I'm sure you know, Pope Francis passed away this morning [April 21]. The Pope, who was very well loved, seemed to be a kind and humble man had been in poor health but he sucked it up and rallied. He delivered a message at Easter mass and then he passed away this morning. Is there anything more Catholic than waiting until Monday to die so you don't upstage Jesus? I mean, I don't think there is. It's the Pope version of a mic drop.

The search for a new pope is about to begin and nobody's going to be more insufferable this week than your friend who saw the movie "Conclave" and now knows everything about how it works.

Love is in the air because today we learned Selena Gomez and Benny Blanco are engaged. Congratulations to both Selena Gomez and Benny Blanco, or, as they're known by their celebrity couple: Selena Gomez.

Tariffs are actually a tax on imported goods which significantly increases consumer prices on nearly everything that isn't U.S. made and we make tons of stuff in the U.S.A. Did you know that we are the world's largest producer of Real Housewives?

Thanks to inflation and declining sales, we might have to say farewell to Hooters and instead dine at the next best body part-themed wing place: Buffalo Wild Butts.

New York City just became the first U.S. city to introduce congestion pricing, which is a $9 toll for anyone who drives into Midtown. And if that doesn't earn enough money, they're going to introduce a swear jar in Brooklyn.

The Girl Scouts just announced the official start of cookie season. I love Girl Scout cookies. There's Do-si-dos, there's Thin Mints and, of course, the Tagalong, which is also the Secret Service code name for Elon Musk.

I heard that an overdue book was just returned to the New York Public Library after 72 years. The librarian was like, "Holy shhh!"

Late Night With Seth Meyers (R)

According to a new report, thousands of pet owners are attempting to teach their animals to speak by having them press buttons that play a word. And if it works, women are going to try it with boyfriends.

The CEO of Panera Bread announced that he would be stepping down after deciding he can no longer, in good conscience, refer to macaroni and cheese in a bowl made of bread as soup.

According to a new report, New York is the second-best city in the country for an active lifestyle, which is a really roundabout way of saying the trains are broken.

Passing of the crown: A new power rules the South Side in 'The Chi'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

The winds have changed in Chitown. Following a shocking death in last season's finale, the women of "The Chi" step up in the series' seventh season, premiering Sunday, May 18, on the linear Paramount+ With Showtime network, and is available to stream on Paramount+ with Showtime.

Season 6's finale episode opened with (spoilers) a bang — or rather the echo of a bang — and one of the city's most notorious gangsters lying dead on the floor of his own club. For years, Otis "Douda" Perry (Curtiss Cook, "Carry-On," 2024) ran Chicago, at times as a respected businessman and even as mayor for a short time, but always as a smooth operator conducting the city's underworld.

Douda had made his fair share of enemies throughout his five-season-long run at the top of his empire, but it was ultimately his own No. 2, Nuck (Cortez Smith, "Loyalty Over Trust," 2024), who pulled the trigger. Douda's fate was sealed as he stared down Alicia (Lynn Whitfield, "Greenleaf") as she asked for his final words and readied herself to take him out, only for Nuck, who'd recently survived a brutal beating at the hands of his boss, to step out of the shadows and make the shot.

Eliminating a common enemy did not, however, make friends of the two. This season, Alicia is decidedly on top, claiming her crown and bringing vital women up with her. While she initially speaks to the peaceful control of the city's new regime in the official trailer for the upcoming season, it is not long before trouble comes knocking. According to Paramount: "as loyalties are tested and new rivalries are stoked, it becomes clear that there's only one crown and it will come at a heavy cost."

If Alicia wasn't amenable to working with Nuck when they both had guns aimed at Douda, then the deal was done when Nuck killed Alicia's son Rob (Iman Shumpert, "Them") in the same episode. "It's time to get to work," Alicia says in the trailer. It all comes down on the shoulders of the women of "The Chi" to put an end to the terror that men have inflicted on the city for too long.

"To protect this city, we have to clean up these streets ourselves," Alicia demands of her circle. She is out for revenge for her son as much as she wants to rid the streets of Chicago of senseless violence, staking out targets in the cover of darkness.

