John Oliver hosts "Last Week Tonight With John Oliver"

English comedian John Oliver ("The Daily Show") is ready to take on politicians, corporations and much more when he returns with a new season of the acclaimed "Last Week Tonight With John Oliver," premiering Sunday, Feb. 18, on HBO. Now in its fifth season, the satirical news series combines comedy, commentary and interviews with newsmakers as it presents a unique take on national and international stories.

'Last Week Tonight With John Oliver' returns to HBO

By Kyla Brewer TV Media

s 24-hour news channels, websites and apps rise in popularity, the public is becoming more invested in national and international news. Indeed, broadcast journalists have become celebrities in their own right, for better or for worse. However, one of TV's most popular late-night hosts offers a comedic yet critical twist on the news of the week.

John Oliver ("The Daily Show") returns with a satirical look at the headlines and more in the season premiere of "Last Week Tonight With John Oliver," airing Sunday, Feb. 18, on HBO. The late-night program features a mix of commentary, comedic sketches and interviews as the intrepid host turns a critical eye to politics, corporations and even the media.

The opener kicks off the fifth season of the program, which premiered in April 2014. Last fall, HBO announced the show had been renewed for three more 30-episode seasons, so fans of the British comedian can expect to see him on the cable channel until at least 2020. When the deal was announced by HBO executive Casey Bloys, the host responded in typical Oliver fashion: with tongue planted firmly in cheek.

"We're very grateful to Richard Plepler, Casey and everyone at HBO for letting us continue to do whatever it is we actually do," Oliver said. "We'd also like to thank our staff for all their hard work. We're incredibly proud of all of you, and rather than tell you that to your face, we'd like to do it in the cold, dispassionate form of a press release."

For his part, Bloys had nothing but praise for the performer, saying: "His extraordinary genius for rich and intelligent commentary is second to none."

Oliver has worked his way up through the entertainment industry since starting out as a standup comedian in the United Kingdom. Before "Last Week Tonight," he was best known to North American audiences for his work on Comedy Central's "The Daily Show" as the program's senior British correspondent, and he later filled in as interim host when Jon Stewart ("Rosewater," 2014) went on hiatus.

His work on "The Daily Show" was well received by critics and audiences alike, and the gig eventually led to his show on HBO. Thanks, in part, to his no-holds-barred approach to lambasting politicians, corporations and more, Oliver has gained millions of loyal fans who tune in for his refreshing perspectives on current events, as well as quirky comedy sketches by him and other performers. Viewership for the show is on the upswing, with about 1.2 million live viewers for last season's finale, which aired Sunday, Nov. 12, 2017. Millions also tune in on the show's YouTube channel. Oliver was even named one of Time magazine's list of 100 Most Influential People in 2015.

In its short life, "Last Week Tonight With John Oliver" has had a marked influence on politics and business, even as far back as its first season. A 2014 segment on net neutrality is widely credited with prompting more than 45,000 comments on the Federal Communications Commission's (FCC) electronic filing page, and another 300.000 comments in an email inbox dedicated to a proposal that would allow "priority lanes" for certain internet traffic. Shortly after another piece about underfunded public defenders in New Orleans aired, thousands of dollars were donated by the show's fans. Oliver and pal Mike Meyers ("Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me," 1999) famously urged Canadians to vote against then-Prime Minister Stephen Harper in the 2015 federal election. In one of the show's most headline-grabbing episodes, the host interviewed accused whistleblower Edward Snowden.

Purportedly armed with "full creative freedom" from HBO, Oliver has also taken on big tobacco companies, televangelists, debt buyers, coal mining and, of course, President Donald Trump. In fact, Trump has been a frequent topic for the comedian, who has been unabashedly critical of the current administration. While such opinions likely put Trump's supporter's off, Oliver has nonetheless established himself as one of the heavy hitters of the modern late-night landscape.

For all of his efforts, Oliver and his team have been handsomely rewarded, both in ratings and in accolades. In fact, to say the show is acclaimed may be an understatement. In its short, four-season existence, it has earned nominations for no fewer than 44 major awards, from Emmys and Critics' Choice Awards to GLAAD Media Awards and Writers' Guild of America Awards. For its inaugural season, the show even won a prestigious Peabody, which recognizes enlightening and invigorating work.

