Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Tonight [July 14], ladies and gentlemen, my mustache comes to you with a heavy heart because while I was on vacation, my parent corporation, Paramount, paid Donald Trump a $16-million settlement over his “60 Minutes” lawsuit. As someone who has always been a proud employee of this network, I am offended. And I don’t know if anything will ever repair my trust in this company. But just taking a stab at it, I’d say $16 million would help.

This settlement is for a nuisance lawsuit Trump filed claiming that “60 Minutes” deceptively edited their interview with then-candidate Kamala Harris last fall. Paramount knows they could have easily fought it because, in their own words, the lawsuit was completely without merit. And keep in mind Paramount produced “Transformers: Rise of the Beasts.” They know completely without merits.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Some news from the White House today [July 14] — [President] Trump threatened very severe tariffs on Russia if they don’t agree to a Ukraine cease-fire deal within 50 days. Yeah, you can tell Trump’s fed up with Putin because he didn’t invite him to his “Love Island” finale watch party.

Levi’s said that they have been able to keep sales high amid tariffs thanks to the popularity of jorts. I also found some great jorts at TJ Maxx, but they were just jeans that are rat chewed.

Jimmy Kimmel Live! With Chris Distefano

Welcome to Jimmy Kimmel Live. I’m your guest host, Chris Distefano. My first time. First time ever doing it, and look, if you don’t know me, no worries. I’m not even sure I know me anymore, which is one of the many reasons my fiancée makes me go to therapy. Shout out, Dr. Yang. There it is. Shout out just cost me 300 bucks.

It’s an honor to be guest hosting and it’s like mind-blowing to me Jimmy just lets people do this. I mean, this is a multimillion-dollar property for ABC. And Jimmy’s just like, “Hey, Chris, you look like a guy that might let a slur fly on national television. Want to give it a whirl? Here you go.” So, sorry if one slips.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

Vice President JD Vance visited Disneyland over the weekend with his family. Well, that’s a good start, but I, for one, think he deserves even more punishment.

Cast members from the “Golden Bachelor” and “Golden Bachelorette” made their first appearance last night on “Bachelor in Paradise.” It’s the first episode of “Bachelor in Paradise” where the hot tub was mainly used to treat muscle aches.

Actress Bernadette Peters co-hosted the 27th annual “Broadway Barks” cat and dog adoption event over the weekend in Manhattan. Though despite her best efforts, no theater was willing to take in “Cats.”

Enter, chestburster: Invasive creatures make a crash landing in 'Alien: Earth'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Before the events of the 1979 film "Alien" terrorized the crew of the USSCS Nostromo mid-journey back to Earth, the blue planet was also invaded by threatening life-forms. "Alien: Earth," the new prequel series premiering Tuesday, Aug. 12, on FX and Hulu, explores the response to a mysterious ship's crash landing into Prodigy City.

In the year 2120, the world is reigned over by a handful of corporations that crave constant technological advancement. One of them, Prodigy Corporation, is responsible for the latest leap in human-tech fusion. Cyborgs and synthetics already populate Earth and live among humans, but Prodigy is ready to unleash their prototype hybrids — immortal humanoid robots uploaded with a real human's consciousness — into the world when the crash requires a special team to execute a recovery mission.

Wendy, portrayed by Sydney Chandler ("Sugar"), is the first hybrid child of Prodigy CEO Boy Kavalier (Samuel Blenkin, "Mary & George"). The first class of hybrids, nicknamed "The Lost Boys" by Kavalier, was made possible with the contributions of terminally ill children who agreed to donate their consciousness to the cause, a bleak picture of life in Earth's corporate era. Kavalier's right-hand man, Atom Eins (Adrian Edmondson, "3 Body Problem"), serves to deliver his boss's desires, no matter the human cost.

"Alien: Earth" also stars Timothy Olyphant ("Justified: City Primeval") as Wendy's synthetic trainer Kirsh and Alex Lawther ("Andor") and Diem Camille ("The Wheel of Time") as human soldiers CJ and Siberian. Essie Davis ("The Narrow Road to the Deep North") stars as Dame Silvia, Wendy's human mother figure. David Rysdahl ("Fargo") is Dame's husband, Arthur Silvia, who develops conflicted feelings about his participation in the creation of the hybrids.

