While churches around the country suspend or move worship services online due to COVID-19 (Coronavirus) concerns, 35 parishioners made the decision to attend the 11 a.m. Catholic Mass at St. Augustine Catholic Church in Lincoln City last weekend. Staying true to its beach roots, Pelican Brewing Company adds to its flock, breaking ground this month on its newest location on Siletz Bay in Lincoln City.

Pelican is planning another unique brewpub experience, at the former site of The Bay House restaurant-to showcase the magnificence of this beautiful stretch of the Oregon Coast. The new brewpub is expected to open early in 2021.

While actual groundbreaking will take place on the site this spring, a community celebration will be planned for a future date.

24 years after opening its first venue-and Oregon's only oceanfront brewpub—in Pacific City, Pelican brings its iconic beach culture to another Oregon coast town. Like its other locations in Pacific City, Cannon Beach and Tillamook, the Siletz Bay brewpub will offer craft beers unique to that location-and a modern yet casual and relaxing

The new brewpub will deliver the same incomparable pub fare featuring locally-sourced seafood and produce, and a number of innovative features found only at Pelican Brewing-Siletz Bay.

"We are honored to bring the Pelican experience, our award-winning beer and innovative beer cuisine to another Central Coast market—and we are so excited to be a part of this historic destination beach town," said Mary Jones, founder and co-owner of Pelican Brewing, Kiwanda Hospitality Group and the Nestucca Ridge Family of Companies. "We intend for our new bayfront brewpub to be a unique and memorable venue for fellow fanatics to create new traditions and special moments to revisit again and again."

Pelican has secured the design services of the global award-winning hospitality design firm, EDG Design, and the architectural expertise of Portland-based Jones Architecture. Both firms have collaborated with the Pelican team to create a modern coastal design that embraces the beauty of the site and Pelican's desire to serve up an extraordinary guest experience.

Over the course of the past week, Oregon Governor Kate Brown has taken several steps to attempt to limit the spread of COVID-19 (Coronavirus) within the state, including her announcement to close Oregon schools from March 16 to March 31.

The decision raised concerns locally in Lincoln County, as many community members had questions of what students, who rely on schools for two meals

Via a Facebook live video, Clanton addressed COVID-19 concerns and stated that it has caused the governor to make some drastic moves to help protect the spread of this virus, including the school closure.

As of Tuesday, March 17, Oregon now has a total of 47 people who have been diagnosed with COVID-19 (Coronavirus).

The Oregon Health Authority (OHA) last announced eight new cases of the novel coronavirus on Monday evening. OHA reported two new cases each in Benton and Deschutes Counties; and one new case in each of the following counties: Clackamas, Marion, Multnomah and Washington. "I know it's difficult to learn that we are seeing more active community spread of COVID-19, but this is something we've been expecting," said Dean Sidelinger, M.D., M.S.Ed, State Health Officer and Epidemiologist, OHA Public Health Division. "It's a good reminder to take steps to protect yourself, and vulnerable friends and family members, by washing your hands, covering your coughs and sneezes, and staying

"Though we'd hoped for the best, we always knew we were likely to receive more positive results as our partners at OHA continued testing for the virus. Our staff continue to diligently follow established infectious disease prevention protocols and public health guidelines.

Oregon's first fatality due to COVID-19

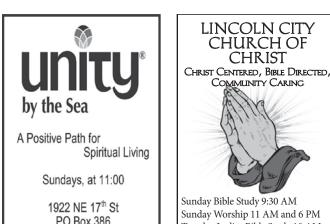

A 70-year-old man in Multnomah County was the first person in Óregon to die from COVID-19 this past weekend. The Multnomah County resident was hospitalized at the Portland Veterans' Affairs Medical Center and succumbed to his symptoms on Saturday, March 14.

The individual is not connected to the cases at the Oregon Veterans' Home in

"While we knew we would arrive at this day at some point, it doesn't lessen the impact," said OHA director Patrick Allen. "Our thoughts and deepest sympathy are with the family of this individual who honorably served his country." The individual, who had underlying heath conditions, tested positive for COVID-19 on March 10. The individual had no known contact to a confirmed case and had not traveled to a country where the virus is circulating.

