Apple TV+ profiles Michael J. Fox in 'STILL'

"Back to the Future" is among the films excerpted in "STILL: A Michael J. Fox Movie," which streams Friday on Apple TV+.

Michael J. Fox's life has entailed a lot, and as his many fans long have been aware, not all of it has been for the cameras.

The five-time Primetime Emmy Award winner was at the height of his popularity as an actor when he received a diagnosis of Parkinson's disease in 1991, and both his private and public aspects get considerable attention in "STILL: A Michael J. Fox Movie," which Apple TV+ debuts Friday, May 12. Directed by Davis Guggenheim ("An Inconvenient Truth") – whose wife, Elisabeth Shue, worked with Fox in the "Back to the Future" franchise – the film factors dramatic re-creations into Fox-narrated recollections of his experiences.

Though Fox admits he had early difficulty emotionally in dealing with his health assessment, he ultimately channeled the situation into the nonprofit Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research. It has financed more than $1 billion in projects, including a recent breakthrough involving a spinal fluid test. Fox also has traced his life and times in several memoirs: "Lucky Man," "Always Looking Up: The Adventures of an Incurable Optimist" and "No Time Like the Future: An Optimist Considers Mortality."

Last year, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences gave Fox the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award, also an acknowledgment of his significance as a member of the entertainment community. After he moved to Los Angeles from his native Canada, it wasn't long before he was cast as politically minded Alex P. Keaton in the sitcom "Family Ties"; during its seven-season run, he also scored such movie successes as the three "Back to the Future" films, "Teen Wolf" and "The Secret of My Success," plus image departures in "Bright Lights, Big City" (co-starring Fox's wife, Tracy Pollan) and "Casualties of War."

After making such early-1990s comedy films as "Doc Hollywood" and "For Love or Money," Fox returned to weekly sitcom work in "Spin City." Midway through that show's run, he went public with his Parkinson's news, and Charlie Sheen succeeded him in the series. However, Fox earned later acclaim for recurring guest roles on "Boston Legal," "Rescue Me" and "The Good Wife."

In 2012, Fox made a bid for series work again with "The Michael J. Fox Show," which incorporated aspects of his real life as he played a TV newsman. It lasted less than one season, but afterward, Fox reunited with earlier movie co-star and longtime friend Kiefer Sutherland in a guest arc on the latter's show "Designated Survivor."

Though Fox maintains that he has retired from acting, he notes that could change under the right circumstances. For now, he's back in the limelight by telling his own story in "STILL: A Michael J. Fox Movie," and it's a singular tale that's worth relating – and hearing – firsthand.

May 7 "Jimmy O. Yang: Guess How Much?"

The "Crazy Rich Asians" and "Silicon Valley" actor and comic gives his take on such topics as love languages, loser friends and making compromises with his Asian parents in his first global stand-up special, which was filmed earlier this year. (ORIGINAL)

BABY MAMA

May 7 "Movie: Baby Mama"

Two veterans of "Saturday Night Live" reunite, to very funny effect, in this comedy about surrogate parenthood. Tina Fey plays a business-minded woman who wants to have a child, though she's biologically unable to. The apparent solution is a decidedly different, rough-around-the-edges lady (Amy Poehler) who moves in, making it anyone's guess if the duo will be able to endure each other until the baby is born.

Where all the top choices can be found in one place!

NETFLIX

May 7 "Jewish Matchmaking"

From the creators of "Indian Matchmaking" comes this unscripted series that features singles in the U.S. and Israel as they turn their dating life over to top Jewish matchmaker Aleeza Ben Shalom and open themselves to the traditional practice of shidduch dating, in which Jewish singles are introduced to one another in Orthodox Jewish communities for the purpose of marriage. Disney+

"The Muppets Mayhem" (May 10)

This family comedy series follows the Muppets' Electric Mayhem Band as they come face to face with the music scene of today as they embark on an epic quest to record their first studio album, helped by young music executive Nora (Lilly Singh, "Dollface"). Saara Chaudry ("The Mysterious Benedict Society") and Tahj Mowry ("Baby Daddy") are also in the nonpuppet cast. (ORIGINAL)

in focus

“White Men Can’t Jump” (Hulu — movie premiere, May 19)

This modern remix of the iconic 1992 comedy follows the adventures of two polar-opposite Los Angeles street ballers: Jeremy (rapper Jack Harlow), a former star of the game whose injuries stalled his career; and Kamal (Sinqwa Walls, “American Soul”), once a promising player who derailed his own future in the sport.

