Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Longtime watchers of this show will know that I'm not usually critical of President Trump, and I take no pleasure from pointing out his rare mistakes or minor misstatements. But in the interest of balance, I will remind you the man got elected on the promise of bringing costs down. Well, the Iran war has pushed inflation to the highest rate in nearly three years. Welcome to Trump's golden age. By which, I mean it's time to start melting down grandma's gold.

Friday [May 8] was a big day because the government finally released the secret files we've all been waiting for. One hundred and 60 never-before-seen documents relating to unidentified anomalous phenomenon, which is also my pre-show warm-up. Unidentified anomalous phenomenon, unidentified anomalous phenomenon. Extraterrestrial rectal probe. Extraterrestrial rectal probe.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Tomorrow [May 13], President Trump will arrive in China for a high-stakes summit meeting with President Xi Jinping. Trump's really excited to visit China. He said he can't wait to see where all of his hats are born.

I read that Spirit Airlines customers can now use their leftover loyalty points to buy pizza from Papa John's. God, that sentence kept getting sadder and sadder. And when Papa John's goes bankrupt next week, those points will transfer right over to Bed Bath & Beyond.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

We are transmitting this signal from our home planet in a galaxy not so far away, Hollywood, where on what is presumably the most profitable day of the year for the hardworking Chewbaccas and various "Star Wars" characters, our Boba Fett out there taking photographs and smashing things on May the Fourth. May the Fourth be with you all. By the way, when I say May the Fourth be with you, you're supposed to say, "and also with you." Right, I'm Catholic. That's how it goes.

[President] Trump took another trip to Florida this weekend [May 2-3]. He showed up at a PGA Tour event held at his golf resort in Miami. This is what he loves to do: wave at other white people at country clubs he owns. That's what he was born for. The president was joined by real estate magnate/war negotiator Steve Witkoff and his son Eric Trump, who wasn't invited but tunneled his way in like the gopher from "Caddyshack."

Late Night With Seth Meyers

In a new interview, President Trump said that he personally wants to go to Fort Knox and look at the country's gold reserve. I assume to get some decorating ideas.

A 28-year-old woman was arrested recently after she allegedly pretended to be a 16-year-old student and enrolled at a high school in the Bronx. Though I'm pretty sure that's just the plot of the movie "Grease."

Solving crimes with 'Patience': Detective series launches sophomore season

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

From quaint English towns to sprawling American cities, a police detective's job is rarely simple. And while avid TV viewers will already be familiar with the procedural process — arrive on scene, gather evidence, narrow the suspect pool, conduct interviews and interrogations and, finally, catch the criminal — every so often an unusual case presents itself with very little evidence and no suspects to question. In those instances, arguably even more than in others, it's important to have patience.

"Patience," the Channel 4 series named for its neurodivergent lead character Patience Evans (Ella Maisy Purvis, "A Kind of Spark"), premieres its second season in North America Sunday, June 14, on PBS. Having premiered a week earlier on the PBS Passport and PBS Masterpiece streaming services, the eight-episode second installment of the series follows Patience as she "searches for her mother" and "faces challenges in love and loss" while also adjusting to new member on the team.

Jessica Hynes ("Miss Austen") joins the cast this season as DI Frankie Monroe, a replacement for Laura Fraser's ("Breaking Bad") DI Bea Metcalf, the hardworking detective who initially brought Patience out of the Criminal Records Office and into the field, where she could exercise her keen mind and help the squad solve a series of mysterious deaths in England's Yorkshire County. According to PBS's Season 2 press release, Patience and Monroe's "differences spark tension, but they must learn to work as a team" if they are going to work together at all.

Season 1 cases included a locked-door mystery involving a crime writer, a woman found dead in the dinosaur exhibit at a popular York museum, a body gone missing from the morgue and a possible case of eco terrorism. And while Season 2 premieres with a supernatural bent that is uncharacteristic of "Patience," Maria Bruno Ruiz, PBS's vice president of program content strategy and scheduling, assures audiences that the series will continue to lean into all the elements viewers loved in the first season, while also evolving the series as a whole.

Saturday, June 13, 2026

Jessica Hynes in "Patience"

"Audiences connected with 'Patience' in its first season, and we're excited to bring the mystery back for another chapter," said Bruno Ruiz in a press statement. "With new cases, new characters and deeper emotional stakes, Season 2 builds on what viewers loved while expanding the world of the show."