'This is a sobering reminder that this virus is in our community and can be serious for older people and those with underlying conditions," said Dr. Jennifer Vines Multnomah County Health Officer. "This loss has motivated us to continue our efforts to minimize the impact of this virus on our community.

Governor Kate Brown issued the following statement regarding Oregon's first death due to COVID-19.

"Although we knew this day would come, it does not make it any easier to learn of the first Oregonian to succumb to this illness - an honored veteran who served his country to protect the freedoms we all hold dear," Gov. Brown said. "The loss of one life to this disease is too many. Already, thousands around the world have felt the pain that casts its shadow over one family here in Oregon."

Prevention

This week Governor Kate Brown announced new measures to flatten the curve of coronavirus transmission in Oregon, including new orders and guidance on social distancing, an agreement for the Portland metro hospital system to coordinate resources and increase capacity, activation of the state's Unified Command emergency response organizational structure, and a new order to prevent price gouging. "My goal is to protect the health and safety of Oregon families. Every step we are taking is being made with community input and careful consideration of its impacts," said Governor Brown. "Each action has ripple effects across our state, both on a personal and an economic level. But we can overcome these hurdles in an Oregon Way. By working together, we are stronger, even if it's in ways we never thought possible." The new orders on social distancing measures, effec-tive March 17 for at least four weeks, include:

- A statewide cancelation of all events and gatherings larger than 25 people - exempting essential locations like workplaces, grocery stores, pharmacies, and retail stores. It's additionally recommended that Oregonians avoid gatherings of 10 people or more.

- Restaurants, bars and other establishments that offer food or beverages for sale are restricted to carryout and delivery only with no on-site consumption permitted.

- Food service at health care facilities, workplaces and other essential facilities will continue.

All other businesses are urged to assess their practices, implement strong social distancing measures, and close their doors temporarily if they cannot put the new guidance in place.

Officials continue to urge all Oregonians to take steps to protect themselves, their families and those who are most vulnerable to complications from COVID-19. Every resident should take these basic steps to protect themselves and those most at risk:

- Never visit a hospital or long-term-care facility if you have a fever or cough.

- Cover your mouth and nose when you cough or sneeze.

- Wash your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds.

Regularly clean and disinfect frequently touched objects and surfaces like bathrooms, desks, countertops, doorknobs, computer keyboards, faucet handles, toys and cell phones.

- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, or mouth with unwashed hands.

- Stay home and away from others if you are ill.

After someone contracts COVID-19, illness usually develops within 14 days. Symptoms mirror those of the flu, including fever, cough, runny nose, headache, sore throat and general feelings of illness.

County signs Declaration of Emergency, creates voucher program for homeless

MAX KIRKENDALL newsguardeditor@countrymedia.net

Last week, County Commission Chair Kaety Jacobson signed a Declaration of Emergency for Lincoln County amid COVID-19 concerns.

Lincoln County Government Offices are currently open and will continue to keep normal business hours, as of Tuesday, March 17.

The County is monitoring COVID-19 situation and has implemented recommendations from the Oregon Health Authority such as increased cleaning, social distancing and teleconferencing where possible: sick employees have been asked to stay home.

The County asks that the public use digital and telephonic communications when and where possible. Unless you are sick and seeking medical care, they ask that citizens reconsider visiting County facilities.

Lincoln County Public Health has been working closely with the Oregon Health Authority, local emergency management, hospitals and medical providers to monitor the 2019 Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak. You can find up to date numbers on cases of COVID-19 in Oregon at oregon.gov.

Voucher Program

The Lincoln County Board of Commissioners has agreed to fund a motel voucher program for unsheltered homeless individuals for a two-week trial program beginning Monday, March 16.

Agreements have been secured with motels in Lincoln City and Newport to provide blocks of rooms for this emergency program. Commissioner Claire Hall said this is in response to continued cold weather and the high-risk unsheltered individuals face of COV-ID-19 and other respiratory illness.

"It's hoped this step will protect the health of the individuals involved, as well as reduce opportunities for spread in the larger population," Hall said.

To qualify for the program, citizens will have to identify as sleeping outside. Those living in a vehicle will not be included, according to the County. Citizens also cannot show signs of respiratory illness and must provide a clean UA (marijuana will be excluded if all other criteria are met).

