Late Laughs

Late Show With Stephen Colbert

There are even more dark omens of the end times, ladies and gentlemen, because over the weekend we learned that Gwenyth Paltrow has started eating carbs and cheese again. Oh. My. Goop.

Yesterday [April 28] [President] Trump hosted the Super Bowl champion Philadelphia Eagles. It's a traditional event to bring the championship team, only one thing was missing this time — the team — because less than half of the 53-man roster attended. That's kind of embarrassing for the president. It's right up there when Lyndon Johnson invited the "Jackson Two." Marlon and Tito.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

What a fantastic day we had here in New York City, huh? Wasn't it beautiful? It was 73 and beautiful. By the way, "73 and Beautiful" is also the new Lifetime movie about Bill Belichick and his girlfriend.

Amazon just launched a new site dedicated to selling merchandise from hundreds of their shows. Amazon was like, "We have merch from all of our hit shows, like 'Reacher,' and, uh ... we got stuff from 'Reacher.'"

[President] Trump just announced that he's bringing back Columbus Day, even though it's still a federal holiday. Honestly, what a better way to celebrate Columbus than announcing something that already exists?

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

President Trump flew to Rome to pay his respects and also to see if he could get a deal on the Popemobile to drive around his golf course for whatever reason. Even though the Vatican dress code recommended specifically a dark suit for the service, Trump showed up in his bluest blue suit. Something from the Cedric the Entertainer funeral collection.

Meanwhile, our former President Joe Biden was there, too, and he was chatting people up like he was a greeter at Walmart. He was all over everything. Trump and Biden did not cross paths at the funeral and Trump did not give Biden a ride on Air Force One as is tradition when presidents attend the same event they often travel together. Not these two. Biden was like, "You know what, I'll get on a Spirit Airlines over there."

Late Night With Seth Meyers

A Florida man recently swam through an alligator-infested lake to rescue an injured bald eagle and said, "This is the symbol of America, man." While a dude jumping into a lake full of alligators is definitely the symbol of Florida.

Chipotle has announced that it plans to open a restaurant in Mexico this year. Meanwhile, the Olive Garden in Italy was just burned to the ground.

The Vatican announced this week that 135 cardinals from around the world will convene on May 7 for the conclave to elect a new pope. Which means I'm about to lose a lot of money on FanDuel.

Troubles with adulting: FX explores growing pains in ensemble comedy 'Adults'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Amita Rao stars in "Adults"

There is something about a ragtag group of friends that the television industry just loves to latch on to. From "Three's Company" in 1977 to "Seinfeld" in '89, "Friends" in '94 and "How I Met Your Mother" in 2005, proof that the ensemble comedy is alive and well rests in the DNA of shows such as HBO's "Girls" and Netflix's new Tina Fey ("Saturday Night Live") dramedy, "The Four Seasons," which premiered May 1.

Joining the ranks of these predecessors and various other contemporaries is FX's series "Adults," premiering with two episodes Wednesday, May 28, on the broadcast network and the next day on Hulu.

Created by Ben Kronengold and Rebecca Shaw, both of whom got their start as writers for "The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon," "Adults" follows a group of 20-somethings in New York City who get a real taste of adulthood while staying at a friend's childhood home while his parents are away on an RV trip across the United States.

The friend in question, Samir (Malik Elassal, "Joe Pickett"), has taken on the role of "de facto man of the house," per the FX-released press materials, and is responsible for taking care of the home in his parents' absence despite the fact that he can barely take care of himself. Described as "struggling to launch," Samir is growing into a fine young man but still struggles to understand the complexities of his parents' boiler and the importance of separating laundry.

Growing up, Samir had his parents to rely on, but he also had Billie (Lucy Freyer, "Paint," 2023). His childhood best friend, Billie was quick to mature and often found herself in control of matters, regardless of the situation. But after a poor choice at work that ended with her "vaguely threaten[ing] her boss," says FX, Billie is back at square one: questioning her choices and mulling over her previously decided-upon path in life.

Joining Samir and Billie in their quests to be kind and functioning members of society are fellow burgeoning adults Issa (Amita Rao, "Deli Boys"), Anton (Owen Thiele, "Dollface") and the always full-named Paul Baker (Jack Innanen, "The Office Movers").

Issa, who has been prone to collecting odd jobs as she learns which passion she wants to channel her energy into, is currently teaching a children's dance class. Ever the driven activist type, Issa is described by FX as someone who "loves her friends hard but struggles to feel heard." When audiences meet Issa, she is neck deep in learning more about organized religion but has found that they all have one common thread: people talking. When she is not running around looking for work or divine answers, Issa spends the bulk of her time with her boyfriend, Paul Baker.

