs. Tracing the strings of evidence Pip finds as she investigates reveals a violent drug scene full of secrets and ties to Andie.

Like Holmes and Watson or Cagney and Lacey, great detectives work best in pairs. Pip recruits Sal's younger brother Ravi (Zain Iqbal, "All Crazy Random," 2022) to help her get to the bottom of the case and clear his brother's name. Ravi was the last person to see Sal alive, and both he and Pip share the belief in his innocence and concern that the real killer is still free, lurking around town.

Also starring in "A Good Girl's Guide to Murder" are Anna Maxwell Martin ("Good Omens") as Pip's mother, Leanne Fitz-Amobi; Gary Beadle ("The Gentlemen") as Pip's stepfather, Victor Amobi; Mathew Baynton ("Ghosts") as teacher Elliot Ward; Henry Ashton ("My Lady Jane") as Sal's friend Max Hastings; Carla Woodcock ("Such Brave Girls") as Andie's sister, Becca Bell; Yasmin Al-Khudhairi ("Rye Lane," 2023) as Mr. Ward's daughter, Naomi Ward; Jude Morgan-Collie ("Here We Go") as Pip's friend Connor Reynolds; Raiko Gohara ("Red Rose") as Pip's neighbor Zach Chen; Asha Banks ("The Magic Flute," 2022) as Pip's best friend, Cara Ward; and Yali Topol Margalith ("The Tattooist of Auschwitz") as Pip's friend Lauren Gibson.

Recurring in the murder mystery series are Orla Hill ("Stonehouse") as Ruby Foxcroft; Ephraim O.P. Sampson ("Good Boy," 2023) as Jake Lawrence; Jessica Webber ("After Everything," 2023) as Nat Da Silva; Matthew Khan ("Brassic") as Dylan; Georgia Aaron ("Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire," 2024) as Emma Hutton; Oliver Wickham ("Wednesday") as Jesse Walker; Adam Astill ("World's End") as Toby Hastings; Annabel Mullion ("Gentleman Jack") as Rosie Hastings; and newcomer Mitu Panicucci as Stella Chapman.

In an interview with BBC in June, Myers admitted she didn't feel like she had that much in common with the character of Pip, saying, "I have a harder time putting things together and I don't think I'd have the guts to confront as many people as she does."

However, she understood the importance of portraying Pip's confidence, saying, "She's very strong in her opinion of what she thinks is right and wrong." Myers added, "I think it's good for young people to watch these sorts of things and see themselves in it."

The series is adapted from the 2019 novel of the same name by author Holly Jackson, which became very popular in social media book nooks and made it onto several year-end best-of literature lists as a result of that reach. BookTok — the corner of the social media platform TikTok dedicated to voracious reading — can make or break the success of new titles, especially genre books. Recently, romances such as Prime Video's 2023 film "Red White and Royal Blue" and this summer's big-screen release "It Ends With Us," have proven that book audiences are eager to see their favorite reads get Hollywood adaptations.

The first in a trilogy of novels, there is room for further seasons of the show, though executive producers Matthew Read and Frith Tiplady (both formerly producers on Netflix's hit gangster drama series, "Peaky Blinders") confirmed in an interview with Variety last October that the first season covers the events of the first book and has a real ending. Rest easy, no maddening cliffhangers to be expected here.

Speaking with BBC, Jackson shared what she thought made the novel a hit with so many readers now waiting for the series to drop, saying, "We have lots of teenage angst and antics and those laugh-out-loud moments ... and then, suddenly, you're slapped around the face with the dark adult world of a crime thriller."

Follow Pip down the rabbit hole of local Little Kilton crime when "A Good Girl's Guide to Murder" drops Thursday, Aug. 1, on Netflix.

'Volpe' va bene: MI6 agent Sylvia Fox is back for Season 2

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Filming a series in Italy is nothing new — especially with regard to picturesque summer content — but the British spy series "Signora Volpe" is somewhat different from other breathtakingly beautiful, Italian-set series such as HBO's "My Brilliant Friend" and "The White Lotus" (Season 2), and PBS and Brit Box's "Hotel Portofino."

"Signora Volpe," having premiered its first season in North America on AMC's Acorn TV in late spring of 2022, stands apart from other Italian crime series due to its unique format of three feature-length episodes per season. Back for a second season as of Monday, July 29, on Acorn TV, "Signora Volpe" follows the same release pattern once again, airing one 90-minute episode per week until the Aug. 12 finale.

The series, named in Italian for its lead character Sylvia Fox (Emilia Fox, "The Pianist," 2002), follows the former MI6 agent as she investigates a series of crimes that fall into her path as she slowly learns to relax, unwind and enjoy the pleasant, peaceful scenery around her. Accustomed to the fast-paced lifestyle of a British secret agent, Fox visits Umbria for her niece's wedding in the pilot and soon finds herself deep in a homicide investigation involving the groom and a mystery woman found at the bottom of a lake on his property. As the debut season progressed, Fox became attracted to other local cases — including a quarter-century-old mystery that was unearthed along with a skeleton during an archeological dig and a high-profile murder case involving the son of a Russian politician in Italy's capital city, Rome.