The county is contracting with Coastal Support Services to handle intake and booking for the program. Up to $5,000 has been allocated initially in Newport and $5,000 in Lincoln City. The Lincoln City Travelodge and Sum-

Samaritan Health preparing to care for COVID-19 cases

THE NEWS GUARD

The Oregon Health Authority has announced the first presumptive positive cases of novel coronavirus, or COVID-19, in Linn County - one of the counties served by Samaritan.

While COVID 19 is new, preparing for pandemic illness is not new for Samaritan Health Services.

"Emergency preparedness training is a year-round activity and our facilities treat patients with a variety of infectious diseases on a daily basis," said Chief Medical Officer Robert Turngren, MD. "On top of that, Samaritan has been working for weeks to prepare for potential cases of novel coronavirus, in accordance with the Centers for Disease Control, the Oregon Health Authority and local public health departments."

While concerns about coronavirus are likely to increase as cases are confirmed in our region, risk of contracting the disease is still considered "low" by the CDC. It is also important to remember that many cases of coronavirus are mild, and most people recover with no additional complications.

Community members can stay informed about coronavirus by getting information from trusted sources. The Oregon Health Authority offers an abundance of up-to-date and helpful information and is reporting on cases in Oregon.

The CDC has information about what's happening across the country. Information specific to Samaritan may be found at samhealth. org/Coronavirus.

"While reports of coronavirus are alarming, we encourage you to take reasonable steps to stay healthy," said Adam Brady, MD, of Samaritan Infectious Disease. "The best way to prevent coronavirus is the same as preventing any virus during cold and flu season: wash your hands often, avoid touching your face, cough or sneeze into your elbow and stay home if you are sick."

Symptoms commonly seen with coronavirus infection include fever, cough and difficulty breathing.

If you are having these symptoms, it is important that you call first before visiting a clinic, urgent care facility or hospital. This will ensure you are evaluated quickly and allow health care providers to make arrangements that will keep the virus from spreading to others.

Lincoln City declares State of Emergency

Over the course of a week, large gatherings were banned, sports were effectively shut down and schools and businesses continue to close, courtesy of COVID-19 (Coronavirus).

The City of Lincoln City declared a State of Emergency on Monday at a special City Council meeting, to allow them to more easily access resources if needed during this pandemic. City Emergency Management Coordinator Ken Murphy spoke at the meeting, as well as at the Lincoln City Rotary meeting earlier in the week about the virus.

His message remained unchanged from his norm: always be two-weeks prepared.

"I wish I had this kind of power... You know, I want people to always be twoweeks ready but I don't have this kind of affect on people," Murphy said. "People are getting ready. I figure, if this doesn't get too out of control, Lincoln City Emergency Management Coordinator Ken Murphy.

The City provided laptops for these remote operating teams and are able to teleconference if needed.

'We've also created an action decision matrix and it's really, here are the things we're going to do based on certain triggers," Murphy said. 'The next trigger is, what we do if we get a case in Lincoln County/Lincoln City? What are our actions? One of them is a decision point. Do we close public facilities?"

Murphy said they will rk closely and confer with their public health partners to get guidance during the pandemic. As of Tuesday, March 17, City facilities have been left open as they continue to focus on increased frequency of cleaning. "Generally I would say, at least at city hall, people have been pretty darn good about getting the wipes out cleaning things and making sure their areas clean," Murphy said. "We're making a conscious effort to clean areas where the public can touch things, handrails, doorknobs, counters... it does help in doing that.'

For the most part, Murphy said Lincoln City will be following the lead of the Oregon Health Authority, who has been working around the clock to halt the spread of the virus.

"OHA has been developing messaging, working with the issues, working with medical facilities, doctors, everybody to make sure that we, as citizens and the public have information about what we might expect," Murphy said. "I guarantee you, they've been working real hard on, on how this is going to unfold, and what we can do on any given day.'

Having gone through other outbreaks in the past, Murphy said these types of events should always be a teaching moment about preparedness.

