Kimberly Hébert Gregoy and Jason Ritter star in "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World"

In spite of his selfish past — or perhaps because of it — Kevin Finn (Jason Ritter, "Joan of Arcadia") sets out to make the world a better place in "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World," airing Tuesday, Nov. 14, on ABC. All the while, a celestial being known as Yvette (Kimberly Hébert Gregory, "Vice Principals") guides him on his mission. JoAnna Garcia Swisher ("Once Upon a Time") and India de Beaufort ("Veep") also star.

TV with soul: New ABC drama follows a man on a mission

By Kyla Brewer

Between tragic weather events, political tension and social unrest, it seems as if humanity is losing its way. While it may appear that bad news is everywhere, however, stories of compassion and hope are all around us. There are people devoted to making the world a better place, and a new fantasy drama follows a man on a journey to do just that.

Jason Ritter ("Joan of Arcadia") stars as Kevin Finn, a once selfish, materialistic young man on a mission to save humanity by performing acts of kindness and selflessness under the guidance of an unusual celestial being in "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World," airing Tuesday, Nov. 14, on ABC.

After an encounter with a meteorite that crash lands near his family home, Kevin meets Yvette (Kimberly Hébert Gregory, "Vice Principals"), the aforementioned celestial being. She informs him that she's here to guide and protect him as he saves humanity. Kevin is the only one who can see or hear Yvette, which can be awkward when someone catches him talking to her.

Of course, the plot may sound far-fetched to the average TV viewer, but the show has real heart. In a promo for the series, Gregory explains the meaning behind the drama's unconventional premise.

"It's about making ourselves better, and reaching out and making the world better," the actress said.

That's exactly what Kevin is tasked with doing, and he has an uphill climb. After hitting rock bottom, he returns to his childhood home to live with his widowed twin sister, Amy (JoAnna Garcia Swisher, "Once Upon a Time"), and her teenage daughter, Reese (Chloe East, "True Blood"). In the beginning, Kevin's relationship with Reese is strained at best, but Amy encourages her daughter to give him a chance.

While under Yvette's tutelage, Kevin learns that each generation contains 36 righteous souls who protect the human race merely with their existence. For whatever reason, Kevin is the only righteous soul left in this generation, a statistic that has plunged the world into a state of crisis. The world needs the 36 to persevere and provide hope, and now it's Kevin's job to "power up" his soul so that he can find and anoint a new generation of righteous souls. For her part, Yvette serves as his drill sergeant, employing very un-angelic tactics to keep him on track.

She may be hard on Kevin, but he seems to need some tough love; he hasn't always behaved so saintly. As Ritter expressed in a promo, Kevin "certainly wouldn't seem like anyone's first choice to save the world" — but that may very well be the point. Even those with flaws and foibles can change the world, one act of kindness at a time.

For his part, Ritter has earned the respect of critics and fans for the work as the reluctant hero, which isn't his first regular series role. Son of the late, great actor John Ritter and actress Nancy Morgan, the young Ritter rose through the Hollywood ranks with roles in such films as "Freddy vs. Jason" (2003) and "Raise Your Voice" (2004), while also playing a main role in "Joan of Arcadia." His recurring role on NBC's "Parenthood" earned him an Emmy nomination. Other credits include "The Class" and "The Event."

Fresh off her breakout role as Dr. Belinda Brown in HBO's "Vice Principals," Ritter's co-star Gregory has appeared in some of the biggest hits on television, such as "Better Call Saul," "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" and "Devious Maids."

Garcia Swisher has been acting since the age of 10, having landed roles in such prominent series as "Are You Afraid of the Dark," "Freak and Geeks" and "Party of Five." She also appeared in "Reba," "Gossip Girl" and "Better

With You," and has a recurring role in ABC's "Once Upon a Time" as mermaid Ariel.

Young actress East boasts a wealth of experience that belies her age. Her credits include "True Blood," "Liv and Maddie" and "Ice."

The supporting cast also includes India de Beaufort ("Veep") as Kristen Allen, J. August Richards ("Angel") as Sheriff Deputy Nathan Purcell, and Dustin Ybarra ("We Bought a Zoo," 2011) as Tyler Medina.

The team behind the scenes is just as impressive as the one in front of the camera. In an interview with IndieWire.com, co-creators Michele Fazekas and Tara Butters admitted that they knew the kooky premise and sense of humor was a bit of a stretch for a network drama, but they hope "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World" finds an audience. Luckily, they've had experience with unconventional dramas thanks to their work on "Marvel's Agent Carter," "Reaper" and "Resurrection." Their early careers trace back to "The X-Files," where they learned to mix stand-alone elements with serialized storylines, as in "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World."

