The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

This week was the kickoff of this year's Consumer Electronic Show. There's so many cool new products, but the one I'm most excited about is a $5,000 smart toilet. Sure, but if it's so smart, why is it a toilet? If it had gotten better grades, it could have been a bidet.

Why the hefty price tag? Because this is the first toilet that can call for help. Which, if you think about it, is pretty dark because it definitely implies that up until now, every toilet has wanted to call for help. Here's just what that means. When installed in a senior's home, the toilet can send messages to family members if no one has used it for more than eight hours, prompting loved ones to check in to make sure that everyone is OK. We all know that feeling when your phone buzzes at 3 a.m. and you're like, either it's a booty call from my ex or a text from grandpa's toilets. Either way, I'm getting an Uber.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Today [Jan. 14] President Trump said anything less than the U.S. having full control of Greenland was unacceptable. But according to a new report, buying the island could cost $700 billion. Gosh, can't he just scroll Zillow and daydream like the rest of us?

Today [Jan. 14] there was a massive Verizon outage that had customers' phones stuck in SOS mode. Yeah, it's rare for Verizon to have an outage. The only thing more rare is for AT&T to have an "in-age."

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

Thank you for joining us here in sunny Los Angeles, home of the 2028 Summer Olympic Games. Today [Jan. 14] was the first day you could register to get tickets. Even though the Games are not happening for another two and a half years, you could register today. Let me tell you something. Any tickets I buy today, there is no chance in hell I'll be able to find those tickets in two and a half years. I'd have a better chance making one of the Olympic teams.

This is interesting. Not all the events for the Olympics are going to be held in L.A. Two of them will be held in Oklahoma City: canoe slalom and softball. ... Well you know the old saying: only two things come out of Oklahoma City — canoe slalom and softball.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

President Trump canceled plans yesterday [Jan. 13] to meet with Iranian officials, and as someone who loves canceling plans, I'm going to have to give him a pass on this one. You just got your Tuesday night back. There's a new season of "The Traitors." Most relatable thing he's done in 10 years.

In a video posted this week on social media, former New York mayor Eric Adams appeared to get into an altercation with another passenger while disembarking a plane and said, "You're going to see the Brooklyn in me." Oh, what are you [going to] do, sell him a $9 coffee?

'Dark Winds' in L.A.: Navajo police seek missing teen in Season 4

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

At times when violence and dehumanization are rampant, some in positions of power may feel it easiest to follow orders, while others may choose to focus their attention inward. Others still will get up every morning, step out the door and use their lived experience to fight for others — regardless of how they may be perceived by the aggressor.

Lt. Joe Leaphorn, the leading character in AMC's 1970s-set series "Dark Winds," is among the latter category. Portrayed by "Longmire" and "Reservation Dogs" actor Zahn McClarnon, Leaphorn has spent the series' first three seasons facing and fighting everything from murderers and robbers to crimes of hate against the Indigenous people in his Navajo County community.

Now, as Season 4 begins, Leaphorn must leave the comfort of Kayenta, Arizona, and venture more than 600 miles southwest to Los Angeles in the hopes of bringing home a Navajo teenager who disappeared from her boarding school without a trace.

"Dark Winds" Season 4 premieres Sunday, Feb. 15, on AMC and its streaming platform, AMC+.

Just weeks ahead of the show's Season 3 premiere in March 2025, AMC announced that "Dark Winds" would also return for round four. The decision to renew so early came with little surprise to many, given that the series boasts a whopping 100% score on the RottenTomatoes.com Tomatometer (critic ratings) and an impressive 76% approval rating on the Popcornmeter (audience score).

DO YOU HAVE AN IDEA FOR FEATURES?

If you have a story idea or information you would like to see reported in the feature pages of the Press-Republican, email news@pressrepublican.com

The feature schedule is as follows: • Monday: Home and Garden • Tuesday: Health and Fitness • Wednesday: After 50 • Thursday: Out & About • Friday: Faith and Spirituality • Saturday: Family

Kiowa Gordon and Jessica Matten star in "Dark Winds"

Even with all the critic and audience attention, however, McClarnon is likely to have been among the most excited for the show's renewal.

"I'm looking forward to exploring and inhabiting the character of Joe Leaphorn once again in Season 4," McClarnon said, as reported by Collider, adding, "I'm excited to make my directorial debut on a show that means so much to me."

