Guts and grit: Harlee reveals all in crime drama's final season

By K.A. Taylor
TV Media

For an informant, withholding and manipulating the truth can be a matter of life and death. Keeping secrets and telling white lies can be hard enough for the average citizen and harder still for a mobster, but for a cop? Well, no greater challenge can exist than to try to delude those trained to detect such deception.

Amidst a sea of badges and blue on prime-time television, one series has managed to make huge waves, combining the drama of a mafioso series with the action of a gritty cop show. Despite an exciting run, this year marks the final season of the star-heavy series, as season 3 of "Shades of Blue" premieres Sunday, June 17, on NBC.

"Shades of Blue" explores the lives of the Street Crimes detective squad of the 64th precinct in New York City, focusing on Det. Harlee Santos (Jennifer Lopez, "Lila & Eve," 2015) and her supervisor, Lt. Matt Wozniak (Ray Liotta, "Goodfellas," 1990), with whom Harlee has a 15-year history and a deep, familial relationship. The crew is a tight-knit group of dirty cops who do what is necessary in order to make a crime scene or criminal work in their favor. Other members of the crew include Tess Nazario (Drea de Matteo, "The Sopranos"), Marcus Tufo (Hampton Fluker, "Major Crimes") and Carlos Espada (Vincent Laresca, "Graceland").

After being set up in the series premiere, Harlee had a difficult decision to make, and it's one with which she continues to grapple. She's brought in by the FBI and confronted by Agent Robert Stahl (Warren Kole, "Stalker"), who needs her to act as an informant so that his anti-corruption task force can finally reveal the unsavory underbelly of the 64th. Given that Harlee is a single mother, down on her luck and desperate to give her daughter, Cristina (Sarah Jeffery, "Rogue"), a better future, she has little choice but to agree, realizing that compliance with the FBI could give her a second chance instead of jail time, while simultaneously knowing that even the smallest misstep could spell tragedy for her and her child.

Season 2 of "Shades of Blue" saw Harlee's loyalties increasingly torn. She had suspected that Wozniak would be through with her, having learned of her informant ways, but he revealed some truths of his own and decided to take advantage of his new-found knowledge. He enlisted Harlee as a double agent of sorts, feeding misinformation to Stahl as a means to continue helping the crew. As the season intensified, fans were constantly immersed in the tension, with a finale that left the fates of both Harlee and Wozniak in perilous uncertainty. Thankfully, early trailers for the new season indicate that Harlee will be able to testify in court, hinting that all of the betrayal and lies of seasons past will come to light, putting corruption from all sides on public display.

Beyond a compelling plot and intense screenwriting, the show's popularity owes a great deal to its phenomenal casting. Since the early 2000s, there has been an increasing shift from the big screen to television for many of Hollywood's A and B list actors. Claire Danes has shone on the small screen in "Homeland." Colin Farrell and Matthew McConaughey made waves with "True Detective," a show that's boasted more than its fair share of big-screen talent in regular and recurring roles. It's no wonder, then, that when NBC decided to option "Shades of Blue," it wasn't such a difficult sell, with stars Lopez and Liotta eager to get involved in the burgeoning quality TV market.

In an interview for BUILD Series, Lopez and Liotta expressed their excitement and passion for the series. Lopez didn't shy away from addressing the shift for many actors from the big screen to the small screen, noting that "six, seven years ago ... it just seemed like the movie business was not doing as well if you didn't have a big blockbuster." As more niche or unique stories became difficult to pitch to cinematic studios, Lopez believes that "great writers" made the move to television because they'd be able "to do the stories they wanted to do," with the financial freedom and stability to do so. For Lopez — and Liotta, who nodded in approval — "the best movies right now are on TV."

Creative freedom aside, the challenge of television's demanding schedules brings more depth to "Shades of Blue," or so Lopez and Liotta believe. "[The show] is emotionally taxing. It seems, to me, like in every scene, it's life or death ... to keep at that level, for five and a half, six months straight, every day for 12 hours a day ... it's a tough, grueling process," Lopez states. Neither believes they're holding back for network programming, with both admitting to the difficulties of shaking Harlee and Wozniak after a long day of shooting.