Timothy Olyphant in "Alien: Earth"

Portraying the synthetics and cyborgs are Adarsh Gourav ("Guns & Gulaabs") as Slightly, Kit Young ("Shadow and Bone") as Tootles, Babou Ceesay ("We Hunt Together") as Morrow, Jonathan Ajayi ("Vigil") as Smee, Erana James ("The Wilds") as Curly and Lily Newmark ("A Gentleman in Moscow") as Nibs. You might have caught more than a few references to "Peter Pan," there. The series invokes the characters from the children's story, but whether "Alien: Earth" holds happy endings for Kavalier's lost boys remains to be seen.

Under the guise of a recovery mission to pull any living crew members from the ship's wreckage, the humanoid soldiers are sent into the vessel to do Kavalier's dirty work. As a voice-over states in the series' official trailer, five life-forms were collected by the crashed ship on its extraterrestrial ventures, and it is unknown how dangerous those creatures are. What is clear is that Kavalier wants them. Wendy steps up to lead the mission on behalf of herself and Kavalier's synthetics, saying, "We can do it. We're fast. We're strong. We don't break."

The four other corporations that make up the world's governing powers — Weyland-Yutani, Lynch, Dynamic and Threshold — are equally ruthless as Prodigy in their quest for the technology of the future. It was a Weyland-Yutani ship that crashed in Prodigy City, leaving a mystery surrounding the conditions that led to the disaster. It could have been planned, the result of an emergency or just the wrong corners being cut.

As "Alien: Earth" showrunner Noah Hawley, who also helmed the TV adaptation and continuation of the 1996 Coen brothers film "Fargo," told Entertainment Weekly: "If we just extrapolate where we are now, it's driven much more by corporations than democracies. It's very much wrapped up in a competition for technological superiority. The nature of power is, 'In the end, there can be only one.' So we're in the middle of a battle on that level for who has the power in the human race."

Hawley also spoke to Vanity Fair about working on the series in the midst of a global debate over the ethics of artificial intelligence, saying, "In the last 18 months, it's become the issue of the moment. I think we're all trying to figure it out: Can you trust it? Can you talk to it? Why is it lying to me?" Though the world of "Alien: Earth" has obviously exceeded the length of this debate as humans walk side-by-side with androids, the question of trust remains. However, now the motives of humans are up for interrogation in the complex world of the series, ruled by corporations.

The lead hybrid in "Alien: Earth," Wendy, has the donated consciousness of a child. That innocence is at odds with the militarized capitalist objective of creating and training the hybrids to be soldiers. In a world with so much darkness — corporate overlords, vicious extraterrestrial creatures, a volatile climate — where does the light get in? Does humanity's torch deserve to stay lit at all if this is what's become of Earth? Torn between the evils of humans, aliens and technology, Wendy and her child-like intuition may be the closest thing to the way forward that this world has.

Don't miss the premiere of "Alien: Earth" when it lands Tuesday, Aug. 12, on FX and Hulu.

Hard to kill: Father, daughter get second chance in 'Butterfly'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

When it comes to storytelling, some tales quite simply lend themselves better to the screen. Often the best films and TV shows are based in pre-existing visual media, as series such as AMC's "The Walking Dead," Prime Video's "The Boys" and Netflix's "Jessica Jones" can attest. But it takes more than a simple storyboard to guarantee television success — especially in a world saturated with top-tier content across cable, streaming services and more theatrical cinema outlets.

Yes, in order to acquire and maintain a loyal fan base, a story must have heart — something Prime Video is counting on to drive its newest action thriller "Butterfly" into homes across North America when it lands on the streamer this summer.

Premiering Wednesday, Aug. 13, on the Amazon-owned platform, "Butterfly" is a six-episode series based on the Boom! Studios graphic novel series of the same name written by Arash Amel and Marguerite Bennett and illustrated by Antonio Fusco and Stefano Simeone. Delving deep into the complex nature of parent-child relationships and the intricacies tied to personal identity, "Butterfly" stars Daniel Dae Kim ("Hawaii Five-0") — in his first leading television role — and Reina Hardesty ("It's What's Inside," 2024) as two intelligence agents whose paths cross when they uncover their shared past.

"Butterfly" is a character-driven spy thriller that explores complex family dynamics within the treacherous world of global espionage," reads the official description as provided by Amazon Studios. "It's centered on David Jung (Kim), an enigmatic, highly unpredictable former U.S. intelligence operative living in South Korea, whose life is blown to pieces when the consequences of an impossible decision from his past come back to haunt him, and he finds himself pursued by Rebecca (Hardesty), a deadly, sociopathic young agent assigned to kill him, and Cad-dis, the sinister spy organization she works for."