Already credited as a series star and executive producer, McClarnon adds another feather in his cap this year as he makes his directorial debut in "Dark Winds" Season 4 Episode 2, reportedly titled "Bikee' Doo Eedahooziideegoo (Toward Their Unknown Paths)." Although no specifics have been shared regarding the episode itself (no doubt to avoid spoilers), fans of the series created by Graham Roland ("Tom Clancy's Jack Ryan") can be sure that the action will already be in full swing by the episode's Feb. 22 air date.

And while much of the "Dark Winds" discussion has rightfully centered upon McClarnon in preparation for the eight new episodes awaiting release, his won't be the only familiar face in Season 4.

Firstly, "Blood Quantum" (2019) and "Twilight Saga" star Kiowa Gordon returns as Jim Chee. (After all, what is Leaphorn without his Chee?) First introduced to viewers as a young FBI agent working undercover in Kayenta, Chee has become an integral part of the Navajo Tribal Police force. In the official Season 4 trailer released by AMC, Chee is seen welcoming fellow NTP officer Bernadette Manuelito (Jessica Matten, "Frontier") back to the force and sparks are flying. Even sharing just a few seconds of screen time in the promotional material, it is clear that much of Season 4 will be spent exploring Manuelito and Chee's feelings for one another.

Leaphorn's wife, Emma (Deanna Allison, "Edge of America," 2003), was also featured in the trailer despite the couple's split at the end of Season 3. As for whether Emma will return in a regular, recurring or cameo capacity, however, remains a mystery.

"I won't say whether or not it's a permanent break or not, but it is definitely something that has sent [Leaphorn] to the mountains to reflect and consider his life and his choices and what's happened to him," said showrunner John Wirth ("Nash Bridges") in a December interview with TV Insider. "At the beginning of Season 4, Leaphorn is trying to regain his balance and tap into some of the more traditional Navajo ways that he may have lost track of over time."

But, a fresh season reflecting on fresh wounds calls for some fresh blood as well.

Joining the prominent roster of new cast members in Season 4 is Franka Potente ("The Bourne Identity," 2002) as Irene Vaggan, who is described by Wirth as a "villain" with a "really complex backstory" rooted in World War II-era Germany and fostering a strong family history tied to the Nazi Party. Obsessed by stories of "cowboys and Indians in the West" when she was growing up, Vaggan is positioned as a major obstacle on the route to solving this season's big case in LA — and she has a special penchant for Leaphorn.

Also joining the cast are Isabel DeRoy-Olson ("Three Pines") as Navajo teen Billie Tsosie; Chaske Spencer ("Blindspot") as crime-ring recruiter Sonny; Luke Barnett ("Tonic," 2025) as FBI special agent Toby Shaw; and "Bosch's" Titus Welliver as LA crime boss Dominic McNair.

"Dark Winds" blow again in the Southwestern United States. Don't miss the Season 4 premiere when it airs Sunday, Feb. 15, on AMC and AMC+.

Ready for action: 'The Night Agent' returns with a worldwide manhunt

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

When the world needs saving, one man gets the call to come to the rescue. Gabriel Basso ("A House of Dynamite," 2025) returns as FBI agent Peter Sutherland in the third-season premiere of "The Night Agent," streaming Thursday, Feb. 19, on Netflix. All 10 episodes of the new season will be available to stream on premiere day.

Now a full-fledged, active agent of Night Action, one of the FBI's secret intelligence programs, Peter has swooped into complex situations that require both extreme caution and bravery, leaving his desk duty in the dust. Whether it's tracking down bombs or MacGyvering a way out of a lethal gas leak, Peter has proven himself to be the top agent for any job, no matter how dangerous.

This season, Peter is sent out to chase down a treasury agent who has fled the country armed with sensitive information, seemingly having killed his boss while collecting the documents. The rogue agent has escaped to Istanbul and, from Netflix, "what begins as a high-stakes manhunt quickly spirals into something more dangerous as Peter uncovers a dark money network, evades paid assassins and crosses paths with a relentless journalist whose pursuit of the truth puts them both squarely in the cross-

Joining the cast this season is David Lyons ("The Beast in Me") as Adam, Peter's new partner. While capable and affable, there is something that keeps Peter from fully trusting Adam. Also new this season is Stephen Moyer ("True Blood") as The Father, a shadowy contract killer with a tidy home life as a family man.