While many of us struggle to find peace amidst the hustle and bustle of everyday life, this lighthearted drama can serve as a reminder that everyone — even the hapless "Kevins" out there — can make the world a better place. For inspiration and entertainment, check out "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World," airing Tuesday, Nov. 14, on ABC.

Charlize Theron in "Atomic Blonde"

Atomic Blonde

In the days shortly before the collapse of the Berlin Wall, an elite MI6 agent named Lorraine (Theron) is sent to Berlin to retrieve a piece of microfilm containing the names of active agents in the Soviet Union, and to kill a known double agent named Satchel. She makes contact with station chief David Percival (McAvoy), whom she suspects of being the elusive Satchel, and French agent Delphine (Boutella), with whom she starts an intense relationship. With plots, counterplots and deadly enemies around every corner, Lorraine is forced to put all of her extensive and deadly skills to use in pursuit of her mission. Director: David Leitch. Stars: Charlize Theron, James McAvoy. 2017. 115 min. Action.

Wind River

After a young woman's body is found frozen in the wilderness of the Wind River Indian Reservation, Fish and Wildlife Service agent Cory Lambert (Renner) calls in the FBI when he suspects that her death is a murder. Once rookie FBI agent Jane Banner (Olsen) arrives, it's determined that the victim was sexually assaulted before her death, and she works with Lambert and local police Chief Ben (Greene) to retrace the woman's footsteps and determine who is guilty of the heinous crimes.

Fix this

Uma Thurman to return in season 2 of 'Imposters'

Bv Andrew Warren TV Media

Fix this: Looks like Uma Thurman isn't iust an imposter she's a more permanent fixture. With Bravo's "Imposters" landing a second season order and expected to return sometime next year, the "Pulp Fiction" (1994) star is confirmed to be among the cast for the encore

"Imposters" follows a con artist named Maddie (Inbar Lavi. "House of Dust," 2013) who seduces lonely men and women before making off with their savings, leaving them destitute. Rob Heaps ("Home Fires"), Parker Young ("Suburgatory") and Marianne Rendón ("Gemini," 2017) star as her three most recent victims, who discover each other and team up to take down the woman who broke their hearts — and their bank accounts.

Thurman starred in a recurring role throughout the first season as Lenny, a skilled fixer who cleans things up for Maddie's boss, The Doctor (Ray Proscia, "Suits"). She'll still be in that recurring role for the second season, but with the addition of a character dredged from her past. Paul Adelstein, who co-created the series and writes for, directs and produces it, will be stepping in front of the camera in the upcoming season. The "Private Practice" star has, much like Thurman, joined the on-screen cast in a recurring role as another fixer, Shelly. He's not just a fix-

er, though: he's also Lenny's exhusband, setting up the second season to have even more relationship drama than the first.

In addition to "Private Practice," Adelstein has starred in "Prison Break," "Scandal" and "Girlfriends' Guide to Divorce," but "Imposters" has been his first success behind the camera. He and Thurman both return when the comedy begins its second season sometime in 2018.

Hello, Joe: "MasterChef" and "MasterChef Junior" are a bit like two burgers with different toppings. They're both succulent and juicy, both satisfying and delicious, but ultimately just a little bit different from one another.

Well, to keep up with the metaphor, "MasterChef Junior" has one of its old toppings back on the menu. Former judge Joe Bastianich has rejoined the hit series, returning as a permanent judge for season 6. Set to premiere on an as-yet-unannounced date later this TV season, there hasn't yet been any announcement about the other judges, although it's a good bet that chefs Gordon Ramsay, who's judged all five seasons to date, and Christina Tosi, who's served as judge for the past two seasons, are also returning.

Bastianich's return comes after two seasons of sitting on the sidelines. This will be his first time serving as a permanent judge alongside Tosi, who joined the "MasterChef" family after Basti> anich departed from both series, and for now he's only returning to the "Junior" half of the franchise no announcement has been made either way as to whether he'll also be back for the grown-up "MasterChef. In "MasterChef

Q: Can you tell me about the new show "The Good Doctor," especially the actor who plays Dr. Murphy? He reminds me of my 10-year-old autistic nephew.

A: Freddie Highmore would likely be flattered by your review of his performance.

His character in the freshman ABC drama "The Good Doctor" is Dr. Shaun Murphy, a gifted young surgeon who also happens to be autistic.