Other notable wins include back-to-back Emmys for Outstanding Writing in a Variety Series in 2016 and 2017, a Critics' Choice Television Award for Best Talk Show in 2016, and a Dorian Award for TV Current Affairs Show of the Year in 2016. "Last Week Tonight With John Oliver" was also recognized with a Television Critics Association Award for Achievement in News and Information in 2015, though Oliver has insisted that his show is comedy, not journalism. In spite of his intent, commentators from such mainstream media outlets as The New York Times, Time and The Huffington Post have described Oliver's work as journalism.

No matter how you look at it, fans and critics can look forward to another season of insightful commentary and hilarious, off-the-wall comedy when Oliver and his crew return to the airwaves in "Last Week Tonight With John Oliver," Sunday, Feb. 18, on HBO.

Will Ferrell and John Lithgow in a scene from "Daddy's Home 2"

Daddy's Home 2

Stepdad Brad (Ferrell) and biological father Dusty (Wahlberg) were previously rivals for their kids' affection, but they've since become close friends who plan to bring their families together under one roof for a big combined Christmas Day celebration. Those plans are thrown into disarray when both men learn that their own fathers are coming to visit for the holiday, and when they arrive, Dusty's cool, womanizing dad Kurt (Gibson) takes an immediate dislike to both Brad and his own overly affectionate father, Don (Lithgow). For an extended family that so recently got over its strife between fathers, the barely healed wounds are about to get ripped right back open now that two more daddies are in the mix. Director: Sean Anders. Stars: Will Ferrell, Mark Wahlberg, Mel Gibson, John Lithgow, Linda Cardellini, Alessandra Ambrosio. 2017. 100 min. Comedy.

Back for 'Billions': John Malkovich returns to television

By Andrew Warren

Back for 'Billions': Financial crime may not be the sexiest of subjects, but Showtime sure has found a way to make it compelling with "Billions," the critically loved drama that returns for a third season in just a little over a month's time.

With a new season comes new faces, and when "Billions" returns Sunday, March 25, an Oscar-nominated actor will be joining series stars Paul Giamatti ("Sideways," 2004), Maggie Siff ("Sons of Anarchy"), Malin Åkerman ("Childrens Hospital") and Damian Lewis ("Band of Brothers") on screen.

After a nearly four-year absence, big-screen legend John Malkovich returns to the small screen in a recurring role when the third season premieres. His last TV outing was as the legendary pirate Blackbeard in the short-lived NBC series "Crossbones" that aired for a single season in 2014, but that hasn't stopped him from continuing to build his already impressive portfolio of big-screen Hollywood roles. Since then, he's appeared in "Zoolander 2" (2016), starred in "Deepwater Horizon" (2016) and has been credited for his work both on and off the screen in more than a dozen other films.

In "Billions," Malkovich plays a Russian billionaire whose connections to the show's ongoing story are not yet known. Giamatti stars as Chuck Rhoades, the U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York who's trying to bring down a hedge fund king (Lewis) whom he suspects has been using insider trading and other illegal methods to grow his firm's wealth.

It may sound dry on paper, but it's anything but. It isn't about the money here: it's all about power, how it's gained and how it's used. "Billions" returns to Showtime with John Malkovich in a little over a month, Sunday, March 25.

'Worst' news: There's good news and there's bad news about "You're the Worst," the widely loved FXX comedy. The bad news is that the series has been officially canceled, but fans shouldn't despair. The good news is that the cancellation won't come into effect until one more season has come and gone.

In what isn't really a surprising move, FXX has pulled the plug on the series that has never managed to become a ratings breakout, despite being widely loved by critics. Unlike with so many other shows that suddenly have the rug pulled out from under them, though, allowing the series a final season should allow it to come to a planned and satisfying end.

