Late Laughs

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

The rally kicked off the 16-day Great American State Fair in the National Mall. There's funnel cake, there's corn dogs, turkey legs and lots of other foods found during Trump's colonoscopy.

Yeah, the fair has everything. There's even a dunk tank with JD Vance and a drunk tank with Kash Patel. There's something for everyone. There's also a 110-foot Ferris wheel and an antique carousel. Unfortunately, Marco Rubio isn't tall enough to ride them.

Yeah, the state fair will be a lot of fun. Although if you win a goldfish, I'm pretty sure I know where they got the water from.

I saw that the Los Angeles school district is enacting a screentime ban for young students. When asked about it, a teacher said, "I'm sorry. What?"

The world's oldest soccer ball is being transferred from Scotland to Miami for the World Cup. Can we see it? Ooh. Let's just say Frankenstein has two of those.

Today [June 25] in Washington, D.C., the Great American State Fair celebrating America's 250th officially kicked off. Yes, the fair has everything — there's giant Ferris wheels, there's a carousel. They even have a Trump approval-rating roller coaster, which has the biggest drop in history. It's amazing. And this is fun. They also hired Trump's doctor to guess what you want your weight to be. "150?" "Sure."

Jimmy Kimmel Live! With Tiffany Haddish

Hello everyone. I'm Tiffany Haddish and tonight [July 8], I'm the proud guest host of the Emmy nominated "Jimmy Kimmel Live!" show. This was nominated for six Emmys today for Best Variety Series, writing, direction, production design, lighting design, technical direction and camera work. I'd love to congratulate the entire staff and crew, but I don't know any of their names, so never mind.

I think this could be Jimmy's year. He's never won the award for Best Variety Series. Yeah, you heard of an EGOT? Well, Jimmy Kimmel is an E-Don't-GOT. And Jimmy, I hope you do the right thing and take Donald Trump as your date. No one's giving you more material than that dude. He's the best writer you got.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

President Trump said yesterday [June 17] that he likes the idea of blaming Vice President JD Vance if the Iran deal doesn't work out. I mean, why stop there? Blame him for everything. Say he's why gas is so high. Say he's why the reflecting pool's green. Say he used to do your makeup.

When asked yesterday [June 17] to clarify his comments that he doesn't mind Iran having ballistic missiles, President Trump said that he meant, "If other countries have them, it's a little bit unfair of them not to have some." Thanks, man. That clears it up. So, like, nobody tell Trump that other countries have nukes.

Off the bench: Diamond Dog days are back again with new 'Ted Lasso'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Just when he thought he was out, they pulled him back in. After more than three years since its last season, "Ted Lasso" returns Wednesday, Aug. 5, to Apple TV for its fourth season. The first installment of the 10-episode season drops on premiere day with new episodes available to stream weekly.

The titular coach, portrayed by "Saturday Night Live" alum Jason Sudeikis, whose contagious eternal optimism forever changed the fictional English Premier League team AFC Richmond before he headed back home to Kansas City, Missouri, in last season's finale, dusts off his "believe" poster for a different coaching gig.

Ted is back in Richmond upon Thames and in the AFC Richmond facilities, but he's not coaching the team audiences have grown to love throughout the show's first three seasons. With the "Richmond Way" chapter now closed, the show was due for a twist. The series gives Ted a new opportunity this season with the club's fledgling Division 2 women's team. Club owner Rebecca Welton (Hannah Waddingham, "Sex Education") is in need of a coach for her latest expansion of the Greyhounds, and Ted is just the man for the job.

Per Apple TV, "in Season 4, Ted returns to Richmond, taking on his biggest challenge yet: coaching a second division women's football team. Throughout the course of the season, Ted and the team learn to leap before they look, taking chances they never thought they would."

By Ted's side as always is Coach Willis Beard (Brendan Hunt, "Bless This Mess") and a new, as-yet-unnamed addition to the coaching staff, portrayed by "The Other Bennet Sister" star Tanya Reynolds. Other returning cast members include Juno Temple (" Fargo") as PR wiz Keeley Jones; Brett Goldstein (" Shrinking") as gruff retired footballer Roy Kent; Jeremy Swift ("All Creatures Great & Small") as the nervous but lovable director of operations Leslie Higgins; and Annette Badland ("Run Away") as stern pub landlady Mae Green.