Meanwhile, Nuck is building something of his own now that he's replaced Douda in his operation. He's not like his predecessor, Nuck declares in the trailer, putting his new underlings in their place threatening, "One of you disrespect me, I'll kill you."

Returning to "The Chi" this season are Jacob Latimore ("House Party," 2023) as Emmett Washington; Yolonda Ross ("American Gigolo") as Jada Washington; Shamon Brown Jr. ("Tales of the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles") as Stanley "Papa" Jackson; Michael V. Epps ("Primary Position," 2023) as Jake Taylor; Birgundi Baker ("Black Lightning") as Kiesha Williams; and Luke James ("Star") as Victor "Trig" Taylor.

This new season introduces a few exciting guest stars to the Windy City. Phylicia Rashad ("The Beekeeper," 2024) is Rene, a woman who is able to connect with Pastor Zeke (Daniel J. Watts, "The Penguin"). Wendy Raquel Robinson ("Poppa's House") is the generous Riley Dalton and Karrueche Tran ("Bel-Air") is Zuri, a determined troublemaker.

Returning as guest stars this season are Kadeem Hardison ("Black Monday"), Chris Lee ("Tracker"), Brett Gray ("I'm a Virgo"), Rotimi ("Coming 2 America," 2021), Jackie Long ("Games People Play"), Charmin Lee ("Uglies," 2024) and Jill Marie Jones ("Sleepy Hollow").

Season 7 of "The Chi" comes off the heels of a record-breaking season for the show, according to Paramount, citing a successful surge of streaming watches over the previous season.

"The Chi" comes from creator and executive producer Lena Waithe ("Master of None"), who produces the series under her Hillman Grad banner. Co-showrunners Justin Hillian ("Snowfall") and Jewel Coroneel ("Lawmen: Bass Reeves") also executive produce alongside Academy Award winner Common ("Silo").

Speaking with The Hollywood Reporter following last season's finale in July 2024, Hillian provided a fuzzy look at what is to come this season, saying, "We strive to tell a well-balanced story. You know, it's just like the city, the joy, the pain, the ups, the downs. All of it. And it will all continue." Pressed further, Hillian promised, "It is going to be explosive!"

There has been no official word yet on an eighth season renewal of the drama series. However it was reported by Deadline in February that Paramount+ with Showtime had gone ahead and commissioned a writers' room for the future season.

Don't miss the streaming premiere of the new season of "The Chi" premiering Sunday, May 18, on the linear Paramount+ With Showtime network, and is available to stream on Paramount+ with Showtime.

Song of success and sisterhood: Fahy, Moore star in dark comedy 'Sirens'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

We've all dreamed of a life where we "have it all": luxury cars, sprawling land, all you could eat and, of course, the respect that comes with that type of wealth. And while many would simply settle for a stable income and enough food for their family to eat three square meals a day, that "what if" still nags heavily during the slow, boring days when daydreams are born.

Netflix keeps that high-class lifestyle in mind in the new dark comedy "Sirens," starring Academy Award winner Julianne Moore ("Still Alice," 2014) and Primetime Emmy nominee Kevin Bacon ("Footloose," 1984) as socialites Michaela and Peter Kell, an affluent couple that leads a perfectly curated lifestyle on a luxurious holiday destination island. Told from the perspective of an unexpected outsider, the twisted comedy explores themes related to the American class system, sisterhood, the drive to succeed and female empowerment, among other things.

"Sirens" premieres Thursday, May 22, on Netflix.

Based on the play "Elemeno Pea" by series writer and showrunner Molly Smith Metzler ("Maid"), "Sirens" follows protective older sister Devon DeWitt (Meghann Fahy, "The White Lotus"), who, despite her own mental health spiral, is determined to get to the bottom of her little sister's strange attachment to her boss. When Devon shows up unexpectedly at the private estate of the Kells, she is overwhelmed by their perfectly manicured gardens, carefully curated buildings and the absurdly polished exterior of the staff, each of whom is directed and overseen by her sister, Simone (Milly Alcock, "House of the Dragon").