While not Peter's official partner, a new character is integral to his mission. Genesis Rodriguez ("Lioness") stars as journalist Isabel De Leon, a young reporter with the Financial Register who is determined to stick to her principles and expose the truth at any cost. Pulled into Peter's new assignment to help him find out who is at the top of the criminal pyramid, it quickly becomes clear that Isabel's life is in danger because of her involvement.

Returning as series regulars this season are Fola Evans-Akingbola ("Death in Paradise") as agent Chelsea Arrington, freshly named head of security for the first family; Ward Horton ("One Life to Live") as President Richard Hagan; and Albert Jones ("The Wire") as Aiden Mosley, deputy director of the FBI.

Last season saw Peter's father's past collide with his own, as his handler, Catherine Weaver (Amanda Warren, "Dickinson"), revealed that one of her first missions with Night Action was keeping tabs on his father as he shared intel with Russian intelligence before his assassination. Catherine offers Peter a chance to do what his father wasn't able to — become a double agent and right his wrongs.

Not even secret agents like Peter are without weakness, and one powerful villain managed to find and exploit his last season. Dubbed "The Broker" by the FBI, Jacob Monroe (Louis Herthum, "Home Before Dark"), an illegal intelligence dealer, used Peter last season as part of his scheme to place his candidate in the highest office in the country. Now that Jacob is so close to the sitting president, Night Action must intervene lest crucial information meant for the president's eyes make its way into the hands of adversaries.

Last season's finale had Peter accept this new mission handed to him by Catherine, who told him to wait for Jacob's call, "gain his trust, uncover every snake on his payroll and then expose, destroy." Peter quickly jumped on board but questioned just how far up this illegal intelligence network reached, something that the upcoming season seemingly ties up.

Series creator Shawn Ryan ("Timeless") told Tudum that this season, "Peter grapples with a dangerous conspiracy at the heart of the White House, a dogged reporter with a hot tip and a murky past, a murder suspect trying to clear his name, a mysterious father and son who leave a trail of bodies in their wake and a new partner who could be his salvation — or his doom."

Also starring in the show this season are Jennifer Morrison ("House") as first lady Jenny Hagan; Suraj Sharma ("How I Met Your Father") as financial analyst Jay Batra; and Callum Vinson ("Poker Face") as The Son.

In addition to filming on location in Istanbul, production of this season of "The Night Agent" took cast and crew to New York state (the show's main filming location), Washington, D.C., Mexico and the Dominican Republic. Episode directors include Adam Arkin ("Justified") and Guy Ferland ("Mayor of Kingstown") — who have both directed episodes for all three seasons — and new recruits Paris Barclay ("Doctor Odyssey"), Billy Gierhart ("Rectify") and Hiromi Kamata ("Selena: The Series").

Don't miss a thrilling new season of "The Night Agent," premiering Thursday, Feb. 19, on Netflix.

Hilarie Burton Morgan returns for Season 3 of 'True Crime Story'

By Caroline Collacutt

TV Media

Small-town suspects: Examine the ins and outs of small-town crimes during Season 3 of "True Crime Story: It Couldn't Happen Here," streaming on AMC+ and airing on AMC, SundanceTV and All Reality this Thursday, Feb. 19.

Hosted by actor and advocate Hilarie Burton Morgan ("White Collar"), this true crime docuseries tackles unique cases from small towns across America, where locals often know both the victims and the perpetrators involved. While spotlighting cases that range from wrongful convictions to wrongful death in police custody, "True Crime Story" operates in "pursuit of accountability and justice for victims" (per AMC Networks).

The network explains: "[By] speaking directly with the family members of those involved with the cases, as well as community members, local journalists and legal experts, the series continues its work revealing systemic flaws within the criminal justice system and encourages viewers to lend their voices to those who have been silenced."

By leading the series, Burton Morgan plans to showcase the unique ways in which crimes can affect rural communities and how the judicial system operates in some of the remote corners of America. In the process, she hopes to help families find some semblance of closure — or, at the very least, to offer a better understanding of what happened to their loved ones.

While speaking with Self, Burton Morgan was asked why she began the "True Crime Story" project. According to the actress, her interest was piqued after learning about the case of a girl in Hudson Valley, New York, who was sentenced to 19 years in prison for killing her abusive partner.

"I started investigating it through articles that had been written and through the paper covering the trial," Burton Morgan explains. "I didn't like how this woman was painted as a femme fatale and her domestic violence situation turned into tabloid fodder."

"It set in motion this idea that crimes that happen in small towns have a very specific set of problems that aren't really being addressed in the national dialogue. That proximity, that lack of anonymity, really colors how the sheriff's department, how local media, how district attorneys, and how judges all process a major crime like this."