Returning to "Patience" alongside Purvis are Nathan Welsh ("The Ledge," 2022) as DS Jake Hunter, a well-meaning police officer and workplace big brother figure to Patience; Mark Benton ("Anna and the Apocalypse," 2017) as DCI Calvin Baxter, the team's stable, often fatherly leader; Adrian Rawlins ("Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2," 2011) as Douglas Gilmour, Patience's godfather and the man who legally raised her following the death of her biological father; Tom Lewis ("Gentleman Jack") as Elliot Scott, a young co-worker of Patience's for whom she has a growing fondness; Ali Ariaie ("The Great") as DC Will Akbari, a keen-eyed young detective at the precinct; and Liza Sadovy ("The Rumour") as Dr. Loretta Parsons, the lead forensics expert in York.

As for how the relationships are changing headed into Season 2, Monroe's arrival has definitely disturbed the smooth waters created and maintained by Metcalf's calm and encouraging leadership style. But as Monroe settles into the job and the detectives adapt to what is newly expected of them, Patience and Elliot grow ever closer.

"They start [Season 2] in that messy middle space we all know and love; where you're not 'just friends' anymore but neither of you is brave enough to name it," said Lewis, as reported by RadioTimes in January. "It's that classic dance — too much care to step back, too much fear to step forward. ... It's awkward in the gentlest, most British way, and beautifully human."

"Patience" is an English adaptation of the French-Belgian co-production "Astrid et Raphaëlle," also known as "Astrid" and "Astrid: Murder in Paris," which debuted on the France 2 network in April 2019. Still an ongoing series as of writing, "Astrid et Raphaëlle" follows 30-year-old autistic woman Astrid Nielsen (Sara Mortensen, "Blast," 2021), who works as an archivist for Paris's judicial police. Astrid's life changes forever, though, when she meets Comandante Raphaëlle Coste (Lola Dewaere, "Mademoiselle Holmes"), an investigator on the police force, who takes Astrid under her wing as they exchange intricate and overlooked case insights for social and behavioral assistance.

Season 7 of "Astrid et Raphaëlle" has already begun filming in France, while "Patience" has been renewed for a third season on BBC's Channel 4, the latter indicating that at least one more season is likely on PBS in North America.

For now, don't miss the second season of "Patience" when it premieres Sunday, June 14, on PBS. The series is also available now to stream via PBS Passport and PBS Masterpiece.

Breakout television: Coben, Netflix release lucky No. 13

Britt Lower in "I Will Find You"

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

When an existing novel suddenly adopts new cover art flaunting glossy celebrity faces, there's an excellent chance that a well-produced film or series adaptation will soon follow. One of the most frequent practitioners of this marketing ritual is none other than the big red N itself: Netflix.

Arguably modern streaming's flagship service, Netflix reportedly grossed $45.18 billion in 2025 (per StockAnalysis.com) and accrued more than 109 billion views across all film and television content worldwide (per Netflix's 2025 Engagement Reports). Of these views, Collider reported in April, book adaptations accounted for "a jaw-dropping nine billion views globally" and "20% of all hours watched" on the platform. Needless to say, Netflix has certainly figured out that a good book makes for engaging screen fare — especially if the book or author comes with its own following.

American mystery novelist Harlan Coben is one such author, and Netflix welcomes yet another of his eerie crime gems to the screen this summer. "I Will Find You," an adaptation of his 2023 novel of the same name, premieres Thursday, June 18, on the streamer.

Coben published his first novel, "Play Dead," in 1990 and began garnering more attention with the 1995 release of his first installment in the 12-book (to date) Myron Bolitar sports-world mystery series. In 2006, Coben bore witness to the first adaptation of his work (the French film "Ne le dis a personne" based on his 2001 novel "Tell No One"), and by 2018, the author hit it big when Netflix came knocking with a "multimillion-dollar, five-year deal under the terms of which 14 of Coben's books [would] be adapted into series or films for the online platform, with him overseeing the projects in various capacities" (per Deadline).

The deal has since been extended and expanded; first in 2022 with an added 12 titles over four years, and most recently this year when Netflix announced that 11-time Emmy winner David E. Kelley ("Big Little Lies") would share executive producer and showrunner duties with Kyle Long ("Suits") on the highly anticipated adaptation of Coben's Myron Bolitar series.

But Coben fans are eating well as they await the long-discussed show, and in a bookshop near you, a box of his books has just arrived, all containing copies of "I Will Find You" and sporting pristine, actor-clad jackets.

"I Will Find You," Coben's 13th series under the Netflix banner, stars Sam Worthington ("Avatar," 2009) as a family man who is convicted of murder following the disappearance of his son, Matthew (Ashton Cressman, "When Hope Calls").

"The eight-episode series, adapted by [Quantum Leap's] Robert Hull from Coben's 2023 novel of the same name, follows Worthington as David Burroughs, who's wrongfully serving a life sentence for murdering his son," reads the official Netflix description. "But when he receives word that his son may actually be alive, David embarks on a truth-finding mission that leads him out of prison and into a world of deceit and despair."