Worse yet are the Kells themselves. Bacon's Peter Kell is described by Netflix as having "come from old money and is the most important person in every room he enters." His ego follows him from galas to family functions, even accompanying him on his many athletic endeavors. In fact, according to his press-provided character description, it sounds as though the only time Peter is relaxed is when he decides to partake in some casual marijuana use. Moore's Michaela Kell, on the other hand, is the main reason Devon has come to town looking for her sister. Sophisticated and aloof, Michaela is Simone's calm and cultish boss, whom Netflix describes as a "philanthropist and animal activist who runs island high society." While generally distant from her various staff, Michaela appears to have taken an unnatural shine to her new personal assistant, Simone, who is overjoyed to be held in such esteem by a wealthy and well-respected woman.

But when Devon arrives and immediately begins to spot big changes in her sister's appearance and personality, Simone instantly becomes annoyed and frustrated. Across the show's "five explosive episodes," family drama plays out as Devon and Simone rehash their shared personal traumas amid plenty of bizarre encounters with the Kells and their entourage of indulgent billionaires.

"This story has a lot of teeth," Smith Metzler told Netflix Tudum ahead of the series' release. "There are real moments of drama, and it's going to make people uncomfortable. Operatic is a word I like to use to describe it. It's a true dark comedy — and it's got a Greek mythology vibe."

It is important to note, however, that despite the ethereal, dreamy quality "Sirens" achieves, the series is still somehow grounded in real and relatable moments.

"Sirens is really a show about relationships and the way people desperately try to outrun their past," Fahy shared with audiences via Tudum. "We watch Simone run desperately away from who she is ... Devon becomes embarrassed. Simone starts calling out all of Devon's bad habits, bad relationships and the way that she mistreats herself."

Echoing her character from the trailer, Fahy adds, "No one knows you like a sister."

Joining Fahy, Alcock, Moore and Bacon on screen are Glenn Howerton ("It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia") as billionaire bachelor Ethan Corbin III, a neighbor of the Kells'; Trevor Salter ("She-Hulk: Attorney at Law") as Jordan, Ethan's young and attractive yacht captain; Josh Segarra ("Abbott Elementary") as Raymond, a proud restaurant manager in Buffalo, N.Y., and Devon's on-again, off-again boyfriend; Felix Solis ("The Rookie: Feds") as Jose, the Kells' astute gardener and all-around helper; Lauren Weedman ("Hacks") as Patrice, the Kells' long-time chef; Britne Oldford ("The Umbrella Academy") as the Kells' seasonal housekeeper, Missy; and Jenn Lyon ("Claws"), Erin Neuffer ("Julia") and Emily Borromeo ("Blue Bloods") as trio

Cloe, Lisa and Astrid, known collectively as "The Fates."

Bill Camp ("12 Years a Slave," 2013) also appears in "Sirens" as Bruce DeWitt, Simone and Devon's father, whose health has recently taken a turn for the worse due to an unexpected diagnosis of early onset dementia. As a father and a "gruff and proud" veteran of the U.S. Navy, Bruce hopes against all odds that this new medical hurdle doesn't turn him into a burden for his daughters.

So why not don your finest and dive into a sea of drama with Netflix? "Sirens" premieres Thursday, May 22.

Beloved character actor Paul Reubens celebrated in two-part series

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Pee-wee's big documentary: An actor, comedian and visionary, Paul Reubens ("Mosaic") — known to many as his most beloved persona, Pee-wee Herman — is celebrated posthumously during the touching and emotional two-part documentary, "Pee-wee as Himself," making its debut Friday, May 23, on HBO and Max with both episodes airing back-to-back.

First gracing the stage as an improvisational comedian and stage actor in the 1970s, Reubens quickly developed the childlike, wide-eyed character of Pee-wee, who later went on to appear in the likes of "The Pee-wee Herman Show" (1981), "Pee-wee's Big Adventure" (1985), "Pee-wee's Playhouse" and "Pee-wee's Big Holiday" (2016), delighting fans of all ages.

Reubens, who died from cancer in 2023 at the age of 70, worked alongside documentarian Matt Wolf ("Wild Combination: A Portrait of Arthur Russell," 2008) for the creation of this eye-opening film, hoping to connect with viewers on a deeper level before his passing.

