Trial Court

The trial court combines the district court, probate court and circuit court. In Michigan, the circuit court has the broadest powers of the trial courts. It handles all civil cases with claims of more than $25,000 and all felony criminal cases when the accused, if found guilty, could be sent to prison.

The family division of circuit court handles divorce, paternity, adoptions, personal protection actions, emancipation of minors, treatment and testing of infectious disease, safe delivery of newborns, name changes, juvenile offenses and delinquency, juvenile guardianship, and child abuse and neglect. The circuit court also hears cases appealed from the other trial courts or from administrative agencies.

The friend of the court office — part of the family division of the circuit court — handles domestic relations cases when minor children are involved. District courts handle most traffic violations, civil cases with claims of up to $25,000, landlord-tenant matters, most traffic tickets and misdemeanor criminal cases.

Probate court's duties include managing wills, administering estates and trusts and appointing guardians and conservators, as well as ordering treatment for the mentally ill and developmentally disabled.

Shrine of the Pines

Opened in 1941, a world-famous tourist attraction called Shrine of the Pines is displayed in a Northwood hunting lodge, located in a secluded spot in the woods on the banks of the Pere Marquette River. Raymond W. Overholzer hand-carved the cabin and 200 pieces of furniture from white pine.

The Shrine features Overholzer's lifetime works, including a table made from a 700-pound stump, with more than 60 inlays in its top; a rocking chair of roots so well-balanced it rocks 55 times with a single "start"; and a fireplace crafted from 70 tons of native stone.

Lake County Historical Museum

Said to be the “Jewel of Lake County,” the Lake County Historical Museum has become the place for people to meet, experience firsthand the history of the area and learn about heritage. The historical complex consists of a new structure, the Boat House, which connects two renovated 1938 United State Forest Service district ranger residences serving as the Museum and Community House.

Monthly programs featuring a variety of topics from the Memories of Big Star Lake to the Stories of Idlewild are free and open to the public and held the second Wednesday of each month at the Community House. This space can be rented for private events by the public in addition to serving as program space for the museum.

Tours of the museum are given

Wednesday through Saturdays, noon to 4 p.m., from April through December. Exhibits rotate so there is always something new to see. Displays in 2019 feature 100 years of bridal fashions, Lake County youth camps, history of Marlborough and Idlewild, logging, Kurt Kahl’s photo shop and later in the year The Norwood Looms weaving shop. Kids can blow the Gabriel and call the loggers to dinner, make their own log mark and dress in vintage style clothing for a photo in Kahl’s photo studio. The Boat House will highlight not only the 1949 Chris Craft Runabout, but a Pere Marquette fiberglass canoe, a Kalamazoo folding boat and a MacDougall guide boat. History of fishing the Pere Marquette River is told through stories of early fishing guides and the large mural of the 1935 river system. Special focus in 2019 will be on Josephine Sedlecky-Borsum and Ed’s Sport Shop with an exhibit depicting the shop and her famous fly-tying history.

For those interested in learning more about the area, a family or event, the Research Library is open Wednesdays from noon to 4 p.m. or by appointment.

Check out the Facebook page Lake County Historical Society/ Michigan for current information on programs and events.

Idlewild, a historic ‘hot spot’ in Lake County

Founded in 1912, Idlewild remains a historic and culturally significant community here and beyond. Idlewild is on the National Register of Historic Places. Idlewild represented freedom for many African-Americans, being one of more than 30 resorts in the country where African-Americans were permitted to vacation and purchase property before such discrimination became illegal in 1964 when the Civil Rights Act opened other resorts to African-Americans and marked the end of Idlewild's boom times. Commonly known as “Black Eden,” Idlewild was an active, year-round community through the mid-1960s frequented by well-known entertainers and professionals from throughout the country. According to Michigan State University, at its peak, Idlewild was the most popular African-American resort in the Midwest and as many as 25,000 people would come to Idlewild in the height of the summer season to enjoy camping, swimming, boating, fishing, hunting, horseback riding, roller skating and night-time entertainment.

Today, Idlewild still draws lot of interest from those seeking history and African-American heritage. At about 3,000 acres, it is historically the largest land-based African-American resort ever assembled in the nation. There has been investment in Idlewild with the State of Michigan DNR opening an Idlewild Lake access and picnic area (shown in top photo) in recent years. The Cultural and Heritage Center, 7025 Broadway Ave., is a multi-purpose facility that tells the story of the community in many ways. It is open in summer.

Williams Island is a site of summer music festivals, including the Idlewild Music Fest. Idlewild's lakes and public beach access offer boating, swimming and relaxation. Plus, the headwaters of the Pere Marquette River run through Idlewild, a community that says of itself, “Yesterday's jewel, tomorrow's treasure.”

How Baldwin got its name

In 1872, the Village of Baldwin was incorporated and named in honor of Michigan Gov. Henry P. Baldwin. In appreciation, Gov. Baldwin sent an American flag that was 13 feet by 24 feet, which remains with the Lake County Historical Society today. Although the original county seat in 1871 was Chase, Michigan, Baldwin became the seat in 1875.

In April 1884, a train carrying German brown trout poured its cargo into the Baldwin River.

This was the first planting of German brown trout in the United States.

Baldwin remains an attractive town known for outdoor recreation such as fishing, hunting, camping, ORV and hiking trails and snowmobiling.

A look at Lake County's past

LAKE COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY | COURTESY PHOTOS

Lake County residents lined up with milk cans to receive trout and other species from the Michigan Fish Commission in the early 20th century. German brown trout were first dumped into the Baldwin River, a tributary of the Pere Marquette River, on April 11, 1884, becoming the first planting of the German brown trout in the United States. Trout fishing remains very popular in Lake County.
