LCSD 5-year graduation rates up, 4-year rates down

MAX KIRKENDALL
newsguardeditor@countrymedia.net

The statewide graduation rate in a four-year cohort (those who started together as a freshman in 15-16) for the class of 2018-19 is at an all time high of 80 percent, up 1.3 percentage points over the previous year.

In the Lincoln County School District, the graduation of 426 students went from 81.99 percent down to 76.06 percent. However, in the 5-year cohort, 430 students graduated and the rate increased from 80.85 percent to 85.12 percent.

“While it is unsettling to see the numbers of graduates decline for our 4-year cohort graduates, we do see a marked increase in our graduation rates for those in the 5-year cohorts,” LCSD Superintendent Dr. Karen Gray said. “When reviewing the numbers, we must keep in mind that we are investing heavily in our students and have made many strides in what we offer to prepare graduates to be college and career ready by the time they walk across that graduation stage.”

The data, which was recently released by the Oregon Department of Education (ODE) showed the four-year graduation rate has increased eight percentage points

Final King Tides to strike the coast

THE NEWS GUARD

The final round of the current winter's King Tides Photo Project is coming up Feb. 8-10. Volunteer photographers are invited to assist in this citizen science activity by taking photos that document the highest reach of the year's highest tides, the last of which arrive on those dates. The Oregon King Tides Photo Project takes place throughout Oregon's coastal region. For the tenth year, Oregon is participating in this international citizen science effort. The Oregon branch of the project is sponsored by the CoastWatch Program of the Oregon Shores Conservation Coalition and the Oregon Coastal Management Program of the Department of Land Conservation and Development, along with local partners. The other two high-tide sequences this winter on which the project's volunteers focused took place Nov. 25-27, 2019, and Jan. 10-12, 2020. The international project began in Australia, where the highest tides of the year are known as “king tides,” hence the name of the project. These tides arrive when the sun, moon, and earth are in alignment, causing a stronger than usual gravitational pull. Anyone with a camera can participate. At

SCP Depoe Bay opens after 18-month, $400,000 renovation

THE NEWS GUARD

Soul Community Planet (SCP), a Holistic Hospitality company providing lodging centered on the values of personal wellness, social good and the environment, recently announced the newly renovated SCP Depoe Bay is open after an extensive renovation. Located near many of Oregon's top surf breaks, most picturesque shorelines and best fishing, the new lodge features bohemian-style guest rooms, a communal co-working space, fitness and yoga studio and Provisions market. SCP Depoe Bay is accepting room reservations with special introductory rates starting at $119 per night for a limited time only.

“Each SCP venue uniquely embodies the values of Soul, Community and Planet,” said SCP Co-Founder and CEO Ken Cruse. “SCP Depoe Bay has been renovated into an intimate surf lodge – ideal for coastal adventure-seekers and for small retreat groups focused on personal enrichment and wellness. The interpretation of our core values is felt throughout the lodge – from the signature Peaceful guest room to the large Commons area perfect for guests to connect, work and create. SCP Depoe Bay also showcases our earth-first sustainability programs, including our virtual elimination of disposable plastics and ‘to-go’ containers. “The Oregon Coast already has its share of great accommodations serving the tourist class. We look forward to serving the adventure class – surfers, wellness seekers and coastal wanderers - at the new SCP Depoe Bay.” Prior to reopening, the lodge underwent an 18-month, $400,000 renovation, which transformed the former inn into a surfing and fishing-style lodge with a casual bohemian, eco-friendly vibe. It is designed to appeal to travelers looking for outdoor adventure and recreation, as well as for those who share the company's commitment to earth-friendly and socially responsible practices. “SCP Depoe Bay is an ideal base for guests traveling for adventure on the Oregon Coast,” said SCP Depoe Bay General Manager Alanna Ettinger. “Guests benefit from our close relationships with local guides, outfitters and excursion companies who offer some of the best programs on the coast. Our guests also may immerse themselves in everything from morning yoga and meditation to enrichment programming. We will also host periodic multi-day retreats for yoga, meditation, wellness and foraging. “After a day surfing or fishing, guests can transition in our yoga and stretch studio before enjoying a homemade coast-to-table meal in front of the fireplace in the Commons room.”