There has been a considerable amount of time between the third season of "Ted Lasso" and the upcoming new episodes. However, not much time has passed in the show since we saw the characters last. Understandably, there's been a recast of Ted's son Henry, now portrayed by Grant Feely ("Obi-Wan Kenobi"). "Lord of the Flies" actor Gus Turner previously portrayed the role of Henry.

Other new series regulars in the upcoming season include Jude Mack ("Such Brave Girls"), Faye Marsay ("Andor"), Rex Hayes ("The Pact"), Aisling Sharkey ("Jurassic World: Dominion," 2022) and Abbie Hern ("My Lady Jane"). Tracey Ullman ("Curb Your Enthusiasm") and Charlotte Riley ("Trying") can also be seen in the teaser trailer.

Character details are under wraps for now, but an official teaser trailer for the new season offers up a peek into what is in store. Keeley and Roy lock eyes in the halls of the club facility while Higgins stands between them clutching his diary, making the scene look uncannily like a bride, groom and officiant standing at the altar. Love is in the air but are those also wedding bells ringing?

Short clips of the upcoming season speed by, set to "Rubber Band Man" by Mumford & Sons, including some eager potential footballers sprinting onto the pitch, a warm and insulting welcome back to Ted from a local, Rebecca living the good life with her new beau and a performance art piece by Coach Beard's wife, Jane (Phoebe Walsh, "Stath Lets Flats").

The teaser wraps up with a new Lasso-ism, as he explains that the meaning behind his update to the club execs, "FYI the ETA is ASAP, PP," is, "as soon as possible, pretty please."

In February, Waddingham spoke to Deadline about the new season focusing on "our Lady Greyhounds," expressing her admiration of the show, saying, "I love it. I love Rebecca Welton, my character, and the writing is so magnificent. Jason Sudeikis and the writers room, it's like a finely tuned machine. And the life lessons that you realize that they're just tipping in here and there, it's brilliant."

That writing team has been nominated for four Emmys and this season includes Goldstein and Walsh alongside Julia Lindon ("Survival of the Thickest"). "Ted Lasso" is executive produced by Sudeikis, Hunt, Jack Burditt ("30 Rock"), Joe Kelly ("Detroiters"), Jane Becker ("Nobody Wants This"), Jamie Lee ("Crashing") and Bill Wrubel ("Modern Family").

Though he is not returning this season, one of the stars of the first three seasons of "Ted Lasso" took a leap of his own, from on-screen footballer to professional player. Cristo Fernández ("Transformers: Rise of the Beasts," 2023), who portrayed AFC Richmond forward Dani Rojas, recently made his debut in the United Soccer League as forward for the El Paso Locomotive FC in their USL Cup match against New Mexico United.

Pull out your AFC Richmond kit and settle in for a brand-new season of "Ted Lasso," premiering Wednesday, Aug. 5, on Apple TV. Catch the first episode on premiere day with new episodes available to stream every Wednesday.

Pride at work: 'Lioness' returns for a third season

Morgan Freeman, Michael Kelly, Nicole Kidman and Zoe Saldana in "Lioness"

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

From Clarice Starling (Jodie Foster, "Panic Room," 2002) in "The Silence of the Lambs" (1991), to Jessica Chastain's ("Molly's Game," 2017) portrayal of Maya in "Zero Dark Thirty" (2012), to Kate Winslet's ("Titanic," 1997) titular character in "Mare of Easttown," strong women in law enforcement roles have become pretty par for the course in the world of entertainment — and rightfully so, given that the first women in American law enforcement were hired some 130 years ago, in the 1890s (per Police1.com).

But even when pairing the standouts cited above with all the women in long-standing franchises such as CSI and Law & Order, much of these female characters' stories centre on the individual worker (and often her fight against prejudice) rather than following groups of women working together on the front lines.

In 2023, Paramount+ launched "Lioness," a Taylor Sheridan ("Sicario," 2015) series that made big strides toward changing the existing narrative of women as a supporting role in law enforcement. But all good things must come to an end, as they say, and it appears "Lioness's" new season could well be its last.

Season 3 of "Lioness" premieres Sunday, Aug. 2, on Paramount+.

Although no official news has broken announcing the series' cancellation, Collider.com reporter Adam Blevins illustrates the reason for the speculation, writing, "leading star Zoe Saldana ["Colombiana," 2011] originally signed a three-season contract for the show, and there has been no indication that Paramount has re-upped her deal."

