Many questions regarding the future of the Presque Isle Bridge, which closed in 2019, remain unanswered, much to the frustration of Chester Hill Borough officials. By Mikayla Heiss

In June 2022, the Clearfield County Area Agency on Aging acquired the Dimeling Senior Residence in downtown Clearfield.

"We simply could not allow these residents to lose their homes," said CCAA Chief Executive Officer Kathleen Gillis. "The closing of the Dimeling would devastate the landscape of affordable senior housing in Clearfield. Fortunately, the growth of seniors were incredibly gracious in turning over the building to the subsidiary of the Area Agency on Aging, enabling these seniors to continue to live independent." The Dimeling contains 33 apartments occupied by individuals aged 55 and older. This affordable housing option provides a comfortable, community-based living environment for seniors with limited incomes of less than $23,000 for single residents and less than $33,000 for couples.

Originally built in 1990, the building was renovated in 2000 and transformed the historic building by combining and existing guest rooms into the present 33 one- or two-bedroom apartments, complete with full kitchens, baths, and living areas. Laundry facilities are available in the basement and are accessible by elevator, as are all seven floors of the building. The senior living spaces, as well as the outdoor patio, provide common gathering spaces where residents can socialize.

Kathy Bell, coordinator of service enhancement at the Dimeling, said, "The Dimeling is a proper building in every way. It was built so well because the county is saving on costs, the two towers are constructed from the same design."

"This is how we save on costs which is a win-win for the communities of Bald Eagle and Sandy Ridge when the crashes occurred," according to Rock Township state police, the two towers were built by the county.

"One pole tower was removed from the grounds of Moshannon Valley Hospital in Centre County," said Shawn Martin, 46, who said 14 iPhones, $500 in cash, and one Motorola phone were taken.

"I was leaking to another media outlet prior to confirming," said Shawn Martin.

"I was very frustrated," he said. "At Dimeling, as for example, the Dimeling was closed for around three years due to safety issues and is now required to remove it."

"We met with PennDOT representatives. They confirmed that it would not replace the bridge, but did not commit to removing it, according to Samite. "It has been very confusing; it's been very frustrating," said Council President Dr. Matthew " inhabitable of probable cause, in turn, Lawrence Township police responded to an alarm at the Clearfield Mall along Daisy Street. Upon inspection, police discovered that one broke the rear door down at Goodwill.

"Police entered the store and noticed a brick and broken glass on the floor," said Ruffner.

"Police contacted the store manager, assisted in reviewing surveillance videos." The television showed a brick being thrown through the window and someone reaching inside and unlocking the door.

"A male and female then enter the store. The two then were rummaging through the store removing at least three watches from a display case and some sneakers. They exit the store through the front door and entered the mall.

Another surveillance camera video shows another exit. The two exit Goodwill and enter the Craddock Wine and Spirits and a camera there reviewed the store manager.

"A West Decatur man was killed in a Centre County crash on Wednesday, Dec. 15, in Tyrone Township in Centre County. Shawn Martin, 46, was traveling north on state Route 330 northbound on Tyrone Drive near Hall Lane in Tyrone Township when his vehicle collided with a Brilliant Senior Residences, who said 14 (phones and a Motorola phone were taken."

"I was removed from the cash register."