Sadly, this is the final season of the series, but perhaps it's fitting, given that "Shades of Blue" will conclude on its own terms and be able to maintain the tension that has made it so successful throughout its run. Catch up if you can, get to know the crew and what's at stake, and prepare for the final 10 episodes of NBC's gritty crime drama. The season premiere of "Shades of Blue" airs Sunday, June 17, on NBC.

Pacific Rim: Uprising

Ten years after the breach between worlds at the bottom of the Pacific Ocean was closed and the invasion by titanic monsters stopped, the world finds itself once again threatened by the creatures, known as Kaiju. When Jake (Boyega), the son of a hero from the war against the Kaiju, finds himself in trouble with the law, he's given a choice by his adoptive sister Mako Mori (Kikuchi): either join the Pan-Pacific Defense Corps or face time in prison. Not long after he makes his choice, however, new breaches in reality open up around the world and new monsters emerge, leaving Jake as one of humanity's last defenders, and one of the few able to face the new threat to all life on Earth.

Laughs, as advertised: 'Detroiders' brings comedy to the Motor City

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Laughter, as advertised: Who ever would have thought that the world of advertising could be this funny? Before AMC's "Mad Men" came along in 2007, the industry probably didn't seem all that glamorous to very many people, but that behind-the-scenes peek into the highly competitive business of ads definitely opened it up to TV audiences.

Unlike that storied series, "Detroiders" is not a tense drama that takes a serious look at advertising. No, this Comedy Central series swings in the other direction, battling for laughs and hitting a home run along the way, with its second season premiering Thursday, June 21.

Sam Richardson ("Veep") and Tim Robinson ("Saturday Night Live") star in the comedy, which they also co-created. Together, they play Sam Duvet and Tim Cramblin, a pair of local Detroiters with their own ad agency that makes low-budget commercials for local businesses. They may be competing with the big out-of-town firms, but what they lack in resources, experience and glamour of the "big guys," they more than make up for with laughs — and there are lots of them here.

At its heart, "Detroiders" is a buddy comedy about two best friends and business partners getting into all sorts of crazy situations against the backdrop of Detroit's skyline — already a far cry from "Mad Men's" take on an ad agency. Also different here is the complete focus on Sam and Tim, with other characters ebbing and flowing through their lives but never staying around for long.

The Motor City is experiencing a revival, and best friends Sam and Tim are poised to capitalize on it — if they can get their act together. The second season of "Detroiders" premieres Thursday, June 21, on Comedy Central.

The final course: Even the greatest and most delectable feasts have an end, and the same is true for TV shows. For "Young & Hungry," the meal's last course is finally being served.

The second half of the Freeform romantic comedy's fifth and final season premieres Wednesday, June 20, following a yearlong hiatus that's left fans champing at the bit for a resolution after the first half's cliff-hanger ending. And while it's the end of the show as a TV sitcom, there's more "Young & Hungry" in store for its fans, with a two-hour movie in the works that will serve as the true finale for the beloved series.

Emily Osment ("Hannah Montana") stars as young chef Gabi Diamond, who was hired by self-made millionaire Josh Kaminski (Jonathan Sadowski, "Live Free or Die Hard," 2007) as his personal chef way back in the series premiere. After the two ended up having a one-night romantic fling, the series has dealt with their on-again, off-again relationship as they continue to fall deeper and deeper in love with each other.

It's a classic love story to be sure, but the twists, the laughs and the clear chemistry between the two leads has kept the show fresh through all five seasons. The two main stars are supported by Aimee Carrero ("Elena of Avalor") as Gabi's best friend, Sofia, Kym Whitley ("Rango," 2011) as Josh's housekeeper, Yolanda, and Rex Lee ("Entourage") as Josh's publicist and confidant, Elliot.

As the series returns from its yearlong hiatus, fans will be eager to see if Josh and Gabi can finally make their relationship stick. The mid-season finale left audiences hanging after Josh recovered from a bout of amnesia and finally told Gabi that he loves her. With only 10 episodes to go on the small screen, it looks like the two young lovers may finally be ready to commit to each other.

The first of the final 10 episodes of "Young & Hungry" premieres Wednesday, June 20, on Freeform.

Game, set, 'Match': The networks are always on the hunt for the next big game show, but it turns out it's often the classics that find the biggest success.

