It is the Mission of North America’s Building Trades Unions to develop and deploy the safest, most highly skilled and productive skilled craft workforce found anywhere in the world, while establishing and protecting wage and benefit standards that ensure that careers in the construction industry are a path to the Middle Class. Our vision is to become a preferred vendor-supplier of skilled craft construction workforce solutions to whole industries, individual construction end-users, contractors and the communities in which we operate. Through substantial annual investments in a world-renowned apprenticeship training and education infrastructure, and through collaborative partnerships with businesses, industry, community organizations, and government officials, North America’s Building Trades Unions are paving the way for a new, tripartite business approach that is providing solutions for a wide range of industry and public policy challenges.
