THE BEST THINGS TO DO IN SIOUXLAND

1 Hard-knock lifers!

Can we finally admit it. Nobody liked the “Little Orphan Annie” comic strip plus the musical version was annoying! Hearing “Tomorrow” in Act One was bad enough, but it’s repeated twice in Act Two! Oy! By the way, “Annie” – a part of the Broadway at the Orpheum series – will be performed at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Orpheum, 528 Pierce St.

2 All-stater!

Here’s a trick question: where is singer Kali Indiana from? If you said Nebraska, you’d be correct. Where will this country music star be at 9 p.m. Saturday? At Beer Can Alley, 1109 Fourth St., in case you’re wondering.

Funk from Philly!

No, we’re not casting aspersions with that headline. It simply means the Dirk Quinn Band will bring its brand of Philadelphia funk to

KARL MCWHERTER

Vanguard Arts, 416 Pierce St., at 8 p.m. Friday.

A Christmas Karol!

4 Karol, a disillusioned social worker, encounters a homeless man sitting on a park bench. Could he be Kris Kringle? That’s the premise behind “Another Night Before Christmas,” a musical running now through Dec. 11 at Lamb Arts Regional Theatre, 417 Market St.

Be extra ‘crank’-y!

5 The Plymouth County Cyclists will hosts its first-ever Cranksgiving at 10 a.m. Saturday at Bike Central, 200 Central Ave. NW, Le Mars. Think of it as being part scavenger hunt and part bike ride for food and toiletries going to the Christian Needs Center.

Spend time with Pickle Rick!

6 Jackson Street Brewing, 607 Fifth St., will host Trivia Night with Pickle Rick at 7 p.m. Thursday. Why are we mentioning that? Because we like typing Pickle Rick, that’s why.

I'm now being charged because I have a job

ROBERT WALLACE

TWEEN 12 AND 20

DR. WALLACE: I'm 19 and I live at home with my parents and three younger siblings. Both of my parents work, although my mother only works part time. We are a decidedly middle-class family living in a middle-class neighborhood.

We've never been pressed hard to pay our bills, but we've never had a lot of extra money to throw around either. Our family is pretty frugal and even our vacations during my entire childhood were quite modest. We always bought our clothes during sales, and my mom is legendary at using coupons to keep our food costs down.

I'm attending a junior college because I'm interested in potentially someday going into the nursing profession. I recently got a part-time job in a pretty good upscale restaurant as a waitress, and so far I like this job a lot. I work in the restaurant four evenings a week and this gives me enough time to complete my studies and attend my classes, but I don't have as much time as I used to have taking care of my younger siblings by preparing meals for them and also helping out around the house. Because I have started working, my mother has had to reduce her hours at her part-time job so that she can be there to help pick up the food preparation slack for my younger siblings, the youngest of who is only 10 years old.

I was shocked when my father told me last weekend that now that I am working, I'll have to contribute to the family bills. He has asked me to pay $400 per month or room, board and food. I feel this is unfair! He mentioned that I'm an adult now that I'm over 18 years old, but even when I turned 18 he never asked for any money from me. He's only asking now because I have a job outside of the home. I use my money to pay for my books at school, plus a little for tuition, since junior college is not too expensive in our area. I've been using my very good tips to buy better clothes and finally enjoy a wider social life, which includes eating out at restaurants with my friends and my dates. I've been waiting my whole life to make some money for myself, and now my father wants his cut of my income. Do you think he's being unfair with me? — I Work Hard to Earn My Pay, via email

I WORK HARD TO EARN MY PAY: First of all, both of your parents work hard to earn their pay as well! And in your letter, you mentioned that because you are working several evenings now your mother has had to cut her hours at work in order to be home earlier to help with your siblings. This factor, coupled with the current levels of inflation our country is presently experiencing, has likely caused your father to make his request that you contribute to the household budget. As a consumer yourself, I'm sure that you were quite aware that food and gasoline prices presently are higher than they were in previous years.

You're an adult. This development has brought you into the world of setting up a personal budget, and this is a world you'll be living in for the rest of your life. I suggest that you also regularly begin to regularly fund a savings account, even at modest levels, since after two years of junior college your educational goals will require even more capital at the next level.

Life has a way of requiring us all to grow and learn new skills. For you, at 19, this time has arrived. Look at this development as a personal growth opportunity, not as a punitive tax that your father is imposing upon you.

A swingin' Christmas

Cirque Musica combines music, acrobatics for all-new holiday show

BY EARL HORLYK

Steven Cook always wanted to combine the showmanship of a Broadway musical with the excitement of a circus.

With Cirque Musica, the veteran touring company producer was able to get the best of both worlds.

"We were able to attract top musicians and top aerialists from around the world for one exciting show," Cook explained. "I'm positive audiences have not seen anything like it."

The all-new "Cirque Musica Holiday Wonderland," coming to the Orpheum Theatre, 528 Pierce St., for a 7:30 p.m. Nov. 25 show, stars Samantha Duval as Caroline, who travels between two worlds to save the holiday spirit.

According to Cook, "Holiday Wonderland" is a musical journey that can transport audiences to a magical faraway land for a fun-filled holiday experience.

More than that, the show boasts one of Cirque Musica's largest international casts.

"We have circus performers from Australia, Brazil, Mexico, Mongolia and, even, Ukraine," Cook said. "Luckily, the Ukrainian performers have worked for us for years and aren't directly impacted by that country's current war."