Paul Baker is known by both names despite the fact that he is the only Paul in their immediate friend group. Why? Well, some people just suit their full name better — like "Colin Robinson" of FX's vampire series "What We Do in the Shadows," for instance). A kind Canadian who moved to New York City to leave his imprint on the city — or maybe to have the city leave its imprint on him — Paul Baker is happy to have finally found a friend group that suits his personality and his lifestyle.

Last but not least in the group is Anton, "the only member of the friend group with a real job, even though he doesn't quite understand what it is" (per FX). Despite initially only having ties to Samir, his college roommate, Anton has developed a close, fairly boundaryless relationship with all four of the others. Although the connection is genuine, intense friendships are par for the course with Anton and his oozing charisma.

The series comes from Kronengold and Shaw, who have worked as a duo ever since their viral 2018 joint Yale graduation speech in front of public figure and honored guest Hillary Clinton. Their unbeatable chemistry, impeccable comedic timing and their own recent lived experiences with "adulting" show through the fiber of the new FX series.

"We're so grateful to be telling this story about a group of friends navigating the hardest, horniest time of life together," Kronengold and Shaw said in a joint statement after "Adults" was picked up by FX.

"FX comedies have defined our generation," the pair continued, "and we can't wait to show them the consequences."

Kronengold and Shaw executive produce "Adults" alongside Stefani Robinson ("Atlanta"), Sarah Naftalis ("What We Do in the Shadows"), Jonathan Krisel ("Baskets") and Nick Kroll ("Big Mouth") and Alicia Van Couvering ("Drinking Buddies") under the banner of Kroll's Good At Business production company, which formed in 2020.

Series direction is provided by Krisel (episode 1), "We Strangers" (2024) director Anu Valia (episodes 2, 3 and 4), "Borat Subsequent Moviefilm" (2020) director Jason Woliner (episodes 5 and 6), Robinson (Episode 7) and Kroll (Episode 8). New episodes will be released weekly in pairs until the June 18 finale.

Don't miss the double-episode premiere of "Adults" when it lands Wednesday, May 28, on FX. All episodes will release next day on Hulu.

Anything for love: Hopeless romantics mix and mingle in '90 Day: Hunt for Love'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

There is nothing some people won't try to find companionship. A collection of single, former 90 Day franchise stars are ready to fall head over heels yet again, this time in Tulum, Mexico. The new reality dating show, "90 Day: Hunt for Love," premiering Monday, May 26, on TLC, takes eight hopeless romantics to a tropical resort to see if sparks fly.

The singles looking for love are Tiffany Franco ("90 Day Fiancé: The Other Way"), Chantel Everett ("90 Day Fiancé," "The Family Chantel"), Colt Johnson ("90 Day Fiancé: Happily Ever After?"), Rob Warne ("90 Day: The Last Resort") and "90 Day Fiancé: Before the 90 Days" stars Cortney Reardanz, Usman "SoJaBoy" Umar and exes Tim Malcolm and Jeniffer Tarazona.

Per TLC, the "90 Day: Hunt for Love" cast members "have loved, lost and learned a few lessons along the way," over a few "90 Day" spinoff appearances each. While they all may have split from the partners they joined the franchise with, that hasn't stopped any of the singles from popping up in other TLC shows, from documenting their dating lives to sharing insights during recap and reunion shows.

The series starts off big, staging a masquerade ball to get the romances rolling, encouraging flirty connections among the cast — and the show's description promises that it will bring the drama: "From flirty first impressions to late-night confessions, expect shocking hook-ups and unexpected pairings."

The official trailer for the series is a wild ride. Late-night hot tub makeouts, night-vision camera footage of couples getting to know each other and sun-soaked, romantic dates show just how quickly these "90 Day" alums can find love if they're looking for it.

Initial saucy connections may just be too good to be true, as the trailer also highlights clips from "90 Day: Hunt for Love," where lust has evolved into greed. Jeniffer has eyes for more than one man at the resort and as Rob puts it, "All is fair in love and war. Sometimes people get hurt."

Drinks and tears flow freely and someone will even be carted away in an ambulance. This series has everything that a dating competition show lover could ask for. For even more juice, the companion show, "Hunt for Love: Between the Sheets," airs immediately after new episodes of "90 Day: Hunt for Love," with exclusive cast member commentary on the romances in Mexico and extra footage that didn't make the cut.

The "90 Day: Hunt for Love" cast members have been mainstays of TLC's K-1 visa-centric series, but only one had their own dedicated show all about her (and her former husband). Chantel starred in five seasons of "The Family Chantel," which chronicled her life with her Dominican husband, Pedro, and their family and friends in Atlanta before the pair filed for divorce in 2022.