When, per the trailer, David acknowledges that he faked his own death and led Rebecca to believe him dead for the past 20 years, the father-daughter duo must face the impact of David's past decisions and try to heal their strained relationship while also outrunning Juno (Piper Perabo, "Coyote Ugly," 2000), a "brilliant, formidable, Machiavellian woman" (per Variety) who was once a successful lawyer before she came "to the conclusion that she needs power and money to get anything done in this world." Now a fierce, protective mother and the high-powered CEO of an intelligence agency, Juno "will often tamp down [her vulnerabilities] when they conflict with her goals."

Also, not unlike David, Juno is in the process of trying to repair a fractured relationship with her own child, Oliver, played by "Serpent Queen" and "Rivals" actor Louis Landau.

The series adaptation comes from showrunner Ken Woodruff, who previously worked on "Gotham," "La Brea" and "The Mentalist" among other projects, and Korean American author Steph Cha, who wrote the tense 2019 sociopolitical drama

"Your House Will Pay: A Novel," set during the 1992 human rights riots in Los Angeles. And although "Butterfly" is based primarily in South Korea rather than stateside, like her novel, Cha's respected commentary on race politics and deep interpersonal relations remains at the heart of the series and its production.

"'Butterfly' is the realization of a longtime dream to bring together American and Korean storytellers and create a show that bridges two cultures that I love deeply," Kim said in a press statement for Amazon. "I couldn't be happier with the creative team we've assembled, both in front of and behind the camera, and I'm grateful to Ken Woodruff, BOOM! Studios, 3AD, Amazon and everyone else who helped bring it to life."

Additional writing for the series is provided by "NCIS: Los Angeles" writer and producer Dave Kalstein, "13 Reasons Why" writer and producer Diana Son, "Person of Interest" writer and producer Denise Thé and playwright Sung Rno, whose credits currently list three short films, including 2021's "Sophocles in Staten Island" about a Filipino American family who are quarantined and homeschooled by their strict and overbearing father during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Releasing all six episodes on the show's premiere, "Butterfly" also stars Kim Ji-hoon ("Jang Bo Ri Is Here"), Kim Tae-hee ("Jang Ok-jung, Living By Love"), Lee Il-hwa ("Good Manager"), Sung Dong-il ("It's Okay, That's Love"), Sean Dulake ("Athena: Goddess of War"), Seoyeon Jang ("Good Partner") and SAG Award-nominated actor Charles Parnell ("Barry") as Sen. George Dawson.

Series direction is led by Kitao Sakurai ("The Eric Andre Show"), who directed the first two episodes of the series.

Don't miss the opportunity to pit nature against nurture when worlds collide in "Butterfly," coming to Prime Video Wednesday, Aug. 13, with all six episodes.

Step inside Atlanta's Magic City during new docuseries

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Culture club: Enter a world of seduction, musicality and magic with the all-new docuseries "Magic City: An American Fantasy," premiering Friday, Aug. 15, on Starz immediately following the Season 4 finale of "BMF."

Known as the hangout of the notorious drug gang BMF, a breeding ground for hip-hop superstars and the stage for former Georgia Gov. Stacey Abrams' "get out the vote" announcement in 2020, Magic City, a prominent strip club operating in Atlanta, has become a cornerstone for Black culture over the past 40 years. "Although the club continues to serve as a meeting place where the worlds of politics, music and sports converge," reads a series description, "the true story of its rise to fame has long remained a mystery — until now."

Created by journalist Cole Brown, this five-part docuseries, per its logline, "takes viewers on a wild and unexpected ride detailing the legendary club's storied history as a cultural hub in Atlanta," following Magic City's rise "from a local attraction to a cultural powerbroker."

Celebrities such as 2 Chainz ("Mercy"), Nelly ("Hot In Herre"), Shaquille O'Neal (Steel, 1997), Quavo ("Open It Up"), Killer Mike ("Legend Has It") and Outkast ("Hey Ya!") member Big Boi — all patrons of the club, at one time or another — share their firsthand experiences in exclusive interviews, offering a glimpse into the one-of-a-kind world of Magic City, alongside many of the women who worked at the club.

Kathryn Busby, president of Original Programming at Starz, says,

Jermaine Dupri features in "Magic City: An American Fantasy"

"'Magic City: An American Fantasy' is a riveting behind-the-curtain look at one of the most unique places in Black culture. The docuseries' unprecedented insider access and history unveiled from those who built its empire is a perfect complement to Starz's slate of adult, culture-driving shows."