"Disasters can happen anytime, anyplace and generally without warning. We've had a warning on this one. Think of all the things we've done to get ready for COVD-19. How ready would you be if we had an earthquake and we didn't have weeks to prepare?' Murphy asked. "When properly pursued, preparedness is a way of life, it is not a sudden spectacular program."

Free Estimates!

we will have most people two weeks ready for disasters."

In addition to getting everyone in the City two weeks prepared for a quarentine or any other disaster, Murphy said he has been working with City officials to prepare for a possible outbreak in Lincoln County.

'We're doing a lot," Murphy said. "We started probably over a month ago and we knew this was coming, shame on people if they didn't think it was going to happen. We are a mobile planet. There are generally 40 million flights a year of people going and coming."

Murphy said one of the first things the City did was review their continuity of operations plan. This plan is a way for City officials to adjust to whatever situation, so that they can still conduct business.

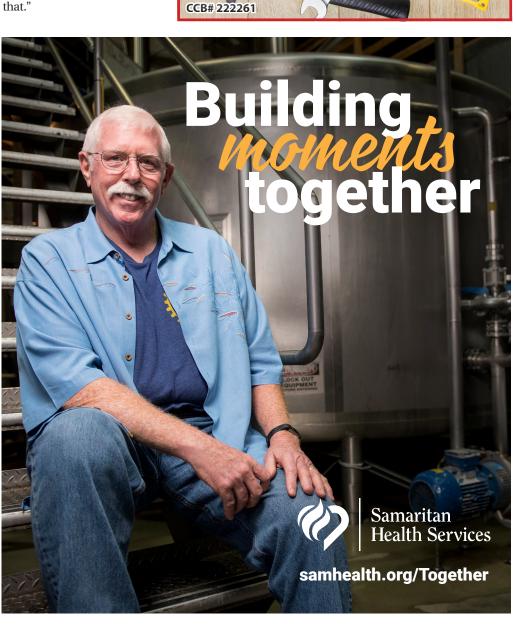

"Whatever it may be, could be an earthquake, it could be a flood. In this case, it's a pandemic, that could affect our city," Murphy said. "One thing we've done is set up coop teams or remote teams, that will help us move to other facilities if City Hall was compromised."

These teams of people will be able to work remotely doing jobs such as administration, finance and public works (water and wastewater).

"NICE ENOUGH TO SHARE A PIECE OF THE OREGON COAST WITH THE REST OF YOU"

Visit the home page of the Oregon Coastal Flowers website and prominently displayed over a spectacular photo of pistachio hydrangeas is a simple tagline: "Nice enough to share a piece of the Oregon Coast with the rest of you". Among other things, that phrase suggests that Oregon Coastal Flowers is far more than a typical nursery, a thriving company as complex as its founder, Patrick Zweifel.

Pat grew up on a local dairy farm and was his class's valedictorian at Tillamook High School. Admitted to Ivy League universities, he instead chose to study Dairy Science at Cal Poly, where he earned a cross country and track scholarship. Graduating with a perfect 4.0 GPA, Pat then returned to the family dairy farm. "I was a smart-ass college kid who thought he knew everything," he remembers. Within six months his dad had fired him.

About 17 years ago, Pat was able to purchase a 64-acre horse ranch, running parallel to the Kilchis River in Tillamook, a former dairy farm riddled with blackberries. His goal was to become a major national distributor of premium northwest grown floral products. From the outset he chose a variety of organic agriculture methods, so that his company could grow flowers naturally, while creating exceptional habitat for wildlife on the farm.

Within a few years, Oregon Coastal Flowers emerged as one of the nation's leading producers of colored calla lilies. Then came adversity: South American growers, with lower labor costs and a year-round growing season, began to flood the calla lily market. Pat knew he'd have to innovate: "we decided to add products that required winter, things they couldn't duplicate," he recalls.

Pat added flowering branches to his product mix, including pink & white cherry, quince, forsythia, prunus, apricot, peach, plum, tulip magnolia and flowering dogwood. The company also became a major distributor of hydrangeas, peonies and gloriosa lilies.

To extend the seasons, Pat and his staff, which averages 10 people, built warm rooms so that plants could bloom early and cool rooms to slow the cycle. The company obtained permits to harvest state forest products, including mosses, forest droppings, birch & alder poles and mossy branches. Unique manufactured forest products were added to the mix. "You have to be different to be successful," Pat explains.