Tiffany, who joined the franchise with the first season of "90 Day Fiancé: The Other Way," packed up her life in Maryland when she fell in love on vacation. While staying in South Africa, Tiffany met Ronald, a local. After she moved herself and her son to be with him, the pair married, had a daughter and ultimately separated.

Colt, who has had three relationships — two marriages — documented through the 90 Day franchise, is now ready to look for love again. First seen in the sixth season of "90 Day Fiancé," Colt married Brazilian model Larissa Dos Santos Lima and divorced seven months later. His latest marriage to Las Vegas native Vanessa Guerra lasted three years, but their separation sent him back out on the dating scene and straight to Tulum.

Real estate agent Cortney shared the experience of her short-lived romance with Spanish actor Antonio Millon in the first season of "90 Day Fiancé: Before the 90 Days," before appearing in "90 Day Fiancé: Self-Quarantined" with another beau. Now back on the prowl, Cortney may not be looking for lasting love, but she is up for a good time. "I was planning on getting, like, white-girl wasted the whole retreat," Cortney revealed in the series' trailer.

Then, there are the exes on the beach! Tim and Jeniffer, who did not work out during the second season of "90 Day Fiancé: Before the 90 Days," are both in Tulum for the new dating show. Rekindling the spark they once shared seems unlikely, but anything is possible with TLC cameras around.

"90 Day: The Last Resort" was just that for Rob and his estranged wife, Sophie Sierra. The pair split during the show's recommitment ceremony, proving things between them were over and paving the way for Rob's path to the new dating show.

Last but not least is the Nigerian hip-hop artist Usman. He was one side of a storied "90 Day" love triangle between two American women, both quite a few years his senior. The details of that saga are something to behold, but that's all in the past now and Usman is ready for love on the beach.

Don't miss the series premiere of "90 Day: Hunt for Love" Monday, May 26, on TLC.

Jeffrey Dean Morgan leads 'Destination X'

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

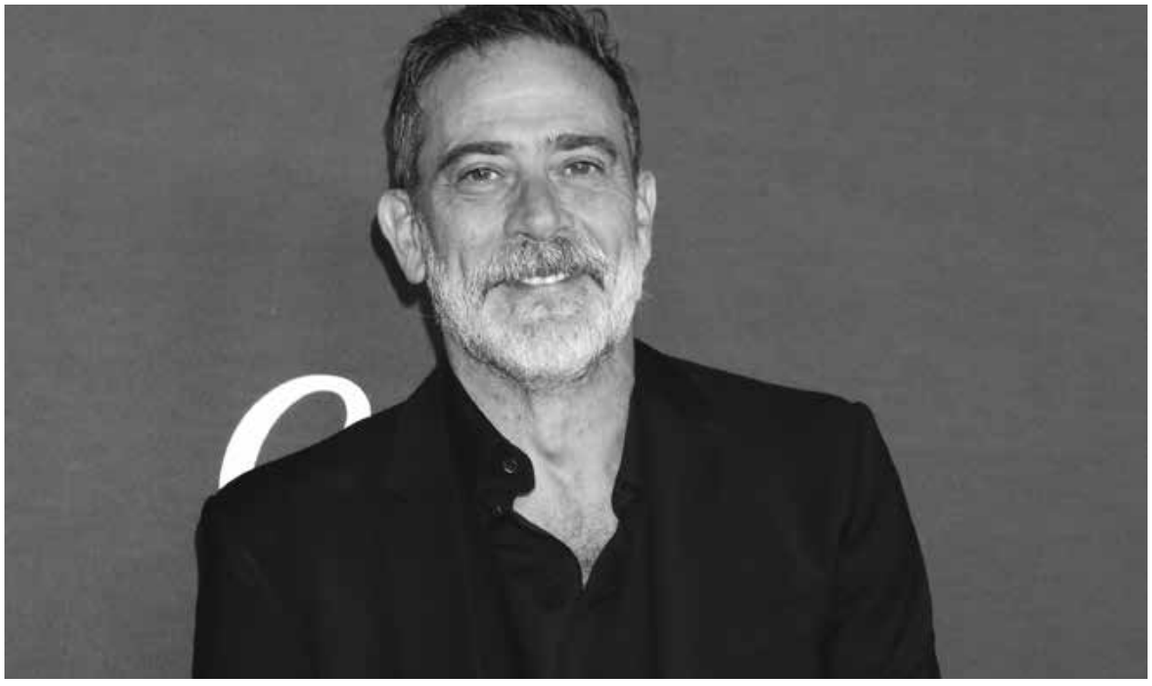

Adventures unknown: Where are we? That's the question at the heart of the thrilling new competition series "Destination X," coming Tuesday, May 27, to NBC with "The Walking Dead" actor Jeffrey Dean Morgan serving as the show's host and executive producer.