As the series' logline reads: "Driven by a soul-baring interview with Paul Reubens, the man behind the iconic character Pee-wee Herman, 'Pee-wee as Himself' is the definitive portrait of the comedic performer, and a window into his never before discussed personal life. Determined to correct the record and tell the factual story of his life, Reubens excavates his kaleidoscopic influences, origins in the circus and avant-garde performance theater, and career choices, while reflecting on the reasoning behind, and the consequences of, severing his beloved alter ego from his authentic self."

Wolf, who collected 40 hours of interview footage from Reubens, his friends, his family and his on-screen comrades, delves headfirst into the complex man who brought Pee-wee to life, offering never-before-seen clips and pictures as he unpacks an often unspoken aspect of Reuben's life: his identity as a gay man.

"When we started making the documentary, Paul told me that he had decided he was ready to come out," Wolf said in a statement shared with GLAAD. "Since he had been extremely private throughout his life, talking about his sexuality was probably the most sensitive thing we had to navigate together."

"Reubens' story is bold and urgent, in a time when the LGBTQ community's rights are being stripped away. It's not only an inspiring story of living your life authentically, but it's a preservation of queer history and icons," read the adjoining statement from GLAAD.

Introducing viewers to the man behind the bowtie, "Pee-wee as Himself" premieres Friday, May 23, on both HBO and Max.

Fijian firsts: Twenty-six days. Eighteen castaways. One iconic host. This history-making season of "Survivor" has seen blindsides, alliances and challenges aplenty, leaving fans to wonder who will earn themselves a life-changing $1 million during the three-hour Season 48 finale of "Survivor," airing Wednesday, May 21, on CBS, and streaming live on Paramount+.

Jeff Probst ("Finder's Fee," 2001) saw his castaways form a merged tribe during the season's sixth episode, but while this mile marker usually ups the ante for the remaining players, Season 48's castaways have already seen plenty of memorable and unprecedented moments early in the game, including a never-before-seen moment at Tribal Council that had Probst checking the "Survivor" rulebook — an oddity after nearly 50 seasons as the show's steadfast host.

During the season's fifth episode, the show had one of its most touching moments to date as Eva Erickson — the first openly autistic "Survivor" player — experienced a wave of overwhelming emotion (as Eva calls it, "an autism event") following a challenge, leaving her in tears.

Paul Reubens is the subject of "Pee-wee as Himself"

Eva had bonded early in the season with Joe Hunter, the only player who knew about her autism, in the Lagi tribe. When she became overwhelmed, Joe looked to Jeff for permission to cross tribal lines and offer her comfort. Joe implemented the grounding techniques that Eva had suggested earlier in their relationship, offering pressure and allowing Eva to regulate her breathing. Once settled, Eva was then able to open up to her fellow castaways, sharing her autism diagnosis while standing beside a teary-eyed Joe.

Speaking to Entertainment Weekly in an exclusive, joint interview given alongside Eva — Joe explained: "She told me exactly what to do, and I'm so thankful for her to do that. And I just tried to remember exactly what she said. I just knew she needed contact and I was like, 'We're going to figure this out.' And I just wanted to do exactly what she said."

"Joe did a fantastic job there," Eva responded. "And yeah, we had only had that one conversation way back. And him listening and caring so deeply was so important to me."

Speaking of her teammates, she said: "They wanted to support me, but they didn't understand the same things."

Finally, Eva left readers with an impactful message: "Life won't stop because you're struggling, but you can take steps to make sure that you can make it through those times."

Packed with poignant moments, the Season 48 finale of "Survivor" airs Wednesday, May 21, on CBS and Paramount+.

"Big Mouth" - Season 8

The hormone monsters are returning for the final chapter in Season 8 of the long-running animated series, "Big Mouth," premiering Friday, May 23, on Netflix, with Cynthia Erivo ("Wicked," 2024), Kristen Wiig ("Bridesmaids," 2011), Holly Hunter ("The Incredibles," 2004) and more guest starring. In Season 8, the Bridgeton teens are facing a new wave of growing pains as Nick (Nick Kroll, "Don't Worry Darling," 2022) wrestles with his first growth spurt, Andrew (John Mulaney, "Spider-Man: Into the Spider-Verse," 2018) confronts his existential dread of premature balding, Jessi (Jessi Klein, "Dead to Me") explores her identity, while Missy (Jenny Slate, "Zootopia," 2016) takes charge of her health — with the help of her Hormone Monstress, Mona (Thandiwe Newton, "The Pursuit of Happyness," 2006). Through it all, the one thing keeping these high schoolers afloat is their friendship. From creators Kroll, Andrew Goldberg ("Family Guy"), Mark Levin ("Journey to the Center of the Earth," 2008) and Jennifer Flackett ("The Adam Project," 2022), who also serve as co-writers and executive producers, the series' regular voice cast also includes Jason Mantzoukas ("Invincible"), Jordan Peele ("Get Out," 2017) and Maya Rudolph ("Bridesmaids," 2011).