Now headed into Season 2, the so-called Signora Volpe is being drawn into another set of curious cases, this time beginning with the murder of a local Italian community leader and the "blackmail, secrets and love" surrounding the crime (per IMDb). But Fox's involvement in Italian crime is not without its own compendium of dangers.

According to Deadline, this season sees "Fox investigating a murder and blackmail involving pillars of the Panicale community; going undercover at a deadly house party on the shores of Lake Trasimeno; and encountering an old foe seeking revenge on Sylvia, resulting in her family and [Capt.] Riva [Giovanni Cirfiera, "American Crime Story"] engaging in a race against time to save her life."

Joining Fox on screen for Season 2 are many fan favorites from the first three installments in May 2022. Chief among them are Tara Fitzgerald ("Game of Thrones") and Matteo Carlomagno ("Silent Witness") as Fox's sister and brother-in-law, Isabel and Matteo Vitale, the couple whose daughter, Alice (Issy Knopfler, "Before We Die"), was getting married at the beginning of Season 1. Knopfler, too, is also scheduled to return for the current season, alongside Imma Piro ("Grazie ragazzi," 2023) as Antonella Vitale.

Elena Di Cioccio ("Opposites Attract," 2015), Fiona Marr ("Insomnia"), Marianne Leoni ("The Price of Family," 2022), Marco Quaglia ("Borgia"), Francesca De Martini ("Medici"), Natalie Shinnick ("FBI: International"), José Neira ("Amor") and new talent Adriana Laespada also star in the series' second season. Additionally, "Chariots of Fire" (1981) actor Nicholas Farrell stars in two of this season's three episodes as an as-yet-undisclosed "mystery guest" (per Deadline).

Filmed on location in the scenic Italian regions of Umbria and Lazio and created by "Midsomer Murders" duo Rachel Cuperman and Sally Griffiths, "Signora Volpe" hails from Acorn Media Enterprises and is produced by ITV-backed company Route 24, the independent TV production company behind the popular Sky Original mystery series "The Midwich Cuckoos."

"Ever since first reading Rachel [Cuperman] and Sally [Griffiths]'s superb script of 'Signora Volpe,' I have been so excited about playing Sylvia," Fox stated for the AMC news release ahead of the Season 1 premiere. "She is such an interesting and complex character, and the writing is fantastic. I have thoroughly enjoyed working with Route 24 to develop the series and am thrilled to have such great directors, producers, cast and crew on board this exciting new production."

And while the production itself may no longer be considered "new" due to its initial 2022 Season 1 release date, rest assured there are still plenty of surprises planned for the newest season. From Fox's changing outlook on life to a shocking murder arrest in the Season 2 premiere, which is titled "A Debt of Honour" and is directed by Declan Recks ("Tarrac," 2022), things in the world of "Signore Volpe" are rarely as straightforward as they seem upon first glance.

For those who may not yet have seen "Signora Volpe" from the beginning, all three episodes of the first season are currently available to watch on Acorn TV. Once caught up, don't miss the premiere of "Signora Volpe" Season 2 when it begins streaming Monday, July 29.

NBC offers coverage fit for everyone during 2024 Olympics

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Olympic outpost: Tune in for all the coverage from the 2024 Summer Olympic Games in Paris, with programs such as "Gold Zone," "Watch With Alex Cooper" and "Olympic Highlights With Kevin Hart and Kenan Thompson" broadcasting the latest from the Games every day this week, from Sunday, July 28, to Saturday, Aug. 4, on NBC and Peacock.

Hosted by NFL commentator Scott Hanson and Olympic veterans Andrew Siciliano, Matt Iseman and Akbar Gbajabiamila, "Gold Zone" is designed to be a Games-watcher's "best friend," streaming the most important moments from the Olympics in real-time, presenting viewers with, according to NBC Sports, "the best and most compelling moments happening at any time," as up to 40 Olympic events could be happening simultaneously. NBC continues on to explain: "The daily live show [guides] fans through the excitement, triumphs and emotion of the Games, scanning all the events that day to provide viewers with the most exhilarating moments and key races, routines and finishes as they unfold live." Heralded as the most comprehensive and all-encompassing coverage from Paris, "Gold Zone" will also feature special guests joining in for commentary throughout the day.

Next, "Watch With Alex Cooper" offers a live, picture-in-picture presentation of Olympic events, providing fun and accessible commentary for viewers, provided by the multi-hyphenate creator, host and executive producer of the hit podcast "Call Her Daddy," journalist Alex Cooper. Alongside some special guests of her own, Cooper offers her take on some of the most highly anticipated events for the U.S., including soccer, gymnastics and basketball. A former athlete herself, Cooper hopes to bridge the gap between sports enthusiasts and Olympic novices, not only adding humor and levity to the Games, but also answering questions from online fans in real-time, making for a uniquely communal viewing experience.