“Carrot Cake Murder: A Hannah Swensen Mystery” (Hallmark Movies & Mysteries — TV movie premiere, May 21)

A skeleton is discovered amid the rubble of a building, revealing that one of Lake Eden’s citizens was not who he claimed to be. Much to the shagrin of her fiancé, Det. Mike Kingston (Cameron Mathison), Hannah (Alison Sweeney) begins to investigate on her own. As she pieces together the events that led to the murder, she even calls on her mother as she works to bring the killer to justice.

“Happy Valley” (BBC America — season premiere, May 22)

Catherine (Sarah Lancashire) discovers the remains of a gangland murder victim in a drained reservoir, sparking a chain of events that unwittingly leads her straight back to Tommy Lee Royce (James Norton) in the Season 3 premiere. Meanwhile, her grandson, Ryan (Rhys Connah), is now 16 and still living with Catherine, but he has ideas of his own about what kind of relationship he wants to have with the man Catherine refuses to acknowledge as his father.

“Wanda Sykes: I’m an Entertainer” (Netflix — new special, May 23)

The actress and comic brings her insightful wit and candor to bear as she discusses topics ranging from raising Gen Z teens to the dilemmas of being a liberal in a hyper charged political climate, in this stand-up performance filmed this past February at the Miller Theater in Philadelphia.

A culinary pioneer talks shop, shares war stories in 'Out of the Oven'

If the musings of one of the world's most influential chefs is of interest, a new newsletter on Substack may be what you seek.

In "Out of the Oven" (jeremiahtower.substack.com), Jeremiah Tower, who established his reputation as a culinary innovator with his 1970s stint as executive chef at Alice Waters' legendary Berkeley, Calif., bistro Chez Panisse, offers up a weekly selection from his considerable personal archives, among them his writings, photos, videos, menus and other visual materials on eating, cooking and travel. And there are stories, lots of stories.

This, after all, is a man who lived the life of a celebrity chef before there was such a thing. Recognized worldwide for his innovative approach to Northern California cuisine, Tower left Chez Panisse to open his own San Francisco eatery Stars in the 1980s. Along the way, he plated meals for everyone from the rich and famous to local fishermen and by his own admission was an enthusiastic participant in the drug culture that permeated the industry and helped fuel his own creativity.

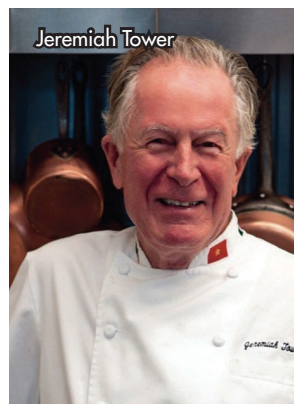

In all, there is about a terabyte's worth of information to share and there are paid and free subscriptions. So whether you're a foodie or just a lover of entertaining stories, "Out of the Oven" might be worth checking out.

Here are a few other celebrity chef newsletters to be found on Substack.

"Andrew Zimmern's Spilled Milk" (andrewzimmern.substack.com): The "Bizarre Foods" host and four-time James Beard Award-winning chef started this newsletter in December 2021 with the idea of connecting more personally with his community, which he does here through online conversation, recipes, videos and other content. The subscription is free though subscribers do have the option to pay.

"Longer Tables With Jose Andres" (joseandres.substack.com): In today's divided climate, the Spanish-American chef, restaurateur, author and World Central Kitchen founder wants to bring people together. So in this newsletter, he shares stories that show how food connects us and explores our shared food history and food future. He also answers cooking questions, posts interviews with his foodie heroes and shares video postcards from his travels. Subscriptions range from free to $150 annually.

BY GEORGE DICKIE

deGrom looks to put health woes behind him in Texas

When your team hasn't seen the postseason berth in six years and has a pitching staff consistently among the game's worst, the need for change is obvious. And so it is that Jacob deGrom became a Texas Ranger.