Renovation and Design Led by celebrity designer Kelli Ellis of HGTV and The Design Network, the lodge's design elements incorporate SCP's trademark mindful, eco-friendly style. Outdated infrastructure was replaced with modern and efficient low-flow plumbing fixtures, LED lighting, and the extensive use of locally sourced and low/non-toxic, green and environmentally friendly materials. The property was transformed with a hand-crafted, minimalist design aesthetic inspired by the colors and textures of the coast: whites, greys and blues with solid surfaces, reclaimed wood, and surf

Cascadia Quake anniversary reminds Oregonians to be ‘2 Weeks Ready’

newsguardeditor@countrymedia.net

Many people in the Pacific Northwest are aware of the dangers of the Cascadia Subduction Zone since wider attention has been drawn to the 600-mile fault that runs from northern California to British Columbia, about 70-100 miles off the Pacific coast.

The last Cascadia earthquake and tsunami occurred in this fault on January 26, 1700, with an estimated 9.0 magnitude.

Although it's been 320 years since the last Cascadia event, we know another one will happen and that it's a good idea to be prepared. It's not a matter of if, but rather when, the next Cascadia earthquake and tsunami will strike.

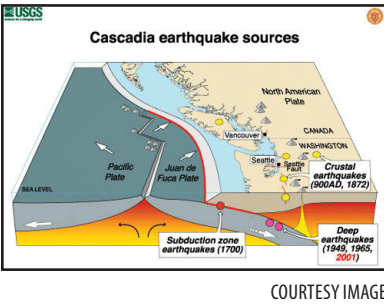

This past summer, the Oregon Coast experienced several tremors, including a 3.4 quake in Rose Lodge. The small earthquakes garnered the attention of scientists and geologists, including Portland State University geology professor Scott Burns, whose family has owned a house in Gleneden Beach since 1971.

"This is what we call a slow slip type of movement," Burns said. "The Juan De Fuca Plate is moving underneath us and then all of the sudden, about every 14 months, it stops and it goes in a westerly direction.

"As it does that, it creates a lot of tremors. So we are in this slow slip type of movement right now and that's why we're getting a lot of tremors up in Washington, Northern California and then some here in Oregon."

Burns and several other geologists feel the tremors could be a precursor for the 'big one,' which is predicted to shake for about four minutes and cause extensive damage.

Althea Rizzo, geologic hazards program coordinator for Oregon's Office of Emergency Management, says that knowing what to do, and how to be prepared for a large-scale earthquake, or any disaster, can help to calm fear and empower people to take action. That action, Rizzo said, includes putting together a family plan and emergency kits to be 2 Weeks Ready.

"Being prepared to be self-sufficient for two weeks is an achievable goal and you may be more prepared than you think," Rizzo said. "See what you already have and you can get there over time."

Leadership in Oregon is making it a priority to get better prepared for the next Cascadia event. On Monday Jan. 27, Governor Kate Brown attended an event commemorating the anniversary of Cascadia, and a briefing on the seismic safety technology called ShakeAlert. She also officially proclaimed Jan. 26 - Feb. 1 as Cascadia Earthquake Preparedness Week.

"When the next large-scale

Cascadia earthquake and tsunami strike the Pacific Northwest, Oregon will face the greatest challenge of our lifetimes," said Gov. Brown. "To be ready to recover, we must be aware and prepared. In the aftermath of a large-scale natural disaster, Oregonians will have to count on each other in the community, in the workplace, and at home until first responders are able to reach them.

"I urge everyone to start conversations this week with their families, friends, and loved ones about how to be safe and as ready as possible, especially by having two weeks of ready supplies."

Oregon Office of Emergency Management has many tools and resources to be prepared for a Cascadia quake and other disasters. Check out the website at www.oregon.gov/OEM.

OCCC welding facilities open in Lincoln City and Toledo

OREGON COAST COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Starting this month, students and adult learners will be taking courses in welding from Oregon Coast Community College, thanks to a partnership with the Port of Toledo, Northwest Oregon Works and the Lincoln County School District.

The programs kicked off with grand opening ribbon-cutting ceremonies on Wednesday, Jan. 29, in Toledo, and on Friday, Jan. 31, at Taft 7-12. The Toledo ribbon cutting also featured the presentation of a financial contribution to the program from Georgia-Pacific.

The first classes are full, thanks to online registration forms that have been posted for months on the College website.

"We have far more interested students than we have space for this first class of 20 students," said Dan Lara, OCCC's Chief Academic Officer. "We still have a long list of folks who have expressed interest in the welding program, and we hope to offer them the chance to register for welding classes in the Fall or later next academic year. The response to this program has been amazing."