CANCELED EVENTS

Due to Governor Kate Brown's new statewide actions to slow the spread of COVID-19, banning events and gathering of larger than 25 people, most events have been canceled or postponed statewide for at least the next four weeks.

Bachart was born and raised in Toledo, Oregon and has been married to her husband, Mark, for 24 years and they have two children, Ally and Luke.

She earned her Bachelor's Degree in Political Science and International several statewide and local committees including the Oregon Council on Court Procedures, Oregon Judicial Department Judicial Education and Leadership Committee, Oregon Supreme Court Council on Inclusion and Fairness, Criminal Jury Instruction Committee, Lincoln County Local Public Safety Coordinating Council, Lincoln County Courthouse Security Committee and the Pretrial Services

About 99% of Oregon Coastal Flowers output is shipped out of state, primarily to wholesale florists and designers. Each Sunday evening, a 53-foot semi arrives at the farm bound for the company's booth at the prestigious Los Angeles Flower Market. "Designers know the quality, so our products frequently appear on TV and movie sets and even in the stars' homes," explains Pat. With demand exceeding supply, he began sourcing products from other northwest growers. Today, about 75% of the company's output is purchased off site.

Besides rotating crops to keep the soil healthy, Pat has always been committed to planting as a landscape, with crops interspersed. The result is a farm of exceptional beauty and Pat has marketed the property as "The Hydrangea Ranch", which has become one of the coast's most in-demand wedding venues. The farm also houses a 9-hole Disc Golf course and is used for a variety of community activities, including the annual corn maze (see photo above).

Eight years ago, Pat was named head coach of the boys and girls track and cross country teams at Tillamook High School. As with everything he does, Pat brought passion and innovation to the job. "I think I was born to coach," he admits, "the key is to create a culture of fun." His teams have enjoyed considerable success and Pat now hosts annual running camps on the farm. This year his Ultimook Running Camp attracted 280 kids from all over the country. Ultimook is set up as a non-profit organization to support youth running.

A runner's paradise, with a track and three miles of trails on the property, Pat's farm also hosts running camps for teams from all over the Northwest. In addition, he organizes the Ultimook Race, held each September, which now draws more than 3000 runners, 2000+ spectaculars, and is the source of videos and photos shared worldwide via social media of contestants slogging through mud pits and the Kilchis River before sprinting past blooming flowers to the finish line.

All of Pat's ventures are documented in outstanding, ever-evolving, websites, programmed by Pat himself. He even shoots his own photography, which often can be stunning. A good example is the photo above of two members of his staff speeding past flowers in an ATV. Pat admits that marketing, of which he is self taught, has been essential to his success. "It's easy to grow something. It's much harder to sell it," he explains.

Pat credits Oregon Coast Bank with "giving me my financial freedom". Several years ago the bank restructured a variety of debts that Pat had accumulated into a simple 10-year mortgage, which lowered his monthly payments and reduced his stress.

Oregon Coast Bank has also financed his latest ventures, a pair of barns, which in true Pat fashion, are anything but ordinary. He's seated in front of one of them in the photo above. The barns are built of lumber milled on his dad's property and rock from Pat's farm.

Without experiencing them in person, Pat's ventures can be a bit hard to fathom. But once you meet him, and witness his passion, it all makes sense. As it says on his website, he truly is sharing "a piece of the Oregon Coast" with the rest of us.

Bachart returned to the community she grew up in to practice law and spent 11 years in the Lincoln County District Attorney's Office. She prosecuted all types of cases, but spent the majority of her career prosecuting child sexual and physical abuse cases. In 2008 she was appointed the first female circuit judge in Lincoln County and has served now 12 years in that position.

"Shortly after taking the bench in 2008, I implemented Domestic Violence Court and in 2020 I took over Lincoln County's Drug Court," Bachart said. "I have been particularly rewarded by my involvement in those cases because domestic violence and addiction threaten family stability and the community has been made safer by the operation of those specialty courts. I have presided over close to 200 jury trials since taking the bench."

Bachart said she has been fortunate to serve on Implementation Team.