No premiere date has yet been announced for this fifth and final outing, but if the past four seasons are any indication, it will likely happen sometime this summer. "You're the Worst" stars Chris Geere ("After Earth," 2013) and Aya Cash ("The Newsroom") as Jimmy and Gretchen, a pair of terrible people trying to build a relationship with each other despite the fact that they're both incredibly cynical and self-absorbed. Desmin Borges ("Mr. Popper's Penguins," 2011) and Kether Donohue ("Pitch Perfect," 2012) also star as their best friends.

Unlike a more traditional romantic comedy, "You're the Worst" has never really dangled a "will they or won't they" question concerning Jimmy and Gretchen's relationship. Instead, the ongoing story has explored why and how two terrible people can come to realize that they're perfect for each other.

It may never have attracted a huge audience, but "You're the Worst" at least gets one final season before it rides into the sunset.

Sleuth on screen: Nancy Drew may be returning to television. The famous teenage detective came close to a TV return almost two years ago, and while that opportunity didn't pan out, she's getting another chance.

CBS passed on a potential series based on the iconic literary sleuth back in 2016 after its pilot episode wasn't as strong as network execs had hoped, but the project hasn't stayed dead, with NBC now working on its own interpretation of the source material. With the project still early in development, little is known about its direction or even if it will ever see the light of day; the major TV networks are constantly developing potential new shows, and most of them never make it all the way to TV screens.

Nancy Drew is probably one the best known women in literature. The first Nancy Drew novel was published in 1950, and since then her stories have been translated into more than 45 languages and sold more than 80 million books. She featured alongside another pair of literary sleuths, the Hardy Boys, in the 1970s television series "The Hardy Boys/Nancy Drew Mysteries," which ran for three seasons on ABC. The character has also appeared in a number of films, including 2007's "Nancy Drew," starring Emma Roberts.

Malin Åkerman, Damian Lewis, Maggie Siff and Paul Giamatti star in "Billions"

Q&A Hollywood

By Adam Thomlison TV Media

Q: Why doesn't BBC America show the first season of the "Doctor Who" revival, starring Christopher Eccleston? The network shows all the other seasons.

A: There's no official answer to your question, but you're right that there's something going on there. BBC America is wild about "Doctor Who" reruns, with the exception of all the ones featuring Christopher Eccleston. That's a bit surprising since, as you point out, he's the Doctor who got this whole revival party started.

In the absence of official answers, I have some guesses. This may have something to do with the bad feelings between Eccleston and BBC after he quit the show, and/or there may be a shadowy broadcast-rights angle (shadowy in the sense that these things aren't public).

Eccleston quit the show after just one season. In a subsequent interview he revealed that, "I left 'Doctor Who' because I could not get along with the senior people. I didn't agree with the way things were being run." He followed that up with some statements that included swear words.

He's since refused offers to come back for guest appearances (it's a bit hard to explain for non-fans, but sometimes the past actors come back for cameos), and that might give us a hint as to what's going on.

When Eccleston refused to do a guest spot in the big 50th anniversary special, showrunner Steven Moffat opted to not include archive footage of him in a pivotal scene involving his incarnation of the Doctor, despite doing so earlier in the episode alongside footage of the others. In an interview with Doctor Who Magazine, Moffat explained his decision: "Not taking part in the 50th was a difficult decision for Chris ... and not respecting his wishes would have been grossly unprofessional and disrespectful."

BBC America repeated this quote in a story on its own site, which suggests it may agree and that's why it's not rerunning the Eccleston episodes.

But it may also not have bothered to pick up the rights. Originally, the "Doctor Who" revival was airing in the U.S. on Syfy (then known, uncreatively, as The Sci Fi Channel). BBC America won the rights later and negotiated for the rights to rerun prior seasons as well. But given the aforementioned bad blood, and Eccleston's attempts to basically erase himself from the show's universe, it may not have thought it worthwhile to pick up those episodes in the deal.

Q: Will "The Doctor Blake Mysteries" be on again with a new series? It ended on such a cliffhanger — I want to see his daughter.

A: There was some good news for the hit Australian period drama, followed by some really uncomfortable, very bad news, and now we don't know where things stand with "The Doctor Blake Mysteries."

