Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Obviously, this convention is being held to nominate Kamala Harris, but tonight [Aug. 19] was Biden Appreciation Night. ... The [Joe] Biden tributes started before prime time with delegates receiving a gift bag that included "Cup of Joe" coffee. A much nicer gift than when [Lyndon B. Johnson] dropped out in '68 and gave those Chicago delegates a big "Bag of Johnsons."

Now, because the night went long, James Taylor was cut from the program at the last minute. How could they cut Sweet Baby James? Or should I say Vengeful Baby James. ... But ultimately, I can understand why they cut J.T. I mean, not like he's the lieutenant governor of anything.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Last night [Aug. 19], the Democratic National Convention kicked off and President [Joe] Biden was supposed to deliver the prime-time speech, but he didn't take the stage until 11:30. In an odd twist, Biden was awake at midnight while the rest of the country was asleep.

Zoom just announced that you could now have one million people on a meeting at once. As opposed to a normal Zoom meeting, which just sounds like a million people speaking at once. After the Zoom meeting, everyone would be like, "Ugh, this could have been a million-person email."

Jimmy Kimmel Live! With RuPaul

Of course the big story this week [Aug. 18-24] is the Democratic convention in Chicago. You know, President [Joe] Biden's speech was the main event tonight [Aug. 19]. They decided to have Biden speak on Monday in hopes that he'd be done by Thursday [Aug. 22].

Late Night With Seth Meyers

MyPillow founder Mike Lindell said yesterday [Aug. 18] that he's gonna shave his mustache in order to go undercover at the Democratic National Convention, because don't forget the first rule of going undercover: tell everybody first.

While getting a cheesesteak yesterday [Aug. 19] at Pat's King of Steaks in Philadelphia, Ohio Senator J.D. Vance asked an employee why they don't serve the sandwich with Swiss cheese. And NBC can now project the state of Pennsylvania for Kamala Harris.

U.S. intelligence agencies confirmed yesterday [Aug. 19] that Iran attempted to hack former President [Donald] Trump, President [Joe] Biden and Vice President Kamala Harris' campaigns. Damn, RFK even being left out of that. And it would be so easy with facial recognition to hack him. You just hold up a baseball glove.

According to a new survey, 36% of dog owners said that their pet acts as a psychologist, mostly because their cat won't accept their insurance.

Taking on new territory: Kaitlin Olson has 'High Potential' in ABC series

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

Daniel Sunjata in "High Potential"

Kaitlin Olson is ready to be sunny, as well as sleuthy, somewhere else.

The longtime co-star of the FXX sitcom "It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia" has done extra duty before in her own series — Fox's "The Mick" — and she's now doing it again. ABC's seriocomic "High Potential" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 17, casting Olson as crime-scene cleaner Morgan, a single mother who solves cases in her own unconventional manner.

To her surprise, police officials believe they can benefit from her skills and partner her with Karadec, a veteran detective played by "Rescue Me" alum Daniel Sunjata. Adapted from the French series "HPI — Haut Potentiel Intellectuel," the show also features Judy Reyes ("Scrubs") as the duo's boss, Selena, and Taran Killam ("Saturday Night Live") as Morgan's ex, Ludo.

Also a producer of "High Potential," the lively and friendly Olson says, "I don't know that there was much of a process" in her making Morgan a separate character from "It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia's" Dee.

"This woman has some similarities, very flawed, very mouthy … but this woman is very grounded. She is a very loving mother. I'm a very loving mother. That wasn't so hard to jump into. It's just acting, so it's different, but it wasn't challenging. I didn't need to do any reprogramming."

Executive producer Drew Goddard, known for shows like "Lost" and "Alias," developed "High Potential" from its French forerunner, and he maintains that "part of the joy" of the series, "and this is in the French show as well, [is that] you feel the stress of Morgan's dilemma of, 'How do I get my kids to school and solve a murder at the same time?' To me, it's the soul of the show. I'm not that interested in plot, in a traditional sense. I'm interested in character and soul, so I always start from a place of character."

The same sentiment comes from Olson: "I think that's what makes you come back to watch more episodes, too. You can watch an episode that's like, 'I didn't see that twist or turn, and that was fun,' but I don't know that you're coming back to see what happens with these people next week. So, it's character first for me as well."

Olson maintains that "High Potential's" Morgan has a logical place in the line of roles she has played. "I love an underdog," she explains. "I love a character who is so deeply insecure that she acts out. Back when I was in first grade, I was a very insecure kid, and I've known from consciousness that I wanted to act. I don't know why. Then I discovered theater, but I was so shy that I never even attempted it. I didn't audition for a play at school until high school.

"So there was this inner weird balance between, 'I know I have this thing that I can do' and 'I'm way too shy and insecure to be vulnerable enough to open that up for other people to shoot me down.' That's always kind of been in there, so maybe that's why I'm drawn to characters like this. I just also find a more layered character so much more interesting, with complete opposites smashed into one person. I just like that."