Kevin Hart co-hosts "Olympic Highlights with Kevin Hart and Kenan Thompson"

Finally, Kevin Hart ("Ride Along," 2014) and Kenan Thompson ("Saturday Night Live") add a little Hollywood glitz and glamor to the Summer Games in "Olympic Highlights With Kevin Hart and Kenan Thompson," an eight-episode series in which the comedic duo recaps the best and most unexpected moments from the American team. With multiple episodes airing weekly — starting the same day as the opening ceremony — Hart and Thompson cover a mix of Olympic-themed in-studio competitions, conversations and interviews, making sure everyone gets involved in the fun.

With coverage airing from sunrise to sunset, NBC shares the latest and greatest from the 2024 Paris Olympic Games, starting Sunday, July 28.

Marvelous mountaineer: Watching as one woman breaks glass ceilings and reaches new heights, filmmaker Lucy Walker's ("The Crash Reel," 2013) latest documentary, "Mountain Queen: The Summits of Lhakpa Sherpa," debuts Wednesday, July 31, on Netflix.

After becoming the first Nepali woman to summit Mount Everest (and survive the climb), Lhakpa Sherpa currently holds the world record for the most Everest summits by a woman at 10 impressive climbs. "For anyone else," explains an article shared on TIFF.net, "that might be the greatest challenge and achievement of their life. For the unforgettable Lhakpa — the funny, profane, no-nonsense and fiercely determined subject of this extraordinary documentary — it was just the start."

Growing up as the daughter of rural farmers in Nepal, Sherpa's struggles started early, as she was denied an education or any opportunity to work due to her gender. Eventually, she found her way to the United States, but strife followed close behind as Sherpa faced intimate partner violence, and later had to work overtime while scraping by to provide for her family.

Netflix describes: "At the beginning of the film, it's 2022, and Sherpa is living in a tiny apartment in West Hartford, Connecticut. She's working long hours at Whole Foods to support her daughters, and she hasn't summited a mountain in years. Catching Sherpa at this moment in time, it would be nearly impossible to connect her to the superhuman, odds-defying accomplishments she's made — but the story that unfolds throughout the film reminds audiences that heroism and resilience exists in life's most unassuming places."

The film goes on to watch as Sherpa sets out to climb Everest one last time, hoping another successful summit might turn things around not only for herself but for her daughters as well. Despite her age, location and lack of time to train, she is more determined than ever before, knowing it's the best chance she has to make a difference. Walker follows along as Sherpa embarks on this fateful journey, filming the remarkable climber as she travels back to the ever-familiar crest of the Great Himalayas.

"One guiding principle of this film was to take a wider view of what it means to climb," Walker shared. "The mountainous metaphor became part of our visual storytelling — not just the literal mountain but the emotional mountain, the mountains of the mind and heart."

Inspiring us all to climb higher, "Mountain Queen: The Summits of Lhakpa Sherpa" premieres Wednesday, July 31, on Netflix.

"Unstable" - Season 2

The family chaos continues in Season 2 of the Netflix sitcom "Unstable" when it returns to the streamer Thursday, Aug. 1, with its second season. A universally admired, eccentric and narcissist-adjacent biotech entrepreneur, Ellis Dragon (Rob Lowe, "9-1-1: Lone Star") entered Season 1 in the midst of a downward emotional spiral that's been getting worse since the death of his wife. In an attempt to keep his father's company from falling apart, Ellis's estranged son, Jackson (played by Lowe's real-life son, John Owen Lowe, "The Grinder"), who is his father's opposite in seemingly every way, returns home to try to turn the company (and his father) back around. While working to get Ellis's world back in order, Jackson takes on what might be the hardest task of all: escaping his father's looming, larger-than-life shadow. Now, Season 2 finds Ellis, in an attempt to see if his son has what it takes to be the heir to his business empire, setting up a series of outlandish challenges and mind games. However, a newcomer has other ideas for how things should turn out. Inspired by John Owen's comedic social media interactions with his father, "Unstable" comes from creator Victor Fresco ("Santa Clarita Diet") alongside Rob and John Owen Lowe. The series cast is rounded out by Fred Armisen ("Portlandia"), Sian Clifford ("Fleabag"), Tom Allen ("Chad Goes Deep"), Rachel Marsh ("Before We Go"), Emma Ferreira ("Learn to Swim," 2021), Aaron Branch ("Christmas at the Ranch," 2021), Frank Gallegos ("Veronica Mars"), Lamorne Morris ("New Girl") and Iris Apatow ("Love").