Produced by Scheme Engine — a BIPOC-owned studio highlighting minority representation — alongside Drake's ("Hotline Bling") DreamCrew Entertainment, with Jermaine Dupri ("Bad Boys," 1995), Jami Gertz ("The Neighbors"), Devin Amar ("Romeo Santos: King of Bachata," 2021) and Alex Kaplan ("Mental Health Action Day: Live on KNEKT tv!," 2021) serving as executive producers, "Magic City: An American Fantasy" comes from showrunner Bayan Joonam ("QAnon: The Search for Q") and director Charles Todd ("Memes & Nightmares," 2024), and premieres Friday, Aug. 15, on Starz.

Famous fundraiser: Dolly Parton ("Jolene") and Sheryl Crow ("Soak Up the Sun") take to the stage at Nashville's newest venue, The Pinnacle, for a night of fundraising and entertainment during the ninth biennial presentation of "Stand Up to Cancer," which airs Friday, Aug. 15, on more than 30 participating platforms and networks, including NBC, ABC, CBS and Fox.

According to the American Cancer Society, the risk of certain cancers are increasing in younger and younger people. The National Cancer Institute notes that when Gen-Xers turn 60, they'll be more likely to develop an invasive cancer than boomers were at the same age.

Stand Up To Cancer — the organizer of this star-studded event — hopes to make a dent in those statistics, bringing together, per its website, "the best and brightest to create new groundbreaking therapies and treatments." By prioritizing access to early-stage detection, the foundation hopes to reduce cancer deaths by 25% in five years and 50% in 10 years.

Together, musicians, celebrities, athletes, researchers and cancer survivors join to share the SU2C message with the largest possible audience. Through these fundraisers — which have been on air since 2008 — the initiative has collaborated with over 1,200 celebrity ambassadors, 210 institutions, 3,100 researchers, 126 research teams and 37,000 clinical trial patients, with over $795 million raised through donations (per standuptocancer.org).

"The goal of Stand Up To Cancer has always been about working collaboratively to push cancer research forward so we could help patients as quickly as possible," veteran journalist and SU2C co-founder Katie Couric said in a statement. "Nearly two decades later, it's incredibly gratifying and inspiring to see the impact of this research. Bringing the show to Nashville will infuse new energy and excitement into our mission. There's still so much work to do and every dollar makes a difference — especially to the families who are counting on novel approaches and therapies as they face the challenges that often accompany a cancer diagnosis."

In a video message shared ahead of this year's fundraiser, actress Reese Witherspoon ("Legally Blonde," 2001), explains: "Every day, from every corner of this country, we lose 1,670 people to cancer. But we can end this heartache by supporting Stand Up to Cancer"

2025's "Stand Up to Cancer" event airs live on NBC, ABC, CBS, Fox and more, Friday, Aug. 15.

Bull and Honey in "Fixed"

"Fixed" (2025)

The gang gets together for a bark-tastic night. From five-time Emmy-winning filmmaker Genndy Tartakovsky ("Dexter's Laboratory") comes the animated comedy "Fixed," premiering Wednesday, Aug. 13, on Netflix. Bull (voiced by Adam Devine, "Pitch Perfect," 2012) is an average, all-around good dog whose world is turned upside down when he overhears his owners scheduling a trip to the vet to have him neutered. Determined to make the most of his final hours "fully intact," Bull rounds up his loyal pack of misfit pals for one wild night across the city — with an important stop to visit the show dog next door, Honey (Kathryn Hahn, "WandaVision"), to proclaim his love, of course. From dodging dog catchers to chasing dreams they never dared to bark about, it turns out even man's best friend isn't safe from life's biggest curveballs. The star-studded voice cast also includes Idris Elba ("Thor: Ragnarok," 2017) as Rocco, Fred Armisen ("Wednesday") as Fetch, Beck Bennett ("Superman," 2025) as Sterling, River Gallo ("Ponyboy," 2024) as Frankie, Michelle Buteau ("Survival of the Thickest") as Molasses and Bobby Moynihan ("Saturday Night Live") as Lucky. The film is produced by Michelle Murdocca ("Hotel Transylvania 3: Summer Vacation," 2018).

