Michael Strahan touches down as host of 'The 100,000 Pyramid'

By Kyla Brewer

rime time has gone retro once again. A few years ago, "Mad Men's" whisky-swilling ad men were all the rage, but these days networks are cashing in on the popularity of classic game show reboots. The latest ratings winner combines a charismatic host with celebrity guests and big money.

Michael Strahan ("Good Morning America") hosts as celebrities team up with contestants to play word-association games in the hopes of winning cash in a new episode of "The $100,000 Pyramid," airing Sunday, Aug. 27, on ABC. This week's celebrity guests include NA-SCAR champ Kyle Busch, Strahan's "Good Morning America" colleague Lara Spencer, rapper-turnedactor Ice-T ("Law & Order: Special Victims Unit") and actress Peri Gilpin ("Frasier"). Previous quests include Debi Mazar ("Younger"), Bobby Moynihan ("Saturday Night Live"), Martha Stewart and Snoop Strahan, a former NFL defensive end, guides the action as players compete for a potentially life-altering prize. But it may not be just the thrill of the prize money that has TV fans hooked on the old school program. In a June interview with nypost.com, Strahan explained why he believes classic game shows like his are experiencing a resurgence in popularity.

"They're something you can do with your family," he said. "As a parent you may not want to watch a kids show, and as a kid you probably don't want to watch a big, serious adult show. Here is something you can watch together."

This is the second season of the revamped game show, which debuted on CBS in 1973 as "The $10,000 Pyramid" before jumping to ABC in 1974, with television icon Dick Clark at the helm. The show struck a chord with viewers right out of the gate as the simple word-association game and entertaining celebrity guests provided a lighthearted break from news of the Vietnam War and Watergate scandal.

The game show has gone through a number of iterations over the years, and each time the title has adjusted to reflect the top potential prize, from $10,000 to $20,000 to $25,000 to $50,000 to ABC's current $100,000 version. However, the game play has remained largely the same throughout the show's varied history. Two teams comprised of one celebrity and one contestant take turns giving each other clues to items in a chosen category, with a point awarded for each right answer. After three rounds of play, the team with the most points advances to the Winner's Circle to play for the big prize. The new ABC series features an hour-long format, which allows enough time for two complete games.

While "Pyramid" has inspired a number of revivals and more than a dozen international versions, the latest ABC series has proven to be one of the most popular, thanks, in part, to an impressive roster of stars who've lined up to play the game that many of them — including Strahan — watched as children. This season kicked off Sunday, June 11, with matchups between Leslie Jones ("Ghostbusters," 2016) and host Tom Bergeron ("Dancing With the Stars") and country music star Jennifer Nettles.

Other season 2 quests include "This Is Us" stars Justin Hartley and Chrissy Metz, comedian Margaret Cho ("Drop Dead Diva"), Carolina Panthers quarterback Cam Newton, Dr. Mehmet Oz ("The Dr. Oz Show"). RuPaul ("RuPaul's Drag Race"), Olympian Apolo Ohno and R&B singer Usher, among many others.

"The $100,000 Pyramid" isn't the only classic game show reboot to bank on the appearance of celebrities. New old game shows have been popping up on a lot of the major networks lately, and many of them employ stars from the worlds of comedy, sports, music and more. In fact, ABC has become a hub for nostalgic series like "Pyramid." Before Strahan kicks off the fun, Steve Harvey hosts "Celebrity Family Feud" earlier on Sunday evenings. The alphabet network has also launched revamped versions of "The Gong Show" and "Battle of the Network Stars," which have been airing on Thursday nights this summer. Add those to this spring's revitalized "Match Game" hosted by Alec Baldwin, and this summer's "To Tell the Truth" with Anthony Anderson, and ABC has a full slate of retro hits.

This summer, Fox has gotten in on the action with a new "Love Connection" hosted by Andy Cohen ("Watch What Happens Live With Andy Cohen"). He has some big shoes to fill as he takes the place of game show host extraordinaire Chuck Woolery, who hosted the original 1983 version. Fox's new "Beat Shazam" — although it features newer app technology — is in essence a new take on "Name That Tune." Even NBC's "Hollywood Game Night" hearkens back to television days gone by with nods to "Win, Lose or Draw's" casual living room vibe.

As more and more viewers are drawn away from broadcast television by big-budget cable series or streaming services, it looks as if networks have found a solution by producing less-expensive summer programming that appeals to audiences' sense of nostalgia. With nine Daytime Emmy Awards for Outstanding Game Show to its credit, "The $100,000 Pyramid" is a good bet for summer entertainment.