The series co-stars "Severance" and "Darkest Miriam" (2024) star Britt Lower as David's former sister-in-law, Rachel, a "decorated reporter whose life fell apart after she was fired," as described by Netflix. "When she discovers evidence suggesting an incredible secret, Rachel views it as a once-in-a-lifetime story that could be her ticket back to journalism."

Desperate to save their beloved family member and free David from an unjust life sentence in prison, the one-time siblings-in-law team up. Along their journey, however, the pair find that just about everyone is keeping a secret — and some are more dangerous than they had bargained for.

The all-star cast also includes "Heroes," "Gilmore Girls" and "This Is Us" heartthrob Milo Ventimiglia as Rachel's wealthy ex-boyfriend, Hayden; "The Crown's" Erin Richards as Cheryl Dreason, David's ex-wife and mother to Matthew, who is hiding a few secrets of her own; and "Westworld's" Jonathan Tucker as Sgt. Adam McKenzie, David's police-officer best friend, who is "willing to risk everything to help him escape prison."

Logan Browning ("Dear White People") and Chi McBride ("Hawaii Five-0") co-star as FBI partners Sarah Greer and Max Williams, both of whom have put their illustrious careers on the line to make sure David never sees the life outside prison walls again. Madeleine Stowe ("12 Monkeys," 1995) and Clancy Brown ("The Penguin") also appear in supporting roles throughout the riveting miniseries.

"We wanted to tell 'I Will Find You' so it would grip you — and not just grip you and move you, but really get emotional at the end," Coben says of his collaboration with Hull and Netflix. "This story starts in a very dark place, and so I wanted to figure out a way to tell a story that also had light, also had hope, and also had optimism."

Stay optimistic and join the search for Matthew when "I Will Find You" premieres Thursday, June 18, on Netflix.

The Bronte sisters, Spongebob and more nominated for 2026 Las Culturistas Culture Awards

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Pop culture's coolest: An event that "honors culture's biggest and most obscure comments with humor, performances and unapologetic specificity" (per NBC), the 5th Annual Las Culturistas Culture Awards will be simulcast Wednesday, June 17, on Bravo and Peacock.

Hosted by Matt Rogers ("Fire Island," 2022) and Bowen Yang ("Saturday Night Live"), this one-of-a-kind variety special features "more than 100 unique award categories, live musical performances and unexpected celebrity encounters," all while (lovingly) poking fun at traditional awards shows.

This year's humor-filled award categories include Most Iconic Building or Structure (with nominees such as The Flatiron Eatery, The Millennial Apartment in "The Drama," Spongebob's Pineapple home, and more); Best Picture — Literal Picture (Olivia Rodrigo, "you seem pretty sad for a girl so in love" album cover, official "Ella McCay" movie poster, Vintage Splash Mountain on-ride photo with cousin we don't speak to anymore); "Hunger Games" Award for Best Huge Franchise (M&Ms, the Bronte sisters, "Goosebumps"); and more, with all nominations listed on Instagram.

Ahead of last year's event — the first to be televised by Bravo — former Billboard Pride editor Stephen Daw wrote: "What started as a bit on the pair's hit podcast 'Las Culturistas,' in which Yang and Rogers would spontaneously make up ridiculous awards categories for their audience's entertainment, was transformed into a high production-value send-up of the glitz, glamor and self-seriousness of shows like the Grammys, Oscars and Emmys.

"Yang and Rogers wasted no time in skewering the award show format, proving definitively that 'every podcast should also be TV,' and that 'everything on TV should be a gay fever dream,' as they pointed out in their opening monologue," Daw concluded.

When it was announced that the awards would be returning in 2026, Matt and Bowen shared their thoughts in a joint statement: "We are beside ourselves with joy, excitement and more that The Culture Awards will be back on Bravo and Peacock in 2026! This is officially a frontrunner in the category of Best Decision Ever Made, though it faces stiff competition from 'Meryl Streep decides to try acting' and 'dumping that loser!!!' We'll see you soon! No Addison Rae song is safe."

See who wins the Hilary Duff Award for Millennial Excellence — will it be gentle parenting but it backfires or the indoor fern? — when the 5th Annual Las Culturistas Culture Awards broadcast on Bravo and Peacock Wednesday, June 17.

A rancher's lament: The hard-working boys of Missouri's McBee Farm & Cattle return in Season 3 of "The McBee Dynasty: Real American Cowboys," making its debut Monday, June 15, on Bravo, before streaming the next day on Peacock.

During its debut season, "The McBee Dynasty" introduced its viewers to Steven McBee and his three sons: Steven Jr., Cole and Jesse, who showcased their daily lives on the ranch and offered a realistic counterpart to fictionalized series such as "Yellowstone." In the series' second season, however, eldest brother Steven Jr. was left to take on far more responsibility than he ever expected when the FBI began investigating his father, threatening to shutter their family business. All of a sudden, Steven Jr., Cole and Jesse were facing a reality even stranger than fiction.