"Miss Governor" — Season 1, Part 2

The men in office still think it's their game. A tough job, a loud family and a lot to prove, Season 1, Part 2 of "Miss Governor" premieres Wednesday, Aug. 13, on Netflix. Antoinette Dunkerson (Terri J. Vaughn, "Cherish the Day") made history as Mississippi's first Black lieutenant governor, but the real work begins after the inauguration. Part 1 concluded with Antoinette learning that breaking barriers doesn't stop people from trying to box her in. With a condescending, sexist governor (Robert Craighead, "Future Man") constantly trying to undercut her authority, she has to fight twice as hard to be taken seriously. Moreover, the political spotlight doesn't stop at work. At home, Antoinette's outspoken, unpredictable family keeps landing her in the headlines for all the wrong reasons — from viral moments to media mishaps. As her political clout grows, so does the tension, both in the office and in her personal life. From writer-director-producer Tyler Perry ("Gone Girl," 2014), Season 1 of "Miss Governor" stars Kevin Thoms ("Law & Order: Special Victims Unit"), Jade Novah ("Antebellum," 2020), Drew Olivia Tillman ("This Is Us"), Tre Boyd ("House of Payne"), Dyon Brooks ("Top of the City") and Jo Marie Payton ("Family Matters").

thriller "Night Always Comes," making its debut Friday, Aug. 15, on Netflix, with Emmy and Oscar nominee Vanessa Kirby ("Mission: Impossible — Fallout," 2018) leading the cast. Throughout the course of a single night, Lynette (Kirby) must risk everything to save the house that represents her family's fleeting future, fighting a ticking clock as she confronts a dark past, embarks on a dangerous odyssey and breaks free from the shadows enveloping her life. With a screenplay penned by Sarah Conradt ("Mothers' Instinct," 2024), "Night Always Comes" also stars Jennifer Jason Leigh ("The Hateful Eight," 2015), Zack Gottsagen ("The Peanut Butter Falcon," 2019), Stephan James ("If Beale Street Could Talk," 2018), Julia Fox ("Uncut Gems"), Eli Roth ("Inglourious Basterds," 2009), Randall Park ("WandaVision") and Michael Kelly ("House of Cards").

"Sausage Party: Foodtopia" – Season 2

It's a bun-believable new chapter in food history! Season 2 of "Sausage Party: Foodtopia" makes its way to Prime Video Wednesday, Aug. 13, with episodes from Season 1 available on the streamer to "ketchup" on. In Season 2, Frank (Seth Rogen, "This Is the End," 2013), Barry (Michael Cera, "Juno," 2007) and Sammy (Edward Norton, "Glass Onion: A Knives Out Mystery," 2022) find themselves exiled from the home they once knew. The trio stumbles upon New Foodland — a dazzling, high-tech paradise where food and humans appear to live together in harmony. At first glance, New Foodland is everything Frank ever dreamed of, but it doesn't take long before cracks begin to show in the city's perfect exterior. Behind the automated smiles and pristine packaging lies a dangerous secret — one that could destroy everything sentient food has fought for. With the future of food-kind hanging in the balance, it's going to take more than buns and bravado to bring the truth to light. Starring Will Forte ("The Lego Movie," 2014), Kristen Wiig

Saturday, August 9, 2025

("Bridesmaids," 2011) and Sam Richardson ("We're the Millers," 2013), the show is written for television by Evan Goldberg ("This Is the End," 2013), with Rogen, Conrad Vernon ("Shrek," 2001) and Andrew Millstein ("Nimona," 2023) serving as executive producers.

"Abandoned: The Woman in the Decaying House" – Season 1

After nearly 30 years of silence, a victim shares new and disturbing details of the horror she experienced in a Sao Paulo, Brazil, mansion during the all-new series, "Abandoned: The Woman in the Decaying House," premiering Friday, Aug. 15, on Prime Video. Having brought Brazil to a standstill in July 2022, this true crime series delves into the case of a domestic worker assaulted and kept hostage by a woman — soon known as the woman with white cream on her face — and her ex-husband, kept in a decaying mansion for nearly 20 years. Over three episodes, the series continues the investigation started by journalist Chico Felitti, exploring the public's fascination with the accused Margarida Bonetti. Led by director Katia Lund ("City of God," 2002), "The Woman in the Decaying House" was produced by Amazon MGM Studios.