With its premiere episode welcoming viewers to Corsicana, Texas — and later episodes traveling to Pennsylvania, Indiana, Oklahoma and Kentucky — Season 3 of "True Crime Story: It Couldn't Happen Here" premieres Thursday, Feb. 19, on AMC, SundanceTV and All Reality.

Collector cash-outs: An expert in all things cleaning, downsizing and decluttering, Matt Paxton ("Hoarders") takes on his biggest challenge yet, finding more than $1 million worth of buried treasures in hoarder homesteads in Season 2 of "Filthy Fortunes," which premieres Sunday, Feb. 15, on Discovery.

As he travels cross-country in search of unique finds and "big ticket" items, Paxton encounters some of the most cluttered homes imaginable, working alongside homeowners to clean out, organize and make inventory of their never-ending belongings — collections that include priceless photos, vintage toys, television memorabilia, historic artifacts and more, all lost amidst the chaos.

With the help of expert appraiser Mike Kelleher ("Legacy List"), lead picker Chris Davis and cleanout manager Kayland Brock, Paxton singles out the most impressive items from these massive collections and sells his finds, securing his clients a jaw-dropping payday.

Throughout their searches, Paxton and his crew have uncovered everything from classic cars and antique weapons to a pair of self-lacing sneakers from the Back to the Future franchise. This season, the group stumbles across even more diamonds in the rough, such as a one-of-a-kind Magic Johnson photo, '60s Beatles demo recordings, vintage pinball machines, a verified "Seinfeld" script and carved bullets from the Civil War.

During the upcoming premiere episode, the team heads to Michigan, where members meet the children of a man who once called himself the "best hoarder ever." After his death, the man's children were left with their late father's overwhelming mountain of belongings, and their search for help led them straight to Paxton.

According to a sneak peek shared by Yahoo, "the team wades through rooms crammed with vintage toys and hidden firearms, hunting for big-ticket items including a Mickey Mantle signed baseball."

"When they discover classic 1960s Austin-Healey automobiles and a collection of toy cars beyond what they expected," Yahoo's description continues, "their hopes soar until low-ball offers force them to scramble for new buyers as they race the clock to hit their goal."

A first look at Season 2 has also been released, showing the crew testing forgotten gun arsenals, refurbishing classic vehicles and even demolishing sagging structures to reclaim wood for top-dollar prices.

Paxton proves not all lost treasures are lost causes, as a brand-new season of "Filthy Fortunes" airs Sunday, Feb. 15, on Discovery.

Irene, Lincoln, Sheila and Glem in "Strip Law"

By Staff Writers
TV Media

"Strip Law" - Season 1

An uptight lawyer's luck changes when he pairs with a flashy magician to tackle Vegas's most ridiculous court cases. Premiering Friday, Feb. 20, on Netflix, "Strip Law" follows Lincoln Gumb (Adam Scott, "Severance"), a lawyer whose overly strait-laced style can't win him a single case in Las Vegas's vibrant legal world. That is, until he's teamed with Sheila Flambe (Janelle James, "Abbott Elementary"), a theatrical local magician and unapologetic hedonist whose flair brings attention to even the silliest disputes. This first season follows the unlikely pair as they take on some of the city's most absurd legal battles, turning mundane courtroom moments into unpredictable animated comedy. With a voice cast led by Scott and James and created by Cullen Crawford ("The Late Show with Stephen Colbert"), "Strip Law" also voice stars Keith David ("The Princess and the Frog," 2009), Stephen Root ("King of the Hill"), Aimee Garcia ("Dexter"), Shannon Gisela ("Dose," 2022) and Sean Glasgow ("Honey Don't!," 2025), with Chris Prynoski ("Downtown") serving as an executive producer.

"Sommore: Chandelier Fly" (2026)

Sommore ("Soul Plane," 2004) is back on stage, unfiltered and unstoppable, in "Sommore: Chandelier Fly," premiering Tuesday, Feb. 17, on Netflix. Recorded live at Detroit's Garden Theater last summer, "Sommore: Chandelier Fly" marks her seventh stand-up special and her second for the platform following 2023's "Queen Chandelier." With Kevin Layne ("William Shatner's Gonzo Ballet," 2009) directing and Sommore executive producing alongside Wayne B. Baxley ("Sommore: The Reign Continues," 2015), Sommore brings her signature unapologetic voice to the stage, riffing on hot topics from untimely death and celebrity scandals to cellphone companies learning to mind their business. Performing up close and personal, Sommore's bold perspective and fearless style reflect decades of craft that began with hosting BET's "ComicView" and headlining "The Queens of Comedy" tour in 2001.