Indeed, Cirque Musica has employed many of the world's most mesmerizing acrobats and daredevils since its inception in 2010.

With multiple productions of such Cirque Musica shows as "Rhapsody," "Crescendo," "Heroes and Villains," "Symphonic" as well as "Holiday Wonderland," going on across the continent, Cook said he's hit upon a formula that will resonate and captivate all members of the family.

"I think parents will enjoy the beautiful sets and the holiday music performed by a live band and the kids will be thrilled by all of our aerialists," he explained.

However, staging such a show doesn't come without peril.

"Holiday Wonderland" will be presented at 35 major North American cities over a two-month period," Cook said. "Each stop is, literally, like having a circus come to town."

"We have multiple touring vehicles and a support team that is expert at putting up and tearing down all of the equipment a circus would need," he continued. "On top of that, music is of equal importance to any Cirque Musica performance. It truly is a big undertaking."

Yet is it all worthwhile after an extended COVID-19 related hiatus?

"Like all live touring companies, we had to cancel all performance during the pandemic," Cook said. "We went well over a year with no performances."

Since the start of 2022, Cirque Musica is back to its regular schedule and Cook is happy to report that the audiences have returned.

"I guess it was understandable," he said. "As anxious as our cast members were to perform again, audiences were just as excited to see live entertainment again."

After all, Cirque Musica presents theater in a very unique way.

"Holiday Wonderland,' in particular, hits all of the buttons as a show with something for everyone," Cook said. "The sets, costumes and lighting are as beautiful as the music."

Plus the acrobats will draw oohs and ahhs from audiences of all ages.

"Spectators will be dazzled by both the acrobats as well as the holiday cheer," Cook explained. "Our 'Holiday Wonderland' blends the spellbinding grace and daredevil athleticism of the world's greatest circus performers with a musical mix of timeless seasonal favorites performed live."

Which is exactly what Cook wanted when combining the majesty of music with the thrill-a-minute appeal of the circus."

"It's rare that the entire family can share an unforgettable experience at the same time," he said. "We want you to create memories that will last forever at 'Holiday Wonderland.'"

Currently on a tour of 35 North American cities, "Cirque Musica" will be coming to Sioux City's Orpheum Theatre, 528 Pierce St., at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 25.

Featuring cast members from around the world, "Cirque Musica Holiday Wonderland" will usher in the Christmas season.

Downtown for the Holidays ushers in Christmas for Sioux City

BY EARL HORLYK

Ragen Cote may be making a list and checking it twice. But she isn't finding out who's naughty or nice.

The Downtown Partners executive director has actually been busy, getting ready for the holidays.

"I've been planning for the Downtown for the Holidays parade since September," Cote said with a weary smile. "It is a big undertaking."

That's because Monday's Lighted Downtown for the Holidays Parade has become the informal start of the Christmas season in Sioux City.

However, the fun starts a few hours before the parade does.

Beginning at 3 p.m.,

LaunchPAD Children's Museum, 623 Pearl St., will waive admission fees in exchange for a donation of hand warmers, socks or travel-sized toiletries for the Warming Shelter.

"There will be plenty of kind-friendly activities going on at the Children's Museum as well as at the Sioux City Public Library (529 Pierce St.)," Cote said.

If you want to warm up a bit, Evolve Yoga, 411 Pear St., will be offering hot chocolate.

Chances are you'll need a steamy beverage prior to the start of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) Local 231's annual Holiday Lighted Parade, starting at 6:15 p.m. on Fourth and Iowa Street, ending on Nebraska Street.

"This year's parade may be the biggest one in our history," Cote said. "We already have more than 50 entries and will, no doubt, be getting many more."

If you need to nosh as the parade roll on by, Hardline Coffee Co., 515 Fourth St., and the Sioux City Convention Center, 801

OTHER ACTIVITIES: Special activities at LaunchPAD Children's Museum and the Sioux City Public Library. Santa's House will open the same day and so will the 29th annual Festival of Trees.

Fourth St., will have festive treats for sake while RE/MAX Preferred stocking caps, free of charge, near Fourth and Jones Streets.

Once the parade ends, Santa Claus will hold court at Santa's House, which is located, this year, at 422 Pierce St.

sponsored by UnityPoint Health - St. Luke's, has been going on for the past 34 Christmases, this will be the 29th year for the Festival of Trees.

Visitors may vote for their favorite holiday trees, beginning at 6 p.m., inside the Ho-Chunk Centre atrium, 600 Fourth St. A live auction, conducted by veteran auctioneer Bruce Brock, will take place at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 1, with the proceeds going to the Siouxland Foster Closet.

New this year will be a slate of holiday movies at Promenade Cinema 14, 924 Fourth St., from Dec. 1 - 12, with ticket sales benefiting the Food Bank of Siouxland.

"During the holidays, everyone is in a charitable mood," Cote said. "There are so many nonprofits that use your help."

For instance, the Holiday Storefront Decorating Competition is an opportunity for businesses and nonprofits to transform downtown spaces into beautiful displays.

"People will be able to vote for their favorite space between Nov. 21 and Dec. 26 at downtownsiouxcity.com," Cote said. "The winner will receive a $500 donation for their nonprofit."

Everybody will become winners at the Small Business Marketplace, located on first floor of Bluebird Flats Apartments, 520 Nebraska St.

"More than 20 small, locally owned businesses will be at Bluebird Flats on Nov. 26, Dec. 3, 10 and 17," Cote said. "It will be a great opportunity to pick up unique items while shopping local."