Signing a five-year, $185 million contract over the winter, the two-time Cy Young winner represents a significant upgrade and a significant gamble on the part of the Rangers. Yes, when the righthander is healthy, he's arguably the best pitcher in the game, as his career ERA of 2.55 would indicate. And his arrival, along with those of righty Nathan Eovaldi and lefty Andrew Heaney, served notice to the rest of the league that the Rangers are officially in win now mode.

But in recent years, the 34-year-old Floridian has looked increasingly fragile. He missed the second half of 2021 with inflammation in his pitching elbow. Then last season, a stress reaction in his right shoulder kept him out all year until August. And when he returned, the Mets, his former team, kept him on a strict pitch limit, which they removed when they needed him for a playoff run. And at that point he looked very ordinary, pitching to a 1-3 record with a 4.50 ERA in five starts.

Full name: Jacob Anthony deGrom
Birth date: June 19, 1988
Birthplace: DeLand, Fla.
Height/weight: 6 feet 4 inches/180 pounds
Teams: New York Mets

(2014-22); Texas Rangers (2023-present)
Position: Starting pitcher
No.: 48
Honors and achievements: Four-time All Star (2015, 2018, 2019, 2021); two-time Cy Young Award winner (2018, 2019); NL ERA leader (2018); two-time NL strikeout leader (2019, 2020); NL Rookie of the Year (2014)

'The Resident' no longer resides on Fox

Q: Has "The Resident" been canceled? – Don Sherman, via email

A: It has. It took a while for Fox to make that decision after the medical drama's sixth (and, ultimately, final) season ended last January, but it seemed clear that the Matt Czuchry-starring show's makers had prepared what became the last episode to be either a season finale or an ending for the entire series ... not an easy thing to do, we might add.

Though some networks have done more than one medical series at the same time, given the fewer programming hours Fox has, the writing seemed to be on the wall when the network announced the forthcoming drama "Doc" – an adaptation of an Italian drama about a medic struggling to overcome several years of memory loss. A few days later, the cancellation of "The Resident" was made known.

Q: Are all former "Saturday Night Live" cast members required to bring back their old characters if they return to host the show? – Todd Seeland, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: We wouldn't call it a requirement, but it makes sense in a number of ways for that to happen. Since "SNL" generally is the vehicle that made the given personalities into stars in the first place, it's logical that in going back to the show, they'd step back into roles that were popular during their original tenures (as Molly Shannon did in her "SNL" return in April).

Also, there can be fun for the performers (and, they hope, viewers) in updating their alter egos to match current times. In some cases, the related sketches originally were done 10 to 20 years ago, so present-day subjects can be tackled in a new way by the ever-topical "SNL" when seen through the prism of classic and familiar characters.

Q: Why is "The Ten Commandments" usually shown only around Easter? – Audrey Fields, Pembroke Pines, Fla.

A: It's likely part of the contractual deal that ABC has with Paramount Pictures to present the Oscar-winning 1956 epic annually, which the network has done since 1973 (missing only 1999, which brought this year's airing just short of a 50th anniversary in telecasts). The Cecil B. DeMille-directed classic is one of only a handful of movies that still get yearly broadcasts, the others being "The Sound of Music" (on ABC) and "It's a Wonderful Life" (on NBC), both shown during the end-of-year holidays.

"The Ten Commandments" also is notable for its considerable length for a single program shown in one night. With commercial breaks factored in, the presentation runs just short of five hours on ABC, which typically airs it on a Saturday night. That duration causes affiliates' local news to run late on those evenings ... and even later in certain instances, since some stations choose to start the movie an hour later than the network does, to keep early-evening local or syndicated programming in place.

Q: Which years did Tim Russert host "Meet the Press"? – Adam Decker, via email

A: Then the Washington, D.C., bureau chief for NBC News, he started his tenure on the program in December 1991 and continued until his death in June 2008 ... making him, to date, the person who served the longest as moderator of the show. The Sunday following his passing, Tom Brokaw – who served as interim moderator for several months afterward – hosted a special "Meet the Press" edition paying tribute to Russert.