"While it is an honor to serve on these committees, one of the greatest joys of my career has been opportunities to speak to students in Toledo, Eddyville, Newport, Waldport and Taft schools about the courts and those interested in pursuing a career in law," Bachart said. "I want young people in this community to know I also grew up here and see themselves as capable of achieving their goals."

Bachart said she has also benefited from hearing and learning about the individual stories of those appearing in front of her and the challenges they have overcome in Lincoln County.

"I am humbled daily by the courage of those appearing in my courtroom," she said. "I am proud to create an environment where people feel safe, heard and are treated with dignity and respect.

"I have cherished the opportunity to serve members of my community as one of your judges and ask for your continued support."

Roadside spraying and Coronavirus

As federal and state governments take desperate measures to prevent and mitigate the pandemic coronavirus, Oregon's own Department of Transportation is sabotaging all their efforts by compromising the immunity of Oregonians state-wide.

Currently, DOT is spraying state highways with Roundup (glyphosate), which is well known to damage immune systems, as well as having more than 45,000 cases of non Hodgkins lymphoma attributed to it, with more lawsuits filed every day.

Because these lawsuits have made abundantly clear that EPA registration approval of Roundup was and is based on invalid and even fraudulent data provided by its makers, DOT can not rely on EPA registration to justify exposing its own employees and the public to a known carcinogen and immune suppressant.

Furthermore, in DOT's totally UNTESTED combination with other poisons highly toxic to reproductive and developmental systems as well as causing severe environmental damage (e.g., Flumioxacin, Indaziflam), Roundup's damage to our immunity may be greatly magnified.

Unless DOT can prove otherwise with independent, non-industry research, it must be assumed that everyone who drives, bikes, walks, and waits for buses on state highways is therefore facing a pandemic, potentially lethal coronavirus with compromised or suppressed immunity.

If Governor Brown seriously wants to protect Oregonians from the coronavirus, she should order DOT to immediately halt its roadside poison spraying.

"That's a tough one for me... There's some knowledge that I have, in terms of student population, that is very concerning," Clanton said. "We have about 1,250 students in the Lincoln City area schools and almost 20 percent of those students are homeless. That's a staggering number.

"That 20 percent plus more, for the next two to three weeks, don't know where their meals are coming from, because they eat breakfast and lunch at school. With the school being closed, they don't have that source."

In the midst of pushing a his Kickstarter to build a food truck pod in Lincoln City, as well as his expansion of his restaurant, The Grill 1646 located at 1646 NW Hwy 101, Clanton said

Jones Architecture, the new brewpub is being designed as a destination venue that at once draws upon and honors the traditions of the Oregon Coast, Siletz Bay and the Pelican brand.

The design was inspired by both coastal working buildings and the natural environment-the shifting tides, ever changing conditions and the dramatic views of the driftwood covered beaches called for a design solution that allowed the building to open up to the outside and for the outside to come in. Guests both inside the dining room as well as those seated outside on decks and boardwalks will literally feel like they are fully immersed in the atmosphere of the bay and beach.

"In addition to the contextual influences the project is also deeply rooted in the Pelican brand and experience," Jones said. "We have worked hard to understand the Pelican culture—it's an honor be part of the team working on this spectacular site with such great partners. We are very excited to see

The brewpub features 20 taps at the bar and a growler fill station located in the lobby. Pelican's award-winning year-round beers Kiwanda Cream Ale, Beak Breaker Double IPA, Tsunami Stout and other core Pelican beers will anchor the tap line-up with creative seasonal and small batch brews on constant rotation.

"Parents in need, bring in your kids for their free meal. No questions asked," the café owners said. "We're so happy to join other businesses reaching out and supporting our community by doing similar programs. To everyone else, we're open and doubling down on our usual sanitizing efforts."

In addition to those local businesses' generosity, Gov. Brown and state schools chief Colt Gill said Friday that districts would prepare and distribute free meals to students who qualify.

"Our schools are truly the hearts of our communities. Our families build their daily lives around them. Our schools provide critical services for many of them, like medical services and free and reduced meals," Gov. Brown said at a media press conference. "They are needed now more than ever.'