"Lioness" is named after the show's central CIA Special Operations program, which exclusively recruits and employs women to fight the "War on Terror," often from the inside out. Although the program and its operations, as shown in the series, are fictional, Paramount has openly stated that the show's premise is "inspired by a real-life U.S. military program" of the same name, launched by the Marine Corps in 2003 to gain intel amid the Global War on Terrorism following the Sept. 11, 2001, attack on the Twin Towers and around the U.S.

"Both the Lioness and Female Engagement Team programs have proven to be a beneficial capability delivering huge gains by interacting with a portion of the population that the male Marines could not engage," reads a segment from USMC Maj. Ginger E. Beals' April 5, 2010, report titled "Woman Marines in Counterinsurgency Operations: Lioness and Female-Engagement Teams" for her Masters in Marine Corps Combat Development Command in Quantico, Virginia.

As a television series, Paramount notes, "Lioness" is a show that demands to be watched from the beginning.

"The first season introduces fans to the Lioness program as led by the CIA's Joe McNamara [Saldana]," the updated November 2025 article reads. "In it, a young Marine, Cruz Manuelos [Laysla De Oliveira, "Locke & Key"], is recruited to go undercover and infiltrate a dangerous terrorist organization. As the story unfolds, the team tackles risky missions, unforeseen accidents, emotional attachments and explosive reveals."

In Season 3, "Joe must walk the line between duty and her home life, as hidden networks, foreign operatives and personal betrayals collide," reads the Entertainment Weekly-provided logline. "Aided by CIA Deputy Director Westfield [Michael Kelly, "Jack Ryan"] and her boss and mentor Kaitlyn [Nicole Kidman, "Nine Perfect Strangers"], Joe confronts enemies operating in the shadows, forcing her to reckon with a war that now reaches into every part of her life."

And although the details for the Lionesses' next mission are being kept mum to avoid spoilers, Saldana told EW during an exclusive interview this past June that the requirements for filming this season were "very demanding."

"I didn't even know if I was gonna be able to pull it off," the Oscar winner added with a laugh.

But indeed she did pull it off, as did Saldana's fellow returning cast members Kidman, Kelly, De Oliveira and Oscar-winner Morgan Freeman ("The Shawshank Redemption," 1994), who returns as U.S. Secretary of State Edwin Mullins.

Additionally, the returning cast includes Dave Annable ("Brothers & Sisters") as Joe's husband, Neal; LaMonica Garrett ("Designated Survivor") as Tucker, a mechanically minded Marine on the Quick Reaction Force; James Jordan ("Landman") as Two Cups; and Jill Wagner ("Teen Wolf") as Bobby.

Genesis Rodriguez ("The Umbrella Academy"), Austin Hebert ("Unbelievable"), Jonah Wharton ("The Rookie"), Thad Luckinbill ("The Young and the Restless"), Hannah Love Lanier ("Road House," 2024) and Celestina Harris ("Dr. Death") also reappear this season, while "Yellowstone" actor Ian Bohlen joins the cast as Grady, a "by-the-book Delta Force operator and primary K-9 handler, skilled in battlefield tactics."

Whether or not Season 3 is "Lioness's" final season on Paramount+, Saldana has not been quiet about her feelings for the show. Citing its "rare balance between high-octane action and genuine emotional depth," the New Jersey native credits her female co-stars and the rich woman-centered storylines at the heart of the show, adding "I don't think I would be able to be a part of a show that would only be action without having these intersectional relationships with these incredibly complex women."

Lock and load for "Lioness," premiering its third season Sunday, Aug. 2, on Paramount+.

'Once Upon a Time in Space' finale sees war threatening ISS harmony

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Space race revisited: Opposing forces align on the International Space Station when the final episode of "Once Upon a Time in Space" debuts Tuesday, Aug. 4, on PBS.

From James Bluemel — the award-winning filmmaker behind "Once Upon a Time in Iraq" and "Once Upon a Time in Northern Ireland" — this four-part series takes viewers on a journey through time and space, weaving together stories from American astronauts, Russian cosmonauts and scientists with testimonies from family members and ground-based staff on Earth. Featuring intimate, never-before-seen footage from NASA missions and more, the series paints a captivating portrait of humanity's fascination with space.

The series begins with the dawn of the Space Shuttle as the U.S. gains ground against its Russian rivals in the Cold War. When tragedy strikes and change comes barreling toward the Soviet Union, however, the two opposing sides come closer and closer to working in harmony.