Executive producer Todd Harthan ("The Resident") entered relatively late as "High Potential's" showrunner, and he claims the process has been "exciting and terrifying" for him. "Look, it's a first-season show. They're tricky, right? And this show, in particular, has a certain tone that we're going for … this wonderful balance of drama and comedy.

"I've just come in and tried to embrace a wonderful cast that you can basically write anything to," adds Harthan, "and to find, really, the alchemy between cases that have stakes and the pockets where we can infuse levity in a natural way. It's been challenging, but I'm having the best time."

So is Olson, who jokes that she's "probably missing a lot of crime in my particular neighborhood" during her "High Potential" work hours. "The kids [Amirah J, "Shameless" and Matthew Lamb, "Firebuds," who play Morgan's children] are a dream. Everyone understands that joke about working with kids and animals, but I think we got really fortunate. They are so talented and so up for anything and happy to be there.

"It's such a different thing when you see Morgan at home," Olson notes. "She gets to lay down her guard and just be herself; she's comfortable probably nowhere other than her home. She doesn't really trust much, so to see her at home with her children is very special to me, because it's just a completely different persona that she puts on for the rest of the world."

Fans of "It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia" (created by fellow star Rob McElhenney, who is Olson's husband) can rest assured of Olson's continuing presence in that show. It films near the "High Potential" set, and she has reserved several days to work exclusively on it when it resumes production for its 17th season. Asked if she'll ever separate fully from "Sunny," she leaves no doubt of her feeling: "No, no, no, no, no, I'll never do that."

Exploring a new world of mysteries and crime, "High Potential" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 17, on ABC.

Witches at war: Hahn leads Marvel spinoff 'Agatha All Along'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Kathryn Hahn stars in "Agatha All Along"

Of all the unstoppable forces in the world of entertainment, Marvel is without a doubt one of the most prolific. Owned by Disney since 2009, when a $4-billion deal took place, Marvel Entertainment churns out a plethora of content each year, ranging from comics and games to movies and TV series.

In 2023 alone, Marvel released three new movies, three TV series and one season of animated shorts. The first film of last year, "Ant-Man and the Wasp: Quantumania" (released Feb. 17 in North America), marked the beginning of a new era in the Marvel Cinematic Universe: Phase Five. And not unlike our own universe, the Marvel Cinematic Universe just keeps expanding.

The newest addition to Marvel's catalog is "Agatha All Along," the highly anticipated spinoff of the hugely popular Disney+ series "WandaVision," which was released in 2021 and follows Wanda Maximoff/Scarlet Witch (Elizabeth Olsen, "Love & Death") and Vision (Paul Bettany, "A Knight's Tale," 2001), as they discover their perfect sitcom-worthy life may not be as ideal as it seems at first glance.

Now headed down an even darker side to the story, "Agatha All Along" premieres its first two episodes Wednesday, Sept. 18 — just in time for spooky season. Don't miss all nine episodes of the bewitching series as they air over eight weeks (wrapping Nov. 6) on Disney+.

As indicated by the series' name, "Agatha All Along" focuses on master manipulator and "coven-less witch" Agatha Harkness (Kathryn Hahn, "Tiny Beautiful Things"). Initially introduced as Wanda and Vision's nosy neighbor in "WandaVision," Agatha is now spellbound and hopes to regain her power by way of a goth teenager with curious motives. Collecting a coven of like-minded witches along the way, Agatha and her crew embark down the Witches' Road, hoping to get their powers back one dark step at a time.

Unlike "WandaVision," whose style was largely influenced by classic sitcoms throughout the ages (the series used sets that harkened back to "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and "Bewitched," to name a few), "Agatha All Along" more closely follows a classic fantasy path, showing many dark forests in the trailer that are illuminated by a mysterious green and purple glow.

The moody trailer also reveals a bit about the sinister plot, while introducing several of the faces that will quickly become familiar to viewers. Chief among them: the coven members.

Leading the coven, of course, is Hahn as Agatha, with Broadway star and musician Patti LuPone ("Beau Is Afraid," 2023) close behind as Lilia Calderu, a 450-year-old Sicilian witch who may already be well known to fans of the Doctor Strange comic books. Lilia is a diviner and strong ally of the surgeon-turned-sorcerer, as well as the trusted keeper of the coveted spell book called the Book of Cagliostro.

While "Agatha" marks LuPone's debut in the MCU, it is hardly the actress's first time in witchy entertainment content. "American Horror Story" fans may recognize her as religious neighbor Joan Ramsey in the series' third season, "AHS: Coven," while podcast listeners may be more familiar with LuPone's voice as psychic witch Mia Risal in the 2019 thriller podcast "Passenger List."