Sommore stars in "Sommore: Chandelier Fly"

"ANTM," with the premiere of "Reality Check: Inside America's Next Top Model," a three-part docuseries making its debut on Netflix this Monday, Feb. 16. "America's Next Top Model" ran for 24 seasons — or "cycles," as they called it on the show — entertaining audiences between 2003 and 2016. As Netflix explains, "each cycle followed a new group of aspiring models from across the U.S. who lived together, competed in challenges and faced a weekly elimination. The eventual winner was named 'America's Next Top Model' and awarded a spread in a fashion magazine, plus contracts with a major fashion brand and a modeling agency." Leading the competition was superstar host Tyra Banks ("Coyote Ugly," 2000), who was often a source of inspiration and anxiety for the ladies competing, as contestants faced outlandish stunt shoots, constant critiques, and for some, even compulsory cosmetic transformations — including drastic haircuts and invasive dental surgeries. While the show was once praised for spotlighting contestants from overlooked communities in the fashion industry, it is now, two decades later, scrutinized by viewers for countless questionable moments, leaving some to ask if contestants were treated fairly in the process. "Reality Check" will revisit some of the show's most impactful moments, sharing interviews with Banks, creator Ken Mok ("The Right One," 2021), former judges — including Miss J — and former contestants and winners, like Whitney Thompson, Giselle Samson, Shannon Stewart, Shandi Sullivan, Dani Evans and Keenyah Hill.

"56 Days" - Season 1

A love story takes a deadly turn in Prime Video's all-new thriller series "56 Days," based on author Catherine Ryan Howard's best-selling novel of the same name. Premiering on the streamer Wednesday, Feb. 18, Avan Jogia ("Zombieland: Double Tap," 2019) and Dove Cameron ("Descendants," 2015) star as Oliver and Ciara, a young couple caught up in a whirlwind romance after meeting in a supermarket. But 56 days later, homicide investigators arrive at Oliver's apartment to find an unidentified, decomposed body in the bathtub. Did he kill her? Did she kill him? Intercutting between an intense single day in the present investigation and the twisted trajectory of the young lovers' affair in the past, "56 Days" delves into their turbulent love story, revealing grim secrets. As detectives chase the truth, every timeline adds another crack in the couple's story, until love, obsession and fear collapse into a single, devastating answer. Adapted for television by Lisa Zwerling ("ER") and Karyn Usher ("Prison Break"), Karla Souza ("How to Get Away with Murder") Dorian Missick ("For Life"), Megan Peta Hill ("The Flash"), Patch Darragh ("Succession")

), Alfredo Narciso ("The Summer I Turned Pretty") and Jennifer Ferrin ("Pretty Little Liars: Original Sin") round out in the cast.

"The Last Thing He Told Me" - Season 2

Apple TV turns the page on mystery and family drama when "The Last Thing He Told Me" returns Friday, Feb. 20, for Season 2, available on Prime Video via the Apple TV channel. Season 1 followed Hannah (Jennifer Garner, "Valentine's Day," 2010) and her stepdaughter Bailey (Angourie Rice, "Spider-Man: Homecoming," 2017) as they searched for answers about Owen's (Nikolaj Coster-Waldau, "Game of Thrones") sudden disappearance, ending with a brief encounter five years later that proved he was still alive but unable to come home. Based on Laura Dave's forthcoming sequel novel, "The First Time I Saw Him," Season 2 finds Hannah and Bailey racing to figure out how to reunite their family before the past catches up to them. With lingering questions about Owen's history and loyalties, the two confront new developments that could determine whether the life they once imagined is still possible. The eight-episode season adds Judy Greer ("13 Going on 30," 2004) and Rita Wilson ("Now and Then," 1995) to the cast. Garner and co-showrunners Josh Singer ("First Man," 2018) and Aaron Zelman ("Law & Order") produce this season.