Now, in this final episode, the International Space Station makes its debut, and a new age of co-operation begins. But how will the space explorers fare in the face of isolation? And how will the impending threat of war impact international relationships thousands of miles away? Bluemel and his team speak with those involved, looking for raw, real and out-of-this-world stories from key players on all sides.

"[As] I made this documentary," Bluemel explains, "I think what I thought [about] was how impressive it was that countries could bury their political ideologies and their political differences in order to achieve something which no singular country could achieve. And that lesson, we are on the brink of throwing that away. That's the danger, I suppose, where we are, where we're no longer going to collaborate with Russia, we're no longer going to collaborate with China. It's going to become much more individualistic. But there was a beauty and a symbolism about the world coming together to achieve something. And I thought that was the most pertinent and moving lesson that I took from the documentary."

Produced by Keo Films in partnership with The Open University, the BBC and PBS, the fourth and final installment of "Once Upon a Time in Space" airs Tuesday, Aug. 4, on PBS.

Hut hut hike: Follow a brand-new roster of signal callers as they navigate highs and lows the 2025 NFL season in Season 3 of "Quarterback," now available to stream on Netflix.

This hit sports documentary series has been offering unprecedented access to the league's key players since the 2022 season, highlighting career-defining moments in the lives of Patrick Mahomes (Kansas City Chiefs), Marcus Mariota (Atlanta Falcons), Kirk Cousins (Las Vegas Raiders), Joe Burrow (Cincinnati Bengals) and Jared Goff (Detroit Lions).

The third season of this docuseries follows quarterbacks Jayden Daniels, Baker Mayfield, Cam Ward and Joe Flacco as they tackle the 2025 NFL season — both on and off the field. While playing for the Washington Commanders, Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Tennessee Titans and Cincinnati Bengals, respectively, they find themselves in the midst of injuries, trades, expanding families and more.

For Daniels, it's only his second season in the league. In 2024, Daniels was named NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year, but after a historic debut season, the pressure, attention and momentum are "all dialed up" in 2025, according to Netflix.

Further south, Mayfield begins his third season with the Buccaneers. Throughout the year, Mayfield saw a myriad of injuries — but his story proves that there's always a silver lining, even during a disappointing season.

"This will be an inside look at the good, the bad, the ugly, just really the endurance of a season," Mayfield promises. "The physical toll, the mental toll of it, how long it is, how many people it really takes. You see the game on Sundays, but just the preparation, the people that help you get there and just that process and how important some of the things are to you throughout the year, whether it's going good or bad."

The final two players featured in Season 3 — Ward and Flacco — share nearly opposite storylines, as a 24-year-old Ward begins his rookie season with a fresh perspective while 41-year-old Flacco begins his 18th season in the NFL, leaving the Cleveland Browns to play for their divisional rival Cincinnati Bengals.

As someone who's "been in the NFL almost as long as Ward has been alive" (per Netflix), Flacco, a former Super Bowl MVP, must build new relationships and learn a fresh playbook — all while balancing fatherhood.

Seeing Mahomes and Peyton Manning ("Chad Powers") as executive producers, Season 3 of "Quarterback" is now available on Netflix.

"My Life With the Walter Boys" — Season 3

One confession, one heartbreak and one summer to fix it all, Season 3 of "My Life With the Walter Boys" premieres Thursday, Aug. 6, on Netflix. The last time we saw the Walters, Jackie (Nikki Rodriguez, "On My Block") and Cole (Noah LaLonde, "Criminal Minds: Evolution") finally confessed their love for each other, but the moment was interrupted when Jackie's boyfriend — and Cole's own brother, Alex (Ashby Gentry, "Are You Afraid of the Dark?") — shows up, heartbroken after overhearing every word. Season 3 picks up once the dust settles, with Jackie and Cole figuring out how to mend their bond with Alex after betraying him. As Alex puts some distance between himself and Jackie, he turns to a new rodeo crew, while Cole meets a race car driver who sees his potential. Jackie, meanwhile, channels her energy into building a community space for the town, but when an old friend from New York shows up, the life she left behind proves harder to forget than she expected. Starring Sarah Rafferty ("Suits") as Katherine, Connor Stanhope ("Smallville") as Danny, Jaylan Evans ("Power Book III: Raising Kanan") as Skylar, Corey Fogelmanis ("Girl Meets World") as Nathan, Zoe Soul ("The Odd Life of Timothy Green," 2012) as Hayley and Erin Karpluk ("Being Erica") as Hannah, the series was created by showrunner Melanie Halsall ("Itch").