The Port of Toledo was the lead applicant in a $261,285 Maritime Administration Small Shipyard Grant Application to the U.S. Department of Transportation. That grant, secured in June 2019, was critical in launching this welding program.

"Since I arrived at the College in 2014, I have heard from industry and community about the need for welding and maritime workforce training," said Dr. Birgitte Ryslinge, OCCC President. "Through this private-public collaboration we start building, rather than importing, our future maritime-industrial workforce. This means high-skilled, high-wage jobs for Lincoln County residents, and boosts our collective economy.

"It is truly wonderful to be among such collaborative and forward-thinking leaders here in Lincoln County. We can't wait to see our future welders practicing in the Shipyard Vocational Training Lab."

Port Manager Bud Shoemaker of the port of Toledo said they are particularly excited about what this project means to the coastal communities of Lincoln County.

"This year we partnered with the Lincoln County School District and had high school students from both Waldport and Toledo working as interns in our shipyard," said Shoemaker, who spearheaded the grant-writing effort. "These schools both have industrial programs which have allowed their students to progress into the internship. The vocational welding lab will provide students at the other high schools in Lincoln County the same opportunity to participate in industrial training.

"Partnering with OCCC opens the program to everyone else in the county. The welding lab, adjacent to our shipyard, will provide students with practical shipyard welding experience."

The same time the program gets rolling in Toledo, the College will begin teaching welding classes at Taft High School, thanks to funding support from the District. The welding courses will be available to both community members and high school students from within Lincoln County.

"The Lincoln County School District is committed to partnering with Oregon Coast Community College and local industry partners in using its High School Success funds and resources to expand career and technical education programs to support students and workforce development for our communities and families," said Dr. Karen Gray, LCSD Superintendent, after the grant was secured in June. "We are already appreciative of the Port of Toledo's efforts to provide our students with on-the-job training and experience and look forward to the expansion of our partnership."

Hall named Housing Stability Council Chair

THE NEWS GUARD

Lincoln County Commissioner Claire Hall has been appointed chair of the Oregon Housing Stability Council by Governor Kate Brown. The appointment is effective immediately.

COURTESY PHOTO

Lincoln County Commissioner Claire Hall

Hall was first named to the council as a member in 2018 and began serving in June of that year following confirmation by the Oregon State Senate. According to the state website, the council's mission is "to provide leadership in, and review and set policy for, the development and financing of affordable housing throughout the state of Oregon. The council meets on the first Friday of each month in Salem.

Hall is the only elected official and the only coastal resident on the nine-member council.

"My elevation to chair means I will now preside at the council meetings and have an even better opportunity to advocate for the unique needs of coastal and rural Oregonians," Hall said. "The state is putting a record amount of money into supporting housing development and homeless services, which is great. But the council has an important oversight role in making sure those dollars are spent wisely and effectively to serve as many Oregonians as possible."

statewide over five years. The gap in high school graduation rates between historically underserved student groups and the state average is smaller than in previous years.

The year-to-year increase in graduation rates was greater for every underserved student group than the increase in the state average, bringing underserved student groups closer to the statewide average than ever before.

“This year’s graduation rate increase means nearly 600 additional students earned a diploma,” ODE Director Colt Gill said. “We are seeing even faster growth for students of color, students with disabilities and students navigating poverty than the state as a whole. Student Success Act funding will build on this promising foundation to foster equity and excellence for all Oregon students.”

Dr. Gray said the LCSD School board has been working on community engagement and a new strategic plan that will be rolled out this upcoming year. This includes tapping into the $4.6 million state-funded dollars through the Student Success Act.

“We have effective and inspiring programs in place in our school district,” Gray said. “We are not just numbers but unique educational experiences and caring relationships. In Lincoln County Schools we want our students to be engaged in their education and excited about their future.”

Gray named a few examples of new programs that have been installed this year such as natural resources management, welding, visual arts and design, AVID (Advancement Via Individual Determination), new reading curriculum K-10 and trauma-informed care. Next year, LCSD will add a new math curriculum. In addition, they continue to offer meals at no charge to all students.

“Not all students will move onto a four-year college degree but we want all of our students to have the essential skills in place to have that as a genuine option and to be future-ready,” Gray said. “We will see these numbers climb again for our 4-year cohorts, as well as our 5-year cohorts, which surpasses the state average.

