Growing girls

Willa Fitzgerald, Kathryn Newton, Maya Hawke and Annes Elwy star in "Little Women"

May Alcott's "Little Women." Meg (Willa Fitzgerald, "Scream: The TV Series"), Jo (Maya Hawke, "Ladyworld," 2018), Beth (Annes Elwy, "Philip K. Dick's Electric Dreams") and Amy (Kathryn Newton, "Lady Bird," 2017) grow together in this authentic adaptation, hoping to empower a new generation of girls. Experience true sisterhood when "Little Women" premieres Sunday, May 13, on PBS, as part of "Masterpiece Classic."

PBS breathes new life into Louisa May Alcott's 'Little Women'

By K.A. Taylor

brief channel surf quickly reveals that women on television are still all too often depicted as jealous, fighting frenemies. Often generic and one-dimensional, these portrayals detrimentally serve to convince the world and more importantly, young women — that to be feminine is to lack rationality and depth.

Fortunately for anyone looking for a more uplifting depiction of young womanhood, PBS has teamed up with the BBC to bring to life a new miniseries adaptation of Louisa May Alcott's classic novel "Little Women." How fascinating it is to consider that a series based on a 150-year-old novel could deliver a more honest and complex representation of women's relationships than we see in so much modernday fare. The latest "Masterpiece Classic" offering, "Little Women" premieres Sunday, May 13, on PBS.

"Little Women" stays loyal to Alcott's work, while interjecting ample doses of humor and empowerment. Set amidst the American Civil War, the story provides a glimpse into the lives of the four March sisters as they grow from girls to young women under the watchful, loving care of their mother. The family, once well-to-do, now lives in poverty. Relocated to a new portion of a Massachusetts community, these little women find themselves not just penniless but also fatherless, as the patriarch has been called off to war. Left to fend for themselves, the March women are eager to prove that they're more than capable of doing so.

Each sister is undeniably a March, yet entirely unique. Meg March (Willa Fitzgerald, "Scream: The TV Series") is the eldest of the four and quite naturally adapts to a matriarchal type of role, quite satisfied with the prospect of a domestic life. Second eldest, Jo (Maya Hawke, "Ladyworld," 2018), is full of bold ambition, often labeled a tomboy due to her interests and hopes to be a published writer one day. Beth (Annes Elwy, "Philip K. Dick's Electric Dreams"), the third daughter, is quite shy and has a penchant for music. The youngest March, Amy (Kathryn Newton, "Lady Bird," 2017), is the most artistic, though easily swayed into a state of vanity.

Initially, these four girls may seem fairly set in their ways, somewhat stereotypical and guite contrary to one another. As the girls develop, however, it becomes clear that there are multiple dimensions to all of their personalities, and assumed predictability is quickly discarded.

The casting of "Little Women's" leading ladies in this latest adaptation blends fresh, new faces with a healthy dose of well-established talent. If newcomer Hawke seems familiar, it may be in large part due to the success of her parents. The actress is the daughter of Uma Thurman ("Kill Bill: Vol. 1," 2003) and Ethan Hawke ("Training Day," 2001), two beloved actors whose passion for the craft seems to be hereditary.

Hawke has a lot of hopes for this interpretation of Jo, which she expressed during a news release interview for "Masterpiece." She longs for audiences to notice Jo's imperfections and notes that she did her best to express "the parts of [Jo] that she would feel insecure about" and to "illuminate her less perfect qualities," trying to stray from the perfectionist persona for which the character is typically known.

The two elder March ladies of the miniseries are portrayed by theatrical and cinematic favorites. Matriach Marmee is played by the acclaimed Emily Watson ("The Book Thief," 2013), who began her career heavily invested in feature film roles, but who has been racking up more and more TV series parts since 2011. Surpassing all of these talented ladies, however, is the legendary Angela Lansbury ("Murder She Wrote"), who steps into the fiercely critical shoes of Aunt March.