"Agatha All Along" also stars America's deadpan darling Aubrey Plaza ("The White Lotus") as Rio Vidal, a warrior and green witch who is eager to join the pilgrimage down Witches' Road; Sasheer Zamata ("Home Economics") as Jennifer Kale, a sorceress and member of the Cult of Zhered-Na; and Ali Ahn ("The Diplomat") as Alice Wu-Gulliver, the magical daughter of a police detective and August Wu of the Coral Shore, guardian of Hong Kong.

The young goth responsible for the coven, on the other hand, simply goes by the name "Teen," although speculative Marvel fans have posited that he may be none other than Billy Kaplan, later known in Marvel comics as Wiccan. Regardless of the character's given name, Teen is played by young Manx actor Joe Locke, who won a Queerty Award for his performance in the Netflix series "Heartstopper" in 2023.

While speaking to Rolling Stone magazine about his role as the mysterious Teen, Locke notes that "Agatha All Along" may not be what most Marvel fans are used to seeing in the MCU.

"It's a dark comedy about witches," Locke states. "It's not what you would usually expect from a Marvel series. ... We gather a coven and a very unlikely group of women and me — which is my life in general — get on the Witches' Road. Then magic, fun and mystery prevails."

Concerning magic and fun behind the scenes, "WandaVision" writer/director Jac Schaeffer returns to the franchise with her own personal brand of charm in tow. Based on her IMDb page, it appears Shaeffer is also already working on "Vision," presumably a related series that is in pre-production and slated for a 2026 release as of writing.

Don't miss the Sept. 18 dual-episode premiere of "Agatha All Along." Subsequent episodes release weekly on Disney+ through Nov. 6.

Joan Vassos makes history as the first 'Golden Bachelorette'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Joan Vassos is the star of "The Golden Bachelorette"

Never too late: Last year, according to ABC, nearly 43 million viewers tuned in across platforms to watch Gerry Turner debut as the first-ever "Golden Bachelor." Now, it's time for love — and roses — to bloom again, as "The Golden Bachelorette" makes its debut Wednesday, Sept. 18, on ABC.

Keeping in line with its predecessors, this brand-new series follows one radiant single as she searches for love. The difference, however, is that this bachelorette has found love before, and now, in her golden years, is ready to take her shot once again.

First introduced during Gerry's season of "The Golden Bachelor," our inaugural "Golden Bachelorette" is none other than the radiant Joan Vassos, who loves Elton John, cooking, her dog and spending time with family, above all else.

"After her time was cut short on the inaugural season of 'The Golden Bachelor,' Joan Vassos, the 61-year-old grandmother and school administrator from Rockland, Maryland, will begin her own journey for new love this fall when she steps into the historic role as the first Golden Bachelorette. The fan favorite will bring her signature grace and charm as she embarks on a search for her next person, showcasing that everyone is worthy of more than just a second chance at love," says ABC.

Vassos tragically lost her husband after 32 years of marriage. Despite her loss, she has remained a devoted mother, grandmother and public servant, embodying strength and grace as she processed her grief. Last year, Vassos opened her heart again by taking part in Gerry's search for love, but her time on "The Golden Bachelor" was cut short when a medical concern with her daughter arose, and Vassos made the difficult decision to leave the competition.

Now, according to the network, she is ready to step into the spotlight once again. "Vassos envisions a future filled with shared moments by the beach and cherished time with family," ABC shared in a news release for the upcoming season. "[She] is a remarkable woman whose life has been defined by her resilience, zest for adventure and strong family values."

With a rancher, an educator, a fire department chief and a self-proclaimed "girl dad" vying for her heart, Joan Vassos begins her search for love Wednesday, Sept. 18, on ABC.

Cat cam: Following prides of lions, leopards and cheetahs day and night as they travel through the wilds of Botswana's Okavango Delta, "Big Cats 24/7" debuts Wednesday, Sept. 18, on PBS.

While documenting some of the world's most formidable predators, this brand-new series transports viewers to a vast, grassy plain, where a team of talented filmmakers utilizes the latest in technology to follow prides of lions, leaps of leopards and coalitions of cheetahs day and night, revealing their inner worlds like never before.

Over six months — and two extreme seasons of weather — the series follows the fascinating lives of these different animals, showcasing their nonstop fight to survive in an increasingly changing world.

"From unprecedented wildfire to floods and extreme drought" (per PBS), the cats face constant changes within their families and their homes, meaning they must adjust, adapt and grow on the go, in a world where every second counts.

"Big Cats 24/7" comes from producer Rowan Crawford ("Dogs in the Wild"), who has been making documentary features on the natural world for the past 15 years. "Inspired growing up surrounded by animals on a small island on the west coast of Scotland," PBS shares, "Rowan has produced a range of programs from behavior-led natural history to observational documentary and children's content, creating new formats and specializing in contemporary films that push the form." Previously, Crawford worked on productions including "Natural World" and the award-winning children's mockumentary series "The Zoo."

To round out his crew, Crawford's planned expedition was captured by an elite group of wildlife cinematographers, including team lead Brad Bestelink, Anna Dimitriadis and local cinematographer Gaokgonwe Seetsele "Sets" Ntnomiwa.