Now, "[the] McBee family returns and their future has never been in greater danger," according to Season 3's official announcement. "With the family patriarch facing prison time following a massive FBI investigation and banks calling in loans as a result, the McBee family must scramble to protect their legacy amid new romances, unexpected pregnancies, emotional goodbyes and devastating losses across the family businesses.

"Is this the start of a new chapter," Bowen's description ponders, "... or the end of a dynasty?"

For Steven Jr., it seems even more drama is on the horizon, as he contemplates the future of his relationship with new girlfriend Allie Eklund — even discussing marriage with his brothers during a trailer for Season 3.

"I think I'm probably gonna marry her," he says, later debating whether he should leave the ranch altogether so he could be closer to Allie in Texas.

Whether Steven Jr. remains in the game, Steven Sr. has shown he's not ready to go down without a fight.

"I am focused solely on saving the farm," Steven Sr. promised, closing out a preview for Season 3. "There is no backup plan, no contingency. We're gonna make it through this, and I'll be damned if that doesn't happen."

Produced by Jeff Jenkins Productions in association with 3BMG — with Jeff Jenkins ("The Simple Life"), Russell Jay-Staglik ("The Secret Lives of Mormon Wives"), Luke Neslage ("Basketball Wives"), Brandon Beck ("Total Divas") and Ross Weintraub

("Bar Rescue") acting as executive producers — "The McBee Dynasty: Real American Cowboys" premieres its third season Monday, June 15, on Bravo, before streaming the next day on Peacock.

Nick Robinson and Zoey Deutch in "Voicemails for Isabelle"

By Staff Writers
TV Media

"Voicemails for Isabelle"
(2026)

The wrong number leads to the right person when "Voicemails for Isabelle" premieres Friday, June 19, on Netflix. The heartfelt story follows Jill (Zoey Deutch, "Not Okay," 2022), who's struggling to cope with the death of her little sister, Isabelle (Ciara Bravo, "You're Dating a Narcissist!," 2025). Night after night, Jill continues to leave her sister voicemails about her chaotic life in San Francisco, from dating nightmares and her dreams of becoming a pastry chef to rants about her unhinged boss (Nick Offerman, "Margo's Got Money Troubles"). But when Isabelle's phone number gets reassigned, Wes (Nick Robinson, "Jurassic World," 2015), a real estate agent, hears all her late-night confessions. At first, he just listens. But when one voicemail points to a location, Wes shows up hoping to "bump into" Jill. And as they fall in love, he realizes that sooner or later he'll have to tell her how their love story really began. From a script penned by director Leah McKendrick ("Pamela & Ivy," 2020), the film also stars Lukas Gage ("You"), Harry Shum Jr. ("Grey's Anatomy") and Gil Bellows ("Patriot").

"Oasis" - Season 1

From the creators of "Cable Girls" and "The Asunta Case," the Spanish thriller series "Oasis" checks in this Friday, June 19, on Netflix. Welcome to Oasis, a luxurious resort on the coast of Spain, where a group of friends arrive for a summer vacation complete with cocktails on a yacht, snorkeling in crystal-clear water and a bonfire on the beach. What's supposed to be the best summer of their lives turns into a nightmare when a guest at the resort goes missing. As the gates close, paradise has its perimeters and no one is allowed to leave — not the guests, not the staff and not whoever is responsible. Now, everyone is either a suspect or the next victim. Written by David Orea ("A Widow's Game," 2025), the series stars Ana Garcés ("The Promise") as Helena, Tomy Aguilera ("Bank Under Siege") as Dani, Victoria Kantch ("Thoroughbred") as Celia and Berta Castane ("Welcome to Eden") as Maca, with performances from Paco Tous ("Money Heist"), Jan Buxaderas ("Suspicious Minds") and Laura Simon ("Berlin and the Lady with an Ermine").

"America's Sweethearts: Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders" - Season 3

Rookies, "Sweetheart" fans and returning veterans alike vie for a spot in the 2025 DCC squad, during Season 3 of "America's Sweethearts: Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders," premiering this Tuesday, June 16, on Netflix. With 30 veterans and countless hopeful newcomers looking to make the cut, the competition proves fiercer than ever before — and for the team's senior director, Kelli Finglass, and head choreographer, Judy Trammell, picking the right group is just as big a task. As Season 3's synopsis explains: "With incredible opportunities — the first DCC tour, marquee appearances and growing social media platforms — also comes heightened scrutiny and demand for perfection. Against the backdrop of stadium performances and viral moments, the team leans on each other to navigate the spotlight and define their DCC legacies." Despite squad disagreements, injuries and mental health struggles, the ladies of "America's Sweethearts" take the 2025-26 NFL season by storm, making sure none of their teammates are left "Thunderstruck" in the process. "America's Sweethearts: Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders" comes from executive producers like Greg Whiteley ("Cheer"), Adam Leibowitz ("Last Chance U: Basketball"), Andrew Fried ("Welcome to Wrexham"), Dane Lillgard ("Fit for TV: The Reality of the Biggest Loser"), Ross M. Dinerstein ("The Money Game") and Rebecca Evans ("Unknown Number: The High School Catfish," 2025).