Andrew, Nick, Jessi and Missy in "Big Mouth"

"Fear Street: Prom Queen" (2025)

Get ready for another bloody trip to Shadyside, inspired by R.L. Stine's acclaimed novel "The Prom Queen." After the smash success of the Fear Street trilogy in 2021, Netflix is resurrecting the franchise with "Fear Street: Prom Queen," premiering Friday, May 23, on the streamer. Set in the neon-soaked halls of Shadyside High School in 1988, the latest chapter follows the school's reigning "it girls" as they battle to be crowned prom queen. But when a gutsy outsider earns a spot on the court, the competition suddenly turns deadly. As the bodies start piling up, it becomes clear that something far more sinister than high school drama is lurking the school halls. In Shadyside, prom night isn't a rite of passage — it's a fight for survival. From the producers of "R.L. Stine's The Haunting Hour," Joan Wari-cha and Jane Stine, "Fear Street: Prom Queen" is directed by Matt Palmer ("Calibre," 2018), who penned the screenplay alongside Donald McLeary ("West Skerra Light," 2016). India Fowler ("Insomnia"), Suzanna Son ("The Idol"), Fina Strazza ("Paper Girls"), David Iacono ("The Summer I Turned Pretty"), Ella Rubin ("The Idea of You," 2024), Chris Klein ("Sweet Magnolias"), Lili Taylor ("Manhunt"), Katherine Waterston ("The End We Start From," 2023) and Ariana Greenblatt ("Barbie," 2023) also star.

"Untold: The Fall of Favre"

The anthology documentary series "Untold" returns with its latest installment, "Untold: The Fall of Favre," premiering Tuesday, May 20, on Netflix, pulling back the curtain on Brett Favre, best known as a Green Bay Packers quarterback and Super Bowl champion. "Untold: The Fall of Favre," is a 60-minute tell-all documentary following the former NFL player's shocking involvement in a million-dollar embezzlement scheme that redirected state welfare funds intended for vulnerable Mississippi communities. From director-producer Rebecca Gitlitz ("One & Done," 2016), the documentary features exclusive interviews with journalists, legal experts, former teammates and those impacted by the case. "Untold: The Fall of Favre" is a chilling look at one of the most disturbing sports-adjacent scandals in history. Executive produced by Ian Orefice ("The Lionheart," 2023), Jonna McLaughlin ("Uncertainty," 2008), Amanda Spain ("After Antarctica," 2021), Dave O'Connor ("Tony Robbins: I Am Not Your Guru," 2016), Loren Hammonds ("Frida," 2024), Jon Wertheim ("Strokes of Genius," 2018), A.J. Perez ("Check Point," 2017) and Ben Silverman ("The Office"), the series comes from Ever-Wonder Studio, Front Office Sports and Time Studios.