"The Last House" (2026)

What begins as an ordinary day for a family of four devolves into a terrifying test of survival when they are suddenly, inexplicably sealed inside their own home. "The Last House" premieres this Friday, Aug. 7, on Netflix. Cut off from the outside world with absolutely no way out, Riley (Greta Lee, "Past Lives," 2023), Jason (Wagner Moura, "The Secret Agent," 2025) and their two children must survive against both their dwindling resources and the mysterious, looming threat that is keeping them trapped. Three years later, a frantic woman appears at their living room window, delivering a chilling warning with her final breath to hide. But her sudden arrival brings something else entirely, as a monstrous creature lurking in the dark unlocks their front door and enters their home. Fighting for survival is only the beginning. The film stars Riley Chung ("The Hunger Games: The Ballad of Songbirds & Snakes," 2023), Emma Ho ("The Baker"), Noah Alexander Sosnowski ("Section 8," 2022), Gabriel Barbosa ("May December," 2023) and Sam Lerner ("The Goldbergs"). "The Last House" is directed by Louis Leterrier ("Now You See Me," 2013) and written by Matthew Robinson ("Love and Monsters," 2020).

"Ricky Gervais Alley Cats"

- Season 1

From the mind of Ricky Gervais ("After Life"), the adult animated comedy "Alley Cats" begins stream-

Greta Lee, Emma Ho and Wagner Moura in "The Last House"

ing on Netflix this Friday, Aug. 7, following "a gang of foul-mouthed feral cats" searching for the meaning of life while "fighting for survival in a brutal human world," according to Netflix. Gervais voices Gus, a lazy, opinionated cat who's convinced he's smarter and braver than he actually is, leading a scrappy crew that includes Ponce (Tom Basden, "After Life"), Fang (Andrew Brooke, "After Life") and Puke (David Earl, "Derek"). "Between dumpster dives and near-death scrapes," the trio search for love and try to hold on to all nine of their lives along the way. Rounding out the cast are Kerry Godliman ("Derek") as Lara, Jo Hartley ("This Is England," 2006) as Kitten, Diane Morgan ("After Life") as Olive and Natalie Cassidy ("EastEnders") as Samantha. Gervais created, wrote and directed the six-episode season, with Elliot Dear ("Love, Death & Robots") co-directing, and executive produces alongside Steven Hamilton Shaw ("Gnomeo & Juliet," 2011), James Stevenson Bretton ("Don't Hug Me I'm Scared") and Ben Lole ("Don't Hug Me I'm Scared").

"Sterling Point" – Season 1

An island holds the answers to a family she never knew in Season 1 of "Sterling Point," premiering Wednesday, Aug. 5, on Prime Video. Seventeen-year-old Annie Jacobson (Ella Rubin, "The Idea of You," 2024) has spent her entire life in New York City, raised alongside her brother (Keen Ruffalo, "Thor: Ragnarok," 2017) by their loving adoptive father (Jay Duplass, "Transparent"). But when her grandfather passes away and she inherits an island off the coast of Canada, Annie packs up and heads north for a summer that will change her life forever. There, she meets Ramona (Amelie Hoeferle, "The Hunger Games: The Ballad of Songbirds & Snakes," 2023), a stranger she discovers is actually her sister, and the two set out to learn more about their mother's past. Created by Megan Park ("The Fallout," 2021), "Sterling Point" also stars Jacob Whiteduck-Lavoie ("Billie Blue," 2023), Daniel Quinn-Toye ("Sunny Dancer," 2026), Bo Bragason ("Renegade Nell"), Jeffrey Dean Morgan ("The Walking Dead"), Nikko Angelo Hinayo ("Davey & Jonesie's Locker"), Mabel Strachan ("The Ridge"), Elle-Maija Tailfeathers ("The Body Remembers When the World Broke Open," 2019) and Missi Pyle ("Gone Girl," 2014).