Get ready for the ultimate travel mystery with "Destination X," inspired by the award-winning Belgian series "Bestemming X." In this exciting new iteration, Europe transforms into a giant, real-life gameboard as a group of 12 strangers board a blacked-out bus that journeys off across the continent. But, there's a twist: they have no idea where they are going.

"This series is the ultimate high-stakes guessing game, inviting viewers to embark on a thrilling journey across Europe's most iconic landscapes and landmarks, all while playing along with our adventurous, dynamic cast," Sharon Vuong, NBC's head of unscripted programming, said in a statement.

With Morgan serving as the show's host — a first in the actor's career — he leads the contestants to a mysterious location where they must rely on their strategy, intuition and sharp eye for detail. In each episode, contestants step off the bus to compete in location-themed challenges designed to offer subtle clues — or cunning misdirects — about their whereabouts. Contestants must draw on their knowledge of culture, history and geography to uncover hints about their location and earn an all-important advantage.

The 12-player cast includes Biggy Bailey, Ally Bross, Kim Conner, Shayne Cureton, Jonah Evarts, Mack Fitzgerald, Tai Lowry, Rachel Rossette, Rick Szabo and reality TV alumni JaNa Craig ("Love Island"), Josh Martinez ("The Challenge: USA") and Peter Weber ("The Bachelor," "The Traitors"), who join the journey to shake things up.

Jeffrey Dean Morgan hosts "Destination X"

At the end of each episode, the stakes increase in the Map Room ceremony, where contestants must place an "X" on a giant map guessing their location. The contestant whose guess is farthest from their location is eliminated. The last person standing will meet Morgan at the ultimate Destination X and walk away with a grand prize of $250,000.

"Destination X" is executive produced by Andy Cadman ("Love Island"), Emanuel Vanderjeugd ("Snackmasters"), Dan Adamson ("Big Zuu's 12 Dishes in 12 Hours"), David Clews ("The Real Marigold Hotel") and Shireen Abbott ("Happy Campers: The Caravan Park").

Do you think you can figure out "where the X are we?" No matter your answer, tune in Tuesday, May 27, when the new competition series "Destination X" premieres on NBC.

Life in blue: What does it mean to feel "Blue"? For artist George Rodrigue, it meant identity, history and resilience. Now captured in a powerful documentary, "Blue: The Life and Art of George Rodrigue," premieres Thursday, May 29, on PBS, marking the first documentary to trace the life and artistic legacy of the famed Louisiana painter behind the globally recognized Blue Dog series.

The one-hour documentary explores the life of Cajun-born artist George Rodrigue, whose artistic journey began in childhood when he created a paint-by-numbers canvas — a moment that would shape a lifetime of fiercely original art. Then came the mysterious blue canine — first painted in 1984 and inspired by both his family dog and a Cajun werewolf myth. As the documentary reveals, the dog's hypnotic stare is more than an aesthetic choice, but a personal and cultural statement.

The documentary explores Rodrigue's deep longing for his Cajun roots. "The more I stayed in Los Angeles [for art school], the more I realized how different I was," Rodrigue said in a restored 1970s interview, featured in the film. "Louisiana is different. The people are different. I wanted to paint my early childhood feeling.

"We had a different food, we had different music. There was nobody to record the last 200 years why we were here," Rodrigue explained.

"Blue: The Life and Art of George Rodrigue" features never-before-seen interviews with the artist, including his final, deeply personal interview. Bringing color to his story are appearances from Rodrigue's family, including his sons Jacques and Andre, first wife Veronica Hidalgo Redman and second wife Wendy Rodrigue-Magnus, the film also features chef Emeril Lagasse, former NFL quarterback Drew Brees, political strategist James Carville and others.

The documentary doesn't shy away from Rodrigue's personal struggles, either, such as decades of rejection from art institutions, the devastation of Hurricane Katrina and his battle with terminal cancer. He instead framed it as part of his journey, shaping the artist and the legacy he left behind.

Directed and produced by Sean O'Malley ("Kid in a Candy Store"), the film aims to honor Rodrigue's legacy. "I hope audiences see 'Blue' as a tribute to George Rodrigue's enduring impact on art and culture in Louisiana and around the world," O'Malley says.

From producers O'Malley, Trisha Johnson Reece ("Ancient Aliens"), Jim Dotson ("Fats Domino: Walkin' Back to New Orleans"), Ron Yager ("Gulf Aid: Concert for the Coast," 2010) and Bruce Lee Smith, "Blue: The Life and Art of George Rodrigue" premieres Thursday, May 29, on PBS.