"Motorheads" - Season 1

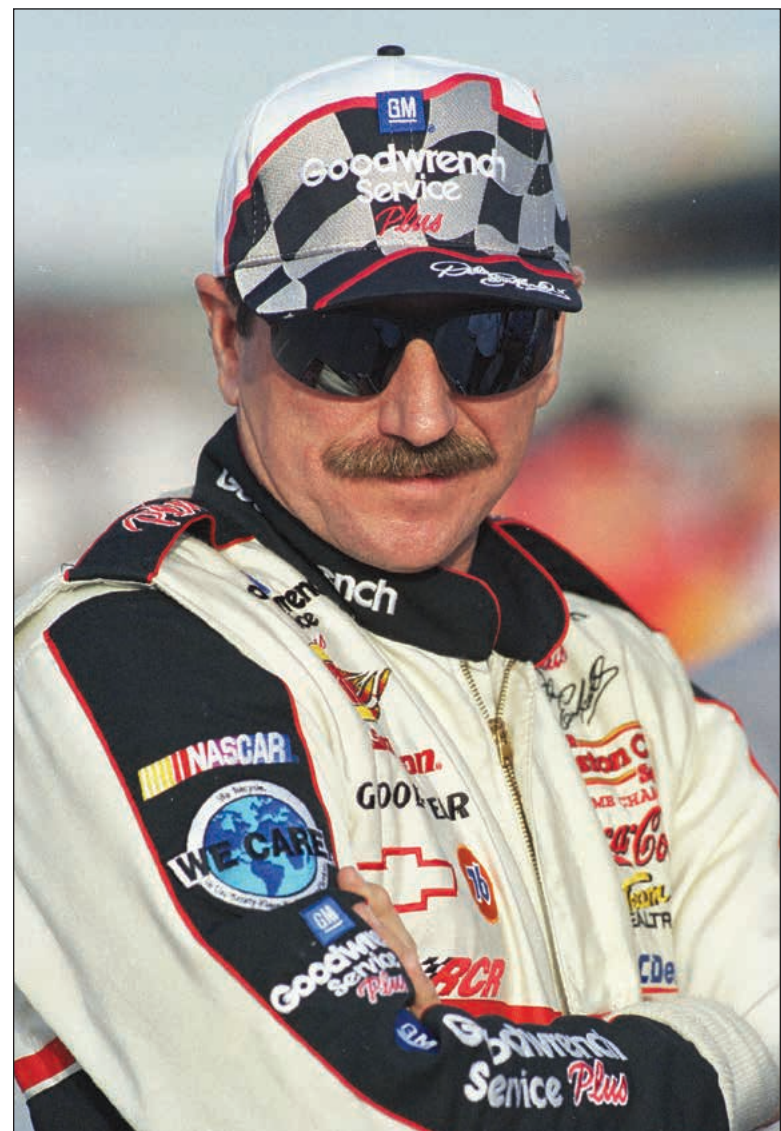

A coming-of-age drama set in the fading town of Ironwood, Season 1 of "Motorheads" premieres Tuesday, May 20, on Prime Video. From creator John A. Norris ("One Tree Hill"), the series follows a group of outsider teens who are brought together by a shared love for street racing. In the glow of taillights and under the weight of family legacies, they build friendships that just might outlast their clunky old engines. Together, they confront the challenges of high school, first loves and big dreams. Starring is Ryan Phillippe ("Cruel Intentions," 1999) as Logan, a former NASCAR mechanic; Nathalie Kelley ("The Vampire Diaries") as Samantha, a nurse who left behind her life in New York City to return to her hometown; Michael Cimino ("Never Have I Ever") as Zac, who aspires to live up to his father's street racing legacy; Melissa Collazo ("Swamp Thing") as Caitlyn, a gifted mechanic who moved back home to solve her father's disappearance; and Uriah Shelton ("Freaky," 2020) as Curtis, a shy outsider who is a skilled mechanic. Directed by Neil Burger ("Divergent," 2014), "Motorheads" is produced by Amazon MGM Studios.

"Clarkson's Farm" - Season 4

Throwing viewers back into the mud-splattered chaos of the Diddy Squat Farm, "Clarkson's Farm" returns for its fourth season, premiering Friday, May 23, on Prime Video. Picking up just a few months after the events of Season 3, a lot has changed on the Diddy Squat Farm. Kaleb ("The World According to Kaleb: On Tour," 2024) has hit the road on a nationwide tour, while Lisa ("Prue Leith's Cotswold Kitchen") is busy developing a new product line. Left to steer the farm through unpredictable weather, stubborn livestock and bureaucratic hurdles, Jeremy ("Phineas and Ferb") faces his greatest challenge yet as he runs the Diddy Squat Farm solo. Never one to do things the easy way, Jeremy dreams up a bold new venture: buying and renovating a local pub. Directed by Kit Lynch Robinson ("The Grand Tour"), series executive producers include Peter Fincham ("The Chelsea Detective") and Andy Wilman ("Jeremy Clarkson War Stories," 2011).