"Ten Pound Poms" - Season 2

A new year in Galgownie unfolds in Season 2 of "Ten Pound Poms," premiering Wednesday, Feb. 18, on Prime Video via the BritBox channel. The series follows British citizens who joined the post-World War II assisted-passage scheme, paying just 10 pounds to start anew in Australia with the promise of work, opportunity and a fresh start. After a difficult first year, nurse Kate Thorne (Michelle Keegan, "Our Girl") and the Roberts family (played by "Game of Thrones" star Faye Marsay and "Luther's" Warren Brown) navigate life down under, "determined against all odds to achieve their slice of the Australian dream" (per BBC). As they settle in, Kate, Annie and Terry confront the gap between expectation and reality, testing their hopes, resilience and sense of belonging. Season 2 welcomes new characters this season, including Rob Collins ("Mystery Road") as Ron, Leon Ford ("Elvis," 2022) as Bill, Declan Coyle ("Long Black," 2022) as Stevie and Stephen Curry ("Hounds of Love," 2016) as JJ. Written and created by Daniel Brocklehurst ("Come Home"), "Ten Pound Poms" is executive produced by Michael Healy ("Bump").

Ramsay's real life

Docuseries follows as Gordon Ramsay prepares to launch countless culinary projects

By Caroline Collacutt

TV Media

Even the king of the kitchen gets nervous. With 20 million pounds on the line, any sane person would be. Celebrity chef Gordon Ramsay tackles his biggest project yet in "Being Gordon Ramsay," a multi-part docuseries making its debut Wednesday, Feb. 18, on Netflix.

Ramsay is no stranger to reality television, as the host of countless fire-hot culinary series such as "Hell's Kitchen," "MasterChef," "Next Level Chef" and "Ramsay's Kitchen Nightmares." However, it's not often he welcomes cameras to follow the execution of his own culinary projects.

This latest endeavor follows Ramsay through the lead-up to his most challenging and impressive restaurant venture to date: five unique, high-end culinary experiences, all housed in London's second-tallest building, 22 Bishopsgate. Across six episodes — which covers a hectic nine-month period of Ramsay's life — "Being Gordon Ramsay" provides exclusive access to the prolific, profanity-loving chef both at work and at home, as Ramsay balances his work commitments against time spent with his wife, Tana, and their six children.

The showcased projects — some

of which are now open to the public — include RGR High, an intimate, 12-person dining experience; London's highest restaurant, Lucky Cat, which serves brunch, lunch and tea alongside Asian-inspired small plates; the Lucky Cat roof terrace, which has cocktails and entertainment; the beloved Bread Street Kitchen & Bar; and the flagship location for Gordon Ramsay Academy.

In a trailer for the soon-to-be-released series, Ramsay's anxiety is palpable as he tells cameras that the scale of his latest project "scares the sh*t" out of him. He says: "22 Bishopsgate is the most ambitious project I've ever opened in my entire life. Five businesses under one roof. If Bishopsgate was to fail, yeah, I'm f***ed."

Later, in the same trailer, Ramsay's wife, Tana, sits down for an interview. Despite her husband's obvious apprehension, Tana seems unfazed. "People think they know Gordon," she says. "He's someone who dreams big. But you know what, he's just Gordon to me."

Produced by Studio Ramsay Global, a Fox Entertainment Company, "Being Gordon Ramsay" comes from executive producers Lisa Edwards ("Alfie Boe: On the Wheels of a Dream," 2017), Deborah Sargeant ("Gordon Ramsay's Food Stars") and Amanda Westwood ("The Great British Baking Show") and premieres Wednesday, Feb. 18, on Netflix.

Five Nights at Freddy's 2

Following the deadly events at Freddy Fazbear's Pizza, Mike Schmidt (Hutcherson) tries to move on with his life, but the trauma refuses to let him go. Though the restaurant is officially shut down, disturbing incidents begin to surface once again, pointing to the return of the animatronics and the dark forces controlling them. As Mike is drawn back into the mystery, new animatronics enter the picture and deeper connections to the missing children and the lingering influence of William Afton (Lillard) are revealed. What once seemed contained is now spreading, suggesting that the curse haunting Freddy's is far from over. Director: Emma Tammi. Stars: Josh Hutcherson, Elizabeth Lail, Piper Rubio, McKenna Grace, Wayne Knight, Skeet Ulrich, Matthew Lillard. 2025. 104 min. Horror.

Brendan Fraser in
"The Mummy Returns"

Abbott Elementary

(22) 8:00 PM

A young mind is a challenging thing to waste. Despite limited funds and numbers, Janine (Quintana Brunson) and her fellow teachers at Philadelphia's Willard R. Abbott Elementary do their best to shape their students to the best of their ability.