"Dept. Q" - Season 1

Sometimes, all one can do is grab on to any chance that's given and make the most of it. That sentiment drives DCI Carl Morck (Matthew Goode, "A Discovery of Witches") in the British crime drama "Dept. Q," which makes its debut Thursday, May 29, on Netflix. "A brilliant cop but a terrible colleague," says Netflix, Morck faces his final career straw when a shooting leaves one person dead and his partner paralyzed. Taken off the regular force and exiled to the basement, Morck is now to spend his days as the sole member of Department Q, a newly formed cold case unit — which is more PR stunt for their failing, under-resourced police force than anything of substance. However, never one to back down from a challenge, Morck takes his new assignment seriously, assembling a team of fellow outcasts who have nothing left to lose. When the cold case of a prominent civil servant who disappeared several years ago lands on their doorstep and begins to heat back up, Morck and his team bring their A game — and their bad attitudes — with them as they work to solve the case once and for all. From writer and director Scott Frank ("The Queen's Gambit"), the series is executive produced by Rob Bullock ("The Night Manager"), Scott Frank ("Logan," 2017) and Andy Harries ("The Crown"). "Dept. Q" also stars Chloe Pirrie ("Under The Banner of Heaven"), Alexej Manvelov ("Top Dog"), Kelly Macdonald ("Line of Duty"), Leah Byrne ("Call The Midwife") and Catriona Stirling ("We Were the Lucky Ones").

"Mike Birbiglia: The Good Life"

Comedian Mike Birbiglia ("A Man Called Otto," 2022) returns to the stage with his latest comedy special, "Mike Birbiglia: The Good Life," premiering Monday, May 26, on Netflix. Filmed during a live tour that began in late 2023, the special captures Birbiglia at his most reflective and relatable. Inspired by his father's recent stroke, Birbiglia uses this experience as a lens to re-examine fatherhood, aging and the quirks of everyday life, inviting viewers on a journey that's as moving as it is funny. Birbiglia says of the new special: "Over the years I've done a lot of personal shows but somehow this one is the most personal because it's not in my past. It's my life right now. So there's really no filter. At certain points during the tour I literally thought on stage: 'Whoa. Am I really gonna tell this story?' But that's sort of the idea behind these shows. I try to probe into what's most painful in order to figure out what's most funny." Directed by long-time collaborator Seth Barrish ("Don't Think Twice," 2016), and executive produced by John Skidmore ("Russian Dolls") and Joe Birbiglia ("Mike Birbiglia: What I Should Have Said Was Nothing," 2008).

"F1: The Academy" - Season 1

Go behind the scenes with "F1: The Academy," a seven-part docuseries premiering Wednesday, May 28, on Netflix. The series offers an inside look at the lives of 15 talented female drivers competing across all five F1 Academy teams, highlighting their personal challenges, triumphs and sacrifices as they push the limits in one of the world's most intense and competitive sports. "F1: The Academy" captures not only the thrill of racing, but also their road to success — including the deeply personal journeys of women navigating a male-dominated sport. At the heart of it all is Susie Wolff ("Formula 1"), F1 Academy's managing director and a pioneering force in motorsport. With her own experience behind the wheel, Wolff guides the Academy through its inaugural season and the stakes couldn't be higher: the future of women in motorsport is on the line. The 2024 lineup of drivers includes Tina Hausmann (Aston Martin), Doriane Pin (Mercedes) and Maya Weug (Ferrari) for PREMA Racing; Emely de Heus (Red Bull Ford), Hamda Al Qubaisi (Red Bull Racing) and Amna Al Qubaisi (Visa Cash App RB) for MP Motorsport; Lola Lovinfosse (Charlotte Tilbury), Abbi Pulling (Alpine) and Jessica Edgar for Rodin Motorsport; Bianca Bustamante (McLaren), Aurelia Nobels (PUMA) and Lia Block (Williams) for ART Grand Prix; and Chloe Chambers (Haas), Carrie Schreiner (Kick Sauber) and Nerea Marti (Tommy Hilfiger) for Campos Racing. "F1: The Academy is executive produced by Reese Witherspoon ("Legally Blonde," 2001), Ian Holmes ("Runaway Island"), Sarah Lazenby ("The Richard Taylor Interviews") and Sara Rea ("Wynonna Judd: Between Hell and Hallelujah," 2023).