"Match Game" got its start way back in 1962, and over decades of revivals, network changes (it's been on NBC, CBS, ABC and in syndication at various points) and different hosts, it's never failed to find an audience eager to play along at home — and laugh at the outrageous answers that its celebrity guests come up with.

The modern "Match Game" launches its third season on Thursday, June 21, on ABC, with host Alec Baldwin ("30 Rock") back for more bouts of fill-in-the-blanks. Each episode finds two contestants attempting to match the answers of a celebrity panel, and the answers are typically downright hilarious.

With astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson ("Cosmos: A Spacetime Odyssey"), Ellie Kemper ("Unbreakable Kimmy Schmidt"), Adam Pally ("The Mindy Project"), Laverne Cox ("Orange Is the New Black") and Kenan Thompson ("Saturday Night Live") just a few of the many celebrities lined up to appear this season, it looks like the laughs are going to be in full force as the contestants compete for the potential $25,000 prize.

"Match Game" premieres Thursday, June 21, on ABC.

Q&A Hollywood

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I haven't been able to find out anything online about whether there will be another "Sing-Off" a capella competition on TV anytime in the future. It was so incredibly entertaining the several times it aired, I think on NBC. I wondered if you knew more.

A: The only thing I know is you can never say never with "The Sing-Off."

NBC has seemed to have canceled the series twice, only to revive it and then cancel it again. That said, the most recent cancellation, which wasn't all that recent at all, seems to have stuck.

The a capella singing-competition series debuted in 2009, aired for three seasons, and then was seemingly canceled in 2012. NBC revived it a year later for a fourth season, let it disappear again, but then brought it back again for a one-night Christmas special in 2014.

It hasn't been seen since, though, which suggests NBC is finally done with the series.

However, "The Sing-Off's" concept is such that it could be brought back at any time. The moment the network finds a big enough batch of promising young singers, and is able to get a hold of the often-underemployed Nick Lachey, it could come out with a new season — the format doesn't get old.

Proof of that can be found in the surprising success of the Pentatonix. The group, which won season 3 of "The Sing-Off," has sustained its popularity in the subsequent years, winning a Grammy in 2017, five years after the "Sing-Off" victory.

Q: I'm old-fashioned and still buy DVDs, but I can't find the fourth season of "Turn: Washington's Spies." Why are the first three seasons available but not the last one?

A: It would appear that, in defiance of "old-fashioned" people like yourself, AMC is delaying the disc release while it chases new-fashioned streaming revenue.

Season 4 was available on Netflix, Amazon Prime Video, iTunes and elsewhere starting in late 2017, but it's still not available on DVD (nor mid-fashioned Blu-Ray).

Many industry watchers argue that studios favor streaming releases for a number of reasons, in which case it makes sense that they'd give the release-date advantage to streaming over disc. The retail numbers certainly favor streaming: streaming revenues bypassed discs for the first time in 2016 in the U.S., leaving them even further in the dust last year. Meanwhile, the Blockbusters and HMVs of the world are disappearing — it's getting harder to buy DVDs, while subscribing to a streaming service is getting easier.

As for whether we'll ever see a disc release of "Turn" season 4, it's hard to say. It seems likely, since the first three were released already, and the fourth season was the last one. If the studio releases the fourth on disc, it can come back again in a year with a boxed set that collects all four together, which would squeeze a bit more cash out of the series.

Q: I love the book "The Great Gatsby," and I thought Leonardo DiCaprio did a great job playing him. I know that was a remake of an earlier film — who played Gatsby in the original?

A: Technically, Leo DiCaprio was reprising the role pioneered by silent-film great Warner Baxter, who died 23 years before DiCaprio was born, but that's probably not the version you're thinking of.

DiCaprio's "Great Gatsby" was actually the fourth film version of the classic novel by F. Scott Fitzgerald. The first, Baxter's, was released in 1926. It was remade in 1949 with legendary tough-guy actor Alan Ladd in the role.

The version you're probably thinking of came in 1974, starring the even-more-legendary screen great Robert Redford in the title role.

His was considered the definitive screen version, at least until DiCaprio's version came out in 2013. Whether that one will eclipse Redford's in the cultural memory remains to be seen — five years does not a classic make.

DiCaprio's version was certainly made on a grander scale, though. Its budget was more than $100 million and it earned $350 million in global revenue.