"Rebel Moon" — Part 1 and Part 2 Director's Cuts

Director and writer Zack Snyder's ("Zack Snyder's Justice League," 2021) interstellar action adventure, including the films "Rebel Moon — Part 1: A Child of Fire" and "Rebel Moon — Part 2: The Scargiver," returns to Netflix with a bang Friday, Aug. 2, when the director's cuts for both films make their debut. Retitled "Rebel Moon — Chapter 1: Chalice of Blood" and "Rebel Moon — Chapter 2: Curse of Forgiveness" for their revamped editions, the story follows Kora (Sofia Boutella, "Rogue Heroes"), a mysterious young woman who begins a new life among a peaceful settlement of farmers after crash landing on a moon in the furthest reaches of the universe. However, when their livelihood is threatened by outside forces, Kora becomes her new people's only hope for survival. Teaming up with Gunnar (Michiel Huisman, "Game of Thrones"), a tenderhearted farmer, the duo embark on a journey across the universe, seeking out warriors with a common need for redemption to form a new band of revolutionaries. Their ragtag band includes Kai (Charlie Hunnam, "Sons of Anarchy"), a pilot and gun for hire; General Titus (Djimon Hounsou, "Gran Turismo," 2023), a legendary commander; Nemesis (Doona Bae, "Stranger"), a master swordswoman; Tarak (Staz Nair, "Supergirl"), a captive with a regal past; and Milius (E. Duffy, "Acid Noir," 2022), a resistance fighter. These new director's cuts "delve further into the mythology and madness of Zack Snyder's epic sci-fi saga in the viciously sexier, bloodier world" of the Rebel Moon films (per Netflix). With stories by Snyder, both Rebel Moon films feature screenplays written by Snyder, Shay Hatten ("John Wick: Chapter 4," 2023) and Kurt Johnstad ("300," 2006). Cleopatra Coleman ("The Last Man on Earth"), Ray Fisher ("True Detective"), Fra Fee ("Hawkeye"), Ed Skrein ("Deadpool," 2016), Anthony Hopkins ("The Silence of the Lambs," 1991), Jena Malone ("The Hunger Games: Catching Fire," 2013), Cary Elwes ("The Princess Bride," 1987), Corey Stoll ("Billions") and Stuart Martin ("Miss Scarlet & the Duke") also star.

"Saving Bikini Bottom: The Sandy Cheeks Movie" (2024)

It's time to put years of adventure and karate skills to the test! After years of living and working under the sea in the town of Bikini Bottom, Sandy Cheeks (Carolyn Lawrence, "SpongeBob SquarePants"), a squirrel, scientist and Texas native, is ready to take center stage and save the day in the new animated family film "Saving Bikini Bottom: The Sandy Cheeks Movie," when it premieres Friday, Aug. 2, on Netflix. A spinoff of the hit long-running animated children's series "SpongeBob SquarePants," created by Stephen Hillenburg ("Rocko's Modern Life"), the movie finds the entire town of Bikini Bottom put into mortal peril when their home is scooped out of the ocean and held hostage in a Texas laboratory. Behind it all is business tycoon Sue Nahmee (Wanda Sykes, "The Upshaws"), who is plotting to turn the town's inhabitants into a line of mass-marketed plush toys called Sea Pals. Determined to return the town and all its denizens to the sea, Sandy, with her good friend and fellow karate expert SpongeBob SquarePants (Tom Kenny, "The SpongeBob SquarePants Movie," 2004) by her side, heads to Texas to make things right. Directed by Liza Johnson ("The Last of Us"), "Saving Bikini Bottom" also voice stars Clancy Brown ("Billions"), Bill Fagerbakke ("The Patrick Star Show"), Mr. Lawrence ("Rocko's Modern Life"), Rodger Bumpass ("The SpongeBob Movie: Sponge Out of Water," 2015), Johnny Knoxville ("Reboot"), Craig Robinson ("Killing It"), Grey DeLisle ("The Loud House"), Ilia Isorelys Paulino ("One Piece"), Matty Cardarople ("Reservation Dogs") and Mary Jo Catlett ("Seriál Mom," 1994).

"Batman: Caped Crusader" - Season 1

Hit the streets of Gotham City with the all-new animated family series "Batman: Caped Crusader," when it premieres Thursday, Aug. 1, on Prime Video. From executive producers J.J. Abrams ("Lost"), Matt Reeves ("The Batman," 2022) and Bruce Timm ("Batman: The Animated Series"), this series reimagines DC Comics' Batman mythology. Raised in Gotham in the aftermath of a great personal tragedy, Bruce Wayne (voiced by Hamish Linklater, "Manhunt") grew up to become one of the city's wealthiest patrons. But the well-to-do orphan has a great secret: at night, Bruce dons his mask and cape to become the Batman, a vigilante hero working to make the streets of Gotham safer, one crook at a time. As his actions draw the attention of "unexpected allies within the GCPD and City Hall," he also finds "his heroic actions spawn deadly, unforeseen ramifications" (per Prime Video). The series ensemble voice cast also includes Jamie Chung ("Big Hero 6," 2014), Diedrich Bader ("Harley Quinn"), Christina Ricci ("Yellowjackets"), Minnie Driver ("Speechless"), Mckenna Grace ("Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire," 2024), Eric Morgan Stuart ("Youn'G," 2024), Michelle C. Bonilla ("9-1-1: Lone Star"), Krystal Joy Brown ("She-Ra and the Princesses of Power"), John DiMaggio ("Futurama"), Paul Scheer ("The League"), Reid Scott ("Veep"), Tom Kenny ("SpongeBob SquarePants"), Jason Watkins ("McDonald and Dodds"), Gary Anthony Williams ("The Boondocks"), Dan Donohue ("For All Mankind"), David Krumholtz ("Oppenheimer," 2023), Haley Joel Osment ("Dragons: The Nine Realms") and Toby Stephens ("Lost in Space").