"The Better Sister" - Season 1

Based on the novel of the same name by Alafair Burke, the new mystery drama "The Better Sister" makes its debut Thursday, May 29, on Prime Video. Spanning eight episodes, the series centers on Chloe (Jessica Biel, "Candy") and Nicky (Elizabeth Banks, "The Hunger Games," 2012), two estranged sisters who could not be more different. While Chloe is a high-profile media executive with her handsome husband, Adam (Corey Stoll, "Billions"), and teenage son, Ethan (Maxwell Acee Donovan, "That '90s Show"), Nicky is just trying to get by and stay clean. When Adam is murdered, the sisters are brought back together by some shocking revelations in the case. As Chloe and Nicky attempt to uncover the truth about Adam's brutal death, they'll have to work their way through a tangled web of family secrets. Written for television by showrunners Olivia Milch ("Ocean's 8," 2018) and Regina Corrado ("Sons of Anarchy"), "The Better Sister" is directed by Leslie Hope ("Lost in Space"), Craig Gillespie ("Physical") and Azazel Jacobs ("His Three Daughters," 2023). Kim Dickens ("Fear the Walking Dead"), Bobby Naderi ("How I Got There," 2022), Gabriel Sloyer ("Griselda"), Gloria Reuben ("Mr. Robot"), Matthew Modine ("Stranger Things") and Lorraine Toussaint ("The Equalizer") also star.

"The Second Best Hospital in the Galaxy" - Season 2

Slice into a new adventure with Season 2 of "The Second Best Hospital in the Galaxy" when it premieres Tuesday, May 27, on Prime Video. Dr. Sleech (Stephanie Hsu, "Everything Everywhere All at Once," 2022) and Dr. Klak (Keke Palmer, "Human Resources") are aliens, best friends and intergalactically renowned surgeons. Working together, this unstoppable duo tackles everything from anxiety-eating parasites to illegal time loops and deep space STIs. But, when Dr. Sleech and Dr. Klak take on a highly dangerous and potentially groundbreaking case in Season 1, they risk putting their careers — and all of existence — in jeopardy. Now, doctors Sleech and Klak "relish the fame of their recent success until a cyborg journalist starts digging a little too deep into Sleech's past" (per Prime Video). With a voice cast that also includes Kieran Culkin ("Succession"), singer Sam Smith ("Unholy Feat. Kim Petras"), Maya Rudolph ("Bridesmaids," 2011), Natasha Lyonne ("Russian Doll"), Gary Anthony Williams ("Boston Legal"), Tracee Ellis Ross ("Black-ish"), Abbi Jacobson ("Broad City"), Bowen Yang ("Awkwafina Is Nora from Queens"), John Waters ("Hairspray," 1988), Jay Ellis ("Insecure"), Lennon Parham ("Minx"), Andrew Dismukes ("Saturday Night Live") and Kemah Bob (of the "Springleaf" podcast), the series comes from showrunner, writer and executive producer Cirocco Dunlap ("Miracle Workers").

"And Just Like That..." - Season 3

The "Sex and the City" ladies are back with more adventures into love, careers and friendships when Season 3 of "And Just Like That..." premieres Thursday, May 29, available via the Max Prime Video Channel. Subsequent episodes stream weekly on Thursdays.

The spinoff series follows Carrie (Sarah Jessica Parker, "Hocus Pocus," 1993); Miranda (Cynthia Nixon, "The Gilded Age"); and Charlotte (Kristen Davis, "Holiday in the Wild," 2019) as they navigate the even more complicated reality of life and friendship in their 50s, with old and new love interests, children to raise and careers to manage. Alongside Parker, Nixon and David, the Season 3 cast includes John Corbett ("My Big Fat Greek Wedding," 2002), Sarita Choudhury ("The Hunger Games: Mockingjay — Part 2," 2015), Nicole Ari Parker ("Empire"), Mario Cantone ("Better Things"), David Eigenberg ("Chicago Fire"), Evan Handler ("Californication"), Christopher Jackson ("Hamilton," 2020), Niall Cunningham ("Life in Pieces"), Cathy Ang ("My Best Friend's Exorcism," 2022), Alexa Swinton ("Billions"), Mehcad Brooks ("Law & Order"), Jonathan Cake ("The Affair"), Logan Marshall-Green ("Big Sky"), Sebastiano Pigazzi ("For All Mankind") and Dolly Wells ("The Completely Made-Up Adventures of Dick Turpin"). Guest stars this season include Kristen Schaal ("What We Do in the Shadows"), Patti LuPone ("Agatha All Along") and Rosie O'Donnell ("The L Word: Generation Q").

'24 in 24: Last Chef Standing' closes out its second season

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

The competition is hotter than ever as remaining contestants sharpen their knives and prepare to face the heat in "24 in 24: Last Chef Standing." The competition series concludes its exciting second season with a thrilling two-hour finale, airing back-to-back Sunday, May 25, on Food Network.

