'The Expanse' brings sci-fi back into our own solar system

By Cassie Dresch
TV Media

Humans have always had a penchant for exploring — from the depths of the ocean to the vastness of the universe, we want to know what's out there. Space exploration has come a long way as technologies have advanced and evolved, which makes it easy to dream of what waits for us beyond our solar system.

TV likes to go out into the cosmos, too: "Star Trek," "Battlestar Galactica," "Firefly," "Andromeda," the list goes on and on. These shows are classic examples of intergalactic, outer space human exploration shows, but what about staying closer to home? There aren't many sci-fi shows that revolve around the vacuum of space nearest our sun.

But Syfy's newest offering does stay within our solar system for a change; "The Expanse," a space opera set 200 years in the future on Earth, Mars and the asteroid belt that separates the two planets, is the cabler's latest original show. The 10-episode series kicks off with a special two-night event Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 14 and 15, on Syfy, before sliding into its regular Tuesday time-slot.

The show from NBCUniversal's Syfy is based on the international bestselling series of novels of the same name from James S.A. Corey (the pen name used by authors Ty Franck and Daniel Abraham), and stars three-time Golden Globe nominee Thomas Jane ("The Mist," 2007) as Det. Josephus Miller, and Steven Strait ("Magic City") as rogue ice freighter captain James Holden. The pair are on the hunt for a missing woman, and ultimately end up hot on the trail of the biggest conspiracy in human history.

If the source material is any indication, "The Expanse" promises to be an intriguing tale that doesn't need to zip-zoom to the outer reaches of the galaxy to make for good TV. Co-creator Mark Fergus commented on this at the Television Critics Association press tour in January:

"We always felt that the great struggle of a lot of sci-fi we grew up on takes us into a story world where we've already jumped over the interesting part, which is the first fumbling steps of us pushing off this planet, getting out into the solar system, sorting ourselves out as a race. All the struggle and the pain and the glory of that, ... [e]verything is kind of done. And to us, we really got turned on by the books because they told of this world where 'Here is the scaffolding. Here is how it got built. Here is who built it. Here is how humanity started looking at itself differently and getting rid of old forms of racism and creating new forms of racism.'"

Part of the "we" Fergus is talking about is his partner in crime, Hawk Ostby. The screenwriting duo penned the Oscar-nominated film "Children of Men" (2006), the mega-hit superhero film "Iron Man" (2008) and the Daniel Craig and Olivia Wilde-starring film "Cowboys & Aliens" (2011), and now they make their first foray into TV writing with "The Expanse."

The co-creators have a lot of material to draw from as the series progresses — there are currently five novels, two short stories and two novellas, and four more novels and three more novellas are planned for the book series — and, if reaction from San Diego Comic-Con in July and New York Comic Con in October is any indication, the series looks primed for a long run after its initial 10 episodes.

"Welp, we have a new favorite show," io9.com's Lauren Davis wrote following the July screening. "At San Diego Comic-Con, we got to watch the entire pilot ... and we were blown away." Max Nicholson from IGN said that the pilot episode "looked gorgeous. The exterior space shots and zero gravity effects in particular were top notch, especially for television," and after the viewing in New York, Blastr's Cher Martinetti said that Syfy "has a winner on their hands," judging by fan response.

Of course, the true test comes now as sci-fi fans get introduced en masse to the story and characters, especially if they haven't read the books and this is the first time they're delving into the world of "The Expanse." They're in capable hands, however, as the series has lined up an (inter)stellar cast.

Alongside Jane and Strait, the ensemble includes Oscar-nominated and Emmy-winning actress Shohreh Aghdashloo ("House of Sand and Fog," 2003), Chad L. Coleman ("The Walking Dead," "The Wire"), Wes Chatham ("The Help," 2011), Gemini Award nominee Cas Anvar ("The Tournament") and Dominique Tipper ("Vampire Academy," 2014).

Thomas Jane and Shohreh Aghdashloo star in "The Expanse"