As the co-founder and head of the Natural History Film Unit Botswana (NHFU), Crawford has ample experience working on the plains. Meanwhile, with more than 30 projects under his belt — including "Surviving Paradise" and "Savage Kingdom" — Bestelink has a film camp set up in the region where he trains other camera operators to capture local wildlife. With his ample knowledge of the local wildlife, Bestelink "aims to teach people the importance of wild places and remaining connected with nature," according to the network.

Begin an expedition unlike any other, when "Big Cats 24/7" premieres Wednesday, Sept. 18, on PBS.

"What's Next: The Future with Bill Gates" (2024)

Look toward the future and all its infinite possibilities when the new docuseries "What's Next: The Future with Bill Gates" premieres Wednesday, Sept. 18, on Netflix. Hosted by Bill Gates, the legendary "tech visionary and global health and climate philanthropist" (per Netflix), the series takes viewers on an educational journey through some of the biggest issues facing our world today and how they might grow and change in the coming years. Featuring interviews with and insights from some of the world's "most renowned scientists, politicians, thinkers, journalists, medical professionals, artists and more," the series looks into "the promise and risks of artificial intelligence; the pervasive challenge of misinformation and the underlying complexity of defining truth in an era of social media; the scale of the climate crisis and the potential of cutting-edge technologies to solve it; the injustice of income inequality and the opportunities to tackle poverty; and how science and innovation is leading to cures for deadly diseases" (Netflix). The series comes from executive producer Morgan Neville ("20 Feet From Stardom," 2013).

"Twilight of the Gods" - Season 1

The creative mind of Zach Snyder ("Zach Snyder's Justice League," 2021) expands into new territory with the premiere of "Twilight of the Gods," an animated fantasy series for adults, which makes its debut Thursday, Sept. 19, on Netflix. A new take on Norse mythology, the series follows the story of Leif (Stuart Martin, "Miss Scarlet & the Duke"), a mortal king, who is saved by a warrior named Sigrid (Sylvia Hoeks, "Blade Runner 2049," 2017) on the battlefield. Falling in love after his rescue and marrying, Leif and Sigrid are excited to begin their new life together. But their lives are thrown into chaos when Thor (Pilou Asbaek, "Game of Thrones") goes on a wrathful rampage on the night of their wedding. Banding together with a crew of crusaders, Leif and Sigrid set out on a merciless hunt for revenge. Co-created and written by Snyder, Jay Oliva ("Young Justice") and Eric Carrasco ("Supergirl"), "Twilight of the Gods," from The Stone Quarry and Xilam animation studios, also features of voice acting talents of Rahul Kohli ("iZombie"), Paterson Joseph ("Wonka," 2023), Jamie Clayton ("The L Word: Generation Q"), Birgitte Hjort Sorensen ("Borgen"), Kristofer Hivju ("Game of Thrones"), Thea Sofie Loch Naess ("Evil"), John Noble ("Fringe"), Peter Stormare ("Fargo," 1996), Jamie Chung ("Big Hero 6," 2014), Lauren Cohan ("The Walking Dead"), Helena Mattsson ("Surrogates," 2009) and Corey Stoll ("Billions").

"His Three Daughters" (2024)

Touted as a "tense, touching and funny portrait of family dynamics" by Netflix, the drama film "His Three Daughters" makes its debut Friday, Sept. 20, on Netflix. With their father's health failing, estranged sisters Katie (Carrie Coon, "The Gilded Age"), Christina (Elizabeth Olsen, "WandaVision") and Rachel (Natasha Lyonne, "Poker Face") come together at their father's New York apartment to be with him during his final days. Growing apart to become vastly different people — with Katie now a controlling and high-strung mother, Christina a free-spirited mother and Rachel a sports-betting stoner — the three sisters have many old wounds to mend and differences to overcome. Over the course of three tense and volatile days, with death hanging ominously over the household, the sisters work to come together through love once more. Written and directed by Azazel Jacobs ("French Exit," 2020), the cast of "His Three Daughters" is rounded out by Jovan Adepo ("3 Body Problem"), Jasmine Bracey ("Chicago P.D."), Jose Febus ("East WillyB"), Rudy Galvan ("Ghostwriter," 2021), Randy Ramos Jr. ("Adopting Audrey," 2021) and Jay O. Sanders ("The Day After Tomorrow," 2004).