This summer, join Strahan and millions of viewers on a trip down memory lane as contestants play word-association games with celebrities in "The $100,000 Pyramid," airing Sunday, Aug. 27, on ABC.

Baywatch

When devoted lifeguard Mitch Buchannon (Johnson) adds three new lifequards to his team, one in particular stands out, and not for the right reasons. Matt Brody (Efron), a former Olympic swimmer, takes the lifeguard position as a way of completing compulsory community service and doesn't take the job as seriously as he should. Like oil and water, the two men just cannot seem to work together, but when packages of drugs —and even worse, bodies — start washing up on their peaceful beach, they're forced to set aside their differences to restore peace to their oceanfront paradise.

Director: Seth Gordon. Stars: Dwayne Johnson, Zac Efron, Priyanka Chopra, Alexandra Daddario, Kelly Rohrbach, Jon Bass, Ilfenesh Hadera. 2017. 116 min. Action.

Naval shakeup: Jennifer Esposito departs 'NCIS'

By Andrew Warren TV Media

Naval shakeup: Two of the biggest series on television are shaking things up a bit. Sister shows "NCIS" and "NCIS: Los Angeles" both have some casting changes in line for their upcoming seasons, but longtime fans of the two smash-hit CBS procedurals shouldn't fret: the changes are relatively minor ones.

"NCIS" will have one fewer familiar face on screen when it returns Tuesday, Sept. 26, but both it and its younger sibling will have a new face as well. "NCIS: Los Angeles" returns for a ninth season Sunday, Oct. 1.

First, the bad news: Jennifer Esposito is no longer with the "NCIS" family. The former "Blue Bloods" actress joined the procedural last season as Special Agent Alex Quinn, who was convinced by Gibbs (Mark Harmon, "Chicago Hope") to join his elite

Luckily, the naval investigative team won't be understaffed for long. Maria Bello ("A History of Violence," 2005) is lined up to join the team in the season's fourth episode. The veteran actress will be playing an as-yetunnamed agent who has spent the years since she served in Afghanistan building a reputation as one of NCIS's best forensic psychologists.

Over on the "NCIS: Los Angeles" side of things, Nia Long has signed on as a series regular. The "Big Momma's House" (2000) star has been cast as the L.A. team's new executive assistant director. She was recently seen in a recurring role in Fox's hit "Empire," and in "NCIS: Los Angeles," she'll be playing a former Secret Service agent from Washington who brings her own unique way of doing things to the West Coast

It's new faces for both "NCIS" and "NCIS: Los Angeles" when they return to CBS this fall. "NCIS" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 26, and "NCIS: Los Angeles" joins it Sunday, Oct. 1.

Weaponized castings: The Los Angeles Police Department will have a little more sex appeal when "Lethal Weapon" returns for its sophomore season Tuesday, Sept. 26, on Fox. Two actors have added their names to the action-comedy's roster, and one Returning spaces: A homey favorite is staging a comeback. After ending its eight-season run in 2008, "Trading Spaces" has been revived and is coming back to TLC in 2018. Not only that, the returning series will have a familiar face at the helm, too. Paige Davis hosted "Trading Spaces" for most of its original seasons, and she's returning to the series that made her a household name for many families. The Broadway and theater star also hosted Hallmark's "Home and Family" in 2008 and home improvement series "Home Made Simple" on OWN.

Davis is fully immersed in the realm of home improvement, and that has always paid off in "Trading Spaces." In the show, two sets of neighbors trade houses for a few days, and each renovates and redecorates a room in the other's home with a limited budget usually $1,000. Typically, the room-swappers know each other, so there (hopefully) aren't too many hard feelings when the refreshed rooms are revealed, and more often than not, the fresh spaces are a hit with the homeowners.

Homeowners interested in having their own houses showcased in the series can apply at TLC's casting website (www.tlc.com/casting). Applications from Atlanta, Baltimore and Los Angeles are currently being considered.

"Trading Spaces" had eight amazing seasons and now it's getting a ninth. Watch for Paige Davis sometime next year on TLC.

Jennifer Esposito as seen in "NCIS"

Q: Does British actor Tom Wisdom have any projects in the works since "Dominion" was canceled?

A: Sadly no. He had one very brief one, but it's come and gone.

"Dominion" was canceled in October 2015, shortly after the season 2 finale aired. Tom Wisdom's only screen appearance since then was a 2016 episode of Fox's "Bones."