"You, Me & Tuscany" (2026)

"You, Me & Tuscany" serves up a sweet recipe for love with a side of little white lies, when director Kat Coiro's ("Matlock") romantic comedy arrives this Friday, Aug. 7, on Prime Video via the Peacock channel. After her life in New York falls apart, Anna Montgomery (Halle Bailey, "The Little Mermaid," 2023) makes an impulsive decision to fly to Italy in hopes of becoming a chef. But when she arrives in Tuscany during a packed local festival, she finds every hotel fully booked, seeking shelter for the night in an empty villa belonging to Matteo (Lorenzo de Moor, "The Iris Affair"), an Italian traveler she recently met back in New York. Her plan takes a wild turn, however, when she is caught by Matteo's mother and, in a moment of panic, pretends to be his new fiancée. As Anna settles into Matteo's family, she begins working alongside them in their family restaurant, finally living out her dreams. But when she meets Matteo's cousin, Michael (Rege-Jean Page, "Roots"), suddenly, the man she's falling for isn't the one she's supposedly engaged to. As wedding plans are underway, Anna must choose between keeping up the act or risking it all for a genuine shot at true love.

"Beast Race" (2026)

In a dystopian future, the citizens of a ruined Rio de Janeiro ready themselves for a deadly battle. "Beast Race" makes its debut on Prime Video this Friday, Aug. 7, finding the idealistic young Mano (Matheus Abreu, "The Way He Looks," 2014) entering a twisted version of the "Jogo do Bicho" — or the animal lottery, an illegal Brazilian betting game — to save his sister, Dalva (Thaina Duarte, "New Bandits"), who was thrown into the game by another participant. "To compete, each runner must offer another person as collateral," Amazon describes, presenting Mano's dilemma: "[only] winners recover their loved ones." In a desperate attempt to ensure her survival, Mano abandons his principles and enters the game, "forming unlikely alliances to increase his chances of winning and, perhaps, ending the game once and for all" (per Amazon). Anitta ("Hitpig!," 2024), Azzy ("Never Give Up"), Ana Chagas ("Mysteries of Lisbon"), Jessica Cores ("Hidden Truths"), Camilla de Lucas ("Burning Betrayal," 2023), Ted Evans ("I Should Be Going," 2026), Igor Fernandez ("A Wolf Among the Swans," 2024), Leandro Firmino ("City of God," 2002) and Bruno Gagliasso ("Tropical Paradise") also star.

'Undercover' helper

Lofaso, Milian infiltrate failing eateries in new series

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Fans of "Undercover Boss" and service industry shows such as "Bar Rescue" and "Kitchen Takeover" will delight in Food Network's newest series, "Kitchen Undercover," which launched Tuesday, July 28.

Airing its second episode Tuesday, Aug. 4 (and streaming next day on HBO Max), "Kitchen Undercover" follows chef Nestor Milian across each episode as he is hired by a failing California restaurant. Weaving his way into the fabric of the team over four days, he makes note of every detail that could be contributing to the eatery's worsening reputation. Meanwhile, Antonia Lofaso ("Guy's Grocery Games") watches the drama unfold from a nearby van via hidden cameras, waiting for her chance to teach the owners how to turn the failing establishment into a new-found success.

"From toxic team dynamics to tragic food, nothing stays hidden for long," the Food Network series description reads. "When the truth about why customers aren't coming back is exposed, Antonia steps in to shake things up, calling out the chaos and whipping these teams into shape. With the clock ticking and closure looming, only time will tell if Antonia can turn these hot messes into hot spots."

In last week's episode, Milian and Lofaso paid a visit to Los Angeles diner Gritz N' Wafflez, owned and operated by Texas native Jurni Rayne. Inspired by her upbringing on Southern soul food, Rayne cooks to honor her great-grandmother, Mama Zula, whose "spirit is the heart of our kitchen," noting on the Gritz N' Wafflez website that "her legacy lives on in every bite."

Unfortunately, "despite widespread praise for its Southern comfort cuisine," reads the Food Network pilot description, "owner Jurni has faced mounting financial pressure and an operation on the brink of collapse," leading to an intervention led by the "Kitchen Undercover" team.

Other featured restaurants include MamiMosas in West Covina, California, Ricci's Italian Restaurant in Bellflower, California, and Broken Spirits Barbeque in Long Beach, California, among others.

"The restaurant industry is about community, communication [and] hospitality," Lofaso told CBS Mornings host Vladimir Duthiers in the July 8 episode. "I've been doing this for over three decades, and this is an opportunity for me to really be able to share information that I have accumulated over my own failures and my own successes."

Join the staff meeting when a new episode of "Kitchen Undercover" airs Tuesday, Aug. 4, on Food Network.