Since 1868, when "Little Women" was published, the story has endured countless adaptions in various formats. Be it film, television, musicals, operas, stage plays, web videos or audio dramas, it's clear that the authenticity felt in this novel translates well to all mediums. The story was first adapted for the silver screen in silent format in 1917, with the most recent bigscreen adaptation currently in production. When it comes to television, BBC has developed four miniseries of "Little Women," the first airing in the 1950s as a live production. Anyone with siblings, but especially those of us who are sisters and have sisters, find deep familiarity with the relationships and conflicts depicted, so it's no surprise that Alcott's work continues to remain relevant and reproduced.

Driven by authenticity and truth to the period within which the tale is set, "Little Women" promises to be a well-loved representation of the classic novel. The cast, crew and director have painstakingly worked to recreate Alcott's world, placing emphasis on natural beauty and individuality over spectacle. In a promotional interview for the miniseries, director Vanessa Caswill expressed how important it was to '[tell] a truthful story" — one that would "empower the women in it by not making them dollies, by making them just pure and beauti-

With women continuing to push for their unique voices and stories to be heard, perhaps there is no better time than now for a retelling of Alcott's beloved novel. Embrace feminine strength and growth when "Little Women" premieres Sunday, May 13, on PBS.

The heat is on

HBO brings a literary classic to the screen

Bv Andrew Warren TV Media

The heat is on: In an era when fake news, social media scandals and cries of censorship fill the landscape, it's a good time to remember that concerns about censorship and the ways that information is spread are far from new, with some of the 20th century's most-recognized novels dealing with the subject. 1953's "Fahrenheit 451" by Ray Bradbury is one of the best known, and now the book is getting the HBO treatment.

"Fahrenheit 451" premieres Saturday, May 19, on HBO, with an all-star cast bringing the novel to life in a gorgeous film that's just as relevant today as the book was back in 1953.

Michael B. Jordan ("Black Panther," 2018) headlines the cast as Montag, a fireman in a not-so-distant dystopian future. In this future version of America, the role of firemen has changed, though. They don't fight fires; they start them. In a world where books have become contraband and people get their entertainment from other sources, the firemen are responsible for burning any books that are found — along with the buildings in which they're discovered.

Michael Shannon ("The Shape of Water," 2017) plays Montag's superior and mentor, Beatty, who becomes suspicious after Montag begins smuggling books out of the homes that they burn so that he can read them, while Sofia Boutella ("Kingsman: The Secret Service," 2014) stars as an informant who finds herself tugged between the two men.

It's a grim story to be sure, but also one filled with plenty of hope — and also a warning about a possible future. "Fahrenheit 451" is considered a classic for a reason, and it's hitting the screen on Saturday, May 19, on HBO.

Growing up: The Goldberg family is growing. ABC's popular 1980s-set sitcom now has five seasons under its belt and a sixth on the way, and with an unnamed spinoff finally ordered to series, it looks like the underlying humor in "The Goldbergs" isn't going anywhere for a while.

The new series, which is slated to premiere sometime in the 2018-19 TV season, will jump ahead a few years from its parent series and be set in the 1990s. The focus of the spinoff will be squarely on the teachers at William Penn Academy. The pickup is actually the spinoff's second chance at life, after ABC went so far as to order a pilot over a year ago, only to decline a full series order on the show. Well, "Goldbergs" fans don't have to worry about that this time, with a full 13 episodes on order. Among the new cast is former "The Goldbergs" star AJ Michalka, who played Lainey for four seasons before leaving ahead of the fifth season. She'll be jumping right back into the same role, only now as a teacher at William Penn Academy. Recurring 'Goldbergs" quest stars Tim Meadows and Bryan Callen will also reprise their roles, with Meadows now toplining as Principal Glascott and Callen as

tricities and personal lives, all three characters are looked up to by their students.

"The Goldbergs" spinoff has had a long and winding road to get to this point, but with a firm 13-episode commitment, it looks like it will finally see the light of day. Watch for the new series next season on ABC.

Back for more: They say that all good things must come to an end, but that old idiom apparently doesn't apply to "NCIS." The CBS drama has been a mainstay at the network for a whopping 15 seasons, and with a recent 16th-season pickup, it seems that the venerable procedural still has lots of life in it.