The episode was titled "The Jewel in the Crown." In it, Wisdom plays a somewhat snooty jewel expert who helps Booth and Brennan on a case but turns out to be more involved than it seems at first.

As one-off quest roles go, it was a fairly meaty one, but that's all it was. And he hasn't taken on a role since.

Q: I hope you might be able to help solve a mystery I've been chasing for years. I recall an episode of "Miami Vice" in which Amy Grant performed "Everywhere I Go." I think the episode involved a Russian dissident who slipped his leash while in Miami, and the song may have played while he passed through a crowd somewhere. Was that her?

A: There are a couple of things I'm not sure about in your guestion, but one thing I am sure about: that wasn't Amy Grant.

The classic, MTV-friendly '80s cop show "Miami Vice" featured a number of quest-starring appearances by popular musicians, but Christian pop star Amy Grant wasn't one of them.

One of Grant's songs was featured in an episode, but the episode wasn't about a Russian dissident. It was the season 2 episode "The Dutch Oven," in which the team chases a drug dealer, as usual. And the song wasn't "Everywhere I Go," it was "Who to Listen To," though both are from the same album (1985's "Unguarded").

The show did branch out in its subject matter in later seasons, even into international politics, but it never dealt with a Russian on the run. It came close, though, with the season 3 episode "Heroes of the Revolution," about an East German spy hiding out in Miami as he chased the man who killed his lover. It so happened that the murdered lover was Det. Gina Calabrese's (Saundra Santiago, "Gang Related") mom.

Gina was one of the show's main characters, and so the episode was mainly about her. She went undercover as a nightclub singer, which afforded a couple of scenes where the spy slipped through the nightclub crowd, but never to an Amy Grant song.

Q: Why is the "Tunes" part of "Looney Tunes" spelled "Tunes" instead of "Toons"?

A: That's a very good question, especially when you consider that Warner Bros.' attempt to reboot the franchise in the '90s was called "Tiny Toon Adventures."

But the '90s were a long way from the '30s, when the cartoons started, and the business changed a lot in those 60 years. The "Looney Tunes" cartoons were originally produced to promote Warner Bros.' vast music catalogue (perhaps you recall another title that Bugs Bunny and friends appeared under, "Merrie Melodies").

The first installments were actually very light on plot, focusing more on the songs they used. The first-ever commercially released "Looney Tunes" cartoon was 1930's "Sinkin' in the Bathtub," which took its name from the popular song "Singing in the Bathtub," from the 1929 Warner Bros. film "The Show of Shows." (It was used again in a number of "Looney Tunes" and "Merrie Melodies" cartoons.)

The first shorts were made before the producers ever came up with the classic characters who are now associated with the series — the first of the classic crew was Porky Pig, who didn't come along until 1935.

Also, we aren't talking "series" in a TV sense here. Though most people came to know the cartoons via half-hour compilations that aired on TV, they were first produced to appear before films in the cinema. That's why, when watching them on TV, you see an intro with credits before every short, rather than just at the beginning of the half-hour.

Late Laughs

The Tonight Show With Jimmy Fallon

That's right, Scaramucci lost his job after just 10 days, following an obscene interview with the New Yorker. You know it's bad when you get fired after 10 days and everyone's still like. "What took so long?" People are still talking about Anthony Scaramucci. ... But don't feel bad, publishers have offered him a lot of money to write a tell-all pamphlet about the experience.

Trump is apparently looking for a less-prominent position for Scaramucci that wouldn't require him to be seen very often. Then Scaramucci said, "You want me to be first lady?"

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

On Friday, Trump hired new White House chief of staff, Gen. John Kelly ... Kelly is the polar opposite of Reince Priebus, the former chief of staff. Kelly is military.

Priebus is a Washington insider. Kelly's from Boston, Priebus is from Wisconsin. John Kelly has two first names, and Reince Priebus has no recognizable names at all.

The Late Late Show With James Corden

A school district in Florida is eliminating homework for all school students this year. Yeah, no homework. It's all part of Florida's "make Florida Flori-duh again" campaign.

Jimmy Kimmel Live

Trump tweeted about Reince Priebus: "We accomplished a lot together and I am proud of him." That's two lies in one sentence. Well done!

We [Los Angeles] got the Olympics in 2028! I feel like between climate change and Kim Jong Un, it's optimistic to think we'll still have a Los Angeles in 2028.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

Starbucks has announced that it will close down all of its "Teavana" stores by next year. A shocking blow to the "dull, impersonal gift for an acquaintance" industry.