"Five Feet Apart" (2019)

Based on the eponymous novel by Rachael Lippincott and adapted by Mikki Daughtry ("The Curse of La Llorona," 2019) and Tobias Iaconis ("Nightbooks," 2021), "Five Feet Apart" (2019) is available to stream on Prime Video as of Tuesday, July 30. Coming from director Justin Baldoni, ("Clouds," 2020), the film's story was inspired by Claire Wineland — a friend of the director who struggled with cystic fibrosis — and stars Haley Lu Richardson ("The White Lotus") as Stella and Cole Sprouse ("Riverdale") as Will, two teenagers struggling with the difficult, often fatal, disease. With weakened immune systems, the blossoming couple faces an impossible hurdle as they must remain five feet apart at all times to keep their illnesses from getting any worse. A touching story, "Five Feet Apart" also stars Moises Arias ("Fallout"), Kimberly Herbert Gregory ("Vice Principals"), Parminder Nagra ("Bend It Like Beckham," 2002), Claire Forlani ("Meet Joe Black," 1998), Emily Baldoni ("Coherence," 2013), Gary Weeks ("Outer Banks"), Cynthia Evans ("Stargirl"), Brett Austin Johnson ("The Spirit God Gave Us," 2022), Ariana Guerra ("Helstrom") and Sophia Bernard ("The Blazing World," 2021).

"Lisa Frankenstein" (2024)

Starring Kathryn Newton ("Ant-Man and the Wasp: Quantumania," 2023), Cole Sprouse ("Riverdale") and Liza Soberano ("Everyday I Love You," 2015), Zelda Williams' ("Were the World Mine," 2008) directorial debut, "Lisa Frankenstein," makes its streaming debut this Tuesday, July 30, on Prime Video. Written by Diablo Cody — who also wrote the screenplay for "Jennifer's Body" (2009) — this latest project is said to be set in the same universe as the aforementioned film, following a young girl named Lisa (Newton) as she develops a crush on a handsome corpse (Sprouse) who was brought back to life following a fortuitous strike of lightning. Fighting against a world that doesn't understand them, the duo embark on a journey filled with young love, exploration, and a few missing body parts. Equally comedic and horrific, "Lisa Frankenstein" was brought to life by a cast including Jenna Davis ("M3GAN," 2022), Trina LaFargue ("Secrets of Sulphur Springs") and Henry Eikenberry ("Euphoria"), among others.

'BBQ Brawl' goes full-speed ahead in fifth season

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

It's summer, which means that steaks, skewers and smokey brisket are all sizzling on the grill — and that "BBQ Brawl" is back, with this exciting season continuing Monday, July 29, on Food Network.

This season, Bobby Flay ("Beat Bobby Flay") is joined by returning host Sunny Anderson ("The Kitchen") and newcomer Michael Voltaggio ("Young & Hungry"), as the trio coach a roster of the best barbecue wranglers from across the country, putting the pitmasters through a series of increasingly difficult challenges in an attempt to determine who really is the "Master of 'Cue." Each dish is judged by a panel including Carson Kressley ("RuPaul's Drag Race"), Rodney Scott ("Young Americans") and Brooke Williamson ("Beachside Brawl"). At the end of the competition, only one cook can come out on top — and earn bragging rights for their given coach — and now, halfway through the season, the game is getting hotter than ever before.

Back during the season premiere, Flay, Anderson and Votaggio welcomed 12 new contestants to the Lonestar State, where the cooks were split into teams, each given a mentor to guide them through the season. After some flavor-packed sliders hit the grill (and then the judges table), the teams dove in for a challenge highlighting surf and turf. While some hit the mark right off the bat, others floundered in the waves of competition, leading to dry mouths all around.

Sunny Anderson, Bobby Flay and Michael Voltaggio in "BBQ Brawl"

The following week, the contenders lucky enough to continue forward were introduced to the coveted "PIG-asus" trophy — a "BBQ Brawl" tradition — the reward up for grabs at the end of a "Texas-sized" relay race, in which judges Kressley, Scott and Williamson "cooked up some fun and games" (per Food Network), leading to a team brawl packed with advantages for the next grill-off.

Once the race began, it never truly stopped. Last week, we even saw the team's mentors — Food Network stars Flay, Anderson and Voltaggio — jump into the game, getting their hands dirty as they took part in an advantage challenge "designed to keep the judges fueled 'on-the-go,'" according to the network, inspiring the brawlers before they faced their own feat, crafting feasts inspired by the countless regions of American barbecue.

