Godina (Norberto)—Johnny was known for his generosity, often showering them with thoughtful gifts. He also shared a special bond with his brother-in-law, Wilbert, who fondly remembers their fishing trips together, where Johnny delighted more in the scenery and picnics than in the fishing itself. His loving spirit extended to his family, including nieces Teresa, Victoria, Jenae, Lizzy, and Lexie, as well as nephews Norberto, Patrick, Betito, and Baby Johnny. He was also blessed with a supportive extended family, including his Aunt Eleanor Garcia and Uncle Richard Garcia.

Johnny's affectionate nature was also evident in his bond with his cat companion, Baby Monster, who was a source of comfort and joy in his life. He cultivated the beauty around him, tending to a vibrant flower garden filled with colorful petunias, sunflowers, and roses that mirrored his lively spirit.

Surrounded by many cherished friends and family members, Johnny's heart was large, and he touched the lives of all who knew him.