"Betty la Fea, The Story Continues" – Season 2

Acting as a sequel to both "Betty la Fea" and "Ecomoda," Season 2 of "Betty la Fea, The Story Continues" makes its debut on Prime Video this Friday, Aug. 16. This latest return sees the series' titular character, Betty (Ana Maria Orozco, "Perro amor"), facing decisions that will ultimately redefine her family's story, shaking up her past, present and future in the process. While rebuilding a relationship with her daughter, Mila (Juanita Molina, "Miss Adrenaline: A Tale of Twins"), Betty begins to notice a growing distance between herself and Armando (Jorge Enrique Abello, "En los tacones de Eva"), as jealousy, disagreements and resentments build stronger. With divorce on the table, things at Ecomoda get complicated, as staff is divided on whose side to take going forward. Created by Fernando Gaitan ("Until Money Do Us Part"),

"Betty la Fea" also stars Mario Duarte ("All for Love"), Lorna Cepeda ("Dr. Amor"), Julian Arango ("The Marked Heart"), Natalia Ramirez ("La Ley del Corazon"), Ricardo Velez ("Champeta, el ritmo de la Tierra"), Sebastian Osorio ("La Nieta Elegida"), Luces Velasquez ("The Scent of Passion"), Julio Cesar Herrera ("The Unremarkable Juanquini"), Marcela Posada ("El Final del Paraiso") and Zharick Leon ("Pasion de Gavilanes"), among many others.

Wheels Up

Season 18 of 'The Great Food Truck Race' hits the road

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

Start your engine and buckle up for bold bites ahead of an all-new episode of "The Great Food Truck Race," airing Sunday, Aug. 10, on Food Network.

Led by host Tyler Florence ("Worst Cooks in America"), Season 18 of "The Great Food Truck Race" — which began last week on Aug. 3 — follows nine competing trucks as they "road trip up the Atlantic coast in pursuit of food truck glory and a $50,000 grand prize," (per Food Network). Each week, these food truck pros and talented rookies tackle challenges and obstacles at each and every stop, all while trying to outsell their competition. The team with the lowest profit is sent home, while those remaining will go head-to-head for the grand prize.

Season 18 began down in Savannah, Ga., where host Florence welcomed the trucks — Burger Walla, Cooking with Que, Eat My Biscuits, Fat Kid Food Co., G's Cheesesteaks, Good Fortune Company, Nishaan, Rising Tiger and Stop Drop N Roll — to the starting line of an intense eight-city race. These chefs-on-wheels faced their first challenge from none other than the viral baseball sensation, the Savannah Bananas — and yes, their challenge was banana-themed. After testing their creativity, skill and ability to handle the heat, the teams launched into a high-stakes sales day, ending with the first elimination of the season and a shocking surprise.

This week, the trucks roll into Charleston, S.C., as Chef Kardea Brown ("Dinner Takes All") dishes out a Gullah Geechee challenge, while Chef Rodney Scott ("BBQ Brawl") cranks up the heat with a barbecue battle worthy of a true pitmaster.

The network praised the show's continued success and the excitement surrounding this season.

"The Great Food Truck Race" is still going strong and remains one of our most anticipated shows each summer," Betsy Ayala, the head of content at Food Network, said. "This season's trucks drew massive crowds and excitement in each city — viewers are in for a fantastic culinary ride!"

Season 18 of "The Great Food Truck Race" is executive produced Joe Burk ("Beast Games") and Jeffrey L. Weaver ("Intervention").

Catch up on the two-hour premiere and don't miss the all-new episode of "The Great Food Truck Race," airing Sunday, Aug. 10, on Food Network.

A Minecraft Movie

HBO 9:10 PM

It's hip to be square when a portal opens and yanks four misfits (Jason Momoa, Sebastian Hansen, Danielle Brooks, Emma Myers) into the Overworld, a weird cubic land that thrives on creativity. But to get home, they'll need help from Steve (Jack Black).

Hi, Nellie

TCM 9:15 PM

When Managing Editor Brad Bradshaw (Paul Muni) decides not to publish a story about a missing government lawyer, he finds himself demoted and stuck writing a ladies' advice column. However, he decides to throw himself into the column and crack the case.

America’s Got Talent

⑤ 8:00 PM

They can sing, they can dance, but can they impress even the toughest judges? While celebrating “AGT’s” 20th birthday, Simon Cowell, Mel B, Howie Mandel and Sofia Vergara act as the presiding judges, watching performers eager to make a good impression.

The American Revolution: An Inside Look

③③ ⑤⑦ 8:00 PM

This new six-part, 12-hour documentary from Ken Burns, Sarah Botstein and David Schmidt looks at how America’s founding changed everything for the world. As the rebellion for independence triumphed, those involved experienced more than they expected.