“I say that boldly because I have every confidence in our students, staff, administration, school board and community.”

tide on any of the three project days (the timing of which varies, depending on location), find a safe spot to observe the tide in relation to the land, snap photos, and post them online. More information on the project, a link to tide tables, instructions for posting photos, and a map of photo locations, can be found on the website, oregonkingtides.net.

King tide photos can be taken anywhere affected by tides, whether on the outer shoreline, in estuaries, or along lower river floodplains. Photos showing high water in relation to infrastructure (roads, bridges, seawalls, and the like) can be particularly striking, and reveal where flooding problems threaten. But shots of marshes or other habitats being inundated, or coastal shorelines subject to flooding and erosion, are also useful. The goal of this long-term citizen science project is to document the highest reach of the tides on an ongoing basis, for comparative study over a period of many years. (Photographers who participated in past years are urged to return to the locations from which they took earlier King Tide photos so as to track the tides in that location over time. Photographers are also urged to return to the same locations to take comparison shots at ordinary high tide.)

While the King Tides Photo Project can help to identify areas that are currently threatened by flooding, the more important purpose is to gain a preview of sea level rise. The king tides, while extreme today, will become the “new normal” as sea level continues to rise, and storm surges increase, due to global warming. Gaining a glimpse of tidal inundation likely to become common decades into the future will benefit planners, resource agencies, conservationists, and coastal citizens in preparing for these changes.

Photographs from past years of the King Tides Photo Project can be viewed on the project’s Flickr site, <https://www.flickr.com/groups/oregonkingtides/>.

The News Guard contacted Jonathan Modie, spokesman for the Oregon Health Authority to learn more about this virus and its impact here.

The News Guard: Briefly tell us what is the coronavirus and where did it originate?

Modie: The new coronavirus is a virus that causes mild to severe illness in the lungs. People who are ill with the virus may have a fever, cough and difficulty breathing. We do not know how long it takes for signs of illness to show up after someone is exposed to novel coronavirus. With other coronaviruses, signs of illness usually show up 2-14 days after a person is exposed to the virus.

The first reported case of this virus in the United States was January 21, 2020, in Washington State. The case had recently traveled from Wuhan, China. Cases have been found in other countries, primarily in travelers who had been to Wuhan. Most cases have been in Wuhan, a city of 11 million in China. We expect case counts and fatality rates will continue to change. CDC and WHO, as well as China’s National Health Commission, will offer national and international case numbers.

The News Guard: How does this virus spread and who is at most risk from this virus?

Modie: We are still learning about how this new coronavirus spreads. Other coronaviruses are spread through animals or droplets from the coughs and sneezes of people who have the illness. Early information suggests that older adults and people with underlying health conditions may have a higher risk of severe illness and complications from this virus.

The News Guard: Have there been any suspected or diagnosed cases or deaths from coronavirus in Oregon?

Modie: No.

The News Guard: What is the OHA doing to track this virus?

Modie: OHA has activated an Incident Management Team to coordinate response activities, and it has been meeting regularly every week to gather and report updates on developments in the United States and abroad. OHA also has activated a virtual Joint Information Center to coordinate with county, university, tribal and hospital public information officers. OHA forwarded at least two CDC Health Alert Network (HAN) advisories to local and tribal health partners, hospitals, infection preventionists and other health partners over the past two weeks to share information on the outbreak, including number of reported cases, where cases originated, symptoms to look for, recommended interventions based on patient scenarios (eg, someone who plans to travel to Wuhan City, China; someone who is returning from there; someone displaying symptoms, etc.), and recommendations for health care facilities for implementing infection control procedures.

OHA also has reached out to its airport partners to let them know we are ready to support if needed, and we updated our website (<http://healthoregon.org/coronavirus>) to include a novel coronavirus section with latest Oregon information. Finally, we have conducted social media in English and Chinese to alert travelers to the outbreak and CDC travel guidance.

The News Guard: What is the OHA’s recommendation to help us avoid this virus?

Modie: Risk of getting the disease is related to exposure. At this time, CDC has not seen novel coronavirus spreading in communities in the US. Based on that information, we currently believe that the risk to most Oregonians is low. That said, until other prevention tools are available, we recommend that people practice everyday precautions to prevent any illness and follow CDC’s travel guidance if they are worried about becoming ill:

Wash your hands often with soap and water for 20 seconds. If soap and water are not available, use alcohol-based hand sanitizer.

Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth with unwashed hands.

Cover your coughs and sneezes with a tissue, then throw the tissue in the trash.

Clean and disinfect frequently touched objects.

The News Guard: What is the treatment if someone is infected with this virus? Treatment for patients with 2019-nCoV is supportive care only.

Modie: There are currently no known disease-specific treatments.

The News Guard: What is the OHA’s fear or concern about this specific virus?

Modie: Preparing for and responding to infectious disease outbreaks to protect the public is something we do every day at the Oregon Health Authority. The situation is changing quickly, so we will continue to reassess risks to Oregonians and update the public if that assessment changes. When a new disease emerges, there are often many unanswered questions, such as the incubation period and the route of transmission.

While in the early stages as we are now with the novel coronavirus, it is critical to have plans in place for preventing spread, informing health care professionals how to protect themselves and other patients, and protecting the public.

Deputy Akin and K9 Bonni provide demonstration for school

THE NEWS GUARD

On January 22, Canine Handler Deputy Zach Akin and his K9 partner Bonni provided the staff and students of the Lincoln City Seventh Day Adventist School a demonstration of canine use in law enforcement.

The demonstration included canine obedience and deputy protection and suspect apprehension. The apprehension presentation included Animal Service Deputy Dave Martin donning a bite sleeve and acting as an aggressor in which K9 Bonni bit the protective sleeve.

Deputy Akin concluded the presentation with a meet and greet where students and staff got to meet and pet K9 Bonni.

The Lincoln County Sheriff's Office is grateful for the opportunity to educate the citizens in Lincoln County on canine use in law enforcement. If you or anyone you know would like to have this opportunity please call or email Sergeant Karl Vertner 541-265-0681, kvertner@co.lincoln.or.us

Lincoln City Community Days celebrating 60 years

Dear Lincoln City,
It's 2020 and before you know it, it will be April.

To me April, brings thoughts of Community Days. It will soon be time to shine a light on and celebrate the many people and groups that helped to make 2019 such an eventful and successful year.

This will be the 60th year of Community Days celebration. This will be the 12th year we have had the opportunity to host and get to know a Miss Oregon.

Help us help our community celebrate. Write up your nominations in letterform for man and woman of the year, and couple of the year. Just remember when writing your letter of nomination, the Lincoln City Community Days Committee may not know that person as well as you do so please share as much as you can on how they are involved, where they volunteer their time and what makes you to nominate them. Also, remember this is a celebration of 2019. Nominate businesses for Business of the Year. All nominations can be dropped off at the Lincoln City Chamber office located at 4039 Logan Rd, also you can deliver your written nominations to Oregon Coast Community College, 3788 SE High School Dr. or they can be mailed to PO Box 1259, Lincoln City, OR 97367.

We are scheduling many activities, some tried and true and some new, between Friday, April 17 and Saturday, April 25, 2020.

Lots of things to look forward to. Get ready to "Celebrate".

Everything comes together at the annual Community Days Banquet, which will be held on Saturday, April 25 in the banquet rooms upstairs at the Chinook Winds Casino Resort.

Miss Oregon, Shivali Kadam will be making appearances at many of the scheduled events and we hope the local schools will be able to host her.

If you would like to be a part of the Community Days 2020 planning committee the next meeting is to be held at the Lincoln City Oregon Coast Community College on Thursday, February 6 beginning at 5:15 p.m.

Shirley Hill,
A member of the Lincoln City Community Days Committee

Robert G. Scotton "Scotty"

Scotty was born July 30, 1928 to Robert and Mary Jane Scotton at their Battleground, Washington farm. He joined sisters Katherine and Jean.

The family relocated to a Cornelius, Oregon dairy farm when Scotty was a child. Scotty worked as "help" until his 1946 graduation from Forest Grove High. Then he enlisted in the Army. Scotty was stationed until 1948 near Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he met and married Nina "Joyce" Lohner.

Through the GI bill he attended the University of Oregon enrolled in Landscape Architecture. Son Stan arrived in 1948 and sister Connie in 1952. Scotty relocated his family to Portland in 1951 and began 28 years employment with the Portland Police Bureau. He worked as patrolman, detective, vice and narcotics officer, juvenile officer and human resources.

