celebrity scoop

BY JAY BOBBIN

Checking in with TOM CRUISE

It has taken Tom Cruise almost four decades to bring it to the screen, but the sequel to one of his biggest hits is now getting its broadcast-television premiere.

Probably no coincidence since it comes on the cusp of America's 250th birthday, the patriotic 2022 adventure "Top Gun: Maverick" comes to CBS on Wednesday, July 1 — after the many showings it's had on such outlets as MGM+, Paramount Network, Showtime and AMC. Also a producer of the film, Cruise (whose birthday is July 3) reprises the role of Pete "Maverick" Mitchell, the independent-minded Navy pilot who takes command of more recent graduates of the Top Gun combat training school in a mission to destroy an overseas plant where uranium is made weapons-grade.

Directed by Joseph Kosinski, who previously worked with Cruise on "Oblivion" (2013), "Top Gun: Maverick" was kept from being sold directly to a streaming service, since Cruise was convinced there would be a theatrical audience for it in the post-COVID era. He was proven right by its $1.5 billion-plus box-office take worldwide, making it little surprise that a third "Top Gun" movie is in development. It possibly will be built around Miles Teller's ("Whiplash," 2014) "Maverick" character Rooster, the son of the original "Top Gun's" Goose, who was played by Anthony Edwards ("ER").

Cruise's career has touched TV only rarely, typically with him appearing as himself on talk shows or in such special events as the closing ceremony of the 2024 Summer Olympics. However, one very famous TV franchise has played a big part in his career, since he has starred in eight "Mission: Impossible" movies; a ninth may be in the works, and Cruise might or might not be involved, depending on which interview he has given about it.

The actor-producer's pictures typically are solid draws on television, explaining why such Cruise projects as "A Few Good Men" (1992) and "The Firm" (1993) turn up frequently on one cable channel or another. It also explains why the original "Top Gun," now marking its 40th-anniversary year, usually can be found somewhere on the home screen — the same afterlife that is greeting "Top Gun: Maverick," with CBS now becoming another

Birthdate: July 3, 1962

Birthplace: Syracuse, N.Y.

Current residence: Clearwater, Fla.

Marital status: Divorced

Other television credits include: 2024 Summer Olympics Closing Ceremony, "Fallen Angels" (director only)

Movie credits include: "Mission: Impossible" (also producer), "Mission: Impossible 2" (also producer), "Mission: Impossible III" (also producer), "Mission: Impossible – Ghost Protocol" (also producer), "Mission: Impossible – Rogue Nation" (also producer), "Mission: Impossible – Fallout," "Mission: Impossible – Dead Reckoning Part One" (also producer), "American Made," "The Mummy," "Jack Reacher" (also producer), "Jack Reacher: Never Go Back" (also producer), "Edge of Tomorrow," "Oblivion," "Rock of Ages," "Knight and Day," "Valkyrie," "Tropic Thunder," "Lions for Lambs," "War of the Worlds," "Collateral," "The Last Samurai" (also producer), "Austin Powers in Goldmember," "Minority Report," "Vanilla Sky" (also producer), "Stanley Kubrick: A Life in Pictures," "Magnolia," "Eyes Wide Shut," "Jerry Maguire," "The Firm," "A Few Good Men," and many more.