Over the weekend, the Lincoln County School District announced they have partnered with Sodexo to offer meals at no charge to all children age one through 18 starting this week. No income verification or household documentation is required to participate. Children can expect to receive breakfast, lunch and dinner.

The first option for meal service is delivery via the First Student bus company. First Student will be following their normal afternoon routes approximately four hours earlier than their normal drop-off times at each stop. You do not need to be a bus rider to receive a meal and you do not need to sign up, simply stand at the bus stop and wait.

"For safety and social distancing, please stay back from the bus and a staff member will bring the meals out to you," LCSD officials advised. "As we work out times, we will post routes for families to view."

The second option for meal service is curb-side meal pick up between 12:00 p.m. and 1 p.m. at the following locations:

• Crestview Heights, 2750 S Crestline Drive, Waldport, OR 97394

 Newport Middle School, 825 NE 7th Street, Newport, OR 97365

• Taft High School, 3780 SE Spy Glass Ridge, Lincoln City, OR 97367

• Toledo High School,

1800 NE Sturdevant Road, Toledo, OR 97391

• Siletz Valley Charter, 245 NW James Franks Ave, Siletz, OR 97380

There will be signs showing where cars should line up. For safety and social distancing, please remain in your car and meals will be brought to you.

At this time LCSD is not planning to provide meals over the regularly scheduled Spring Break March 23 to March 27. However, if this changes LCSD will notify the public.

"We thank you in advance for your patience while we roll out this service," LCSD said. "Thank you to our partners at Sodexo for the extra hours and hard work to keep our kids fed and thank you to First Student bus company for the delivery service."

 Specialty and core beer selections

"We have designed a destination venue that honors the compelling sense of place here on Siletz Bay-a location where guests will enjoy carefully crafted beer and food pairings while interacting with the stunning natural surroundings like the tides and driftwood beaches, ocean breezes and a boardwalk to enjoy it all," said Jim Prinzing, CEO, Pelican Brewing Company. "The Siletz Bay location will boast a dramatic and modern, clean design that integrates the incredible beauty of this stretch of the coast and brings the outside in for a memorable dining experience.

"We want guests to consider the venue a place where they can grab a beer on the deck overlooking the bay, dine with the kids inside, or walk around enjoying the myriad amenities and views we have planned—it's a setting that invites guests to move around and come and go as they please."

Pelican, which is one of Oregon's fastest growing craft breweries, brings new living wage jobs to this coastal town and welcomes applicants interested in joining their family-oriented culture. Applications are available here. Pelican has a Living Wage Policy to ensure employees are making a minimum of $15 per hour worked.

"We are honored that Pelican Brewing selected Lincoln City for their newest brewpub and we welcome them as a new attraction, an engine of economic development and a marketing partner," said Ed Dreistadt, director, Explore Lincoln

City. "We also can't wait to experience the stunning view of Siletz Bay from their new location. Having such a well-established Oregon brand locate here is a big win for Lincoln City."

Public will be invited to a Groundbreaking Celebration in the future

Pelican plans to host a Groundbreaking Celebration for its newest Siletz Bay location once all concerns regarding the Coronavirus and COVID-19 are mitigated.

"Our Groundbreaking event was previously scheduled for March 19 but will be postponed due to Coronavirus/Covid-19, as this would be a high traffic event. The public will be invited to the celebration in the future," Prinzing said.

The Glenn Miller Orchestra

POSTPONED Rescheduled for March 14, 2021

18 and Under

The legendary Glenn Miller was one of the most successful of all dance bandleaders back in the Swing Era of the 1930's and 40's. A matchless string of hit records, the constant impact of radio broadcasts and the drawing power at theatres, hotels and dance pavilion, built and sustained the momentum of popularity. Glenn disbanded his musical organization in 1942 at the height of its popularity to volunteer for the Army. There, he organized and led the famous Glenn Miller Army Air Force Band. On December 15, 1944, Major Miller took off in a single engine plane from Europe to precede his band to France, disappearing over the English Channel, never to be seen again. The army declared him officially dead a year later. With the release of the major motion movie The Glenn Miller Story featuring Jimmy Stewart and June Allyson in 1954, interest and popular demand led the Miller Estate to authorize the formation of the present Glenn Miller Orchestra. On June 6, 1956, and under the direction of drummer Ray McKinley who had become the unofficial leader of the Army Air Force Band after Glenn's disappearance, the reformed Glenn Miller Orchestra performed its first concert and has been on the road ever since. Since January 2012, vocalist Nick Hilscher leads the band.