Scotty was actively involved with Boy Scouts. Landscaping continued as a side business. In 1970, he graduated from PSU with a sociology degree. In 1971, Joyce bought two Lincoln City beach lots "sight unseen" from a co-worker. She had Scotty climb a tree to find the ocean. He proceeded to build a house and create landscape.

1980-82 Scotty and Joyce were Peace Corps volunteers on a Fijian sugar cane plantation. They spent six months returning to the U.S. via New Zealand, Asia, Europe and Africa. In Lincoln City, Scotty was a founding member of Connie Hansen Garden.

Scotty worked as a Park Board member to set aside Open Space land and guide a Community Center remodel including gym, pool, walking track and climbing wall.

In 1994 Scotty and Joyce were named "Couple of the Year." Scotty later received the Mayor's Award for "Outstanding Commitment and Dedication to our Community." Living life to the fullest after quick response to heart attack

Jim Cline had just achieved a personal best on the strider machine at the SamFit gym in Newport and the next thing he knew, he was waking up in the Emergency Department. After being told he’d had a heart attack, he asked to call his wife. The doctor dialed the phone and handed it to Jim.

“Hi, honey. I’m in the Emergency Room in Newport,” Jim said when Amy Cline answered.

“What did you break?” she asked.

“I think I broke my heart,” Jim said.

It was a rainy, chilly winter morning. Deborah Olff, RN, a hospice nurse at Samaritan Pacific Communities Hospital, was working out at the SamFit gym for the first time in two years when she saw Jim collapse. Her basic training kicked in and she rushed to his side to check his pulse. There was none. She began chest compressions while another person dialed 9-1-1.

The hospital’s Physical Rehabilitation Department manager, Jennifer Miller, also happened to be working out that morning. She took over chest compressions while Olff ran to get the automated external defibrillator (AED).

Detecting no heartbeat, the AED shocked Jim twice to try and restart his heart. By the time paramedics arrived, eight minutes later, Jim again had a pulse. Though it was Olff’s first time doing CPR, her quick action may have saved Jim’s life, and kept his heart from being damaged. Later, Cardiologist Sridhar Vijayasekaran, MD, told Jim that because CPR was started within 10 to 15 seconds, and the AED was applied so quickly — within about 45 seconds — there was no detectable damage to his heart from the heart attack.

Over the phone, the doctor told Amy her husband would be transferred to Good Samaritan Regional Medical Center in Corvallis. The Clines live in Siletz, so Amy left her house and waited to meet the ambulance at the highway junction.

“I followed him with my flashers on all the way over, including going through stoplights,” she said. “The ambulance stopped, and they told me I could not go through stop signs or red lights. I said, ‘They’ll have to catch me.’”

At Good Samaritan Regional Medical Center three stents were placed in Jim’s coronary arteries, and he was discharged in two days. He’d not had heart issues in the past, and the heart attack surprised him.

“I was dumbfounded when I had the heart attack, because I thought I was doing the right things,” he said. “Because I had been working out regularly for years, my heart was strong. I think that helped my recovery a whole lot, because I wasn’t laying around getting a flabby heart.”

Jim also credits cardiac rehabilitation at Samaritan Pacific Communities Hospital for helping him recover.

“They are enthusiastic and genuinely concerned about helping you get better,” he said. “At my first session, they asked me about my goals and I said that by the end of the program I want to be back physically to where I was when I started.”

Nicole Schultz, a cardiac rehab exercise specialist (pictured below with Jim), helped Jim reach his goals, in large part by setting limits for him.

“At the first session, I asked if I could start lifting again,” said Jim. “She said no.”

After two weeks of close monitoring of Jim’s activity at the cardiac rehab gym, he was allowed to start lifting again, at 50% of what he had been doing before.

“By the end of cardiac rehab, I was at 95% of where I was. Now I am above where I was,” he said.

When Jim called from the Emergency Department, he sounded fine to Amy, and even though he’d had a heart attack, it took a while for it to sink in.

“I’m a pretty stoic and optimistic person,” she said. “I don’t think the whole thing hit me until three or four weeks later. It was kind of surreal to know what the consequences could have been.”

Just a few months before his heart attack, Jim had retired from 24 years of work in management roles at the Rogue Brewery in Newport. At 65, he was looking forward to enjoying retirement. Jim and Amy went on a trip to the United Kingdom for a month, and they planned a variety of trips abroad and activities closer to home.

He was excited to be able to work on his property without having to fit projects into the weekend. He focused on maintaining good health by eating right and exercising.