Now, with shocking ingredients offered in their advantage challenge, the team captains must step up their game and face the fire, with contestants depending on their expertise — and only one piece of equipment — during an all-new episode of "BBQ Brawl," premiering Monday, July 29, on Food Network.

The Fall Guy
Following a nearly career-ending injury on the set of his last film, stuntman Colt Seavers (Gosling) works as a valet for a small Mexican restaurant. He is called back to work by film producer Gail Meyer (Waddingham), who informs him that his ex-girlfriend Jody Moreno (Blunt) is directing her first film, a space opera called "Metalstorm," and wants him to participate in the production. When Colt arrives on set, he learns that his presence was not actually requested by Jody and she, in fact, still harbors resentment towards him as a result of their breakup. Colt stays when Gail reveals that the lead star, Tom Ryder (Taylor-Johnson), has gone missing, and the already over-budget production is in jeopardy of being canceled. Colt is tasked with tracking down Tom, a mission which he agrees to in hopes of redeeming himself to Jody.

Sting
Twelve-year-old Charlotte (Browne) lives in a rundown apartment building with her mother, Heather (Mitchell), her stepfather, Ethan (Corr), and baby half-brother Liam (J. Berry, K. Berry). Charlotte is at odds with Ethan due to the nature of her biological father's absence. With Ethan often working and her mother busy caring for Liam, Charlotte is often left to her own devices. One night she discovers a strange, luminescent object, from which a spider hatches. Charlotte keeps the spider, naming it Sting. As her relationship with the spider grows, so, too, does the spider's size, intelligence and appetite.
Director: Kiah Roache-Turner. Stars: Ryan Corr, Alyla Browne, Penelope Mitchell, Robyn Nevin, Noni Hazlehurst, Silvia Colloca, Danny Kim, Jermaine Fowler, Tony Black, Jett Berry, Kade Berry, Lee Perry. 2024. 92 min. Horror.

Rendel: Cycle of Revenge
Following the murder of his entire family at the hands of a violent crime syndicate, Ramo (Gummerus) dons his alter ego of the masked vigilante Rendel to avenge them. VALA, a development company that serves as a front for the crime syndicate, has created an untested vaccine. Despite resulting in numerous deaths, they plan to release it worldwide for profit. The injustice reawakens Ramo's dark side and, as he vanquishes his enemies one by one, they are quick to learn that Rendel is a force that will not die.
Director: Jesse Haaja. Stars: Kristofer Gummerus, Sean Cronin, Bruce Payne, Minna Nevanoja, Tero Salenius, Kaitlyn Boyé, Mikko Nousiainen, Juha-Matti Halonen, Jonah Paull, Jari Manninen, Jarmo Makinen. 2023. 99 min. Action.

Fortune favours the brave. Back in the 1830´s Charles Tanqueray wasn't afraid to mix his bold ideas. His in-genious pursuit for perfection paid off, creating Tanqueray London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin and one of the most awarded gins in the world. The bartender´s choice for the perfect G&T. Best enjoyed with tonic and a wedge of lime.

Barry Plath in "Welcome to Plathville"

Judge Steve Harvey

(22) 9:00 PM

Order in the court! From small claims to big disputes, Steve Harvey brings his unique perspective and signature humor to settling disputes between a wide variety of characters. In Judge Harvey's court, common sense reigns supreme.

Neighborhood Wars

A&E 9:00 PM

Two new episodes air back-to-back, showcasing footage from cell phones, drones, home security cameras and more to share the kindness, drama and absolute hilarity that can take place between real-life neighbors living across the United States.

FBI: Most Wanted

(3) 10:00 PM

Return to this chilling episode, in which a mob-connected police informant is found murdered, and the Fugitive Task Force is asked to hunt for his killers. As the search goes on, Hana (Keisha Castle-Hughes) grows closer to Ethan (Michael Raymond-James).

Welcome to Plathville

TLC 10:00 PM

This week, while working on their fitness at the local gym, the Plath men bond over their growing muscles. Meanwhile, Olivia takes a step into the single scene with her sister, and Ethan decides to break the ice and visit his mom again.