"Your Fault: London" (2026)

A sequel to 2025's "My Fault: London," Noah (Asha Banks, "A Good Girl's Guide to Murder") and Nick's (Matthew Broome, "The Buccaneers") love story continues when "Your Fault: London" premieres Wednesday, June 27, on Prime Video. Picking up where the first film left off, Noah and Nick are more in love than ever — but real life is about to test their bond as their relationship faces its toughest challenge yet: distance. While Noah heads to Oxford to pursue her studies and Nick gets pulled deeper into the demands of his new job, distance does what it always does: opens the door for new people. According to Prime Video's official description, "Trust is tested, passions flare and the bond they once thought unbreakable starts to strain. Now standing at a crossroads, Noah and Nick must decide if they want to fight for the love that brought them together ... or risk losing it forever." "My Fault: London" directors Charlotte Fassler and Dani Girdwood return to direct the sequel, with Ray Fearon ("Beauty and the Beast," 2017), Enva Lewis ("Too Much"), Eve Macklin ("Brooklyn," 2015) and Sam Buchanan ("Back to Black," 2024) also starring.

Michael Keaton in "Beetlejuice Beetlejuice"

"The SpongeBob Movie: Search for SquarePants" (2025)

A ghostly pirate's bargain sends SpongeBob on his biggest adventure yet when "The SpongeBob Movie: Search for SquarePants" (2025) begins streaming Friday, June 19, on Prime Video. Eager to prove he's as brave as Mr. Krabs (Clancy Brown, "Cowboys & Aliens," 2011), SpongeBob SquarePants (Tom Kenny, "Transformers: Dark of the Moon," 2011) accidentally summons the Flying Dutchman (Mark Hamill, "Star Wars," 1977) after discovering a collection of pirate relics hidden in the basement of the Krusty Krab. Seeing an opportunity to escape an ancient curse, the ghostly pirate recruits SpongeBob and Patrick Star (Bill Fagerbakke, "Jennifer's Body," 2009) for a dangerous voyage through the Underworld, promising to turn SpongeBob into a true swashbuckler. But when the Dutchman tricks SpongeBob into transferring the curse over to himself and Mr. Krabs, he regains his mortality and abandons his crew. With time running out, SpongeBob, Patrick and Mr. Krabs must work together to destroy the source of the curse before sunset and save themselves from an eternity as ghosts. Based on Stephen Hillenburg's ("Rocko's Modern Life") hit TV series, "SpongeBob SquarePants," the "The SpongeBob Movie" is directed by Derek Drymon ("CatDog").

"Beetlejuice Beetlejuice" (2024)

Available now on Prime Video, director Tim Burton's ("Edward Scissorhands," 1990) "Beetlejuice Beetlejuice" (2024) brings the Ghost with the Most back into the lives of the Deetz family. Set 36 years after "Beetlejuice" (1988), the sequel follows Lydia Deetz (Winona Ryder, "Stranger Things") as she returns to Winter River after the death of her father, accompanied by her teenage daughter, Astrid (Jenna Ortega, "Wednesday"), and stepmother Delia (Catherine O'Hara, "For Your Consideration," 2006). Still able to see ghosts, Lydia is shaken when visions of Betelgeuse (Michael Keaton, "Batman," 1989) begin haunting her once again. When Astrid discovers she has inherited her mother's gift, she is lured into the Afterlife by Jeremy (Arthur Conti, "Teenage Sex and Death at Camp Miasma," 2026), a teenage boy who promises to reunite her with her late father. But Jeremy is hiding a dangerous secret, and Astrid soon finds herself caught in a scheme that could cost her soul. To save her daughter, Lydia must reluctantly seek the help of the one ghost she hoped never to see again: Betelgeuse. Written by Alfred Gough ("I Am Number Four," 2011), with Miles Millar ("Smallville") and Pete Chiappetta ("Superman," 2025) executive producing the film.