Since the heart attack, he is even more committed to staying healthy. He worked out three days a week before, and now he goes to the gym five days a week. He is more careful about meal choices.

“I have not cut anything out,” he said. “I moderate a lot more than I used to. Less red meat, more whole grains, more chicken.”

Whether he is removing trees from his property to expand his gardens, spending time with his daughter and grandson, or going to a family reunion with Amy, Jim wants to be in good health and up to the task.

“I want to be able to spend time with my wife and travel with her,” Jim said. “I worked a lot for a lot of years. We will have been married 40 years in September. I owe her what time I have left.”

Driver crashes vehicle into house and detached garage

SERGEANT JEFFREY WINN
LCPD

On Wednesday, Jan. 29, at about 5:51 a.m., Lincoln City Police Officers responded to a report of a motor vehicle crashing into a house in the area of NW 20th Street and NW Keel.

When officers arrived on scene they found that a vehicle had crashed through a landscape hedge, into the porch of a residence, and continued through a detached garage building and a chain link fence before coming to a stop in the neighboring residence trees and bushes. The crash caused extensive damage to the house and detached garage building.

The involved vehicle, a 2005 GMC Denali, also sustained substantial damage and was disabled and stuck in a neighboring residence landscape.

The driver reported he had been driving south on NW Keel and claimed he fell asleep before crashing into the house and garage.

The subsequent investigation determined that the driver of the Denali at the time of the crash, identified as Brett A Delgado, 21, of Lincoln City, had actually crashed into the residence and garage building at about 4:30 a.m., but had walked to a friend's house and the friend called the police. The driver reported he had been driving south on NW Keel and claimed he fell asleep before crashing into the house and garage.

The owner of the house was not home at the time of the crash and no injuries were reported as a result of the crash. Delgado was issued criminal citations charging him with Reckless Driving and Criminal Mischief II. He was released at the scene. The Denali was towed from the scene by Car Care Towing.

The members of the Lincoln City Police Department would like to remind all drivers to stay alert while driving and to use extra caution especially with the wet roads and inclement weather which can cause decreased visibility and longer stopping distances.

'I Love Lucille' art sale, brunch and life celebration

LINCOLN CITY CULTURAL CENTER

Stalwart volunteer, patron of the arts and lover of animals, Lucille Bacon lived with generosity and spirit.

On Valentine's Day weekend, the Lincoln City Cultural Center will be paying tribute to Lucille, with a delicious brunch and art sale. Her friends and fans are invited to join the celebration, Feb. 15-17 at the Cultural Center, 540 NE Hwy. 101.

The festivities will begin with the I Love Lucille Brunch, 10 am to 1 pm on Saturday, Feb. 15. LCCC chef Colleen Hickey and Events Manager Judy Hardy have prepared the menu as a tribute to Lucille, a gourmet chef who became a vegan later in her life. The buffet will include potato cakes, citrus marinated portobello mushrooms and onion marmalade, along with berry stuffed French toast, scrambled eggs, banana nut muffins, fresh fruit and special tapioca parfaits. Fresh Cape Foulweather Coffee will be included with the meal, with champagne, wine and mimosas will be available for purchase.

An event to celebrate the life of Lucille Bacon will be held Feb. 15-17 at the Lincoln City Cultural Center.

The price for the I Love Lucille brunch will be $30 per person, limit 40, on sale now via the website or the center's Visitor Information Center. The meal will include a spoken tribute to Lucille, and her friends are invited to share memories and stories. Those who attend the brunch will have the first chance to view Lucille's Art Sale, also arranged in the auditorium. Lucille and her husband, Alan, moved to Salishan after her retirement from PGE in 1989. She gave her time and energy to many causes, including the Driftwood Public Library and the hospital auxiliary, and supported cultural causes like Neskowin Chamber Music and the Siletz Bay Music Festival. When she passed away last June, at the age of 91, she left the bulk of her estate to animal protection and social justice organizations.

She left her collection of original paintings, imported kilim rugs, fine pottery and art furniture to the Lincoln City Cultural Center.

"About five years ago, Lucille took Krista and I out to lunch at the Side Door Café," said LCCC Executive Director Niki Price. "She told us stories about her career, and her life before and after she moved to the beach. We had such a great time! She asked if it we would be OK if she included the LCCC in her will, so that her things could find good homes and provide some income for the center, too.