"Futurama" - Season 12

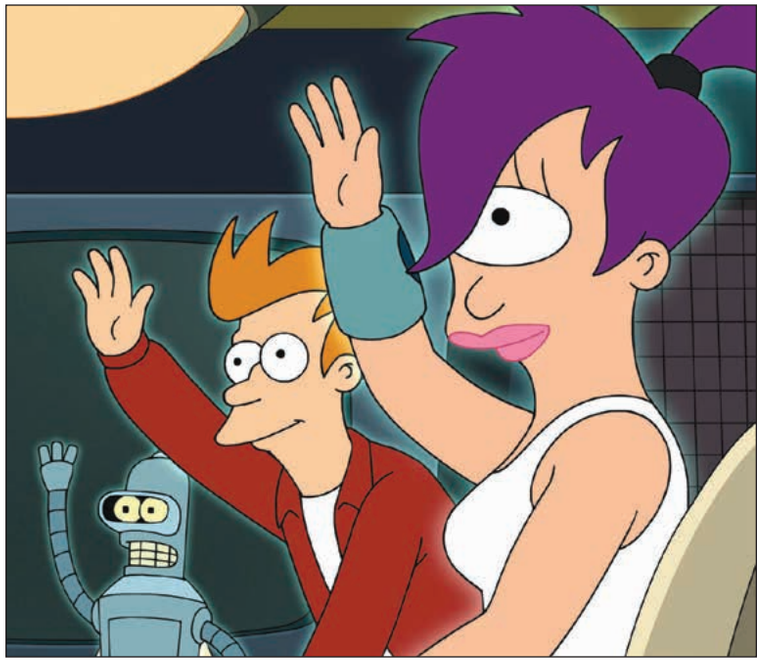

After debuting its first new season in a decade in 2023, "Futurama" is forging ahead into the future once more. Season 12 of the hit adult animated series, from "The Simpsons" and "Disenchantment's" Matt Groening and David X. Cohen, premieres Monday, July 29, on Hulu. The series follows Phillip J. Fry (Billy West, "Disenchantment"), a New York City pizza delivery boy who accidentally freezes himself in 1999 and gets defrosted in the year 3000. In this unfamiliar New York City, Fry quickly befriends a robot named Bender (John DiMaggio, "The Loud House") and falls in love with the cyclops Leela (Katey Sagal, "Married…With Children"). Finding jobs at the Planet Express Delivery Company, the trio works together with accountant Hermes Conrad (Phil LaMarr, "Pulp Fiction," 1994), assistant Amy Wong (Lauren Tom, "Andi Mack") and alien lobster Dr. John Zoidberg (West) as they embark on adventures across the universe. This new season sees "our occasionally heroic crew [embark] on mind-bending adventures involving birthday party games to the death, the secrets of Bender's ancestral robot village, AI friends (and enemies), impossibly cute beanbags, and the true five-million-year-old story behind the consciousness-altering substance known as coffee. And, of course, the next chapter in Fry and Leela's fateful, time-twisted romance" (per Hulu). Regulars in the series' voice cast also include Tress MacNeille ("The Simpsons"), Maurice LaMarche ("Pinky and the Brain") and David Herman ("Bob's Burgers").

"Get Out" (2017)

Catch the film that catapulted the careers of Jordan Peele ("Nope," 2022) and Daniel Kaluuya ("Black Panther," 2018) in 2017's breakout horror "Get Out," available to stream now on Hulu. Serving as Peele's directorial debut, "Get Out" follows Chris Washington (Kaluuya), a young Black photographer, as he heads out to visit his white girlfriend's (Allison Williams, "Girls") parents, Dean (Bradley Whitford, "The West Wing") and Missy (Catherine Keener, "The 40-Year-Old Virgin," 2005), for a weekend getaway. However, when the loving couple arrives, Chris is greeted by uncomfortable conversations and a simmering uneasiness from the community and odd behaviour from Dean and Missy's servants, Walter (Marcus Henderson, "Pete's Dragon," 2016) and Georgina (Betty Gabriel, "The Purge: Election Year," 2016). As the weekend progresses, things get much stranger for Chris as the community turns on him. Produced by Peele, Jason Blum ("BlacKkKlansman," 2018), Edward H. Hamm Jr. ("Southland Tales," 2006) and Sean McKittrick ("Donnie Darko," 2001), the cast is rounded out by Caleb Landry Jones ("Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri," 2017), Stephen Root ("Office Space," 1999), LaKeith Stanfield ("Knives Out," 2019), Lil Rel Howery ("Free Guy," 2021), Erika Alexander ("Living Single"), Richard Herd ("All the President's Men," 1976), Jeronimo Spinx ("The Winchesters"), Ian Casselberry ("Keanu," 2016), Trey Burvant ("NCIS: New Orleans") and Geraldine Singer ("Mayfair Witches").

"The Man Who Knew Too Little" (1997)

While the world of fictional spies is dominated by the likes of James Bond, Ethan Hunt, Jason Bourne, Jack Bauer and many others, there is no fictional spy quite like Wallace Ritchie (Bill Murray, "Lost in Translation," 2003). Witness Wallace's unfathomable exploits in the 1997 comedy "The Man Who Knew Too Little," available now on Hulu. When Wallace travels to London to spend his birthday with his brother (Peter Gallagher, "American Beauty," 1999), he is mistaken for a real secret agent by Sir Roger Daggenhurst ("One Foot in the Grave") and his cronies. Daggenhurst plots to assassinate international leaders at a dinner between British and Russian dignitaries as a way to reignite the Cold War, and needs Wallace to eliminate a female escort (Joanne Whalley, "Willow," 1988) who knows too much. However, believing that this is part of some intricate improv theater performance set up by his brother, Wallace takes it upon himself to foil Daggenhurst's plot. Directed by Jon Amiel ("The Core," 2003) and written by Robert Farrar ("Bedrooms and Hallways," 1998) and Howard Franklin ("The Public Eye," 1992), "The Man Who Knew Too Little" also stars Alfred Molina ("Spider-Man 2," 2004), Geraldine James ("Sherlock Holmes," 2009), John Standing ("V for Vendetta," 2005), Anna Chancellor ("The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy," 2005), Nicholas Woodeson ("Skyfall," 2012), Simon Chandler ("The King's Speech," 2010), John Thomson ("Wallace & Gromit: The Curse of the Were-Rabbit," 2005), Cliff Parisi ("Kavanagh QC"), Dexter Fletcher ("Rocketman," 2019), Eddie Marsan ("The World's End," 2013) and Sheila Reid ("Brazil," 1985).