Chef Jet Tila serves up easy, delicious dishes in 'Ready Jet Cook'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

The James Beard Award- and Emmy-nominated chef Jet Tila ("24 in 24: Last Chef Standing") might be known for his elevated takes in the kitchen, but with simple and delicious ingredients from his family's very own grocery store, Jet shares his easiest and most approachable go-to recipes in the instructional series "Ready Jet Cook," airing a new episode Saturday, June 20, on Food Network.

As a Los Angeles native, Tila was born into the "first family of Thai food," known for establishing the first Thai food market in America, the Bangkok Market, in 1972. Tila was raised to continue his family's culinary legacy and now does so both on and off screen.

"With his mastery of formal French and Japanese techniques and extensive knowledge of Thai and Chinese ingredients, flavors and methodology, Jet became a force in the kitchen with a unique signature style that quickly gained attention," Food Network describes, making him a perfect addition to series such as "Tournament of Champions," "Beat Bobby Flay," "Guy's Grocery Games," "Cut-throat Kitchen," "Wildcard Kitchen" and more, where he's appeared as a judge, competitor and now, in "Ready Jet Cook," as host.

"Watching 'Ready Jet Cook' will result in a hunger so strong it leaves you with no choice but to beeline it to your closest market to re-create Jet's signature flavors at home," the series' description reads. "In this Food Network series, Jet offers viewers an intimate look at his culinary process. Each episode, he walks through his family's grocery store to source fresh ingredients, then returns home to prepare his go-to recipes, such as sesame chicken, Cantonese potstickers and street-style basil chicken."

In the series' first two seasons,

Jet shared tips and tricks for preparing everything from elevated short rib tacos with bulgogi — a Korean dish made of thinly sliced meat — to his family's beloved Pad Thai recipe, passed down through generations. So far, Season 3 has continued to serve up delicious dishes, with episodes featuring recipes for Thai cashew chicken, tom yum soup, beef and broccoli and more.

Spice up your weekly meal plan with something new, thanks to "Ready Jet Cook" — airing a new episode Saturday, June 20, on Food Network.

Scream 7

Several years after surviving the Woodsboro murders, Sidney Prescott (Campbell) has built a quiet life with her family in Indiana. When a new Ghostface killer (Jackson) emerges and begins targeting her daughter Tatum (May) and her friends, Sidney is pulled back into the terror she thought she had finally escaped. As the body count rises, the murders reveal disturbing ties to the past, forcing Sidney and Gale Weathers (Cox) to uncover who is behind the mask before history repeats itself again. As the killer's attacks become increasingly personal, using Sidney's traumatic past against her and turning old secrets into deadly weapons, Sidney realizes the new Ghostface is not just seeking revenge, but trying to create a new legacy of fear tied to her family.

Ready or Not 2: Here I Come

Several years after surviving the deadly Le Domas family ritual, Grace (Weaving) has tried to rebuild her life while avoiding the media frenzy surrounding the infamous massacre. When a wealthy new family invites her to a lavish destination wedding under the guise of honoring her survival story, Grace soon realizes she has walked into another deadly game. As guests begin disappearing and strange traditions emerge, Grace uncovers a secret network of elite families connected by occult rituals and twisted competitions designed to preserve their power and fortune. Forced once again to fight for survival, she must outsmart a new group of ruthless hunters who see her as both a threat and a leg-end.

Directors: Matt Bettinelli-Olpin, Tyler Gillett. Stars: Samara Weaving, Kathryn Newton, Sarah Michelle Gellar, Shawn Hatosy, David Cronenberg, Elijah Wood. 2026. 108 min. Horror.

Hamilton

Set during the American Revolution and the early years of the United States, Alexander Hamilton (Miranda), an ambitious immigrant, rises from poverty to become one of the most influential figures in American history. Hamilton fights alongside George Washington (Jackson), helping to shape the nation's government, and in doing so, leaves a lasting political legacy. As his career and personal life become increasingly turbulent, Hamilton's ambition leads to both extraordinary achievements and devastating consequences.

Director: Thomas Kail. Stars: Daveed Diggs, Renee Elise Goldsberry, Jonathan Groff, Christopher Jackson, Jasmine Cephas Jones, Lin-Manuel Miranda, Leslie Odom Jr., Okieriete Onaodowan, Anthony Ramos, Phillipa Soo. 2020. 160 min. Musical Historical Drama.

Mel B, judge for "America's Got Talent"

MLB Baseball

TRUTV 7:30 PM

Daikin Park plays host as the Detroit Tigers roll into Houston to face the Houston Astros in what promises to be a compelling mid-season American League clash. The Tigers are hungry, the Astros are at home and someone's walking away with bragging rights.

America's Got Talent

5 8:00 PM

After watching thousands of excited, talented acts take to the stage, judges Simon Cowell, Mel B, Howie Mandel and Sofia Vergara are left to make some tough, make-it-or-break-it decisions. But as the saying goes: the show must go on.