"A Very Royal Scandal"

In 2019, journalist Emily Maitlis (portrayed by Ruth Wilson, "His Dark Materials") sat down for an interview with Prince Andrew (Michael Sheen, "Prodigal Son") over "the scandalous accusations he faced regarding his involvement with Jeffrey Epstein [John Hopkins, "Poldark] and Virginia Giuffre" (per Prime Video), which shocked the world. Premiering on Prime Video Thursday, Sept. 19, the drama miniseries, "A Very Royal Scandal," is a dramatized retelling of the events that took place in the days leading up to the interview, the interview itself and the life-changing aftermath. Based on Maitlis' book "Airhead: The Imperfect Art of Making News," the series is written for the screen by Jeremy Brock ("Casualty") and directed by Julian Jarrold ("The Crown"). The series also stars Joanna Scanlan ("Notes on a Scandal," 2006) as Amanda Thirsk, Alex Jennings ("The Crown") as Sir Edward Young and Éanna Hardwicke ("The Sixth Commandment") as Stewart Maclean. The series is executive produced by Maitlis, Graham Broadbent ("Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri," 2017), Jeremy Brock ("Casualty"), Peter Czernin ("All of Us Strangers," 2023), Julian Jarrold ("Kinky Boots," 2005), Diarmuid McKeown ("The Banshees of Inisherin," 2022) and Karen Thrussell (Poldark).

"Snack Shack" (2024)

Settle into the summer of '91 with the coming-of-age comedy "Snack Shack," available to stream now on Prime Video. Set in Nebraska City, Nebraska, the story follows best friends A.J. (Conor Sherry, "Are You Afraid of the Dark?") and Moose (Gabriel LaBelle, "The Fabelmans," 2022) as the jump on the chance to run their local swimming pool's snack shack. With dreams to strike it rich during their newest venture, the friends find themselves on a summer adventure packed with fun, personal discoveries, trouble-making and romance. Directed and written by Adam Carter Rehmeier ("Dinner in America," 2020), "Snack Shack" also stars Mika Abdalla ("The Flash"), Nick Robinson ("Love, Victor"), David Costabile ("Billions"), Gillian Vigman ("Step Brothers," 2008), April Clark ("Hangdog," 2023), Michael Bonini ("The Night Agent"), Christian James ("Outer Range"), J. D. Evermore ("Rectify"), Steve Berg ("Skinwalker Ranch," 2013), Kate Robertson Pryor ("Inner Worlds") and new talent June Gentry. From producers Ben Cornwell ("Alone," 2020), Jordan Foley ("American Woman," 2018), Ben LeClair ("American Fiction," 2023), Nick Smith ("Who Are You People," 2023) and co-producer Jared Briley ("Z Nation"), "Snack Shack" is executive produced by Rehmeier, Robinson, Ram Bergman ("Knives Out," 2019), Charles Cohen ("A Christmas Proposal," 2021) and Yeardley Smith ("The Simpsons").

"Jeepers Creepers" (2001)

With the season of spook well on its way, fans of the franchise-launching film "Jeepers Creepers" can catch it now on Disney+. Making their way back home for spring break, siblings Darry (Justin Long, "Galaxy Quest," 1999) and Trish Jenner (Gina Philips, "Love and Debate," 2006) come across a questionable stranger dumping large, questionable-looking bundles down a tunnel near an abandoned country church. Returning to the tunnel to figure out what's down there, Darry and Trish discover a nightmare-fueling trove of modified bodies. Trying to escape, but with a terrifying assailant now on their tail, the siblings wind up in the midst of a story more horrifying than they could have ever imagined. From writer and director Victor Salva ("Powder," 1995), the cast of "Jeepers Creepers" is rounded out by Jonathan Breck ("Everybody Wants Some!!" 2016), Patricia Belcher ("Beverly Hills Cop: Axel F," 2024), Eileen Brennan ("Clue," 1985), Brandon Smith ("Powder," 1995), Jon Bershara ("Columbo: Undercover," 1994), Avis-Marie Barnes ("Greenleaf"), Tom Tarantini ("The Nature of the Beast," 1995), Peggy Sheffield ("Out of Time," 2003) and Jeffrey William Evans ("Hitters Anonymous," 2005).

Food Network celebrates the season with 'Halloween Baking Championship'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Equal parts sweet and scary, the fan-favorite series "Halloween Baking Championship" returns Monday, Sept. 16, on Food Network.

Packed with ghouls, goblins and goodies, this autumnal series has now reached its landmark 10th season, showcasing more creativity, talent and Halloween cheer than ever before. To mark the milestone, 10 bakers will take part in this year's competition, coming from across the country to create awe-inspiring desserts inspired by the creepy and the kooky, mysterious and spooky.

This year, host John Henson ("Wipeout") welcomes the willing "test subjects" to a haunted science lab-themed kitchen — known as Henson Laboratories — during an epic premiere, in which the pastry makers battle it out over two rounds of baking in order to earn themselves a chance at immunity.

According to the network, the season begins as "spirits who haunt the lab have been demolishing all the beakers and petri dishes, so host John Henson leans into this devastation and tasks the bakers with creating broken glass desserts that feature sugar glass.

"Then," Food Network's description continues, "[there's a] horrible spill in the Chem Lab, so John has a little fun with it and asks the bakers to create sinister bubbling desserts inspired by the toxic mess."