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Who voices the angry critic in "Ratatouille"?

A: Even for Disney/Pixar at the height of their creative and box-office powers, as they were in the mid-2000s, this one was a get: the actor voicing food critic Anton Ego was legendary thespian Peter O'Toole ("Lawrence of Arabia," 1962).

O'Toole was 75 when "Ratatouille" (2007) came out. He had earned every accolade you can get in acting, and made himself a rich man in the process. To put it bluntly, he didn't need to work.

But in an interview on "Charlie Rose" in 2008, O'Toole said that animation was a new challenge for him, and he had a ball.

"I had more fun doing that with [director] Brad Bird and the other Brad [producer Brad Lewis]. I had no idea what to do, what was going on. I had never done a cartoon. I did the voice for a chocolate soda or something once."

With 70 films and 41 TV roles under his belt, you can forgive O'Toole for forgetting a few gigs. He had, in fact, previously done two other animated roles: he voiced Sherlock Holmes in a series of direct-to-video cartoons in the early '80s, and had a role in 1990's "The Nutcracker Prince."

O'Toole went on to tell Rose about how he helped shape his "Ratatouille" character, who ended up being more than just O'Toole's voice.

"It reminded me of a man I had worked with on the newspapers called Muscraft. And I told the boys, and they said, 'Well, why don't you be Mr. Muscraft for a while?' ... And then there was a video camera, or a DVD, whatever, photographing me doing the samples. Then my own mannerisms were taken and exaggerated and put into Anton Ego. The way they build, it's beautiful."

Sadly, O'Toole died in 2013, just a few years after "Ratatouille's" release. He continued working right up to the end, and indeed, things he had filmed continued to be released for years after his death.

Q: Is Michael Biehn still acting? I can't picture him outside the '80s context.

Anton Ego is voiced by Peter O'Toole in "Ratatouille"

A: Michael Biehn, despite starring in two iconic films of the era — "The Terminator" (1984) and "Aliens" (1986) — balks at being described as an "'80s star."

"I was not an '80s star," he said in a 2019 interview with The Hollywood Reporter. "Bruce Willis was an '80s star. Tom Cruise was an '80s star. Schwarzenegger and Stallone. Mel Gibson. Those guys were making $20 million [a picture]. I never even got $1 million. I kind of liked it that way."

It's true that he didn't parlay that mid-'80s success into superstardom, but he's maintained a steady career that most would envy. And he does it at his pace.

Most recently, he had small, significant guest spots in such major shows as "The Walking Dead" in 2022 and "The Mandalorian" in 2020. And he's kept up a steady stream of starring roles in B-grade action movies, some of which he also produces.

To hear Biehn tell it, a higher-profile career at this stage of his life would get in the way of his real job as a family man.

"I don't see how you can live a normal life where you see your kids all the time, you're taking them to school and baseball practice and you're coaching their teams — you're in their lives," he told The Hollywood Reporter.

With that said, he is involved with a couple of projects that are underway right now. He's narrating a documentary, called "Six Two Five," about veterans of the Korean War, and he recently filmed a role in the indie horror film "The Red," currently in post-production and looking for distribution.

Q: Are they not making any more "Ted Lasso"? What's Hannah Waddingham doing now?

A: This would be a good time for an inspirational Ted Lasso speech to get you through this bad news: "Ted Lasso" is finished.

But, perhaps your spirits will be buoyed by the fact that Hannah Waddingham, who played team owner Rebecca Welton, has never been busier.

Though she was an established actor prior to joining "Ted Lasso," with roles in HBO's "Game of Thrones" and 2012's "Les Misérables" on the big screen, among others, Waddingham's career was definitely leveled up thanks to Apple TV+'s soccer-themed dramedy.

"Ted Lasso" ended last year, and just since then, Waddingham has landed multiple high-profile roles.

Earlier this year, she appeared in "Fall Guy" and did a voice in "The Garfield Movie," both of which earned well above $100 million at the box office. She also had a leading voice role in the animated comedy "Krapopolis" on Fox. Plus, she even got to star in her own Christmas variety special, also on Apple TV+, called "Hannah Waddingham: Home for Christmas."

I remind you, that's just in one year, and she has more surefire success already lined up — she recently finished filming her role in "Mission: Impossible 8," and has signed on to do a voice in "The Smurfs Movie," which is scheduled for release next year.