That's not the only good news for all the "NCIS" fans out there. Mark Harmon ("Chicago Hope"), who's headlined the cast since the very first season, has reportedly inked a new contract to stay on for the new season as well.

"It's pretty simple — viewers everywhere love 'NCIS,'" CBS Entertainment president Kelly Kahl said in a statement announcing the renewal. "This show speaks to viewers of all ages, in all parts of the country and around the world. 'NCIS's' amazing characters and terrific storytelling result in some of TV's most passionate fans."

Passionate fans indeed! Itself a spinoff of "JAG," "NCIS" has spawned two of its own successful spinoffs — "NĊIS: Los Angeles" and "NCIS: New Orleans" each with its own group of loyal view-

Sadly for fans, there's at least one face that won't be on screen when the 16th season arrives. Pauley Perrette ("Almost Famous," 2000), who's starred alongside Harmon since the very beginning, has hung up her hat and moved on from the series. Despite that, the show must go on, as they say.

By Adam Thomlison TV Media

Q: Are there any laws or rules around using the words "based on a true story"? Is there a certain amount of truth that has to be incorporated in order to use that teas-

A: The only rule regarding saying something's "based on a true story" is the old rule about not getting caught.

If there are people alive who can say with certainty that a film or show's account is not true in some legally actionable way - if it defames or harms a person's reputation, for example, then there can be a problem. But not an insurmountable problem.

"If it's 'based on a true story,' you are often representing real people and therefore clearances may be required," said Christos Michaels, a partner at the media law firm Lee & Thompson LLP, adding, "There are different laws in different countries about this."

That, backed up by a particular type of insurance covering "errors and omissions," means you can inject quite a bit of fiction into your truth.

Much of this, of course, stems from the vague phrase "based on," and it gets more vague from there. Consider "inspired by" using it means your story doesn't need any direct connection to the truth.

"If a film is 'inspired by a true story,' then it tends to be the case that it's just a concept for the idea rather than a factual account," Michaels said. "In terms of characters, such a film would generally not try and portray anyone from the real story.

The most famous case of this, perhaps, is the 1973 horror classic "The Exorcist," which proclaims to be "inspired by" true events. In this case, that means the author (it was a book first) saw a newspaper article about an exorcism, and it "inspired" him to write a movie about an exorcism.

Q: I loved the movie "Blood In, Blood Out" — it was my favorite of the '90s teen gang movies. But was that Benjamin Bratt in the starring role? I didn't think he was around yet. sonal replies will not be provided.

A: Benjamin Bratt didn't really become a star until he premiered in "Law & Order" in 1995, but he was already showing a good deal of promise, particularly in "Blood In, Blood Out" two years earlier.

That film addressed the issue of street gangs in Los Angeles and was, as you point out, part of a brief cinematic trend that included other excellent films such as "Boyz n the Hood" (1991) and "Menace II Society" (1993). Bratt starred as one of three family members all embroiled, in one way or another, in East L.A. gang

It was certainly a breakout role for him, but he was already on producers' radars. In fact, he'd already starred in two TV shows — "Nasty Boys" and "Knightwatch" —but neither made it past its first

Q: Has "Too Close to Home" been canceled? The cliffhanger at the end of last season left me expecting more.

A: The idea of the cliffhanger is to make viewers want to return to a show even after it's been off the air for months during the off-season. But there's a bit of cruelty to this model, because usually writers don't know if they'll get another season when they're writing. They hang you out on the cliff intentionally, with the hope they'll be allowed to rescue you in six or seven months.

That extended explanation is my way of letting you down easy, before telling you that the "Too Close to Home" writers weren't allowed to rescue you from the cliff: the show's been canceled.

I won't go into the details in case people are still catching up, but there was a dramatic preqnancy revelation at the end of the second season and ongoing strife between the first lady of the United States (played by Heather Locklear) and the disgraced formerWhite House staffer exiled to her home state of Alabama. None of these plots will be resolved now that the show's been canceled by TLC.