Nature

(33) (57) 8:00 PM

From orca mothers showing her young how to hunt blue whales to Banggai cardinalfish protecting his children inside his mouth, viewers watch as the animal parents that inhabit Earth's oceans use their intelligence and dedication to raise their young.

My Fair Lady

TCM 8:00 PM

In this beloved musical, Rex Harrison stars as the pompous professor Henry Higgins, who takes it upon himself to transform the life of Eliza Doolittle (Audrey Hepburn), a working-class girl with a strong Cockney accent. George Cukor directs.

The Mummy Returns

AMC 10:45 PM

Seven years after the events of the first film, Rick (Brendan Fraser) and Evelyn (Rachel Weisz) are thrust back into danger when a cult attempts use the Book of the Dead to resurrect Imhotep (Arnold Vosloo). Freddie Boath and Dwayne Johnson also star.

Next Level Chef

12 44 8:00 PM

Mentors Gordon Ramsay, Nyesha Arrington and Richard Blais continue their search for the world's next culinary superstar. This week, the competition gets spicy as the chefs are challenged to make some tasty tacos. However, disaster strikes one chef.

9-1-1

22 8:00 PM

When the situation gets dire, the 118 is always there to help. Starring Angela Bassett, Oliver Stark, Kenneth Choi, Jennifer Love Hewitt, Ryan Guzman and more, this procedural follows the daily lives of brave and dedicated first responders.

Papillon

TCM 8:00 PM

Convicted murderer Henri Charrière (Steve McQueen) is sent to French Guiana to serve his sentence in a work camp. With the help of counterfeiter Louis Dega (Dustin Hoffman), he concocts a genius plan to escape Devil's Island once and for all.

Scrabble

WPIX 8:00 PM

Better start studying the dictionary as Craig Ferguson hosts an all-new episode of this game show based on the classic board game of the same. Whose vocabulary will be extensive enough to walk away with the win and the $10,000 grand prize?

Dan Aykroyd, Jessica Tandy and Morgan Freeman star in "Driving Miss Daisy"

Driving Miss Daisy

TCM 8:00 PM

This Academy Award-winning comedy drama follows Miss Daisy Werthan (Jessica Tandy) and her chauffeur Hoke Colburn (Morgan Freeman) as their relationship develops and grows stronger over the decades. Dan Aykroyd, Patti LuPone and Esther Rolle also star.

20/20

Spend your Friday night with hosts David Muir and Deborah Roberts, as they delve into some of today's most unforgettable stories from character-driven true crime mysteries, to hard-hitting investigative reports, to interviews with modern day celebrities.

American Masters

33 57 9:00 PM

This documentary from director Christine Turner explores the life and legacy of poet, philosopher and music visionary Sun Ra, who extended the boundaries of free-form jazz through his over 200 self-produced albums and the founding of the Sun Ra Arkestra.

Dreaming Whilst Black

SHOW 9:00 PM

In the Season 2 premiere of this comedy series, Kwabena (Adjani Salmon) is desperate to land his first directing gig but can't seem to find a project that avoids tired Black stereotypes. Will he sacrifice his pride for an industry job?

"Watching You" - Season 1

"I know your secret." A single message unravels Lina's (Aisha Dee, "The Bold Type") life in ways she never imagined in the Stan original series "Watching You," with Season 1 arriving Friday, Feb. 20, on Hulu. After Lina's affair with a charming co-worker (played by Josh Helman, "X-Men: Days of Future Past," 2014) is captured by hidden cameras, the footage quickly becomes a weapon used against her, exposing everything she's tried to keep private and forcing her to unmask the unseen eye stalking her life. With trust eroding among loved ones and ominous threats closing in, she must confront how far someone will go to control her — and whether danger lies in the lens or much closer to home. Inspired by "The Last Guests" by J.P. Pomare, "Watching You" hails from series creators Alexei Mizin ("I, Frankenstein," 2014) and Ryan van Dijk ("Relationship Rehab," 2011), with Chai Hansen ("Play Dirty," 2025), Laura Gordon ("Saw V," 2008) and Olivia Vasquez ("Thor:

Love and Thunder," 2022) rounding out the cast.