Let's start with the bad news, since it's more recent (and, again, worse than usual): The show's producers have decided to put production of a new season on hold while police investigate allegations of sexual harassment against titular star Craig McLachlan.

This news comes via Britain's Guardian newspaper, which reports that both cast and crew members have come forward with accusations, but that McLachlan has dismissed them as "baseless."

The timing of this is particularly unfortunate (not that there's ever a good time for such news), because the show had just been rescued from cancellation a couple of months earlier. Its original network, ABC (that's the Australian Broadcasting Corporation, not the other one), had canceled the show despite huge worldwide popularity, reportedly because it had become too expensive, which is a risk with period shows.

However, in October, months after the cancellation, competing network Seven picked up the show for a new season.

That new season is now in danger with the sexual harassment allegations. Time will tell, but the Guardian reports that the new season was only in the "preparations" stage, so even if it continues, it'll be a while before new episodes are released.

A Bug's Life

wcvв 5 8:00 р.т. Members of an ant colony struggle to gather a huge amount of food for the grasshoppers who torment them in the stunning computer-animated film "A Bug's Life," airing Friday, Feb. 23, on ABC. In an effort to save his friends, worker ant Flik rallies other misfit insects to help him.

The Star

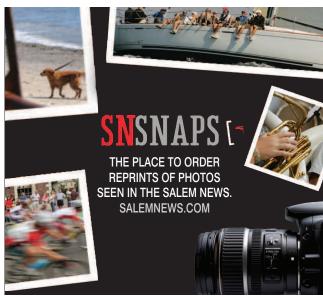

The Biblical story of the Nativity is told from a four-legged perspective when donkey Bo (Yeun) runs away from the miller that owns him and ends up traveling with Joseph (Levi) and a pregnant Mary (Rodriquez) in the months before Jesus's birth. Along with a dove named Dave (Key), a sheep named Ruth (Bryant) and a trio of camels, the donkey makes the journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem with many adventures along the way, unaware of the significance of his traveling companions. Director: Timothy Reckart. Stars: Steven Yeun, Keegan-Michael Key, Gina Rodriguez, Zachary Levi, Aidy Bryant, Christopher Plummer, Gabriel Iglesias, Kelly Clarkson, Oprah Winfrey, Tyler Perry. 2017. 86 min. Animation.

Real talk

By Sarah JamiesonTV Media

Good as gold: If you're sick of all the backstabbing of reality television lately, why not watch a good-hearted family in Hallmark's first prime-time family docuseries? "Meet the Peetes" premieres Sunday, Feb. 18.

"Meet the Peetes" stars Holly Robinson Peete, an actress and philanthropist, and her husband, Rodney Peete, the sports host and former NFL quarterback. The series follows them as they try to balance raising four children in Los Angeles with running a world-class charity for Alzheimer's and autism.

Holly has a flourishing career as an actress, with a resumé that includes roles in "21 Jump Street," "Hangin' With Mr. Cooper," "Mike & Molly" and NBC's hit drama series "Chicago Fire." She began her philanthropy work after her father's courageous battle with Parkinson's disease, expanding the cause to autism after the diagnosis of the couple's eldest son. The HollyRod Foundation provides support and resources to those affected by either condition. Holly's efforts earned her numerous nods from the community, including the Ford's Freedom Sisters, American Mentor Award, A Place Called Home Humanitarian Award and McDonald's 365 Black Award. She's been married to Rodney for more than 20 years, which is nothing to sneeze at, either.

Rodney went right from the field to the studio as a co-host on Fox's "The Best Damn Sports Show, Period." He appeared on ABC's "Sports Zone" on Saturday nights for two seasons and is now hosting the radio show "Lunchtime with Roggin & Rodney" on AM 570 LA Sports.

Holly's mother, Delores, is no ordinary grandmother. She's an 80-year-old who thinks she's 40.

We now make this traditional Polish pastry with a scratch dough of King Arthur flour, eggs, butter and pure cane sugar (no trans fats). It's hand rolled, fried, double sugared and filled generously with premium fillings. Available with or without REAL WHIPPED CREAM