Carla Hall returns as a judge for "Halloween Baking Championship"

Joining Henson will be judges Stephanie Boswell ("Bake or Break"), Carla Hall ("The Chew") and Zac Young ("Unique Sweets"), who start their 10th season with a bang as they test their poison tolerance, using their expertise to decide which bakers will continue forward and who gets sent to the cryo-freeze.

The following week, Henson calls on a little paranormal help from the Ghost With the Most, Beetlejuice, to help broker a deal with the spirits haunting the laboratory. To butter up Beetle, Henson relies on the bakers to make black-and-white-themed goodies, using only black and white ingredients. Before their debts are paid, they must then craft "Shrinker"-inspired desserts, featuring one tiny dessert stacked on top of a massive bottom base.

With plenty of treats — and tricks — to come, this competition kicks off a slate of seasonal, Halloween-themed programming, with "Halloween Wars," "Outrageous Pumpkins" and "Kids Baking Championship: Scary Good" premiering on the network in the following weeks.

Kick off the holiday season with the premiere of "Halloween Baking Championship," airing Monday, Sept. 16, on Food Network.

Jessica Chastain in "Mothers' Instinct"

Mothers' Instinct
In 1960s American suburbia, Alice (Chastain) lives with her husband, Simon (Lie), and young son Theo (O'Connell), next to Celine (Hathaway) and her family, including husband Damian (Charles) and son Max (Bielitz). When Max dies in an unfortunate accident that Alice had tried to prevent, Celine is initially distant with her, but grows closer to Theo. After a series of so-called mishaps, Alice develops a feeling she can't shake that Celine might still harbor a grudge — one that she is not above subjecting Alice and her entire family to.
Director: Benoit Delhomme. Stars: Jessica Chastain, Anne Hathaway, Anders Danielsen Lie, Josh Charles, Eamon O'Connell, Caroline Lagerfelt, Baylen D. Bielitz. 2024. 94 min. Thriller.

Inside Out 2
Two years after her family moved to San Francisco, Riley Andersen (Tallman) is now a teenager entering high school. Her emotions — Joy (Poehler), Sadness (Smith), Fear (Hale), Disgust (Lapira) and Anger (Black) — now manage Riley's newly developed "Sense of Self," which harbors memories and feelings that influence Riley's personal beliefs. Faced with the mounting pressure of the social landscape of high school, four new emotions emerge from Riley's experiences: Anxiety (Hawke), Envy (Edebiri), Embarrassment (Hauser) and Ennui (Exarchopoulos). When the new emotions decide to take over Riley's Sense of Self in order to fit in, they lock the original emotions in Riley's memory vault, creating a new identity dominated by anxiety and uncertainty.
Director: Kelsey Mann. Stars: Amy Poehler, Maya Hawke, Kensington Tallman, Liza Lapira, Tony Hale, Lewis Black, Phyllis Smith, Ayo Edebiri, Lilimar, Grace Lu, Sumayyah Nuriddin-Green, Adele Exarchopoulos, Paul Walter Hauser, Diane Lane, Kyle MacLachlan. 2024. 96 min. Family.

Julia Alvarez is featured in "American Masters"

Dancing With the Stars

22 8:00 PM

The secret to winning the coveted Mirrorball Trophy is calf strength. But the biggest thing to worry about in this season premiere is critiquing the chemistry between the celebs and their professional dance partners. Keep your eyes peeled for pizzazz.

Beat Shazam

44 8:00 PM

Fans of "Hairspray" might say "you can't stop the beat," but every song must end. The Season 7 finale of this musical game show finds teams racing against the clock and each other to identify some of the greatest hit songs of all time for a huge prize.

American Masters

33 57 9:00 PM

This special looks at the incredible work of Dominican-American author Julia Alvarez, which spans everything from poetry to nonfiction, literary novels to young adult and children's books, and how they inspired a generation of Latino authors.

American Sports Story: Aaron Hernandez

FX 10:00 PM

Inspired by life of former New England Patriot Aaron Hernandez, this series looks at the rise and fall of the tight end (played by Josh Rivera), including his family life, street habits, career, arrest, suicide and his impact on football and pop culture.

Wednesday Best Bets

Jeff Probst hosts "Survivor"

Survivor

③ 8:00 PM

Host Jeff Probst is back on the Mamanuca Islands in Fiji with a diverse set of castaways for this Season 47 premiere. Podcasters Jon Lovett (not to be confused with Jon Lovitz of "SNL" fame) and Aysha Welch are two who'll be looking to form alliances.

The Golden Bachelorette

㉒ 8:00 PM

In one of the most anticipated new series of the fall season, Joan Vassos becomes the very first Golden Bachelorette. Though she failed to end up with the Golden Bachelor, this 61-year-old private school administrator is still looking for love.

Big Cats 24/7

㉝ ㊼ 8:00 PM

This new six-part series takes viewers to Botswana's Okavango Delta to follow lions, leopards and cheetahs both day and night, exposing fascinating lives over the course of six months. With unseen behavior and drone tracking, it's a purr-fect revelation.