"Keeping Up with the Kardashians" - Complete Series

A reality TV phenomenon returns when "Keeping Up with the Kardashians" arrives Tuesday, Feb. 17, on Hulu, revisiting the series that first premiered on E! network in 2007 and followed mother Kris ("The Mindy Project") and daughters Kourtney ("He's All That," 2021), Kim ("All's Fair"), Khloe ("Royal Pains"), Kendall ("Ocean's 8," 2018) and Kylie ("Life of Kylie") as their lives unfolded on camera and became a worldwide cultural phenomenon. Across 20 seasons, the series documents the lives of the Kardashian-Jenner family in the public eye, showing the moments that shaped them as entrepreneurs, parents and public figures while offering a close look at how they handled the pressure that came with becoming household names. Following a deal with NBCUniversal Global TV Distribution, Hulu secured U.S. streaming rights to the complete series, making the full run available alongside a range of franchise titles and specials, also available on the streamer Feb. 17. From creator-executive producer Ryan Seacrest ("American Idol"), "Keeping Up with the Kardashians" went on to become the longest-running reality program in the U.S. during its 14-year run.

"Urchin" (2025)

In his directorial debut, Harris Dickinson's "Urchin" (2025) makes its way to Hulu on Tuesday, Feb. 17, with Frank Dillane ("Fear the Walking Dead") starring as Mike, a young man living on the streets of London, as he moves through each day driven by hunger, addiction and a restless search for somewhere he might finally belong. After accepting money from a couple, he loses his wallet and accuses his friend Nathan (played by Dickinson, from 2021's "The King's Man") of stealing it, setting off a fight that spirals into a violent robbery and lands Mike behind bars. After he's released, Mike is offered a narrow path forward through temporary housing and the steady support of Nadia (Buckso Dhillon-Woolley, "EastEnders"), a new friend who believes he is capable of change. Determined to change his life, Mike lands a trial shift in a restaurant kitchen and begins to imagine, for the first time in years, a life with stability and purpose. But an unexpected encounter with the man (Okezie Morro, "The Mist") he hurt in the robbery forces him to face the reality of what he's done. As opportunities slip away and old patterns return, Mike finds himself heading back toward the streets, where his search for forgiveness and peace leads him down an increasingly surreal path.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I finally watched the "Bambi" sequel, but I barely followed it because I was so distracted trying to figure out who does the voice of Bambi's father. And of course, I missed the credits. Who does the voice?

A: After years of reportedly trying, Disney finally got Patrick Stewart ("X-Men," 2000) for "Bambi II" (2006).

I say "reportedly" because stories of who didn't get cast in a role are, by definition, hard to verify. But numerous sources say that Stewart was previously considered for multiple Disney voice roles before he finally accepted the part of Bambi's father in "Bambi II."

Those other roles include Cogsworth in "Beauty and the Beast" (1991), King Triton in "The Little Mermaid" (1989), Zeus in "Hercules" (1997) and more.

And, we'd be remiss to leave out the major role Stewart plays in the Star Trek universe as Capt. Jean-Luc Picard, in productions ranging from "Star Trek: The Next Generation" to the much more recent "Star Trek: Picard."

The reports say that he was the one to turn them down, due to scheduling conflicts. That certainly checks out: Stewart, an icon of both stage and screen, has been incredibly busy for an incredibly long time — particularly in the '90s — when Disney was apparently chasing him so persistently.

It must have stung Disney a little that one of the many roles he took in that period was the voice of Seti in "The Prince of Egypt" (1998), an animated film by rival studio DreamWorks.

But in the modern era, it would be hard to imagine a more prestigious animated gig than the father in "Bambi II." The original "Bambi" (1942) is one of the films that built Disney as a studio and one of the yardsticks by which subsequent animated features have been measured.

That made "Bambi II" one of the most anticipated sequels of all time — including in the literal sense, since, having been released 64 years apart, they hold the record for the longest interval between two films in a series.

was originally intended as a miniseries, following the text of the source novel by John le Carre.

But the first season was a big sensation — and that goes doubly for lead Tom Hiddleston ("The Avengers," 2012), whose star has only risen since — so a second season became impossible to resist.

And now director Georgi Banks-Davies ("Kaos") is saying that the plan is actually for a trilogy of seasons.

"There was a third season that was always in the offing," she told Variety. "David [Farr, ("Hanna") the show's creator] is writing it now — he's at the coalface and in the early stage. But yeah, when the second season came, the plan was to go to three."

Hiddleston, the title character and also an executive producer, will certainly be a part of whatever that third season turns out to be. The struggle, again, might just be finding room in his busy schedule. He has multiple other things on the go — most notably, a role in the next "Avengers" movie, "Doomsday," due out in December.