Dale Earnhardt, subject of "Earnhardt"

"Earnhardt"

A comprehensive and heartfelt portrayal of a racing icon whose impact transcended the track, "Earnhardt" is coming to Prime Video on Thursday, May 22. From director Joshua Altman ("Couples Therapy"), the four-part documentary series takes viewers into the life and legacy of NASCAR legend Dale Earnhardt, delving into his meteoric rise from humble beginnings to becoming one of the most iconic figures in motorsports. Through never-before-seen footage and candid interviews with family members — including his children Dale Earnhardt Jr. ("Race for the Championship") and Kelley Earnhardt Miller ("Dale," 2007) — "Earnhardt" explores the complexities of the racer's personal and professional life and sheds light on his dedication to racing, the persona of "The Intimidator" and the impact of his career on his family, including first-hand accounts from Richard Childress ("NASCAR on CBS"), Darrell Waltrip ("Cars," 2006) and Hank Parker ("Hank Parker's Outdoor Magazine"). Each episode focuses on pivotal moments in Earnhardt's career, from his early days in NASCAR to his pursuit of a record-tying seventh championship, highlighting the challenges and triumphs that defined his journey. The series is produced by Brian Grazer ("A Beautiful Mind"), Ron Howard ("Apollo 13," 1995), Sara Bernstein ("The Crash Reel," 2013) and Justin Wilkes ("Light & Magic").

By Kimberly Tremblay
TV Media

Trading in his knives for his state-of-the-art surveillance van and high-tech spyware, Gordon Ramsay ("Hell's Kitchen") is going undercover in his boldest mission yet. "Gordon Ramsay's Secret Service" premieres Wednesday, May 21, on Fox, with the world-renowned chef exposing the unspeakable horrors behind the menu.

Hosted by Ramsay — who is famously known for confronting chefs head-on in "Hell's Kitchen," "Kitchen Nightmares" and "Next Level Chef" — is now flipping the script in his latest series. But this time, the element of surprise is on his side. Armed with hidden cameras, secret informants and forensic-level kitchen investigations, Ramsay is exposing the horrors lurking behind some of America's most troubled restaurants — all without tipping off the staff.

"With the help of a secret source on the inside, he'll gather raw, unfiltered evidence and get a 360-degree view of the major issues facing each restaurant," explains a description from Fox. "This insider will not only remain a secret to the staff but will also help Ramsay infiltrate the restaurant after-hours for a dramatic nighttime black light kitchen investigation that reveals more filth and grossness than ever before. By the time Ramsay reveals his identity, it will be too late for staff to cover up their culinary crimes."

Ramsay has never been one to shy away from a challenge, but going undercover to rescue failing restaurants pushes him into uncharted territory and one question remains: are the staff willing to accept Ramsay's mission, or are they too far gone to be saved?

"For years, I've embarked on daring adventures with Fox," Ramsay said. "But 'Secret Service' is the most intrepid of them all. With undercover help and cutting-edge technology, I get to go full-on 'MI6' with these restaurants — and they'll never see it coming."

The world-renowned chef is dominating the culinary TV scene, with "Gordon Ramsay's Secret Service" serving as the latest addition. Ramsay also has six other shows on Fox — "Next Level Chef," "Hell's Kitchen," "MasterChef," "MasterChef Junior," "Kitchen Nightmares" and "Food Stars."

Produced by Studio Ramsay Global and Fox Alternative Entertainment, with Ramsay and Bill Langworthy ("The Hills") credited as executive producers, "Gordon Ramsay's Secret Service" serves up a flavorful first season Wednesday, May 21, on Fox.

