City of Moline,

Like all restaurants across the United States the past eight months have been extremely difficult. With limited capacity inside, restaurants were and still are having difficulty operating. Now that all indoor dining is cancelled it is extremely hard to operate on Take Out, To Go operations.

With cold weather approaching patio seating will be difficult. With many people still working from home, customers are reluctant to sit outside in cold weather. Our To Go operation is the only source of doing business. With a larger building for seating, overhead costs are much higher and running a To Go only operation is nearly impossible.

Steel Plow Burger would appreciate any help that is currently available.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