Chef Grudge Match

FOOD 9:00 PM

It’s spicy and hot as host Laila Ali welcomes four former colleagues to settle their grudges. First, Gabe Bertaccini has 15-years’ worth of tension built up against former employee Tyler Romine. Then, Taylor Frankel wants revenge on Maria Busato.

The Snake

④④ 9:00 PM

During this brand-new episode, the remaining contestants squelch their way through a murky, chum-filled swamp to obtain the coveted medallion. All the while, the Snake sheds in secret, leaving the players rattled until the very last second of gameplay.

Gene Belcher in “Bob’s Burgers” Celebrity Family Feud

②② 8:00 PM
Looking to raise money for charity, the Harlem Globetrotters and the Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders join Steve Harvey for this next episode. To win, they must come up with the most popular responses to survey questions posed to 100 average, every-day people.

Bob’s Burgers

④④ 8:00 PM
It’s been a year to remember for the Belcher family — Bob, Linda, Tina, Gene and Louise — as they operate a struggling burger joint on the New Jersey shore. In this season finale, we learn more about Linda’s side of the family thanks to Grandfather Max.

Family Recipe Showdown

FOOD 9:00 PM
The secrets are out as hosts Octavia Spencer and Edgar “Dook” Chase bring on teams who must create their family’s best cast-iron dishes. In order to take home the $10,000 prize, they must recreate guest judge Tina Knowles’ family favorite.

Revival

SYFY 10:00 PM
When the dead began returning to life, Officer Cypress (Melanie Scrofano) was left with endless questions. Confusion grew as weeks passed, but now, Cypress learns the horrifying truth behind the so-called “Revival Day” and pays a devastating price.

Friday Best Bets

Tim Hollingsworth, Tiffany Derry, Francis Lam and Alejandra Ramos feature in "The Great American Recipe"

Stand Up to Cancer 2025

(3) (22) (44) HBO SHOW 8:00 PM
Being broadcast from Nashville, Tenn., for the first time, this cancer fundraiser co-founded by Katie Couric will feature Beyoncé, Mary J. Blige, Mariah Carey, Carrie Underwood, Miley Cyrus, Dolly Parton and many more. Sheryl Crow hosts.

Psycho

TCM 8:00 PM
Marion Crane (Janet Leigh), a secretary who's on the run after embezzling money, seeks refuge in the isolated Bates Motel, where she meets proprietor Norman Bates (Anthony Perkins). When cops arrive looking for her, they find more than they expected.

The Great American Recipe

(33) (57) 9:00 PM
It all comes down to this as the final three cooks face off in a winner-take-all competition where their skills and signature dishes will make the difference. First up, they must make a hometown recipe that dazzles, followed by a side dish and a dessert.

The Rainmaker

BRAV E! OXY SYFY USA 10:00 PM
Based on the 1995 John Grisham novel, this new series follows lawyer Rudy Baylor (Milo Callaghan) as he and team members Bruiser Stone (Lana Parrilla) and Deck Shiflet (P.J. Byrne) take on a powerful law firm led by Leo F. Drummond (John Slattery).

"Stand Up to Cancer 2025"

Dolly Parton ("Jolene") and Sheryl Crow ("Soak Up the Sun") take to the stage for a night of fundraising and entertainment at The Pinnacle in Nashville during the ninth biennial presentation of "Stand Up to Cancer," which airs Friday, Aug. 15, on Hulu. The special brings together musicians, celebrities, athletes, researchers and cancer survivors to support life-saving cancer research. With cancer rates rising among younger people, "Stand Up to Cancer" is focused on early detection and new treatments, aiming to reduce cancer deaths by 25% in five years and 50% in 10. Through these fundraisers — which have been on air since 2008 — the initiative has raised over $795 million through donations (per standuptocancer.org). From heartfelt stories to live performances, the event is a powerful reminder that every donation makes a difference, with actress Reese Witherspoon sharing in a video message ahead of this year's fundraiser: "Every day, from every corner of this country, we lose 1,670 people to cancer. But we can end this heartache by supporting Stand Up to Cancer."