"Nine Perfect Strangers" - Season 2

Nothing is quite what it seems in Season 2 of the psychological thriller "Nine Perfect Strangers," coming to Hulu on Wednesday, May 21. Set in the fictional town of Cabrillo, nine city-dwellers arrive at an isolated wellness retreat desperate for change, under the watchful eye of the resort's mysterious leader, Ma-sha Dmitrichenko (Nicole Kidman, "The Golden Compass," 2007). As their journey quickly turns unsettling, the resort soon reveals the dark secrets beneath its serene surface. Based on Liane Moriarty's bestselling novel of the same name, "Nine Perfect Strangers" stars Melissa McCarthy ("Bridesmaids," 2011), Michael Shannon ("A Little White Lie," 2022), Regina Hall ("Girls Trip," 2017), Luke Evans ("Beauty and the Beast," 2017) and Bobby Cannavale ("Blonde," 2022). Together, the guests of the Tranquillum House are subjected to unorthodox therapies and find their inner demons resurfacing in ways they never imagined. From creators David E. Kelley ("Big Little Lies"), John-Henry Butterworth ("Edge of Tomorrow," 2014) and director Jonathan Levine ("Long Shot," 2019), the se-

"The Last Showgirl" (2024)

The curtain may be closing, but her story is just beginning. A poignant drama from director Gia Coppola ("The Seven Faces of Jane," 2022), "The Last Showgirl" streams on Hulu Friday, May 23. When the glittering Las Vegas revue she's headlined for decades announces its closure, Shelley's (Pamala Anderson, "Baywatch") career as a showgirl comes to an abrupt end. As she steps off the stage for the first time in over 30 years, Shelley must redefine herself beyond the spotlight and confront the life she left off-stage, prompting her to reconnect with her estranged daughter Hannah (Billie Lourd, "American Horror Story") to repair their relationship. Starring Jamie Lee Curtis ("Freaky Friday," 2003), Kiernan Shipka ("Mad Men") and Brenda Song ("The Suite Life of Zack & Cody"). Inspired by Kate Gersten's play "Body of Work," this drama pulls back the curtain on the emotional toll of a life driven by applause and reminds us that when life gets difficult, the show must go on. Produced by Coppola, Jessamine Burgum ("I

Chip and Joanna Gaines, the beloved couple from the HGTV series "Fixer Upper," return to their renovation roots in "Fixer Upper: Welcome Home," premiering Saturday, May 24, on Hulu. Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Is it true that Tina Fey and Amy Poehler are remaking "The Golden Girls"?

A: As fun as a "Golden Girls" remake starring some of today's female comedy greats would be, it's just an online hoax.

It stems from what appeared to be a poster for the remade show that circulated widely online. It showed Tina Fey ("30 Rock"), Amy Poehler ("Parks and Recreation"), Maya Rudolph ("Loot") and Lisa Kudrow ("Friends") posed together under the title "The Golden Girls."

Tellingly, Poehler and Kudrow are in costume and makeup to make them look older, while Fey and Rudolph are not. In fact, they look even younger than they are now, suggesting that the photos the trickster used were from a while ago.

When asked about it by "Entertainment Tonight," Fey said she enjoyed the joke, but it would only be convincing to folks who aren't familiar with the digital trickery people are capable of today. "If this fooled you, you might be a Boomer. And if you're Gen X, and this fooled you, go to a hospital."

Despite being off the air for decades, love for the original, barrier-smashing sitcom "The Golden Girls," which ran on NBC from 1985 to 1992, is still going strong.

But Fey said that's actually a reason not to remake it: "The original is ...

those ladies can't be touched."

Q: Did the actress who voiced Lilo in the original "Lilo & Stitch" movie come back for the new one?

A: Not only did Daveigh Chase ("Donnie Darko," 2001) not take a role in this year's remake of her beloved 2002 Disney hit "Lilo & Stitch," she hasn't taken a role of any kind in nearly a decade.

Chase voiced the titular child character Lilo in the original film, in which she adopts a fugitive monster from space, thinking it's a dog — this being the other title character, Stitch, voiced by Chris Sanders ("The Wild Robot," 2024), who also wrote and directed the film.

It was part of a big 2002 for Chase, who was just 12 years old at the time. That same year, she also starred as a ghostly, nightmarish presence named Samara in the blockbuster horror classic "The Ring."

But much like the characters she haunted in that film, it seems that Chase has fallen victim to a curse — in her case, the child-star curse. Like so many others in her position, she was unable to carry her success into adulthood. Roles kept coming for a few years but never of the same caliber, and none made the same impact.

She now seems to have given up on acting. Her most recent role was the 2016 serial killer thriller "American Romance," which was dismissed by viewers and critics alike. Andrew Parker of entertainment website The Gate said the film "forgets to be genuinely entertaining or surprising."