Hosted by renowned chefs Michael Symon ("Symon's Dinners Cooking Out") and Esther Choi ("Heat Eaters"), this culinary marathon pushes 24 chefs — ranging from restaurant chefs to Food Network veterans — through 24 hours of intense culinary battles that challenge their technique, creativity and, above all else, their stamina. Only one competitor will endure to become the Last Chef Standing.

This two-part finale sees hosts Michael and Esther guide the five remaining contestants through one last familiar curveball before dishing out their final task: to create an elevated breakfast, lunch and dinner — all while battling against exhaustion. After nearly a full day in the kitchen, it all comes down to these final plates.

The judges for the final competition — culinary stars Antonia Lofaso ("Beachside Brawl"), Graham Elliot ("MasterChef Junior") and Jet Tila ("Family Restaurant Rivals") — will determine which chef possesses the talent, resilience and execution to win the coveted title of Last Chef Standing and take home a grand prize of $75,000.

Michael Symon and Esther Choi host "24 in 24: Last Chef Standing"

"Season 2 is even more unpredictable," said Betsy Ayala, Warner Bros. Discovery head of food content, in a statement to Food Network. "These chefs are using every drop of skill, confidence and adrenaline to make it through a whole new gauntlet of challenges, making this show a must-watch."

This season's fierce lineup includes notable chefs such as Stephanie Izard ("Guy's Grocery Games: All-Star Invitational"), Samantha Cruz ("Beachside Brawl"), Star Maye ("Chopped"), Leslie Daniel ("Guy's Grocery Games: All-Star Invitational"), Ilan Hall ("Food to Get You Laid"), Richie Farina ("Top Chef"), Kevin Lee ("Alex vs. America"), Marc Murphy ("Worst Cooks in America"), Arturo Leighton ("Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives"), Laurence Louie ("Chopped"), Kelsey Murphy ("MasterChef"), Nini Nguyen ("Last Bite Hotel") and more — each bringing bold ideas and distinct culinary backgrounds to the kitchen.

Produced by Lando Entertainment for Food Network, "24 in 24: Last Chef Standing" is executive produced by Jesse Belodoff ("Kitchen Inferno"), Brian Lando ("Patricia Heaton Parties") and Francesco Giuseppe Pace ("Trisha's Southern Kitchen").

Don't miss the epic Season 2 finale of "24 in 24: Last Chef Standing," airing Sunday, May 25, on Food Network.

"The Silencing" (2020)

A grieving father risks everything to stop a killer who may be tied to his past in this 2020 crime thriller, "The Silencing," available Thursday, May 29, on Hulu. Set deep in the wilderness, former hunter Rayburn Swanson (Nikolaj Coster-Waldau, "Game of Thrones") lives in seclusion, haunted by the unsolved disappearance of his daughter, Gwen (Brielle Robillard, "The Lake"). Now sober and running a wildlife sanctuary in her memory, Rayburn's fragile peace is shattered when a local teenage girl is found murdered under strange and disturbing circumstances. As sheriff Alice Gustafson (Annabelle Wallis, "Annabelle," 2014) begins her investigation, another girl goes missing, throwing Rayburn into the heart of a dangerous manhunt. From director Robin Pront ("The Flemish Bandits"), "The Silencing" proves it takes a hunter to catch a killer. Starring Hero Fiennes Tiffin ("Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince," 2009), Shaun Smyth ("The Killing") and Melanie Scrofano ("Ready or Not," 2019). Written by Micah Ranum ("First Kill," 2008), and produced by Shanan Becker ("The Last Girl," 2024), Sukee Chew ("Here After," 2024) and Maxime Cottray ("Mandy," 2018).

"Kingsman: The Secret Service" (2014)

Based on the comic book series of the same name by Mark Millar ("Wanted," 2008) and Dave Gibbons ("Watchmen," 2009), "Kingsman: The Secret Service" (2014) is available to stream now on Hulu. Gary "Eggsy" Unwin (Taron Egerton, "Rocketman," 2019) is a clever but aimless teen who appears to be headed for a life of crime. But when polished spy Harry Hart (Colin Firth, "Bridget Jones's Diary," 2001) sees potential in him, Eggsy is offered a chance to turn his life around by training with Kingsman — a top-secret intelligence agency disguised as a tailor shop. As Eggsy competes against elite recruits in grueling trials, the agency faces a terrifying new threat: tech billionaire Richmond Valentine (Samuel L. Jackson, "Pulp Fiction," 1994) plans to solve climate change by triggering global chaos. The clock is ticking, and it's up to Eggsy and the Kingsman team to stop him before the world is thrown into deadly disorder. Also starring is Adrian Quinton ("The Suspicions of Mr. Whicher"), Mark Strong ("1917," 2019) and Jack Davenport ("The Morning Show"). Directed by Matthew Vaughn ("Stardust," 2007), this action-comedy puts a bold, stylish spin on the traditional spy thriller. Produced by Gibbons, Millar, Claudia Schiffer ("Love Actually," 2003) and Pierre Lagrange ("Eddie the Eagle," 2015).