"We all feel a sense of pressure, or perhaps responsibility, to portray Shaun as authentically as possible," Highmore told Entertainment Weekly magazine.

Your review suggests he's on the right track. This shouldn't be too surprising, though — Highmore is a gifted actor, and one of the few who have been able to turn child stardom into adult success.

That said, though he's now 25, his still babyish face means he continues to play characters who are to some degree defined by their youth. His "Good Doctor" character is still a doctor in training, with skills that are very advanced for his age. His previous role was playing a young(er) Norman Bates in A&E's "Bates Motel."

But he's still probably best known for an early-career run of huge roles when he was very young. It started in 2004 when he played Peter in "Finding Neverland," the Johnny Depp-starring biopic of the creator of Peter Pan. The next year he had an even bigger role, the title role in "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory," again opposite Depp.

He again had the title role in the big-budget kids' film "Arthur and the Invisibles" in 2006, and in the 2007 prestige drama "August Rush.

With any luck he'll be staying put for a while on ABC. "The Good Doctor's" ratings have been pretty good so far, hovering around the 11 million mark.

O: I just finished reading "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens and have a short story, literary article, etc., that you are aware of ever resulted in more theatrical movies (both silent and talking), made-for-TV movies, DVD-only movies or animated movies than the Dickens story? A: There's no definitive an-question. Has any play, novel, swer on this, because of one big and fairly difficult question: How loose can an adaptation be before it's not really the same story anymore? And there's a pretty easy way to explain why that question matters: Dracula.

If any appearance of the character Count Dracula is counted (ha!) as an adaptation, then Bram Stoker's classic 1897 novel might be the most adapted. But most of the dread count's screen turns have nothing else to do with the original story of undving love (nor do they also include appearances by the Harkers, who are arguably the real main characters of the book).

If, on the other hand, your definition of an adaptation must include some element of the original story, I can confidently say that "A Christmas Carol" takes the prize, even though no one's sure exactly how many adaptations there have been.

According to the Internet Movie Database (IMDb), a pretty authoritative source, there have been 27 film (either bigscreen or straight-to-video) adaptations of the story.

Counting the TV versions is a harder job. IMDb lists 35 specials or telefilms based on the story, but that doesn't include the many shows that have done "Christmas Carol" episodes. putting their stars into the roles of Scrooge, Cratchit and company. There's no good list of these, but there are easily a dozen or

This isn't to say some of these adaptations haven't taken some ... liberties with the story as well. One of the best-loved renditions is 1992's "The Muppet Christmas Carol," which, though it actually stuck fairly close to the original novella, had more skating penguins, rat accountants and Great Gonzos than Dickens intended.

Young Sheldon

wbz 4 8:30 p.m.

Nine-year-old Sheldon Cooper (lain Ármitage) may be a bona fide genius, but he still sometimes struggles to make sense of the world around him in a new episode of "Young Sheldon," airing Thursday, Nov. 16, on CBS. A prequel to "The Big Bang Theory," this comedy takes a look at Sheldon's early years in East Texas.

Back to the lab: "MythBusters" returns this season with a new duo, and they're cooking with gas. Guns, arrows, exploding gas tanks, flamethrowers — everything fans know and love about "Mythbusters" returns in its rebooted series, starting Wednesday, Nov. 15, on Science.

Adam and Jamie announced last season they would not be continuing after season 14. They felt their experimenting days had come to an end, and it was time to move on to different pastures. The next generation of Mythbusters, comprised of Brian Louden and Jon Lung, earned their co-hosting spots by winning a reality competition show, "MythBusters: The Search." Both flaunted their engineering skills and science smarts during the competition, and now they're looking forward to some eve-opening experiments.

In season 15, Brian and Jon check out non-Newtonian fluids — liquids that change thickness based on applied force — and investigate whether they can stop a pressure wave.

But don't worry, there's still plenty of fire, too. Brian and Jon build rocket-powered swords, conduct experiments with exploding gas tanks, and recreate airbag disasters.

The Emmy-nominated series "MythBusters" confirms or debunks popular myths using the scientific method, gleeful curiosity and old-fashioned ingenuity. The show inspired an entire generation to inquire, interact and take part in science. As "Mythbusters" enters its 15th season, it's already tested hundreds of myths, 840 explosions, and used 56,500 yards of duct tape.

Let's see what new experiments Brian and Jon cooked up this season. The new 14-episode season of "MythBusters" debuts Wednesday, Nov. 15, on Science.