Today, the 18 member ensemble continues to play many of the original Miller arrangements both from the civilian band and the AAFB libraries. Additionally, it also plays some more modern selections arranged and performed in the Miller style and sound. Just as it was in Glenn's day, the Glenn Miller Orchestra today is still the most sought after big band in the world.

Taft senior signs with Corban

newsguardeditor@countrymedia.net

Finding the right college is always a challenge for graduating seniors.

But for Taft 7-12 senior Autumn Ellis, her choice was relatively easy, as one school seemingly checked all the boxes: Corban University.

Corban is a small Christian college in Salem, Ore. that has about 1,200 undergraduate students. Coming from a small school like Taft, Ellis said finding a smaller college was her goal during her search.

"I toured like three colleges and when I toured Corban, it just felt like the place I wanted to be," Ellis said. "The people I met when I was there were really nice and I've always wanted to go to a smaller school that's Christian based where I could still play sports."

Ellis signed her letter of intent to compete on the Corban track and field squad next school year. Head coach Norm Berney of the Warriors made the trip down to Lincoln City on March 12 to welcome Ellis to the team.

"We feel we've got a real good team coming up next year and she's going to be apart of it," Berney said. "She's a good athlete, which is what we like to see first."

While attending the small university, Ellis said she has goals of doubling up her sporting activities, whether its cross country in the fall or basketball in the winter.

"I might be doing cross country, but I also have a basketball tryout coming up as well, so we're going to see what happens," Ellis said.

On the track, Ellis competed in the 3,000, 1,500 and 800-meter races in high school. In college, she said she's not sure what events her coach will have her do. However, noting her athleticism, Berney said Ellis could be a perfect fit for the steeple chase event.

Adjusting to the rigors of colligiate sports is never easy, but Ellis said she's up for the challenge.

"It'll definitely be an adjustment because I've never been on a super competitive team before," Ellis said. "But I think I'm ready for it and ready for the disciple that comes with it."

Throughout her career at Taft, Ellis has competed in a plethora of sports. During that time she's learned a lot of lessons, including how to be a team player.

"The main thing I took away from high school sports is that your team is the most important thing," Ellis said. "It's important to be positive and lift your team up no matter how you're doing individually or what you're doing, it's just important to be a team player."

She credits her coaches and family for helping her get to where she's at now, as well as her teammates and friends she's made as a Tiger.

"I'm going to miss my teammates a lot," Ellis said. "They're the only people I've played sports with since 7th grade so it'll be weird being on a team with people I don't know. But I'm excited for the future."

OSAA suspends practices and contests through March 31

THE NEWS GUARD

Per Governor Kate Brown's announcement regarding school closures, the Oregon School Activities Association (OSAA) has suspended interscholastic practices and contests for sports and activities for all member schools effective today through March 31.

During this suspension OSAA will evaluate this evolving public health situation with the Oregon Health Authority, the Oregon Department of Education, the OSAA Executive Board, the OSAA Sports Medicine Advisory Committee and member school administrators from throughout the state to determine when, or if, to resume the spring season.

More information will be communicated via www. osaa.org as it becomes available.

OSAA Q&A regarding School Closure

Q. May schools participate in out-of-state practices or contests/events during this suspension period? A. No, the suspension period for practices and contests/events applies to all OSAA member schools, regardless of where the practice or contest/event occurs.

Q. May coaches hold "voluntary" or "optional" practices during this suspension period?

A. No, coaches are not able to work directly with students during this suspension period. Coaches may not be involved in circumventing this policy.

Q. May coaches send workouts to athletes? A. Coaches can communicate workouts, but not participate in them. Studentled workouts are allowed, provided that coaches are not involved in organizing or participating in the workout.

Q. Does this suspension period apply to public schools only?

A. The suspension period applies to all OSAA member schools, public and private, in all OSAA-sanctioned activities.