In the City

BRV 8:00 PM

Amanda Batula, Kyle Cooke, Lindsay Hubbard and their fellow "Summer House" stars head into a new chapter and a new season as they return to their lives in NYC. Together, they navigate the ups and downs of marriage, separation, parenthood and more.

Chopped Castaways

FOOD 9:00 PM

The stakes are waist-deep and getting tricky. The remaining island-stranded chefs wade into the lagoon to secure some protein before crafting something spectacular using only what the island provides. Then, two finishers face an intense Gauntlet showdown.

Mark Coles Smith narrates "The Kimberley: Australia's Wild West"

Brilliant Minds

8:00 PM

Some say doctors make the worst patients. Dr. Oliver Wolf (Zachary Quinto) might agree. This latest episode finds Wolf adjusting to a new reality after being admitted as a patient at Hudson Oaks. Will Bronx General be able to survive without him?

The Towering Inferno

8:00 PM

A fire breaks out during the lavish opening party of San Francisco's newest skyscraper, trapping hundreds on the upper floors. Fire chief O'Hallorhan (Steve McQueen) and architect Roberts (Paul Newman) must cooperate to battle the blaze and save lives.

Las Culturistas Culture Awards

9:00 PM

Anything can happen and probably will. Matt Rogers and Bowen Yang return to host this fifth annual award show that celebrates pop culture's biggest and most delightfully obscure moments with comedy, live performances and celebrity chaos.

The Kimberley: Australia's Wild West

10:00 PM

Wallabies, koolamana lizards and crocodile hatchlings must run a gauntlet of river dangers in this series premiere. The wild waterways of Australia's remote Kimberley region — spanning 400,000 square kilometres — prove as beautiful as they are ruthless.

Elizabeth Taylor in "Night Watch"

Night Watch

TCM 4:30 PM

The police found nothing. Her husband (Laurence Harvey) is convinced her nerves are shot. However, Ellen Wheeler (Elizabeth Taylor) is absolutely certain she witnessed a murder through that window and won't rest until someone finally takes her seriously.

FIFA Soccer

(44) 9:00 PM

Mexico and Korea Republic clash in Group A of the 2026 FIFA World Cup, broadcasting live from Mexico's Guadalupe Stadium. National pride, home-continent pressure and a fierce desire to advance make this game far more than a routine group-stage match.

Beat Bobby Flay

FOOD 9:00 PM

Chefs Basil Yu and Sanjay Rawat battle each other first for the right to face Bobby Flay. Then, meteorologist Ginger Zee and Sunny Anderson arrive with a forecast Flay didn't see coming: today's outlook calls for defeat, with a high chance of chaos.

Trivial Pursuit

WPXI 9:00 PM

A pair of college professors chase wedges across six categories — Geography, Entertainment, History, Arts & Literature, Science and Sports — during this new episode. A $20,000 jackpot awaits the one to answer enough to reach the center.

John Reynolds and Sofia Black-D'Elia in "Never Change!"

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

"Never Change!" (2026)

Eighteen years after senior year was blown away, one class is finally getting a second chance when "Never Change!" premieres Wednesday, June 17, on Hulu. In 2008, a tornado tore through North Meadows and took senior year with it. No prom, no graduation, no diploma — just a class of teenagers sent home early. Now in their mid-30s, they're being called back to do it all over again. Written by and starring John Reynolds ("Search Party"), the film also stars Sofia Black-D'Elia ("Single Drunk Female"), Carmen Christopher ("The Bear"), Jo Firestone ("The Singles Retreat," 2023), Gary Richardson ("Saturday Night Live"), Rudy Pankow ("Reminders of Him," 2026) and Topher Grace ("The Waterfront"), with Jackie Cruz ("Good Girls"), Ana Gasteyer ("American Auto"), Patti Harrison ("Shrill") and Zach Cherry ("Severance") rounding out the cast. "Never Change!" is directed by Marty Schousboe ("Joe Pera Talks with You") and produced by Nicholas Hatton ("Jury Duty Presents"), Jason Woliner ("What We Do in the Shadows"), Jon Watts ("The Old Man"), Jeremy Garelick ("The Hangover," 2009) and Will Phelps ("Minimum Wage").

Saturday, June 13, 2026

the summer unfolds, Cola finds herself caught between the people fighting to protect the Hext family's name and the ones secretly helping her to tear it all down. Created by Yalun Tu ("NCIS: Hawai'i") and directed by Marialy Rivas ("Princess," 2017), the series also stars Toby Stephens ("Percy Jackson and the Olympians") as Christopher, Chris Pang ("Crazy Rich Asians," 2018) as Andrew, Justin Chien ("The Brothers Sun") as David, Celina Jade ("Wolf Warrior 2," 2017) as Carrie and Yvonne Chapman ("Avatar: The Last Airbender," 2010) as Madeline.