Exit 8

An unnamed man, "The Lost Man" (Ninomiya), becomes trapped in an eerily empty underground subway corridor while trying to leave a station. He discovers a simple but unnerving set of rules: carefully observe his surroundings, turn back if he notices anything out of the ordinary and continue forward only when everything appears normal. Every mistake sends him back to the beginning of the corridor, forcing him to repeat the same journey over and over. As he progresses through the endless loop, the anomalies become increasingly unsettling. The repetitive ordeal tests his memory, perception and sanity, while encounters with other trapped individuals hint that the corri-

In the Grey

An elite team of covert operatives work in the moral grey area between law enforcement and criminality. When a ruthless crime boss steals a billion-dollar fortune, the team is hired to recover it on what appears to be an impossible mission. Led by the resourceful Rachel Wild (Gonzalez), alongside seasoned operatives Bronco (Gyllenhaal) and Sid (Cavill), the group must rely on strategy, deception and precision to outsmart an enemy with limitless resources. As the operation unfolds, the mission evolves from a high-stakes recovery into a deadly game of survival. The team navigates a web of betrayals, shifting alliances and heavily fortified criminal networks, forcing them to improvise as carefully laid plans begin to unravel. Each member brings unique skills to the operation, but success depends on their ability to trust one another while staying several steps ahead of their opponents.

Director: Guy Ritchie. Stars: Henry Cavill, Eiza Gonzalez, Kristofer Hivju, Fisher Stevens, Rosamund Pike, Jake Gyllenhaal. 2026. 97 min. Action Thriller.

Lioness

show 8:00 PM

The latest season of this series follows Joe (Zoe Saldana) as she walks the thin line between her duty and home life. Can she continue to work in the shadows without endangering those she loves? Or will the war she fights infect every corner of her life?

American Ninja Warrior

(5) (12) 9:00 PM

Matt Iseman and his fellow hosts watch on with bated breath as athletic Americans chase an epic dream: conquering Mount Midoriyama, the planet's most brutal obstacle course. One misstep could cost everything, but a win would mean even more.

Pitmasters

food 9:00 PM

The remaining teams take part in a nose-to-tail barbecue battle during this latest episode. First, they must use a hog, goat or lamb to create two main dishes and two sides. Afterwards, the remaining parts of the animal are used to make sausage links.

The Ministry of Ungentlemanly Warfare

syfy 9:30 PM

"Furious" – Season 1

The hunt for a ruthless killer takes a dark turn when "Furious" returns with a new episode Monday, Aug. 3, on Hulu. The series follows FBI agent Alice Black (Emmy Rossum, "Mystic River," 2003) as she hunts down an elusive, calculating female serial killer, Catherine (Lola Petticrew, "Tuesday," 2023), who stalks the streets at night, targeting wealthy men she crosses paths with. As the investigation unfolds and the line between hunter and hunted become increasingly intertwined, Alice realizes she'll have to excavate dark secrets from Catherine's past to in order to catch her. Joined by NYPD homicide detective Danny (Scoot McNairy, "Halt and Catch Fire") and veteran agent Nora (Quincy Tyler Bernstine, "Power Book II: Ghost"), Alice discovers that Catherine isn't acting at random, but carrying out her own twisted sense of justice. "Furious" was created, written and executive produced by Elizabeth Meriwether ("The Dropout"), with Rossum, Ronald Bass ("Rain Man," 1988), Matt Olmstead ("Chicago P.D."), Sam Hoffman ("Madam Secretary") and director Brian Kirk ("Luther") as executive producers for 20th Television and Searchlight Television.

"Futurama" – Season 14

Brace yourselves... The future is about to get a whole lot stranger

Chloe Troast and Lola Petticrew in "Furious"

when Season 14 of "Futurama" begins streaming Monday, Aug. 3, on Hulu and Hulu on Disney+. The new season throws the Planet Express crew into a fresh round of chaos, from swaggering space pirates to lab-grown meats, and even an old flame from Dr. Zoidberg's past that nobody expected to see again. Created by Matt Groening (also creator of "The Simpsons") and David X. Cohen

("Disenchantment"), Season 14 brings back the show's longtime voice cast, including John DiMaggio ("Adventure Time"), Billy West ("The Ren & Stimpy Show"), Katey Sagal ("Sons of Anarchy"), Tress MacNeille ("The Simpsons"), Phil LaMarr ("Pulp Fiction," 1994), Lauren Tom ("Friends"), Maurice LaMarche ("Pinky and the Brain") and David Herman ("Dude, Where's My Car?," 2000). Executive Producers include Groening, Cohen, Ken Keeler ("The Simpsons") and Claudia Katz ("The Simpsons Movie," 2007).