Bargain Block

HGTV 9:00 PM

Keith's stellar ambition and design instincts are on full display in this all-new episode, as he, Evan and the team revitalize a Detroit home — complete with vibrant colors and animal prints — before transporting it to the heart of the Amazon.

"Child Star" (2024)

With more and more dark truths about the realities of working as young talent in Hollywood coming to light, another documentary aims to tell their stories. Premiering Tuesday, Sept. 17, on Hulu, "Child Star" catches up with some the most well-known child stars from the '90s and aughts, exploring the highs and lows that they experienced growing up with a spotlight on their every move. Co-directed by actor and singer Demi Lovato, who came into fame with roles in Disney productions like "Camp Rock" (2008) and "Sonny with a Chance" before launching a wildly successful music career, the film follows Lovato as she sits down with familiar faces including Drew Barrymore ("Never Been Kissed," 1999), Kenan Thompson ("Good Burger," 1997), Christina Ricci ("Casper," 1995), Raven-Symoné ("That's So Raven"), JoJo Siwa ("Dance Moms") and Alyson Stoner ("Camp Rock," 2008), among others, as it " deconstructs the stages of earlier stardom and looks at the entertainment system over the last century" thorugh a mix of celebrity interviews, verite scenes and archival footage (per Hulu). Reflecting on their own experiences and sharing some exclusive stories, "they take a look at the next generation of child actors and how to move forward in an ever-changing landscape" (Hulu). Co-directed by Lovato and Nicola Marsh ("the 12th Victim"), "Child Star" is executive produced by Lovato, Scooter Braun ("Dave"), Scott Manson ("The BeatBuds, Let's Jam!"), Jennifer McDaniels ("Justin Bieber: Our World," 2021), Scott Ratner ("Mountain Queen: The Summits of Lhakpa Sherpa," 2023) and James Shin ("Dave").

"American Sports Story: Aaron Hernandez"

Explore the life and career of one of professional football's most notorious players when "American Sports Story: Aaron Hernandez" premieres on Hulu Tuesday, Sept. 17. A professional football player from 2010 to 2012, having played for the NFL's New England Patriots, Aaron Hernandez (portrayed by Josh Andrés Rivera, "Cat Person," 2023) led a life rife with extreme highs and lows, as he fell into multiple confrontations with the law during his time in the NFL. Tracking the rise and fall of Hernandez's career, the series explores "the disparate strands of his identity, his family, his career, his suicide and their legacy in sports and American culture" (per FX). The series also stars Jaylen Barron ("Blindspotting") as Shayanna Jenkins, Lindsay Mendez ("All Rise") as Tanya Singleton, Ean Castellanos ("Tommy") ad D.J. Hernandez, Tammy Blanchard ("Bibi," 2023) as Terri Hernandez, Tony Yazbeck ("Billions) as Urban Meyer, Patrick Schwarzenegger ("Gen V") as Tim Tebow, Thomas Sadoski ("The Newsroom") as Brian Murphy, Norbert Leo Butz ("Dan in Real Life," 2007) as Bill Belichick, Jerry Levine ("Hawaii Five-O") as Robert Kraft and Ross Jirgl ("Butch vs. Sundance," 2023) as Tom Brady. Developed for television by Stuart Zicherman ("The Americans"), the series is directed by Paris Barclay ("Billy Preston: That's the Way God Planned It," 2024), Steven Canals ("Pose"), Carl Franklin ("The Leftovers"), Maggie Kiley ("Dr. Death"), Jennifer Lynch ("American Horror Story") and Michael Uppendahl ("Fargo").

"The Unbearable Weight of Massive Talent" (2022)

Acclaimed actor Nicolas Cage ("Face/Off," 1997) plays a fictionalized version of himself, known simply as Nick Cage, in the action-packed comedy "The Unbearable Weight of Massive Talent," which begins streaming Thursday, Sept. 19, on Hulu. After falling on tough times, Nick agrees to accept a generous offer of $1 million to be the guest of honor at billionaire playboy Javi Gutiérrez's (Pedro Pascal, "The Mandalorian") birthday party. Upon meeting with Javi, he and Nick become quick friends over their shared love of movies. However, Nick is soon approached by CIA agents Vivian (Tiffany Haddish, "Girls Trip," 2017) and Martin Etten (Ike Barinholtz, "The Mindy Project") with rumors of Javi's illegal activities. With this revelation, Nick is left to choose between helping the law or staying true to his new friend. Directed by Tom Gormican ("That Awkward Moment," 2014) and written by Gormican and Kevin Etten ("Beverly Hills Cop: Axel F," 2024), "The Unbearable Weight of Massive Talent" also stars Sharon Horgan ("Catastrophe"), Lily Mo Sheen ("Everybody's Fine," 2009), Alessandra Mastronardi ("To Rome with Love," 2012), Paco León ("Kiki, Love to Love," 2016), Jacob Scipio ("Bad Boys for Life," 2020), Neil Patrick Harris ("How I Met Your Mother"), Katrin Vankova ("Alex Rider"), David Gordon Green ("Halloween Kills," 2021), Demi Moore ("G.I. Jane," 1997), Anna MacDonald ("Minx") and Joanna Bobin ("Bridgerton").