"John Wick: Chapter 4" (2023)

The legendary hitman returns for one final fight in "John Wick: Chapter 4" (2023), available on Hulu this Friday, Aug. 15. Chapter four follows John Wick (Keanu Reeves, "The Matrix," 1999) as he continues his bloody crusade against the High Table. With a multimillion-dollar bounty on his head and the world's deadliest assassins gunning for him, Wick sets out to dismantle the powerful organization from the inside. His mission takes him from the streets of New York City to Osaka, Berlin and Paris, where he reunites with old allies and confronts new enemies. Among them is Marquis de Gramont (Bill Skarsgard, "It," 2017), a High Table enforcer who threatens everything Wick holds dear. But with help from his trusted allies Winston (Ian McShane, "Deadwood"), the Bowery King (Laurence Fishburne, "The Matrix," 1999) and Caine (Donnie Yen, "Rogue One," 2016), the odds are steep, but Wick is unrelenting. From director Chad Stahelski ("The Matrix Resurrections," 2021), "John Wick: Chapter 4" is written by Shay Hatten ("Army of the Dead," 2021) and Michael Finch ("Hitman: Agent 47," 2015), with Reeves, David Leitch ("Fast & Furious Presents: Hobbs & Shaw," 2019) and Michael Paseornek ("La La

"The Golden Girls" - Seasons 1 - 7

In celebration of 40 years since its debut, all seasons of the beloved TV classic "The Golden Girls" are now available to stream on Hulu. With the 40th-anniversary documentary coming to Hulu and Disney+ this fall, it's the perfect time to revisit the hilarious and heartwarming story of four older women sharing a home in sunny Miami Beach. Bea Arthur ("Maude") stars as Dorothy, a teacher navigating life after divorce, while Rue McClanahan ("The Golden Palace") plays the charming Blanche, a flirtatious Southern Belle in search of romance. Betty White ("The Proposal," 2009) stars as the sweet but scatterbrained Rose, whose innocent observations often steals the show. Rounding out the iconic foursome is Estelle Getty ("Stuart Little," 1999) as Sophia, Dorothy's outspoken mother. Together, these "golden girls" form a chosen family, supporting one another as they tackle everything from friendships and romance to the challenges of getting older. Their bond is unshakeable and consistently hilarious, making "The Golden Girls" a timeless classic for fans, both old and new. From creator Susan Harris ("Soap"), "The Golden Girls" is written by Winifred Hervey ("The Steve Harvey Show") and Barry Fanaro ("I Now Pronounce You Chuck & Larry," 2007), with Tony Thomas ("Dead Poets Society," 1989), Paul Junger Witt ("Insomnia," 2002) and Terry Grossman ("Ben-son") serving as executive producers.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I love the old Sinatra movie "Tony Rome," in which he played a private detective. It says that it was based on a book — were there any sequels?

A: There was in fact one sequel filmed, and depending on how good your imagination is, you can picture a third film for yourself.

"Tony Rome" (1967) was based on the novel "Miami Mayhem" by author Marvin Albert, who, confusingly, used the pseudonym Anthony Rome for publication. Albert wrote two more books featuring the Miami-based private eye — "The Lady in Cement" and "My Kind of Game" — but only "Cement" got the film treatment, in 1968.

Both films featured song-and-screen legend Frank Sinatra ("The Manchurian Candidate," 1962), who at that point was near the end of his film career.

He and director Gordon Douglas ("Them!", 1954) reportedly squabbled on set, and "The Lady in Cement" also lost money at the box office. All together then, it's not surprising that they didn't film the third book.

The third one, "My Kind of Game," is very much in line with the first two — a violent, steamy pulp thriller — already written and paced like a film. So if you're really hankering, you can track down the book and picture Sinatra delivering all the quippy lines and gunshots.

Q: Is Michael Crichton writing all of the new Jurassic Park movies, or is his name just attached because he wrote the original?

A: Sadly, best-selling novelist and visionary screenwriter Michael Crichton, the mind behind several smash-hit films and TV shows, died of cancer in 2008. So, he wasn't around to see the huge revival of his best-known franchise.

You're right that he was credited as a writer for "Jurassic World" (2015) and its smash-hit sequels, including this year's "Jurassic World: Rebirth," but that's only because he created the characters and the universe.

He got a similar, posthumous credit in 2024's "Twisters," the long-awaited sequel to his 1996 hit "Twister." Unlike the Jurassic films, "Twister" wasn't based on a book; Crichton wrote it as a screenplay, along with producing the original film.

He's poised to keep getting credits at least a few years into the future as a couple of his other books are at some stage of being turned into films at the moment. It's possible not all of them will make it to the finish line, though. A couple are just scripts that have been floating around Hollywood for years.

The most promising one is "Eruption." It would be based on the novel of the same name that fellow airport-book legend James Patterson ("Alex Cross," 2012) wrote, based on an unfinished Crichton manuscript. A film version is currently at the pre-production stage.