The cancellation left a significant hole in creator/producer/ writer/director Tyler Perry's schedule, because, as star Danielle Savre told "Entertainment Tonight," he was very "hands-on" with the show.

Yesterday, Patriots tight end Rob Gronkowski bought a stake in a Kentucky Derby racehorse that was named after him. The million-dollar animal bred for its ability to run fast says he's excited to own a share in a horse.

Camping at Coachella has been delayed this weekend because of high winds. Then someone realized they just forgot to turn off Beyoncé's wind machine.

This weekend is the 80th birthday of Superman. Now that he's 80, Superman is rendered helpless by Kryptonite and his email password.

There's talk of legalizing marijuana in Utah. However, Mormons are worried that marijuana may be a gateway drug to coffee.

SpaceX is planning to build a Mars rocket right here in Los Angeles. The voyage to Mars will take nine months, but eight of those months will be spent just getting out of L.A.

The Tonight Show With Jimmy Fallon

Congratulations to John Stamos and his wife, who had a baby boy this weekend! And somehow, the baby has already aged more than John Stamos.

In honor of Tax Day, Hardee's offered free breakfast biscuits if you said the password "Made From Scratch." Arby's had a similar deal. They gave you a free roast beef sandwich with the password, "Made From Squirrel."

I saw that "Survivor" is coming back for a 37th season. I think they're starting to run out of locations — they just announced that the next season is being held at Costco on a Saturday.

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Starbucks announced that they'll be closing 8,000 U.S. stores on May 29 for racial-bias training. Eight thousand stores — that's almost all the locations on this block!

Everyone is talking about Donald Trump's potentially epic summit with Kim Jong Un. It's the dispute of the ill-fitting suits! The men with nukes putting up their dukes!

begins investigating a car bombing that he suspects may be related to the botched drug bust that ended with his partner's death and led to him being incarcerated after being accused of corruption. With help from another former cop (Garcia) and a beautiful federal agent (Vergara), Danny tries to uncover the truth about who killed his partner and framed him for the crime, but as he digs deeper into the case, he begins to realize that he may not be able to fully trust the very people helping him try to clear his name. Real talk

By Kyla Brewer

Happily ever after: In storybooks, princes and princesses often ride off into the sunset to get married, but few tales reveal what happens at the royal wedding. Luckily, the magic of television is about to offer the world a glimpse behind the scenes of the latest royal nuptials.

Savannah Guthrie and Hoda Kotb of NBC's "Today" take a look at the most talked-about ceremony of the year in the premiere special "Inside the Royal Wedding: Harry and Meghan," airing Wednesday, May 16, on NBC. Prince Harry of the British Royal Family is set to wed American actress Meghan Markle ("Suits") on Saturday, May 19, breaking with royal tradition, which usually dictates weddings be held on weekdays.

Prince Harry and Markle have been causing a stir among royal watchers since they began dating in 2016. Onlookers have been particularly fascinated with the details of their upcoming wedding, so Guthrie and Kotb try to shed some light on what's in store for the big day. They talk to experts and those involved in similar ceremonies as they reveal what it takes to pull off such a hugely anticipated event. The co-anchors take a look at the closely guarded secrets surrounding the cake and flowers, as well as Markle's dress. Their investigation also explores the venue for the wedding, St. George's Chapel.

In addition to rare archival wedding footage, the program includes interviews with close friends of the couple who are expected to be in attendance at the Windsor Castle ceremony and reception. They share information about how Prince Harry and Markle fell in love. Celebrities from the worlds of fashion, sports and show business also weigh in on the couple.

Other segments include profiles of people who've inspired the pair in their charitable endeavours, fellow soldiers of Prince Harry's who were injured overseas, and role models who've influenced Markle over the years.

Filmed in Europe, Africa and the U.S., the special promises to be a fascinating look at one of the most buzzworthy weddings of the decade. Don't miss the premiere of "Inside the Royal Wedding: Harry and Meghan," airing Wednesday, May 16, on NBC.