"The Favourite" (2018)

Catch the critically acclaimed and award-winning dark comedy "The Favourite" when it makes its way to Hulu Sunday, Sept. 15. Despite being at war with France, the frail Queen Anne (Olivia Colman, "The Lost Daughter," 2021) has little to no interest in governing Great Britian, leaving those responsibilities to her advisor and secret lover, Sarah Churchill (Rachel Weisz, "The Constant Gardener," 2005). However, when Sarah's poor cousin, Abigail Hill (Emma Stone, "La La Land," 2016), begins working as a new servant, the royal court's status quo is sent into disarray. As Abigail grows closer to Queen Anne, she is threatened by Sarah's jealousy and tempted by the political machinations of Robert Harley (Nicholas Hoult, "Mad Max: Fury Road," 2015), the Leader of the Opposition. Rounding out the main cast are Joe Alwyn ("Harriet," 2019) as Samuel Masham, James Smith ("The Thick of It") as Sidney Godolphin, Mark Gatiss ("Sherlock") as John Churchill, Jenny Rainsford ("About Time," 2013) as Mae, Jennifer White as Mrs. Meg and Lilly-Rose Stevens as Sally. Furthermore, "The Favourite" is directed by Yorgos Lanthimos ("Poor Things," 2023) and written by Deborah Davis ("Marie Antoinette") and Tony McNamara ("The Great").

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I just saw the movie "Street Kings" and noticed that James Ellroy was listed as one of the writers. Does that mean there's a book version somewhere?

A: It's a fair assumption that a movie with James Ellroy's ("L.A. Confidential," 1997) name on it would be an adaptation of one of his many critically acclaimed crime novels. But in this case, it's wrong — Ellroy wrote "Street Kings" directly for the screen.

That said, in plotting and imagery, it has "vintage Ellroy tang," according to the New York Times.

Actually, it's not all that strange for Ellroy to skip the print stage and go straight to film. He's done that two other times — in the 2002 thriller "Dark Blue" with Kurt Russell ("Escape From New York," 1981), and more recently 2011's "Rampart" with Woody Harrelson ("Natural Born Killers," 1994).

But, he is by far better known for his literary output. He's written piles of short stories, essays and, of course, novels — some of which are considered to be among the greatest mysteries of at least modern times, if not all time.

In fact, his reputation as a book-to-screen writer might be a bit overstated.

Certainly, his best-known book, "L.A. Confidential," published in 1990, became one of the greatest mystery adaptations ever (I promise it's not just me saying that — the 1997 film grossed more than $125 million at the box office and won two Oscars, among a pile of other accolades). And his other most famous book, "The Black Dahlia" (1987), became one of the most talked-about films of 2006, though it actually flopped commercially. In terms of high-profile screen adaptations, that's about it.

But, fans will tell you that this makes a lot of sense, because he's as beloved for his writing style as he is for his plotting. And writing style, of course, doesn't necessarily translate to the screen.

Q: Why haven't I seen Audrey Tautou in a while?

A: French star Audrey Tautou ("Amelie," 2001) created expectations of a big, English-language breakthrough in the mid-2000s, first with her appearance in the Oscar-nominated British drama "Dirty Pretty Things" (2002) and then her blockbuster breakthrough in 2006's "The Da Vinci Code."

But, instead of sticking around in Hollywood (or London, for that matter), she went home and just resumed her career as one of France's most famous and bankable stars — and she's been quite busy there ever since.

She just recently did a voice in the kid-focused "Nina and the Hedgehog's Secret" (2023), and before that starred in the hit comedy "The Trouble With You." (These are just the English titles, obviously — both movies were in French.)

She did appear in a few French films with crossover appeal, though. She was in the 2013 romantic fantasy "Mood Indigo," which was directed by indie darling Michel Gondry ("Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind," 2004) and made a bit of a splash in art houses over here.

She also performed the title role in 2009's "Coco Before Chanel," a biography of fashion legend Coco Chanel. This one, too, got some distribution over here and a lot of attention.

There was one exception to all this, though — one return to this continent for an unabashedly American movie. She had a central role in the incredibly odd "The Jesus Rolls" (2019).

It was a sort of sequel to the 1998 indie classic "The Big Lebowski." It followed one of that film's side characters, Jesus Quintana, played by John Turturro ("O Brother Where Art Thou," 2000), who also wrote and directed the film. But it was, at the same time, a remake of an even weirder French film from the 1974 called "Going Places."

That's perhaps why Tautou chose to participate, playing a woman who joins Quintana on a raunchy, crime-ridden road trip.