"Joel McHale: Live from Pyongyang" (2019)

After years of making people laugh on screen, Joel McHale ("Community") steps up to the mic for his first-ever stand-up special, "Joel McHale: Live from Pyongyang" (2019), which arrives this Sunday, June 14, on Hulu. Known for his recent work in series such as "The 1% Club," "House of Villains" and "Animal Control," this special sees the actor-comedian take the stage in Pyongyang, where he shares his thoughts on everything from feeding alligators in the south to why the San Francisco 49ers are long overdue for a name change. Directed by Brian Volk-Weiss ("Killing Grounds: The Gilgo Beach Murders"), the special is produced by Matt Blake ("Dave At-tell: Road Work"), Cisco Henson ("Down to Earth with Zac Efron"),

Joel McHale stars in "Joel McHale: Live From Pyongyang"

Michael J. Epstein ("BeBe Zahara Benet: Africa Is Not a Country") and Kieran Dotti ("Michael Gelbart: All New Smash Hits").

"The Creator" (2023)

In a future torn apart by a devastating war between humans and artificial intelligence, one agent is sent on a critical mission that could change everything. Directed by Gareth Edwards ("Godzilla," 2014), the 2023 sci-fi thriller "The Creator" streams Saturday, June 20, on Hulu, with John David Washington ("Malcolm & Marie," 2021) starring as Joshua, an ex-special forces agent tasked with hunting down and killing the Creator (Gemma Chan, "Humans"), known as the architect of advanced AI. As Joshua leads a team deep into enemy territory in search of a weapon developed by the Creator, they discover the feared superweapon is a robot child named Alphie (voiced by "Gold Land's" Madeleine Yuna Voyles), forcing Joshua to question everything he believes and decide whether to follow orders or trust the very thing he was sent to destroy.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Did Ryan Gosling do his own singing as Ken in "Barbie"?
A: Not only did Ryan Gosling ("Drive," 2011) do his own singing as Ken in the 2023 film phenomenon that was "Barbie," he insisted on it. And he did better than anyone expected.

Ryan Gosling in "Barbie"

Pop music hitmaker Mark Ronson, who scored the film along with frequent writing partner Andrew Wyatt (the pair previously did the music for 2018's "A Star Is Born"), told Vanity Fair magazine that he didn't expect Gosling to even want to sing.

But when the film's director and co-writer, Greta Gerwig ("Lady Bird," 2017) shared an early version of the "I'm Just Ken" song, Gosling insisted on performing it himself.

With that decided, Ronson expected to have to rewrite his first draft of the song to make it easier to sing, but Gosling again surprised him.

"He was really amazing, and when he really did start hitting the big notes, I was like, this dude is a vocal powerhouse!"

Ronson admits in the interview that it shouldn't have been such a surprise. After all, Gosling first came to fame as a Mouseketeer in "The All New Mickey Mouse Club," which required some singing.

Gosling's performance of "I'm Just Ken" became one of the iconic parts of the movie — and he's been called on to repeat it numerous times, including on the Oscars telecast the following year, in "The Masked Singer" and in an official music video.

Q: Is O'Shea Jackson doing another "Den of Thieves"? I like that they always leave it open for more.

A: No one is as excited for "Den of Thieves 3" to start shooting than O'Shea Jackson Jr. ("Straight Outta Compton," 2015) — if only because it means he'll be able to stop dieting.

Fortunately, for him and for fans, it seems like it's just a matter of time.

"I haven't been told a specific date," Jackson said in an interview with Collider. "But since the second one came out last January, I've been on a fitness journey. It's really like 52-54, but 60 sounds better in interviews, so: we're down 60 pounds. In June, hopefully I'll be down 100, and then I'mma just bulk up and get my R&B body."

The work makes sense: he's now a bona fide action hero, having played professional thief Donnie Wilson in the surprise hit "Den of Thieves" (2018) and its sequel, "Den of Thieves 2: Pantera" (2025).

The first was set in LA, while the second took him and the on-the-edge cop (played by Gerard Butler, "300," 2006) chasing him to the more glamorous French Riviera and northern Italy. But all the thievery he got up to in those films means Jackson's character needs to find a new place to do more thieving.

"I can't be in the States because of what happened in LA. Now, I can't be in Europe. So, we're running out of spots. So we gotta find a safe place for us to be able to film this movie."

That decision, he says, is up to writer-director Christian Gudegast ("A Man Apart," 2003). "As long as I look pretty, I'll be OK."

And it seems that Gudegast has it worked out — according to IMDb.com, the script is in the bag and it's now in pre-production. However, there's been no word on a release date.