"Kung Fu Panda" (2008)

An unlikely hero discovers his destiny in an unexpected twist of fate in the 2008 action-comedy, "Kung Fu Panda," available now on Hulu. "Kung Fu Panda" centers on Po (Jack Black, "School of Rock," 2003), a clumsy, food-loving panda who dreams of becoming a kung fu master, despite being stuck working in the noodle shop of his goose father, Mr. Ping (James Hong, "Everything Everywhere All at Once," 2022). When the wise tortoise named Master Oogway (Randall Duk Kim, "The Matrix Reloaded," 2003) unexpectedly names Po as the legendary Dragon Warrior, everyone — including Po himself — is shocked. But with the help of the Furious Five — Tigress (Angelina Jolie, "Maleficent," 2014), Monkey (Jackie Chan, "Rush Hour," 1998), Crane (David Cross, "Megamind," 2010), Viper (Lucy Liu, "Charlie's Angels," 2000) and Mantis (Seth Rogen, "This is the End," 2013) — and Master Shifu (Dustin Hoffman, "Sam & Kate," 2022), Po must overcome his self-doubt and prove he's worthy of the title. Po's courage is put to the test when the powerful snow leopard, Tai Lung (Ian McShane, "John Wick," 2014), escapes from prison and threatens the Valley of Peace. Directed by Mark Osborne ("The Little Prince," 2015) and John Stevenson ("Monsters vs. Aliens," 2009), and written by Jonathan Aibel ("Trolls Band Together," 2023), Glenn Berger ("King of the Hill") and Ethan Reiff ("Robin Hood," 2010).

Nikolaj Coster-Waldau stars in "The Silencing"

Colin Firth and Taron Egerton star in "Kingsman: The Secret Service"

Po in "Kung Fu Panda"

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I heard a rumor that Janet Leigh would never take a shower again after "Psycho." Is that true?

A: Unfortunately for "Psycho" (1960) star Janet Leigh, it's hard to entirely avoid showering. But she did her best after making that movie.

"I stopped taking showers and I take baths, only baths," she said in a 1995 memoir, "Psycho: Behind the Scenes of the Classic Thriller." When she had to stay somewhere that only had a shower, she said, "I make sure the doors and windows of the house are locked, and I leave the bathroom door open and shower curtain open. I'm always facing the door, watching, no matter where the shower head is."

If that seems like an extreme approach to cleanliness, you probably weren't traumatized by "Psycho's" famous shower scene — in which Leigh's character is slashed to death through her motel room's shower curtain.

Janet Leigh in "Psycho"

It's more famous now as an often-jokey cultural reference, but at the time it was a shocking thing to see on-screen. Many besides Leigh suddenly saw showering as a risky activity.

But even so, Leigh, who died in 2004 at the age of 77, was certainly glad she took the role. It remains the thing she's best known for and left her with the honorary title of "original scream queen" — "scream queens" being actresses best known, or at least best suited, for playing a particular kind of horror film heroine. It's a role her daughter, Jamie Lee Curtis, would be associated with as well after her breakout role in 1978's "Halloween."

Q: I love the new show "Shifting Gears." I can't figure out where I know Gabe from, but I know I recognize that goofy smile. What else has be been in?

A: There's an alternate universe that split off somewhere in the mid-'00s where you would never be asking that question. Because Seann William Scott, who plays Gabe on the new ABC sitcom "Shifting Gears," would be too famous.

Scott seemed poised for movie stardom back then, having broken out as Stifler in "American Pie" (1999) and its sequels. He also co-starred in some other era-defining hits, such as the teen horror "Final Destination" (2000) and the comedy "Dude, Where's My Car" (2000).

The studios started building projects around him, such as the martial arts action flick "Bulletproof Monk" (2003) and a big-screen adaptation of the classic series "The Dukes of Hazzard" (2005). But these starring vehicles didn't pan out the way the studios expected, so Scott started transitioning back to smaller, supporting roles.

That also means doing more TV — something he shied away from in his heyday. But in more recent years, he was brought in to add some star power to the third season of the "Lethal Weapon" series, which was on the cusp of cancelation. And now he has "Shifting Gears," a pretty straightforward sitcom starring Tim Allen ("Home Improvement") and Kat Dennings ("2 Broke Girls").

Scott still moonlights with film, though. He has two new indie films currently in post-production, awaiting distribution: "Bad Man," an action comedy about a state police officer who butts heads with a small-town deputy, and the horror film "Dolly."