"Imaginary" (2024)

Soft and fuzzy doesn't always mean harmless, and "Imaginary" — a 2024 horror film from director Jeff Wadlow ("The Devil's Mouth," 2026), coming to Hulu this Tuesday, Aug. 4 — proves just that. Starring DeWanda Wise ("Jurassic World: Dominion," 2022) as the film's protagonist, children's book author Jessica, this psychological horror follows as Jessica moves back into her childhood home alongside her husband, Max (Tom Payne, "The Walking Dead"), and daughters Alice (Pyper Braun, "Desperation Road," 2023) and Taylor (Taegen Burns, "The Mighty Ducks: Game Changers"). Their fresh start is quick to spoil, however, when Alice discovers an old teddy bear — Chauncy (voiced by Dane DiLiegro, "Only Murders in the Building") — that belonged to Jessica as a child. Its reappearance stirs something in Jessica, churning up nightmares, repressed memories and worse, when Alice is suddenly taken to an otherworldly realm. With a screenplay penned by Greg Erb ("The Princess and the Frog," 2009) and Jason Oremland ("Playmobil: The Movie," 2019), "Imaginary" also stars Betty Buckley ("Split," 2016), Veronica Falcon ("Lee Cronin's The Mummy," 2026), Samuel Salazar ("Stranger Things"), Matthew Sato ("Doogie Kamealoha, M.D."), Alix Angelis ("This Is Me... Now," 2024), Wanetah Walmsley ("Pitch Perfect," 2012), Rhythm Hurd ("Fatherhood," 2021), Shawn Sanz ("We Have a Ghost," 2023), Lawrence Weber Jr. ("Runaway Hearts," 2015), Lilly Sunshine ("Lawmen: Bass Reeves") and Cecilia Leal ("Black Bird"), among others.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Is there any chance that Netflix will again show "Still Game"?
We miss it!

A: It's quite likely just a matter of time, but how much is anyone's guess.

That's because, essentially, beloved old shows like the Scottish sitcom

Martin Compston, Greg Hemphill, Gianni Capaldi and Ford Kiernan in "Still Game"

"Still Game" cycle between the various streaming services. Presumably, this is so that each service can be seen to have content appealing to, for example, Scotophiles (I learned a new word today!) like yourself.

"Still Game," which originally aired in the U.K. from 2002 to 2019 (though with a nine-year break between Seasons 6 and 7), has now moved from Netflix to Amazon Prime Video. So for you, the solution — the one that Amazon would like you to follow, anyway — would be to subscribe to Prime Video to get access to it again.

But given that it debuted in the 2000s, there's another option: full seasons of "Still Game" were released on DVD, as was the norm back then, so you could track those down (assuming you have a player) and not have to worry about your access being revoked again.

This is all starting to sound like a plot from "Still Game," which was all about finding fault with the modern while perhaps overcelebrating what came before.

But if, out of the thousands of shows and films on Netflix, this is the one you're missing, perhaps that parallel won't bother you much.

Q: I haven't seen Brooke Shields in a while. Is she still acting?

A: Brooke Shields ("The Blue Lagoon," 1980) seems to now be enjoying the fruits of being one of the great modern screen stars. That's the best explanation for her resume over the past five years, which includes: toppling her own detective show ("You're Killing Me"), doing a brief pop-in in a cult-favorite TV show ("When Calls the Heart") and also doing a voice for a Batman podcast ("Batman: The Audio Adventures").

It's the resume of an actor who can just take whatever role tickles her fancy.

If you're really wanting a Shields fix, "You're Killing Me," which debuted this year, is your best bet. She plays the lead character on the show, a bestselling novelist trying to solve her friend's murder.

It's produced by the Acorn TV streaming service and has already been renewed for a second season — like the first, it'll be six hour-long episodes. But given that the first season just finished airing in June, it'll likely be a while before we see it.

Meanwhile, as I said, she's also been filling her time with a truly random assortment of guest spots.

The most notable of these has been recurring character Charlotte Thornton in the modern-cowboy romance series "When Calls the Heart." She showed up for three episodes earlier this year (the show's impressive 13th season), but she actually launched the role back in the third season in 2016.