"She was such a lovely person, and we are looking forward to celebrating her life. If any of her friends would like to send a photograph, a story or a message, we would love to include it. Please drop them by the center, or send them to me at lcccdirector@gmail.com."

Several of those pieces, by Chessman Gallery director Krista

Eddy, will be added to the permanent collection at the LCCC. The remainder will be featured at the I Love Lucille Art Sale, which will feature items at a wide variety of price points. After the brunch, the sale will be open to the public from 1-5 pm on Saturday, Feb. 15, and from 9 am to 5 pm on Sunday, Feb. 16, and Monday, Feb. 17. Admission to the art sale is free. There will be a guest sign in book, and the opportunity to donate to the LCCC in Lucille's name.

A full list of items and prices will be available starting on Monday, Feb. 10. The list will be posted on the center's website, and in paper form at the Visitor Information Center.

The Lincoln City Cultural Center is a non-profit center for community and creativity, inside the historic Delake School building, at the corner of NE Sixth St. and Hwy. 101. The center, which is also home to the official Lincoln City Visitor Information Center, is open from 9 am to 5 pm Thursday-Monday. Boys capture elusive first league win

The Taft 7-12 boys basketball team earned their fourth win of the season and first in the Coastal Range League when they hosted Willamina last Friday, Jan. 31.

The Tigers fell behind in the first half, trailing 22-16 at the break, before taking over the game in the third as they doubled their point total to lead 32-25 going into the fourth quarter. Eventually the Tigers prevailed for a 45-40 victory on their home court.

The Lady Tigers faced the top ranked Bulldogs that same night. In the first quarter, Taft trailed just four points to Willamina.

However, the high-powered offense of the Bulldogs took over in the second period as they took a double-digit lead going into halftime. The Tigers were unable to get their offense working in the second half, and ended up losing 50-29.

Taft will have one final home during the regular season, which is scheduled for Feb. 11. The Tigers will host Rainier on Senior Night, with the girls game starting at 6 p.m.

Boys second, girls fourth at Lebanon swim meet

The Taft 7-12 swimming team is gaining valuable experience before their district meet next week. And if you want to be the best, you have to compete against the best, which is what the Tigers did last week in Lebanon.

Taft traveled to the Lebanon Community Swim Club on Jan. 31 to compete in the seven team invitational. For the boys, they continued their strong season in the pool by placing second collectively with 235 team points. Newport led the way with 289 points.

The girls faced a much stronger field of teams, including 4A state favorite Sweet Home, who placed first with a whopping 382.5 points. The Lady Tigers respectively earned a fourth place finish at 151 team points.

"It was a very competitive meet, especially for the girls as Sweet Home is a team that usually scores close to the top or wins at State almost every year... Sweet Home girls won most events and relays," head coach Lissa Parker said. "We were down four boys and two girls as some families left for the three day weekend, and a few athletes were somewhat under the weather recovering from colds and finals week. Regardless, we had some very competitive and exciting races."

Individually, Parker highlighted the work of Isabelle Serrato, who continues to drop times in the 500-yard freestyle as she improved by nine seconds to place sixth, as well as Amie Olson, who dropped 12 seconds in the 200-yard freestyle in only the second time competing in the event.

"The boys 500 Free race for Taft was exciting as Mugen Evenson came from behind to out touch Dylan Barrera," Parker said. "Newcomer Carter Skoglund is becoming much faster with a great dive in his 50 Free. Ayden Woodard almost caught Jose Cortes-Segura in the 100 Breast and keeps getting faster."

Sam Cortes also swam a season best in the 200-yard individual medley at 2:14.45 to place second. Cortes was also second in the boys 100-yard backstroke at 1:00.89.

In the relay events, the girls top performance came in the 400-yard freestyle relay. The team of Serrato, Napy Meyer, Lesley Lagunes and Sammy Halferty placed fourth with a time of 4:39.80.

The boys had a pair of second place finishes during the day. The first came in a hotly contested boys 200-yard medley relay. The Tiger team of Cortes, Barrera, Segura and Evenson swam a 1:52.58, just short of Newport at 1:52.41. That same group of boys placed second in the 400-yard freestyle, again just getting edged by Newport.

"If we had the missing boys we could have gained more points to edge closer to Newport with another relay," Parker said. "All in all, it was a good meet and our swimmers are glad to be done with finals week!"

Next up, Taft preps for the district championships in Newport on Feb. 14-15.
